P R E F A C E.

THIS is the first collection which has ever been made of DUBLIN GREEK and LATIN VERSES. In 1867 some translations by myself and two friends were published under the title Hesperidum Susurri; and in 1869 I set on foot a terminal College magazine, called Kottabos, in which translations into Greek and Latin appeared, together with original English, Greek, and Latin verses, translations from ancient and modern languages, and a few light essays in prose. Most of the translations now brought together have already appeared in Hesperidum Susurri and Kottabos. They are all by Dublin men. With one or two exceptions, all the contributors are, or have been, Scholars of the House. Some of the translators are now connected, or have been connected, with other Colleges and Universities. Messrs. Cullinan, Leech, and Ridgeway are Fellows of their Colleges in Cambridge. Mr. Davies is Professor of Latin in Galway; Mr. Crossley is Professor of Greek in Belfast; and Mr. Boulger is Professor of Greek in Cork. But I am authorized by these gentlemen to state that their verses are, in the fullest sense of the word, Dublin Translations, written under Dublin influences, and as the result of Dublin training.

I suppose no apology is needed for a collection like this. Whatever opinion may be held on the question whether versification should be required as a condition of success at examinations for prizes and honors in classics, it can hardly be denied that it is desirable to preserve the best efforts of those who have attained skill in this branch of classical study. In truth, the more verse-writing is disused as a test, the more reason does there appear to be for the publication of books like this. If the composer cannot secure as heretofore Scholarships and Fellowships by the exercise of his art, it is fair that he should at least have the chance to recommend himself thereby to the good opinion of scholars, men of letters, and men of taste. In TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN, verse-writing is not disused as a test. Indeed, it never was more encouraged than it is now. But verse-writing does not, and never did, hold with us anything like the place which it used to hold in the Cambridge Tripos. Scholarships, Senior Moderatorships, even Fellowships, may be got with little or no skill in verse composition. But at all these examinations the marks are so allocated as to give a very considerable advantage to the skilful composer, and I think it would be difficult for a student to steadily maintain a position at the head of the men of his year without verse-writing.

I have had throughout the invaluable aid of my friend Professor Davies, and some of the principal contributors have from time to time favoured me with suggestions. But I was not able to furnish proofs to the various contributors—chiefly because they were widely scattered at the time when I was making the compilation, and it was desirable that its publication should not be too long delayed. I must therefore make myself, and not the contributors, responsible for any errors which may be found.

TRANSLATIONS INTO GREEK.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

ANTONIO—LEONATO.

A. If you go on thus you will kill yourself ;
And 'tis not wisdom thus to second grief
Against yourself.

L. I pray thee, cease thy counsel,
Which falls into mine ears as profitless
As water in a sieve : give not me counsel ;
Nor let no comforter delight mine ear,
But such a one whose wrongs do suit with mine.
Bring me a father, that so loved his child,
Whose joy of her is overwhelm'd like mine,
And bid him speak of patience ; Measure his woe the length and breadth of mine,
And let it answer every strain for strain ;
As, thus for thus, and, such a grief for such,
In every lineament, branch, shape, and form :
If such a one will smile, and stroke his beard,
And, 'sorrow, wag !' cry : hem, when he should groan ;

EPICURUS NIHILI FACIT DOLOREM.

Patch grief with proverbs ; make misfortune drunk

With candle-wasters ; bring him yet to me,
And I of him will gather patience.

But there is no such man ; for, brother, men
Can counsel, and speak comfort to that grief
Which they themselves not feel ; but, tasting it,
Their counsel turns to passion, which before
Would give preceptial medicine to rage,
Fetter strong madness in a silken thread,
Charm ache with air, and agony with words.
No, no ; 'tis all men's office to speak patience
To those that wring under the load of sorrow ;
But no man's virtue, nor sufficiency,
To be so moral when he shall endure
The like himself : therefore give me no counsel :
My griefs cry louder than advertisement.

- A. Therein do men from children nothing differ.
L. I pray thee, peace ; I will be flesh and blood ;
For there was never yet philosopher
That could endure the tooth-ache patiently ;
However they have writ the style of gods,
And made a push at chance and sufferance.

