

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

DEDICATION.

TO

MRS. THOMAS,

HOTEL, BERKELEY-SQUARE.

MADAM,

PERMIT me, as a Tribute of Gratitude and Respect, to lay before you a Work, which, if it has any Claim to Utility, I trust will meet with your Protection and Patronage. It has always been my Pride, and I feel now Publicly called upon to declare, that it was to Mr. THOMAS I am indebted for the principal Part of my Knowledge in Cookery ; and, at the same Time, to return you Thanks for the repeated Proofs of Friendship you have given me, which has induced me to submit this Work to your Consideration, knowing that you are perfectly competent to judge of its Merit.

I am,

Madam,

Your most obedient humble Servant,

JOHN SIMPSON.

INTRODUCTION.

THE following work will be found very useful to cooks, clerks of the kitchen, house stewards (not being brought up to the cooking business) women cooks, housekeepers, and likewise to gentlemen and ladies who do not keep men cooks, and particularly to tavern-keepers. There are a number of books written on the kitchen business ; but not one on this plan. There may be a greater number of dishes mentioned in some of them, but I may safely say, that one half of them are useless, as they are not put in practice by any one: I have not mentioned a dish that I have not myself put in practice, and are in general use by other cooks. As to confectionary, I have left totally out, except what is actually requisite for cooks to know. They may pretend to be confectioners, but if they study their own profession, they will not have much time to attend to this department. Young men, and women cooks, are frequently at a loss in writing bills of fares ; to obviate which, I have given a bill of fare for each day in the year, and all in regular order, from the first of Jan. to the 31st of December ; which will be a guide to providers and managers of families, large as well as small. For instance, a gentleman who does not keep a man cook, and not in the habit of giving large dinners, but at certain times, the day he intends to give his dinner, he looks for the bill of fare for the day; perhaps it may not be so large as he wishes, but most likely there will be one found in some part of the month, which will inform him what is in season, and how to provide for the intended dinner; for what is in season the first of a month, may be had during the remainder.

In the summer time, cooks should be very exact with the butchers; and make them bring their meat in not later than six o'clock in the morning, for when the sun gets warm, the flies do much mischief; and it is next to an impossibility to prevent them blowing the meat. The pieces of beef that are kept for roasting should be closely examined (the sirloins particularly) to see if the flies have been about them; if they have, cut the piece out, and sprinkle them with salt. The flies are very apt to get under the fat of the right side of the sirloin. There is a pipe that runs along the chine bone, which the flies are sure to get in: this pipe should be taken out without fail, at all times.

It should be made a general rule, to sprinkle salt on all the meat that is hung up either for roasting or boiling—beef, mutton, veal or lamb. The first part that spoils of a leg of veal is where the udder is skewered back; that skewer should be taken out, the under part of the udder wiped very dry, and then rub a little salt on it, and on the udder; by so doing, a leg of veal will keep very good four days, let the weather be ever so sultry. Do by a loin of veal as is directed for a sirloin of beef. The skirt should be taken off the breast of veal, and the inside of the breast wiped and scraped, and sprinkled well with salt. There is a pipe that runs along the chine bone of a neck of veal, which should be taken off, and the chine bone and ribs rubbed with salt. As for a shoulder, that is a joint that is seldom or ever kept above a day or two; nevertheless, sprinkle it with salt. When a sheep is brought in and cut up, take the kidney fat from the saddle, and the pipe that runs up the back bone, and then sprinkle the inside of the saddle with salt. A chine of mutton frequently spoils first at the tail, where there is a kernel: to prevent its spoiling, rub that part well with salt, and it will keep five or six days in the heat of summer. A leg of mutton frequently will spoil in two days, and where it spoils first is at the fat that is on the upper part of the leg: there is a kernel in that part which ought to be taken out by the butcher in dressing the sheep. The chine bone of the neck should be rubbed dry with a cloth, the ribs the same, and the inside of the scrag trimmed. Sprinkle the inside of the neck of mutton with salt. A breast of mutton spoils first in the brisket part: if you wish to keep them, sprinkle both sides with salt. Observe the same rules with lamb as have been directed for mutton. The rumps of beef are generally kept for steaks, or daubing, &c. &c. in hot weather, the fat that the butcher usually leaves in should be taken out, and the beef sprinkled well with salt; and the brisket that is hung up for stewing must be salted, if wanted to be kept for a few days. In the summer-time, the boiling pieces require equal attention. Salt alone will not preserve them from turning. When the beef is cut up in the number of pieces that is wanted, then see that the butcher takes out the kernels from neck pieces, where the shoulder clod is taken off; two from the rounds, one in the middle, which is commonly called the Pope's eye, the other from the fat lap; and there is another in the thick flank, in the middle of the fat. If these are not taken out, in the summer particularly, salt them ever so much, they will not keep. There is one between the rump and edge bone, which ought to be taken out; when all this is done (which the cook should actually see to himself, and trust to no butcher) then stand by, and see that the butcher salts the meat properly, on a table or board for that purpose. The salt should be rubbed in well with the heel of the hand. When all this is done, then it should be packed up tight in the salt bin; the prime pieces all at the bottom, as they will keep better, and require more time to take the salt.

The roasting pieces of pork at all times should be sprinkled with salt, before used, for the salt makes the meat eat pleasanter to the palate.

Another rule that cooks should strictly attend to, is this, all beasts that are to be slaughtered should fast twenty-four hours in winter, and forty-eight in summer. There is a great quantity of meat spoiled by killing it with a full stomach. Haunches of venison, when brought into the kitchen, should be wiped very dry, and examined very closely, to see if the flies have been about them. The keepers in general use ground ginger to preserve their venison from the fly, but I am well convinced, from experience, that pepper and salt is far superior, and that nothing else will preserve meat of any kind in the summer; for which reason I rub the inside of the haunch with it, and salt the ribs and chine of the side: they should be looked at every day. There is a kernel in the same part of a haunch of venison, as in a leg of mutton, which ought to be taken out. I strongly recommend these rules to all cooks, whether men or women; and, if they strictly adhere to them, they will seldom, or ever, have any bad meat in the hottest part of summer. A thunder storm, or lightning, will change meat sometimes; against which there is no precaution.

One more rule I wish to enforce, which is, not to have the larders overstocked with fresh meat, in the summer; one days meat beforehand is quite sufficient. It is my firm opinion, that a cook ought to pay as much attention to the management of his larder, as any one branch of his business, which will gain him credit with his employer, and give satisfaction to all other parts of the family.

No. 1. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Soup à la Reine.

CUT a few slices of lean ham, and cover the bottom of a stewpan that will hold four quarts, cut up two fowls and put them in the stewpan, with a few slices of veal, a faggot of thyme and parsley, six onions, a few blades of mace, about half a pint of water; put it on a slow stove for an hour, to draw down, (be sure that it does not catch at the bottom); when drawn down fill up the stewpan with some of your best stock, and let it boil very gently for one hour; take out the fowls and pull the meat from the bones, and put it into a mortar, with two ounces of sweet almonds, and let it be pounded quite fine, so as it will go through a tammy: when beat enough, put it into a small soup pot that will hold about three quarts, put about two quarts of the stock that the fowls were boiled in, with the crumb of three French rolls, let it boil for one hour, then rub it through a tammy, and add about a pint of good cream that has boiled; put it into the soup pot, and put the pot into a stewpan of hot water, and set it by the side of a stove where it will boil. Before you put it into the tureen taste it, as perhaps it may want a little salt, or a small bit of sugar; cut the crust of the rolls (that you had the crumb from) into round pieces, about the size of a shilling, and put them into the tureen, before the soup is put in.

N.B. All white soups should be warmed by putting the soup pot into hot water.

Haunch of Doe Venison.

WHEN on the spit, oil some butter, and butter the venison with a paste brush, lay it thick, and sprinkle it over with salt; put two sheets of white paper over it, then make paste of flour and water, roll it out rather thick, put it on the venison, and four sheets of paper on that, tie it all on very tight, put it to the fire, and baste it well, otherwise the fire will burn the paper and twine: it will take two hours and a half; take the paper and paste off, baste it with butter, flour it, and sprinkle it with salt, make the dish very hot; put the venison on the dish, and put some good gravy to it.

N. B. All roast venison is drest the same way. A haunch of buck venison will take four hours: be very careful that the venison has no colour from the fire, the paler the fat is the better the venison is cooked. A neck of doe venison will take one hour, a ditto of buck an hour and a half, or two hours. Venison should be rather under than over done.

Veal Olives.

Cut six slices of a fillet of veal, let them be about ten inches long and about four inches wide, beat them with a flatter to make them thin, brush them over with an egg, (beat up white and yolk together,) spread a layer of forced-meat, and brush that over with egg; roll them up quite close, and lay them in a stewpan that will just hold them; lay bars of bacon on the bottom of the stewpan, and lay the olives on the bacon, put a few spoonsful of good stock, and cover them over with bars of bacon; let them do gently for one hour, then take them out, dry them with a cloth, put them on the dish, and pour a sharp sauce over them.

A Fowl à la Daube.

BONE a large fowl without cutting the skin, singe it, put in it a small piece of the prime of a Westphalia ham, (about the size of the breast of the fowl), then fill it with a good forced-meat, and braize it in a white braize; when done, take it up and dry it, then glaze it, and put mushrooms on the dish, and the fowl at the top; garnish either with croustons or with paste baked for that purpose.

Calve's Head hashed and grilled.

BOIL a calve's head (that has been skinned) until nearly done, or so as the bones will part from the meat, cut one side of the head in square pieces, the tongue and palate the same, wash it in several waters, then put it into a stewpan, with some of the best stock, to boil until quite tender, (but not for it to break in shreds,) the other side should be scored and boiled with the other part, (but not quite so much,) take it out when done enough, put it on a soutiespan, and pour a little oiled butter over it, sprinkle a little pepper, salt, and fine herbs, mixt, over it, then shake a few bread crumbs and drop a little clarified butter over it, and put it in the oven for a few minutes, and then on the gridiron to colour it. To make the sauce for the hash, put about a quarter of a pound of butter into a stewpan, with some chopped shalots, parsley (more of this than any other herb), orange thyme, lemon ditto, a little sweet marjorum, knotted ditto, a very little basil, chopped mushrooms, and two large onions chopped; put about a quarter of lean ham, cut very fine, with the herbs and a few spoonsful of stock, put the stewpan on the stove, let it simmer for about one hour, then put about three spoonsful of flour, stir it about with a wooden spoon, then put the stock that the calve's head was last boiled in into the stewpan, and a pint of good Madeira wine; keep stirring it until it boils; let it boil a few minutes, then rub it through a tammy, and put it to the calve's head; put it over the fire to give it a boil up, put in some forced-meat balls, and egg balls; just before you dish it up squeeze a lemon in it, and season it with Cayenne pepper, a very little fine spice, and a small lump of sugar, to make it palatable; dish it up, and put the grill in the middle.

N.B. A Seville orange should be added when to be had, as the acid is softer than lemon.

A Neck of Mutton, with a purée of Potatoes.

TRIM a neck of mutton very neat, put it on to blanch in cold water; when it comes to a boil take it up, and wash it in two or three waters, then lay the bottom of a stewpan with bars of fat bacon, lay the mutton upon the bacon, cover it over with bacon, and put about one pint of second stock, and cover it over with a sheet of white paper, and put the cover on; put it on a slow fire, the slower it simmers the better; it will take two hours: take it up and glaze it; put a purée of potatoes under it.

A Chine of Pork, roasted.

A CHINE of pork is the neck chine of a bacon hog, it should be sprinkled with salt and hung up four or five days at least before using; it will take about two hours and a half roasting, it should be well done. All pig meat should rather be over than under roasted. Serve up apple sauce in a boat.

A Turkey and Truffles.

DRAW a turkey three days before it is intended to be dressed, put about two pounds of truffles that have not been dressed or peeled, tie a string quite tight about the neck, and another at the vent, and hang it up by the legs; when you want to roast it, take it down and truss it, take out the truffles; pare one-half and cut them in slices, and put them between the skin and the breast, then fill the crop full of white stuffing, made as follows: scraped veal, fat of ham scraped, a little lean ham that has been dressed, pound all together in a mortar, season it with pepper and salt; chopped truffles, a few shalots, chopped parsley, a very little of orange and lemon thyme, two eggs, and bread crumbs; wrap the turkey up in sheets of fat bacon, put slices of lemon between the bacon and the breast of the turkey, then wrap it up in paper and tie it well on with packthread, and put it down to roast; be sure to keep it well basted; it will take two hours; braise the remainder of the truffles in a pint of sherry wine and a pint of good stock, fat bacon under and over the truffles; when done take them up and pare them very thin, (as you should be very careful not to waste the least bit, as they are a very expensive article,) cut them in slices, strain the braise they were done in, skinn the fat from it very clean, reduce it to glaze, and put coulis to it, squeeze a Seville orange and a lemon, and a little sugar.

A Breast of Veal, raggoed whole.

Cut the chine bone from a breast of veal, then cut the tender ones out, (as they will do for another dish), cover the bottom of the stewpan with fat bacon, lay the veal in, put eight or ten onions, a little mace, a fagot of thyme and parsley, cover it over with bacon, and then with white paper; put about three pints of second stock, put it on a slow stove to simmer for about two hours and a half; take it up, pull all the bones from it, dish it, and put a raggoo of sweetbread, mushrooms, and forced-meat balls, over the veal. The raggoo is made as follows: put a few mushrooms into a stewpan, with a bit of butter, a little pepper and salt, and half a lemon squeezed, put it on a slow stove for a quarter of an hour, or until the mushrooms are done, cut two throat sweetbreads in slices, put it to the mushrooms, and about two dozen of forced-meat balls, and one dozen of egg balls; put sauce tourney as much as you think will do, add two glasses of Madeira; and the braise strained, skimmed, and boiled down to a glaze, answers two purposes; first, it gives a right flavour to the raggoo; and next, the glaze gives it a nice gold colour.

Ox Rumps.

ABOUT four ox rumps make a good dish; put them into a brown braise, and let them do very slow for about five hours; one hour before they are done put as many bundles of cabbage as you think is wanting, (one cabbage will make four bundles), the cabbage should be three parts boiled, then squeezed very dry with the hand, and lastly with a cloth, so as not to leave the least drop of water in the cabbage; tie the bundles up with packthread, and put them into the braise for one hour, take them up and squeeze the fat from them, put the rumps on the dish, and the cabbage round them; either glaze the rumps or pour Spanish sauce on the rumps and cabbage.

Beef Palates, rolled.

Boil six ox palates in the broth pot, until nearly done, then take them up, peel, and trim them, brush the inside over with egg, lay a layer of forced-meat on the egg, roll them up, and tie them with a string; put them into a white braise for about two hours, take them out, dry and glaze them, make a raggoo of the trimmings and a few very small egg balls; put the raggoo on the dish first, and the palates on the raggoo. The raggoo is made as follows: shread the palates in neat small pieces, and put them into a stewpan, with coulis and a glass of sherry wine, squeeze either a lemon or orange, and a few drops of shalot vinegar, and a little sugar, salt, and pepper.

Loin of Lamb braised, and Celery Sauce.

BONE a loin of lamb, lay the bottom of a stewpan with fat bacon, lay the lamb in, put in a few onions, bits of carrots, a faggot of thyme and parsley, and a few blades of mace tied up with it; cover the lamb with fat bacon and paper, put about a pint of stock, put it on the fire, and let it do very gently for about two hours; take it up, dry it and glaze it, put the celery on the dish first, and the lamb upon the celery.

Giblet Soup à la Tortue.

SCALD four sets of giblets, bone the pinions, feet, and heads, cut the necks into pieces about one inch long, cut the gizzard into about eight pieces, (the livers leave out, as they make a good dish for second course,) put them on to blanch, take them off when they have had one boil, throw them into cold water, and wash them as clean as possible: put them into a small soup pot with about two quarts of best stock, put them on a stove, let them boil gently till tender, put about a quarter of a pound of butter into a stewpan, with chopped shalots, orange and lemon thyme, knotted and sweet marjorum, a little basil, about a quarter of a pound of lean ham, cut very fine, and two onions chopped, a handful of parsley chopped and squeezed dry, about half a pint of stock; put it on a slow stove for an hour, then put as much flour as will dry up the butter, then add the stock the giblets were boiled in, and a pint of Madeira, let it boil a few minutes, and then rub it through a tammy, and put it to the giblets; squeeze a Seville orange, and put a little sugar and Ceyenne pepper.

Sirloin of Beef.

A SIRLOIN of beef will take from four to five hours, it depends on the size and fire. Before it is taken from the fire shake some salt over it.

SECOND COURSE.

Partridges.

PARTRIDGES take about fifteen minutes to roast; before you take them up baste them with butter, shake a little flour over them, and a little salt, put them on a dish with a little plain gravy, send up bread sauce, made as follows: put crumbs of bread in a stewpan, with a little weak broth, an onion, and a bit of butter; let it boil for a few minutes, beat it up with a fork, and put a little cream, pepper and salt, and send it up in a boat; some gentlemen like clear shalot sauce; it is made as follows: put a few chopped shalots into a stewpan, with a little stock and a few spoonsful of vinegar, let it boil a few minutes, season it with pepper and salt; serve it in a boat.

Brawn.

BRAWN is generally had at the fishmongers.

Potted Ham.

Cut the prime of a Westphalia ham, fat and lean equal, pound it in a mortar until it is quite fine, put a little sifted spice to it and mix it well about; then put it in pots provided for that purpose, clarify a sufficient quantity of butter, cover the ham with the butter, and put the pots in a slow oven; let it soak for an hour, then take it out and fill up the pots again with butter; send it up in the pots, except at particular times, then turn it out and garnish with aspick.

Asparagus.

ASPARAGUS is tied up in bundles; put a little salt in the water, and the water should boil before the asparagus is put in; the asparagus will be done in fifteen minutes: make a toast, dip it in the asparagus water, put it on the dish, and the asparagus upon it.

A Trifle.

CUT a few slices of a Savoy cake, and put them on the bottom of a trifle dish, (which is something like a salad dish in respect to depth,) lay a layer of macaroones, on them lay a layer of ratifees, pour a pint of Lisbon over the cakes, leave it long enough to soak all the wine up, then cover the cakes with custard, made in the following manner: put a quart of milk and cream, mixed with a little cinnamon, lemon peel, and sugar, let it boil for half an hour, take it off the stove and put it to cool; to this quantity of milk and cream, put the yolks of eight eggs, and a spoonful of flour, beat them up in a bason, with a spoon, very well, put the milk in by a little at a time, keep stirring it all the while, then strain it through a hair sieve into a stewpan, put it on a brisk fire, and be sure to keep stirring it until it comes to a boil, then take it off and put it to cool; when half cold put a glass of brandy and a few spoonsful of ratifec; upon the custard lay apricot jam, then put a pint of good cream into a bason, with the white of an egg, a lump of sugar rubbed to a lemon, about two glasses of white wine, beat it up with a whisk, and skim the froth with a spoon that has holes in it, and lay the froth on the back of a sieve, which should be laid upon a dish to save the drainings to return into the pan again for whipping; lay the whipped cream over the trifle; put a few harlequin seeds in any form you think proper; garnish the edge of the dish with preserved orange or dried orange peel.

Mince Pies.

SEVEN pounds of currants, rubbed and picked very clean, and three pounds and a half of beef suet chopped very fine, three pounds and a half of the lean of a sirloin of beef minced raw, very fine, three pounds and a half of apples chopped very fine, (they should be the lemon pippin,) half a pound of citron cut in very small pieces, half a pound of lemon peel, half a pound of orange peel cut like the citron, two pounds of fine moist sugar, one ounce of fine spice, (such as cloves, mace, nutmegs, and cinnamon, all pounded together and sifted), the rind of four lemons and four Seville oranges; all these to be rubbed together until well mixed; then put it into a deep pan, put over it one bottle of brandy, one of white wine, (of the sherry kind,) the juice of the lemons and oranges that have been grated, mix the wine and brandy together in a bason, and lemon and orange juice; pour half over and press it down tight with your hand, then add the other half, and let it remain at the top to soak in by degrees; cover it up. It should be made six weeks before it is wanted,—the pans are sheeted with puff paste, and covered with the same. About ten minutes will bake them.

Raggoo Mellé.

COCKS combs, fat livers, lamb sweetbreads, pullets eggs, &c. let all be blanched off, put the combs into a stew-pan to boil for a quarter of an hour, with about half a pint of stock, let it do down to a glaze, then put the other part of the raggoo, with a sufficient quantity of sauce tourney.

Larks.

LARKS take about ten minutes, they should be basted very often with butter, and sprinkled with bread crumbs, until the bread crumbs stick to the breast of the larks, fry about a plateful of bread crumbs of a nice gold colour, fry them in an iron frying pan, with a little clarified butter: butter without being clarified is apt to burn.

Teal.

TEAL will roast in ten minutes; they should be rather under than over done; baste them with butter, sprinkle a little salt over them before they are taken up, put gravy under them, and shalot sauce in a boat.

French Beans.

FRENCH beans should be cut fine. Let the water boil before the beans are put in, put a little salt in the water, boil them ten minutes; when they are done, strain them off and drain them quite dry, then put them into the sauce, have the sauce hot, do not put the beans on the fire in the sauce.

Maccaroni.

MACCARONI should be first boiled in water and butter for a few minutes, then strained off, and put stock enough to cover it, boil it until tender, and has soaked up all the stock, then put beshemell and grated Parmasan cheese, dish it up, and patter grated Parmasan cheese over it, and put it in the oven for a few minutes; have a salamander hot to brown it before you send it out of the kitchen; it should not be brown at all times.

N.B. If the maccaroni is for meagre, use cream, instead of stock or beshemell.

Potted Hare.

BONE a hare and cut it up in small pieces, cut as much fat and lean ham as there is hare, put it into a stewpan, with a bit of butter and a little stock, pepper and salt, a little fine spice, put it on a slow stove to draw down for an hour, then put a pint of Port wine, and let it boil very slow until all the liquor is reduced to a glaze, then put it into a mortar and pound it until very fine; taste it, that you may know if it wants any more seasoning; put it into potting pots, pour clarified butter over it, and put it into a slow oven for half an hour, then take it out and put it to cool, and fill it up with clarified butter: either send it up in the pot, or turn it out and garnish it with aspick.

Rabbits.

RABBITS will take twenty minutes to roast; baste them constantly with butter, and just before they are taken up baste them with butter, flour them, and sprinkle them with salt; before you dish them, cut the heads off and split them, and put them on the sides of the dish. The sauce is the livers and parsley boiled together, then chopped fine, and add a little stock and melted butter.

No. 2. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Soup à la Flamond.

SHRED turnips, carrots, celery, green onions, or Spanish, very fine; add lettuce, chervil, asparagus, and pease; put it all into a stew-pan, with about two ounces of butter, and a few spoonful of stock; put them on a slow stove to sweat down for an hour, then fill up the stew-pan with the best stock, and let it boil very slow for an hour: make a liaison with the yolks of six eggs, (for two quarts of soup,) beat the yolks very well in a bason, put a pint of cream (that has boiled) by little at a time, strain it through a hair sieve, then add a large spoonful of beshemell; take the soup off the fire, put the liaison to it, and keep stirring the soup; then put it on the fire until it comes to a boil, stir it all the time it is on the fire, otherwise the eggs will curdle. Season it with a little salt, if wanted, and put a small lump of sugar.

A Fowl à la Duchesse.

CUT either one or two small fowls, (as for a fricase,) according to the size of the dish it is wanted for; put clarified butter on a soutiespan, lay the chicken on, and put it on a pretty brisk stove, to give it a nice colour; then put it into a stewpan with a few mushrooms, a bit of butter, and a few slices of ham, cut neat; put it over a slow stove, let it simmer gently for one hour, pour the liquor from the chicken into another stewpan, put sufficient flour to dry up the butter, add a little stock, and a little coulis, squeeze a lemon, a few drops of shalot vinegar, and a lump of sugar; dish it up; put the slices of ham round the edge of the dish, by way of garnish.

Tenderones of Veal.

TENDERONES of veal is the gristle bone of a breast of veal; cut it into thin slices, put them into a stewpan, with cold water, and put them on the stove to blanch; take them off when they come to a boil, put them into a white braise, let them simmer for four hours, in which time they will be tender; take them up, and lay them on a clean cloth to dry the fat from them; cut some braised truffles into slices, and put them into coulis, with a little white wine, and a bit of truffle glaze; squeeze an orange, and put a little bit of sugar, dish them round the dish, and put the truffles in the middle; garnish with croutons of bread or paste.

Brisket of Beef, stewed.

CUT the bone from a brisket of beef, tie it up, and put it into a brown braise; it will take about five hours; put six Spanish onions into a stewpan, with some second stock, and boil it down to a glaze; take the beef up, trim it neat, and glaze it; put Spanish sauce on the dish, the onions round the dish, and the beef in the middle; the onions should be glazed.

A Fillet of Pork.

BONE either a neck or loin of pork, and cut the rind off; put some second stock into a stewpan, with fat, from any braise that you have by you; put the pork in the stewpan, cover it with onions and sage, sprinkle it with salt, and lay the rind over it; it will take three hours; take it up, dry the fat from it, and glaze it; put sauce rober on the dish, and the pork on it; garnish with either paste or croutons.

Two Ducks à la Daube.

BONE two ducks and fill them with force-meat, put them into a stewpan with a little stock to set them, put them on a slow stove for about ten minutes, then add about a pint of good stock, and the bones and giblets, half a pint of sherry, six or eight onions, a faggot, and a few blades of mace; cover the ducks with sheets of bacon, and put them on a slow stove; they will take about two hours; take them out of the braise, dry and glaze them; strain the braise, skim the fat off, and reduce it to glaze; put coulis sufficient for the quantity of sauce that is wanting; put about two dozen of olives that has been pared and scalded; put the sauce on the dish, and the ducks on the sauce.

N. B. The olives should be pared as near the stone as possible and without breaking: when boiled they will come to their shape.

Chickens and Celery Sauce.

BOIL the chickens about twenty minutes, and make the celery-sauce as follows: Cut the celery (after being properly trimmed) into small pieces, boil it in clear stock for a quarter of an hour, reduce the stock to a glaze, and add beshemell to the cellery; take the chickens up and dry them in a cloth, put them on the dish, and the sauce over them.

A Loin of Veal à la Beshemell.

PUT a loin of veal on the spit, (first, cutting the chump off, as that makes a fricandeau, or à la daube,) do it over with oiled butter, sprinkle it with salt, paper it with double paper, tying it on with pack thread, and put it to the fire; it will take two hours, or more, according to the size; when done, take it up, lay the kidney-side on a dish, (not the one that it is to be served up on,) cut out the fillet, leaving about an inch at each end, and either mince it or cut it into collops; put some good beshemell to it, season it with a little garlic vinegar, pepper, salt, lemon, and sugar; put the mince, or collops, into the place where you cut the fillet from; put bread crumbs over it, and a little clarified butter; put it in the oven for a few minutes, and brown it with a salamander; put beshemell on the dish, and the veal upon the sauce.

N. B. A loin or neck of veal that has been served up and not cut will answer the purpose as well as a fresh roasted one, by papering it, and putting it in the oven to make hot.

A Ham braised.

PUT the ham soaking in warm water the day before, it is wanted to be drest, put it on to boil in cold water, and let it boil about twenty minutes; take it up, take off the rind, and trim it, put it into a good brown braise, and a pint of sherry in the braise, put it on a slow stove, (the braising-pan should be covered down very close,) and boil as gently as possible for four hours, more or less, according to the size of the ham; when done, take it up, and trim and glaze it, put either spinnage, greens, beans, or coulis, according to the time of the year.

Boiled Chickens and Tarragon Sauce.

BOILED chickens and tarragon sauce. The tarragon sauce is made as follows: pick the tarragon from the stalk, leaf by leaf, put it on to blanch in a little cold water, when it boils, strain it off, put it into a small stewpan, with a little clear and pale-coloured stock, and boil it down to a glaze; add beshemell, and a few drops of tarragon vinegar. For directions about boiling the chickens, see page 13.

A Roulard of Veal and Mushrooms.

BONE a breast of veal and beat it well with a beater or choper, (the more it is beat, in reason, the better it will keep its shape when rolled) brush it over with an egg beat up together; season it with pepper and salt, spread some good forced-meat over it, egg the forced-meat, and roll the veal up; put three small skewers in it to keep it tight, tie it up with twine, and put it in a braise; it will take two hours, or more; if there should be a ham, or a rump of beef braising, put the veal in the same pan: when done, take off the twine, but leave the skewers in, only put them out of sight, glaze it, and put the mushrooms under it.

N. B. Sorrel, white haricot beans, French beans, Spanish sauce, haricot roots, stewed cucumbers, &c. &c. will answer as well as the mushrooms.

A Goose.

A GOOSE will take one hour to roast: put chopped sage and onion, seasoned with pepper and salt, keep it well basted while at the fire; put good gravy on the dish, and then the goose. Send apple sauce in a boat.

A Neck of Venison, stewed.

LAY the bottom of a small braising-pan with sheets of fat bacon; trim a neck of venison and lay it on the bacon, put a few onions, three heads of celery, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few blades of mace, and a quart of stock; cover the venison with bacon, and then white paper; cover the braising-pan down close, and put it on a slow stove, let it simmer for two hours, or till the bones will pull out; take the venison up, strain and skim the braise, and reduce it to a glaze; put haricot roots and coulis to it; put the venison on the dish, and cover it over with the roots.

N. B. A breast and shoulder is done the same way; only bone the shoulder.

White Collops and Cucumbers.

