

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

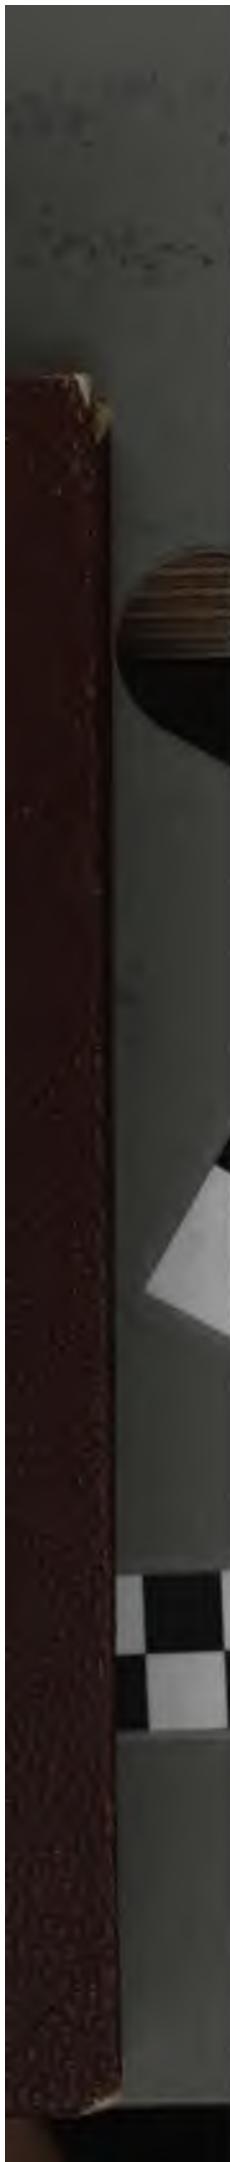

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

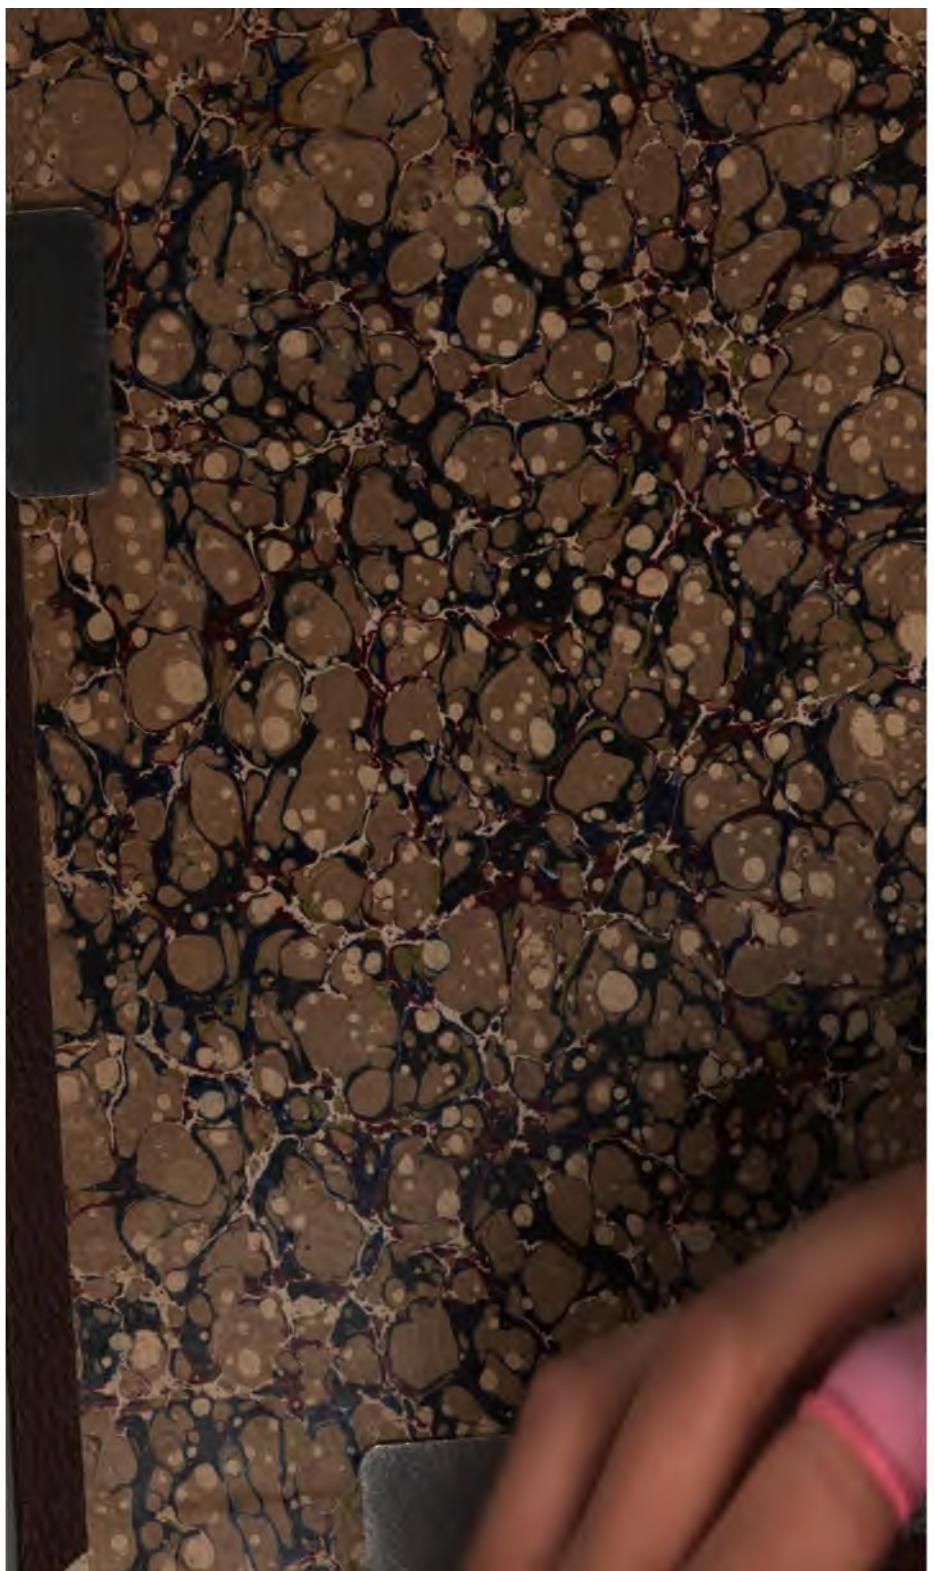

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

INTRODUCTION.

IN the year 1843 the Camden Society published the first volume of Albert Way's valuable edition of the Promptorium, The third volume completing the work appeared in 1865. The scope of the work is comprehensively described on the title-page which I here give :

'Promptorium Parvulorum sive Clericorum Dictionarius Anglo-Latinus Princeps, Auctore Fratre Galfrido Grammatico dicto, ex Ordine Fratrum Predicatorum, Northfoleensi, circa A. D. MCCCXL. olim ex Officina Pynsoniana editum, nunc ab integro, Commentariolis subjectis, ad fidem Codicum recensuit Albertus Way, A.M. Londini : Sumptibus Societatis Camdenensis, MDCCCLXV.'

This important work has been for many years out of print, and a second-hand copy of the complete book is very rarely to be met with in booksellers' catalogues. The third volume, with its valuable Preface and Appendix, is especially rare, and can only be obtained at a high price. As there has been for some time an urgent demand for a new edition of the Promptorium, it has been thought that something ought to be done to supply this desideratum. At first the idea was to bring out a reprint of the Camden edition with revision of the etymological matter. But it was soon seen that to produce a satisfactory edition from the point of view of modern scholarship it would be necessary to examine some of the MSS. used by Way. For such an undertaking the present writer did not feel himself prepared. It was therefore arranged with the Secretary of the Early English Text Society that an edition of the Promptorium should be prepared, based upon one MS., the Sylkestede MS. in the Chapter Library of Winchester Cathedral. This MS. is indicated by Way by the letter (S), and is characterized by him as a copy 'of much value.' The volume in which it is contained was entrusted to the editor (to be used in the Bodleian Library) by the liberality of the Dean and Chapter, through the friendly mediation of Dean Kitchin. For which kindness the editor wishes to express his grateful acknowledgement.