ἐμέθυσεν, εἰ που γῆς τοιοῦτος ἔστ’ ἀνήρ,
 ὅτω, τρυγήσω δ’ ὥδε πως τὸ καρτερεῦν.
 ἀλλ’ οὐ γὰρ ἔστιν· πᾶς δ’ ἄπειρος ὃν κακῶν

 ταῦτ’ οὖν σὺ μὴ βούλευε· καὶ γὰρ οἱ πόνοι πάντων ὑπερβοῶσι κληδόνας λόγων.

- A. παιδῶν ἄρ’ ἀνδρες διαφέρουσιν οὐκέτι.
- Λ. μή μοι λόγους ἔτ’· οὐ λίθος πέφυκ’ ἐγώ· οὐδεὶς δ’, ἐγῷμαι, τῶν ἄγαν σοφῶν ἔτλη ὀδόντας ἀλγῶν καρτερεῦν, εἰ καὶ μάλα ἔπη τὰ σέμν’ ἔρριψεν, ὡς θεός τις ὢν, καὶ συμφοράς τε καὶ τύχας κατήλασεν.

MACBETH.

LADY MACBETH—MACBETH.

L.M. How now, my Lord ! why do you keep alone,
Of sorriest fancies your companions making,
Using those thoughts which should indeed have died

With them they think on ? Things without all remedy

Should be without regard ; what's done is done.

M. We have scotch'd the snake, not kill'd it :
She'll close and be herself ; whilst our poor
malice

Remains in danger of her former tooth.

But let the frame of things disjoint, both the worlds suffer,

Ere we will eat our meal in fear, and sleep
In the affliction of those terrible dreams,
That shake us nightly : better be with the dead,
Whom we, to gain our place, have sent to peace,

Than on the torture of the mind to lie

ΚΤΡΙΟΙ ΞΤΝΩΜΟΤΑΙ.

In restless ecstasy. Duncan is in his grave ;
After life's fitful fever he sleeps well ;
Treason has done his worst; nor steel, nor poison,
Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing,
Can touch him further.

L.M. Come on ;
Gentle, my Lord, sleek o'er your rugged looks;
Be bright and jovial among your guests tonight.

M. So shall I, love ; and so, I pray, be you :
Let your remembrance apply to Banquo ; Present him eminence, both with eye and tongue :
Unsafe the while, that we Must lave our honours in this flattering stream,
And make our faces vizards to our hearts,
Disguising what they are.

L.M. You must leave this.
M. O, full of scorpions is my mind, dear wife !
. Thou know'st that Banquo, and his Fleance, lives.

L.M. But in them Nature's copy's not eterne.
M. There's comfort yet ; they are assailable ;
Then be thou joēund : ere the bat hath flown

The shard-borne beetle with his drowsy hums Hath rung night's yawning peal, there shall be done

A deed of dreadful note.

L.M. What's to be done ?

M. Be innocent of the knowledge, dearest chuck, Till thou applaud the deed. Come, seeling
night,

Scarf up the tender eye of pitiful day ;
And with thy bloody and invisible hand
Cancel and tear to pieces that great bond Which keeps me pale ! Light thickens ; and the crow

Makes wing to the rooky wood :
Good things of day begin to droop and drowse, Whiles night's black agents to their preys do rouse.

Thou marvell'st at my words ; but hold thee still ;

Things bad begun make strong themselves by ill.

So, prithee, go with me.

OENONE.

Hither came at noon
Mournful Oenone, wandering forlorn
Of Paris, once her playmate on the hills.
Her cheek had lost the rose, and round her neck
Floated her hair, or seemed to float, in rest.
She, leaning on a fragment twined with vine,
Sang to the stillness, till the mountain-shade
Sloped downward to her seat from the upper cliff.

O mother Ida, many-fountain'd Ida,
Dear mother Ida, hearken ere I die !
For now the noonday quiet holds the hill :
The grasshopper is silent in the grass :
The lizard, with her shadow on the stone,
Rests like a shadow, and the cicala sleeps.
The purple flowers droop : the golden bee
Is lily-cradled : I alone awake.
My eyes are full of tears, my heart of love ;
My heart is breaking, and my eyes are dim,
And I am all a-weary of my life.

