

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Soft scenes of folitude no more can please, 15 Love enters there, and I'm my own difeafe. No more the Lefbian dames my paffion move, Once the dear objects of my guilty love; All other loves are loft in only thine, Ah youth ungrateful to a flame like mine ! 20 Whom would not all those blooming charms furprize, Those heav'nly looks, and dear deluding eyes ? The harp and bow would you like Phoebus bear, A brighter Phœbus Phaon might appear; Would you with ivy wreath your flowing hair, 25 Not Bacchus' felf with Phaon could compare: Yet Phœbus lov'd, and Bacchus felt the flame, One Daphne warm'd, and one the Cretan dame, Nymphs that in verfe no more could rival me, 20 Than ev'n those Gods contend in charms with thee. The Mules teach me all their fofteft lays, And the wide world refounds with Sappho's praife. Tho' great Alcæus more fublimely fings, And ftrikes with bolder rage the founding ftrings, No lefs renown attends the moving lyre, 36 Which Venus tunes, and all her loves infpire; To me what nature has in charms deny'd, Is well by wit's more lafting flames fupply'd. Tho' fhort my flature, yet my name extends To heav'n itfelf, and earth's remotest ends. 40

Et variis albae junguntur faepe columbae,

Et niger a viridi turtur amatur ave. Si, nifi quae facie poterit te digna videri, 45

Nulla futura tua est; nulla futura tua est. At me cum legeres, etiam formosa videbar;

Unam jurabas uíque decere loqui. Cantabam, memini (meminerunt omnia amantes)

Ofcula cantanti tu mihi rapta dabas, 50 Haec quoque laudabas; omnique a parte placebam,

Sed tum praecipue, cum fit amoris opus.

Tunc te plus folito lascivia nostra juvabat, 60 Crebraque mobilitas, aptaque verba joco.

Quique, ubi jam amborum fuerat confusa voluptas,

Plurimus in laffo corpore languor erat. Nunc tibi Sicelides veniunt nova praeda puellae ;

Quid mihi cum Lefbo? Sicelis effe volo.

Nifiades matres, Nifiadesque nurus.

Brown as I am, an Ethiopian dame Infpir'd young Perfeus with a gen'rous flame : Turtles and doves of diff'ring hues unite. And gloffy jet is pair'd with fhining white. If to no charms thou wilt thy heart refign, But fuch as merit, fuch as equal thine, By none, alas ! by none thou canft be mov'd, Phaon alone by Phaon must be lov'd ! Yet once thy Sappho could thy cares employ, .1 50 Once in her arms you center'd all your joy : No time the dear remembrance can remove, For oh ! how vaft a memory has love ? My mufic, then, you could for ever hear, And all my words were mufic to your ear. You ftopp'd with kiffes my enchanting tongue, 55 And found my kiffes fweeter than my fong. In all I pleas'd, but most in what was best; And the last joy was dearer than the rest. Then with each word, each glance, each motion fir'd, You still enjoy'd, and yet you still defir'd, 66 'Till all diffolving in the trance we lay, And in tumultuous raptures dy'd away. The fair Sicilians now thy foul inflame; Why was I born, ye Gods, a Lefbian dame ? But ah beware, Sicilian nymphs ! nor boaft That wand'ring heart which I fo lately loft;

SAPPHO PHAONI.

Neu vos decipiant blandae mendacia linguae: 65 Quae dicit vobis, dixerat ante mihi. Tu quoque quae montes celebras, Erycina, Sicanos, (Nam tua fum) vati confule, diva, tuae. An gravis inceptum peragit fortuna tenorem ? 70 Et manet in cursu semper acerba suo? Sex mihi natales ierant, cum lecta parentis Ante diem lacrymas offa bibere meas. Arfit inops frater, victus meretricis amore; Miftaque cum turpi damna pudore tulit. Factus inops agili peragit freta coerula remo: 75 Quasque male amisit, nunc male quaerit opes : Me quoque, quod monui bene multa fideliter, odit. Hoc mihi libertas, hoc pia lingua dedit. Et tanquam defint, quae me fine fine fatigent, Accumulat curas filia parva meas. Ultima tu nostris accedis causa querelis: Non agitur vento nostra carina suo. ۵Q Ecce jacent collo sparsi fine lege capilli; Nec premit articulos lucida gemma meos. Veste tegor vili : nullum est in crinibus aurum : Non Arabo noster rore capillus olet. Cui colar infelix ? aut cui placuisse laborem ? Ille mihi cultus unicus auctor abeft. Molle meum levibus cor est violabile telis; Et semper causa est, cur ego semper amem. 90

Nor be with all those tempting words abus'd, Those tempting words were all to Sappho us'd. And you that rule Sicilia's happy plains, Have pity, Venus, on your Poet's pains ! 70 Shall fortune ftill in one fad tenor run, And still increase the woes to foon begun ? Inur'd to forrow from my tender years, My parent's afhes drank my early tears : My brother next, neglecting wealth and fame, 75 Ignobly burn'd in a deftructive flame : An infant daughter late my griefs increas'd, And all a mother's cares diffract my breaft. Alas, what more could fate itfelf impofe, But thee, the last and greatest of my woes? 80 No more my robes in waving purple flow, Nor on my hand the fparkling dr monds glow; No more my locks in ringlets curl'd diffufe The coffly fweetness of Arabian dews. Nor braids of gold the varied treffes bind, 85 That fly diforder'd with the wanton wind : For whom fhould Sappho use such arts as these ? He's gone, whom only the defir'd to pleafe ! Cupid's light darts my tender bofom move, Still is there caufe for Sappho still to love : 00 So from my birth the Sifters fix'd my doom, And gave to Venus all my life to come;

Abstulit, atque anni, quos vir amare potest? Hunc ne pro Cephalo raperes, Aurora, timebam :

Et faceres; fed te prima rapina tenet. Hunc fi confpiciat quae confpicit omnia, Phoebe;

Juffus erit fomnos continuare Phaon. Hunc Venus in coelum curru vexiffet eburno;

Sed videt et Marti posse placere suo.

O nec adhuc juvenis, nec jam puer ! utilis aetas ! O decus, atque aevi gloria magna tui !

Huc ades, inque finus, formole, relabere nostros: 105

Non ut ames oro, verum ut amare finas. Scribimus, et lacrymis oculi rorantur obortis:

Afpice, quam fit in hoc multa litura loco. Si tam certus eras hinc ire, modeftius iffes,

Et modo dixisses : Lesbi puella, vale.

'Nontecum lacrymas, non ofcula summa tulisti;

Denique non timui, quod dolitura fui. Nil de te mecum est, nisi tantum injuria: nec tu,

., Admoneat quod te, pignus amantis habes.

Or, while my Muse in melting notes complains, My yielding heart keeps meafure to my firains. By charms like thine which all my foul have won, Who might not mak ! who would not be undone ? For those Aurora Cephalus might fcorn, And with fresh blushes paint the confeious morn. For those might Cynthia lengthen Phaon's fleep, And bid Endymion nightly tend his faces. 100 Venus for those had rapt thee to the fkies. But Mars on thee might look with Venus' eyes. O fcarce a youth, yet fcarce a tender boy ! O useful time for lovers to employ! Pride of thy age, and glory of thy race, 105 Come to these arms, and melt in this embrace ! The vows you never will return, receive; And take at least the love you will not give. See, while I write, my words are loft in tears; The lefs my fenfe, the more my love appears. TTO Sure 'twas not much to bid one kind adieu. (At least to feign was never hard to you) Farewell my Lefbian love, you might have faid, Or coldly thus, Farewell oh Lefbian maid | No tear did you, no parting kifs receive, 115 Nor knew I then how much I was to grieve. No lover's gift your Sappho could confer, And wrongs and woes were all you left with her.

SAPPHO PHAONL Non mandata dedi; neque enim mandata dediffem Ulla, nisi ut nolles immemor esse mei. 120 Per tibi, qui nunquam longe discedat, Amorem, Perque novem juro, numina nostra, Deas : Cum mihi nescio quis, Fugiunt tua gaudia, dixit : Nec me flere diu, nec potuisse loqui ; Et lacrymae deerant oculis, et lingua palato: Aftrictum gelido frigore pectus erat. Postquam se dolor invenit; nec pectora plangi, Nec puduit sciffis exululare comis. Non aliter quam si nati pia mater adempti Portet ad extructos corpus inane rogos. Gaudet, et e nostro crescit moerore Charaxus 135 Frater; et ante qculos itque reditque meos. Utque pudenda mei videatur causa doloris; Quid dolet haec? certe filia vivit, ait. Non veniunt in idem pudor atque amor : omne videbat Vulgus; eram lacero pectus aperta finu. 140 Tu mihi cura, Phaon; te somnia nostra reducunt; Somnia formofo candidiora die.

No charge I gave you, and no charge could give. But this, Be mindful of our loves, and live. 120 Now by the Nine, those pow'rs ador'd by me. And Love, the God that ever waits on thee, When first I heard (from whom I hardly knew) That you were fled, and all my joys with you, Like some fad statue, speechlefs, pale I stood, 125 Grief chill'd my breaft, and ftopp'd my freezing blood; No figh to rife, no tear had pow'r to flow, Fix'd in a ftupid lethargy of woe: But when its way th'impetuous paffion found, I rend my treffes, and my breaft I wound, 130 I rave, then weep, I curfe, and then complain, Now fwell to rage, now melt in tears again. Not fiercer pangs distract the mournful dame, Whofe first-born infant feeds the fun'ral flame. My fcornful brother with a fmile appears, 135 Infults my woes, and triumphs in my tears, His hated image ever haunts my eyes. And why this grief? thy daughter lives, he cries. Stung with my love, and furious with defpair, All torn my garments, and my bofom bare, 140 My woes, thy crimes, I to the world proclaim ; Such inconfistent things are 1 we and fhame ! 'Tis thou art all my care and my delight, My daily longing, and my dream by night :

Then you, methinks, as fondly circle mine: 150 A thousand tonder words I hear and speak ; A thousand melting killes give, and take : Then fiercer joys, I blufh to mention thefe, Yet, while I blufh, confess how much they pleafe. But when, with day, the fweet delutions fly, 155 And all things wake to life and joy, but I, As if once more forfaken, I complain, And close my eyes to dream of you again : Then frantic rife, and like fome Fury rove Thro' lonely plains, and thro' the filent grove, 160 As if the filent grove, and lonely plains, That knew my pleafures, could relieve my pains. I view the Grotto, once the scene of love. The rocks around, the hanging roofs above, That charm'd me more, with native mole o'ergrown, Than Phrygian marble, or the Parian ftone. 166 I find the finades that weil'd our joys before ; But, Phaon gone, those thades delight no more. #### SAPPHO TO PHAON SI Ah ! canft thou rather fee this tender breat Dash'd on these rocks than to thy bosom prest ? 225 This breaft which once, in vain ! you lik'd fo-well; Where the Loves play'd, and where the Mules dwell. Alas ! the Muses now no more infpire, Untun'd my lute, and filent is my lyre, My languid numbers have forgot to flow, And fancy finks beneath a weight of woe. Ye Lefbian virgins, and ye Lefbian dames, Themes of my verse, and objects of my flames, No more your groves with my glad fongs fhall ring. No more these hands shall touch the trembling string : My Phaon's fled, and I those arts refign 226 (Wretch that I am, to call that Phaon mine !) Return, fair youth, return, and bring along Toy to my foul, and vigour to my fong: Absent from thee, the Poet's flame expires ; 240 But ah ! how fiercely burn the Lover's fires ? Gods ! can no pray'rs, no fighs, no numbers move One favage heart, or teach it how to love ? The winds my pray'rs, my fighs, my numbers bear, The flying winds have loft them all in air ! 245 Oh when, alas ! fhall more aufpicious gales To these fond eyes restore thy welcome fails ? If you return — ah why these long delays ? Poor Sappho dies while careless Phaon stays.