The MS. is in a fine volume in perfect preservation, in the original oak-boards, covered with leather. The contents, besides the Promptorium, are Liber Catonis, Liber Equivocorum, Parvum Doctrinale or Liber de Parabolis Philosophiae, Liber Theodoli, and Liber Anioni, the last consisting of fables in hexameter and pentameter verse. Our MS. is on paper, consisting of 114 leaves; dimensions 13½ inches by 10 inches. The writing is in double columns, in a bold clear hand without any rubrication.

The volume was in the possession of Thomas Sylkestede, Prior of Winchester about 1498. He was a liberal benefactor to the fabric of the cathedral, a friend of Bishop Fox, to whom he rendered assistance in founding Corpus Christi College, Oxford; he died in 1524. On a leaf of parchment at the beginning of the volume is written: 'Liber T. Sylkestede, prec. xiij s. iiiij d.', and lower on the page in a smaller hand: 'Anno domini mcccc. iiiij xiiij' (A.D. 1494). On the reverse of one of the fly-leaves at the end is written: 'Iste liber est de domo Sancti Swythini Wynton. Qui eum alienaverit Anathema sit.'

In the present edition the text of the Winchester MS. is printed precisely as it stands; the original arrangement of the words has been preserved, and nothing has been omitted. The original consists of two distinct portions and alphabetical arrangements, a Nominales and a Verbale, according to a plan, of which other instances occur in contemporary works of a similar nature. It also contains indications of genders, declensions and conjugations, as likewise of certain inflexions of the Latin words. In Way's edition the arrangement was simplified by throwing the whole into one alphabetical order, and the grammatical indications were wholly omitted. It has been thought better to give the text in its entirety, and in its original order, in order that one may be able to see what the first English-Latin Dictionary was really like, and what help the 'parvuli,' or 'clericu' obtained from their 'Promptorium' for the manufacture of the Latin prose of the period.

We will now notice some of the peculiar characteristics of the MS., beginning with certain peculiarities of spelling.