Dear mother Ida, hearken ere I die !
Hear me, O earth ! hear me, O hills ! O caves
That house the cold-crown'd snake ! O mountain-brooks,

I am the daughter of a River-god ;
Hear me, for I will speak, and build up all
My sorrow with my song, as yonder walls
Rose slowly to a music slowly breathed,
A cloud that gathered shape : for it may be
That while I speak of it, a little while
My heart may wander from its deeper woe.

O mother Ida, many-fountain'd Ida,
Dear mother Ida, hearken ere I die !
I waited underneath the dawning hills :
Aloft the mountain lawn was dewy-dark,
And dewy-dark aloft the mountain pine :
Beautiful Paris, evil-hearted Paris,
Leading a jet-black goat, white-horn'd, white-hoof'd,
Came up from reedy Simois all alone.

O mother Ida, hearken ere I die !
Far off the torrent call'd me from the cleft :
Far up the solitary morning smote

eyes

I sat alone: white-breasted like a star,
Fronting the dawn he moved: a leopard-skin
Droop'd from his shoulder, but his sunny hair
Cluster'd about his temples like a god's;
And his cheek brighten'd, as the foam-bow brightens
When the wind blows the foam, and all my heart
Went forth to embrace him coming ere he came.

Dear mother Ida, hearken ere I die !

He smiled, and opening out his milk-white palm Disclosed a fruit of pure Hesperian gold,
That smelt ambrosially, and while I look'd
And listen'd, the full-flowing river of speech
Came down upon my heart. ‘My own C^Enone, Beautiful-brow'd C^Enone, my own soul,
Behold this fruit, whose gleaming rind engrav'n “For the most fair,” would seem to award it thine,
As lovelier than whatever Oread haunt
The knolls of Ida, loveliest in all grace
Of movement, and the charm of married brows.’

PROLOG IM HIMMEL.

(DIE DREI ERZENGEL TRETEN VOR.)

RAPHAEL.

DIE Sonne tönt nach alter Weise
In Brudersphären Wettgesang,
Und ihre vorgeschriebne Reise
Vollendet sie mit Donnergang.
Ihr Anblick gibt den Engeln Stärke, Wenn keiner sie ergründen mag ;
Die unbegreiflich hohen Werke
Sind herrlich, wie am ersten Tag.

GABRIEL.

Und schnell und unbegreiflich schnelle
Dreht sich umher der Erde Pracht ;
Es wechselt Paradieseshelle
Mit tiefer, schauervoller Nacht ;
Es schäumt das Meer in breiten Flüssen
Am tiefen Grund der Felsen auf,
Und Fels und Meer wird fortgerissen
In ewig schnellem Sphärenlauf.

EVE'S LAMENTATION.

O UNEXPECTED stroke, worse than of death !
Must I thus leave thee, Paradise ? thus leave Thee, native soil ? these happy walks and shades,
Fit haunt of gods ? where I had hoped to spend,
Quiet though sad, the respite of that day
That must be mortal to us both ! O flowers,
That never will in other climate grow,
My early visitation, and my last
At even, which I bred up with tender hand
From the first opening bud, and gave ye names !

Who now shall rear ye to the sun, or rank
Your tribes, and water from the ambrosial fount ?

SUNT LACRIMAE RERUM.

- Q.* NIMBLE mischance, that art so light of foot,
Doth not thy embassage belong to me,
And am I last that knows it? O, thou think'st
To serve me last, that I may longest keep Thy sorrow in my breast. Come, ladies, go,
To meet at London London's king in woe.
What, was I born to this, that my sad look
Should grace the triumph of great Bolingbroke?
Gardener, for telling me these news of woe Pray God the plants thou graft'st may never grow.
- G.* Poor queen! so that thy state might be no worse,
I would my skill were subject to thy curse.
Here did she fall a tear; here in this place
I'll set a bank of rue, sour herb of grace:
Rue, even for ruth, here shortly shall be seen,
In the remembrance of a weeping queen.