O launch thy bark, nor fear the wat'ry plain; 250 Venus for thee fhall fmooth her native main. O launch thy bark, fecure of profp'rous gales; Cupid for thee fhall fpread the fwelling fails. If you will fly—(yet ah ! what caufe can be, Too cruel youth, that you fhould fly from me?) If not from Phaon I muft hope for eafe, 256 Ah let me feek it from the raging feas; To raging feas unpity'd I'll remove, And either ceafe to live er eeafe to love !

ARGUMENT.

BE LARD and Eloifa flourished in the twelfth Century; they were two of the most diffinguished perfons of their age in learning and beauty, but for nothing more famous than for their unfortunate passion. After a long course of calamities, they retired each to a feveral Convent, and confectated the remainder of their days to religion. It was many years after this separation, that a letter of Abelard's to a Friend, which contained the history of his misfortune, fell into the hands of Eloifa. This awakening all her tenderness, occasioned those celebrated letters (out of which the following is partly extracted) which give fo lively a picture of the struggles of grace and nature, virtue and passion. #### A B E L A R D N these deep solitudes and awful cells, Where heav'nly-pensive contemplation dwells, And ever-mussing melancholy reigns; What means this tumult in a Vestal's veins? Why rove my thoughts beyond this last retreat? Why feels my heart its long-forgotten heat? Yet, yet I love !—From Abelard it came, And Eloïsa yet muss kiss the name.

Dear fatal name ! reft ever unreveal'd, Nor país thefe lips in holy filence feal'd : 19 Hide it, my heart, within that clofe difguife, Where mix'd with God's, his lov'd Idea lies : O'write it not my hand — the name appears 'Already written — wafh it out, my tears ! In vain loft Eloïfa weeps and prays, Her heart flill dictates, and her hand obeys.

Relentlefs walls ! whofe darkfome round contains Repentant fighs, and voluntary pains : Ye rugged rocks ! which holy knees have worn ; Ye grots and caverns fhagg'd with horrid thorn ! 20

Shrines ! where their vigils pale-ey'd virgins keep, And pitying faints, whofe flatues learn to weep ! Tho' cold like you, unmov'd and filent grown, I have not yet forgot myfelf to fkone. All is not Heav'n's while Abelard has part, Still rebel nature holds out half my heart ; Nor pray'rs nor fafts its flubborn pulfe reftrain, Nor tears for ages taught to flow in vain.

Soon as thy letters trembling I unclofe, That well-known name awakens all my woes. 30 Oh name for ever fad ! for ever dear ! Still breath'd in fighs, ftill ufher'd with a tear. I tremble too, where'er my own I find, Some dire misfortune follows clofe behind. Line after line my gufhing eyes o'erflow, 35 Led thro' a fad variety of woe: Now warm in love, now with'ring in my bloom, Loft in a convent's folitary gloom ! There ftern Religion quench'd th'unwilling flame, There dy'd the beft of paffions, Love and Fame. 40

Yet write, oh write me all, that I may join Griefs to thy griefs, and echo fighs to thine. Nor foes nor fortune take this pow'r away; And is my Abelard lefs kind than they ? Tears ftill are mine, and those I need not spare, 45 Love but demands what else were shed in pray'r;

No happier talk these faded eyes pursue; To read and weep is all they now can do.

Then fhare thy pain, allow that faid relief; Ah, more than fhare it, give me all thy grief. Heav'n first taught letters for fome wretch's aid, Some banish'd lover, or fome captive maid; They live, they speak, they breathe what love inspires, Warm from the foul, and faithful to its fires, The virgin's wish without her fears impart, Excuse the blush, and pour out all the heart, Speed the fost intercourse from foul to foul, And wast a figh from Indus to the Pole.

Thou know'ft how guiltlefs firft I met thy flame, When Love approach'd me under Friendfhip's name; My fancy form'd thee of angelic kind, 61 Some emanation of th'all-beauteous Mind. Thofe fmiling eyes, attemp'ring ev'ry ray, Shone fweetly lambent with celeftial day. Guiltlefs I gaz'd; heav'n liften'd while you fung; 65 And truths divine came mended from that tongue. From lips like thofe what precept fail'd to move ? Too foon they taught me 'twas no fin to love : Back thro' the paths of pleafing fenfe I ran, Nor wifh'd an Angel whom I lov'd a Man. 70

Dim and remote the joys of faints I fee; Nor envy them that heav'n I lofe for thee.

How oft, when prefs'd to marriage, have I faid, Curfe on all laws but those which Love has made? Love, free as air, at fight of human ties, 75 Spreads his light wings, and in a moment flies. 'Let wealth, let honour, wait the wedded dame. · August her deed, and facred be her fame ; Before true passion all those views remove, Fame, wealth, and honour ! what are you to Love ? The jealous God, when we profane his fires, Those reftless passions in revenge inspires, And bids them make miltaken mortals groan, Who feek in love for aught but love alone. ·Should at my feet the world's great mafter fall, 8< Himfelf, his throne, his world, I'd fcorn 'em all : Not Cæsar's empress would I deign to prove ; No, make me mistrefs to the man I love; If there be yet another name more free, More fond than miltrefs, make me that to thee ! All then is full, pollefling, and polleft, No craving yoid left aking in the breaft: Ev'n thought meets thought, ere from the lips it part. And each warm with fprings mutual from the heart. This fure is blifs (if blifs on earth there be) And once the lot of Abelard and me. Alas how chang'd | what fudden horrors rife ! A naked Lover bound and bleeding lies ! . 100 Where, where was Eloife ? her voice, her hand, Her ponyard had oppos'd the dire command. Barbarian, flay ! that bloody ftroke reftrain : The crime was common, common be the pain. I can no more, by fhame, by rage fupprefs'd. 105 Let tears, and burning blufhes fpeak the reft. Canft thou forget that fad, that folemn day, When victims at yon altar's foot we lay ? Canft thou forget what tears that moment fell, When, warm in youth, I bade the world farewell ? As with cold lips I kifs'd the facred veil, 138. The fhrines all trembled, and the lamps grew pale :

Heav'n fcarce believ'd the Conquest it survey'd, And Saints with wonder heard the vows I made. Yet then, to those dread alture as I drew, Not on the Crois my eyes were fix'd, but you: Not grace, or zeal, love only was my call, And if Liese thy love, I lose my all.

Come ! with thy looks, thy words, relieve my woe ; Thofe ftill at leaft are left thee to beflow. 12 Still on that breaft enamour'd let me lie, Still drink delicious poifon from thy eye, Pant on thy lip, and to thy heart be prefs'd ; Give all thou canft — and let me dream the reft. Ah no ! inftruct me other joys to prize, 125 With other beauties charm my partial eyes, Full in my view fet all the bright abode, And make my foul quit Abelard for God.

Ah think at leaft thy flock deferves thy care, Plants of thy hand, and children of thy pray'r. 130 From the false world in early youth they fled, By thee to mountains, wilds, and deferts led. You rais'd these hallow'd walls ; the desert smil'd, And Paradife was open'd in the Wild. No weeping orphan faw his father's ftores 135 Our thrines irradiate, or emblaze the floors; No filver faints, by dying mifers giv'n, Here brib'd the rage of ill-requited heav'n: But fuch plain roofs as Piety could raife, And only vocal with the Maker's praife. 140 In these lone walls (their days eternal bound) These moss-grown domes with spiry turrets crown'd,

Where awful arches make a noon-day night, And the dim windows fhed a folemn light;

Thy eyes diffus'd a reconciling ray, And gleams of glory brighten'd all the day. But now no face divine contentment wears, 'Tis all blank fadnefs, or continual tears. See how the force of others pray'rs I try, (O pious fraud of am'rous charity !) But why fhould I on others pray'rs depend ? Come thou, my father, brother, hufband, friend ! Ah let thy handmaid, fifter, daughter move, And all those tender names in one, thy love ! The darkfome pines that o'er yon rocks rechn'd Wave high, and murmur to the hollow wind. The wand'ring ftreams that fhine between the hills. The grots that echo to the tinkling rills, The dying gales that pant upon the trees, The lakes that quiver to the curling breeze ; 160 No more these fcenes my meditation aid, Or lull to reft the vifionary maid. But o'er the twilight groves and dufky caves, Long-founding ifles, and intermingled graves, Black Melancholy fits, and round her throws 165 A death-like filence, and a dread repose : Her gloomy prefence faddens all the fcene, Shades ev'ry flow'r, and darkens ev'ry green, Deepens the murmur of the falling floods, And breathes a browner horror on the woods. 170 Yet here for ever, ever must I flay; Sad proof how well a lover can obey ! Death, only death, can break the lasting chain; And here, ev'n then, shall my cold dust remain, Here all its frailties, all its flames refign, 179 And wait till 'tis no fin to mix with thine.

Ah wretch ! believ'd the fpouse of God in vain. Confess'd within the flave of love and man. Affift me, heav'n ! but whence arole that pray'r ? Sprung it from piety, or from defpair? 189 Ev'n here, where frozen chaftity retires, Love finds an altar for forbidden fires. I ought to grieve, but cannot what I ought; I mourn the lover, not lament the fault : I view my crime, but kindle at the view. Repent old pleafures, and follicit new ; Now turn'd to heav'n, I weep my past offence. Now think of thee, and curfe my innocence. Of all affliction taught a lover yet, 'Tis fure the hardeft fcience to forget ! ¥q0 How shall I lose the fin, yet keep the fense, And love th'offender, yet deteft th'offence? How the dear object from the grime remove; Or how diffinguish penitence from love?

Unequal tak! a paffion to relign, 195 For hearts fo touch'd, fo pierc'd, fo haft as mine. Ere fuch a foul regains its preaceful flate, How often must it love, how often hate 1 How often hope, defpait; refeat, regret. Conceal, difdain, — do all things but forget. 200 But let heav'n feize it; all at once 'tis fir'd ; Not touch'd, but rapt; not waken'd, but infpir'd 1 Oh come 1 oh teach me nature to fubdue, Renounce my love, my life, myfelf — and you. Fill my fond heart with God alone, for he 205 Alone can rival, can fueceed to thee.

How happy is the blamelels Veftal's lot? The world forgotting, by the world forgot: Eternal fun-fine of the fpotlels mind! Each pray'r accepted, and each with relign'd; 210 Labour and reft, that equal periods keep; "Obedient functions than can wake and weep;" Defires compos'd, affections over sv'n; Tears that delight, and fighs that waft to heav'n. Then confeience fleeps, and leaving nature free, All my loofe foul unbounded forings to thee. O-curft, dear horrors of all-confcious night ! How glowing guilt exalts the keen delight ! 230 Provoking Dæmons all restraint remove. And ftir within me ev'ry fource of love. I hear thee, view thee, gaze o'er all the charms. Come, Abelard! for what haft thou to dread? The torch of Venus burns not for the dead. Nature ftands check'd; Religion difapproves; Ev'n thou art cold — yet Eloïfa loves. 260 Ah hopelefs, lafting flames! like thofe that burn To light the dead, and warm th'unfruitful urn.