In the Notes that follow the Text, an explanation is given of some of the Promptorium words, with illustrative citations from dictionaries and glossaries and various authors, and etymologies so far as to indicate the source from which they came, and where it seemed to be useful, the forms and meanings in the cognate languages. There will also be found in these Notes readings from the MSS. as cited by Way, in cases where there were scribal errors in the Winchester MS., or where the Winchester MS. was obscure and seemed to require corroboration, correction or illustration. It is to be hoped that the student may be willing to regard with leniency deficiencies and even inaccuracies into which the editor has been betrayed in the work of editing the text and of annotation. Doubtless, the work in both these respects will be found by the well-trained scholar to be amateurish. The editor has had no experience in the editing of texts, and the truth is that in undertaking the task of preparing an edition of the Promptorium for publication his interest was mainly an etymological one. Let me take this opportunity of saying that a critical edition of the Promptorium would be a great boon to the student of the English language, and of English life and manners in the fifteenth century. To such a work the present edition is offered as a humble contribution.

In the following remarks on the Promptorium—the sources, the MSS., the printed editions—I have thought that I could do no better than summarize the information given in Way's admirable Preface, to which the student is referred for an abundance of valuable details, should he wish for a starting-point for further investigations. Way's Preface is a marvellous piece of work—a monument of laborious research, and of well-balanced scholarly judgement. I have only made use of his material so far as to put the reader in possession of facts which seem to be necessary for the proper understanding of the position the Promptorium holds in lexicographical literature, and as a starting-point it seems to me that it would be impossible to give any one who may ask what is the value of the Promptorium a better answer to the question than by quoting the comprehensive words with which Way begins his Preface:—

'Whether we regard the Promptorium Parvulorum as an authentic record of the English language in the earlier half of the fifteenth century, as illustrative of the provincial dialects of East Anglia, or as explanatory of the numerous archaisms of a debased Latinity that pervade early chronicles and documents, its value can scarcely be too highly estimated. If, on the other hand, we take into consideration the curious evidence which it supplies to those who investigate the arts and manners of bygone times, it were difficult to point out any relic of learning at the period equally full of instruction, and of those suggestive details which claim the attention of students of mediaeval literature and antiquities in the varied departments of archaeological research.'

What is the meaning of the title? 'Promptorium Parvolorum' means 'A store-room for young scholars.' In Wynkyn de Worde the title appears as 'Promptuarium Parvolorum Clericorum.' 'Promptuarium' in late classical Latinity signifies a store-room, repository. In mediaeval times it denoted the department in a conventional or collegiate establishment or the like, whence stores were dispensed, which in a monastery was under the charge of the cellarer. The author gives 'Spence botery or cellary, celarium, promptuarium.' The term was not infrequently used by writers for the title of lexicographical works, summaries and collections literary and artistic. For instance, the 'Promptuarium exemplorum' appended to the 'Sermones de Sanctis,' printed by Julian Notary, in 1510; 'Jo. Pinciani Promptuarium Vocabulorum,' in 1516; 'Promptuarium Latinae Linguae,' printed by Plantin, 1564; and the series of medallion portraits published at Lyons, in 1553, entitled 'Promptuarium Iconum Insigniorum.'

The special subjects which will be dealt with in the following observations will be :

i. The author of the Promptorium, with such traces as may be found of the circumstances of his life and of his literary labours.

ii. The sources from which his Latinity was derived.

iii. The MSS. of his work, and the early printed editions.

I. We learn from the author's own statement in his Preambulum, that the Promptorium was compiled by a Dominican Friar of Lynn Episcopi, Norfolk, A.D. 1440. This monastery of Black Friars, or Friars' Preachers, stood in the eastern part of the town. Few traces are now to be seen. There belonged to it an 'anchorage,' a retreat for an 'anchor' or recluse, and herein possibly the author, who describes himself as 'fratrem praedicatorem reclusum Lenne Episcopi,' had sought a retreat from the more active duties of the monastery to devote his leisure to the task which he had undertaken. If the library of his own house could not supply him with the works necessary for his purpose, doubtless they could have been easily obtained from those of other houses belonging to the Order. The word reclusus used by the author is doubtless used in its technical sense of an 'ankyr,' one who was shut up in a building specially set apart for the purpose, and with a solemn religious service, by episcopal sanction; after which he could not leave his cell except in case of necessity or with the permission of the bishop. The expression in the Preambulum 'sub regula paupertatis' probably refers to the vows taken on the occasion of his becoming a Dominican friar. The author has himself explained the word 'ankyr' by 'recluse,' and given anachorita as the Latin equivalent. An instance of a friar being a 'recluse' (inclusus) at Pagham, in Sussex, is mentioned in the will of St. Richard, Bishop of Chichester (Sussex Archaeol. Coll. I, 174); and we read of an anchoress within the nunnery of Clementhorpe, near York, in 1475 (Madox, Form. Angl. p. 437).

The author was, as we learn from his own words, bred, if not born, in Norfolk: 'comitatus Norfolchie modum loquendi solum sum secutus quem solum ab infancia didici, et solotenus plenius perfectiusque cognovi.' It is remarkable that the peculiarities of the dialect of the county should have been thus distinctly noticed at this period. Reyner informs us that, at an earlier time Samson de Tottington, abbot of Bury St. Edmunds (1182-1211), was accustomed to discourse to the people in the vernacular of Norfolk, the county in which he was born and bred, and that he had a pulpit for the purpose in the conventional church. See Carlyle's Past and Present, xi, and Dict. Nat. Biography.