ATALANTA.

CHILD, if a man serve law through all his life,

And with his whole heart worship, him all gods

Praise : but who loves it only with his lips,

And not in heart and deed desiring it,

Hides a perverse will with obsequious words,

Him heaven infatuates : and his twin-born fate

Tracks and gains on him, scenting sins far off,

And the swift hounds of violent death devour.

Be man at one with equal-minded gods,

So shall he prosper : not thro' laws torn up,

Violated rule, and a new face of things.

A woman armed makes war upon herself,

Unwomanlike ; and treads down use and wont,

And the sweet common honour that she hath,

Love, and the cry of children.

Blunt: there's honour for you! here's no vanity!
I am as hot as molten lead, and as heavy too:
God keep lead out of me! I need no more weight than mine own bowels. I have led my ragamuffins where they are peppered; there's not three of my three hundred and fifty left alive; and they are for the town's end, to beg through life. But who comes here?

P. What stand'st thou idle here? lend me thy

Under the hoofs of vaunting enemies,

ΜΑΣΘΛΗΣ, ΕΙΡΩΝ, ΓΛΟΙΟΣ, ΑΛΑΖΩΝ.

F. Oh! Hal, I prithee give me leave to breathe awhile. Turk Gregory never did such deeds in arms, as I have done this day. I have paid Percy, I have made him sure.

P. He is, indeed; and living to kill thee.
I prithee lend me thy sword.

F. Nay, before God, Hal, if Percy be alive, thou get'st not my sword; but take my pistol, if thou wilt.

P. Give it me; what, is it in the case?

F. Ay, Hal; 'tis hot, 'tis hot: there's that will sack a city.

ADDRESS TO THE STARS.

YE shining hosts,
That navigate a sea that knows no storms,
Beneath a vault unsullied by a cloud,
As one who, long detained on foreign shores,
Pants to return, and when he sees afar
His country's weather-bleached and battered rocks

From the green wave emerging, darts an eye

Radiant with joy towards the happy land ;
So I with animated hopes behold,
And many an aching wish, your beamy fires,
That show like beacons in the blue abyss,
Ordained to guide the embodied spirit home
From toilsome life to never-ending rest.

COWPER.

'YOU ARE A SHALLOW, COWARDLY HIND, AND YOU LIE.'

HOTSPUR.

THE king is kind; and, well we know, the king

Knows at what time to promise, when to pay.

My father, and my uncle, and myself,
Did give him that same royalty he wears :
And—when he was not six-and-twenty strong,
Sick in the world's regard, wretched and low,

A poor, unminded outlaw sneaking home—
My father gave him welcome to the shore :
And—when he heard him swear and vow to God

He came but to be Duke of Lancaster,
To sue his livery, and beg his peace,
With tears of innocence and terms of zeal—
My father, in kind heart and pity mov'd,
Swore him assistance, and perform'd it, too.
Now, when the lords and barons of the realm

'THIS KING OF SMILES, THIS BOLINGBROKE.'

Perceived Northumberland did lean to him,
The more and less came in with cap and knee ;
Met him in boroughs, cities, villages ;
Attended him on bridges, stood in lanes ;
Laid gifts before him, proffer'd him their oaths ;
Gave him their heirs ; as pages follow'd him,
Even at the heels, in golden multitudes.
He presently—as greatness knows itself—
Steps me a little higher than his vow
Made to my father, while his blood was poor,
Upon the naked shore at Ravenspurg ;
And now, forsooth, takes on him to reform
Some certain edicts, and some straight decrees,
That lay too heavy on the commonwealth :
Cries out upon abuses, seems to weep
Over his country's wrongs ; and, by this face,
This seeming brow of justice, did he win
The hearts of all that he did angle for.
Proceeded further ; cut me off the heads
Of all the favourites, that the absent king
In deputation left behind him here,
When he was personal in the Irish war.

ON CHLORIS BEING ILL.

Can I cease to care,
Can I cease to languish,
While my darling fair
Is on the couch of anguish ?