CUT the collops about the size of a half-crown piece, flat them, and put them on a soutiespan that has been buttered; put them over a stove for a few minutes, turn them, take them off, and put them into some hot beshemell. The cucumbers should be cut in quarters, and the seed taken out; make two piéces of each quarter, let them lie in vinegar and water (with pepper and salt) about an hour before they are put on the fire ; then put them into a stewpan, with a few spoonsful of stock and a bit of butter ; let them do gently until they are done, then put them to the collops.

N.B. The collops should be sprinkled with shalot and parsley, chopped very fine, before they are put on the stove.

A Currie of Rabbits.

CUT two rabbits up the same as for a fricassee, fry them in a little clarified butter until they are of a light brown colour, put them into a stewpan with a little stock, let them do very gently for about half an hour, then put a proper quantity of sance-tourney, and a small table spoonful of currie powder ; raise a rim of rice round the dish, and put the rabbits in the middle.

Vermicelli Soup, white or brown.

BLANCH as much vermicelli as is wanted by putting it on the fire in cold water, let it boil up, then strain it off, and put it into cold water ; let the vermicelli stay in the water until it is cold, (if it is left on a sieve to drain while hot, it becomes lumpy, and will not dissolve again,) strain it quite dry from the cold water, put as much best stock as you want soup. If it is for white, make a liaison of six eggs, as directed in page 12.

A Chine of Mutton.

A CHINE of mutton will take rather better than two hours, but that depends on the size. When you have tied it on the spit, butter it with oiled butter, and sprinkle it with salt, tie about three sheets of paper over it, put it down to the fire, and baste the strings directly, otherwise they will burn.

N.B. Mutton should be done with the gravy in it, but not under done. Always use a paste brush to butter your meat with.

SECOND COURSE.

Wild Ducks.

WILD ducks will take fifteen minutes roasting : they should be rather under than over done.

Apricot Tourte.

SHEET the tart pan with puff paste, put in some apricot-jam, cross-bar it as your fancy directs, and bake it rather pale; sometimes it may be glazed, which is done in the following manner: sift some fine sugar on it, after it is taken out of the oven, and hold a hot salamander over it till the sugar is melted.

MINCE PIES.—See page 8.

Fat Livers in Cases.

SCALD the livers for a few minutes to take away any bitterness that might remain from the gall, lay them on a cloth to dry, then butter a tart-dish, put in the livers, and sprinkle them with pepper and salt; put them in the oven for about ten minutes, have a proper case to the size of the dish, put the liver and liquor into the case, and put the dish with the case on it in the oven for a few minutes.

N.B. If they are too much done, they become hard.

Fondues.

GRATE half a pound of Parmesan-cheese, put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, add a few spoonful of cream, put the cheese in while on the fire, and keep stirring it until melted, then take it off the fire, and put in six yolks of eggs, one at a time, stirring it all the while; put in about two tea-spoonful of mustard, and a little pepper and salt, beat it up until it becomes like a thick cream, then beat up well the whites of three eggs, and put them to it; put it into a case, if for one, or in small cases folded up for that purpose: ten minutes will bake them.

N.B. There are moulds sold at the turner's for making paper cases.

ASPARAGUS.—See page 8.

FRENCH BEANS.—See page 9.

Stewed Mushrooms.

THE mushrooms should be peeled very thin and put into water, with the juice of a lemon; melt a bit of butter in a stewpan, then put in the mushrooms, and a little pepper and salt, set them over the fire for about fifteen minutes, (they should do very slow) add a little beshemell, if for white; and coulis, for brown.

N.B. Garden mushrooms are best.

Cauliflowers.

CAULIFLOWERS should be cut in handsome pieces before boiled ; a few minutes will boil them, if young ; take them up on a sieve, and let them drain quite dry ; put them on the dish, and the sauce over them.

A Pheasant.

A PHEASANT will take about twenty minutes to roast : send bread sauce in a boat, made as directed in page 7.

Shoulder of Lamb.

A SHOULDER of lamb will take half an hour to roast ; send mint-sauce with it.

N.B. Chop mint very fine, and put it into a boat with vinegar and sugar.

Orange Tourte.

SHEET the tart-dish with puff-paste, cross bar it, and bake it of a nice brown, or glaze it.

A Hare.

A HARE will take about three quarters of an hour to roast ; make common stuffing in the following manner : about three handfuls of bread crumbs, one of suet, chopped very fine, a little lemon-thyme and parsley, and two eggs ; roll it up, and put it into the belly of the hare ; cover the back of the hare with fat bacon to keep it moist, baste it very often, dish it up with gravy and butter, and send currant jelly in a boat.

N.B. Beef suet is best for all uses.

With a dinner of seven dishes a side, send up, at least, six dishes of vegetables to go down the middle, or on the side table.

No. 3. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Italian Soup.

BLANCH off Italian paste, and put it in a small soup-pot, with as much stock as necessary, and boil it about half an hour; if for white, make a liaison as before directed in page 2. Two quarts is quite sufficient for one tureen.

PETIT PATES.—See Appendix.

Small Mutton Pies.

RAISE as many small pies as the dish will hold, cut the fillet off a neck of mutton, take all the skin and sinews from it, and mince it very fine with your knife, (not with a chopping knife); put about a spoonful of stock into a stewpan, with the mutton; mix a little chopped shalot, mushrooms, parsley and thyme, and very little pepper and salt; add it to the meat, and set it on the fire for a few minutes, stirring it all the while; take it off to cool, then fill the pies; they will take about half an hour baking: with the meat that is left, put as much coulis and stock as you think will fill the pies up; when they are baked, cut the tops off, and fill them with it; dish them on a napkin.

N.B. All pastry should be dished on napkins.

Boiled Fowls.

BOIL them as before directed in page 13, pouring beshemell only over them.

A Fillet of Veal à la Flamond.

DAUBE a fillet of veal with bacon, rolled well in fine herbs and fine spice; cover it with bacon and paper; either roast or braise it, (it eats better roasted); it will take two hours and a half either to roast or braise; if braised, put a pint of sherry in the braise, and pour sauce-flamond over the veal.

A Neck of Pork.

A NECK of pork will take nearly two hours roasting : saw the chine-bone off, and take the blade-bone out, score it, and sprinkle it with salt : send apple-sauce in a boat.

A Haricot of Mutton.

CUT a neck of mutton into cotelettes, pass them off on a soutiespan buttered ; as soon as they are warm, turn them ; take them off the soutiespan, and put them into a stewpan, laying them regularly round the bottom ; put in about half a pint of good stock, cover them with white paper, and let them simmer for two hours ; lay them round the dish, and the roots in the middle ; skin the stock they were done in, and add it to the haricot-sauce, which will give it the true flavor of the mutton.

N.B. A haricot of venison is dressed the same way.

A Leg of Lamb and Cucumber Sauce.

A LEG of lamb will take one hour and a half roasting ; put it on the spit, butter and salt it, tie on it three sheets of paper, and baste it well ; when done, take it up, and put the sauce on the dish, and the lamb on the sauce : if it should not be brown, glaze it.

Lamb's Head and Appurtenances.

THE head should be sawed in two, and boiled till quite tender ; then take it up and pull all the bones out ; mix fine herbs and bread crumbs, pepper and salt ; egg the lamb's head, and put the bread crumbs, &c. on it ; then dip it in the eggs again, and put more bread crumbs on it ; then peel the tongue, and crumb it in the same manner, which should be done three times over, to make it look large and handsome ; pour oiled butter over them, and put them in the oven ; cut the liver and heart in slices, with the same quantity of fat and lean bacon ; fry the bacon first, and put it on a sieve to drain ; then fry the liver and heart ; the liver requires very little frying ; if fried too much, it becomes hard and unpleasant : lay the liver round the side of the dish, with a little poivrade-sauce at the bottom ; put the head on the dish, one side at each end, and the tongue in the middle.

N.B. The head and tongue should be of a nice light brown : if the oven does not brown them enough, hold a salamander over them.

A TURKEY AND TRUFFLES.—See page 4,

A Salt Chine.

A SALT chine will take three hours boiling; put greens round it.

BREAST OF VEAL.—See page 5.

A Fillet of Mutton.

A FILLET of mutton, means a loin, the chump end cut off, and may be braised, or roasted; it will take two hours either way: if roasted, it should be first put on a lark-spit, then tied on a spit, butter and salt it well; paper, and put a paste on it, and another paper over all; when done, take it up and glaze it, and put haricot beans under it.

Two Fowls, and Oyster Sauce.

BOIL the fowls as before directed in page 13. Make the oyster-sauce as follows: blanch and beard half a hundred of oysters, don't let them come to a boil, (oysters should not boil by any means, as they become hard and insipid,) strain the liquor, put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, add as much flour as will dry it up; then the liquor belonging to the oysters and beshemell, according to the quantity; dish the fowls, (first drying them,) and put the sauce over them; squeeze half a lemon into the sauce, and put a little salt and sugar.

A Neat's Tongue.

A NEAT's tongue will take three hours boiling; when done, take it up, peel, trim, and glaze it; put greens round the dish, and the tongue in the middle.

A GOOSE.—See page 15.

Mock Turtle.

SCALD a calves head with the skin on, saw it in two, take out the brains, tie the head up in a cloth, and let it boil for one hour; then take the meat from the bones, and cut it into small square pieces, and throw them into cold water to wash them clean; then put the meat into a stewpan, with as much good stock as will cover the meat; let it boil gently for an hour, or until quite tender; then take it off the fire, put about half a pound of butter into a stewpan, and half a pound of lean ham cut very fine; some chopped parsley, orange and lemon thyme, sweet marjorum, knotted ditto, basil, 3 onions, chopped mushrooms, and shalot ; put a pint of stock to the herbs and butter, put them on a slow stove, and let them simmer for two hours ; put as much flour as will dry up the butter ; add stock accordingly, (so as to make two tureens) ; add one bottle of Madeira, let it boil a few minutes, rub it through a tammy, and put it to the calves head ; put force-meat balls and egg ditto ; season it with cayenne-pepper, and a little salt, if wanted ; squeeze two Seville-oranges and one lemon, a little fine spice and sugar to make it palatable.

Ribs of Beef.

RIBS of beef will take about three hours ; but that depends on the size and weight ; put it on the spit, butter it, and salt and pepper it ; before the beef is taken up, baste, flour, and salt it.

SECOND COURSE.

PARTRIDGES.— See page 7.

SAVOY CAKE.— See Appendix.

A Basket of Pastry.

A BASKET of pastry, such as tartlets of any sweetmeat ; sheet the tartlet-pans with puff-paste, put in any sweetmeat you think proper, cross-bar them, and bake them in a quick oven. See Appendix.

RAGGON MELLE.— See page 9.

MINCE PIES.— See page 8.

A Gooseberry Tart.

A GOOSEBERRY tart at this time of year is made of bottled gooseberries ; sheet the tart-pan with tart-paste, put the gooseberries in, and moist sugar ; cover it over with the same sort of paste, beat up the white of an egg, brush the tart over with the egg, sift sugar over it, and bake it in a slack oven.

Escaloped Oysters.

BLANCH the oysters, beard them, and strain the liquor; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put as much flour as will dry up the butter; pour in the oyster liquor and a little stock, boil it for a few minutes, put the oysters in, season it with a little pepper and salt, butter the escalop-shells, then put the oysters, and as much of the liquid as they will hold; put crumbs of bread over the oysters, and drop oiled butter over them with a paste brush; put them in the oven to brown; if the oven is not hot enough, hold a salamander.

N.B. If for meagre, do not use any stock, but cream instead.

Smoked Salmon.

SMOKED salmon is had from the oilman's; it is to be cut in thin slices and put in a case, and then put in the oven; there should be a little oiled butter in the case: a few minutes will do the salmon, as it only wants warming through.

RABBITS.—See page 10.

LARKS.—See page 9.

ASPARAGUS—See page 8,

FRENCH BEANS.—See page 9.

Woodcocks.

WOODCOCKS will take about fifteen minutes; have a toast baked and put on a plate, and put under the woodcocks to catch the train; put the toast and train on the dish, and gravy and butter, and the woodcocks upon the toast.

No. 4. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

VERMECCELLI SOUP.—See page 16.

FISH.—See a general direction in the Appendix.

HAM BRAISED.—See page 14.

Tenderones of Lamb à la Poulet.

CUT a breast of lamb into six pieces, put them into a stewpan with cold water, and put them on the fire to blanch ; when they come to a boil, take them off, and wash them in cold water ; put them into a white braise, put them on a slow stove, and let them do very slow for two hours, or until the bones will draw out ; take them up and dish them, and pour sauce à la reine over them ; garnish either with paste or bread croutons.

A Civet of Hare.

CUT up a hare (that has been roasted not too dry) as neat as you can, by leaving as little bone as possible ; put the trimmings into a stewpan, with four large onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few blades of mace, a pint of good stock, and a pint of port wine ; put them on a slow stove, let it boil very gently for two hours, and then strain it off ; put a bit of butter into a stewpan to melt, then put a little flour, stir it about to mix it, then the liquor that was strained from the trimmings of the hare ; let it boil for a few minutes, and strain it through a tammy ; boil two dozen of button onions in stock, and put them to the civet ; dish the hare first, put the sauce over the hare, and the onions at the top.

A Leg of Lamb boiled, and Loin fried, and Spinage.

A LEG of lamb boiled, and loin fried : the leg of lamb will take about an hour and a half (but depends upon the size : cut the loin in cutlets, and fry them ; put spinage round the dish, the leg of lamb in the middle, and the cutlets round it; put a little beshemell over the leg of lamb.

BOILED FOWLS.—See page 13.

Breast of Veal à la Flamond.

COVER the bottom of a stewpan with bacon, put the veal in, and cover it with bars of bacon; put a pint of stock, and a pint of white wine; put it on a slow stove for two hours, or until the bones will part from the meat; take it up, strain the liquor that the veal was stewed in, and skim it; make the sauce from that, add mushrooms, squeeze a lemon, and put a little shalot vinegar, and a little dust of sugar; dish the veal and pour the sauce over it.

Two Ducks braised, and Turnips.

BONE them and fill them with force-meat; put the bones, and any other poultry trimmings into a stewpan, lay the ducks on the bones, &c.; put a few onions, a faggot, a few blades of mace, a pint of stock, and a little sherry wine; cover the ducks with sheets of bacon and paper; cover them down close, and put them on a slow stove for two hours; when they are done, take them up, strain the braise, skim the fat from it, and reduce it to a glaze; scoop as many turnips as is requisite, and fry them in clarified butter; put a little coulis to the glaze of the ducks, and the turnips in the coulis; give them a boil; put the turnips on the dish first, then the ducks, first glazing them.

A Neck of Mutton larded, and Carrot-peas.

TRIM a neck of mutton, lard the fillet, put it into a stewpan of cold water, and put it on the fire to blanch; when it boils, take it off, and put it into cold water; put trimmings of any kind of meat into a stewpan (that will hold the neck of mutton) with a few onions, sweet herbs, and a quart of second stock; put the neck of mutton in, cover it with sheets of bacon and paper; put it on the stove; it should simmer only for two hours; take it up, put it in the oven for a few minutes, and glaze it: have about half a pint of scooped carrots, the size of pease, boil them in some good stock down to a glaze; add coulis, put the sauce on the dish, and the mutton on the sauce.

A Shoulder of Lamb larded.

TAKE the blade-bone out of a shoulder of lamb, fill it with force-meat, sew it up with twine, then lard it; put trimmings of any sort of meat into a stewpan, with onions, celery, a faggot, and bits of carrots; put the lamb upon those, cover it with fat bacon, put a quart of second stock, and let it do very gently for two hours; put a little lighted charcoal upon the lid of the stewpan to raise the bacon; when done, take it up, and put it in the oven for a few minutes; glaze it, put sorrel-sauce on the dish, and then the lamb.

A Woodcock Pie.

RAISE a pie according to the size of the dish that it is to go on; lay a few slices of veal on the bottom; then a layer of force-meat; then put in six woodcocks, season them with fine herbs, and chopped mushrooms; put in a pound of raw truffles pared and cut in thick slices; cover the woodcocks over with sheets of bacon; cover the pie, and garnish according to fancy; it will take two hours and a half to bake; when done, cut the top off, pour off the fat, and put in some coulis.

A Partridge Pie.

RAISE a pie according to the size of the dish; put in slices of veal in the bottom of the pie, then good force-meat; then put in the partridges, which should be boned and filled full of forced-meat, and a whole raw truffle in each; season it with fine herbs, and chopped mushrooms; put in one pound of raw truffles, first being pared; cover the partridges with sheets of bacon, then put the lid on, and garnish as you please; it will take three hours baking. The oven for those kind of pies should not be too hot. Cut half a pound of ham into small pieces, and put it into a stewpan, with the bones, livers, and gizzards of the partridges, and any other loose giblets that you may have at hand; put about a dozen shalots, and a few blades of mace; put it on the fire with a little stock to draw down, for about ten minutes; then put about three pints of good stock, and half a pint of Madeira; let it boil very gently for about two hours, then strain it off, and put about one ounce of butter into a stewpan to melt; then put as much flour as will dry up the butter; then put in the liquor that the partridges bones were stewed in; boil it very slow for a few minutes, (keep stirring it while on the fire, for, any thing that has flour in it is apt to stick to the bottom,) and strain it through a tammy; pour the fat from the pie, and put in the sauce; you may add a few fat livers and a sweetbread cut, as for a raggoo.

A Fricandeau of Fowl and Endive.

PREPARE a fowl, as in page 3; lard it, lay the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon; then lay the bones of the fowl, and any other trimmings, and the fowl upon them; put in about a pint of second stock, a few bay leaves, onions, and a faggot; cover the fowl with sheets of bacon, and then with white paper; put it on the stove, and let it do very gently; the slower those kind of things do the better; put a little fire on the top of the stewpan; it should simmer for about one hour and a half; the liquor should not come near the bacon; when done, take it up and put it in the oven for a few minutes, to raise the larding, before it is glazed. Put the endive on the dish first, and the fowl on it; garnish with croutons and carrot roses, or what you think proper.

N.B. All lardings should be put in an oven for a few minutes before they are glazed.

A Fillet of Beef, larded.

Cut the fillet out of a sirloin of beef, trim it and lard it; then lay it in a marinade, made as follows: put the fillet, after it is larded, in a deep dish; pour about half a pint of salad oil over it, slice four or five onions, spread them over the beef, and a few bay leaves, thyme and basil, and over them pour half a pint of vinegar; let it lie in this all night, then put it into a braising pan, (but not a very deep one,) with the marinade, and about a pint of stock; cover it with bacon and paper; be sure to let it simmer very gently; it will take two hours: when done, pour off the liquor, and strain it; skim the fat from it very clean; reduce it to a glaze, and put Spanish sauce to it; boil four Spanish onions until they are done, glaze them, and put them round the beef when you dish it; put the sauce on the dish first, then glaze the beef, and put it on the sauce.

A ROULARD OF MUTTON, done the same as a Roulard of Veal. — See page 15.

CUCUMBER SAUCE, with other Sauces. — See Appendix.

An Ox Cheek, with Roots.

STEW an ox cheek the same as a brisket of beef; dish it, and put haricot sauce over it.

A Neck of Mutton, boiled.

A NECK of mutton will take an hour and a half to boil; rub the turnips through a hair sieve; first be sure and squeeze all the water from them; put a little cream and butter, a little salt and white pepper; put very little garnish with carrots cut as croutons, or roses; send caper sauce in a boat.

N.B. Before it is put into boil saw the chine bone, and strip the ribs half-way down, and chop them off.

Bacon Chine.

A SALT chine of pork will take about two hours; put greens round the dish, and the pork in the middle; garnish with carrot.

A Salmie of Wild Duck.

CUT up two wild ducks, (that have been dressed, and left from the day before); put the legs, wings, and breasts, cut in slices, into a stewpan, and set them by until wanted; put the trimmings into another stewpan, with a few shalots, a pint of good stock, and half a pint of red wine; put it on the stove, let it boil for half an hour, and then strain it off; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put a little flower, and the liquor that has been strained from the bones; give it a boil, and strain it through a tammy sieve; put it into a stewpan, give it a boil, squeeze a Seville orange in it, put a little cayenne pepper to it; then pour it over the duck, and put it by the side of the stove; do not let it boil, or it will be hard; the sauce should not be quite so thick as sauces are in general.

A Matelot of Eels.

CUT one or two eels in pieces about two inches long, put them into a stewpan, with cold water, to blanch; when they come to a boil take them off, and put them into cold water; scrape the second skin and fat off, wash them in several waters, (otherwise it will make the sauce muddy and greasy); when very clean, put the eels into a stewpan, with half a pint of good stock, half a pint of red wine, about two dozen of button onions neatly peeled, and take care that the root is not cut off, for if it is the onions will boil to pieces; put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, with a little chopped thyme, parsley, shalots, and as much flower as will dry up the butter; put the liquor from the eels to it, and keep stirring it till it boils; then rub it through a tammy, and put the sauce to the eels; put a little anchovy essence, squeeze a lemon, put a very little sugar, and garnish with croutons.

Soup and Boulic.

Cut a brisket of beef that has been stewed into small square pieces; have some turnips and carrots scooped, but no onions and celery cut in small pieces; put the pieces of beef in the pot first, then the roots, and about half a pint of stock; put the soup pot on a slow stove to simmer gently for one hour, then fill up the soup pot, (one that will hold about three quarts,) with best stock, and let it boil gently for about half an hour.

FISH. — See Appendix.

CUINE OF MUTTON. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

PHEASANTS. — See page 18.

Clear Jelly, ornamented or plain.

DIRECTIONS how to boil the stock is given in the Appendix. Put the jelly stock into a stewpan; put about a handful of isinglass with it, a little cinnamon, a few cloves, and a few coriander seeds; put the jelly stock on the stove to melt; when melted, take it off; for two quarts of jelly stock, peel (very thin) six lemons and six Seville oranges; rub sugar to six more lemons, and six more Seville oranges; then squeeze them all into a bason that has the peel in, and the sugar that has been rubbed to the lemon and oranges; put a bottle of Lisbon wine, and about half a pint of brandy; put all this to the jelly stock, then break eighteen eggs (leaving out twelve yolks) whites, shells, and the six yolks, beat up together, and put them to the jelly stock; put sugar sufficient to sweeten it; put it on the fire, have a whisk, and keep whisking it until it boils; then put it to the side of the stove to boil for about five minutes; take it from the fire, put the cover on, and put lighted charcoal on the cover, and let it stay for half an hour; then put it into the jelly bag, prepared in a stand for that purpose; return it into the jelly-bag until it is clear, which is known, by trying it in a glass; cover it up quite close to keep it warm, as by that means it will run the better: as for ornamenting, that must depend on fancy.

Raspberry Cream.

BOIL one ounce of isinglass (that will make one quart of cream of a sufficient stiffness to turn out of a mould) in three pints of milk and cream mixed, for about ten minutes, or until the isinglass is melted; strain it through a hair sieve into a bason, then put about half a pint of raspberry jelly to the milk and cream; keep stirring it until it is melted, sweeten it, and put a glass of brandy to it; then whisk it up until it is three parts cold, then put it into a mould to get quite cold.

N.B. In summer, use fresh Raspberry; about a pint, will make a mould of about a pint and a half; rub it through a tammy.

ASPARAGUS AND FRENCH BEANS as before directed.

Peths au Gratin.

PETHS are taken out of the chine-bones of beef, mutton, or veal; put them on to blanch; when come to a boil, take them off the fire, and throw them into cold water, wash them, and put them on a cloth to dry; dip them in egg, and then in bread crumbs; do them twice over, and have clean lard in a stewpan; when hot, put in the peths, fry them of a light brown, and serve them up with fried parsley.

A Lobster.

A LOBSTER, if sent up cold, is generally cut up and sent in the shell.

MINCE PIES.—See page 8.

Cheese Cakes, of Cheese-curd, and Almonds.

PRESS the cheese-curd very dry, so as to get all the whey from it; then put it on the back of a hair sieve, with a bit of fresh butter, and rub it through the sieve with the back of a spoon; then put it into a bason. To as much as will make two dozen of cheesecakes, put six yolks of eggs, three whites, and a few bitter almonds; grate a lemon, and put a glass of brandy; sheet the pans with puff-paste, and put the preparation in; put them in the oven, they will bake in ten minutes.

WOODCOCKS. — See page 24.

Dun Birds.

DUN birds are of the widgeon and duck kind, and should be rather under than over done: they will take about fifteen minutes.

An Omelet.

AN omelet is made as follows: break eight eggs (leave out four whites) into a bason, put a little chopped parsley, thyme, shalot, and pepper and salt; beat it all together for five or six minutes; then put about a quarter of a pint of good cream, and break in about two ounces of cold butter; put butter in an omeletpan, when melted, put in the omelet, and keep stirring it about until it begins to set; then gather it up together with a knife, or a very small slice made for that purpose (which are made by Mr. Bailey, of Holborn, London); if the dish is oval, shape the omelet oval; if round, shape the omelet round; turn it out on a plate, then put it on the dish, and a little sauce-tourney round the edge of it. If for meagre, put no sauce; a few oysters chopped and put in the omelet (to make a change) eat very well; as also chopped ham, or kidney of veal, and any other thing your fancy leads to.

MUSHROOMS. — See page 17.

Cederata Cream.

Boil one ounce of isinglass in three pints of milk and cream mixed; when melted, strain it through a lawn sieve, put a table-spoonful of extract of cederata in a bason, and put the milk and cream in by a little at a time to mix it well with the cederata; when mixed, put it into a pan that will hold about four quarts, and whisk it up until it gets thick; then put it in the mould, and garnish with sliced oranges.

No. 5. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

GIBLET Soup. — See page 6.

Loin of Veal à la Besheimell. — See page 14.

White Collops. — See page 15.

Pigs Feet and Ears.

BRAISE them in a brown braise until quite tender, so that the bones will pull out of the feet without breaking the skin: the ears should be shred very fine, and put into rober-sauce; the feet should be dipped in egg, then in bread crumbs, mixt with parsley, chopped thyme, mushrooms, (if to be had,) and a little shalot, pepper and salt; do them with the egg and bread crumbs twice over; clarify a little butter, and put it on a soutiespan, and put the pigs feet on it; set them on a stove to finish, they should be of a nice light brown; put the ears on the dish first, and the feet round, the same as you would dish cutlets.

A Mutton and Potatoc Pie in a raised Crust.

RAISE a pie about three inches high; cut a neck of mutton into cutlets, butter a soutiespan, sprinkle it over with mixt pepper and salt, chopped mushrooms, parsley, a little thyme, and chopped shalot; lay the cutlets on, then sprinkle them over; put them on a stove for about two minutes, just to set them; then turn them and put them to cool; when cold, lay the cutlets round the sides of the pie, in the same manner as you would round a dish; scoop potatoes, (with a turnip scoop,) and put them in the middle; scrape off the herbs from the soutiespan, and put in the pie; cover it in, and garnish as fancy directs; it will take two hours baking, in what is called a soaking oven: when done, cut the top off, and pour off the fat, but take care that none of the gravy comes out, as that is what gives it the real flavour; pour a little good coulis in; dish it on a napkin.

N.B. The neck of mutton should be boned before cut up.

A Pâté Goodereau.

RAISE a small pie about three inches high; put force-meat round the sides, cut a sweetbread in slices, a few fat livers, and five or six truffles that have not been braised; cut them in slices, and cover the pie in; when done, pour in some good coulis, and a glass of Madeira wine.

N.B. Boil the coulis and wine together before it is put in the pie.

A Neck of Venison.

A NECK of venison is dressed in the same manner as a haunch; one hour will roast it.

Neck of Pork.— See page 21.

Beef Olives, with Sauce Restauret.

CUT about seven thin slices of beef from the rump, the same as you would cut beef-stakes; beat them very well with a beater, brush them over with egg, and then sprinkle them with fine herbs; season them with pepper and salt, roll them up quite tight, put a little stock at the bottom of a stewpan that will exactly hold them, (for, by being pressed together, they will keep their shape better,) cover them with fat bacon, cut in sheets, and put paper over that; put them on a stove to do very gently, the slower the better: they will take full two hours; take them up, and lay six round the dish and one in the middle: pour sauce restauret over them.

A Fillet of Mutton.

A FILLET of mutton is a loin with the rump end cut off; roast it for about two hours; it should be buttered, sprinkled with salt, and a sheet of white paper put on; cover it, paste it the same as venison, and paper over that; it should not be the least brown, as it is to be glazed: boil what French beans is wanting, and put them on a sieve to drain; then put them into some good coulis that is quite hot; put the French beans on the dish first, and the mutton on them.

A Turkey with Chesnuts and Sausages.

A TURKEY with chesnuts and sausages is done the same as a turkey and truffles, only using chesnuts and sausages instead of truffles.

A Rump of Beef à la Daube, and Cabbage.

TRIM a rump of beef and daube it; put it in a marinade the night before, (make the marinade as before directed), and put it on in a brown braise: it will take four hours. Remember that it must do very slow; about one hour before it is wanted, put in about six bundles of savoy cabbage ; the cabbage should be about half boiled in water, then squeezed very dry, and tied up in bundles ; put Spanish sauce on the dish, the cabbage round, and the beef in the middle.

N.B. The beef should be glazed ; garnish with carrot.

Stewed Partridges, with Truffles.