There has been some uncertainty in regard to the name of the compiler of the Promptorium. In a copy of Pynson's edition, printed in the year 1499, which is preserved in the Cambridge University Library, an entry is found which contains the following statement : ‘Autor hujus operis fuit Galfredus Grammaticus dictus, frater Ordinis S. Dominici.’ To this friar we find the authorship ascribed by Bale, Bishop of Ossory, himself an East-Anglian, not indeed under the title of the Promptorium, but under that of the Medulla Grammatices, which, however, is distinctly identified by the words of the Preambulum (‘Cernentibus sollicite clericorum’) as the work more commonly known by the name first mentioned. Bale, whose Catalogue of the writers of Great Britain was published at Basle, in 1559, writes thus :—

‘*Galfridus Grammaticus ad scholas semper a puero nutritus, sub corruptis, obscuris ac barbaris praeceptoribus, prima ejus artis rudimenta eductus corruptior ipse aliorum tandem magister evasit. Sibi ipsi nihilominus, non aliter quam olim arrogans ille Palaemon, adfectus, multa tribuebat, tanquam essent cum eo nato simul et bonae literae, et bene dicendi artes obortae, atque cum eo demum moriente et illae simul essent interiturae. Ciceronem, Salustum, Servium, Plinium, Varronem, Vergilium, Horatium, Quintilianum, et alios bonos authores in lecturis ille contempsit; et pro illis ad Latinae linguae perniciem, ac bonorum ingeniorum nauseam, sordes ac feces horribiles ex suo Alexandro [Neccham], Garlandio, Genuensi [author of the Catholicon], et similibus Grammatista protulit. Deditque suis auditoribus opuscula quae sequuntur, Latinis characteribus exarata :—*

In Aequivoca ejusdem, lib. 1. In superiore libro.

Expositiones hymnorum, lib. 1. Iste liber dicitur.

Et ejus farinae alia. Praedicta opuscula omnia vidi, Parisiis atque Londini impressa. Sunt qui in suis scriptis Dominicanum hunc fuisse testentur et claruisse anno a sacratissimo divae virginis partu 1490, Henrico 7 regnante.’ (Baleus, Scriptorum Illustrum majoris Brytannie Catalogus, p. 631.)

Pits, in his Catalogue, gives the following account of our author, ascribing to him the compilation of the Promptorium, which he likewise designates by the title of Medulla :—

‘ Galfridus Grammaticus in orientalibus Angliae partibus natus, ordinis S. Dominici Monachus, ut mecum multi sentiunt. Vir bonus et simplex, atque ita rebus Grammaticis impense deditus, ut inde cognomen assumperit. In quo genere non illaudata reliquit posteris documenta, quae et Parisiis et Londini fuerunt aliquando typis mandata.’

Here follows a list of the works, including those enumerated by Bale, among which appears the Medulla Grammatices (‘cernentibus solicite clericorum’). See Pitsei de Rebus Anglicis Catalogus Scriptorum, p. 679.

Bishop Tanner, in his Bibliotheca Britanico-Hibernica (p. 305), follows the statements of Bale and Pits, and proceeds to notice as follows Geoffrey’s English-Latin Dictionary, the MS. of which (Harl. 221) the bishop appears to have examined in Sir Symonds d’Ewes’s library :—

‘ Medullam Grammatices, sive Promptuarium parvolorum sive clericorum, lib. i (Ita incipit Dictionarium Anglo-Latinum intitulatum. Promptuarium parvolorum sive clericorum, collectum per fratrem praedicatorum reclusum Lenn. Episc. A. D. 1440; MS. in bibl. D. Sim. d’Ewes, Bar. 4to). “Cernentibus solicite clericorum.” Lond. 1499, fol. MS. eccl. Lincoln. . . Claruit A. D. 1490. Bale et Pits, locis citatis.’

Whatever may have been his patronymic, we may confidently ascribe to the Dominican recluse of Lynn, Galfridus, designated from his special studies ‘Grammaticus,’ the laborious achievement of the first English-Latin Dictionary. He is doubtless the same person as the expounder of the ‘Equivoca’ and the ‘Synonyma’ of John de Garlandia,—entitled ‘Magister Galfridus Anglicus’ in the editions of those treatises printed by Pynson and W. de Worde.

The author describes with simple earnestness in his Preambulum the troubles of aspiring scholars, who, amidst the prevalent barbarism of his times, thirsted for knowledge like harts for the water-brooks, and in vain sought for guides, so that, like wild asses, they fainted in sobbing and sighs ; according to the lament of the prophet, the young children ask bread, and no man breaketh it unto them ! ‘ He drew up for their use a slight compendium, “ opus exile,” chiefly from the Catholicon, Campus Florum, and Diccionarium. The most ignorant calumniator of the Middle Ages could not speak of the poor recluse in more disparaging terms than he applies to himself. “ Rudis et inscius, plusque aptus discere quam docere,” he contents himself for the most part with abbreviating the works of earlier grammarians, occasionally seeking counsel from the mouth of his betters, but very rarely venturing to pronounce sentence in his own person . . . The preface ends in a strain which was natural to scholars, who, having seldom any means of procuring books except by transcribing them with their own hand, and being at the mercy of any scribe who might wittingly or unwittingly travesty their most careful works, learnt to detest a blunder as worse than a crime : “ I humbly, with prayers, entreat all pedagogues, teachers, and masters, that, when they have examined this little work, they will approve what may, by God’s assistance, have been rightly written, and will piously correct and emend what is written ill or erringly ; since humble grammarians and boys may look on this short volume as on a mirror, and find freely and immediately the common words which belong to the Latin tongue.”’ (See J. E. B. Mayor’s Latin-English and English-Latin Lexicography in Journal of Classical and Sacred Philology, iv, March 1857.)