Every hope is fled,
Every fear is terror ;
Slumber e'en I dread,
Every dream is horror.

Hear me, Powers divine !
Oh, in pity hear me !
Take aught else of mine,
But my Chloris spare me.

MANFRED.

GLORIOUS Orb ! the idol
Of early nature, and the vigorous race
Of undiseased mankind, the giant sons
Of the embrace of angels with a sex
More beautiful than they, which did draw down
The erring spirits, who can ne'er return.—
Most glorious orb ! that wert a worship, ere
The mystery of thy making was reveal'd !
Thou earliest minister of the Almighty,
Which gladden'd on their mountain tops the hearts
Of the Chaldean shepherds, till they pour'd Themselfes in orisons ! Thou material god !
And representative of the Unknown—
Who chose thee for his shadow ! Thou chief star, Centre of many stars ! which mak'st our earth
Endurable, and temperest the hues
And hearts of all who walk within thy rays !
Sire of the seasons ! Monarch of the climes,

Our inborn spirits have a tint of thee,
Even as our outward aspects ;—thou dost rise,
And shine, and set in glory. Fare thee well !
I ne'er shall see thee more. As my first glance
Of love and wonder was for thee, then take
My latest look ; thou wilt not beam on one
To whom the gifts of life and warmth have been
Of a more fatal nature. He is gone :

MORTE D'ARTHUR.

BUT, as he walk'd, King Arthur panted hard,
Like one that feels a nightmare on his bed
When all the house is mute. So sigh'd the King, Muttering and murmuring at his ear 'Quick, quick !
I fear it is too late, and I shall die.'
But the other swiftly strode from ridge to ridge,
Clothed with his breath, and looking, as he walk'd,
Larger than human on the frozen hills.
He heard the deep behind him, and a cry
Before. His own thought drove him like a goad.
Dry clash'd his harness in the icy caves
And barren chasms, and all to left and right
The bare black cliff clang'd round him, as he based
His feet on juts of slippery crag that rang Sharp-smitten with the dint of armed heels—
And on a sudden, lo ! the level lake,
And the long glories of the winter moon.

Then saw they how there hove a dusky barge,
Dark as a funeral scarf from stem to stern,
Beneath them ; and descending they were ware
That all the decks were dense with stately forms
Black-stoled, black-hooded, like a dream—by these Three Queens with crowns of gold, and from them rose

A cry that shiver'd to the tingling stars,
And, as it were one voice, an agony
Of lamentation, like a wind, that shrills
All night in a waste land, where no one comes,
Or hath come since the making of the world.

CICERO'S SPEECH.

GREAT honours are great burdens ; but on whom

They're cast with envy, he doth bear two loads ;

His cares must still be double to his joys
In any dignity ; where, if he err,
He finds no pardon : and for doing well
A most small praise, and that wrung out by force.

I speak thus, Romans, knowing what the weight

Of the high charge you have trusted to me is ;
Not that thereby I would with art decline
The good or greatness of your benefit ;
For I ascribe it to your singular grace,
And vow to owe it to no title else,
Except the gods, that Cicero is your Consul.
I have no urns, no dusty monuments,

TΙΣ ΠΑΤΕΡ' ΑΙΝΗΣΣΕΙ;

ἄχθος μὲν ἀρχειν, ἦν δὲ καί τις ἀλφάνη

 κυρῆ ἔξαμαρτῶν τῶνδε συγγνώμη πάρα· διν δ' αὖ καλῶς ἔδρασεν, ἀκόντων ἄπο μέρους ἐπαίνου τυγχάνει σμικροῦ μόλις.
 τοσαῦτα δ' εἶπον, ἀνδρεῖς, οὐκ ἀγνῶς πόνου,
 ἀλλ' εὖ κατειδώς, τῇδ' ὅσος προσγίγνεται

 πατέρων θαυμάτων, ὡτὸς ἡ δέονθ' ἐνός, ἡ ρινός, οὐδὲ δέλτον εὖ πεπλασμένην
 ἡ ἕκμαρτυρήσει μ' εὐγενῆ πεφυκότα,

No broken images of ancestors,
Wanting an ear or nose ; no forged tables
Of long descents to boast false honours from,
Or be my undertakers to your trust ;
But a new man (as I am styled in Rome)
Whom you have dignified ; and more, in whom
You have cut a way, and left it ope for virtue Hereafter, to that place which our great men
Held shut up with all ramparts for themselves ;
Nor have but few of them in time been made
Your Consuls so ; new men before me !—none !