DRAW in the legs of four partridges ; lay the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon, lay the partridges in, the breast downwards : put in the livers, necks, and gizzards, and cover all with bacon ; put in a pound of truffles that has not been braised nor peeled, half a pint of sherry, and about a pint of good stock ; three or four onions, a faggot, and a few blades of mace ; put paper over all, and cover them down close ; set them on a stove ; they should simmer very slow, and will take one hour and a half ; when done, take out the truffles, peel them, and cut them in slices ; then strain the braise that the partridges were done in, and skim the fat from it ; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, add flour, then the liquor the partridges were done in, then put in the truffles ; take up the partridges, dry them on a cloth, and pour the sauce and truffles over them : garnish either with paste, croutons, or carrots.

A Leg of Lamb, and Haricot Beans.

A LEG of lamb will take one hour and a half to roast ; put the haricot beans on the dish first.

N.B. Butter, salt and pepper the lamb.

A Neck of Veal.

A NECK of veal will take about an hour and a half to roast ; put gravy and butter under it.

Sheep's Rumps and Kidneys.

BONE four rumps, (or more properly called, tails,) fill them with force-meat, and put them in a white braise ; split four kidneys, and put them into the braise ; put them on a slow stove to simmer gently for two hours ; put piquant sauce in the dish, the rumps round the sides, and the kidneys in the middle.

N.B. The rumps should be glazed, and a little sauce poured over the kidneys.

A Fricassee of Chicken.

CUT up two chickens very neat, take the thigh bones from the legs, put the chickens into a stewpan of cold water, and put them on the fire to blanch ; when they come to a boil, take them off the fire, and put them into cold water; put the trimmings of the chickens into a stewpan, with a little lean ham, two onions, a few cloves stuck in the onions, a faggot, and a few blades of mace; put them on the fire for an hour, with about half a pint of water; then strain it off, and put it to the chickens with about two ounces of butter; let it simmer over the stove for about half an hour, then put a bit of butter into a stewpan; when melted, put a little flour and the stock from the chicken; add as much cream as will make it of a good white. It is a custom with some to thicken it with a liaison; a liaison of three eggs will do; put a few drops of garlic vinegar, half a lemon squeezed, and a little sugar.

A Volevent of Fish.

A VOLEVENT is puff-paste, cut in the shape of the pies, either oval or round; take out the inside, the same as you do petit pâtés; put a souties of sole in, and dish it on a napkin.

French Pie, or a Pâté à la François.

RAISE a pie about three inches high, lay the bottom with slices of veal, then a few mushrooms, then a few slices of ham, a chicken cut up, a few more mushrooms, and a sweet bread cut in slices; season it with pepper and salt, and sweet herbs; cover it in, and put it in the oven; it will take about two hours in a slack oven; when done, pour off the fat, and put coulis, and six yolks of eggs boiled hard.

A Souties of Mutton and Cucumbers.

CUT a neck or loin of mutton into cutlets, butter a soutiespan, and sprinkle it over with shalot, thyme, parsley, pepper and salt, and chopped mushrooms; put the cutlets to pass off; when done, lay them round the side of a stewpan, put a little stock in the middle, and a sheet of white paper cut round, over the cutlets; they will take one hour over a slow stove; dish them round the dish, and the cucumber-sauce in the middle.

N.B. Bone the mutton.

Soup Santé.

SHRED turnips, carrots, small onions, and Spanish onion, when to be had: ~~cut cabbage~~ lettuce, pick a handful of chervil, and a pint of asparagus peas; put all into a soup-pot, with a pint of stock; set them on a stove to boil, until the stock is quite reduced; then fill up the pot with good stock, and put two small lumps of sugar in.

SECOND COURSE.

Wild Ducks. — See page 16.

Coffee Cream, in Cups.

Boil a quart of cream and put a little isinglass in, about half an ounce will be sufficient; strain the cream, and put about a pint of strong coffee; sweeten it with white sugar-candy, and put about a tea-spoonful of cedarata (if to be had); put the cream into a pan, and whisk it up for about five minutes, then put the cream into cups.

Darioles, (so called from the Name of the Moulds.)

Make a bit of half puff-paste, shut the moulds, and half bake the paste; then fill them with custard made as follows: put a pint of milk, a pint of cream, a little cinnamon, and the peel of a lemon, into a stewpan; set it on to boil for a quarter of an hour, then let it cool; beat up the yolks of eight eggs in a bason, sweeten it with sifted lump sugar, pour the cream, &c. in, a little at a time, then mix it well, and strain it through a hair sieve; set it again on the fire, and when it begins to thicken, fill the darioles, and put them in the oven for ten minutes; when done, turn them out, and dish them, sift a little fine sugar over them, and glaze the with a salamander.

Eggs à la Trip.

Boil eight eggs hard, and put them in cold water; peel them, leave the yolks whole, and shread the whites; put a little chopped parsley into a little beshemell, and pour it over the eggs: there is no occasion for putting the eggs into the stewpan, the sauce being quite hot will warm the eggs sufficiently.

No. 6. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

SOUP à la Flamoud. — See page 12.

Fish. — See Appendix.

A Matelot of Eels. — See page 30.

Semels of Carp.

BONE two good-sized carps, and cut them into rather a large collop; put about three ounces of butter into a stewpan; put in fine herbs, such as thyme, parsley, shalots, chopped mushrooms, a little anchovy essence, pepper and salt; put it on the stove so as to melt the butter, then let it stand until three parts cold, dip the carp in, (and make as many herbs stick to it as you can,) then put it in bread crumbs, and lay them on a soutiespan, with clarified butter on it: when done, dish them round the dish, with fried parsley in the middle.

A Breast of Lamb, and Cucumber Sauce.

CUT the chine bone from a breast of lamb, put it on to blanch; when it comes to a boil take it off, and put it in cold water for a few minutes; then score it, but mind that it is not cut through; put it into a stewpan, with about a pint of good stock; let it boil very slow for an hour, or until the bones will pull out, then put it on the gridiron to grill; put cucumber sauce on the dish first, and the lamb on the sauce.

Beef Palates.

THE palates should be braised, until very tender, then cut them into the shape of a cutlet, with a cutter for that purpose; dish them round the dish, and pour ravigot sauce in the middle.

Ham. — See page 14.

A Pheasant, braised and stewed, Cabbage, &c.

DRAW in the legs of a pheasant ; put a few trimmings of poultry, the neck and gizzard of the pheasant, (the same of any other game that you might have,) put it into a stewpan, with a quart of good stock, a few onions, a faggot, a few blades of mace, and the fat of any braisé that has been strained off ; wrap the pheasant up in bacon ; put the breast downwards ; put half a pint of sherry ; set it on a stove to do very gently ; one hour will do it ; when half done put in six bundles of cabbage, (prepared the same as for partridge) ; when done, strain off the braise, and skim the fat very clean from it ; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put a little flour to dry up the butter ; then put in the bottom of the braise the pheasant was done in, and squeeze a lemon ; when it has had a boil, put the pheasant on the dish, the cabbage round it, and the sauce over all.

N.B. The cabbage should be well dried, in a clean cloth, before it is put on the dish.

Fowl and Oyster Sauce. — See page 22.

A Sparerib of Bacon.

A SPARERIB of bacon will take one hour and a half, but that depends upon the size ; sprinkle it with sage, chopped very fine, a few minutes before it is taken up ; put gravy under it, and send apple sauce in a boat.

A Neat's Tongue, and Barberries.

CUT a tongue that has been roasted into neat slices ; put some sauce-tourney into a stewpan, and about two table spoonsful of preserved barberries to the sauce ; give it a boil ; then put in the slices of tongue to warm ; when warm, dish the tongue round the dish, and the barberries in the middle.

A Goose. — See page 15.

Chickens à la Reine.

CHICKENS à la Reine are boiled for fifteen minutes ; dish them, with cauliflower or broccoli round them, and pour beshemell over them.

Rabbits à la Portugueze.

BONE two rabbits, and spread them with forced meat; roll them up, and make them as near the shape of chick (trussed for boiling) as you can; put the bones into a stewpan, with any other trimming of poultry, with a few onions, a faggot, a little mace, and three or four bay leaves; put the rabbits in, peel two lemons, then cut them in slices, lay them over the rabbits, and sheets of bacon over them: put a pint of stock; set them on the fire, and let them simmer very slow for one hour and a half; then strain the braise, skinn the fat off, and make the sauce from it; put a few truffles in the sauce; put the sauce on the dish first, then glaze the rabbits, and put them on the sauce.

Breast of Veal and Peas.

BRAISE a breast of veal the same as directed in page 7; stew peas in the following manner: put a bit of ham on the bottom of the stewpan, then a bit of butter, (wash the peas in several warm waters to take the salt from them,) then put the peas into a stewpan, with two chopped onions, one table spoonful of sugar, and about half a pint of stock; put them on a stove to stew for one hour, then put a bit of flour and butter mixed; take up the veal; pull all the bones out; put it on a dish, and put the peas upon the veal.

N.B. Peas are preserved, in salt and water, in bottles.

Brisket of Beef, stewed. — See page 13.

Lamb's Head. — See page 21.

Fillets of Salmon, with Capers.

CUT six thin slices of salmon, flat them gently, season them with pepper and salt, (first brush them over with egg); roll them up, and put them in a stewpan that will just hold them; put about half a pint of stock; cover them with bacon; set them on a stove for half an hour, when done lay them round the dish; put a little coulis into a stewpan, with the liquor the salmon was done in; a few capers, chopped; a little anchovy essence, a glass of Madeira, and squeeze half a lemon in it, with a little sugar.

Fillet of Sole à la Italienne.

FILLET a pair of soles; scrape two of the fillets, and as much fat bacon; put it into the mortar, with a little parsley, shalots, and thyme, all chopped very fine; rub it about the mortar for a few minutes; put in half the crumb of a French roll, that has been soaked in cream; mix them all together; then beat up the white of an egg, and put it in the mortar, with a little pepper and salt, and two anchovies, washed, boned, and chopped very fine; take it all out of the mortar; flat the fillets of soles, brush them over with egg, then spread the force on, and roll them up; put them in a tart pan, (first covering the bottom with bacon); put a few spoonfuls of stock; cover the fillets with bacon; put them in a slow oven for half an hour, then dish them, and pour white Italian sauce over them.

Italian Soup. — See page 20.

Fish. — See Appendix.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

A Wax-Basket. — See Appendix.

Prawns are had from the fishmonger, ready boiled.

A Gum Paste-Basket. — See Appendix.

Tartlets.

SHEET the tartlet-pans with puff-paste, put what sweet-meat you think proper, cross-bar them, and put them in the oven to bake; when done, put them on paper to soak the butter from the paste.

Artichoke Bottoms a la Italienne.

PUT the artichoke bottoms to soak in warm water, change the water several times; when quite soft, trim them, and put them into a stewpan, with a little stock, to keep hot; put the artichoke bottoms on the dish, and Italian sauce over them.

Salsify.

BOIL it until it is tender, then peel it, and put it on a dish; put a sharp sauce over it.

Mince Pies. — See page 8.

A Gatedu Millefleur.

A GATEAU millefleur is cut out of puff-paste; there are millefleur cutters for that purpose; put different sweetmeats in every pie, spin caremell sugar over all, as it hinders the paste from falling off.

Lobster, Cold. — See page 32.

Pickled Oysters.

GET one hundred of the largest oysters that you can procure; when opened, put them on the fire to make hot; (but do not let them boil), take them off and strain the liquor through a tammy-sieve, beard the oysters, and put them into cold water for the time the pickle is making; put to the liquor of the oysters about a gill of vinegar, and the same quantity of sherry, a few blades of mace, a little whole white pepper, and a little salt; let it boil for half an hour; then make the oysters very dry, by laying them on a cloth, and put them to the pickle to boil for one minute; put them to cool. They do either for second course or supper.

Spinage and Eggs.

THE spinage when boiled should be squeezed as dry as possible; then chopped very fine, and put into a stewpan, with a little beshemell, or a small bit of butter, a little cream, and very little pepper and salt; dish the spinage, and then put the eggs in to poach; be careful that they do not get too hard; the water should boil, and have a little salt and vinegar in it; when the eggs are put in, do not put the water on the fire, as they will do better by being covered up; they will do in three minutes; when you take the eggs up, trim the ragged parts of the white off, put them on the spinage, and garnish with croutons.

No. 7. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Soup Cressy.

TAKE four carrots grated, a few sliced onions, cut lettuce, and chervil, and put them all into a stewpan, with a bit of butter ; put a pint of lentils on the top of the roots, and add a pint of good stock ; let it simmer for half an hour, then fill it up with stock ; let it boil gently for an hour, then put in the crumb of two French rolls : when well soaked, rub it all through a tammy ; have a little rice boiled in stock to put in the tureen.

Fish.—See Appendix.

A Turkey and Truffles.—See page 4.

Petit Pâtés.—See Appendix.

Risoles.

MINCE any kind of white meat, such as fowl, turkey, or veal sweetbreads ; put a little besheimell in a stewpan, make it hot, then put in the mince, season it with pepper and salt, a drop or two of garlic vinegar, the juice of half a lemon, and a little pounded sugar ; put it on a dish to cool ; when quite cold, roll it up either round or long, beat up two eggs in a bason, dip the risoles in them, and roll them in bread crumbs ; they should be done twice over ; have some clean lard in a stewpan made quite hot ; (the lard is not hot enough for frying either risoles or fish until it stops boiling) then put in the risoles, have a sieve by the stove where you are frying to put them on, as soon as done, which will not be many minutes ; pick some parsley and dry it before the fire ; put it in a proper cullender, and set the cullender in the lard ; about one minute will be sufficient to crisp it : lay the risoles round the dish, and the parsley in the middle.

A Leg of Pork à la Boisseau.

A LEG of pork for this purpose should be in salt about four days, and put in boiling water, to boil for about ten minutes; then take it up and skin it, spit it, and put it to the fire; it will take two hours to roast. About half an hour before it is taken up, shake on plenty of bread crumbs; then baste it with butter, put on more bread crumbs, and repeat basting and putting bread crumbs until it looks of a nice brown; take it up, and put under it a little sage and onion, chopped very fine, and boiled in good gravy: send apple-sauce in a boat.

Two Necks of Lamb à la Chevaux de Frize.

TRIM two necks of lamb, strip the bones about two inches down, either lard or leave them plain; if plain, put them on a lark spit and tie them on a spit; butter, salt, and pepper them; one hour will roast them; take them up and join them together à la chevaux de frize; which is done by putting the bones one between the other; put cucumber-sauce under them.

N.B. If larded, braise them the same as a neck of mutton, and glaze them.

A Blanquet of Poularde, with Mushrooms.

CUT the breasts of one or two fowls (that has been roasted or boiled) into collops; put all the other parts into a stewpan with some lean ham, a few shalots, a faggot, some trimmings of mushrooms, and about a pint of pale coloured stock; let it boil very slow for half an hour, then strain it off; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, about half a pottle of mushrooms cut into thin slices; a table spoonful of stock, and the juice of half a lemon (to keep the mushrooms white); let them do gently for about ten minutes; put in a little flour, and shake it about the stewpan, (do not stir it with a spoon for fear of breaking the mushrooms); then add the stock that the bones of the fowls were boiled in, with the addition of a little cream; let it boil about three minutes, then put it to the fowl, add a few drops of garlic vinegar, and a little pounded sugar; garnish with croutons, either of paste or bread.

Fillets of Mutton, with Cucumbers.

CUT the fillet of the inside of a cold chine of mutton into thin collops; prepare the cucumbers the same as for sauce, (only leaving out the onions,) and put the mutton to them; set it on the fire for a few minutes, but do not let it boil.

Neck of Veal braised, and Sauce à la Reine.

TRIM a neck of veal by cutting off the chine bone, and cutting the rib bones short; set it on the fire in cold water to blanch; when it comes to a boil, take it off and throw it into cold water; lay the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon, put the veal in, and cover it with bacon; put in a few onions, a faggot, a few blades of mace, and a bit or two of carrot; cover it with paper, and set it on the fire; it will take two hours to do; when done, take it up, dry it, and put the sauce over it.

Boiled Chickens and Cauliflower.— See pages 18 and 20.

Loin of Veal.

CUT the chump off, (which you may use for another purpose,) and put the loin on a spit, butter, salt, and paper it; it will take two hours; then take the paper off, baste with butter, salt, and dredge it: dish it and put gravy and butter under.

Neck of Mutton boiled, and Turnips, &c.

A NECK of mutton will take about an hour and a half boiling; the skin should not be taken off the fat until boiled, as it will look the whiter; put mashed turnips under it: garnish with carrot, cut as fancy directs.

Chickens with tarragon.— See page 14.

Scorch Collops.

CUT the collops from the fillet of veal, flat them, and put them on a dish; cut a few slices of fat bacon, and put them into an iron fryingpan to draw the fat from them; then put the fat on a plate, leave a little in the pan, fry the collops of a light brown, then turn them; when brown on both sides, put them into a stewpan that has a sufficient quantity of coulis; make a few force-meat balls, and fry them in the fat of the bacon, or clarified butter will do; make the collops hot, put a glass of sherry in, and squeeze half a lemon; put a dust of sugar, and a little cayenne pepper.

Souties of Sole, with Sauce à la Reine.

BONE a pair of soles, and cut each fillet in three; butter a soutiespan and sprinkle it with pepper and salt, thyme chopped very fine, (but very little,) chopped parsley, and mushrooms; lay the soles on, and sprinkle them over; set them on a slow stove; a very few minutes will do them:

dish them round the dish, pour the sauce over them ; scrape the herbs from the pan, and put them to the sauce ; squeeze a lemon, and put a few drops of shalot vinegar.

A Fillet of Mutton with Haricot Beans. — See page 22.

Crockets.

CROCKETS are made the same way as risoles, only of a different shape ; put the small claw of a lobster in one end, and the broad part of the tail in the other, giving it the shape of a bird : dish them the same as risoles.

Small Mutton Pies. — See page 20.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

PARTRIDGES. — See page 7.

Turkey. — See page 8.

Rhenish Cream.

BEAT up the yolks of eight eggs very fine ; put a quart of jelly by a little at a time, then strain it through a lawn sieve ; stir it until near cold ; then put it into a mould : garnish with China orange.

Mince Pies. — See page 3.

French Beans. — See page 9.

Asparagus. — See page 10.

Small Puddings. — See Appendix.

Escaloped Oysters.

BUTTER the escalop shells with a brush ; put the oysters on to blanch, when they come to a boil then take them off, strain the liquor, and beard the oysters ; reduce the liquor by boiling ; put a little beshemell to it, and then the oysters ; give them a stir up, and put them into the escalop shells, with plenty of bread crumbs over them ; drop a little clarified butter on them, and put them in the oven to brown ; if the oven is not hot enough, brown them with a salamander.

Sea Kail.

SEA kail is tied up in bundles, like asparagus ; put a toast on the dish, and the sea kail on the toast : put a little melted butter over the kail.

Artichoke Bottoms.

ARTICHOKE bottoms are put to soke in warm water, for four hours ; change the water frequently ; when quite soft, trim them, and put a little coulis to them ; squeeze a lemon, and add a little sugar : if for meagre, use cream.

Larks as before directed.

Snipes the same as Woodcocks.

Lobster au Gratin.

CUT up a lobster, take the fish out, cut it in small pieces, and put it into a stewpan, with a little sauce tourney, pepper and salt, and a little anchovy essence ; mix it all together, split the tail and body shell ; put the lobster in, and cover it over with bread crumbs : drop clarified butter over the lobster, and put it in the oven to brown : if for meagre, use cream.

Dun Birds the same as before directed.

No. 8. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

A Blanquet of Fowl.—See page 48. Cut a few truffles in slices and add them to the fowl.

Lamb's Feet, with Asparagus Peas.

It will take twelve lamb's feet to make a corner dish; they are had ready scalded from the butcher's; take the worm from between the hoofs first, and then loosen the skin and gristle from the shank bone; then put them on in cold water, let them boil until the shank-bone will draw out; then cover the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon; put in the lamb's feet, and two lemons peeled and sliced; and half a pint of second stock: cover the feet over with bacon and paper; set the stewpan on a stove to simmer very gently, for an hour; when done, take them up, and lay them on a clean cloth to dry; then lay them round the dish, put the asparagus peas over the feet; the asparagus should be put into a stewpan, with as much stock as will barely cover them, and set on a stove to boil until the stock is quite reduced, (but not to burn to the bottom); then put beshemell according to what is wanted; set it by the side of a stove to make hot, but not to boil, as it would spoil the colour of the sauce by boiling.

Turkey boiled, with Oyster Sauce.

A TURKEY boiled and oyster sauce is done the same as a fowl: the turkey will take rather longer boiling.

A Bacon Chine and Greens.—See page 30,

A Souties of Hare.

CUT the back and legs of a hare into collops; flat them, and put them on a soutiespan that has been buttered and sprinkled with pepper and salt; put a glass of Madeira wine in the pan; a few minutes will do them. Do not put them on the fire until a few minutes before they are wanted; put them off the soutiespan on the dish ; the sauce should be made from the remainder of the hare, put into a stewpan, with lean ham, a few shalots, a faggot, a little mace, and a pint of good stock ; set it on the fire to simmer for an hour, strain it off, put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put flour to dry it up, and add the liquor from the bones of the hare ; let it boil for a few minutes, strain it through a tammy-sieve, slice about half a pound of truffles in, and put the liquor that the souties was done in ; squeeze a lemon, and put it over the hare : garnish with croutons, or paste.

Souties of Fish.

FILLET two haddocks, and cut them in collops, butter a soutiespan and sprinkle it with pepper and salt, flat the collops of fish, and put them on the soutiespan ; set them over a stove for about three minutes, turn them, and put them on a dish ; put the liquor that comes from the fish into a stewpan, and some beshemell ; a few drops of essence of anchovies, a few drops of garlic vinegar, a little lemon juice, and a dust of sugar ; put the sauce over the souties : garnish with paste, or croutons.

Haunch of Lamb and Chervil Sauce.

CUT a hind quarter of lamb into a haunch, lard it, and put it into a marinade ; cover it well with bacon and paper, put it in the oven to do ; one hour will do it : put the sauce in the dish, and the lamb on the sauce : first glaze the lamb.

Breast of Veal, braised.

BRAISE it as directed in page 2 : glaze it, and put ragout sauce under it.

A Ham Pie.

RAISE a pie according to the size of the ham that is intended for it ; lay a few slices of veal at the bottom of the pie, and some good force upon it, then put in the ham ; it should be the prime part of a Westphalia ham, braised until three parts done before it is put in the pie ; put plenty of force round the sides of it, cover it in ; it will take about two hours to bake : when done, pour off the fat, and put in some good coulis, with a glass of Madeira wine in it : it is good either hot or cold.

Amiens Pie.

RAISE a pie to match the ham-pie, bone two ducks, and fill them with farce; put them in a stewpan, with a little stock, cover them with bacon, and set them on a slow stove to simmer for an hour; then put them to cool in the liquor they were done in; when cold, put them in the pie; first, laying a few slices of veal at the bottom, and farce on the veal; put the ducks in, and the liquor, fat, and all that they were done in; cover them all over with bacon; the pie will take two hours baking. Put the bones and giblets of the ducks, and any other giblets that are handy, into a stewpan, with a faggot, a few blades of mace, a pint or sherry, a pint of stock, and about a dozen of shalots; set them on a stove to boil very slow for two hours, then strain it off, and skim the fat from it; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put flour to dry up the butter, then the liquor the bones, &c. &c. were boiled in: let it boil a few minutes, strain it through a tammy sieve, and put it in the pie.

N.B. Put about one pound of truffles in the pie before it goes in the oven; the truffles should be peeled, but not boiled: this pie is good either hot or cold.

A Neck of Venison and Roots.—See page 15.

A Neck of Mutton larded, and Endive.—See page 27.

A Souties of Pheasant and Truffles.

Cut the breasts of two pheasants into thin collops; flat them, and lay them on a soutiespan that has been buttered, put in a few chopped truffles, (if to be had,) and a few spoonful of sherry; set them on a stove for a few minutes, at dishing time. All souties should be left until the last minute; the sauce is made as follows: put about a quarter of a pound of lean ham, cut fine, into a stewpan, with the bones of the pheasants, a few shalots, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a blade or two of mace, and a pint of stock; set the stewpan on the stove to boil very slow for an hour, then strain it off; put a bit of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put flour to thicken it; stir it a few minutes over the fire, then put in the liquor from the pheasants bones, let it boil a few minutes, and strain it through a tammy; put a few sliced truffles in it, a little lemon juice, and a dust of sugar; put the souties on the dish, and the sauce over it; garnish with paste.

A Souties of Sweetbread, and Piquant Sauce.

Cut two long sweetbreads that are about half done into thin slices; butter a soutiespan, and sprinkle it with chopped parsley, shalot, truffles, or mushrooms, and a little pepper and salt; lay the sweetbreads on, and set them over a stove to simmer for five or six minutes, then turn them, and let them simmer as many more minutes, then dish them round the dish; empty the soutiespan into the stewpan that has the sauce in, finish the sauce, and put it in the middle of the dish.

Tongue and Greens.

BOIL a neat's tongue for three hours; then peel it, and trim the root so as to make it stand on the dish; put greens round the dish, and the tongue in the middle: glaze the tongue.

Boiled Chickens and Tarragon Sauce.— See page 14.

Tenderones of Veal.— See page 12.

N.B. A la poulet means to put beshemell over them, or sauce à la reine.

Calves Ears.

ABOUT ten ears will make a corner dish; the ears should be particularly well cleaned, so as to be quite free from hair inside as well as out; then fill them with force-meat, and put them in a stewpan, with a white braise; they will take about an hour or better: when done, take them up, and put them on a clean cloth to soak the fat from them; then put them round the dish, pour white Italian sauce over them, and a little in the middle of the dish: garnish with croutons.

N.B. Asparagus peas are a proper sauce for them.

Soup Julian.

SOUP Julian is nearly the same as soup sauté: for which, see page 38, only leaving out the lettuce and chervil.

Sirloin of Beef.— See page 7.

SECOND COURSE.

Pheasants, Roast.— See page 18.

Savoy Cake.— See Appendix.

Tartlets in a Basket.— See page 23.

French Beans.— See page 9.

Spinage.— See page 45.

Mince Pies.— See page 8.

Damson Tourte.

SHEET a tartpan with puff-paste, and put preserved damsons in, and cross bar it.

Maccaroni. — See page 10.

Woodcocks. — See page 24.

Plovers.

PLOVERS should be rather under done; about ten minutes will do them; put gravy in the dish: garnish with water-cresses.

Fat Livers. — See page 17.

Asparagus. — See page 8.

Currant Tourte.

SHEET a tartpan with puff-paste and put preserved currants in and cross-bar it.

Compote of Pears.

PEEL the pears, cut them down the middle, and take out the core; put a pound of sugar on to boil in about half a pint of water, skim it until it is quite clear, then put a pint of Port wine to it; put the pears into a preserving pan, and pour the sugar and wine over them; put in about two dozen of cloves, cover them over with paper, and let them boil gently until tender; they will take two hours: this quantity of sugar and wine will do for twelve pears.

Compote of Golden Pippins.

PEEL the pippins very thin and even, and put them into water; put the peelings into a stewpan with half a pint of water, half a pint of white wine, a pound of lump sugar, a little cinnamon, and two lemons cut in slices; set the stewpan on the stove to boil very slow for an hour, (core the pippins, and put the cores in with the peelings, &c.) strain it through a lawn sieve, put the pippins into a small preserving pan, lay them in even, not one upon another; then put the sirup over them, and set them on a stove to simmer very gently until they are tender; then take them up with a slice, and put them on a dish to cool; reduce the sirup to as much as will cover them on the dish: garnish with sliced preserved Seville orange.

Hare. — See page 18.

		A Capon.

No. 9. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

A TUREEN of Turtle.— See Appendix.

A Loin of Veal à la beshemell.— See page 14.

White Collops of Turtle.

BUTTER a soutiespan and sprinkle it over with turtle herbs; cut the collops and flat them; put them on a soutiespan, and set them on a stove for a few minutes; turn them, and put them into a stewpan with beshemell in it; scrape all the herbs from the soutiespan, season it, squeeze half a lemon in it, and put a little sugar: garnish with paste.

Intestines of Turtle.— See Entrails, in the Appendix.

N.B. Put onion sauce over them the same as rabbit.

A Goose.— See page 15.

Neck of Venison.— See page 15.

A Raised Pie, with Mutton and Potatoes.— See page 35.

A Timball of Macaroni and Chicken.

BOIL the macaroni in broth until tender, then put some beshemell and grated cheese, and a chicken cut up as for a fricassee: (a chicken that has been left from dinner the day before will do;) put it to the macaroni and make it hot, then put it to cool; butter the mould (that is intended for the timball) and put in some bread crumbs, or vermicelli; shake it about, what does not stick to the mould, turn out; then sheet it with trimmings of puff-paste that has a little flour worked in it; when the macaroni and chicken is cold, put it in the mould; cover it in, and put it in the oven; one hour will bake it: the oven should not be over hot; when done, turn it out.

Fricandéau of Turtle.

FRICANDEAU of turtle is done the same as a fricandéau of veal: put sorrel sauce under it.

Turtle braised as Chickens.

CUT two pieces of the lean meat of the turtle, the same size as for a fricandeau; blanch them by putting them into cold water; then cover the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon; put in the pieces of turtle, put slices of lemon over them, and sheets of bacon; about a pint of stock, a few onions, a faggot of turtle herbs; set the stewpan on the stove to simmer for an hour; then take them up and pour sauce à la reine over them: garnish with white brocoli or cauliflower.

A Ham braised. — See page 14.

Fillet of Veal à la Flamond. — See page 20.

Turtle Fins.

THEY should be served in a deep dish, something like a tureen dish. For dressing, see the Appendix.

Sucking Pig.