T H E following Translations were felected from many others done by the Author' in his Youth for the most part indeed but a fort of Exercises, while he was improving himfelf in the Languages, and carried by his early Bent to Poetry to perform them rather in Verse than Prose. Mr. Dryden's Fables came out about that time, which occasioned the Translations from Chaucer. They were first separately printed in Miscellanies by J. Tonson and B. Lintot, and afterwards collected in the Quarto Edition of 1717. The Imitations of English Authors, which are added at the end, were done as early, some of them at fourteen or fifteen years old; but having also got into Miscellanies, we have put them here together to complete this Juvenile Volume. Scarce any tale was fooner heard than told; And all who told it added fomething new, And all who heard it, made enlargements too, In ev'ry ear it fpread, on ev'ry tongue it grew. Thus Aying east and west, and north and fouth, News travel'd with increase from mouth to mouth. So from a fpark, that kindled first by chance, 475 With gath'ring force the quick'ning flames advance; Till to the clouds their curling heads afpire, And tow'rs and temples fink in floods of fire.

When thus ripe lyes are to perfection fprung, Full grown, and fit to grace a mortal tongue, 480 Thro' thoufand vents, impatient, forth they flow, And rufh in millions on the world below. Fame fits aloft, and points them out their courfe, Their date determines, and prefcribes their force : Some to remain, and fome to perifh foon ; 485 Or wane and wax alternate like the moon.

THE TEMPLE

Around, a thoufand winged wonders fly,
Born by the trumpet's blaft, and fcatter'd thro' the fley. There, at one paffage, oft you might furvey
A Iye and truth contending for the way;
490
And long 'twas doubtful, both fo clofely pent,
Which first fhould iffue thro' the narrow vent :
At last agreed, together out they fly,
Infeparable now, the truth and lye;
The flrict companions are for ever join'd,
495
And this or that unmix'd, no mortal e'er fhall find.
While thus I flood, intent to fee and hear,

One came, methought, and whifper'd in my ear: What could thus high thy rafh ambition raife ? Art thou, fond youth, a candidate for praife ? 500

'Tis true, faid I, not void of hopes I came, For who fo fond as youthful bards of Fame?

Notes.

VER. 497. While thus I flood, etc.] The hint is taken from a paffage in another part of the third book, but here more naturally made the conclusion, with the addition of a Moral to the whole. In Chaucer he only answers "he came to fee the place;" and the book ends abruptly, with his being furprized at the fight of a Man of great Authority, and awaking in a fright. P.

I M I TAT IONS. VER. 489. There, at one passage, etc.] And fometime I faw there at once, A lefing and a fad footh faw That gonnen at adventure draw Out of a window forth to pace — And no man, be he ever fo wrothe, Shall have one of these two, but bothe, etc. T.

OF FAME.

But few, alas ! the cafual bleffing boaft, So hard to gain, fo eafy to be loft. How vain that fecond life in others breath, . 505 Th'effate which wits inherit after death ! Ease, health, and life, for this they must refign, (Unfure the tenure, but how vaft the fine !) The great man's curfe, without the gains, endure, Be envy'd, wretched, and be flatter'd, poor; 510 All lucklefs wits their enemies profeft, And all fuccessful, jealous friends at best. Nor Fame I flight, nor for her favours call : She comes unlook'd for, if fhe comes at all. But if the purchase costs fo dear a price, 515 As foothing Folly, or exalting Vice : Oh ! if the Muse must flatter lawless sway, And follow still where fortune leads the way: Or if no bafis bear my rifing name, But the fall'n ruins of another's fame; 520 Then teach me, heav'n ! to fcorn the guilty bays, Drive from my breaft that wretched luft of praife, Unblemish'd let me live, or die unknown; Oh grant an honeft fame, or grant me none !

T MERE liv'd in Lombardy, as authors write, In days of old, a wife and worthy knight; Of gentle manners, as of gen'rous race, Bleft with much fenfe, more riches, and fome grace. Yet led aftray by Venus' foft delights, He fcarce could rule fome idle appetites : For long ago, let Priefts fay what they cou'd, Weak finful laymen were but flefh and blood.

But in due time, when fixty years were o'er; He vow'd to lead this vitious life no more; Whether pure holinefs inspir'd his mind, Or dotage turn'd his brain, is hard to find; But his high courage prick'd him forth to wed, And try the pleasures of a lawful bed.

JANUARY AND MAY. 77.

This was his nightly dream, his daily care, 15 And to the heav'nly pow'rs his conftant pray'r, Once, ere he dy'd, to tafte the blifsful life Of a kind hufband and a loving wife.

These thoughts he fortify'd with reasons still. (For none want reasons to confirm their will.) 20 Grave authors fay, and witty poets fing, That honeft wedlock is a glorious thing: But depth of judgment most in him appears. Who wifely weds in his maturer years. Then let him chufe a damfel young and fair, 35 To blefs his age, and bring a worthy heir; To footh his cares, and, free from noise and strife. Conduct him gently to the verge of life. Let finful batchelors their woes deplore, Full well they merit all they feel, and more : 30 Unaw'd by precepts, human or divine, Like birds and beafts, promiscuously they join : Nor know to make the prefent bleffing laft, To hope the future, or effeem the paft: But vainly boast the joys they never try'd, 3$ And find divulg'd the fecrets they would hide. 'The marry'd man may bear his yoke with eafe, Secure at once himfelf and heav'n to pleafe; And pass his inoffensive hours away, In blifs all night, and innocence all day: 40 Tho' fortune change, his conftant spoule remains, Augments his joys, or mitigates his pains.

But what fo pure, which envious tongues will fpare? Some wicked wits have libell'd all the fair. With matchless impudence they style a wife 45 The dear-bought curfe, and lawful plague of life : A bosom-ferpent, a domestic evil, A night-invalion, and a mid-day-devil. Let not the wife these sland'rous words regard, But curfe the bones of ev'ry lying bard. 50 All other goods by fortune's hand are giv'n, A wife is the peculiar gift of heav'n. Vain fortune's favours, never at a flay, Like empty shadows, pass, and glide away; One folid comfort, our eternal wife, 55 Abundantly supplies us all our life : This bleffing lafts (if those who try, fay true) As long as heart can with - and longer too.

Our grandfire Adam, ere of Eve poffefs'd, Alone, and ev'n in Paradife unblefs'd, With mournful looks the blifsful fcenes furvey'd, And wander'd in the folitary fhade. .The Maker faw, took pity, and beftow'd Woman, the laft, the beft referv'd of God.

A Wife! ah gentle deities, can he 65 That has a wife, e'er feel adverfity ? Would men but follow what the fex advife, All things would profper, all the world grow wife. 'Twas by Rebecca's aid that Jacob won His father's bleffing from an elder fon: 70

Abufive Nabal ow'd his forfeit lifeTo the wife conduct of a prudent wife:Heroic Judith, as old Hebrews flow,Preferv'd the Jews, and flew th'Affyrian foe:At Hefter's fuit, the perfecuting fword75Was fheath'd, and Ifrael liv'd to blefs the Lord.

These weighty motives, January the sage Maturely ponder'd in his riper age; And charm'd with virtuous joys, and sober life, Would try that christian comfort, call'd a wife. His friends were summon'd on a point so nice, To pass their judgment, and to give advice; But fix'd before, and well resolv'd was he; (As men that ask advice are wont to be.)

My friends, he cry'd (and caft a mournful look 85 Around the room, and figh'd before he fpoke :) Benéath the weight of threefcore years I bend, And, worn with cares, am haft'ning to my end ; How I have liv'd, alas ! you know too well, In worldly follies, which I blufh to tell; 90 But gracious heav'n has ope'd my eyes at laft, With due regret I view my vices paft, And, as the precept of the Church decrees, Will take a wife, and live in holy eafe. But fince by counfel all things fhould be done, 95 And many heads are wifer still than one; Shule you for me, who best shall be content When my defire's approv'd by your confent.

One caution yet is needful to be told, To guide your choice; this wife muft not be old :106 There goes a faying, and 'twas fhrewdly faid, Old fifh at table, but young flefh in bed. My foul abhors the taftelefs, dry embrace Of a ftale virgin with a winter face : In that cold feafon Love but treats his gueft 105 With bean-ftraw, and tough forage at the beft. No crafty widows fhall approach my bed; Thefe are too wife for batchelors to wed; As fubthe clerks by many fchools are made, Twice-marry'd dames are miftreffes o'th'trade : 110 But young and tender virgins, rul'd with eafe, We form like wax, and mould them as we pleafe.

Conceive me, Sirs, nor take my fense amils; 'Tis what concerns my foul's eternal blifs ; Since if I found no pleafure in my fpoufe, 114 As flefh is frail, and who (God help me) knows ? Then should I live in leud adultery, And fink downright to Satan when I die. Or were I curs'd with an unfruitful bed. The righteous end were loft, for which I wed; 120 To raife up feed to blefs the pow'rs above, And not for pleafure only, or for love. Think not I doat ; 'tis time to take a wife, When vig'rous blood forbids a chafter life : Those that are bleft with ftore of grace divine, 124 May live like faints, by heav'n's confent, and mine.

And fince I fpeak of wedlock, let me fay, (As, thank my ftars, in modeft truth I may) My limbs are active, ftill I'm found at heart, And a new vigour fprings in ev'ry part. 130 Think not my virtue loft, tho' time has fhed Thefe rev'rend honours on my hoary head; Thus trees are crown'd with bloffoms white as fnow, The vital fap then rifing from below : Old as I am, my lufty limbs appear 135 Like winter greens, that flourish all the year. Now, Sirs, you know to what I ftand inclin'd, Let ev'ry friend with freedom speak his mind.

He faid; the reft in diff'rent parts divide; 'The knotty point was urg'd on either fide: 140 Marriage, the theme on which they all declaim'd, Some prais'd with wit, and fome with reafon blam'd. Till, what with proofs, objections, and replies, Each wond'rous positive, and wond'rous wife, There fell between his brothers a debate, 145 Placebo this was call'd, and Justin that.

First to the Knight Placebo thus begun, (Mild were his looks, and pleafing was his tone) Such prudence, Sir, in all your words appears, As plainly proves, experience dwells with years! Yet you purfue fage Solomon's advice, To work by counfel when affairs are nice:

VOL. II.

But, with the wifeman's leave, I must protest, So may my foul arrive at ease and rest As still I hold your own advice the best.

Sir, I have liv'd a Courtier all my days, And fludy'd men, their manners, and their ways; And have observ'd this useful maxim still, To let my betters always have their will. Nay, if my lord affirm'd that black was white, 160-My word was this, Your honour's in the right. Th' affuming Wit, who deems himfelf fo wife, As his mistaken patron to advise, Let him not dare to vent his dang'rous thought, A noble fool was never in a fault. 165 This, Sir, affects not you, whole ev'ry word Is weigh'd with judgment, and befits a Lord : Your will is mine; and is (I will maintain) Pleafing to God, and fhould be fo to Man; At least, your courage all the world must praise, 170 Who dare to wed in your declining days. Indulge the vigour of your mounting blood, And let grey fools be indolently good, Who, past all pleafure, damn, the joys of fense, With rev'rend dulness and grave impotence. 179

Justin, who filent fate, and heard the man, Thus, with a Philosophic frown, began.

A heathen author, of the first degree, (Who, tho' not Faith, had Senfe as well as we).