Alexander Neccham	NECC.

Cum aliis liberis et libellis et intellectis, Deo adjuvante cum tota curia celesti.'

1. The first of the 'auctores' is the most highly esteemed of mediaeval dictionaries, the Catholicon or Summa of Johannes de Janua, or Januensis, de Balbis. It has been repeatedly printed, the earliest edition being the noble volume produced at Mayence in 1460, which was followed by another at Venice in 1487. According to Ducange, the author, a native of Genoa in the thirteenth century, combined the works of Papias and Uguitio, and compiled a dictionary 'ex multis diversis doctorum texturis elaboratum atque contextum,' as stated in a colophon from which we learn that his labours were completed in the year 1286.

2. Uguitio.—Uguitio or Huguitio Pisanus was a native of Pisa. He was professor of ecclesiastical jurisprudence at Bologna, circ. 1178, and Bishop of Ferrara from 1190 till his death in 1210. He compiled a Latin dictionary commonly known as 'Huguitionis Pisani Magnae Derivationes sive Dictionarium Etymologicum.' This work, based to a considerable extent upon the 'Origines' of Isidore of Seville, and upon the 'Elementarium Doctrinae Rudimentum' (written circ. 1060) of the Lombard Papias, enjoyed a considerable reputation in the Middle Ages, as is testified by the large number of MSS. still existing; it has never been printed, but a large portion of it is embodied in the 'Catholicon' of Johannes de Janua; it is frequently quoted in the 'De Proprietatibus Rerum' of Bartholomaeus Anglicus and was one of the authorities consulted by Ducange. It may be interesting to note that Dante was probably indebted to Huguitio's etymology of hypocrita for the idea of representing the hypocrites in Hell as wearing mantles which were brilliantly gilded on the outside, while within they were of lead (Inf. xxiii. 61-6) ; this etymology, which was commonly accepted in the Middle Ages, is as follows :—

'Crisis grece, latine dicitur secretum et judicium et aurum, . . . item a crisis per compositionem hic et hec hypocrita, -te, fictor, simulator, representator alterius persone; et dicitur hypocrita ab yper quod est super, et crisis quod est aurum, quasi superauratus, quia in superficie et extrinsecus videtur esse bonus, cum interius sit malus.' (See Toynbee's Dante Dictionary, p. 545.)

3. Brito.—William Brito was, according to Pits, a native of Wales and a monk of the Franciscan order ; he died at Grimsby in 1356. The treatise referred to by the compiler of the Promptorium is probably his 'Summa sive opusculum difficilium vocabulorum Biblie' ; sometimes entitled 'Lexicon sive Vocabularium Biblie' or, as described by Fabricius 'Vocabularius, cum vocabulorum Hebraicorum in Bibliis occurrentium interpretatione Latina' . Some account of this work may be found in Ducange's Preface, § XLIX. It does not appear that the Summa has been printed ; MSS. are to be found in the British Museum, in the Cambridge University Library, and in Balliol College, Oxford.

4. Mirivalensis in Campo Florum.—A large number of Latin words are cited as derived from this work. It would appear from the autograph collections by Bishop Bale, preserved in the Bodleian Library among Selden's MSS., that a copy of the Campus Florum existed in Bale's time at Magdalen College, Oxford, and was seen by him, and that he attributed the authorship of the work to Thomas Walleys, a Dominican. The following notices of the Campus Florum occur in these collections at fol. 30 :—

Under the article of Thomas Walleys, fol. 176, the work is thus noticed more briefly :—

‘Thomas Walleys, Dominicanus, doctor Wallicus.’

And at the end of the list of his writings :—

‘Campus Florum, copiosus index juris Canonici.—Ex Lelando de viris illustribus.’

No MS. corresponding with Bale’s description appears to be found at the present time; no mention of it is made in Coxe’s Catalogue of MSS. in Oxford Colleges.

From Bale we learn that Thomas Walleys (alias Gualensis) was a theologian of Oxford, that he was a strenuous opponent of the tenets advanced by Pope John XXII, and that in consequence, about the year 1332, he suffered imprisonment. It is also stated by Pits that he was living in 1333. Leland has given some particulars relating to Thomas Gualensis on the authority of Leander Albertus, de Viris Illustribus, lib. iv. Leland had seen his commentaries on various books of the Old Testament in the library of Warden Abbey, Bedfordshire. Among numerous writings of Gualensis he thus mentions one existing in the Public Library at Oxford :—‘Extat in bibliotheca publica Isiaci liber, cui titulus Campus Florum a Guallensi scriptus, copiosus videlicet Juris Canonici index.’

5. Johannes de Garlandia in diccionario scolastico.—According to Tanner and some after writers Johannes de Garlandia was an Englishman who studied at Oxford and subsequently established himself in the University of Paris early in the thirteenth century; in 1229 he became a professor at Toulouse, but he returned to Paris, and probably died there soon after 1250. He dedicated his treatise ‘De mysteriis rerum que sunt in ecclesia’ to Fulke Basset, Bishop of London (1241–59). In a poem entitled ‘De Triumphis Ecclesiae’ he thus speaks of his native land :—

‘Anglia cui mater fuerat, cui Gallia nutrix,
Matri nutricem praefero mente meam.’