PUT chopped sage and bread crumbs in the inside; put it on the spit, when it has been at the fire for a few minutes, rub it over with sweet oil, then flour it well, do not baste it, but keep flouring it every five minutes; it will take about an hour and a half, but that depends on the size: about ten minutes before it is taken up, cut the head off, and take it off the spit; split the head, take out the brains, and cut the tongue out; peel it, and chop that and the brains together; put them into a stewpan, with a little of the crumb of bread, and sage from the inside; put a little stock and melted butter to it; when the pig is done, take it off the spit, rub all the flour from it, and wipe it over with a cloth that has been dipped in salad oil; then split it down the back and lay it on the dish; send the sauce in a boat: egg sauce is sent with it as well as other sauce.

Leg of Lamb and Cucumbers. — See page 21.

Rump of Beef à la Mantua.

TRIM a rump of beef, daube it, and put it in a marinade for twelve hours; then put it into a brown braise; put four large carrots into braise along with the beef, and four bundles of cabbage; when the beef is done, take it up, and put it in the oven for a few minutes; then glaze it; put sauce Allemande on the dish and the cabbage, and a piece of carrot between each bundle of cabbage.

Turtle roasted as Sturgeon. — See the Appendix. (Put a little of the turtle soup in the sauce.)

Grenedines of Turtle.

GRENEDES of turtle are done the same as veal grenedines; larded, braised, and put French beans under them.

A Chatreuse.

SHEET the mould with sheets of bacon, cut a carrot in leaves, or any flower to ornament the bottom of the mould; then lay in a layer of spinage, scoop some carrot as long as the mould is deep, (the carrots should be boiled first, and all the other vegetables,) then trim as many heads of celery; roll out spinage the same length and thickness, then put them upright in the mould, first a carrot, and next spinage, and so on; then have some good force-meat, and put it all round the sides and bottom of the mould, and fill up the middle with cauliflower and beshemell; put a bit of any kind of paste on the top, and egg it over to bind it to the force-meat; then put the mould into a stewpan of water, so as to come up to the middle of the mould; then put the stewpan in the oven for about an hour; when done, turn it out, and take the bacon off, and soak the fat up that runs on the dish; put a little white Italian sauce round the bottom of the dish.

Beef-steak Pie.

RAISE a small pie so as to match the mutton pie; cut some beef-steaks thin, butter a soutespan, and sprinkle it with pepper and salt, shalots, thyme, and parsley; put the beef-steaks on, and the pan on the fire for a few minutes; then put them to cool; when quite cold, put them in the pie; scrape all the herbs in, cover the pie, and ornament as you please; it will take an hour and a half; when done, take the top off, and put in some coulis.

A Bacon Sparerib. — See page 42.

Scorch Collops of Turtle are done the same as of veal. — See page 49.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

Wild Ducks. — See page 16.

Snipes. — See Woodcocks, page 24.

Partridges. — See page 7.

A Capon.

A CAPON will take about half an hour to roast.

Gum Paste Basket of Pastry.—See page 23.

Wax Basket of Prawns.—See page

Asparagus and French beans.—See pages 8, and 9.

Cheesecakes and Mince Pies.—See pages 32 and 8.

Petals — See page 32.

Salsifie, fried.

SALSIFIE should be boiled until quite tender, then peeled and put into batter, then into hot lard to fry; if for meagre, use clarified butter; it should be fried of a light brown.

Cauliflower and Queen Sauce.—See page 18.

Sea Kail the same as Asparagus.—See page 8.

Savoy Cake.—See Appendix.

Chantilly Basket.

STICK ratifies on a dish, (in the shape of a basket,) with carmel sugar; a few hours before it is sent to table, put in the same preparation as is for the bottom of a trifle, and whipped cream at top.

No. 10. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

TURTLE.—See Appendix.

Semels of Turtle.

Cut the lean flesh of the turtle into round pieces about the size and thickness of a crown-piece; put about a quarter of a pound of fresh butter into a stewpan, with pepper and salt; chopped mushrooms, parsley, thyme, notted and sweet marjoram, and a very little basil; set the stewpan on a stove to melt the butter; then let it get three parts cold, put some clarified butter on a soutiespan, dip the turtle first in the butter and herbs, and then in bread crumbs; put it on the soutiespan, then on the stove to finish: dish them round the dish, and the sauce in the middle.

Petit Pâtés of Turtle.

MINCE the white collops that were left from the day before, warm them, and fill the pâtés.

A Leg of Lamb boiled, and Spinage.—See page 26.

Three Fowls and Oyster Sauce.—See page 22.

Sheep's Rumps and Kidneys.—See page 37.

Sausages and Sour Crout.

THE sausages are had at the poulterers, and the sour crout at the oil shop; the sausages should be fried.

Fillets of Fowl larded, and Mushrooms.

WHAT is meant by fillets of fowl is all the flesh of the breast left to the wing; lard them and put them on to blanch in cold water; when they come to a boil, take them off; put the bones, and any other trimming, into a stewpan, with a few onions, a faggot, a little mace, and about a pint of stock; lay some sheets of bacon over it, and the fillets of fowl on it; take the bones from the legs, and fill them with force-meat; sew them up, and put them along with the fillets; when done, glaze them, and put mushrooms on the dish, and the fillets and legs on the mushrooms. For mushrooms. — See page 17.

Veal Cutlets larded, and Sorrel Sauce.

Cut six cutlets from the best end of a neck of veal; trim them very neat, lard them, and put them on to blanch; when they come to a boil, take them up; put any trimming of veal that is at hand into a stewpan, a few onions, a carrot, and a faggot; put bacon over them, and a pint of second stock; lay the cutlets in, and put bacon over them; set them on a stove for an hour, then take the cutlets up, and put them in the oven for a few minutes; glaze, and dish them on sorrel sauce; for which, see the Appendix.

Stewed Beef (see page 18) and Roots. — See Appendix.

Loin of Veal. — See page 49.

Lamb's Heart, Sweetbreads, and French Beans.

LARD twelve lamb's sweetbreads and blanch them off; cover the bottom of a stewpan with fat bacon, lay the sweetbreads in, and put a little stock; cover them over with bacon and paper; when done, glaze them; put the French beans on the dish first, and the sweetbreads on them: garnish with paste.

N.B. They will take about fifteen minutes doing.

Fillet of Rabbit larded, and Asparagus Peas.

FILLET two rabbits, by leaving the fillet of the back to the leg; lard them, and blanch them off; put the bones, &c. into a stewpan, the same as for the fillets of fowls; they will take about half an hour; finish the same as the fillets of fowls.

Asparagus Peas. — See page 53.

Fillet of Pork (see page 13) and Spanish Sauce. — See Appendix.

A Roulard of Mutton (see page 15) and Cucumber Sauce. — See Appendix.

Boiled Fowl and Oysters. — See page 22.

Ham braised. — See page 14.

Turtle Steaks.

Cut the turtle in the shape of cutlets, dip them in clarified butter that they should not stick to the gridiron, season them with pepper and salt; a few minutes will do them; put no gravy in the dish; put them round the dish: they should go to table as hot as possible.

A Souties of Liver of a Turtle.

BUTTER a soutiespan, sprinkle it with fine herbs, chopped truffles, and put a glass of Madeira wine on it; cut the liver in slices, and lay them on the soutiespan; sprinkle them with pepper and salt, turn them, and the liver will do in a very short time; put it round the dish; put the kidney and hearts in the middle, and piquant sauce over them: scrape the herbs from the soutiespan into the sauce.

A Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

Woodcocks. — See page 24.

Rabbits. — See page 10.

Wild Ducks. — See page 16.

Hare. — See page 18.

Jelly. — See page 31.

Blanc Mange.

PUT an ounce of isinglass into a stewpan, with half a pint of water, let it simmer very gently until the isinglass is quite dissolved; then strain it into a pint of cream, and a pint of milk, mixed; put the peel of a lemon in, and a little cinamon and sugar; let it boil for fifteen minutes, blanch two ounces of sweet almonds, and half an ounce of bitter almonds; pound them until they are fine enough to go through a tammy; then mix them with the milk and cream, &c. let all boil for a few minutes, then rub it through a tammy, so as to get all the almonds through; then put a glass of white brandy to it; when getting cold, put it in a mould.

N.B. When a larger quantity is wanted, use almonds and isinglass accordingly.

Ham and Toast.

CUT some ham in the shape of cutlets; (ham that has been dressed will do as well;) cut bread the same shape, and fry it of a nice gold colour; the ham should only be made hot; lay the ham and toast round the dish, one between the other; put a little coulis in the middle of the dish.

Mushrooms. — See page 17.

Mince Pies. — See page 8.

Small Puddings. — See Appendix.

Asparagus and Eggs.

Cut the asparagus (that has been left from last dinner,) the same as for peas; break eight eggs into a bason, beat them up, put a little pepper and salt, and the asparagus; put it into a stewpan, with two ounces of butter, and keep stirring it all the time it is on the fire; when it becomes thick, it is done; then put a toast on the dish, and the eggs and asparagus upon the toast.

N.B. This should not be done until the second course is leaving the kitchen.

French Beans and White Sauce. — See page 9.

Potted Hare. — See page 10.

Brawn is had from the fishmongers.

Mushrooms broiled.

Trim, pepper and salt them, and put them on a sou-tiespan, with a little butter over them; put them in the oven, and then on the gridiron, for a few minutes; put the liquor that comes from the mushrooms on the dish when sent to table.

Cederata Cream. — See page 33.

China Orange Jelly.

Rub the bloom of six China oranges upon half a pound of sugar; peel three Seville oranges and three lemons very thin; put them into a stewpan, with a pint of water, one ounce of isinglass, a little cinnamon, a few coriander seeds, and a few cloves; boil all together until the isinglass is dissolved; then strain it in a bason; put one pint of white wine, and a glass of brandy to it, the juice of the Seville and China oranges and lemons, and the sugar that was rubbed to the China oranges; keep stirring it until near cold, then put it into a mould; garnish with China orange sliced.

N.B. If you should have clear jelly to spare, that will answer the purpose better than making it from the isinglass; rub the bloom of six China oranges upon a quarter of a pound of sugar, squeeze the oranges, strain the juice, and put that and the sugar to a quart of clear jelly; keep stirring it until cold, then put it in the mould.

No. 11, BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

TURTLE. — See Appendix.

Fish. — See Appendix.

Turkey and Truffles. — See page 4.

Crockets — See page 50.

Petit Pâtés. — See Appendix.

Fillet of Veal à la Flamond. — See page 20.

Chine of Lamb and Cucumber Sauce.

TIE the lamb on the spit; butter, salt, and paper it; put it to the fire, and baste it well; it will take an hour and a half; put the sauce on the dish, and the lamb upon it.

Fricassee of Chicken. — See page 37.

A Souties of Mutton. — See page 38.

Calve's Head, hashed and grilled. — See page 3.

Chump of Veal à la Daube.

CUT the chump of veal from the loin; cut the eitch bone out; daube it in the same manner as a rump of beef; then tie it up tight; put the bones and other trimmings into a stewpan, with a pint of stock; put the veal in, and slice lemon on it, with fat bacon and paper; set it on a slow stove to simmer for two hours, then take it up and glaze it; put the sauce on the dish, and then the veal.

Turtle. — See Appendix.

A raised Pigeon Pie.

RAISE a pie which will hold eight pigeons; season them with pepper and salt and fine herbs; put a few beef steaks at the bottom of the pie, then a layer of force-meat, and then put in the pigeons, with half a dozen hard eggs, or more; it will take two hours to bake: when done, put a little coulis in.

A Pâté à la François. — See page 38.

A Fillet of Mutton and Haricot Beans — See page 22.

A Brisket of Beef (see page 13) and Roots; — See Appendix.

A Souties of Veal.

CUT the veal in the shape of cutlets; butter a soutiespan and sprinkle it with chopped mushrooms, shalots, parsley, thyme, pepper and salt; lay the veal on, pour a little clarified butter over it, and sprinkle with the above herbs, &c. the veal should be put on the soutiespan at least two hours before wanted, to absorb the flavour of the herbs: lay the veal round the dish, and put the cucumber sauce in the middle.

Fricassee of Rabbits, and Onion Sauce.

CUT one or two rabbits up in the same manner as you would a chicken, by cutting off the legs and wings; the back will make three neat pieces; put them on to blanch: when they come to a boil take them off, and wash them in several waters; there is a skin that gives it a dirty look, which must be taken off; then trim the ragged parts of it; cover the bottom of a stewpan with fat bacon; peel two lemons, and cut them in slices; put the rabbits in the stewpan, and the lemon over it; put in about a pint or better of second stock; cover the rabbits with bacon, and put paper over the bacon; set it on a stove to do very gently for half an hour or better; then peel about twelve or fourteen large onions, and put them on to boil; when they come to a boil change the water, and put some cold to the onions; put them on to boil again, and when they begin to boil take them off the fire, and throw them into cold water; then pull off the outside of them, and put the onions into cold water; set them on the stove to boil until they are quite tender; when done, rub the onions through a tammy; put them into a stewpan, with about two ounces of butter, a table spoonful of flour, half a pint of good cream, and a little salt; set the stewpan on the fire, keep stirring it until it boils, then take the rabbits up, and put them on a cloth to dry the fat from them; put them on the dish, and the sauce over them.

A Neck of Venison, roasted. — See page 3.

A Leg of Pork à la Boisseau. — See page 47.

Petit Pâtés of Oysters.

PUT the oysters on to blanch, then beard them, and cut each oyster in about six pieces; put a bit of butter into a stewpan; when melted, put as much flour as will dry it up; then put in the liquor of the oysters and a little cream; squeeze a lemon, and put a little pepper and salt; then put in the oysters, make them hot, and fill the pâtés.

Risoles. — See page 47.

No. 12. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

SOUP and Boulie. — See page 31.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

Chatreuse. — See page 61.

A Grenade.

SHEET a mould, (that will match the chatreuse,) with bars of bacon; put force-meat round the sides, and at the bottom; fill it with any kind of poultry that has been left from the last dinner; put the mould into a stewpan of water, then put it in the oven for one hour, turn it out, and put coulis round the sides of the dish.

N.B. Put paste on the top before it is put in the oven, the same as the chatreuse.

Neck of Pork, roasted. — See page 21.

Two Chickens à la Reine. — See page 42.

A Blanquet of Fowl.

CUT the breasts of two cold fowls into collops; have some beshemel quite hot, and seasoned; put the fowl in, but do not let it boil: put it in the middle of the dish, and garnish with paste.

A Civet of Hare. — See page 26.

A Fillet of Beef, larded, &c. — See page 29.

A Fricandean of Fowl and Sorrel Sauce. — See page 29.

Shoulder of Lamb, larded, and French Beans. — See page 18.

Neck of Mutton, larded, and Cucumber Sauce. — See page 27.

Two Woodcocks à la Tartar.

CUT up two woodcocks that have been roasted; put the wings, breast, and legs into a stewpan; the back and inside into another, with six shalots, half a pint of red wine, half a pint of stock, and a couple of bay leaves, (if there are any odd bits of snipe put them in); set the stewpan on the fire to boil very slow, for half an hour, and then strain it off; put a small piece of butter into a stewpan, when melted put a little flour, (the sauce should be rather thinner than coulis,) and the liquor the bones of the woodcock was boiled in: let it boil for a few minutes, keep stirring it all the while, then take it from the fire, and squeeze a Seville orange in; put a little Cayenne pepper and salt, if wanted; then put the sauce to the woodcock, and put it to the side of the stove for a few minutes; be careful that it does not boil. Garnish with paste or croutons.

A Blanquet of Veal.

A BLANQUET of veal is done the same as a blanquet of fowl.

N.B. Cut the veal either from the fillet, or a neck if there is a cold one.

Two Fowls and Oyster Sauce. — See page 22.

Ham, braised. — See page 14.

Timball of Maccaroni. — See page 59.

Soup of any kind.

Mince Pies.—See page 8.

Chantilla Cake.

Cut a piece out of the top of a Savoy cake, and scoop out the inside; put it on the dish that is to be sent to table, pour Lisbon wine into the cake, and as the wine soaks out, pour it over the cake with a spoon; when the cake has absorbed as much wine as it can, pour the remainder off the dish, and pour custard down the sides, and put some in the middle; whip up some cream, the same as for a trifle, and put it in the middle of the cake: blanch a few sweet almonds, cut them in quarters, and stick them round the edges, and on the sides of the cake.

Rice Fritters.

Boil the rice in milk, put a little cinnamon, and the peel of a lemon; sweeten it with sifted sugar; when the rice is done, take out the lemon peel and cinnamon, and stir a piece of butter in, and four eggs, a glass of brandy, and a little nutmeg; butter a pewter dish and spread the rice on it; when cold, cut it out with a cutter of what shape you think proper; then dip the rice in egg, and then in bread crumbs; do them over twice; have some hot lard, or clarified butter, and put them in to fry; when done of a nice light brown, put them on white kitchen paper, and sift some fine sugar over them, and hold a salamander over to glaze them.

Anchovy Toast.

Cut thin toast, and cut it out with a cutter in what shape you think proper; fry it in clarified butter, wash the anchovies, and pound them in a mortar, with a little fresh butter; then take them out rub them through a sieve, and spread them on the toast; wash a few anchovies, cut them in quarters, and lay them on the toast: garnish with picked parsley.

A Dressed Crab, hot or cold.

Pick a crab and put the fish into a stewpan, with a bit of butter, a little anchovy essence, mustard, oil, and vinegar, a little elder vinegar, and a few bread crumbs; mix it well; if for hot, put it over the stove, and return it into the shell; put bread crumbs over it, and a little clarified butter dropped on with a paste brush; put it in the oven, and brown it with a salamander: if for cold, put no bread crumbs over it; garnish it with the small claws, made into a ring; when only picked, put the fish that is in the shell on one side, and what is in the claws on the other: garnish with picked parsley round the shell, and small claws round the dish.

Carmel and Gum Paste Basket. — See Appendix.

Blanc Mange. — See page 66.

A Dressed Lobster, either hot or cold.

TAKE the fish from the tail and claws as whole as possible; the tail should be split: lay it on a dish. If for cold, make the sauce as follows: bruise the yolks of two eggs (that have been boiled) with the back of a spoon, put a few drops of water to them as it will help soften the eggs; when they are rubbed quite fine, put a little mustard, oil, and vinegar, and a little anchovy essence, a little pepper, and a little elder vinegar; put it over the lobster: garnish with parsley. If for hot, put the lobster into a stewpan, with a little Italian sauce, and a little anchovy essence; dish it, and garnish with croutons.

Loin of Veal à la Beshemell. — See page 14.

Cutlets of Salmon and Caper Sauce.

SPLIT a middle piece of salmon, take the skin off, and cut the salmon into cutlets; put some butter into a stewpan, and a few chopped shalots, mushrooms, parsley and thyme, and a little pepper and salt; when melted, put it to get about half cold; in the mean time, put a little clarified butter on a soutiespan; dip the salmon into the butter and herbs, and then in bread crumbs, set them on a soutiespan, and finish them the same as any other cutlets; put them round the dish, and the sauce in the middle; put a few capers into a little coulis, a few drops of anchovy essence, squeeze a lemon, and put a little dust of sugar: if for meagre, make the sauce from fish stock.

Fillets of Turbot, with Sauce à la Italian.

CUT the remainder of a turbot that is left from the day before, into fillets, (or rather like collops,) make the sauce hot, and put the fish on the dish, and the sauce over it; the sauce will heat the turbot without putting it on the fire.

Chickens à la Reine. — See page 42.

Leg of Lamb and Spinage. — See page 26.

Beef Olives, and scooped Potatoes.

THIS potatoes should be scooped with a turnip scoop, and fried of a nice brown in clarified butter, and put into some coulis: they should not boil in the sauce. See Beef Olives, page 36.

Currie of Rabbits. — See page 16.

Goose. — See page 15.

Neck of Venison stewed, and Roots. — See page 15.

Rump of Beef à la Mantua.

TIE up a rump of beef and put it into a brown braise to stew for four hours, (but should barely simmer); when it has been in the braise three hours, then put in the savoy's that have been blanched, squeezed very dry, and tied up in bundles; when the beef is done, take it up and glaze it; put sauce Allemande on the dish, the cabbage round, and the beef in the middle.

A Fillet of Veal à la Flamond. — See page 20.

A Fillet of Mutton and Haricot Beans. — See page 36.

A Pheasant braised, and Cabbage. — See page 42.

Neck of Veal à la Espagnol.

TRIM a neck of veal very neat by sawing off the chine bone, and about two inches of the rib bones; put it on to blanch, then put it into a white braise, and let it simmer for two hours; take it up and glaze it; put Spanish sauce on the dish, then the veal, and four Spanish onions round it.

No. 15. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Fillets of Fowl, larded. — See page 64.

An Equivce of Fowl or Veal, and Sweetbread.

MINCE the white part of a cold fowl that has been either boiled or roasted, have some beshemell in a stewpan; when hot, put the fowl in, squeeze a lemon, and put a few drops of shalot vinegar, and a dust of sugar; put the mince on the dish, and the fillets on the mince; this will do for pâtés, risoles, and crockets, or for a dish: garnish with sippets of bread.

Sweetbreads larded, and Sorrel Sauce.

LARD two heart sweetbreads, and finish the same as lamb sweetbreads. —

Petit Pâtés. — See Appendix.

Crockets. — See page 50.

Ham braised. — See page 14.

Two Necks of Lamb à la Chevaux de Frize. — See page 48.

Souties of Hare. — See page 53.

Souties of Fowl and Mushrooms.

CUT the breast of two fowls into collops, flat them, butter a soutiespan, sprinkle it with chopped mushrooms, lay on the fowl, and squeeze a lemon over the souties, by way of keeping the fowl white; when done, put them round the dish, and mushrooms in the middle.

Raised Maccaroni Pie.

RAISE the pie according to fancy, and fill it with bran; bake it, and take out the bran very clean; then fill the pie with maccaroni, put grated Parmasan cheese on the top of the maccaroni; send no cover to the pie, and be careful not to have the macaroni thin : the sauce should hang to the macaroni when taken up with a spoon.

A raised French Pie.— See page 38.

Souties of Rabbit.— See Souties of Fowl, page 85.

Souties of Pheasant.— See page 55.

Chine of Mutton.— See page 16.

Fillet of Veal à la Beshemell.

A FILLET of veal that has been roasted the day before will do for this ; cut the middle out, and if there should be any cracks, put a little force-meat to fill them up ; either cut the veal into collops, or mince it, and put it into beshemell ; (if the veal is cold, put it into the oven for about an hour before the emince is put in,) put the emince in the place where it was taken out ; put a few bread crumbs over it, drop a little clarified butter over the bread crumbs, and put it in the oven for a quarter of an hour ; if not brown, hold a salamander over it. If the veal is cut in collops, put no bread crumbs over them : put beshemell round the sides of the dish.

Risoles.— See page 47.

Petit Pâtés of Mutton.

FILL the pâtés with an emince of mutton, done as follows : take the fillet from the under part of a chine of mutton, mince it, and put a little coulis to it ; squeeze a lemon, put a few drops of shalot vinegar, and a dust of sugar.

N.B. Have the coulis hot, put the mince in, do not put it on the fire.

Grenedines of Veal.

GRENEDES of veal are cut in the shape of a cutlet, and larded, and finished the same as a fricandeau ; put the endive on the dish, the grenedines round the sides, and one in the middle : garnish with paste or croutons.

Lamb's Sweetbreads.— See page 65.

Soup and Bouillie.— See page 31.

Roast Beef.— See page 7.

Neck of Pork. — See page 21.

Goose. — See page 15.

Beef Collops.

BEEF collops are cut either from the inside of the sirloin, or from the rump, the same size as veal collops, flat them, and put them on a soutiespan to pass off; sprinkle the pan with a few fine herbs and a little basil; have some coulis in a stewpan, put the collops into the coulis, scrape all the herbs from the soutiespan into the stewpan, squeeze a Seville orange, and put a little sugar.

N.B. Cut about half a pound of truffles into slices, and put them to the collops.

Salmie of Woodcocks,

Cut up the woodcocks, and lay the legs, wings, and breast in a stewpan; put the trimmings into another stewpan with a little stock, a few shalots, and about a gill of Port wine; set the stewpan on the fire to boil slow for half an hour, then strain it through a tammy sieve into the stewpan that has the woodcocks in ; do not put it on the fire ; make the dish quite hot before you put the salmie on ; squeeze an orange in before you put it on the dish.

Brisket of Beef stewed, and Roots. — See page 13.

Breast of Veal à la Italian.

BRAISE a breast of veal until quite tender ; when done, take it up, and dry it with a cloth ; put the sauce over it : the sauce should consist of coulis, sliced truffles, a few small girkins, a few mushrooms, and a glass of Madeira wine : squeeze an orange in it.

A Neck of Mutton with a Purée of Potatoes. — See page 4.

Ox Cheek. — See page 30.

Hodge Podge.

HODGE podge is made as follows : bone two fowls, and cut them in quarters ; cut half a dozen thick steaks from a loin of mutton, and take all the bone out ; cut an equal quantity of brisket of beef that has been stewed, and about a pound of the brisket part of a breast of veal, cut in thin slices ; put all into a stewpan, with about a pound of lean ham cut the same as the veal ; put the ham at the bottom of the pot, then the veal and mutton, and the fowl and beef at the top ; put a pint of water, and set the stewpan on the fire to boil very gently for two hours ; then fill it up with clear second stock or broth ; skim it very clean, and let it boil gently by the side of a stove for about half an hour ; have scooped turnips, carrots, and button onions, peeled, and three heads of celery cut in small pieces ; put all into a stewpan, with about half a pint of stock, and set it on a stove to boil very slow until the stock is reduced ; then fill up the stewpan with stock, and let it boil for a few minutes ; then put the roots to the meat, and let it boil for a few minutes ; put it in the tureen, with a small lump of sugar.

Asparagus. — See page 8.

Coffee Cream. — See page 39.

Compote of Pears. — See page 57.

Compote of Apples. — See page 57.

Apple Fritters.

PEEL the apples and cut them in thick slices ; put them in white wine and sugar to soak for two hours, then make a batter with four eggs, flour, cream, and the wine and sugar from the apples ; when well beat up, put the apples in, then put some clean lard in a stewpan, and when hot, put the apples in, one piece at a time ; when of a nice brown, take them up, and put them on the back of a sieve to drain the fat from them ; then lay them on a sheet of white paper, and sift some fine sugar over them ; hold a salamander over the fritters until the sugar is melted, then dish them on a napkin : if for meagre, fry in butter.

Spanish Fritters.

GRATE two lemons with a fine grater ; put it into a stewpan, with a little water, a bit of cinnamon, and four or five cloves ; set the stewpan on the stove to boil for a few minutes, then take out the spice, and put about two ounces of butter ; when melted, put in about four spoonsful of flour, and one of sifted sugar ; keep stirring it over the fire for a few minutes, then take it off, and break in six eggs, one at a time ; keep beating it up until all the eggs are in, then beat it up for a few minutes, until it becomes a nice smooth batter, and then put in a glass of brandy ; put some lard into a stewpan, make it hot, and drop the batter in with a tea spoon ; when they are of a nice brown, take them up, and put them on the back of a sieve ; sift sugar over them, and dish them on a napkin.

FIRST COURSE.

VERMICELLI Soup. — See page 16.

Loin of Veal. — See page 49.

Tenderones of Veal and Truffles. — See page 12.

Pork Cutlets and mashed Potatoes.

Cut the cutlets either from the neck or loin; if from a neck, scrape the bone, and cut the rind and part of the fat; put them on the gridiron, season them with pepper and salt; put the mashed potatoes on the dish first, and the cutlets round the potatoes.

Chickens à la Reine. — See page 24.

Bacon Chine, and Greens. — See page 30.

Lamb Cutlets larded, Breast rolled, and French Beans.

LARD eight lamb cutlets, blanch them off, and lay bacon on the bottom of a stewpan; put the cutlets in, and about half a pint of stock; cover them with sheets of bacon, and paper over the bacon; set them on a slow stove; put a little lighted charcoal on the cover of the stewpan to raise the bacon; bone the breast of lamb, and beat it with the flatter; brush it over with egg, sprinkle a little pepper and salt over it; and spread some good force-meat over it; roll it up, and tie it up with pack thread; put it into a white braise; it will take about two hours; then take it up and dry it with a cloth, and glaze it; take the cutlets up and put them in the oven for a few minutes, then glaze them, and put the French beans on the dish, the cutlets round the dish, and the breast of lamb in the middle. For preparing of the French beans, see page 9.

Three Sweetbreads larded, and an Emince.

LARD the sweetbreads and blanch them off; put the trimmings of any meat, that is convenient, into a stewpan, and about a pint of stock; lay sheets of bacon over the meat; put in the sweetbreads and cover them with bacon and paper ; set them on a slow stove, put a little fire on the cover of the stewpan ; they will take about half an hour ; when done, finish the same as other lardings ; put the emince on the dish, and the sweetbreads on the emince : garnish with either croutons, or paste. The emince may be either fowl, veal, or sweetbread.

Two Ducks braised, and olives. — See page 27.

N.B. The olives should be pared as close to the stone as possible, and let the paring be all in one piece, so that when it is boiled, it will come into the shape of an olive ; boil them in water for a few minutes, strain them, and put Italian sauce to them ; put the olives round the dish.

Brisket of Beef stewed, (see page 13) and Roots. — See Appendix.

Fillet of Sturgeon, and Sauce Royal.