180 Bids us be certain our concerns to truft To those of gen'rous principles, and just. The venture's greater, I'll prefume to fay, To give your perfon, than your goods away: And therefore, Sir, as you regard your reft, First learn your Lady's qualities at least : 185 Whether fhe's chafte or rampant, proud or civil; Meek as a faint, or haughty as the devil; Whether an easy, fond, familiar fool, Or fuch a wit as no man e'er can rule. 'Tis true, perfection none must hope to find 190 In all this world, much lefs in woman-kind ; But if her virtues prove the larger share, Blefs the kind fates, and think your fortune rare. Ah, gentle Sir, take warning of a friend, Who knows too well the flate you thus commend; And spight of all his praifes must declare, 196 All he can find is bondage, coft, and care. Heav'n knows, I shed full many a private tear, And figh in filence, left the world fhould hear: While all my friends applaud my blifsful life, 200 And fwear no mortal's happier in a wife; Demure and chafte as any veftal Nun, The meekeft creature that beholds the fun ! But, by th' immortal pow'rs, I feel the pain, And he that fmarts has reafon to complain. 205

Do what you lift, for me; you muft be fage, And cautious fure; for widdom is in Age: But at thefe years, to venture on the fair ! By him, who made the ocean, earth, and air, To pleafe a wife, when her occafions call, Would bufy the moft vig'rous of us all. And truft me, Sir, the chafteft you can chufe Will afk obfervance, and exact her dues. If what I fpeak my noble Lord offend, My tedious fermon here is at an end. 215

'Tis well, 'tis wondrous well, the Knight replies, Moft worthy kinknan, faith you're mighty wife ! We, Sirs, are fools; and must refign the cause To heath'nish authors, proverbs, and old faws. He spoke with scorn, and turn'd another way:— 220 What does my friend, my dear Placebo fay ?

I fay, quoth he, by heav'n the man's to blame, To flander wives, and wedlock's holy name. At this the council rofe, without delay; Each, in his own opinion, went his way; 225, With full confent, that, all difputes appeas'd, The knight fhould marry, when and where he pleas'd.

Who now but January exults with joy? The charms of wedlock all his foul employ: Each nymph by turns his wav'ring mind poffeft, 230 And reign'd the fhort-liv'd tyrant of his breaft; While fancy pictur'd ev'ry lively part, And each bright image wander'd o'er his heart.

Thus, in fome publick Forum fix'd on high, A Mirrour flows the figures moving by; 235 Still one by one, in fwift fucceffion, pals The gliding fhadows o'er the polifh'd glafs. This Lady's charms the niceft could not blame, But vile fufpicions had afpers'd her fame ; That was with fense, but not with virtue, bleft; 240 And one had grace, that wanted all the reft. Thus doubting long what nymph he fhould obey, He fix'd at last upon the youthful May. Her faults he knew not, Love is always blind, But ev'ry charm revolv'd within his mind: 245 Her tender age, her form divinely fair, Her eafy motion, her attractive air, Her fweet behaviour, her enchanting face. Her moving foftness, and majeftic grace.

Much in his prudence did our Knight rejoice, 250 And thought no mortal could difpute his choice: Once more in hafte he fummon'd ev'ry friend, And told them all, their pains were at an end. Heav'n, that (faid he) infpir'd me firft to wed, Provides a confort worthy of my bed: 255 Let none oppose th'election, fince on this Depends my quiet, and my future blifs.

A dame there is, the darling of my eyes, Young, beauteous, artlefs, innocent, and wife;

Chafte, tho' not rich; and tho' not nobly born, 260 Of honeft parents, and may ferve my turn. Her will I wed, if gracious heav'n fo pleafe; To pafs my age in fanctity and eafe: And thank the pow'rs, I may poffefs alone The lovely prize, and fhare my blifs with none ! 263 If you, my friends, this virgin can procure, My joys are full, my happinefs is fure.

One only doubt remains ; Full oft I've heard, By cafuifts grave, and deep divines averr'd ; That 'tis too much for human race to know 270 The blifs of heav'n above, and earth below. Now fhould the nuptial pleafures prove fo great, To match the bleffings of the future flate, Those endless joys were ill exchang'd for these; Then clear this doubt, and set my mind at ease. 275

This Justin heard, nor could his fpleen controul, Touch'd to the quick, and tickled at the foul. Sir Knight, he cry'd, if this be all you dread, Heav'n put it paft your doubt, whene'er you wed; And to my fervent pray'rs fo far confent, 280 That ere the rites are o'er, you may repent.! Good heav'n, no doubt, the nuptial state approves, Since it chassifies still what best it loves.

Then be not, Sir, abandon'd to defpair; Seek, and perhaps you'll find among the fair, 285 One, that may do your business to a hair;

Not ev'n in wifh, your happine's delay, But prove the fcourge to lafh you on your way: Then to the fkies your mounting foul fhall go, Swift as an arrow foaring from the bow! 290 Provided ftill, you moderate your joy, Nor in your pleafures all your might employ, Let reafon's rule your ftrong defires abate, Nor pleafe too lavifhly your gentle mate. Old wives there are, of judgment moft acute, 295 Who folve thefe queftions beyond all difpute ; Confult with thofe, and be of better chear ; Marry, do penance, and difmifs your fear.

So faid, they rofe, nor more the work delay'd; The match was offer'd, the propofals made. 200 The parents, you may think, would foon comply; The Old have int'reft ever in their eye. Nor was it hard to move the Lady's mind; When fortune favours, still the Fair are kind. - I pais each previous fettlement and deed, 305 Too long for me to write, or you to read; Nor will with quaint impertinence difplay The pomp, the pageantry, the proud array. The time approach'd, to Church the parties went, At once with carnal and devout intent : 310 Forth came the Prieft, and bade th'obedient wife Like Sarah or Rebecca lead her life.

Then pray'd the pow'rs the fruitful bed to blefs, And made all fure enough with holinefs.

And now the palace-gates are open'd wide, 315 The guefts appear in order, fide by fide, And plac'd in ftate, the bridegroom and the bride. The breathing flute's foft notes are heard around, And the fhrill trumpets mix their filver found; The vaulted roofs with echoing mufick ring, 320 Thefe touch the vocal ftops, and those the trembling ftring.

Not thus Amphion tun'd the warbling lyre, Nor Joab the founding clarion could infpire, Nor fierce Theodamas, whole fprightly ftrain Could fwell the foul to rage, and fire the martial train,

Bacchus himfelf, the nuptial feaft to grace, 326 (So Poets fing) was prefent on the place; And lovely Venus, Goddels of delight, Shook high her flaming torch in open fight: And danc'd around, and fmil'd on ev'ry Knight:330 Pleas'd her beft fervant would his courage try, No lefs in wedlock, than in liberty. Full many an age old Hymen had not fpy'd So kind a bridegroom, or fo bright a bride. Ye bards ! renown'd among the tuneful throng For gentle lays, and joyous nuptial fong; Think not your fofteft numbers can difplay The matchlefs glories of this blifsful day;

I

The joys are fuch, as far transcend your rage, When tender youth has wedded flooping age. 340

The beauteous dame fate fmiling at the board, And darted am'rous glances at her Lord. Not Hefter's felf, whofe charms the Hebrews fing, E'er look'd fo lovely on her Perfian King: Bright as the rifing fun, in fummer's day, 345 And fresh and blooming as the month of May! The joyful Knight furvey'd her by his fide, Nor envy'd Paris with the Spartan bride : Still as his mind revolv'd with vaft delight Th'entrancing raptures of th'approaching night, 350 Reffless he fate, invoking ev'ry pow'r To fpeed his blifs, and hafte the happy hour. Mean time the vig'rous dancers beat the ground, And fongs were fung, and flowing bowls went round. With od'rous fpices they perfum'd the place, 355 And mirth and pleafure fhone in ev'ry face.

Damian alone, of all the menial train, Sad in the midft of triumphs, figh'd for pain; Damian alone, the Knight's obfequious fquire, Confum'd at heart, and fed a fecret fire. 360 His lovely miftrefs all his foul poffefs'd, He look'd, he languifh'd, and could take no reft: His tafk perform'd, he fadly went his way, Fell on his bed, and loath'd the light of day. There let him lie; till his relenting dame 365 Weep in her turn, and wafte in equal flame.

The weary fun, as learned Poets write, Forfook th' Horizon, and roll'd down the light; While glitt'ring ftars his abfent beams fupply, And night's dark mantle overlpread the fky. Then rofe the guefts; and as the time requir'd, Each paid his thanks, and decently retir'd.

The foe once gone, our Knight prepar'd t'undrefs, So keen he was, and eager to poffes : But first thought fit th'affiftance to receive, 375 Which grave Physicians foruple not to give; Satyrion near, with hot Eringo's stood, Cantharides, to fire the lazy blood, Whose use old Bards deforibe in luscious rhymes, And Critics learn'd explain to modern times. 380

By this the fheets were fpread, the bride undrefs'd, The room was fprinkled, and the bed was blefs'd. What next enfu'd befeems not me to fay; 'Tis fung, he labour'd till the dawning day, Then brifkly fprung from bed, with heart fo light, As all were nothing he had done by night; 386 And fipp'd his cordial as he fate upright. He kifs'd his balmy fpoufe with wanton play, And feebly fung a lufty roundelay: Then on the couch his weary limbs he caft; 390 For ev'ry labour muft have reft at laft.

But anxious cares the penfive Squire opprefs'd, Sleep fled his eys, and peace forfook his breaft;

The raging flames that in his bofom dwell, He wanted art to hide, and means to tell. 395 Yet hoping time th'occafion might betray, Compos'd a fonnet to the lovely May; Which writ and folded with the niceft art,] He wrapp'd in filk, and laid upon his heart.

When now the fourth revolving day was run, 400 ('Twas June, and Cancer had receiv'd the Sun) Forth from her chamber came the beauteous bride : The good old Knight mov'd flowly by her fide. High mass was fung; they feasted in the hall; The fervants round flood ready at their call. 405 The Squire alone was absent from the board, And much his fickness griev'd his worthy lord, Who pray'd his fpoufe, attended with her train, To visit Damian, and divert his pain. Th'obliging dames obey'd with one confent; 410 They left the hall, and to his lodging went. The female tribe furround him as he lay, And close befide him fat the gentle May: Where, as fhe try'd his pulfe, he foftly drew. A heaving figh, and caft a mournful view! 415 Then gave his bill, and brib'd the pow'rs divine, With fecret vows, to favour his defign.

Who ftudies now but difcontented May? On her foft couch uneafily fhe lay: The lumpifh hufband fnor'd away the night, Till coughs awak'd him near the morning light.

What then he did, I'll not prefume to tell, Nor if fhe thought herfelf in heav'n or hell: Honeft and dull in nuptial bed they lay, Till the bell toll'd, and all arofe to pray.

Were it by forceful deftiny decreed, Or did from chance, or nature's pow'r proceed; Or that fome ftar, with afpect kind to love, Shed its felecteft influence from above; Whatever was the caufe, the tender dame Felt the firft motions of an infant flame; Receiv'd th'impreffions of the love-fick Squire, And wafted in the foft infectious fire. Ye fair, draw near, let May's example move Your gentle minds to pity thofe who love ! Had fome fierce tyrant in her ftead been found, The poor adorer fure had hang'd, or drown'd : But fhe, your fex's mirrour, free from pride, Was much too meek to prove a homicide.