The triumph of the Church which Johannes commemo rates at greatest length is the Albigensian crusade, and in his Dictionary he tells us that he saw at Toulouse, among other engines of war, that by which Simon de Montfort was killed in 1218.

The Dictionarius has been edited by M. Géraud in the ‘Collection de documents inédits sur l’histoire de France,’ and subsequently by Thomas Wright in his Volume of Vocabularies, printed at the expense of Joseph Mayer in 1857. Wright in his Introduction gives a picturesque summary of this treatise.

6. Commentarius Curialium.—This little work is found in a collection of treatises principally by Johannes de Garlandia (to whom it is also there attributed), preserved in the library of Caius College, Cambridge. The MS. was entrusted to Albert Way, who says that it proved of no slight advantage to him in his undertaking. The Commentarius consists of six leaves; it is written in double columns, in a small neat hand of the thirteenth century, with marginal explanations and interlinear glosses by a second scribe in paler ink. It commences,—‘Commentarius liber iste curialium personarum et rerum et vocabulorum preorditur,’ and ends as follows,—‘Hec edita sunt parysius sub venerabili cancellario parysius Galtero de Castello Theodorici, anno domini m° cc°. 40°. sexto gloriosum et admirabilem partum beate Marie Virginis demonstrante.’ As Way observes, if this tract, written in the style and manner of the Dictionarius of de Garlandia can be recognized with certainty as from his pen, this colophon and date at its close supply fresh and conclusive evidence in regard to the question of the period when he wrote, and agree with the circumstances in regard to his work ‘de Mysteriis ecclesie’ and its dedication to Fulke, Bishop of London. The text of the Commentarius is full of French words explanatory of Latin terms of which a considerable portion are found scattered through the pages of the Promptorium.

7. Libellus misteriorum qui dicitur Anglia quo fulget (quo fulget, Winch. MS.).—Among works attributed to Johannes de Garlandia a treatise is mentioned by Bale, p. 153, on the authority of Bostonus Buriensis entitled, ‘Mysteriorum Ecclesiae. Anglia quo tendit.’ A copy of a metrical treatise with a similar title but commencing ‘Anglia quo fulget’ may be found in Cott. MS. Claudius concluding thus: ‘Lucida terribulum redolem campana sonora’; and there is also a copy in a collection of grammatical tracts, chiefly by de Garlandia, in Caius College Library, Cambridge. The prefatory lines (as read by Way) begin thus:—

‘*Anglia quo fulget, quo gaudent presule claro
Londonie, quo parisius scrutante sophiam
Florebant studium, basis aurea fulgide Fulco,
Firme justicie misteria suscipe sacre,
Cuncte studio distincta metroque Johannis.*’

In the margin is written: ‘Domino F. episcopo London. Magister J. de Karlandia (sic) seipsum et opus suum de misteriis ecclesie.’ There are interlinear glosses as well as marginal comments by a later hand; over basis aurea in the third line is to be read ‘alludit nomini suo,’ namely Basset, the surname of the bishop. This work is a mystical explanation in hexameter verses of rites of the church, vestments, &c.

8. Merarius.—In the volume of grammatical tracts mostly attributed to Johannes de Garlandia, preserved in the library at Caius College, Cambridge, is a short tract with an elaborate gloss. A second copy is also found in the same library, following the tract entitled Distigius. According to Way it commences thus, —‘Merarii nuper cintillanti jubare pannidensi rejecta diployde macellam ex bisso subuculam cum recino duntaxat influo oloserico.’ The gloss or commentary gives the following explanation of the title of the work. ‘Merarii, etc. Hec meraria et hec merenda est comedio qui manducatur in meridie.’ So in the Nominales (Wright’s Vocabularies, vol. i, p. 240) we find : ‘Hoc merarium, a mid-dyner, under-mete,’ and in the Ortus Vocabulorum ‘Merarius i. meridianus.—Merarius est quidem liber.’ The title of the treatise was doubtless intended to refer to the timely nourishment dispensed in the heat of midday.

9. Distigius.—In one of the volumes in the library of Caius College, Cambridge, there is found among grammatical writings by Johannes de Garlandia and other writers a treatise consisting of 42 hexameter lines thus entitled,—‘Opus istud dicitur Distigium, a dia, duo, et stigos, versus, quia in duobus versibus comprehendet autor totam sentenciam proverbialem.’ So that the word distigium is simply a form of the Greek διστίχον, our ‘distich.’ There are a few interlinear explanations with a voluminous gloss in Latin. It begins thus, ‘Cespitat (Anglice, stumlyt) in phaleris ippus (i. equus) blattaque (i. purpura) supinus (i. superbus).’ The MS. is probably of the close of the thirteenth century. There exist other MSS. of this text. The text, with numerous English glosses, taken from Harl. MS. 1002, has been printed in Wright’s Vocabularies, vol. i, p. 175. At the end is written ‘explicit liber equus caballus,’ and hence it may be conjectured that Distigius is the same treatise as that cited in the Promptorium as ‘liber equi’; see ‘Leterone’ in Way’s edition, where we find a Latin term for a lectern or desk, discus, given as ‘secundum li. equi.’ For this additional gloss Way cites Pynson as the authority. This curious vocabulary contains a considerable proportion of words adopted from the Greek.¹

10. Robertus Kylwarbi.—Robert Kilwardby was a native of England, educated at the University of Paris and probably at Oxford. He became Provincial of the Dominican Order in England ; was nominated Archbishop of Canterbury in 1272 ; resigned the see on being made cardinal-bishop of Porto and Santa Rufina by Nicholas III in 1278 ; and died shortly after at Viterbo, as it was alleged, by poison. Among his numerous works enumerated by Pits and Tanner there are several grammatical and other treatises which may have supplied materials to the compiler of the Promptorium, such as the ‘Tractatus de ortu scientiarum,’ of which copies exist in the British Museum, in the college libraries of Merton and Balliol, and elsewhere. He wrote commentaries on Priscian’s treatise ‘De Constructione,’ on Donatus, and on various works of Aristotle. One evil work he did for which he can never be forgiven. He removed all the registers and judicial records of Canterbury on his departure from England—and they have thus been irreparably lost to posterity !