TAKE the skin off a piece of sturgeon of about a pound or better ; cut it in long slices, (the same as you would salmon for rolling) flat them, and make a farce with a part of the sturgeon and scraped fat bacon, a few sweet herbs, a roll soaked in cream, and the white of an egg beat up to a froth ; mix all together in a mortar, the egg last ; season with pepper and salt, and put a very little bit of garlic to the farce ; spread the farce on the sturgeon, roll it up, and finish it the same as fillet of sole ; put the sauce on the dish, and then the sturgeon : if for meagre, do not use bacon, and make the sauce with fish stock.

Neck of Veniſon, roast. — See page 36.

Leg of Lamb, roast, and Cucumbers. — See page 21.

Calves Feet, with Asparagus Peas.

BONE four calves feet, and put them on to boil for jelly stock; take them out when quite tender, and put them in cold water; when cold, trim them, and put them in a stewpan, with a few spoonſful of stock; put them by the ſide of a ſtove; when warm, take them up, and lay them on a cloth to dry, then put them on a diſh, and ſauce over them. For ſauce, ſee page 53.

Legs of Fowl au Gratin.

CUT the legs and wings from two or three cold fowls that has been left from laſt dinner, or ſupper, (either boiled, or roaſt fowls will do;) put a quarter of a pound of butter in a ſtewpan, and chopped paſſley, thyme, ſhalots, muſhrooms, and pepper and ſalt; when the butter is melted, break in two eggs, and beat them up well with the butter and herbs; dip the legs of the fowl in, and then roll them in bread crumbs, do them twice over; then have ſome clean lard in a ſtewpan, when hot, put the fowl to fry of a nice gold colour; when the fowls are taken up, put in ſome paſſley (that has been well dried) into fry; put the paſſley in the middle of the diſh, and the legs and wings of the fowl round the paſſley.

Giblet Soup. — See page 6.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

WILD Ducks. — See page 16.

Larks. — See page 9.

Snipes. — See page 24.

A Souffle of Ginger.

Put a quart of milk and cream on to boil; put the peel of two lemons, a little cinnamon, and lump ſugar ſufficient to make it ſweet; let it boil for half an hour, then put it to cool, and put a quarter of a pound of butter in a ſtewpan,

(that will hold two quarts), and set it on the fire to melt; when melted, put in as much flour as will dry up the butter, keep stirring it over the fire until it leaves the bottom of the stewpan; then take it off, and break in ten eggs, one at a time; keep stirring it, until the egg is mixt well with the flour and butter, and mix all the eggs the same way, until it becomes a thick batter; then put a sufficient quantity of the milk and cream that has been boiled, beat it up well together, (otherwise the eggs would separate in the boiling); when well mixt, put half a pound of West India preserved ginger, cut in small pieces, a large glass of brandy, and a little nutmeg; butter a savoy cake-mould very thick with butter, not with the hand, but with a paste brush; stick dried cherries on the mould, in any manner your fancy directs; put the soufflé in, and put the mould into a stewpan that has boiling water that will come better than half way up the mould; cover the stewpan, and put lighted charcoal on the cover; keep it boiling very slow for an hour, or better; take the mould out of the stewpan about ten minutes before it is wanted, by which means the soufflé will keep firmer; before it is turned out of the mould, run the knife round it, by way of loosening it; pour white wine sauce over it; the wine sauce is made as follows: put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put about half a table spoonful of flour, stir it until it is mixed with the butter, then white wine to it, to make it the thickness of melted butter; grate a little nutmeg in it, and put about half a glass of brandy in the sauce; pour the sauce over the soufflé,

A Ratifé Pudding.

Put a pint of milk, and a pint of cream into a stewpan, with the peel of two lemons, a little cinnamon, and sugar; put it on the fire, and let it boil for half an hour; then strain it into a basin, and put the crumb of two French rolls in it; then butter a savoy cake-mould very well, and stick dried cherries according to fancy; then put in half a pound of ratifés in the mould; break ten eggs into a bason, and beat them up well; then put the eggs to the boiled milk, cream, and rolls; stir it well, so as to blend the rolls, eggs, and milk together; then pour it in the mould that has the ratifés in: finish it the same as the ginger soufflé; pour wine sauce over it.

Almond and Curd Pudding to match the Ratifé or Soufflé. — See Appendix.

A Souffle of Apples and Rice.

BLANCH the rice in water, then put it on to boil in milk, and put a little cinnamon on the peel of a lemon; let it boil until it becomes quite dry; then take it from the fire, and put it to cool; when cold, raise a rim round the dish, about three inches high, egg the outside of the rim, and likewise the dish, by way of making the rice stick to the dish; then fill the dish half way up the rim with marmalade of apples; then beat up the whites of four eggs, and put them over the marmalade; then sift fine sugar over them, and put the dish in the oven; if the oven is not hot enough, brown it with a salamander.

Broiled Mushrooms.

PEEL them and put them in water for a few minutes to soak the grit from them; then put them on a soutiespan, sprinkle pepper and salt over each mushroom, and put a little oiled butter over them; put them in the oven; about ten minutes will do them; pour the liquor that comes from them over the mushrooms.

A CHINE OF MUTTON.		A Hare.

No. 26. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Mutton and Broth, with Roots.

CUT a neck of mutton into cutlets; then put the scrag, and other trimmings into a stewpan with a few onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, and trimmings of celery; put half a pint of water to the meat, and set it on a stove to draw down, but not to catch; then put about two quarts of water to it, skim it, and keep it very clear, by letting it boil very slow by the side of a stove; then put the cutlets into a small soup pot that will hold four quarts; put half a pint of water, some scooped turnips, and carrots, button onions, and four heads of celery cut in small pieces; put it on the stove to draw down, when boiled quite dry, then fill up with the mutton broth, being first strained through a tammy sieve; let it boil very slow by the side of the fire for half an hour; keep skimming the broth as fast as the scum rises; if it should not be strong enough, put about a pint of good stock, season it with a little salt, and a small lump of sugar.

Turkey and Chesnuts. — See page 36.

Ox Rumps and Cabbage. — See page 5.

Compote of Pigeons, with Truffles.

DRAW the legs of four pigeons, (in the same manner as chickens for boiling) singe them, and fill them with forcemeat, and put a small raw truffle in each pigeon; put the necks and gizzards in a stewpan, and any other giblets that is at hand; about a quarter of a pound of lean ham, a few onions, a few blades of mace, a faggot of thyme and parsley, two or three bay leaves, half a pint of sherry, and a pint of stock; wrap the pigeons up in sheets of bacon, put them in the stewpan, and set the stewpan over a slow fire to do very gently for an hour; then strain the liquor, skim the fat very clean from it, and put a little butter into a stewpan to melt; when melted, put as much flour as will make it of a proper thickness; stir it for a few minutes over the fire before the liquor is put in; then put the liquor in, keep stirring it all the while; let it boil for a few minutes, slice a few truffles, and put them in the sauce; take the pigeons up, and lay them on a cloth to dry; then put them on the dish, and the truffles and sauce over them: there may be a few fat livers and force-meat balls added.

N.B. Squeeze half a lemon, season with pepper and salt, &c.

A Chine of Mutton.		A Wild Duck.

No. 28 BILL OF FARE.

 FIRST COURSE.

Flemish Soup.

SLICE six onions, cut six heads of celery into small pieces, and slice about twelve potatoes: put about a quarter of a pound of butter in a stewpan, and half a pint of water; set it on a stove to boil very slow for an hour; then fill up the stewpan with stock; let it boil an hour, or until the potatoes, &c. are dissolved; then rub it through a tammy, and put a pint of cream; put it into a small soup pot to keep hot; the cream should be boiled before it is put to the soup.

N.B. If for meagre, use water instead of stock.

Beef Steaks.

BEEF steaks should be cut from the rump and broiled over a clear charcoal fire; put a little shallot on the dish, a bit of cold butter, and a table spoonful of ketchup, and to be very particular in sending them hot to table; all the other part of the dinner should be dished before the beef-steakes are put on the fire; season them with pepper and salt.

Minced and broiled Turkey.

THE minced is done the same as an emince of fowl; see page 85. Part the legs and score them, and pepper and salt them; make three pieces of the back, split the rump-piece, score them, and pepper and salt them; put a little oiled butter in a tart pan, and lay the bones of the turkey in; put the tart pan in the oven to warm the turkey through, then put it on the gridiron to brown; lay it round the emince.

Salmie of Partridges.

SALMIE of partridges is made from what is left from the day before. The process is the same as a salmie of wild duck, only use no port wine, but put a glass of sherry.

No. 37. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Rice Soup, with a Chicken.

BLANCH about half a pound of rice, and put it into a stewpan with one or two chickens, and a quart of stock; set the stewpan on a stove to boil very slow, until the chickens are very tender, and the rice the same; then put as much stock as will fill the tureen: skim the fat very clean from the soup.

A Leg of Lamb boiled, the Loin fried, and Spinage.

THE leg of lamb should lie an hour in water, before it is put into boil; an hour and a quarter will boil it, except it is a large one; cut the loin into chops, and the kidney into slices; leave the fat to the kidney; put a little clarified butter into a frying pan, and the lamb chops in; season them with pepper and salt, fry them of a light brown, put spinage round the sides of the dish, the chops on the spinage, and the leg of lamb in the middle.

Fillets of Fowl, larded (see page 64) and an Emince. — See page 85.

Petit Pâtés. — See Appendix.

Pork Cutlets, and Rober Sauce.

PUT butter into a stewpan, with chopped shallot, parsley, thyme, pepper and salt, and mushrooms; when the butter is melted, then put it to get half cold; put some clarified butter on a soutiespan, cut the cutlets either from the neck or loin, trim them neat, dip them into the butter, and roll them in bread crumbs; put them on the soutiespan, and finish the same as lamb cutlets; put them round the dish and the sauce in the middle.

Beef Palates. — See page 41.

Goose. — See page 15.

A Chine of Mutton.		Three Teal.

No. 41. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Turnip Soup.

PUT about a quarter of a pound of butter into a stewpan, and half a pint of stock; slice eight or ten turnips very thin, and put them in the stewpan, and then set it over a slow fire to do gently for an hour; then put two quarts of good stock, and let it boil gently for an hour; then rub it through a tammy; return it into the stewpan to keep hot, but do not let it boil.

Fish. — See Appendix.

White Collops (see page 15) and Sweetbread, larded, — See page 85.

Haricot of Beef.

Cut about sixteen, or eighteen slices of brisket of beef (that has been stewed) in the shape of cutlets, lay them round the bottom of a stewpan, the same way as cutlets on a dish; put about three spoonsful of stock in the stewpan, and set the stewpan by the side of the fire, so as to warm the beef; then dish the beef round the dish, and put haricot sauce in the middle; the roots should be piled up rather high.

Loín of Veal. — See page 49.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

Pork Cutlets, &c. — See page 96.

Sausages, and Red Cabbage.

SAUSAGES are generally had of the poulterer. Red cabbage should be stewed in the following manner: cut the cabbage very thin, and put it into a stewpan, with a slice of ham, and a piece of butter at the bottom, about half a pint of good stock, and about a gill of vinegar; set it on a slow fire to stew for three or four hours; when very tender, put a little more good stock, a table spoonful of sifted sugar, and a little pepper and salt; let it boil until all the liquid is reduced; then put the cabbage on the dish, and the sausages on the cabbage; the sausages should be pricked with a fork before they are fried to hinder them from bursting.

FIRST COURSE.

Crayfish Soup.

PICK the fish from a hundred of crayfish; put the fish between two plates until they are wanted; put the shells into a mortar, with half a pound of butter, and about a dozen anchovies; let all be well pounded, then put it into a stewpan with a quart of stock, (if for meagre, use fish stock); set it on the fire to boil for an hour, then strain it through a hair sieve, and put it back into the stewpan, and three pints more of stock to it, and the crumb of two French rolls; give it a boil, then take it from the fire and rub it through a tammy; have a little lobster-spawn pounded, and rub it through with the soup; return it into the stewpan, or soup pot, to keep hot, but be careful that it does not boil after it has been rubbed through the tammy; taste it to know if it wants any seasoning.

N.B. Put the fish in the soup when finished.

No. 46. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Tureen of Lambs Tails.

THE lamb's tails are had from the butcher, ready scalded. They should be blanched off, and then put into a white braise; when very tender, take them up, and cut them into lengths of about two inches, and put them into a small soup pot until you want them; lay a stewpan bottom with lean ham, cut up two old fowls, and put them to the ham, with four large onions, a faggot, and a few blades of mace; put in half a pint of water, put the stewpan on the fire to draw down very slow for an hour, (be careful that it does not catch to the bottom); then put two quarts of stock, let it boil for an hour, but very slow, so that it does not waste by boiling; strain it, and skim the fat off quite clean; boil one pint of asparagus peas in some of the stock that the old fowls were boiled in; when done, put the asparagus peas, and the remainder of the stock to the lambs tails; and set the soup pot at the side of a stove to boil for a few minutes; make a liaison of four yolks of eggs, and one pint of cream that has boiled; when strained, put a pint of beshemell to the liaison, take the soup from the fire, and put the liaison in; keep stirring it all the while; then put it on the fire, until it begins to come to a boil, be sure to keep stirring the soup during the time it is on the fire; if it should be ready before it is wanted, put the soup pot into a stew of hot water, and set it at the side of a stove.

Fowl à la Daube, ornamented and garnished with Aspic.

BONE a fowl, and fill it with farce, (see Appendix). Lay the bottom of a stewpan with fat of ham, or bacon; put half a pint of stock; put the fowl in, and cover it with bacon and paper, let it do very gently for two hours; then put it to cool in the liquor and fat; when cold, ornament it with different coloured fat, as fancy and abilities enable you; put chopped aspic round the edge of the dish, and on the top part of the fowl. The aspic is made as follows: lay the bottom of a soup pot with lean ham, cut up a knuckle of veal, two old fowls, the bones and giblet of the fowl that was daubed, and any other trimmings that are at hand; the shanks that are cut from shoulders, or legs of mutton that are going to be dressed, are very useful articles; put in a dozen onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a little mace, and two or three heads of celery; put six quarts of second stock, and set it on a stove to boil; when it comes to a boil, take the pot off, and put it to the side to boil very slow for four or five hours; it is not requisite to skim it, as it does not matter about its being clear: when it has boiled a sufficient time, strain it off, and let it stand until next morning; then take the fat very clean from the stock, put a pint of it into a stewpan, with half a pound of lean ham, cut very small, about twelve shalots, one small single clove of garlic, a few taragon leaves, and three or four bay leaves; set the stewpan on a stove to boil for about half an hour; then put all the stock into a stewpan, and strain what the shalots, &c. were boiled in, and put it to the other; add a little taragon vinegar, and set it on a stove to melt; when melted, break in twelve eggs and shells, whisk all up together, set it on a brisk stove; keep whisking it until it boils; let it boil for a few minutes, then run it through a jelly bag, and clean it, as you would calves foot jelly.

N.B. If the stock is not strong enough, put a little isinglass.

A Wax Basket. — See Appendix.

Grouse. — See page 105.

Woodcocks. — See page 24.

A Truffle Pie, hot.

RAISE a pie according to the size of the dish, in length and breadth, but not more than three inches deep; make a good truffle farce, (see page 160); fill the pie with the farce then lay in a pound of truffles that have been braised and peeled; cover the truffles with sheets of fat ham, then cover the pie, and ornament it as you think proper; put it into rather a slow oven; half an hour will bake it; when done, cut the top off, and take the fat ham away; pour a glass of Madeira wine in, put the top on the pie again, and send it up to table quite hot.

Aspic of Brawn.

PUT a little aspic in the mould, so as to cover the bottom; when cold, ornament it either with flowers or different coloured omelets; then put a little more aspic, (but be very careful how you put it in, for if not done with care, you will disturb the work); when cold, put a little more; then put in the brawn, cut in neat pieces; and fill up the mould with aspic; when cold, turn it out; (dip the mould in milk warm water) garnish with sliced lemon.

A Green Goose.

A GREEN goose will take about twenty minutes to roast; the fire should be very quick, so as to make the goose eat crisp; baste it well with butter, salt and flour it before it is taken from the fire, send it to table as soon as possible after it is taken from the fire; put good gravy in the dish; make it a general rule never to pour gravy over any thing that is roasted, for by so doing, the flour and salt is washed off it, and makes it eat insipid.

Neck of Veal. — See page 37.

Broiled Fowl, and Mushroom Sauce.

Cut a large fowl in quarters, put it on a lark spit, tie it on a spit, and put it down to roast until the fowl is three parts done, (keep it well basted with butter while at the fire); then take the fowl up, finish it on a gridiron, and season it with pepper and salt while there; the mushrooms should be put in a stewpan, and a small piece of butter, a little pepper and salt, and a slice of lean ham; set the stewpan on a slow stove to stew gently for half an hour; then put some coulis to the mushrooms, squeeze a lemon, and put a dust of sugar; put the fowl on the dish, and the mushrooms over the fowl. It is a custom at most inns, only to split the fowl down the back, and broil it entirely on a gridiron; in my opinion, it looks awkward on the dish, and is generally burnt.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

SECOND COURSE.

Pigeons roasted.

SCALD some parsley, and chop it, mix it with about two ounces of cold butter, a little pepper and salt, and put it in the pigeons; put them on a lark spit, not through the middle of them, but through the side, instead of any other skewer; they will take about fifteen minutes; baste them frequently with butter, salt and flour them before they are taken from the fire; put parsley and butter on the dish, and then the pigeons.

FIRST COURSE.

SOUP à la Reine. — See page 2.

Fish. — See Appendix.

Turkey, and Truffles. — See page 4.

Two Ducklings, and Turnips. — See page 27.

Three Sweetbreads, and Asparagus Peas.

THE sweetbreads are not to be larded: blanch off three heart sweetbreads, lay the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon, and the sweetbreads on the bacon, put in half a pint of stock, and cover the sweetbreads over with sheets of bacon; set the stewpan on the fire to do very gently for half an hour, then take them, and put beshemell over them; cut French beans into leaves and stalks, make a rim round each sweetbread, and a sprig in the middle, and put them into a stewpan to keep hot; when they are wanted, put the asparagus peas on the dish, and the sweetbreads on them; garnish with paste, or croutons.

Fillets of Sole à la Italian. — See page 43.

A Souties of Fowl, and Truffle. — See page 85.

Petit Pâtés of Chicken. — See Appendix.

Crayfish Pudding.

Boil a hundred of Crayfish, (put a little salt and vinegar in the water), pick the fish from the tails and claws, put them into a mortar, with a quarter of a pound of butter, twelve anchovies, without washing, and the spawn of a lobster; let it be well pounded and rubbed through a tammy-sieve, then put it into a bason, and break in twelve eggs, only one at a time, and mix that one with the crayfish before you put in another, and so on, until all the eggs are broken in; then put in the crumb of two French rolls that has been soaked in cream, beat it all well together; butter the mould with butter that has been clarified, and is three parts cold, put the butter on the mould with a paste brush, put the crayfish into the mould, and the mould into a stewpan of boiling water, (the water should come half way up the mould): set the stewpan on a stove to boil slow, put the cover on, and some lighted charcoal on the cover: it will take an hour to finish it; turn it out on the dish, and put red Italian sauce round the edge of the dish: garnish with paste.

N. B. The sauce should be white, and made red with the spawn of a lobster pounded and rubbed through a tammy sieve: squeeze a little lemon juice.

Lambs Sweetbreads, larded (see page 65) and a Purée of Sorrel. — See Appendix.

Fillets of Hare, larded, and a Purée of the same, under them.

THE fillets of hare are cut the same as fillets of rabbit; the remaining part of the hares are put into a stewpan, with a few shalots, about a quarter of a pound of lean ham, a faggot, a few blades of mace, half a pint of port wine, and half a pint of good stock; set the stewpan on a stove to boil very slow for two hours; then strain the liquor from the hare, and pick all the meat off the bones; put the meat to the liquor and the lean ham; put it into a tammy, rub it through, and put it into a stewpan to keep hot: put the purée on the dish, and the fillets on the purée.

N. B. The fillets are done the same as fillets of rabbit.

Giblet Soup. — See page 6.

Fish. — See Appendix.

Chine of Lamb larded, and Chervil Sauce.

CUT the fat from the fillet of a chine of lamb and lard it thick and strong; either roast it, or do it in the oven; if done in the oven, put a pint of second stock on the bottom of the dish; slice a few onions, a head of celery, a carrot, and half a pint of vinegar; pour half a pint of salad oil over the lamb, and cover it with sheets of bacon and white paper, being first buttered; when done, glaze it, and put the chervil sauce on the dish, and the lamb afterwards; if the lamb be roasted, put a lark spit up the back bone, and tie it on a spit; put plenty of bacon over it, and paper over the bacon, but do not press it tight, as the larding should not be flattened; an hour will roast it, and about the same time will bake it, but that depends upon the size of the lamb.

— Partridge Soup. — See page 118.

Fish. — See Appendix.

Fillet of Veal à la Daube. — See page 20.

Filletts of Rabbit larded (see page 65) and Mushrooms.— See page 17.

Grenadines (see page 86) and Sorrel Sauce.— See Appendix.

A Raised Pigeon Pie.

RAISE a pie, and prepare six pigeons the same as for a compote, see page 122; put beef steaks in the bottom of the pie, and the pigeons on the steaks; cover the pie in, and ornament it, (all raised pies should be made the day before they are wanted, but not baked); it will take two hours to bake it; when done, take the top off, and put in six hard yolks of eggs, and fill it up with coulis.

N.B. Cover the pigeons over with bacon before you put the top on the pie.

Grouse. — See page 105.

Woodcocks. — See page 24.

A Charlotte.

BUTTER the mould very well, and line it with bread cut thin, and about two inches wide, and in length the same depth as the mould; dip the bread in warm clarified butter, put the bread one piece half over the other; then cut a piece the size of the bottom of the mould, dip it in butter, and put it in the mould; then brush the bread over with egg to make it stick together when baked; then fill up the mould with a marmalade of apples, and cover it in with tart paste; put it in a slow oven for three quarters of an hour; then turn it out of the mould into a dish.

N.B. The marmalade of apples is made as follows: peel the apples, and cut out the cores, put them on to boil in a little water; when they are sufficiently broke, rub them through a hair sieve; put a little cinnamon, a few cloves, the peel of two lemons, with the apple, when they are put on to boil first; put the apples into a small preserving pan, with as much sifted lump sugar as will make them sweet; give the apples about ten minutes boiling, keep a spoon in the preserving pan to stir them, and keep the apples from sticking to the bottom; when the apples begin to get flat, squeeze lemon juice in to make them sharp.

A Truffle Pie. — See page 162.

Atlets of Oysters.

BLANCH the oysters, and beard them, put them on a skewer that is for that purpose, do them over with egg, sprinkle a little pepper and salt over them, and then put bread crumbs over; do the oysters over twice with egg and bread crumbs, drop some clarified butter over them with a paste brush, broil them on a slow fire; the gridiron should be brushed over with oiled butter, that the oysters should not stick to the bars; send the oysters on the skewers to table.

Raggoo of Cocks Combs.

BLANCH the combs, and then put them on in a little stock; when the combs are tender, put a little sauce tourney, give the raggoo one boil, and dish it up; garnish with croutons.

Carmel Basket. — See Appendix.

Orange Souffle. — See page 102. The jelly is whipped up with a whisk, until near stiff, then put in a mould.

Soup, with Rice and Chicken.

BLANCH about a tea-cup full of Carolina rice, and wash it in two or three waters, then put a quart of stock to it, and a fowl, with the legs drawn in; set it on the fire to boil slow for an hour, or better; then put three pints of good stock to the fowl and rice, give it a boil, and skim it very clean before it is put in the tureen.

N.B. The fowl should be done, so that the meat will come from the bones with a spoon.

Turkey boiled, and Oyster Sauce. — See page 53.

Fish Pie, with Tench and Eels, and hard Eggs.

CLEAN a brace of tench, and skin two eels, bone the tench and eels, and cut the eels in pieces of two inches long; leave the sides of the tench whole, put the bones of the tench and eels into a stewpan, with a few onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few blades of mace, half a dozen anchovies, and a pint of stock, if not for meagre, but if for meagre, put water; set the stewpan on the fire to boil very slow for an hour, then strain it off, skim the fat from it, and put it to cool; then put the eel and tench into the dish, season it with pepper and salt, and chopped parsley; put a few whole mushrooms in, and six or eight hard yolks of eggs; put part of the liquor that the fish bones were boiled in, put puff paste round the edge of the dish, and cover it in; about half an hour will bake it; the oven should be rather quick, otherwise the paste will not rise; when the paste begins to colour, put some liquor over it; when done, put the remainder of the liquor on the fire to make hot, and pour it in the pie.

N.B. The top of the pie should be done over with egg before it goes in the oven.

Two Chickens roasted. — See page 139.

Spinage and Eggs. — See page 45.

Asparagus. — See page 8.

Stewed Oysters.

OYSTERS for stewing should be the largest that are to be had; put the oysters on to blanch, when they come to a boil, take them off the fire, and strain the liquor through a tammy sieve; throw the oysters into cold water, beard them, and lay them on a cloth to dry; then put a small bit of butter into a stewpan, and put it on the fire to melt; when melted, put a little flour, and the liquor of the oysters; set it on the fire, and keep stirring it with a wooden spoon, (as the other spoons wear the tin off the stewpan); when it comes to a boil, put about half a glass of white wine in, and a little coulis, if they are not intended as a meagre dish; let it boil for a few minutes, then put in the oysters, and let them simmer for a minute or two, but not more, (as when oysters boil more, they become hard); when you have dished them, put croutons round.

N.B. Season with pepper and salt; a pint will make a dish.

Raspberry Tourte, see Apricot Tourte, page 17.

Rice Souffle.

LINE a mould (to answer the size of the dish) with tart paste, put a piece of bread in it to keep it from falling, and put it in the oven to bake; when done, take it out, and put it to cool; then put about a quarter of a pound of Carolina rice on to blanch in cold water; when it comes to a boil, take it off, and wash it in two or three waters, then put the rice into about three pints of new milk, put it on to boil, keep a spoon in it to stir it, otherwise it will stick to the bottom; while the rice is boiling, put a little cinnamon and lemon peel into about half a pint of milk, and let it boil some time, so as to get the flavour of the cinnamon and lemon peel; when you think it is boiled enough, strain it into the rice; when the rice is done, put a quarter of a pound of butter, as much sifted lump sugar as will sweeten it, and a glass of brandy; then whisk up the whites of four eggs, and put them to the rice; mix the whites of eggs well together, put it into the paste, and then in the oven to bake: first sift a little sugar over it: about fifteen minutes will bake it.

No. 60. BILL OF FARE.

Tureen of Calves Feet, and Asparagus Peas.

BONE the calves feet and put them on for jelly stock; when the feet are quite tender, take them up, and put them in cold water; when cold, trim them, and cut them in small pieces, and put them on a cloth to dry; put a quart of asparagus peas on to boil in about a pint of stock, set them on a slow stove; when the peas are quite tender, put them and the stock that they were boiled in into a small soup pot, and three pints of stock; give it a boil up, and then put in the calves feet, and set the soup pot by the side of the fire to keep hot, but not to boil; make a liaison of four eggs, and put about a pint of beshemell in the liaison; put the liaison in the soup, and put the soup over the fire until it begins to come to a boil; keep stirring it all the time, otherwise it will curdle; if the soup is ready too soon, put the soup pot into a stewpan of hot water to keep it hot: season it with a little salt, if wanted, and put in a lump of sugar.

SHEET a tartpan with puff paste, put marmalade of apple, and cross-bar it.

Pancakes.

BOIL a quart of milk and cream mixed, put a little cinnamon, and the peel of a lemon in it; let it boil gently for an hour, then break six eggs into a bason, beat them up for five or six minutes, put about six table spoonful of flour, and mix that very well with eggs; then put in some fine moist, or sifted sugar, and then the milk and cream, first being strained, and put a glass of brandy; mix all well together, have a little clarified butter, or lard; make the pan hot, put a little butter in it, and give the pan a wipe out with a clean rubber; then put a little more butter; when the pan is hot, put in a large spoonful of the batter, turn it with your knife, have sifted sugar in a box of the same make as a dredging box, and dust the pancakes over as they are taken out of the pan.

N.B. They should be sent up a few at a time, as when they get cold they become tough: send up Seville oranges and lemons on a plate.

FIRST COURSE.

MOCK Turtle.— See page 22.

Loin of Veal.— See page 49.

Petit Pâtés.— See Appendix.

Crockets.— See page 50.

Ox Rumps (see page 5) and Haricot Roots.— See page 30.

Chump of Veal braised (see page 69) and French Beans.
— See page 9.

A Pike baked.

TURN the pike round, fasten it with a skewer, make some common stuffing the same as for a fillet of veal, put it in the belly and sew it up with pack thread; then egg it over with a brush and put bread crumbs over it; then drop oiled butter over it with a paste brush, slice a few onions, and put them in the dish the pike is to be baked in: put a faggot of sweet herbs, and a few bay leaves, a little marjorum, and a sprig of basil, a pint of stock, and half a pint of sherry wine; put it in the oven so as to have it done half an hour before it is wanted; strain the liquor from the pike, and skim the fat from it; put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, and set it on the fire to melt; when melted, put as much flour as will dry it up, stir it over the fire with a wooden spoon, then put in the liquor the pike was done in; set it on the fire, keep stirring it until it boils, let it boil for a few minutes, (put a little essence of anchovy in), then strain it through a tammy, put it into a stewpan to keep hot until wanted, squeeze half a lemon in before it is sent to table; put the pike on the dish, a little of the sauce round it, and the rest in a boat: remember to take the pack thread out, and the skewer likewise: put some picked parsley in the middle of the pike to give it a neat look.