But to my tale: Some fages have defin'd Pleafure the fov'reign blifs of humankind: Our knight (who ftudy'd much, we may fuppofe) Deriv'd his high philofophy from thofe; For, like a Prince, he bore the vaft expence Of lavifh pomp, and proud magnificence: His houfe was ftately, his retinue gay, Large was his train, and gorgeous his array. His fpacious garden made to yield to none, Was compafs'd round with walls of folid ftone;

Priapus could not half defcribe the grace450(Tho' God of gardens) of this charming place:AA place to tire the rambling wits of FranceIn long defcriptions, and exceed Romance :Enough to fhame the gentleft bard that fingsOf painted meadows, and of purling fprings.455

Full in the centre of the flow'ry ground, A cryftal fountain fpread its ftreams around, The fruitful banks with verdant laurels crown'd: About this fpring (if ancient fame fay true) The dapper Elves their moon-light fports purfue: Their pigmy king, and little fairy queen, In circling dances 'gambol'd on the green, While tuneful fprites a merry concert made, And airy mufic warbled thro' the fhade.

Hither the noble knight would oft repair, 465 (His fcene of pleafure, and peculiar care) For this he held it dear, and always bore The filver key that lock'd the garden door. To this fweet place in fummer's fultry heat, He us'd from noife and bus'nefs to retreat; 470 And here in dalflance fpend the live-long day, Solus cum fola, with his fprightly May. For whate'er work was undifcharg'd a-bed, The duteous knight in this fair garden fped.

But ah ! what mortal lives of blifs fecure, 475 How fhort a fpace our worldly joys endure ? O Fortune, fair, like all thy treach'rous kind,

But faithlefs ftill, and wav'ring as the wind ! O painted monfter, form'd mankind to cheat, With pleafing poifon, and with foft deceit ! This rich<sub>x</sub> this am'rous, venerable knight, Amidft his eafe, his folace, and delight, Struck blind by thee, refigns his days to grief, And calls on death, the wretch's laft reliefs

485 The rage of jealoufy then feiz'd his mind, For much he fear'd the faith of womankind. His wife not fuffer'd from his fide to ftray, Was captive kept, he watch'd her night and day Abridg'd her pleafures and confin'd her fway. Full oft in tears did haples May complain, 490 And figh'd full oft; but figh'd and wept in vain ; She look'd on Damian with a lover's eye; For oh, 'twas fixt; fhe must posses or die ! Nor less impatience vex'd her am'rous Squire, Wild with delay, and burning with defire. 495 Watch'd as fhe was, yet could he not refrain By fecret writing to difclofe his pain : The dame by figns reveal'd her kind intent, Till both were confcious what each other meant.

Ah, gentle knight, what would thy eyes avail, 500 Tho' they could fee as far as fhips can fail ? 'Tis better, fure, when blind, deceiv'd to be, Than be deluded when a man can fee !

Argus himfelf, fo cautious and fo wife, Was over-watch'd, for all his hundred eyes: 505

So many an honest husband may, 'tis known, Who, wisely, never thinks the case his own.

The dame at laft, by diligence and care, Procur'd the key her knight was wont to bear; She took the wards in wax before the fire, And gave th'impression to the trusty Squire. By means of this, fome wonder shall appear, Which, in due place and feason, you may hear.

Well fung fweet Ovid, in the days of yore, What flight is that, which love will not explore ? 515 And Pyramus and Thibe plainly flow The feats true lovers, when they lift, can do : Tho' watch'd and captive, yet in fpite of all, They found the art of kiffing thro' a wall.

But now no longer from our tale to ftray; 520 It happ'd, that once upon a fummer's day, Our rev'rend Knight was urg'd to am'rous play: He rais'd his fpouse e'er Matin-bell was rung, And thus his morning canticle he fung.

Awake, my love, difclose thy radiant eyes; 525, Arife, my wife, my beauteous lady, rise ! Hear how the doves with pensive notes complain, And in soft murnaurs tell the trees their pain : The winter's past; the clouds and tempest fly; The fun adorns the fields, and brightens all the sky. Fair without spot, whose ev'ry charming part 531 My bosom wounds, and captivates my heart;

TANUARY AND MAY. àб

Come, and in mutual pleafures let's engage, Toy of my life, and comfort of my age.

This heard, to Damian strait a sign she made, 535 To hafte before; the gentle Squire obey'd: Secret, and undefcry'd he took his way, And ambush'd close behind an arbour lay.

It was not long ere January came, And hand in hand with him his lovely dame; Blind as he was, not doubting all was fure, He turn'd the key, and made the gate fecure.

Here let us walk, he faid, observ'd by none, Confcious of pleafures to the world unknown : So may my foul have joy, as thou, my wife, Art far the deareft folace of my life; And rather would I chufe, by heav'n above, To die this inftant, than to lofe thy love. Reflect what truth was in my paffion fhewn, 55°** When unendow'd, I took thee for my own, And fought no treasure but thy heart alone. Old as I am, and now depriv'd of fight, Whilft thou art faithful to thy own true Knight, Nor age, nor blindness rob me of delight. Each other loss with patience I can bear, The lofs of thee is what I only fear.

Confider then, my lady and my wife, The folid comforts of a virtuous life. As first, the love of Christ himself you gain; Next, your own honour undefil'd maintain;

And laftly, that which fure your mind must move, My whole eftate shall gratify your love : Make your own terms, and ere to-morrow's fun Displays his light, by heav'n it shall be done. I feal the contract with a holy kifs, 565 And will perform, by this - my dear, and this -Have comfort, spoule, nor think thy Lord unkind ; 'Tis love, not jealoufy that fires my mind. For when thy charms my fober thoughts engage, And join'd to them my own unequal age. 570 From thy dear fide I have no pow'r to part. Such fecret transports warm my melting heart. For who that once poffeft those heav'nly charms, Could live one moment abfent from thy arms ?

He ceas'd, and May with modeft grace reply'd; (Weak was her voice, as while fhe fpoke fhe cry'd:) Heav'n knows (with that a tender figh fhe drew) I have a foul to fave as well as you; And, what no lefs you to my charge commend, My deareft honour, will to death defend. To you in holy Church I gave my hand, And join'd my heart in wedlock's facred band: Yet after this, if you diftruft my care, Then hear, my Lord, and witnefs what I fwear:

First may the yawning earth her bosom rend, 585. And let me hence to hell alive descend;

VOL. H.

Or die the death I dread no lefs than hell, Sew'd in a fack, and plung'd into a well : Ere I my fame by one lewd act difgrace, Or once renounce the honour of my race. For know, Sir Knight, of gentle blood I came, I loath a whore, and ftartle at the name. But jealous men on their own crimes reflect, And learn from thence their ladies to fufpect : Elfe why these needless cautions, Sir, to me ? These doubts and fears of female constancy ! This chime ftill rings in ev'ry lady's ear,

The only ftrain a wife must hope to hear.

Thus while fhe fpoke a fidelong glance fhe caft, Where Damian kneeling, worfhipp'd as fhe paft. 600 She faw him watch the motions of her eye, And fingled out a pear-tree planted nigh : 'Twas charg'd with fruit that made a goodly fhow, And hung with dangling pears was ev'ry bough. Thither th'obfequious Squire addrefs'd his pace, 605 And climbing, in the fummit took his place; The Knight and Lady walk'd beneath in view, Where let us leave them, and our tale purfue.

'Twas now the feafon when the glorious fun His heav'nly progrefs thro' the Twins had run; 615 And Jove, exalted, his mild influence yields, To glad the glebe, and paint the flow'ry fields, Clear was the day, and Phœbus rifing bright, Had flreak'd the azure firmament with light; 619

He pierc'd the glitt'ring clouds with golden freams, And warm'd the womb of earth with genial beams.

It fo befel, in that fair morning-tide, The Fairies fported on the garden fide, And in the midft their Monarch and his bride. So featly tripp'd the light-foot ladies round, 620 The knights fo nimbly o'er the green fword bound, That fcarce they bent the flow'rs, or touch'd the ground. The dances ended, all the fairy train For pinks and daifies fearch'd the flow'ry plain ; While on a bank reclin'd of rifing green, 625 Thus, with a frown, the King befpoke his Queen.

<sup>3</sup>Tis too apparent, argue what you can, The treachery you women use to man: A thousand authors have this truth made out, And fad experience leaves no room for doubt. 630

Heav'n reft thy fpirit, noble Solomon, A wifer monarch never faw the fun : All wealth, all honours, the fupreme degree Of earthly blifs, was well beftow'd on thee ! For fagely haft thou faid : Of all mankind, One only juft, and righteous, hope to find : But fhould'ft thou fearch the fpacious world around, Yet one good woman is not to be found.

Thus fays the King who knew your wickedness; The fon of Sirach teftifies no less.

. ilong an arrest berg G. 2

So may fome wildfire on your bodies fall, Or fome devouring plague confume you all; As well you view the leacher in the tree, And well this honourable Knight you fee: But fince he's blind and old (a helplefs cafe) His Squire fhall cuckold him before your face.

Now by my own dread majesty I fwear,

And by this aweful fceptre which I bear, No impious wretch fhall 'fcape unpunifh'd long, That in my prefence offers fuch a wrong. I will this inftant undeceive the Knight, And, in the very act reftore his fight: And fet the ftrumpet here in open view, A warning to thefe Ladies, and to you, And all the faithlefs fex, for ever to be true.

And will you fo, reply'd the Queen, indeed ? 655 Now, by my mother's foul it is decreed, She fhall not want an anfwer at her need. For her, and for her daughters, I'll engage, And all the fex in each fucceeding age; Art fhall be theirs to varnifh an offence, And fortify their crimes with confidence. Nay, were they taken in a ftrict embrace, Seen with both eyes, and pinion'd on the place; All they fhall need is to proteft and fwear, Breathe a foft figh, and drop a tender tear; Till their wife hufbands, gull'd by arts like thefe, Grow gentle, tractable, and tame as geefe.

What the this fland rous Jew, this Solomon, Call'd women fools, and knew full many a one; The wifer wits of later times declare, 670 How constant, chafte, and virtuous women are: Witness the martyrs, who refign'd their breath, Serene in torments, unconcern'd in death; And witness next what Roman authors tell, How Arria, Portia, and Lucretia fell. 675

But fince the facred leaves to all are free, And men interpret texts, why fhould not we? By this no more was meant, than to have fhown, That fov'reign goodnefs dwells in him alone Who only Is, and is but only One. But grant the worft; fhall women then be weigh'd. By ev'ry word that Solomon has faid? What tho' this King (as ancient flory boafts) Built a fair temple to the Lord of hofts; He ceas'd at laft his Maker to adore, And did as much for Idol gods, or more. Beware what lavih praifes you confer On a rank leacher and ideinters

Whofe reign indulgent God, stays holy writ, so (1 Did but for Davidsnighteous take permit; 1 1160 David, the monarch after peavin's own quind, 1. 1 Who lovid our fex, and hongui'd all our kind. (Well, I'm a Woman, and as fuch muft fpeak; idence muld fulling, and my heart would break) insuf intermit a section you all our cloff Know then, I fcorn your dull authorities, 695 Your idle wits, and all their learned lyes. - By heav'n, those authors are our fex's foes, Whom, in our right, I must and will oppose. Nay (quoth the King) dear Madam, be not wroth : I yield it up; but fince I gave my oath, 700 That this much-injur'd Knight again should fee ; It must be done - I am a King, faid he. And one, whole faith has ever facred been. And to has mine (the faid)—I am a Queen : Her answer she shall have. I undertake : 705 And thus an end of all difpute I make. Try when you lift; and you shall find, my Lord, It is not in our fex to break our word. We leave them here in this heroic ftrain. And to the Knight our ftory turns again ; 710 Who in the garden, with his lovely May, Song merrier than the Cuckow or the Jay : This was his song; "Oh kind and conftant be, " Conftant and kind I'll ever prove to thee." Thus finging as he went, at laft he drew 715 By easy fleps, to where the Pear-tree grew: The longing dame look'd up, and fpy'd her Love Full fairly perch'd among the boughs above. She flopp'd; and fighing: Oh good Gods, fhe cry'd; What pangs, what fudden thoots diftend my fide? G for that tempting fruit, fo fresh, fo green; 72I Help, for the love of heav'n's immortal Queen !