11. Alexander Neccham.—He was a native of Hertfordshire, born at or near St. Albans in the year 1157 on the same night as Richard I. His mother was chosen to be Richard’s foster-mother, and she suckled both the children together. He pursued his studies in the schools of France and Italy, where his learning was held in high estimation. In 1215 he became Abbot of Cirencester ; he died at Kempsey in Worcestershire in 1217, and was buried in Worcester. His principal works were theological. He compiled also a treatise ‘De rerum naturis,’ a ‘Repertorium Vocabulorum,’ an ‘Elucidarium Bibliothecae,’ explanatory of difficult words in the Scriptures ; also a treatise entitled ‘Isagoge ad Artes.’ It is probably from the treatise ‘De nominibus Utensilium’ of Alexander Neccham that the compiler of the Promptorium derived a large number of Latin words. This work has been printed in Wright’s Vocabularies (vol. i, pp. 96–119), from a Cotton MS. collated with two MSS. in the National Library in Paris. There is a copy in the library at Caius College, Cambridge, and another at St. John’s College, Oxford.

The works enumerated in the foregoing list, as the principal authorities consulted by the compiler of the Promptorium, were not, however, the only sources from which the materials of his dictionary were derived. From the number of rare and valuable works referred to in Capgrave's Chronicle, it may be seen how extensive a store of learning must have been treasured up in the library of the Austin Friars at Lynn, and it is probable that the library of the neighbouring convent of the Dominicans was not less copiously provided.

The works of Aristotle are repeatedly cited (see 'Dysowre,' 'Dullarde,' and 'Telte'). Under 'Fyrrforke' and 'Prynce of preestys' there is doubtless a reference to the 'Historia Scholastica,' the popular work of Petrus Comestor (Pietro Mangiadore, so called because he was an insatiable devourer of books), dean of the cathedral of Troyes, and chancellor of the University of Paris (died in 1179). The 'Historia Scholastica' consists mainly of a compilation of the historical portions of the Bible; it was the greatest authority on the subject in the Middle Ages. Dante places Petrus Comestor among the doctors of the Church in the Heavens of the Sun (see Toynbee's Dictionary of Dante, p. 434). Under 'Gylle, lytyl potte' the 'Vitae Patrum' (translated by Caxton from the French, and printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1495) is given as the authority for the Latin words. Under 'Amuce' is found reference to the 'Horologium divine sapientie.' This is probably the treatise with that title by the celebrated Dominican preacher of the fourteenth century, Henricus Suso, who died in 1365. This work was translated into French and English, and was printed by Caxton. Under 'Feest in holy chyrche' we find 'nota de agape in iure,' the reference being to the first part of the Decretum of Gratian, of which several printed editions exist. Under the same word 'Raymundus' is given as an authority, the reference being to the Summa by the Dominican Raimundus de Pennaforti (who died in 1275), the compiler of the Decretals. Under 'Swerd berare' and 'Schyppe, boote' we find reference to the Dialogues of Gregory the Great, of which there were several early translations. 'Boetius' is cited under 'Sokyng Grownd,' for the Latin word 'bibulus' (see Boethius, De Consolatione, ch. xii). Under 'Hunnyng' (or Hummynge,' Harl. MS.) we find 'Levsay' given as the authority for the Latin word. The same authority appears under 'Knaste,' 'Schryvyn,' and 'Trunchyn, worme.' The identification of 'Levsay' (or 'Levasey' has been sought in vain. Under 'Seet for worthy men, orcestra,' the authority given is 'Cunde,' according to Way's reading). The only author with this name that occurs in Bale is Laurentius Cunde, who wrote 'Magnum opus Anglico sermone,' in the reign of Edward III, and flourished A.D. 1350.

It may deserve notice that Galfridus gives, as English words, 'Caton' (doubtless the Disticha attributed to Dionysius Cata), 'Donet' (the grammar composed by Ælius Donatus in the fourth century), and 'Facet' (the supplement to the Disticha).

MANUSCRIPTS.

III. Way mentions and describes six MSS. of the work.

1. The Harleian MS. No. 221. This was selected by Way as the text of his edition. The book belonged originally to the library of Sir Symonds d'Ewes, the eminent scholar, the friend of Selden, Spelman, and Cotton. Way selected this valuable MS. for the groundwork of his edition, as supplying the earliest, most ample, and most correct text among the MSS. of the work which had come under his observation. It contains a much greater number of words than are found in any other MS., or in Pynson's and subsequent editions, in addition to which a synonym or explanatory phrase is frequently found in the Harl. MS., contributing to elucidate the signification of some archaism which in the other texts is comparatively obscure. In Way's Preface we find a detailed description of the MS., with a page in facsimile, and a minute account of peculiarities, contractions, &c.