Neck of Mutton larded, and Carrot Peas.— See page 27.

Fricandeau (see page 29) and Sorrel Sauce.— See Appendix.

Sucking Pig.— See page 60.

Turkey and Truffles. — See page 4.

Shoulder of Lamb forced and larded. — See page 28.

Matelot of Eels. — See page 30.

Four large Perch plain boiled.

Put them on in cold water; when the water comes to a boil, put a little cold water, and set them by the side of the fire for a few minutes, put a handful of salt in the water: send anchovy sauce in a boat.

Bout Saigneur, and Sauce Hachis.

Cut the scrags from four necks of mutton, bone the scrags as near to the bone as possible; put the meat into warm water to soak the blood out, and put the bones into the stock pot; when the scrags are well soaked, put them on to blanch in cold water; when they come to a boil take them up and put them into cold water, wash them several times, and trim them to make them look neat; then put them into a white braise, set them on a slow stove to stew very gently for four hours, or until they are quite tender; then take them up, and put them on a cloth to dry the fat from them; put the bout saigneur on the dish, and the sauce over them. For the sauce, see Appendix.

Sheeps Rumps and Kidneys. — See page 37.

Risoles. — See page 47.

Small Mutton Pies. — See page 30.

Roast Beef. — See page 7.

Mushroom Fritters. — See page 259.

Apple Pie. — See page 82.

Gooseberry Pie. — See page 167.

Plovers Eggs. — See page 243.

Dutch Salad.

+ TAKE the fish out of four lobsters as whole as possible; cut up four cos lettuces for salad, (not any of the green leaves) mix the sauce in the following manner: braise the yolks of four eggs that are boiled hard, soften them with water, a table spoonful will be sufficient; when the eggs are very fine, put a small table spoonful of mustard, mix it well with the eggs; then about a quarter of a pint of salad oil, mix that, so that it is not perceived in the mixture; then put a little vinegar, and a spoonful of tarragon vinegar, a spoonful of the essence of anchovy, and a little pepper and salt: cut the lobster in thin slices, and mix it with the salad; put it on the dishes, and put the sauce over the salads: garnish with beet root, hard eggs, and Spanish onions. It should be dished up in a pyramidical form.

Crayfish and Prawns.

DISH them neat and high: garnish with parsley.

Perch plain boiled. — See page 273.

Loin of Veal. — See page 49.

Stewed Carp. — See page 269.

Round of Beef, and Greens.

SKEWER a round of beef up very tight and put a fillet round it; put it into boil for four hours, or longer, (but that depends on the size); it should be rather over than under done, for, if it is under done, it does not eat so well when cold: the beef should be ten days or a fortnight in salt.

Stewed Tench. — See page 77.

Ham and Greens.

BOIL the ham three hours in the copper with the beef, skin and glaze it.

Leg of Lamb boiled, Loin fried, &c. — See page 26.

Semels of Veal, and Poivrade Sauce. — See page 94.

Beef Steak Pie in a Dish.

CUT the beef steaks from the rump, rather thinner and smaller than for broiling; mix pepper and salt, chopped parsley, thyme and shalot; lay the beef steaks in the dish, first put a little of the seasoning on the bottom of the dish, then put in as much steak as will cover the bottom of the dish, sprinkle some of the seasoning over the steaks, and put a little stock; then put another layer of steaks, season them, and put a little stock, and so on until all the beef steaks are in the dish; put puff paste round the edge of the dish, have a dish the same size of the one as the beef steaks are in, and cut the top out by it; brush it over with egg, put it in a quick oven; as soon as the paste begins to colour cover it over with a few sheets of paper; an hour will bake it: put a little more gravy in it when it is taken out of the oven, if wanted.

Plovers Eggs. — See page 243.

Morels.

Put them to soak in warm water, and change it several times, as they are very apt to be gritty; put them on to blanch in cold water; when they come to a boil take them off the fire, and wash them in several waters; then put the morels into a stewpan, with as much stock as will cover them; set them on the fire to simmer for one hour, then take the morels from the liquor, and put in a glass of white wine, and reduce it nearly to a glaze; then put a little coulis; set it on the fire to boil; when it has boiled put in the morels, and give them a boil; dish them, and garnish with croutons.

A Chipoulate of Rabbit.

Cut two rabbits as for à la duchesse; or fricassee, and put them on to blanch; when they come to a boil take them from the fire, pour off the hot water, and put the rabbits into cold water; take off the second skin and trim the ragged pieces off; lay the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of bacon, put in the rabbit, and about a pint of stock, six onions, a faggot, and a few blades of mace; cut about half a pound of the belly part of bacon that has had about half an hour's boiling, skin and trim all the outside and rusty part away; cut the bacon into small square pieces, and put it in the stewpan with the rabbit; cover all over with sheets of bacon and paper, set it on a slow stove to simmer for an hour, then strain the liquor from the rabbit, and skim the fat very clean from the liquor; put about half an ounce of butter into a stewpan, when melted, put as much flour as will dry it up; then put the liquor that the rabbit was braised in; if there is not a sufficient quantity to make the sauce, add a little stock, give it a boil up, and put in a glass of sherry; then put the rabbit in the sauce to make hot; just before dishing, squeeze half a lemon in, and put a little sugar; when you dish it up, put the yolks of six eggs boiled hard in the dish, lay the rabbit neatly on the dish, the eggs intermixed, and the sauce over: garnish with croutons or paste.

No. 166. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

Green Pea Soup.

PUT about a quarter of a pound of butter into a stewpan; about half a pound of lean ham cut in very thin pieces, about half a pint of stock, a quart of green peas, six large onions cut in slices, and four cabbage lettuces shredded; set the stewpan on a slow stove to simmer for an hour, then put two quarts of stock to it, the crumb of two French rolls, and let it boil for an hour; then blanch off two or three handfuls of spinage; strain the spinage off when it has had a boil, and squeeze it quite dry between two plates; rub the soup through a tammy, and the spinage with it to give the soup a green colour; boil a pint of younger peas than the soup was made of in a pint of stock, when done, put stock and peas to the soup, put in a little sugar, and give all a boil; add a little salt, if wanted.

N.B. If the soup is for meagre, leave the ham and stock out; use a double quantity of onions, peas, and lettuce.

FIRST COURSE.

VERMICELLI Soup.— See page 16.

Rump of Beef braised, and Spanish Sauce. — See p. 36.

Two Ducklings à la Broche.

BONE two ducklings, fill them with force meat, and put three or four truffles in each; wrap the ducklings up in sheets of bacon, and then white paper tied on very strong; put them on a spit, they will take an hour to roast; when they are done, take off the paper and bacon, and glaze them, put the bones and giblets of the ducklings on to boil in about a pint of stock, and half a pint of white wine; let it simmer for an hour or more, strain it off, skim the fat from it, boil it down to a glaze, and put the sauce ravigot to it: put the sauce on the dish, and the ducklings afterwards: garnish either with paste or croutons.

Matelot of Rabbit.

PREPARE two rabbits as for a fricassee, put the rabbit into a stewpan with about half a pint of stock, as many pieces of ham (the ham should be fat and lean, about an inch square, and half an inch thick) as there are of rabbit, and two dozen of button onions; cover it over with paper, set it on a stove to simmer for an hour, then take the rabbit, &c. and lay it on the dish; skim the fat off the liquor the rabbit was done in, and reduce it nearly to a glaze; put coulis to it, give it a boil up, then take it from the fire, and squeeze half a lemon, put a little Cayenne pepper, and a little sugar; pour it over the rabbit: garnish with paste or croutons.

No. 179: BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.			SECOND COURSE.
A Purée of Roots, removed with a LEG of LAMB, boiled, LOIN, fried, and Spinage.			Two Turkey Poult.
Petit Pâtés of Sweetbread.		Matelot of Rabbit.	Fondues in cases.	Pens.
A Small Ham, and greens.	A Fawn, with che- vreuil sauce.	Three Chickens à la Reine.	Small Pastry.	Blanc Mange.	Gooseberry Tart.
Scorch Collops.		Risoles of Veal and Ham.	Asparagus.	Spinage in boxes.
Chump of Beef, roasted.			Two Ducklings.

No. 179. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

A Purée of Roots.

PUT about a quarter of a pound of butter into a stewpan, half a pound of lean ham cut very fine, and half a pint of stock ; slice twelve onions, cut in six heads of celery, slice three turnips, shred four cabbage lettuces, and put in a handful of picked chervil ; set it on a stove to simmer very slow for an hour and a half ; then put two quarts of stock, and the crumb of two French rolls ; let the soup boil for an hour, then rub it through a tammy ; cut half a hundred of asparagus into peas, and put them on to boil in a pint of stock ; when done, put the peas and the liquor they were boiled in into the soup-pot that has the purée in, give it a boil up, put a little sugar in before it is put in the tureen.

c c

Leg of Lamb boiled, Loin fried, &c. — See page 142.

A Matelot of Rabbit. — See page 368.

Petit Pâtés. — See Appendix.

Chickens à la Reine. — See page 42.

Ham braised. — See page 14.

A Fawn Roasted.

SKEWER a fawn similar to a hare, and put it on a spit the same way ; put plenty of oiled butter over it, and sprinkle it with salt ; cover the back with sheets of bacon, then white paper, and tie all on with pack thread : it will take an hour and a half to roast.

N.B. Make stuffing the same as for a hare, and fill the inside with it before it is put on the spit. Make chevreuil sauce as follows : put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan with chopped parsley, thyme, shalot, mushrooms, and a few spoonsful of stock ; set the stewpan on the fire to simmer very slow for about ten minutes, then put a sufficient quantity of flour to soak up the butter, and keep stirring it over the fire for a few minutes ; then put about a pint of stock to it, and set it on the fire to boil, keep stirring it during the time it is on the fire ; let it boil for a few minutes, then take it off the fire, and squeeze a lemon in, put about a tea spoonful of sifted sugar, and a little pepper and salt ; strip the fawn, baste it with butter, and sprinkle it with salt and flour : put the sauce on the dish, and the fawn afterwards.

Risoles of Veal and Ham. — See page 47.

Scorch Collops. — See page 49.

Roast Beef. — See page 7.

SECOND COURSE.

TURKEY Poults. — See page 309.

Blanc Mange. — See page 66.

Gooseberry Tart. — See page 75.

Tartlets. — See page 44.

Asparagus. — See page 8.

Ducklings. — See page 183.

Spinage in Boxes.

PREPARE the spinage as in page 45. Cut the boxes (from the crumb of a loaf) in what shape fancy directs; cut a piece off for a top, mark them neat with a knife, fry them either in clarified butter or lard; when fried, scoop out the middle, and fill it with spinage; put the covers on, and put a napkin on the dish, make a large one for the middle of the dish, and eight smaller to go round the large one.

N.B. The same kind of boxes are used for mushrooms and oysters.

Petit Pâtés of Veal and Ham.

Mince an equal quantity of each, put beshemell, and finish the same as chicken pâtés.

Venison Fry.

Cut the liver in thin slices, and put it between two plates while the other parts are preparing; cut the fat gut into lengths of about an inch, put that and the other white part with the velvet from the horns in to blanch for about fifteen minutes; peel the hair from the velvet, and trim the other parts; split the sweetbreads, cut slices off the belly part of bacon, as you have liver; fry the bacon first, and pour the greater part of the liquor that comes from the bacon into a small stewpan, or any thing that is handy; then put the liver in the frying pan, season both sides with a little pepper and salt, (the liver takes very little time in doing); when it is done, take it up and put it on the back of a wire sieve, (not brass wire, but iron wire) then put the other part of the liquor that came from the bacon into the pan; when hot, put in the white part of the fry, sprinkle it with pepper and salt, and turn it over with a slice; when of a nice brown, take it up, and put it on the wire sieve, then put some lard into a stewpan, have some picked parsley (of the curley sort) that has been dried before the fire, put it into the parsley fryer, and put that into the hot lard; about a minute will be sufficient; dish the liver and bacon (one piece after the other) round the dish; put the parsley in the middle, and lay the white part of the fry upon the parsley: send poivrade sauce in a boat.

No. 192. BILL OF FARE.

FIRST COURSE.

VERMICELLI Soup.— See page 16.

Brisket of Beef Tremblanc.— See page 13.

A Timball of Maccaroni, and Chicken.— See page 59.

A Breast of Veal, and stewed Peas.— See page 43.

A Neck of Mutton à la Jardinier.

TRIM a neck of mutton as for larding; cut the red part of carrots the same as bacon for larding, and use it in the same manner very thick: finish it as a neck of mutton larded, see page 27; put a purée of roots under it: garnish with carrot.

A Neat's Tongue in Cutlets, and Stewed Greens.

BOIL the greens and squeeze them very dry, chop them quite fine, and put them into a stewpan with about two ounces of butter, and a quarter of a pint of best stock; set the stewpan over the fire, keep stirring them during the time they are on the fire, and put a little pepper and salt; when the greens are hot, and become quite dry, put them on the middle of the dish raised as high as they will admit of; and put the tongue round them: garnish with carrot inside and outside the tongue, and put a carrot rose in the middle of the greens.

Compote of Pigeons.— See page 122.

Fillet of Veal à la Daube, &c.— See page 20.

Haunch of Lamb (see page 54) and Cucumbers.— See Appendix.

Chickens à la Reine.— See page 42.

Two Ducks à la Italienne.

BONE two ducks and fill them with good force-meat, and sew them up; put the bones and giblets, and any other trimmings into a stewpan, six onions, a faggot, a few blades of mace, three bay leaves, and a pint of stock; put the ducks in, and half a pint of white wine, and cover them over with bacon and paper; set them on a slow stove to simmer for an hour and a half, then strain the liquor from them, and skim the fat very clean; reduce it nearly to a glaze, and then put some coulis to it; squeeze a Seville orange, or a lemon in, glaze the ducks, put the sauce on the dish, and the ducks afterwards: garnish with paste.

Fricandeau (see page 29) and Sorrel Sauce. — See Appendix.

A Casserole of Rice and Rabbit (see page 100). As for a fricassee.

Soup of any sort.

FIRST COURSE.

SOUP Santé. — See page 38.

Loin of Veal. — See page 49.

Minced and broiled Turkey. — See page 126.

Hashed Venison.

Cut the venison into neat thin slices (either from the haunch or neck) as near in the shape of a cutlet as the venison will admit of; lay the venison in a stewpan round the sides, (the same as cutlets on a dish) put the gravy belonging to the venison (if any left) in the stewpan; if none, put about a quarter of a pint of stock, sprinkle the venison with pepper and salt, cut a sheet of paper round to the size of the stewpan, and put it over the meat to keep the steam in while it is warming; the trimmings and lean pieces put into a stewpan, with two large onions sliced, a faggot of thyme and parsley, and a pint of stock; set the stewpan on a stove to boil slow for two hours, then strain it, and skim off the fat; put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, and set it on the fire to melt; when melted, put as much flour as will dry up the butter, keep stirring it over the fire for a few minutes, then put the liquor that the venison was boiled in; give it a boil up, keep stirring it while on the fire, then strain it through a hair sieve into another stewpan; set the venison that is for the dish on the stove, and let it simmer about five minutes, or just to make the venison hot; then put it round the side of the dish, and put the gravy the venison was warmed up in into the sauce, give it all a boil up, and put it in the middle of the dish.

N.B. Remember that there is none of the fat trimmed off, as the fat of venison is reckoned the most delicious part.

FIRST COURSE.

GREEN Pea Soup. — See page 366.

Loin of Veal. — See page 49.

Sweetbreads larded, and an Emince. — See page 96.

Cutlets of Venison.

Cut the cutlets from the neck and broil them, season them with pepper and salt; let the dish be very hot that the cutlets are put on; one half of the cutlets should be kept back and not put on the gridiron until the dinner leaves the kitchen; when sent up, cover them with a plate; if there is no cover for the dish: venison in every way should be sent to table as hot as possible.

Turbot and Soles fried. — See Appendix.

Leg of Lamb roasted. — See page 21.

Chine of Mutton. — See page 16.

Trout, plain boiled.

Put a little salt and vinegar in the water; put them on the fire in cold water; when they come to a boil, put a little cold water to them, and take them from the fire: send anchovy and butter in a boat.

Scorch Collops. — See page 49.

Rabbits à la Oporto. — See page 43.

SECOND COURSE.

Pigeons. — See page 173.

Peas. — See page 351.

Ratifie Pudding. — See page 109.

Pickled Salmon.

PICKLED salmon is generally had from the oyster purveyors. If it should be desired to be pickled at home, it is done in the following manner: the salmon should of course be first cleaned and scaled, then split down the middle, and cut into proper sized pieces; as for the number of pieces that the salmon is to be cut into depends upon the size of the salmon; put the salmon into a fish kettle, and as much cold water as will barely cover it: add about a pint of vinegar, and a handful of salt, about a dozen bay leaves, a little mace, and some white whole pepper; when the salmon is done, take it up, and lay it on a clean cloth; put the liquor into a smaller vessel, and set it on a quick stove to boil until three parts reduced; then put it into a pan to cool; when cold, put the salmon in it: salmon done this way will retain its goodness for several months.

Carp baked.

Put stuffing in it, turn it round, and brush it over with egg; put plenty of bread crumbs over it, then drop oiled butter over the bread crumbs; put it in a deep earthen dish, and a little stock, a few sliced onions, a few bay leaves, a faggot of thyme, parsley, and both sorts of marjorum, and a sprig or two of basil; put in half a pint of port wine, and half a dozen anchovies; put it in the oven, it will take an hour to bake: have the carp done a quarter of an hour before it is wanted, on account of having the liquor that it was baked in to make the sauce; put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, and set it on the fire to melt; then put as much flour as will dry it up, put in the liquor from the carp, give it a boil, keep stirring it during the time it is on the fire; when it has boiled, take it from the fire, and squeeze a lemon in. put a little Cayenne pepper, and a little sugar; put the carp on the dish, and garnish with parsley: send the sauce in a boat.

N.B. If the carp is for a meagre-day, put butter in the stuffing instead of suet, and use water instead of stock; or fish stock, if convenient: observe this in all meagre dishes.

FIRST COURSE.

- VERMICELLI Soup.— See page 16.
 Neck of Venison.— See page 2.
 Leg of Lamb roasted.— See page 21.
 Haricot of Mutton.— See page 21.
 Pigeons à la Crapaudine.— See page 100.
 Matelot of Tench.— See page 77.
 Veal and Ham Cutlets.— See page 197.

A raised Pie with Venison.

BONE a shoulder and breast of venison two days before the pie is wanted, and season them with pepper, salt, and fine spice; stew them as directed in page 15. Raise the pie and fill it with bran; when baked, cut the venison into neat pieces, and put it into the pie; strain the liquor that it was stewed in, skim the fat from it, and put it to the pie: send it up very hot.

A raised Pie, with a daubed Fowl in it.

BONE a large fowl and fill it with good farce, then put it into a stewpan, (first laying sheets of fat bacon) and then the bones of the fowl, and any other giblets or trimmings of veal, six onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few blades of mace, and three or four bay leaves; put the fowl in, and a pint of stock; cover the fowl with fat bacon and white paper; set it on a slow fire to simmer for two hours; while that is doing, raise a pie and fill it with bran; when baked, clean the bran out, and put in the fowl; strain the liquor that the fowl was stewed in, skim off the fat, and put as much coulis to it as will fill up the pie; slice a few truffles, if to be had, and put them in the coulis: give it a boil up, and pour it over the fowl.

Turtle roasted.

THE part that is roasted is taken from the blade bone: put it into a stewpan of cold water, and set it on the fire; when it comes to a boil take it off, if the meat is sufficiently set; put it on a lark spit, and do it over with egg, then put bread crumbs, do the turtle over three times with egg and bread crumbs; then pour a little clarified butter over the turtle, tie the lark spit on the roasting spit: about half an hour will roast it: make the sauce the same as you would for sturgeon, (see Appendix). Put a little of the turtle soup to the sauce, after it is rubbed through a tammy; put the sauce on the dish, and the turtle afterwards.

N.B. All the dishes that are intended for turtle entrees should have a rim of paste round them, and a turtle's head and fins at each end of the dish; the paste may be formed on baking sheets, and baked on them, and laid on the dishes when baked.

Turtle braised as Chickens, (see page 60) and Sauce à la Reine. — See Appendix.

A Souties of the Liver of the Turtle. — See page 66.

Turtle Tripe, and Onion Sauce. — See page 59.

Fricandeau of Turtle, and Sorrel Sauce.

CUT a piece of the white lean meat of the turtle the shape and size of a fricandeau of veal; lard it very close; and the bacon rather thicker than for a fricandeau of veal; one hour is sufficient for braising it: finish the same as other lardings. For Sauce, see Appendix.

Cutlets of Turtle larded.

CUT about ten cutlets the size and shape of veal cutlets, lard them very close, and finish the same as veal cutlets. For Asparagus Peas, see page 53.

Filletts of Fowl, and Mushrooms. — See page 64.

Filletts of Rabbit (see page 65) and French Beans. — See page 9.

Timball of Maccaroni, and Chicken. — See page 59.

Chartreuse of Roots, &c. — See page 61.

Chartreuse of Sausages, &c. — See page 264.

Braised Grouse, and Cabbage. — See page 476.

Daubed Fowls.

BONE two large fowls, put a piece of the prime part of ham (that has been braised) in the fowls, and then fill them with farce; if truffles are to be had, put six or eight in each fowl that has not been braised, only peeled; put a few sheets of bacon at the bottom of a stewpan, the bones of the fowls, and any other giblets or trimmings that you may have at hand; put a quart of stock, a few onions, a faggot, three bay leaves, and two or three blades of mace; then put in the fowls and cover them over with bacon and paper; set them on a slow stove to do very gently for two hours; then strain the liquor from the fowls, &c. and skim the fat very clean from the liquor; put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, and set it on the fire to melt; when melted, put as much flour as will dry it up; set it on the fire, and keep stirring it for a minute or two; then put the liquor that the fowls were braised in, and about half a pint of good cream that has boiled; set the stewpan on the fire, keep stirring it until it boils, let it boil for a few minutes, then strain it through a tummy: the sauce should be about the thickness of beshemell: take the fowls up, and put them on a cloth to soak the fat; then put them on the dishes, put the sauce over the fowls, but not all at once: it should be put over at three different times; the last time should be just before they are taken out of the kitchen: garnish with paste.

N.B. If not cut, they will do either for Pies or ornamenting.

Souties of Leveret. — See page 53.

Chantilla Baskets. — See Appendix.

Chantilla Baskets made of Wafers.

THE wafers are had of the confectioner. The best that I have had are made by Mr. Gunter, Berkeley-square. The wafers are stuck round the dish in the same manner as the ratifies: fill with cream, &c. the same.

Apricot Tourts.

THEY are made of ripe apricots; sheet the tourt pans with puff paste, stone the apricots, and cut them in quarters; put sifted sugar to them, but no water: string them according to fancy.

Apple Tourte.

PEEL the codlings very thin, quarter them and cut the core out; put them into a stewpan with a few spoonsful of water, and some lump sugar; they do not require much sugar; set the stewpan on a stove, just to scald the apples; when they are soft, put them to cool, and finish the tourte the same as the apricot.

Peas. — See page 351.

Stewed Peas. — See page 353.

French Beans. — See page 9.

Asparagus. — See page 8.

Cauliflower à la Flamond. — See page 102.

Raggoon Melé. — See page 9.

Atlets of Crayfish.

TAKE the fish out of the tails of the crayfish, and put them on skewers, and finish the same as oysters.

Wax Basket. — See Appendix.

A Cold Piecc. — See page 476.

White Collops, and Mushrooms. — See page 15.

Bubble and Squeak, or fried Beef and Cabbage.

Cut slices of cold boiled beef, that has been corned; cut as many pieces of fat as lean, boil some white cabbage, squeeze it very dry, and chop it quite fine; then fry the beef, sprinkle a little pepper over it; a very few minutes will do it; for if it is fried too much, it becomes dry and hard; it only wants to be made hot: take up the beef, and put it on the back of a sieve, then put in the cabbage, sprinkle a little pepper and salt on it, keep stirring it while on the fire; it should be kept on the fire until it has soaked up all the fat, and becomes quite dry: then put the cabbage in the middle of the dish, and the beef round it, a piece of fat and a piece of lean, one after the other.

N.B. The cabbage should be raised as high as the quantity will admit of: garnish with carrot cut in what shape fancy directs: put a carrot rose on the middle of the cabbage.

FIRST COURSE.

Giblet Soup.

SCALD the giblets very clean, then put them into cold water, and put them on the fire to blanch; when they come to a boil take them off the fire, and wash them in several waters; cut each gizzard into about eight pieces, bone the head and pinions before they are put on to blanch, crack the bone of the leg, cut the neck into about six or eight pieces, put them into a stewpan with about two quarts of stock, and set them on a stove to boil slow until very tender; then pull the leg bones out, and any of the pinion bones that may remain; leave the feet with the bones in, (the livers are of no use in the soup, but make a good second course dish) boil about a quarter of a pound of pearl barley until very tender, then put it to the soup, skim the soup very clean from fat before it is put into the tureen; put a little salt, if wanted. To three sets of giblets there should be five pints of soup.

o o

N.B. The giblets should be boiled until they are very tender, and likewise, mind to singe the pinions before they are boned, and the heads and necks the same: singe them over a stove.

A Goose, roasted. — See page 15.

A Neck of Veal, braised, and Oyster Sauce.

Trim a neck of veal, and put it on to blanch in cold water; when it comes to a boil take it off the fire, and put it into cold water; put some trimmings of veal, or any other meat, into a stewpan, with a few onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few bay leaves, a little mace, and about one quart of second stock; put the neck of veal in, and a few slices of lemon on it; cover it over with sheets of bacon, and white paper over that; set the stewpan on the stove to simmer for two hours. Make the saute as follows: blanch one quart of large oysters, take the beards off, strain the liquor, and put the oysters to it; then put about one ounce of butter into a stewpan, and put it on the fire to melt; when melted, put as much flour as will dry it up; then put it on the fire for a few minutes, and keep stirring it with a wooden spoon; put the liquor from the oysters, with a little stock, and half a pint of cream; give it a boil up, and stir it during the time it is on the fire: make it thicker than beshemell (as the oysters, when they are put in, will discharge some liquid that will thin the sauce); put the oysters in, and set the stewpan on a stove to make quite hot, but not to boil, as oysters then become hard and tasteless: squeeze a little lemon juice, and put some pepper and salt, and a very little sugar; take the veal up, and put it on a cloth to dry the fat from it: put it on the dish, and the oyster sauce over it: let as many oysters lie on the veal as possible.

A Jugged Hare.

BONE a hare, and put the bones into a small soup pot, with lean ham, six or eight large onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a little mace, one pint of stock, and a pint of port wine; put the pot on the fire to boil for two hours, and then strain it off; put the hare on the fire to blanch, in cold water; when it comes to a boil, take and wash it in several waters, then cut the legs into two pieces, the long way; cut the shoulder part from the back; then split the back down, and cut each half into three pieces; then put it into a small soup pot, and the liquid the bones were stewed in: cut one pound of ham, fat and lean, into neat pieces, and put it to the hare; cover the meat over with white paper, and then the lid of the pot; put the pot into a stewpan of water, and let the water come above three parts up the pot; put it on to boil; it should boil for three hours, or until the hare is quite tender; (when the water boils away, that is in the stewpan, put more boiling water); when done, put it on the dish, the hare in the middle, and the ham round the sides ; skim the liquor very clean from fat, and put it to the hare. There may be a few button onions sent up on the hare. It should be sent up in a deep dish.

Boil two slices of crimped cod, pull the middle bone out, and take the outside skin off; put it on the dish, without breaking, and put Italian sauce over it; put a little essence of anchovy in the sauce.

Hare Cake.

BONE two hares, and cut them in dice, with about two pounds of lean mutton, and one pound of lean ham; mix them all together, with some pepper and salt and fine spice:

line a mould with sheets of fat bacon; lay the bacon on double; put in the hare, &c. but first mix six yolks of eggs with it, and the other meat, by way of making it bind; put it in a slow oven for four hours, or longer; when done, put it to cool in the mould it was baked in; this should be done the day before wanted; put the mould in warm water for a few minutes, then the cake will turn out; take the bacon off, and ornament it; put it on the dish, and chopped aspic round it.

It is done in the same manner as ham cake. Cut part of a cold fillet of veal, in small pieces; put it in a mortar, and pound it very fine; put one-third of the fat of a ham to it; season with pepper and salt, and fine spice; pour in half a pint of clarified butter, and mix all well together; then put it in a mould, and put the mould in an oven for half an hour; when done, put it to cool in the mould: finish, in other respects, the same as ham cake.

Stewed Oysters. — See page 185.

Woodcocks. — See page 24.

APPENDIX.

Broth for filling up a Stock Pot.

THE quantity of meat depends upon how much stock you want to make. Suppose you want to make twenty quarts of broth, you must get two legs of beef, and cut them in small pieces; break the bones in several pieces; put all into a pot that will hold about thirty quarts; fill it up with cold water; be careful to watch it; skim it several times before it comes to a boil, and stir the meat well up with a strong spoon, so as to raise the scum from the bottom: every time you skim it, add a little cold water, to stop its boiling, until it becomes quite clear; then take it off the trivet, and put the pot by the side of the fire, so that it may boil very gently; it should boil very slow, so as not to waste the broth, as well as to keep it clear; it should boil for eight or ten hours; then strain it through a hair sieve, to be ready to fill up the stock pot. If it is winter, you might make it the day before you want it, as there would be no danger of its turning sour; but, in summer, cooks must be very careful in seeing that the pans are remarkably clean and dry before they have their broth strained in them, and likewise not to have more than four quarts in one pan; for, when there is a large body of it together, it is very apt to foment.