JANUARY AND MAY. 102 Help, deareft lord, and fave at once the life Of thy poor infant, and thy longing wife ! Sore figh'd the Knight to hear his Lady's cry, 725 But could not climb, and had no fervant nigh : Old as he was, and void of eye-fight too. What could, alas ! a helplefs hufband do ? And muft I languifh then, fhe faid, and die, Yet view the lovely fruit before my eye ? At leaft, kind Sir, for charity's fweet fake, Vouchfafe the trunk between your arms to take ; Then from your back I might afcend the tree ; Do you but floop, and leave the reft to me.

With all my foul, he thus reply'd again, 735 I'd fpend my deareft blood to eafe thy pain. With that, his back against the trunk he bent, She feiz'd a twig, and up the tree she went.

Now prove your patience, gentle Ladies all! Nor let on me your heavy anger fall : 740 'Tis truth I tell, tho' not in phrafe refin'd; Tho' blunt my tale, yet honeft is my mind. What feats the lady in the tree might do, I pafs, as gambols never known to you; But fure it was a merrier fit, fhe fwore, 745 Than in her life fhe ever felt before.

In that nice moment, lo! the wond'ring knight Look'd out, and ftood reftor'd to fudden fight.

Strait on the tree his eager eyes he bent, As one whole thoughts were on his fpoule intent; But when he faw his bofom-wife fo drefs'd, 754 His rage was fuch as cannot be express'd: Not frantic mothers when their infants die, With louder clamours rend the vaulted fky: He cry'd, he roar'd, he ftorm'd, he tore his hair; Death ! hell ! and furies ! what doft thou do there ?

What ails my lord ? the trembling dame reply'd; I thought your patience had been better try'd : Is this your love, ungrateful and unkind, This my reward for having cur'd the blind ? Why was I taught to make my hulband fee, By ftruggling with a Man upon a Tree? Did I for this the pow'r of magic prove ? Unhappy wife, whofe crime was too much love !

If this be fruggling, by this holy light, 765 'Tis fruggling with a vengeance (quoth the Knight) So heav'n preferve the fight it has reftord, As with these eyes I plainly law thee whord; Whor'd by my flave — perfidious wretch! may hell As furely feize thee, as I law too well. 770

Guard me, good angels ! cry'd the gentle May, Pray heav'n, this magic work the proper way ! Alas, my love ! 'tis certain, could you fee, You ne'er had us'd thefe killing words to me: So help me, fates, as 'tis no perfect fight, But fome faint glimm'ring of a doubtful light.

What I have find (quoth he) I must maintain, For by the immortal powers it seems d too plain -

By all those pow'rs, fome frenzy feiz'd your mind, (Reply'd the dame) are these the thanks I find ? Wretch that I am, that e'er I was fo kind ! 781 She faid; a rifing figh expressed har woo, The ready tears apace began to flow, And as they full the wip'd from either eye The drops (for women, when they lift, can ery.) 785 The Knight was touch'd; and in his looks appear it

Signs of remorfe, while thus his fpouse he chear'd. Middam, 'tis path, and my short anger o'er; Come down, and von your tender heart normore : Excuse me, down, if aught amile was laid, '990 For, on my foul, amends final thom be made : Let my repentance your forgiveness draw, By heav'n, I fore but what I thought I faw.

Ah my lov'd lord ! 'twas much unkind (fhe cry'd) On bare fulpicion thus to treat your bride. 795 But till your fight's eftablifh'd, for a while, Imperfect objects new works for beguile. Thus when from fleep we first our eyes difplay, The balls are wounded with the piercing ray, And dufky vapours rife, and intercept the day. So juft recov'ring from the fhades of night, 801 Your fwimming eyes are drunk with fudden light, Strange phantoms dance around, and fkim before your fight:

Then, Sir, be cautious, nor too rafhly deem ; Heav'n knows how feldom things are what they feem ! Confult your reason, and you soon shall find 806 'T was you were jealous, not your wife unkind : Jove ne'er spoke oracle more true than this, None judge so wrong as those who think amis.

With that the leap'd into her Lord's embrace, 810 With well-diffembled virtue in her face. He hugg'd her clofe, and kifs'd her o'er and o'er, Difturb'd with doubts and jealoufies no more : Both, pleas'd and blefs'd, renew'd their mutual vows, A fruitful wife, and a believing fpoufe. 845

Thus ends our tale, whole moral next to make, Let all wife hufbands hence example take; And pray, to crown the pleafure of their lives, To be fo well deluded by their svives.

B<sup>E</sup> H O L D the woes of matrimonial life, And hear with rev'rence an experienc'd wife! To dear-bought wildom give the credit due, And think, for once, a woman tells you true. In all these trials I have borne a part, I was myself the feourge that caus'd the smart; For, since fifteen, in triumph have I led Five captive husbands from the church to bed.

Chrift faw a wedding once, the Scripture fays, And faw but one, 'tis thought, in all his days; Whence fome infer, whole conficience is too nice, ? No pious Chriftian ought to marry twice.

But let them read, and folve me, if they can, The words address'd to the Samaritan: Five times in lawful wedlock she was join'd; And sure the certain stint was ne'er defined.

Encreafe and multiply, was heav'n's command, And that's a text I clearly underftand. This too, "Let men their fires and mothers leave, "And to their dearer wires for ever cleave. 20 More wives than one by Solomon were try'd, Or elfe the wifeft of mankind's bely'd. I've had myfelf full many a merry fit; And truft in heav'n I may have many yet. For when my transitory fpouse, unkind, 25 Shall die, and leave his woeful wife behind, I'll take the next good Christian I can find.

Paul, knowing one could never ferve our turn, Declar'd 'twas better far to wed than burn. There's danger in allembling fire and tow; I grant 'em that, and what it means you know. The fame Apostle too has elsewhere own'd, No precept for Virginity he found: 'Tis but a counfel — and we woman still Take which we like, the counfel, or our will.

I envy not their blifs, if he or flee Think fit to live in perfect chaffity s Pure let them be, and free from taint of vice ; I, for a few flight foots, am not fo nice. # THE WIFE OF BATH. Such as are perfect, may, I can't deny; But, by your leave, Divines, fo am not I. 45 Full many a Saint, fince first the world began, Liv'd an unfpotted maid, in fpite of man: Let fuch (a God's name) with fine wheat be fed, And let us honest wives eat barley bread. For me, I'll keep the post affign'd by heav'n, And use the copious talent it has giv'n : Let my good fpouse pay tribute, do me right, And keep an equal reckining eviry night: His proper body is not his, but mine ; For fo faid Paul, and Paul's a found divine." Know then, of those five husbands I have had. Three were just tolerable, two were bad. The three were old, but rich and fond belide. And toil'd most pitcoully to please their bride: But fince their wealth (the best they had) was mine, The reft, without much lofs, I could refign. Sure to be lov'd, I took no pains to pleafe, Yet had more Pleafure far than they had Eafe. Prefents flow'd in apace : with flow'rs of gold, They made their court, like Jupiter of old. If I but finil'd, a fudden youth they found, And a new palfy feiz'd them when I frown'd. Ye fov'reign wives ! give ear, and understand, Thus shall ye speak, and exercise command. For never was it giv'n to mortal man, To lye fo boldly as we women can:

Forfwear the fact, they feen with both his eyes, And call your maids to witness how he lies.

Hark, old Sir Paul ! ('twas thus I us'd to fay) Whence is our neighbour's wife fo rich and gay ? 75 Treated, casefs'd, where'er fhe's pleas'd to roam — I fit in tatters; and immur'd at home. Why to her houfe doft thou fo oft repair ? Art thou fo am'rous? and is fhe fo fair ? If I but fee a coufin or a friend, So Lord ! how you fwell, and rage like any fiend ! But you reel home, a drunken beaftly bear, Then preach till midnight in your eafy chair ; Cry, wives are falfe, and ev'ry woman evil, And give up all that's female to the devil. 85

If poor (you fay) the drains her hufband's purfe; If rich, the keeps her prieft, or fomething worfe; If highly born, intolerably vain, Vapours and pride by turns posses her brain, Now gayly mad, now fourly fplenetic, 90 Freakish when well, and fretful when she's sick. If fair, then chafte the cannot long abide, ۱` By preffing youth attack'd on ev'ry fide: If foul, her wealth the lufty lover lures, Or else her wit some fool-gallant procures, . 95 Or elfe the dances with becoming grace, Or shape excuses the defects of face. There fwims no goofe fo grey, but foon or late, She finds fome honeft gander for her mate.

Horfes (thou fay'ft) and affes, men may try, 100 And ring fulpected veffels ere they buy: But wives, a random choice, untry'd they take, They dream in courtfhip, but in weelock wake: Then, nor till then, the veil's remov'd away, And all the woman glares in open day. 105

You tell me, to preferve your wife's good grace, Your eyes muft always languifh on my face, Your tongue with conftant flatt'ries feed my ear, And tag each fentence with, My life! My dear,! If by ftrange chance, a modeft blufh be rais'd, IIO Be fure my fine complexion muft be prais'd. My garments always muft be new and gay, And feafts ftill kept upon my wedding-day. Then muft my nurfe be pleas'd, and fav'rite maid; And endlefs treats; and endlefs vifits paid, IIS To a long train of kindred, friends, allies; All this thou fay'ft, and all thou fay'ft are lyes.

On Jenkin too you caft a fquinting eye: What! can your prentice raife your jealoufy? Frefh are his ruddy cheeks, his forehead fair, 120 And like the burnifh'd gold his curling hair. But clear thy wrinkled brow, and quit thy forrow, I'd fcom your prentice, fhould you die to-morrow.

Why are thy chefts all lock'd? on what defign ? Are not thy worldly goods and treasure mine? 129 Sir, I'm no-fool: nor fhall you, by St. John, Have goods and body to yourfelf alone.

IIE THE WIFE OF BATE

One you shall quit, in spite of both your eyes — I heed not, I, the bolts, the locks, the spies. If you had wit, you'd fay, "Go where you will, "Dear spouse, I credit not the tales they tell: 138 "Take all the freedoms of a married life; "I know thee for a virtuous, faithful wife."

Lard! when you have enough, what need you case How merrily foever others fare ? rgg Tho' all the day I give and take delight, Doubt not, fufficient will be left at night. "Fis but a juft and rational defire,. To light a taper at a neighbour's fire.

There's danger too, you think, in sich array, 146 And none can long be modeft that are gay: The Cat; if you but finge her tabby ikin, The chimney keeps, and fits content within; But once grown fleek, will from her corner run. Sport with her tail, and wanton in the fun; 145 She licks her fair round face, and frifks abroad, To fhow her furr, and to be catterwaw'd.

Lo thus, my friends, I wrought to my defires
Thefe three right ancient venerable fires.
I told 'em, Thus you fay, and thus you do, 156
And told 'em falfe, but Jenkin fwore 'twas true.
I, like a dog, could bite as well as whine,
And first complain'd, whene'er the guilt was mine.
I tax'd them oft with wenching and amours,
When their weak legs fcarce dragg'd 'em out of doorse.