THE BEGGAR-MAID.

HER arms across her breast she laid,
She was more fair than words can say ;
Barefooted came the beggar-maid
Before the king Cophetua.

In robe and crown the king stept down,
To meet and greet her on her way ;
' It is no wonder,' said the lords,
' She is more beautiful than day.'

As shines the moon in clouded skies,
She in her poor attire was seen ;
One praised her ankles, one her eyes,
One her dark hair, and lovesome mien.

So sweet a face, such angel grace,
In all that land had never been ;
Cophetua swore a royal oath,
' This beggar-maid shall be my queen.'

WILL.

O WELL for him whose will is strong !
He suffers, but he will not suffer long ;
He suffers, but he cannot suffer wrong :
For him nor moves the loud world's random mock,
Nor all Calamity's hugest waves confound,
Who seems a promontory of rock,
That compass'd round with turbulent sound,
In middle ocean meets the surging shock,
Tempest-buffeted, citadel-crown'd.

But ill for him who, bettering not with time,
Corrupts the strength of heaven-descended Will,
And ever weaker grows through acted crime,
Or seeming-genial venial fault,
Recurring and suggesting still !
He seems as one whose footsteps halt,
Toiling in immeasurable sand,
And o'er a weary, sultry land,
Far beneath a blazing vault,
Sown in a wrinkle of the monstrous hill,
The city sparkles like a grain of salt.

THE RETURN.

Ion. HAD I beheld
That sacrilege, Adrastus had lain dead,
Or I had been torn piece-meal by his minions.
But I was far away: when I return'd,
I found my father on the nearest bench
Within our door, his thinly-silver'd head Supported by wan hands, which hid his face
And would not be withdrawn:—no groan, no sigh
Was audible, and we might only learn
By short convulsive tremblings of his frame
That life still flickered in it—yet at last,
By some unearthly inspiration roused,

HASTINGS CROSSLEY²

GLOSTER.

Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York,
And all the clouds that lower'd upon our house
In the deep bosom of the ocean buried.
Now are our brows bound with victorious wreaths,
Our bruised arms hung up for monuments,
Our stern alarums changed to merry meetings,
Our dreadful marches to delightful measures.
Grim-visaged War hath smooth'd his wrinkled front,
And now—instead of mounting barbed steeds,
To fright the souls of fearful adversaries—
He capers nimbly in a lady's chamber
To the lascivious pleasing of a lute.

KING—CHIEF JUSTICE.

- K.* You all look strangely on me: and you most;
You are, I think, assured I love you not.
- C. J.* I am assured, if I be measured rightly,
Your majesty hath no just cause to hate me.
- K.* No?
How might a prince of my great hopes forget
So great indignities you laid upon me?
What! rate, rebuke, and roughly send to prison
The immediate heir of England! was this easy?
- May this be washed in Lethe, and forgotten?
- C. J.* I then did use the person of your father;
The image of his power lay then in me:
And, in the administration of his law,

ΕΣ ΤΕΛΟΣ ΕΞΕΛΘΟΤΣΑ ΔΙΚΗ ΤΠΕΡ ΤΒΡΙΟΣ ΙΣΧΕΙ.

Whiles I was busy for the commonwealth,
Your Highness pleased to forget my place,
The majesty and power of law and justice,
The image of the king whom I presented,
And struck me in my very seat of judgement ;
Whereon as an offender to your father
I gave bold way to my authority
And did commit you.

DEAD HENRY.

ANNE—RICHARD.