2. Fragment of a copy in Harl. MS. 2274. From this MS. Way obtained a few various readings, which he indicated in each instance by the number of the MS. It contains portions of the letters G. H. M. N. and R.; and more nearly resembles the text of Pynson's edition than any of the other MSS.

3. MS. preserved in the library of King's College, Cambridge. Way indicated all various readings and additions obtained by collation of this MS. by the letter (K).

4. MS. in the Chapter Library, Winchester Cathedral, indicated in Way's edition by the letter (S). An account of this MS., the text of the present edition, has been given above.

5. MS. in the library of Sir Thomas Phillipps, Bart (No. 8306, Heber Library, No. 1360). In this MS. y is used instead of þ. In Way's edition all various readings and additions obtained by collation of this MS. are indicated by the letter (H).

6. MS. in the British Museum, Addit. MS. 22556. It is incomplete; it was unknown to Way until a great portion of his edition had been printed off. The various readings obtained by Way from this MS. are indicated by him by the letter (A).

EDITIONS.

We will now notice the editions issued by Pynson, Wynkyn de Worde, and Julian Notary.

The edition by Richard Pynson in 1499 is one of the most scarce productions of his press; probably he may have reprinted in subsequent years a volume which must have proved so extensively acceptable; no other impression of it, however, by that printer, who industriously prosecuted his art until 1529, is known to exist. A minute account of this rare volume may be found in Ames's Typographical Antiquities, vol. i, p. 246. Way tells us that he had only seen five copies, of which one is in the British Museum, one in the Bodleian, and a third in the Cambridge University Library. It was printed 'in expensis virtuosorum virorum Frederici egmondt et Petri.' Of these two patrons the former was possibly Frederic, son of William IV, Count of Egmont, a distinguished person of that family. But Way thinks it more probable that these patrons were either merchants or booksellers, and that the work was printed for them as a trade speculation.

The numerous various readings and additions both of English and Latin words obtained from Pynson's edition are indicated by Way by the initial (P).

Several editions of the Promptorium issued from the press of Wynkyn de Worde in small quarto form. Copies in good condition are scarcely less rare than those printed by Pynson. A copy of that of 1516, formerly in Heber's library, and obtained by Sir Frederic Madden in 1836, was entrusted for Way's use during the preparation of his edition. A detailed bibliographical notice of this rare book is given in Ames's Typographical Antiquities by Herbert, vol. iii, p. 1775. Way obtained a few various readings from this edition of Wynkyn de Worde which he indicated by the initial (W).

In 1508 Julian Notary printed the Promptorium in small quarto. A single copy is known, preserved now in the British Museum. It came from the library of Mr. Thomas Grenville, who entrusted it to Way; the few various readings from this book are indicated by the initial (J). The text appears to follow that given by Wynkyn de Worde. A fragment of this rare edition is noticed by Maitland in his list of early printed books in the Lambeth Library (1843), p. 464.

THE UNION OF LONDON AND SMITH'S BANK, 2 PRINCES STREET, E.C.

THE Early English Text Society was started by Dr. Furnivall in 1864 for the purpose of bringing the mass of Old English Literature within the reach of the ordinary student, and of wiping away the reproach under which England had long rested, of having felt little interest in the monuments of her early language and life.

On the starting of the Society, so many Texts of importance were at once taken in hand by its Editors, that it became necessary in 1867 to open, besides the Original Series with which the Society began, an Extra Series which should be mainly devoted to fresh editions of all that is most valuable in printed MSS. and Caxton's and other black-letter books, though first editions of MSS. will not be excluded when the convenience of issuing them demands their inclosure in the Extra Series.

During the forty-four years of the Society's existence, it has produced, with whatever shortcomings, and at a cost of nearly £30,000, an amount of good solid work for which all students of our Language, and some of our Literature, must be grateful, and which has rendered possible the beginnings (at least) of proper Histories and Dictionaries of that Language and Literature, and has illustrated the thoughts, the life, the manners and customs of our forefathers and foremothers.

But the Society's experience has shown the very small number of those inheritors of the speech of Cynewulf, Chaucer, and Shakspeare, who care two guineas a year for the records of that speech. 'Let the dead past bury its dead' is still the cry of Great Britain and her Colonies, and of America, in the matter of language. The Society has never had money enough to produce the Texts that could easily have been got ready for it; and many Editors are now anxious to send to press the work they have prepared. The necessity has therefore arisen for trying to increase the number of the Society's members, and to induce its well-wishers to help it by gifts of money, either in one sum or by instalments. The Committee trust that every Member will bring before his or her friends and acquaintances the Society's claims for liberal support. Until all Early English MSS. are printed, no proper History of our Language or Social Life is possible.

The Subscription to the Society, which constitutes membership, is £1 1s. a year for the ORIGINAL SERIES, and £1 1s. for the EXTRA SERIES, due in advance on the 1st of JANUARY, and should be paid by Cheque, Postal Order, or Money Order, crossed 'Union of London and Smith's Bank,' to the Hon. Secretary, W. A. DALZIEL, Esq., 67 Victoria Rd., Finsbury Park, London, N. Members who want their Texts posted to them, must add to their prepaid Subscriptions 1s. for the Original Series, and 1s. for the Extra Series, yearly. The Society's Texts are also sold separately at the prices put after them in the Lists; but Members can get back-Texts at one-third less than the List-prices by sending the cash for them in advance to the Hon. Secretary.