And fwore the rambles that I took by night, Were all to fpy what damfels they bedight. That colour brought me many hours of mirth : For all this wit is giv'n us from our birth. Heav'n gave to woman the peculiar grace 160 To fpin, to weep, and cully human race. By this nice conduct, and this prudent course, By murm'ring, wheedling, ftratagem, and force, I still prevail'd, and would be in the right, Or curtain-lectures made a restles night. 164 If once my hufband's arm was o'er my fide, What ! fo familiar with your spoule ? I cry'd : I levied first a tax upon his need; Then let him-"twas a nicety indeed ! Let all mankind this certain maxim hold, 170 Marry who will, our fex is to be fold. With empty hands no taffels you can lure, But fullom love for gain we can endure; For gold we love the impotent and old, And heave, and pant, and kifs, and cling, for gold, Yet with embraces, curfes oft I mixt, Then kifs'd again, and chid and rail'd betwixt. Well, I may make my will in peace, and die, For not one word in man's arrears am I. To drop a dear difpute I was unable, 180 Ev'n tho' the Pope himfelf had fat at table. Vol. H. Н

THE WIFE OF BATH. 114 But when my point was gain'd, then thus I fpoke; " Billy, my dear, how fheepifhly you look? " Approach, my fpoule, and let me kils thy cheek ; " Thou shoul'dit be always thus, refign'd and meek ? "Of Job's great patience fince to off you preach, "Well should you practife, who so well can teach. "'Tis difficult to do, I must allow, " But I, my deareft, will instruct you how. "Great is the bleffing of a prudent wife, 100 54 Who puts a period to domestic strife. & One of us two must rule, and one obey; « And fince in man right reason bears the fway, " Let that frail thing, weak woman, have her way. " The wives of all my family have rul'd 195 " Their tender hufbands, and their paffions cool'd. "Fye, 'tis unmanly thus to figh and groan ; "What! would you have me to yourfelf alone? I'm all your own-nay hold-for fhame ! "What means my dear-indeed-you are to blame."

Thus with my first three Lords I past my life; 205 A very woman, and a very wife.

What fums from these old spoules I could raise, Procur'd young husbands in my riper days.

THE WIFE OF BATH. IIC "Tho' past my bloom, not yet decay'd was I, Wanton and wild, and chatter'd like a pye. 210 In country dances still I bore the bell, And fung as fweet as ev'ning Philomel. To clear my quail-pipe, and refresh my foul, Full oft I drain'd the fpicy nut-brown bowl; Rich luscious wines, that youthful blood improve,215 And warm the fwelling veins to feats of love : For 'tis as fure, as cold ingenders hail, A liqu'rish mouth must have a lech'rous tail; Wine lets no lover unrewarded go, As all true gamefters by experience know. 220

As flung his heart, and made his marrow fry. 235 With burning rage, and frantick jealoufy. His foul, I hope, enjoys eternal glory, For here on earth I was his purgatory. Oft, when his floe the most feverely wrung, He put on careless airs, and fat and fung. 240 How fore I gall'd him, only heav'n could know, And he that felt, and I that caus'd the woe. He dy'd, when last from pilgrimage I came, With other goffips, from Jerufalem; And now lies buried underneath a Rood. 245 Fair to be seen, and rear'd of honest wood. A tomb indeed, with fewer sculptures grac'd, Than that Maufolus' pious widow plac'd, Or where infhrin'd the great Darius lay; But cost on graves is merely thrown away. 250 The pit fill'd up, with turf we cover'd o'er; So bless the good man's foul, I fay no more.

Now for my fifth lov'd Lord, the laft and beft; (Kind heav'n afford him everlafting reft) Full hearty was his love, and I can fhew, 255 The tokens on my ribs in black and blue; Yet, with a knack, my heart he could have won, While yet the fmart was fhooting in the bone. How quaint an appetite in women reigns! Free gifts we fcorn, and love what cofts us pains : 260 Let men avoid us, and on them we leap; A glutted market makes provision cheap.

THE WIFE OF BATH. 117

In pure good will I took this jovial fpark, Of Oxford he, a moft egregious clerk. He boarded with a widow in the town, 265 A trufty goffip, one dame Alifon. Full well the fecrets of my foul fhe knew, Better than e'er our parifh Prieft could do. To her I told whatever could befall : Had but my hufband pifs'd againft a wall, 270 Or done a thing that might have coft his life, She — and my niece — and one more worthy wife, Had known it all : what moft he would conceal, To thefe I made no fcruple to reveal. Oft has he blufh'd from ear to ear for fhame, 275 That e'er he told a fecret to his dame.

It fo befel, in holy time of Lent, That oft a day I to this goffip went; (My hufband, thank my ftars, was out of town) From houfe to houfe we rambled up and down, 280 This clerk, myfelf, and my good neighbour Alfe, To fee, be feen, to tell, and gather tales, Vifits to ev'ry Church we daily paid, And march'd in ev'ry holy Mafquerade, The Stations duly, and the Vigils kept; 285 Not much we fafted, but fcarce ever flept. At Sermons too I fhone in fcarlet gay, The wafting moth ne'er fpoil'd my beft array; The caufe was this, I wore it ev'ry day.

118. THE WIFE OF BATH,

'Twas when fresh May her early bloss yields, This Clerk and I were walking in the fields. 291 We grew fo intimate, I can't tell how, I pawn'd my honour, and engag'd my vow, If e'er I laid my husband in his urn, That he, and only he, should ferve my turn. 295 We ftrait struck hands, the bargain was agreed; I still have shifts against a time of need: The mouse that always trusts to one poor hole, Can never be a mouse of any foul.

I vow'd, I foarce could fleep fince firft I knew him, And durft be fworn he had bewitch'd me to him; If e'er I flept, I dream'd of him alone, And dreams foretel, as learned men have fhown. All this I faid; but dream, Sirs, I had none: I follow'd but my crafty Crony's lore, Who bid me tell this lye—and twenty more.

Thus day by day, and month by month we paft; It pleas'd the Lord to take my spouse at last. I tore my gown, I soil'd my locks with duft, And beat my breafts, as wretched widows—muft.310 Before my face my handkerchief I spread, To hide the flood of tears I did—not shed. The good man's coffin to the Church was born; Around, the neighbours, and my clerk too, mourn. But as he march'd, good Gods! he show'd a pair 375: Of legs and feet, so clean, so ftrong, so fair !

$30 THE WIFE OF BATH.

Tell how the Roman matrons led their life, Of Gracchus' mother, and Duilius' wife; And chofe the fermon, as befeem'd his wit, With fome grave fentence out of holy writ. Oft would he fay, who builds his houfe on fands, Pricks his blind horfe acrofs the fallow lands, Or lets his wife abroad with pilgrims roam, Deferves a fool's-cap and long ears at home. All this avail'd not; for whoe'er he be That tells my faults, I hate him mortally; And fo do numbers more, I'll boldly fay, Men, women, clergy, regular, and lay.

My fpoufe (who was, you know, to learning bred) A certain treatife oft at ev'ning read, 356 Where divers Authors (whom the dev'l confound For all their lyes) were in one volume bound. Valerius, whole; and of St. Jerome, part; Chryfippus and Tertullian, Ovid's Art, 360 Solomon's proverbs, Eloïfa's loves ; And many more than fure the Church approves. More legends were there here, of wicked wives, Than good, in all the Bible and Saints-lives. Who drew the Lion vanquish'd? 'Twas a Man. 365 But could we women write as fcholars can, Men fhould ftand mark'd with far more wickedness Than all the fons of Adam could redrefs. Love feldom haunts the breaft where Learning lies, And Venus fets ere Mercury can rife. 370

Those play the scholars who can't play the men, And use that weapon which they have, their pen; When old, and pass the relish of delight, Then down they sit, and in their dotage write, That not one woman keeps her marriage-vow. 375 (This by the way, but to my purpose now.)

It chanc'd my hufband, on a winter's night, Read in this book, aloud, with ftrange delight, How the first female (as the Scriptures show) Brought her own spouse and all his race to woe. 389 How Samson sell; and he whom Dejanire Wrap'd in th'envenom'd shirt, and set on fire. How curs'd Eryphile her lord betray'd, And the dire ambush Clytzemness laid. But what most pleas'd him was the Cretan dame, And hufband-bull — oh monstrous ! fie for shame !

He had by heart, the whole detail of woe Xantippe made her good man undergo; How oft fhe foolded in a day, he knew, How many pifs-pots on the fage fhe threw; Who took it patiently, and wip'd his head; Rain follows thunder, that was all he faid.

He read, how Arius to his friend complain'd, A fatal Tree was growing in his land, On which three wives fucceffively had twin'd 395 A fliding noofe, and waver'd in the wind. Where grows this plant (reply'd the friend) oh where ? For better fruit did never orchard bear.

122: THE WIFE OF BATH. Give me fome flip of this most blissful tree, And in my garden planted shall it be. 400

Then how two wives their lord's deftruction prove Thro' hatred one, and one thro' too much love; That for her hufband mix'd a pois'nous draught, And this for luft an am'rous philtre bought: The nimble juice foon feiz'd his giddy head, 405 Frantic at night, and in the morning dead.

How fome with fwords their fleeping lords have flain, And fome have hammer'd nails into their brain, And fome have drench'd them with a deadly potion; All this he read, and read with great devotion. 410

Long time I heard, and fwell'd, and blufh'd, and frown'd;

But when no end of thefe vile tales I found, When ftill he read, and laugh'd, and read again, And half the night was thus confum'd in vain; Provok'd to vengeance, three large leaves I tore 415 And with one buffet fell'd him on the floor. With that my hufband in a fury rofe, And down he fettled me with hearty blows. I groan'd, and lay extended on my fide; Oh ! thou haft flain me for my wealth (I cry'd) 420 Yet I forgive thee — take my laft embrace — He wept, kind foul ! and ftoop'd to kifs my face; I took him fuch a box as turn'd him blue, Then figh'd and cry'd, Adieu, my dear, adieu !

THE WIFE OF BATH. 123

But after many a hearty fruggle paft, 425 I condefcended to be pleas'd at laft. Soon as he faid, My miftrefs and my wife, Do what you lift, the term of all your life: I took to heart the merits of the caufe, And ftood content to rule by wholefome laws; 430 Receiv'd the reins of abfolute command, With all the government of houfe and land, And empire o'er his tongue, and o'er his hand. As for the volume that revil'd the dames, 'T was torn to fragments, and condemn'd to flames.435 Now heav'n on all my hufbands gone, beftow

ARGUMENT.

O EDIPUS King of Thebes having by mifake flain his father Laius, and marry'd his mother Jocafta; put out his own eyes, and refign'd the realm to his fons, Eccocles and Polynices. Being neglected by them. he makes his prayer to the fury Tifiphone, to fow debate betwixt the brothers. They agree at last to reign fingly, each a year by turns, and the first lo tis obtain'd by Eteocles. Jupiter, in a council of the Gods, declares his refolution of punishing the Thebans, and Argives also, by means of a marriage betwixt Polynices and one of the daughters of Adrastus King of Argos. Juno opposes, but to no effect; and Mercury is fent on a mellage to the shades, to the ghost of Laius, who is to appear to Eteocles. and provoke him to break the agreement. Polynices in the mean time departs from Thebes by night, is overtaken by a ftorm, and arrives at Argos; where he meets with Tydeus, who had fled from Calydon, having kill'd his brother. Adraftus entertains them, having receiv'd an oracle from Apollo that his daughters should be marry'd to a Boar and a Lion, which he understands to be meant of these ftrangers by whom the hides of those beasts were worn, and who arriv'd at the time when he kept an annual feast in honour of that God. The rife of this folemnity he relates to his guefts, the loves of Phœbus and Pfamathe. and the flory of Chorcebus. He enquires, and is made acquainted with their defcent and quality : The facrifice is renew'd, and the book concludes with a Hymn to Apello.