N. B. There should not be any roots put to this broth.

A General Stock for all Kinds of Soups.

Cover the bottom of your pot with lean ham, cut in thin broad slices; the quantity of ham depends upon the size of the pot; it is better to put too much than too little; be very careful to cut all the rusty fat from the lean; then cut up what veal you think requisite (as the quantity must depend upon your judgement), and put it in the stock pot, with the trimmings of any other meat you may have by you; throw in all your trimmings of poultry, such as necks, gizzards, feet, &c. a few onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, six heads of celery, a few blades of mace, two or three carrots, and a turnip or two in winter (but not any in summer, as they are sure to foment); put about a pint of water in the pot, and set it on a stove (not very hot) to draw it down; be careful not to let it catch at the bottom, as your stock should be light coloured. When drawn down enough, fill it up with the beef broth; be careful in skimming it, and do not let it boil over; but as soon as you see it coming to a boil take it off, and put it at the side; let it boil very slow, for two reasons, one is, to keep it clear, and the other, that it should not reduce too much: when it has boiled for four hours, strain it off, and fill up the pot again with water; let it boil all the evening, and strain it off the last thing; this is called second stock; it serves for gravy for the roasts, to fill up braises, and makes very good glaze for the larded and daubed dishes, &c.

Coulis.

Cut veal and ham, of an equal quantity, and an old fowl (according to how much coulis you intend to make); put it into a stewpan, with a few shalots, a faggot of thyme, parsley, and sweet marjorum; a few bay leaves, a few blades of mace, and some mushrooms; lay the bottom of a stewpan with sheets of fat bacon, if very good, otherwise the fat of ham, indeed that is always the best, when to be had; set it on a stove, with about half a pint of stock, and let it draw down gently, until it comes to a glaze at the bottom of the stewpan, which you will easily know by the smell; when down, put about half a pint more of stock, and when that is down fill up your stewpan with your best stock, and let it boil about an hour; strain it off (boil the meat again in some of the second stock, and it will make it equal to the first, for several uses); then take a stewpan, and put some butter in it (at the rate of two ounces to a quart of coulis); let it melt, then put as much flour as will dry it up; keep stirring it over a stove, with a wooden spoon (as a copper spoon would take the tin off the stewpan); then add the coulis stock, by a little at a time, to bring it to a proper thickness; let it boil a few minutes, and then strain it through a tammy into a bason; when strained, put a spoon in the sauce, and stir it several times, to keep it smooth.

N.B. In winter, or cold weather, it will keep good for a week; in hot weather, it will not be good more than three or four days.

Sauce Tournay and Beshmell.

Lay the bottom of a stewpan with ham; cut up an old fowl, and put it to the ham, and as much veal as you think proper to the quantity you intend making, with a few onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few blades of mace, and about half a pint of white stock, to draw it down; be sure and do not let it catch the bottom of the stewpan: when drawn down, fill it up with first stock, and let it boil about an hour or better; then strain it off, and fill up your stewpan with water, and it will make good broth for many uses; then put some butter into a stewpan (about the same quantity as for the coulis); add a few mushrooms, shalots, a few slices of ham cut in small dice, and about a spoonful of stock; set it on a stove for about half an hour, so as to get all the goodness from the ham, &c: put flour, sufficient to thicken it; then add the stock that you have just strained off, let it boil a few minutes, and strain it through a tammy; to make beshemell, put as much cream as will make it of a good white; it should have a little tinge of yellow, which is done by adding a small piece of light-coloured glaze.

N.B. Beshemell should not boil more than one or two minutes, as boiling is very apt to spoil the colour.—Those three sauces are the ground work of all made dishes.

White Braise.

Take the udder of a leg of veal that you have cut a fricandeau out of; put it into a stewpan, with cold water, and let it come to a boil; then put it into cold water for a few minutes, and cut it in small pieces; put them into a stewpan, with a small bit of butter, onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a few blades of mace, a lemon that is pared to the pulp, cut in thin slices, and a spoonful of water; put it over a slow stove, and keep stirring it for a few minutes; then add a little white stock; as to quantity, it must be according to what you want to braise. It is generally used for tenderones of lamb, chickens, pigeons, tenderones of veal, or any thing you want to make look white.

Brown Braise.

Cut some beef suet, trimmings of mutton cutlets, or any other trimmings; put them into a stewpan, with four onions, a faggot of thyme and parsley, basil, marjorum, mace, and a carrot cut in slices; put it over the fire; put a bit of butter, a little stock, a few bay leaves, and six heads of celery, in the stewpan; let it draw down for about half an hour; then fill it up with second stock, or weak broth, and add a little white wine to it. This braise is used for beef, mutton, veal, ham, or any thing that you want to eat mellow.

Mutton Tea.

Cut the scrag end of a neck of mutton from the bone, and then cut it into very thin slices; put it into a stewpan of sufficient size to hold the quantity you want to make, with a little water; put it over a slow stove, to draw down, for a quarter of an hour, and then fill it up with water; keep it as clear as possible, by skimming it; let it boil slow for about an hour, and then strain it through a tammy.

Beef Tea.

The beef for this purpose should be cut from the mouse, round, or leg, in very thin slices, and put into a stewpan, with boiling water over it; let it boil for a few minutes. It will take, at least, two pound to make a quart.

N.B. Veal tea is made the same as the beef. The veal should be cut from the fillet or knuckle.

Chicken Broth.

• Cut up a fowl, and put it into a stewpan, with about three pints of water, and let it boil very slow; when well skimmed, put in a few blades of mace. It will take two hours to make it good.

N.B. An old fowl will do for this purpose.

Jelly Stock.

Bone four or more calves feet, and put them into a stewpan that will hold about six quarts (if more than four, a larger, in proportion to the number of calves feet); let them boil gently for four hours, then take out the meat part, and put it into cold water; when cold, trim it for any use it is intended; throw the trimmings back into the stock, and let it boil until you think it is come to its proper strength. It is no matter how long it boils. From four feet you should have two quarts of stock.

A General Meagre Stock, for Soups, Sauces, and other Uses.

Cut two large carp, in thin pieces; two tench, and two eels, in the same manner; put about half a pound of butter into a small soup pot, that will hold about eight quarts; put in the fish and bones, eighteen large onions, a large faggot of thyme and parsley, eight heads of celery, two carrots, a few blades of mace, six bay leaves, a dozen anchovies without washing, and about a pint of water; set it on a slow stove, and let it draw down gently for two hours; it should be quite dry at the bottom before you fill it up; then fill it up with hot water, and let it boil for three hours: be sure that it does not boil fast (the slower all soups boil the better). Strain it through a tammy sieve.

N.B. Sea fish are equally as good for this use, and some are better. Throw all the bones from the fillets into your stock.

Hot forced Meat, commonly called Farce.

Cut veal (according to the quantity you want of forced meat, without any sinews) into small pieces, and as much fat bacon, or fat of ham, which is better ; half as much marrow, or beef suet ; put it into a stewpan, with a little bit of butter at the bottom ; season it with chopped parsley, thyme, mushrooms, (truffles if you have any,) shalot, pepper, and salt, a little Cayenne pepper, and a little pounded spice ; put it over the fire, and keep stirring it with a wooden spoon until the juice of the meat begins to run ; let it simmer about ten minutes, then put it to cool ; when cold, put it into a mortar ; gravy, fat, and all, and let it be well pounded, until it is quite fine ; then take it out, and use it for what it is wanting.

N. B. Use half as much lean ham as veal ; in either hot or cold forced meat.

Cold forced Meat for Balls and other Uses.

The veal should be either scraped or chopped very fine, and to be very particular about leaving any sinews in the veal ; the same quantity of scraped bacon, or fat of ham ; a little marrow, or suet ; put it into the mortar, and let it be well pounded ; season it with chopped parsley, thyme, shalot, mushrooms, pepper and salt, a little Cayenne pepper, and pounded spice ; when sufficiently beaten, put an egg, a few bread crumbs, stir it about to mix it ; take it out of the mortar, and make it up into ball, or for any other use.

N. B. You must use more or less egg and bread crumbs, according to the quantity of forced meat : when you make it up in balls, it should be rolled up in flour ; and when boiled, let the stock be boiling before you put the balls in.

Egg Balls for Turtle and Mock Turtle, &c.

Boil the eggs (that are wanted) hard, and put them in cold water ; take out the yolks, and put them in a mortar, and pound them very fine ; wet them with raw yolks, (at the rate of three raw yolks to eight hard ones) ; season them with white pepper and salt ; dry them with flour, and roll them into balls, rather small, as they swell very much in boiling : boil them in stock for a few minutes.

Piquant Sauce.

Put a little chopped shalot into a small stewpan, with a few spoonsful of stock ; let it boil until the stock is boiled away, but not burnt to the bottom ; add as much coulis as you want sauce ; let it boil a few minutes ; squeeze a lemon in it; season it with a little pepper and salt, a little sugar, and two drops of garlic vinegar.

Poirade Sauce.

Rub the bottom of a small stewpan with a clove of garlic; put a small piece of butter, a few slices of onion, a little stock and vinegar, and whole pepper about twelve grains; let it boil down; add a little flour to thicken it, and a little coulis; strain it through a tammy: squeeze in a lemon.

Carrot Sauce.

Cut the red part of a large carrot into small dice, very neat; boil them in a little best stock until it comes to a glaze; then add coulis according to the quantity of sauce that is wanted.

Sauce Hachis.

Cut a few mushrooms, onions, pickled cucumber, walnut, (first scraping the black coat off,) and carrots, into dice; boil them in a little stock until it comes to a glaze; then add coulis, and let it boil.

Alemand Sauce.

Put a little minced ham into a stewpan, and a few trimmings of poultry, either dressed or undressed; three or four shalots, one very small clove of garlic, a bay leaf, two tarragon leaves, and a few spoonsful of stock; let them simmer for half an hour; strain it off, and add coulis; squeeze in a lemon; season with pepper and salt, a little Cayenne pepper, and sugar.

Italian Sauce, Brown.

Chop a few mushrooms, shalots, and truffles; put them into a stewpan, with a little stock, and a glass of Madeira; boil it a few minutes, then add a little coulis; squeeze a Seville orange, if you have any, or a lemon; put a little bit of sugar.

Italian Sauce, White.

Put a few chopped truffles and shalots into a stewpan, with a slice of ham, minced very fine, and a little stock; let it simmer a quarter of an hour; put beshemell to it according to the quantity of sauce that is wanting; let it boil about a minute; if it should lose its colour, put a little cream to it, and strain it through a tammy; season it with a little salt, a few drops of garlic vinegar, a squeeze of a lemon, and a little sugar.

Sorrel Sauce.

Chop about four large handful of sorrel; put it into a stewpan, with a small piece of butter, a slice of ham, and two onions chopped fine; put them on the fire to simmer for half an hour; then rub it through a tammy, and add a little coulis to it; squeeze a lemon and a Seville orange, if to be had, if not, two lemons; a little pepper and salt, and sugar, to make it palatable.

Chervil Sauce.

Pick a large handful of chervil leaf by leaf; put it into a small stewpan, with a spoonful of the best stock; simmer it until the stewpan becomes dry; then add as much coulis as is requisite; squeeze a lemon, and put a little sugar to make it palatable: add a little Madeira.

Royal Sauce.

Cut a chicken to pieces, and about half a pound of lean Westphalia ham, six or eight shalots, a faggot of thyme and parsley, and a few blades of mace; put all into a stewpan, with a little stock to draw it down; when down, add coulis to it, and strain it through a tammy; season it with lemon, &c. if for white, use beshemell instead of coulis.

Flemish Sauce.

Boil a sprig of thyme, two shalots, and a bit of lemon peel, a few minutes, in a small quantity of the best stock; strain it off, and add a little coulis; season with pepper and salt, squeeze a lemon, and put a little sugar.

N.B. When you want it white, use beshemell instead of coulis.

Ravigot Sauce.

Put into a stewpan a very small clove of garlic, a little chervil, burnet, a few leaves of tarragon, a little chopped shalot, chopped mushrooms, truffles, parsley, and thyme; let them simmer a few minutes in a little very good stock, add as much coulis as is requisite for the quantity of sauce wanting; let it boil about a quarter of an hour, then rub it all through a tammy, put it into a stewpan, squeeze a lemon, add a little sugar, pepper, and salt:

Spanish Sauce.

Slice four or five large onions, put them into a stewpan with a little vinegar and half a pint of sherry, a small clove of garlic, a chopped truffle, a little shalot, some ham cut very fine, a bay leaf, a few blades of mace, and as much coulis as is requisite; boil all together very slow for a quarter of an hour, rub it through a tammy, squeeze a lemon or orange, if to be had : season with pepper and salt, and a little sugar.

Shalot Sauce.

Chop six shalots, put them into a stewpan with a little stock, let it simmer for a quarter of an hour, add a little coulis, squeeze in a lemon, and put a little sugar, &c.

Sauce à la Reine.

Cut up a fowl, half a pound of lean ham, six or eight shalots, and a few blades of mace ; put them all into a stewpan with a little best stock, set it on a stove to simmer about a quarter of an hour, then add three pints of stock and boil it for half an hour, strain it off ; put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan ; when melted, add as much flour as will dry it up, then add what you have just strained off, and about half a pint of cream, boil it for a few minutes, and strain it through a tammy.

Cucumber Sauce.

Cut the cucumbers, after peeling them, into quarters, then cut all the seed out, cut each quarter into three pieces, pare them round, peel as many small onions as pieces of cucumber, put them all into a little vinegar and water, and a little pepper and salt ; let them lay in it for two hours ; pour off the vinegar and water, and put as much stock as will barely cover them ; boil them down to a glaze ; add as much coulis as you think proper ; let it boil a few minutes, squeeze a lemon, and put a little sugar.

Haricot Roots.

Scoop an equal quantity of turnips, carrots, and peel as many button onions ; put the carrots on to boil in a little stock a quarter of an hour before the onions and turnips ; let them boil to a glaze ; add coulis equal to the sauce you want.

Collared Beef.

It is made from the flat ribs boned, and sprinkled with saltpetre and coarse brown sugar, and left so for two days ; then make about two pounds of salt quite hot in a frying-pan and rub it well into the beef ; let it lie in salt for ten days, wash it over with the pickle every second day, and turn it ; put a few bay leaves in the pickle, and sprinkle the beef over with a little fine spice about a week before it is boiled ; before it is tied up in the cloth to boil, beat it for a about five minutes upon the chopping block, with the flat part of the heaviest cleaver you have; this makes it tender, and roll up better, and, when boiled, will keep its shape. It should be boiled until very tender, and then taken up, and the ends of the cloth wrung quite hard and tied up tighter; then put into a press and a heavy weight put on it: if you have no press, put it on a dish, and prop it up as well as you can, and put the weight on it.

N. B. Two ounces of saltpetre, and two ounces of sugar are sufficient.

Beuf de Chasse.

Rub two ounces of pounded saltpetre well into a round of beef, put the beef into a large pan or wooden bowl that will just hold it; let it lie so for two days, then make two pound of salt very hot, and rub it on the beef; put about four ounces of coarse moist sugar to the salt; when done, put the beef back in the pan or bowl, turn it every third day, and rub the brine over it every time it is turned; it should remain in salt three weeks; then skewer it up very tight, and bind it with a broad fillet; either bake it or braise it in a braising pan that will just hold it; put water sufficient to cover it, and about two dozen of onions, and six heads of cellery, a large faggot of thyme, parsley, and other sweet herbs, and about three pound of beef suet cut fine; put it over the fire to boil very slow for eight hours; put a heavy weight on the lid of the braising pan, otherwise the beef would raise the cover off when it begins to swell, it will take equal time in an oven; let it remain in the liquor until quite cold, then take it out and trim it for the table.

N. B. This is more a Christmas dish, than any other time of the year, not but it may be done any time, and is equally good.

A Goose and Turkey Pie.

Bone two geese and two turkeys, season the inside with mixed pepper, salt, and a little fine spice, and put them by for three day, then draw the geese one within the other, put some good farce in the middle, and about six raw truffles, but first being peeled; then tie the geese up into what shape you think proper; do the turkeys the same, and put farce in the turkeys, and truffles and about three pounds of the prime part of a Westphalia ham, that has been braised for about two hours, then make the turkeys the same shape as the the geese; put about one pint of good stock into a braising pan (or any thing of that kind) that will barely hold them, as by that means they will keep their shape; put them on a slow stove to simmer very gently for half an hour, by way of setting them : put them to cool in the pan they are done in ; while they are cooling, raise the pie ; let them be thoroughly cold before they are put in the pie ; lay either slices of a fillet of veal, or rump steaks, at the bottom of the pie, then put in a layer of farce, and then the turkeys and geese ; put farce between them and all round the sides of the pie, and about two pounds of raw truffles, first being peeled, and cover them with sheets of bacon ; then cover the pie with paste, and ornament it according to fancy ; observe to ornament it strong, for if done fine, it will not look well by being so long in the oven ; it should not be put in the oven the same evening as made, but next morning or evening ; the best oven for it, is just when the bread is drawn out, and leave it in about eight hours ; when you take it out of the oven, be careful that you do not spill any of the fat that rises to the top, as that soaks into the geese and turkeys, and makes them mellow ; this pie will take twenty-four hours to get thoroughly cold, therefore you must prepare accordingly. It ought to be began four days before the day that it is wanted. Before the pie is sent up to table, there should be chopped aspic put on it, and the sheets of bacon taken off. This is the general rule, but not the rule that I either recommend or follow ; for this reason, by taking the bacon off the geese, &c. &c. you let the air into the pie, and then the aspic will get sour and mouldy in a few days, therefore I recommend the following method ; put the bones of the turkeys and geese, two old fowls, and two pound of lean ham, into a proper sized stewpan, with twelve onions, six heads of celery, a faggot of thyme, parsley, and other sweet herbs ; put one pint of water to them, and put the stewpan on a stove to simmer very slow for two hours, but be sure that it does not ketch at the bottom ; fill up with stock, let it boil very slow for three hours, then strain it off, and fill the stewpan again with water, and let it boil all the evening ; the liquor that was first strained off put into a stewpan (first skimming the fat off) to reduce to the quantity that you think will fill up the pie after it is baked, and should be put in about half an hour after it is taken out of the oven, just as much as will barely cover the bacon ; this will make the pie eat far better, and will keep good for two months, or longer ; send the aspic in a boat, by which means you will save aspic, and the pie will keep double the time.

N. B. Small pies for ball-suppers should have the aspic put over them before they go to table ; in every other respect all cold pies should be made in this manner, only varying as to different meats, &c. I have invented a tin case for large pies, which is made use of in the following manner: make paste the same as for a raised pie, brush the inside of the mould with egg, (be sure and put plenty on) roll out the paste about two inches larger than the bottoms, that it may turn up on the sides; then roll paste out to cover the inside; let it turn over about an inch; roll a piece of paste two inches larger than the bottom, egg four sheets of large kitchen paper, lay the paste on, then put plenty of egg on the paste, and put on the tin case; the egg will make it stick to the paste; then roll paste out for the sides, roll it in two pieces, egg the sides, and put the paste on; rub it smooth with the palm of the hand, to hinder it from gathering wind, which, if it does, the paste will blister and break off when a few days baked; the paste that goes round the sides should be about two inches broader than the side of the pie, so as to lap over the top and fasten to the bottom paste, so as to make it a proper thickness to enable you to pinch the bottom, and the same at the top; when the case is properly covered, then fill the pie as before directed, cover it in, and ornament it; as to size and shape, that must depend on those who are to make or order the pie; the tin cases are made by Mr. Bailis, in Cockspur-street, Charing-cross, who will give a proper direction how to use them, by lining it with paper; to give a clear idea to those who may not comprehend what I have said upon that subject. By using those tins you are sure of all the liquor remaining in the pie: for instance, make a large pie without a tin case, an accident may happen to it so as to crack in the oven, which lets all the gravy and goodness out, and of course the true flavour of the pie is lost, and the cook blamed by his employer for what he could not avoid; for at times the flour will not stand the oven without cracking, and it certainly does not take half the flour, which is a great consideration; the tin case will last a number of years. There is another advantage, which is, there is no occasion to set the meat; for if the meat is not set when the crust is raised, it would burst the pie, and of course, let out all the essence of the inside, which cannot be retrieved without double expense.

A Christmas Pie.

It is made in the same manner as the last, with the addition of partridges, hare, and pheasant, all boned. As to the number, it depends on the size the pie is to be.

Small Collars.

They are made of the feet and ears of bacon hogs that have been scalded, not singed; the feet should be cut above.

the first joint, then boned, and seasoned with pepper, salt, a little salt-petre, and fine spice; the ears seasoned in the same manner; leave them in that state four or five days, then roll them up, put a foot first, then an ear, then a foot; roll them up very tight, and put them in cloths provided for the purpose; boil them in a good brown braise; let there be plenty of onions, and a faggot of thyme, parsley, marjorum, and sage; the collars should boil until quite tender, then taken up, and the cloths made quite tight; then put the collars to cool; when quite cold, take the cloths from them; either send them up whole or slice them; they both eat and look as well as brawn. Calves feet will answer the same purpose. When they are collared, cut fat and lean ham about the same thickness as for daubing, lay it the cross-ways of the feet: season the same as pig's feet.

A Cold Partridge Pie.

Bone partridges, the number according to the size the pie is wanted; make some good farce, and fill the partridges with it, put a whole raw truffle in each partridge, (let the truffle be peeled) raise the pie, lay a few slices of veal in the bottom of the pie, and a thick layer of farce; then the partridges, and four raw truffles to each partridge; then cover the partridges and truffles over with sheets of bacon, cover the pie in and finish it; it will take four hours baking; cut two pounds of lean ham (if eight partridges are in the pie) in very thin slices, put it in a stewpan, and the bones and giblets of the partridges, and any other loose giblets that are at hand, an old fowl, a faggot of thyme and parsley, a little mace, and about twenty-four shalots; put about half a pint of stock, set the stewpan on a stove to draw down for half an hour, then put three quarts of good stock, let it boil for two hours, then strain it off, and reduce the liquid to one quart, or until it nearly becomes glaze; then put one pint of sherry wine to it, and put away until the pie is baked: when the pie has been out of the oven for half an hour, boil what was strained from the bones, &c. of the partridges, and put it into the pie; let it stand for twenty-four hours before it is cut.

N. B. Do not take any of the fat from the pie, as that is what preserves it; a pie made in this manner will be eatable three months after it is cut; in short, it cannot spoil in any reasonable time; all cold pies are made in this manner: either poultry or game that is put in a raised crust, and intended not to be eaten until cold, should be boned, and the liquid that is to fill up the pie made from the bones, &c.

A Galentine.

Bone a breast of veal and beat it for five minutes with the flat part of a heavy chopper, to make it roll up the better, then spread it on the table, and brush the inside with egg; it will take two eggs; then lay a piece of lean ham cut in long square pieces the length of the cross way of the breast of veal, one piece of omelet of yolk of egg, one of white of egg, then a thick row of chopped parsley, lean ham, and omelet, &c. when well covered, put egg over it, and sprinkle it well with chopped mushrooms, truffles, shalot, thyme, parsley, pepper, salt, and fine spice, then roll it up very tight, and roll the collar up in a cloth, and put it into a brown braise; set it on a stove to boil very slow for six hours, or until very tender; then take it up and put it on a pewter dish, another of the same size over it, and a heavy weight on the top dish, to press it flat; it should be done two days before it is wanted; then slice it out for supper; it is generally used for ball suppers; when dished, put chopped aspic in the middle, and some round the galantine

N.B. A breast of mutton may be done the same way.

Haricot Beans.

Put the haricot beans on to blanch; when they come to a boil, take them off, and put them into cold water, and take off the outside skin, (the same as is done to almonds); then put them on in some good stock; when boiled down, put some coulis to them.

Endive.

Take some white endive, what is generally called blanched, put it into a stewpan of cold water; let it come to a boil; take it off, and put it into cold water for an hour; the hot and cold water is to take the bitter from it; take it out of the water, and squeeze it very dry; lay it in a stewpan longways, and put stock sufficient to cover it; let it boil until the stock is reduced; then add coulis to it if for brown, and if for white, beshemell; this way is for a second course dish; when it is to put under any meat, it should be chopped quite fine.

Brown Celery Sauce.

Cut a dozen heads of celery about two inches long; put them on in about a pint of good stock; let it reduce down to a glaze; then add coulis according to what quantity of sauce is wanted.

Robert Sauce.

Slice one large Spanish onion, and cut it into dice ; put them in a frying pan, with a little clarified butter ; fry the onion of a nice gold colour, and put it on a cloth to dry the fat up ; then put it into half a pint of coulis ; add two téa spoonsful of mustard, a little pepper and salt, if wanted, and the juice of a Seville orange.

A Purré of Potatoes.

Boil what potatoes you want for the purré in some very good stock, (the potatoes should be peeled, and of the mealy kind) ; rub them through a tammy, and add a little sauce tourney, and season with a little salt.

Marmalade of Apples.

They are done as follows : they should be peeled and cut in quarters, and the cores taken out ; then put the apples in a preserving pan or stewpan with a little water, just as much as will keep them from burning ; set them on a slow fire to stew until quite soft : when done, rub them through a hair sieve, then put lump sugar into a preserving pan, half a pound to one pound of apples, or thereabouts, three half pints of water to two pounds of sugar ; let it boil until it comes nearly to caramel ; then put in the apples, and the juice of two lemons to a pound of sugar ; put the preserving pan on the fire, keep stirring it during the time it is on the fire ; it should boil about ten minutes.

N.B. Put the rind of a lemon grated very fine to a pound of apples, (there is no occasion to weigh the apples after the first time of making) as it is easily judged by weighing a pound, and put it in a large spoon, Quince Marmalade.

Peel the quinces and put them on to boil in water, cut them in slices, but do not take the cores, or the seeds out, boil them in as little water as you can, and let them be quite dry ; when soft, rub them through a hair sieve, then put as many pounds of lump sugar into a preserving-pan as there are of quince ; and water, according to the quantity of sugar ; a pint and a half to two pound of sugar ; let it boil until it hangs to the spoon, then put the quince in, and boil it for ten minutes ; keep stirring it during the time it is on the fire ; when done, put it in pots ; when cold, put paper over it, first wetting the paper in brandy.

Seville or China Orange Marmalade.

The peel should be in spring water four days before they are boiled. Scoop the pulp from the oranges into a hair sieve, put a bason under it to catch the juice, then cut the rind in pieces, and put them on to boil in spring water; when they come to a boil, change the water, and put more water to them; boil the orange peel until very tender, then strain the water from them, (save some of the water) put the oranges into a mortar, and beat them until fine enough to go through a sieve; when they are beaten sufficient, rub them through a sieve, then put as many pounds of sugar as there are of orange into a preserving pan, and one pint of the water the oranges were boiled in to each pound of sugar, and let the juice of the oranges and the sugar boil until it hangs to the spoon; then put in the orange, boil it about ten minutes, keep stirring it while on the fire, then put it in pots, and paper over it, first being wetted with brandy.

N.B. Seville oranges are to be had from the latter end of January to the middle of March; they may be had later, but they are not in perfection longer.

Puff Paste.

Take a pound of flour and an egg and wet it with water, be careful not to put too much water at first, mix it up rather stiff, then work it well with the heel of your hand until it becomes pliable, so that it will draw in strings, then take a pound of butter and work it well until it becomes tough; roll the paste out rather thick, put all the butter in at once, and fold the paste up quite even; then roll it out again, and fold it up in regular folds; repeat this three times, then roll it out for use; be careful to let it all be of a thickness, otherwise it will not bake upright, but fall aside in the oven; if for pâtés, it should be nearly a quarter of an inch, cut out with cutters according to your own fancy; put them on a baking sheet, rub them over with a small paste brush dipped in yolk of egg, and a little water; be careful not to let the egg touch the sides; then take a cutter three sizes smaller than what you cut out the pâtés with, and cut them in the middle about half through; put them in a quick oven immediately; be particularly attentive to the oven, as they will not take many minutes in baking; if the oven is too quick, cover them with paper to keep them from being too high coloured; when done, take off the tops, and scoop out the soft paste from the inside, and put them on white kitchen paper to soak the butter from them; they should not be filled many minutes before they are wanted; this kind of paste is used for all kinds of tartlets, and what is called small pastry, meat pies made in dishes, volerents, pâtés, goodeveaux, &c.

N.B. All meat pies should be egged.

Tart Paste, commonly called Short Paste.

To one pound of flour rub in a quarter of a pound of butter, wet it with water and two eggs, work it up to a proper stiffness, and roll it out for use.

N.B. There should be about two table spoonsful of sugar to it when it is for tart, or any thing sweet; this is the proper paste for meat puddings, dumplings, &c.; only remember to make it without sugar.

Common Paste for Family Pies, &c.

To one pound and a half of flour, break in half a pound of butter, wet it with water, work it up, and roll it out twice, the second time for use; there is no occasion for weighing the flour for this paste, as it is of no consequence whether there is an ounce over or under; young beginners had better weigh the flour and butter for the puff and tart paste, until they get used to their work.

Hot Paste for raised Pies, &c.

To one quart of water put two ounces of butter, set it on the fire to boil, take what flour you think is requisite, break two eggs into it, and stir the butter and water in with a spoon, so as to mix the egg with the liquid; then work it up well; it should be worked at least fifteen minutes, and made quite stiff, then put it in a stewpan before the fire to sweat for about half an hour, then raise your pie to any shape you please; it is the better way to raise your pie and finish it for baking the day before you want it, as it will stand the oven the better, particularly if it is a large one; but as for small ones, or cases, they may be made and baked directly: as for garnishing, your own fancy must direct you.