The Translator bopes he needs not apologize for his Choice of this piece, which was made almost in his Childhood. Bue finding the Version better than he expected, he gave it some Correction a few years afterwards.

The time will come, when a diviner flame Shall warm my breaft to fing of Cæfar's fame : Mean while permit, that my preluding Mufe In Theban wars an humbler theme may chuse : 50 Of furious hate furviving death, the fings, A fatal throne to two contending Kings, And fun'ral flames, that parting wide in air Express the discord of the souls they bear : Of towns dispeopled, and the wand'ring ghosts 55 Of Kings unbury'd in the wafted coafts; When Dirce's fountain blufh'd with Grecian blood, And Thetis, near Ifmenos' fwelling flood, With dread beheld the rolling furges fweep, In heaps, his flaughter'd fons into the deep. 60

What Hero, Clio ! wilt thou first relate ? The rage of Tydeus, or the Prophet's fate ? Or how with hills of flain on ev'ry fide, Hippomedon repell'd the hostile tyde ? Or how the Youth with ev'ry grace adorn'd, 65 Untimely fell, to be for ever mourn'd ? Then to fierce Capaneus thy verse extend, And fing with horror his prodigious end.

No nightly bands in glitt'ring armour wait Before the fleepless Tyrant's guarded gate ; 205 No chargers then were wrought in burnish'd gold; Nor filver vales took the forming mold ; Nor gems on bowls embofs'd were feen to fhine. Blaze on the brims, and fparkle in the wine ---Say, wretched rivals ! what provokes your rage ? 219 Say, to what end your impious arms engage ? Not all bright Phœbus views in early morn, Or when his evining beams the weft adorn, When the fouth glows with his meridian ray, And the cold north receives a fainter day; 215 For crimes like thefe, not all those realms fuffice, Were all those realms the guilty victor's prize !

But fortune now (the lots of empire thrown) Decrees to proud Eteocles the crown: What joys, oh Tyrant ! fwell'd thy foul that day, 220 When all were flaves thou could'ft around furvey, Pleas'd to behold unbounded pow'r thy own, And fingly fill a fear'd and envy'd throne !

But the vile Vulgar, ever difcontent, Their growing fears in fecret murmurs vent; 225 Still prone to change, the' ftill the flaves of flate, And fure the monarch whom they have, to hate; New lords they madly make, then tamely bear, And foftly curfe the Tyrants whom they fear: And one of those who groan beneath the fway 230 Of Kings impos'd, and grudgingly obey, Bid hell's black monarch my commands obey, And give up Laius to the realms of day, Whofe ghoft yet fhiv'ring on Cocytus' fand, Expects its paffage to the further firand : 420 Let the pale fire revifit Thebes, and bear Thefe pleafing orders to the 'wrant's ear ; That, from his exil'd brother, fwell'd with pride Of foreign forces, and his Argive bride, Almighty Jove commands him to detain 425 The promis'd empire, and alternate reign : Be this the caufe of more than mortal hate : The reft, fucceeding times fhall ripen into Fate.

The God obeys, and to his feet applies Those golden wings that cut the yielding skies. 430 His ample hat his beamy locks o'erspread, And veil'd the starry glories of his head. He seiz'd the wand that causes sheet of start Or in fost sumbers seals the wakeful eye; That drives the dead to dark Tartarean coasts, Or back to life compels the wand'ring ghosts. Thus, thro' the parting clouds, the fon of May Wings on the whistling winds his rapid way; Now smoothly steers thro' air his equal flight, Now springs alost, and tow'rs th' ethereal height; 445 Then wheeling down the steep of heav'n he flies, And draws a radiant circle o'er the stees.

This, great Amphiaraus, lay hid from thee, Tho' skill'd in fate, and dark futurity. The father's care and prophet's art were vain, For thus did the predicting God ordain.

Lo ! haplefs Tydeus, whofe ill-fated hand 555 Had flain his brother, leaves his native land, And feiz'd with horror in the fhades of night, Thro' the thick deferts headlong urg'd his flight: Now by the fury of the tempeft driv'n, He feeks a fhelter from th' inclement heav'n, 560 'Till, led by fate, the Theban's fleps he treads, And to fair Argos' open court fucceeds.

When thus the chiefs from diffrent lands refort T'Adraftus' realms, and hofpitable court;

The King furveys his guefts with curious eyes, 565 And views their arms and habit with furprize. A lion's yellow fkin the Theban wears, Horrid his mane, and rough with curling hairs; Such once employ'd Alcides' youthful toils, Ere yet adorn'd with Nemea's dreadful fpoils. 570 A boar's ftiff hide, of Calydonian breed, Oenides' manly fhoulders overfpread. Oblique his tufks, erect his briftles flood, Alive, the pride and terror of the wood.

Struck with the fight, and fix'd in deep amaze, 575 The King th'accomplifh'd Oracle furveys, Reveres Apollo's vocal caves, and owns The guiding Godhead, and his future fons.

T H E fair Pomona flourish'd in his reign ; Of all the Virgins of the fylvan train, None taught the trees a nobler race to bear, Or more improv'd the vegetable care. To her the faady grove, the flow'ry field, The ftreams and fountains, no delights could yield ; 'Twas all her joy the ripening fruits to tend, And fee the boughs with happy burthens bend. The hook the bore inftead of Cynthia's spear, To lop the growth of the luxuriant year, 10 To decent form the lawles shoots to bring, And teach th' obedient branches where to fpring, Now the cleft rind inferted graffs receives, And yields an offspring more than nature gives ; Now fliding ftreams the thirfty plants renew, 15 And feed their fibres with reviving dew.

These cares alone her virgin breast employ, Averle from Venus and the nuptial joy.

The God whole enfign fcares the birds of prev. And old Silenus, youthful in decay, and the hold resy Employ'd their wiles, and unavailing care, To pals the fences, and furprize the fair ? Like thefe, Vertumnus own'd his faithful flame, Like thefe, rejected by the fcornful dame. To gain her fight a thoufand forms he wears, And first a reaper from the field appears, Sweating he walks, while loads of golden grain O'ercharge the fhoulders of the feeming fwain. Oft o'er his back a crooked fcythe is laid, And wreaths of hay his fun-burnt temples fhade : Oft in his harden'd hand a goad he bears, Like one who late unyok'd the fweating fteers. Sometimes his pruning-hook corrects, the vines, And the loofe ftraglers to their ranks confines. Now gath'ring what the bounteous year allows, He pulls ripe apples from the bending boughs. A foldier now, he with his fword appears ; A fifher next, his trembling angle bears ; Each shape he varies, and each art he tries, On her bright charms to feaft his longing eyes.

WEEPING.

W HILE Celia's Tears make forrow bright, Proud Grief fits fwelling in her eyes; The Sun, next those the fairest light, Thus from the Ocean first did rife : And thus thro' Mists we see the Sun. 35 Which elfe we durft not gaze upon. These filver drops, like morning dew, Foretell the fervour of the day: So from one Cloud foft fhow'rs we view, And blafting lightnings burft away. 40 The Stars that fall from Celia's eye, Declare our Doom in drawing nigh. The Baby in that funny Sphere So like a Phaëton appears, That Heav'n, the threaten'd World to spare, 45 Thought fit to drown him in her tears : Elfe might th' ambitious Nymph afpire, To set, like him, Heav'n too on fire.

On SILENCE.

I.

SILENCE! coeval with Eternity; Thou wert, ere Nature's felf began to be, 'Twas one vaft Nothing, all, and all flept faft in thee.

II.

Thine was the fway, ere heav'n was form'd, or earth, Ere fruitful Thought conceiv'd creation's birth, 5 Or midwife Word gave aid, and fpoke the infant forth.

III.

Then various elements, against thee join'd, In one more various animal combin'd,

And fram'd the clam'rous race of bufy Human-kind.

. IV.

The tongue mov'd gently firft, and fpeech was low, 'Till wrangling Science taught it noife and fhow, 11 And wicked Wit arofe, thy most abusive foe.

v.

But rebel Wit deferts thee oft' in vain;

Loft in the maze of words he turns again,

And feeks a furer flate, and courts thy gentle reign. 15

VI.

Afflicted Senfe thou kindly doft fet free, Opprefs'd with argumental tyranny, And routed Reason finds a fase retreat in thee.

VII.

With thee in private modest Dulness lies, And in thy bosom lurks in Thought's difguise; 20 Thou varnisher of Fools, and cheat of all the Wife!

VIII.

Yet thy indulgence is by both confest; Folly by thee lies fleeping in the breast, And 'tis in thee at last that Wisdom feeks for rest.

IX.

Silence the knave's repute, the whore's good name,

The only honour of the withing dame; 26 Thy very want of tongue makes thee a kind of Fame.

free,

But could'st thou feize fome tongues that now are

How Church and State should be oblig'd to thee? At Senate, and at Bar, how welcome would'A thou be?

XV.

Yet fpeech ev'n there, fubmiffively withdraws,

From rights of fubjects, and the poor man's case : Then pompous Silence reigns, and flills the noife Laws, and the set of the

Paft fervices of friends, good deeds of foes, What Fav rites gain, and what the Nation owes, Fly the forgetful world, and in thy arms repore.

XIII. The country wit, religion of the town, The courtier's learning, policy o'th' gown, Afe beft by thee exprets'd ; and thine in thee alone

XIV. - 1-1 The parson's cant, the lawyer's sophistry, Lord's quibble, critic's jeft; all end in thee, All reft in peace at laft, and fleep eternally.

ARTEMISIA.

HO' Artemisia talks, by fits, Of councils, claffics, fathers, wits; Reads Malbranche, Boyle, and Locke : Yet in fome things methinks fhe fails, 'Twere well if the would pare her nails, 5 And wear a cleaner fmock. Haughty and huge as High-Dutch bride, Such naftinefs, and fo much pride Are oddly join'd by fate: On her large fquab you find her fpread, 10 Like a fat corpfe upon a bed, That lies and stinks in state. She wears no colours (fign of grace) On any part except her face; All white and black befide : 15 Dauntless her look, her gesture proud, Her voice theatrically loud, And masculine her stride. So have I feen, in black and white A prating thing, a Magpye hight, Majeftically stalk; A flately, worthlefs animal, That plies the tongue, and wags the tail, All flutter, pride, and talk.

PHRYNE.

HRYNE had talents for mankind, Open fhe was, and unconfin'd, Like fome free port of trade : Merchants unloaded here their freight, And Agents from each foreign state, Here first their entry made. Her learning and good breeding fuch, Whether th' Italian or the Dutch, Spaniards or French came to her: To all obliging the'd appear : 'Twas Si Signior, 'twas Yaw Mynheer, 'Twas S' il vous plaist, Monsieur. Obscure by birth, renown'd by crimes, Still changing names, religions, climes, At length fhe turns a Bride : In di'monds, pearls, and rich brocades, She fhines the first of batter'd jades, And flutters in her pride. So have I known those Infects fair (Which curious Germans hold fo rare) Still vary fhapes and dyes; Still gain new titles with new forms; First grubs obscene, then wriggling worms, Then painted butterflies.