Almond Paste, for Second Course' Dishes.

Take a pound of sweet and four ounces of bitter almonds, blanch them and make them as dry as you can, put them into a mortar and pound them well, beat up the whites of three eggs, and wet the almonds with it by a little at a time; when pounded enough, rub it through a tannery sieve, then get a small preserving pan, set it over a stove, not very fierce) and put the almonds in the pan, stir in a pound of very fine sifted treble refined sugar, or as much as will bring it to a paste consistence; take it out of the preserving pan and put it between two plates to sweat; when cold, make it into what shapes you think proper; there are shells of different sorts for almond paste. Mr. Buhl, in St. Martin's Lane, has the greatest variety of almond-paste shapes. Make some into cups, like coffee cups and cream jugs, or any thing your fancy may lead you, for that must be the guide for all these kind of things.

Meringues.

Beat up the whites of four new laid eggs with half a pound of double refined sugar very finely sifted, beat it up with a silver spoon until it becomes thick, like paste, put about a tea-spoonful of Cederata in it; if you have not that, grate a lemon in it; when finished, get a sheet of writing paper, and put it upon a baking sheet, and drop the batter on the paper; drop it rather of an oval; sift some fine sugar over them, and put them in the oven for a few minutes; the oven should be rather slow, be careful not to let them burn; when done, take them off the paper by running a knife under them, but very gently, for fear of breaking them, put a little sweetmeat in them, and stick two together; they are very proper to fill carmel baskets, or gum paste ditto, or on a dish, for second course, or supper.

Gum Paste, for Ornaments.

Take what quantity of gum dragon you think proper, put it into a small deep sweet meat pot, put as much warm water as will cover it, and cover it over with paper; when it has stood about six hours, take it out of the pot and turn it upside down, and put it in the pot again with as much more water; let it stand all night, next day strain it through a cloth, then put it in a mortar with a little treble refined sugar sifted through a fine drum sieve; it will take at least one hour's pounding; when it is pounded enough it will draw into strings and crack against the mortar; put a little fine hair powder in it before you take it out of the mortar; when taken out of the mortar, work it up with treble refined sugar, sifted as before mentioned, and one third hair powder; you make as many colours as you please; then make what ornaments are wanted.

Whole Rice Pudding, baked.

A quarter of a pound of rice will make about a quart of pudding; wash it very well in several waters, then put it on to boil in a pint of new milk, put about half a pint of milk in another stewpan with a little cinnamon, and the peel of a lemon; let it boil for a quarter of an hour, then strain it off, put it to the rice, and let it boil until nearly dry; then take it off the fire and put it into a bason with a quarter of a pound of fresh butter, stir it until the butter is melted, then break eight eggs into another bason, (leave out two whites) beat them up very well, put sugar sufficient to sweeten it, a little nutmeg, and a small glass of brandy; then mix it with the rice, and put it into the dish that you intend to bake it in; the dish should be buttered, and put puff paste round the rim; it will bake in about half an hour.

N.B. A little saffron boiled with the cinnamon will give it a pretty colour; there may be a few currants added.

A Ground Rice Pudding, either baked or boiled.

It is made the same way as the whole rice, except in one point, which is when you put the rice and milk on the fire; it must be stirred with a spoon all the time, to keep it from sticking to the bottom of the stewpan.

N.B. Butter the mould you boil it in.

A Vermicelli Pudding, either baked or boiled.

Boil a quarter of a pound of vermicelli in a quart of new milk until the vermicelli has soaked up all the milk; then put it into a bason with about two ounces of butter, and break eight eggs, leave out three whites, beat the eggs up well; add sugar and brandy to them; mix it with the vermicelli, then either bake or boil it: if baked, put puff paste on the edge of the dish.

N.B. Boil a little cinnamon, lemon peel, and nutmeg, in a little milk by itself, then strain it to the vermicelli; if the nutmeg were to be grated in the pudding, if boiled, it would appear like dirt, and by boiling it in the milk it gives it the flavour, which is all that is wanted.

A Tapioca Pudding, either baked or boiled.

Put half a pound of tapioca in a stewpan with cold water, set it on the fire till it comes to a boil, then strain it off, and boil it in a quart of new milk, let it boil slow until it has soaked up all the milk; then put it into a bason to cool; break ten eggs, leave out four whites, beat them up, and sweeten it with moist sugar; add a glass of brandy, two ounces of oiled butter, and a little nutmeg; either bake or boil it.

A Bread Pudding, either baked or boiled.

Boil a quart of milk with lemon peel and cinnamon, for a few minutes; put the crumb of four French rolls into a bason, pour the milk over the rolls, and cover the bason quite close for about half an hour; break eight eggs into another bason, beat them up, and sweeten it with moist sugar ; add a glass of brandy, a little nutmeg, and a few currants, if you think proper ; if baked, put puff paste on the rim of the dish, and butter the dish ; if for boiling, butter the mould.

N.B. All boiled puddings should have wine sauce.

A best Sort of Plum Pudding.

A pound of raisins, stoned, a pound of currants, well washed and picked, a pound of suet, chopped very fine, about a pound of flour, and as much bread crumbs, a little pounded spice, an ounce of preserved lemon peel, an ounce of orange peel, an ounce of citron, about half a nutmeg grated, and a quarter of a pound of moist sugar, mix all together by rubbing it between your hands, then put it into a bason, break eight eggs into it, put about half a pint of new milk, and two glasses of brandy ; stir it up well with a wooden spoon ; be careful not to wet it too much, for if it is not very thick the fruit will settle at the bottom ; it will take four hours to boil.

A Family Plum Pudding.

It is made the same way as the best sort, but not so rich, the lemon and orange peel, and citron, is left out, and use all flour instead of bread crumbs, by which means it will take two hours more boiling.

A Marrow Pudding.

Boil a pint of milk, put a little cinnamon and lemon peel in it, and let it boil for half an hour ; strain it into a bason, and put it to cool, break six eggs into a bason, (leave out three whites) beat them up, then add the milk that you strained ; put a little brandy and nutmeg, put puff paste round the rim of the dish that you intend to bake the pudding in, butter the bottom, then cut the crust of three French rolls, and cut the crumb in slices ; lay the bottom of the dish with the slices of roll, then cut marrow in thin slices and lay it on the roll, sprinkle a few currants over the marrow ; then lay another layer of bread, marrow, and currants, and repeat it until the dish is full ; about a quarter of an hour before you put it into the oven pour some of the custard over it, and the remainder just before you put it into the oven ; it will take about half an hour.

N.B. A bread and butter pudding is made the same way, only using butter instead of marrow.

A Sagoe Pudding, either baked or boiled.

Boil four ounces of sagoe in water a few minutes, then strain it off, put it into about a quart of milk, and boil it until tender; boil lemon peel and cinnamon in a little milk, and strain it to the sagoe, put the sagoe into a bason, break eight eggs, mix it well together, and sweeten it with moist sugar; add a glass of brandy and a little nutmeg; if for baking, put puff paste round the rim of the dish, and butter the bottom; about three quarters of an hour will bake it: if for boiling, butter the mould well that you boil it in, that it may turn out clean; make wine sauce for it; it will take an hour and a half to boil.

A Savoy Pudding, either boiled or baked.

Pare the outside of a savoy cake, cut it in slices, and put it in a bason, pour a little milk over it that has boiled, and cover it up close to steam it; when cold, put six eggs to it, (leaving out two whites) beat it up, and add a glass of brandy; it will want no sugar; if for baking, put puff paste round the dish, and butter the bottom; about twenty minutes will bake it: if for boiling, butter the mould well: pour wine sauce over it.

A Custard Pudding, either baked or boiled.

Boil a pint of milk and a pint of cream together, with cinnamon, lemon-peel, and nutmeg, for half an hour; strain it and put it to cool; break eight eggs, (leaving out four whites); add about a table spoonful of flour; beat them well; then add the milk and cream that has been boiled, and a glass of brandy; if for baking, put thin puff paste at the bottom of the dish (first buttering it) and round the rim; then strain the custard into the dish; it will take about twenty minutes; if for boiling, butter the mould, and let it boil about half an hour; garnish the dish you send it up in with currant jelly, and pour wine sauce over it.

Small Curd and Almond Puddings, baked.

Get some cheese curd; put it on a hair sieve to drain the whey from it; put a pewter plate over it, and a weight of eight or ten pounds to press it quite dry; then rub the curd through a hair sieve, (and put about a quarter of a pound of butter to about a pound of curd, to be rubbed through with the curd); put it into a basin, and break eight eggs, (leave out six whites); sweeten it with sifted lump sugar; grate two lemons in it, some nutmeg, and a glass of brandy; add about two ounces of sweet almonds, about eight or ten bitter almonds, and a few currants; butter the moulds well with a paste-brush; then throw in some fine bread crumbs, so as to stick to the sides; fill the moulds, and let them bake for half an hour in a quick oven; then turn them out, and pour wine sauce over them : the same preparation will do for a large mould, if you want to match any thing similar to it.

N. B. Crumble six sponge biscuits in, or an equal quantity of savoy cake, or French roll, if the latter is not convenient.

Sugar for Carmel Baskets.

Put two pounds of sugar in a preserving pan, with about a pint of water, and the white of an egg ; whisk it up until it boils ; take off the black scum as it rises ; when it has boiled a few minutes ; strain it through a tammy, or lawn sieve, into a small sugar-pan ; put it on a stove not very brisk ; let it boil until it comes to a proper degree for spinning the baskets ; the way to know when the sugar is fit, is to dip your finger in the sugar, and immediately into cold water ; if the sugar becomes crisp in the water it will do ; the baskets should not be spun more than an hour before they are wanted ; the mould should be oiled before using : this belongs more to the confectioner than to the cook.

Preparation of Wax for Baskets and other Ornaments.

To one pound of wax put half a pound of spermacetti, and about one ounce of flake white, mixed up with half that quantity of hog's lard, and melt it all together ; have the moulds that are intended for use ready ; they should be remarkably clean in the inside, that the wax may not be discoloured ; oil the moulds a little with a clean cloth ; mind that the wax is not too hot when you begin to cast ; if it is it will be troublesome to get out ; they may be ornamented with coloured wax, or gum paste, cut out from boards for that purpose ; the wax baskets are generally painted in oil colours ; sometimes they are done with fat flowers : Mr. Hickson, of Duke-street, Grosvenor-square, is remarkably clever at that, and all other cold work, such as ornamenting tongues, hams, &c. and cold work in general.

Savoy Cakes.

To one pound of fine sifted sugar put the yolks of ten eggs, (the whites are to be put in a separate pan,) beat the yolks and sugar up well with a wooden spoon for half an hour ; then whisk the whites up until they become quite stiff and white ; stir them into the batter by a little at a time ; when all is in, then add three quarters of a pound of flour that has been dried before the fire, and the rind of a lemon grated ; then put the mixture into two moulds ; they should be baked in a very slow oven ; when you think they are done run a knife down the middle ; if the knife comes out quite clean, the cakes are done ; the moulds should be prepared, before you begin the cakes, in the following manner : have some clarified fresh butter, and butter the moulds with a small brush, (what the painters call a tool) ; mix about three ounces of very fine sifted sugar with about one ounce of flour ; then throw it all into one mould, and shake it about well ; then turn it out into the other mould, and knock the mould upon the table, so as to leave no more sugar than sticks to the mould ; be very particular with the moulds, for there is as much art in preparing the mould, as in mixing the batter for the cake. When for second course, or suppers, they are ornamented with gum paste.

To preserve French Beans for Winter Use.

The French beans should be gathered when three parts grown, and the string taken off ; then put them in jars, and pour salt and water over them ; the salt and water should be boiled, and strong enough to bear up an egg, and not put to the beans until cold ; put as much salad oil on the water as will be about one inch deep ; cover the jars over with bladders ; they should be done about the beginning of September ; before using, they should be put in warm water, to extract the salt from them, and the water changed several times ; and when put on to boil, the more water they are boiled in the better ; put about a table spoonful of pearl-ash in the water, to make them look green.

Cucumbers for Sauce.

Peel the cucumbers and cut them in quarters ; if the cucumbers are large, make three pieces of each quarter, and trim them the same as for sauce ; then put them in a hair sieve, and shake a handful of salt over them, and leave them in the sieve until next day, (by doing so the salt draws the watery substance from the cucumbers) ; then put them into small jars, so as to fill the jars three parts full ; then put salt and water to them, (the same as to French beans,) and salad oil about one inch deep ; cover them over with bladders.

N. B. Before using, put them in several waters to extract the salt from them.

Artichoke Bottoms.

Boil the artichokes, pull the leaves off, and take out the choke ; put the bottoms on earthen dishes, and put the dishes in the hot closet, or slow ovens, for several evenings, or until the artichoke bottoms become quite hard ; then put them in paper bags, and hang them up in a dry place; before using, they will require about four hours soaking in warm water; they are equally good as fresh from the garden.

Peas for Winter Use.

The peas for this use should be gathered when they are come to their full growth, (but not old); they should be shelled and put in bottles, and the bottles filled up with salt and water, as high as the neck, and the remainder filled up with salad oil; tie a bladder over the necks of the bottles, instead of putting a cork in; they require a good deal of soaking to extract the salt from them.

N. B. They are preserved another way, which is by putting them into bottles: fill the bottles as full as you can; cork them quite close, and dip the heads of the bottles in hot resin; then bury the bottles under ground; this is the best way when they turn out good; but the salt and water is the surest way. As they are not attended with much expense, it would be advisable to do some both ways.

Sour Crout.

When the large white cabbages are full grown, cut all the green leaves from them; slice the white part in thin slices, and sprinkle it over with salt; put the cabbage into a tub for that purpose; put in a layer of cabbage, and then a few juniper berries, and then cabbage, and so on until the tub is quite full; (the size of the tub depends upon the quantity wanted;) then put a round sheet of lead, cast to the size of the top of the tub: the lead should weigh at least one hundred and fifty pounds; for the heavier the weight is, the more it will press the liquor from the cabbage; as the liquor rises, pour it off; it should be done at least three months before using; when any is wanted for use, wash it in several warm waters, and pick all the juniper berries from the cabbage. The best way of dressing it is as follows: put one pint of good stock, one pint of hock, or vin de grave, and a piece of pickled pork on the top; put it on a slow stove to stew at least five hours; put the cabbage on the dish, and the pork on the top; it may be used for many other things; such as stewed beef, ox and sheep rumps, roulard of veal, or mutton, &c.

Potatoes.

By mentioning these it may appear to many, that I do it to add to the number of pages, but quite the contrary; there is most certainly an art in boiling this most valuable of all vegetables: the size of the saucepan, or whatever they are boiled in, should depend on the quantity of potatoes that are wanted; the saucepan should be filled with potatoes first, and then barely covered with water; put a little salt in the water; when the potatoes come to a boil, put a little cold water just to stop the boil; when the potatoes begin to crack, strain the water from them; and if they are not thoroughly done, by letting them stand upon a trivet, over a slow fire, the steam will do them, and make them mealy besides; potatoes should not be peeled before boiled, and they should be sent to table as hot as possible.

Neither parsnips or carrots should be scraped before they are boiled, but peeled afterwards; by so doing, they look neat and clean.

The water should boil quite strong, for all kinds of greens before they are put in, and kept boiling very fast while they are on the fire; put salt in the water before the greens are put in, and make them quite dry before they are sent to table.

Garden beans, while young, should be sent to table with the white skin on; but when they become old, the skin should be peeled off, either before or after they are boiled; by so doing they eat like young beans: parsley and butter should be served up in a boat.

Bacon and Ham.

Lay the bacon hog on the block, back upwards, cut the head off, then cut a chine out all the way down; next cut out the ham, then the spareribs and griskins; take the blade bones from the flitches with as much lean meat as you can; sprinkle the spareribs, griskins, and blade bones, and hang them up until wanted; pound a quarter of a pound of saltpetre very fine, and put two ounces on each ham, and lay the hams on a dish, the rind side down; lay the bacon on a salting bench, and put two ounces of saltpetre on each fitch; next day, make about four pounds of salt and one pound of coarse sugar very hot in a frying-pan, and rub one half on one ham, and the other half on the other; be sure and rub it well in with the hand; then put the hams in the salt bin, but do not put any brine to them, they will make a sufficient quantity; lay them on the rind side; be sure and put as much salt as you can where the hock is cut off, and likewise take out any kernels that can be got at, and cut out all the veins; when the hams have lain one week, then rub them over with the brine that they have made, and turn them on the other side; they should lie a month, or five weeks, in the salt, and rubbed over and turned every week; then hang them up in the chimney to dry; the chimney they are hung in should have a slow but constant fire, every day while they are there; they will take about three weeks or a month; if convenient, there may be a few juniper berries rubbed in the hams before the saltpetre is put on, about one pound for two hams; there are other methods for curing hams, but this has answered well with me.

N. B. Hang the hams and bacon as high in the chimney as you can: put about six pounds of salt, and one pound of coarse sugar in a frying-pan to make hot, when very hot rub one half on each flitch, and lay the flitches one on the other; put a pan under the spout of the bench to catch the brine; the bacon should be turned once a week; that is, put the bottom flitch at the top; and if you think it wants any more salt, put it to it; but too much salt spoils the bacon, as much as too little; mind to put as much salt where the hocks were cut off as you can; do not make a hole in the flitch to hang it up by, but tie a string very tight round the hock, and hang it up by that, and dry it the same as the hams; it is not required generally for cooks to cure the bacon and hams; but I think it right to give young men, who served their times at taverns, in London, and women cooks the same, an idea how to manage bacon, if required of them to cure it; after the bacon is well dried, it is a good method to pack it up in a chest for that purpose; put very dry malt dust at the bottom of the chest, and plenty between each flitch; the hams are best by themselves, packed up the same way.

Sausages.

The trimmings from the hams, and part of the griskin, fat and lean, equal quantity, should be first cut very fine with a knife, (be careful to take all the sinews out); then chop it very fine with chopping knives; season it (when done chopping) with pepper and salt, and a little fine spice; mix it well after seasoning; then put it either in skins, or a pot; if in a pot, press it down very hard, and put a little pepper and salt on the top; a pot is the handiest for family use, as it will keep longer; when wanted, roll them up, and fry them in clarified butter.

A Turbot.

It should be put on in cold water, with a little salt and vinegar; when it comes to a boil, put cold water to it, take some of the hot out, and put more cold in; when it comes to a boil, take it off the fire, for fish should not boil up strong.

Salmon.

It requires rather more boiling than turbot, therefore it may boil by the side of a stove for a few minutes; the water should boil for crimped salmon before the salmon is put in.

A Cod's Head, either crimped or not.

It should be put on in cold water, and when it comes to a boil, put a little cold water, so as to stop the boil; serve it so twice, take it off the fire, but let it boil for a few minutes by the side of a stove.

Crimped Cod in Slices.

They should be put on in boiling water, when the fish is put in it will of course stop the boil: when it begins to boil again put a little cold water and let it simmer, by the side of a stove, for a few minutes; put salt in the water you boil it in, and a little vinegar. This should be a general rule for all boiled fish.

Soles boiled.

The same as the crimped cod.

John Dorey.

It should be put on in cold water; when it comes to a boil put in cold water and take it off the fire; let it boil slow by the side of a stove for a few minutes.

Haddick, Whiting, or Small Codlings.

They are all taken the same method with in boiling. Put them in cold water and stop the boil; take them off the fire, and put them by the side, but do not let them boil.

N.B. All fish will take more boiling in winter than in summer.

A Brill.

It is dressed the same as a turbot.

Skait.

It should be put on in boiling water; a few minutes will do it.

Mackerel.

They should be put in boiling water.

Soles, fried.

They should be dipped in egg and then in bread crumbs, and done twice over; fry them in lard; if for meagre, in clarified butter.

N.B. All fried fish should be done this way. Sole fillets, done with egg and bread crumbs and fried, looks neat, besides being handy for the lady or gentleman who helps the fish; whiting and small haddicks may be done the same way.

Smelts are a good garnish, they are done the same as soles.

Broiled salmon is also a good garnish; it is prepared and salted and put on a tart pan, and put in the oven with oiled butter over it, then put on the gridiron for a few minutes.

Fried Skait.

It should either be dipped in batter or done with bread crumbs; if dipped in batter it requires more lard or butter to fry it.

Roasted Sturgeon.

Put it on a lark spit and tie it on the roasting spit; bast it well with butter, make a good sauce of coulis, madeira wine, anchovies, a squeeze of Seville orange, and a little sugar.

Boiled Sturgeon.

Send anchovy sauce in a boat.

Baked Sturgeon.

Put it in a marinade made of vinegar, white wine, oil, six onions shredded, sweet herbs, and celery, cut in pieces; pour the liquid part over it, and the other some under and some over; put the marinade to the sturgeon over night; before it is put in the oven cover it well with bacon, put a pint of good stock, and put it in a slow oven; the time it will take depends on the size of the piece of sturgeon; when the sturgeon is done, take it out of what it was baked in, strain the liquor, and skim it quite free from fat; then put about two ounces of butter into a stewpan; let it melt; then add as much flour as will dry it up; put the liquor that the sturgeon was done in and a little coulis; boil it for a few minutes, strain it through a tammy sieve into another stewpan, season it with a little Cayenne pepper, put a little anchovy essence, squeeze a Seville orange, and put a little sugar; put the sturgeon on the dish, and the sauce over it. When for meagre use no stock or coulis made from meat.

Broiled Sturgeon.

Cut it as cutlets, broil it over a very clear stove; it will not take many minutes; season it with pepper and salt on both sides; dish it round the dish and put piquant sauce in the middle.

For collops of sturgeon, do them the same as white collops, only put a little anchovy essence in the sauce.

Mackerel à la Maitre d'Hotel.

They are cut down the back, seasoned with pepper and salt, and chopped mackerel herbs; put them on the gridiron to broil.

Fillets of Mackerel.

Fillet two mackerel, put about an ounce of butter into a stewpan, with mackerel herbs that have been chopped and boiled, and about two spoonsful of stock; put the fillets of mackerel in a stewpan, let them do gently for about ten minutes, then take them out and put them on the dish; put a little flour to the herbs and butter, and add a little beshemell; give it a gentle simmer, squeeze a lemon, put a little anchovy essence, put it over the mackerel.

Red Mullet.

They should be folded up in oiled paper, put in a tart pan, and put in the oven. Make the sauce from the liquid they discharge; put a bit of butter into a stewpan; when melted, stir a little flour in, and put what is come from the mullets, with a little madeira, and essence of anchovy: send them up in the paper cases.

Pipers.

They are best baked with a pudding in them; put a little stock in the dish they are baked in; make the sauce from that; put essence of anchovy, and squeeze a lemon. Gurnets are done the same way: they are sometimes boiled.

Turtle.

The one that I am giving direction for dressing was between 90 and a 100lb. weight. Tie a cord to the hind fins of the turtle and hang it up; then tie another cord to the fore fins, by way of pinioning it, (that it should not beat itself and be troublesome to the person who cuts off the head) then cut off the head, (this do the evening before you intend dressing it). Lay the turtle on a block, on the back shell, then loose the shell round the edge by cutting it; then raise the shell off clean from the flesh. Next take out the gall with great care, then cut the fore fins off; all the flesh will come with them; then cut the hind fins off; take the liver (as whole as you can) from the entrails; likewise the heart and kidneys: then cut the entrails from the back bone and put them in a bucket; wash the shell in several waters to clean it from the blood, and turn it down to drain; in the mean time, cut the fins from the lean meat, and cut the white, or belly, shell into about twelve or fourteen pieces; turn up the back shell; and take all the fat from it, (take it out the same as if you were skinning any thing) and put it into a stewpan: saw a rim of the back shell about six inches deep, (a strong lock saw is what should be used) cut it into about ten or twelve pieces, set a large stewpan on the fire full of water; when it comes to a boil, dip a fin in it for a minute or two, then take it out and peel it very clean; when that is done, take another; and so on, until all are done; then the head; next the shell, piece by piece; be careful to take off all the outside peel and shell; then put the shell into a stewpan, about eighteen large onions, and a faggot of turtle herbs; fill it up with water and set it on the fire to boil: when it comes to a boil, set it at the fire-side to boil slow until it becomes quite tender. Next cut the fore fins into four pieces each, the hind fins into two each, and put them into a stewpan that will just hold them; put twelve onions and a faggot of turtle herbs; put as much water as will cover the fins, and set them on a stove; when it comes to a boil, take it off and set the stewpan by the side of the fire to boil until the fins become tender, so that all the bones will draw out. Take up the fins and draw out all the bones with great care, then take up the other parts and do the same: do not mix them; lay them on different dishes, strain the liquor that both were boiled in into one pan; cut off the lean meat for entrées, such as for a fricandeau, grenadines, collops, for roasting; boiling, as chickens, pâtés, cutlets, and semels; then put about a pound of fresh butter into a soup pot, and all the lean meat that is left, three fowls, a faggot of turtle herbs, a dozen onions, two pound of lean ham, (this should be put at the bottom of the pot) and a bottle of Madeira wine; set the pot on a stove to draw down; be careful in not having too fierce a fire; when it has steamed for an hour fill up the pot with the liquor that the fins and shell were boiled in; when it comes to a boil take the pot from the trivet, and set it at the side to boil very slow for two hours; then strain it off, pick what lean meat you want for the tureens, and put it in a stewpan with a little of the stock to keep it hot; while the stock is boiling set a person to scour and scald the entrails, you must be particular in seeing that they are very clean; then cut them in pieces about two inches long, put them on to blanch in cold water, then wash them out, and cover the bottom of a stewpan with fat bacon, put in the entrails, about a quart of stock, a few onions, and cover them over with sheets of bacon, and over that a sheet of white paper; let them stew very gently for three hours, put in two lemons that have been peeled and cut in slices before they are covered with the bacon; the liver is best as a souties; the head belongs to the fins; put two pounds of butter into a large stewpan, with a pound of the prime part of a Westphalia ham, cut very fine, some chopped mushrooms, truffles, shalot, parsley, (double the quantity of any other herbs) sweet marjorum, knotted ditto, lemon and orange thyme, common thyme, basil, (about half as much as of the other herbs) a spanish onion, and a pint of good stock; set the stewpan over a slow stove to simmer for an hour, then put a plate full of flour, keep stirring it about for a few minutes over the fire, then put in the turtle stock, (by a little at a time, as were it all put in at once, you could not mix the flour so well) and four or five quarts of good stock, or as much as you think will be wanting, and one bottle of Madeira; let it boil for a few minutes, then rub it through a tammy, return it into a soup pot, and callipee and callipash with it, cut in pieces of about two inches square, or thereabouts; put the fins into another soup pot, and some of the turtle soup with them; put force meat and egg balls to both; the green fat which should be boiled by itself in stock and a little Madeira wine; when done, cut it in small pieces and put it to the soup; season the soup with Cayenne pepper and a little fine spice; be careful in using Cayenne pepper, it is easier for the company to add a little than to take it out: squeeze four lemons and three Seville oranges into a bason, and put a pint of Madeira wine, a table spoonful of sifted sugar, and a little salt, if wanted; put three parts to the soup, and the other to the fins; this should not be put in until a few minutes before dishing time: be careful that it does not boil after the lemon is put in; if the shell is sent up to table, put a rim of hot paste round it, ornament it as fancy directs; put it in the oven with a little of the turtle stock; when sent to table fill it as you would a tureen; put what lean meat you have in the tureens before the soup; if the lean meat is put to the soup it is apt to boil to pieces and spoil the look of the turtle: if the turtle is for meagre, use neither fowl, veal, or ham; but none of the lean meat can be spared for made dishes, as it will all be wanted for the soup.

Lobster Sauce.

Cut up a hen lobster in small pieces about the size of dice; put spawn in a mortar, with a bit of butter, and about four anchovies; pound them together and rub it through a hair seive: put the lobster that is cut into a stewpan with about half a pint of stock, a quarter of a pound of butter, and a little flour; set it over a stove and keep stirring it until it boils; if not thick enough put a little flour and water and boil it again, to take off the rawness of the flour: then put the spawn in and give it a simmer; if the spawn boils it is apt to spoil the colour of the sauce: put a little lemon pickle and corach, and squeeze in half a lemon. Crab sauce is made exactly the same way.

N. B. If for meagre use water.

Oyster Sauce.

Put the oysters on to blanch, but do not let them boil; take the beards off and strain the liquor: put butter into a stewpan (the quantity must depend upon how much sauce is wanted); let the butter melt, put flour to it, and stir it about; then pour the liquor from the oysters and stock; boil it and put in the oysters; add a little anchovy essence and squeeze in a lemon.

Shrimp Sauce.

Put the shrimps into a stewpan with a little stock; when hot pour in melted butter and a little anchovy essence: squeeze a lemon and put a little lemon pickle and corach.

Dutch Sauce.

Slice an onion, put it into a stewpan with a little scraped horse radish, two anchovies, a little elder vinegar, and some second stock; boil it for ten minutes, strain it through a hair seive, return it into the stewpan, and make a liaison of two eggs; put it to the sauce and set it on the fire to come to a boil.

Anchovy Butter.

Put anchovy essence into a boat with a little lemon pickle and corach; put melted butter to it.

Mackerel Sauce.

Tie parsley, fennel, and mint, together; put them into a saucepan to boil; when done, chop them quite fine, put them in a boat and add melted butter. Scald a few gooseberries, and put them in another boat, with melted butter.

THE END.