- A. O GENTLEMEN, see, see ! dead Henry's wounds
Open their congealed mouths and bleed afresh !
Blush, blush, thou lump of foul deformity !
For 'tis thy presence that exhales this blood
From cold and empty veins, where no blood dwells :
Thy deed, inhuman and unnatural,
Provokes this deluge most unnatural.
O God, which this blood mad'st, revenge his death !
O earth, which this blood drink'st, revenge his death !
Either heaven with lightning strike the murderer dead,
Or earth, gape open wide, and eat him quick,
As thou dost swallow up this good king's blood,
Which his hell-governed arm hath butchered !

'THY VOICE IS HEARD.'

THY voice is heard thro' rolling drums
That beat to battle where he stands ;
Thy face across his fancy comes,
And gives the battle to his hands :

A moment, while the trumpets blow,
He sees his brood about thy knee ;
The next, like fire, he meets the foe,
And strikes him dead for thine and thee.

THEN this most wretched father went his way
Into the wood that round his castle lay ;
Where once his daughters in their childhood play'd
With their young mother in the sun and shade.
Now all the leaves had fallen ; the branches bare
Made a perpetual moaning in the air ;
And screaming from their eyries overhead,
The ravens sail'd athwart the sky of lead.
With his own hand he lopp'd the boughs, and bound Faggots that crackled with foreboding sound ;
And on his mules, caparisoned and gay
With bells and tassels, sent them on their way.

CLARIBEL.

WHERE Claribel low-lieth
The breezes pause and die,
Letting the rose-leaves fall :
But the solemn oak-tree sigheth,
Thick-leaved, ambrosial,
With an ancient melody
Of an inward agony,
Where Claribel low-lieth.
At eve the beetle boometh Athwart the thicket lone :
At noon the wild bee hummeth
About the moss'd headstone :
At midnight the moon cometh,
And looketh down alone.

THE PASSING OF ARTHUR.

' BUT now farewell. I am going a long way
With these thou seëst—if indeed I go
(For all my mind is clouded with a doubt)—
To the island valley of Avilion ;
Where falls not hail, or rain, or any snow,
Nor ever wind blows loudly ; but it lies Deep-meadow'd, happy, fair with orchard lawns
And bowery hollows crown'd with summer sea,
Where I will heal me of my grievous wound.'

So said he ; and the barge with oar and sail Moved from the brink, like some full-breasted swan
That, fluting a wild carol ere her death, Ruffles her pure cold plume, and takes the flood
With swarthy webs. Long stood Sir Bedivere
Revolving many memories, till the hull Look'd one black dot against the verge of dawn,
And on the mere the wailing died away.

EUTHANASIA.

EARLY wert thou taken, Mary,
 In thy fair and glorious prime,
Ere the bees had ceased to murmur
 Through the umbrage of the lime.

Buds were blowing, waters flowing,
 Birds were singing on the tree,
Everything was bright and glowing
 When the angels came for thee.

Death had laid aside his terror,
 And he found thee calm and mild,
Lying in thy robes of whiteness,
 Like a pure and stainless child.

Hardly had the mountain violet
 Spread its blossoms on the sod,
When they laid the turf above thee,
 And thy spirit rose to God.

OH, that this too, too solid flesh would melt,
Thaw, and resolve itself into a dew !
Or that the Everlasting had not fixed
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter. O God ! O God !
How weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable
Seem to me all the uses of this world !
Fie on 't ! ah, fie ! 'tis an unweeded garden
That grows to seed ; things rank and gross in nature
Possess it merely. That it should come to this !
But two months dead : nay, not so much, not two.
So excellent a king ; that was to this Hyperion to a satyr ; so loving to my mother
That he might not beteem the winds of heaven
Visit her face too roughly. Heaven and earth !
Must I remember ?

BEAUTY OF A STARLIT NIGHT.

YE quenchless stars ! so eloquently bright,
Untroubled sentries of the shadowy night,
While half the world is lapp'd in blissful dreams,
And round the lattice creep your fairy beams,
How sweet to gaze upon those placid eyes
In lambent beauty looking from the skies !
And when, oblivious of the world, we stray
At dead of night along some noiseless way,
How the heart mingles with the moonlit hour,
And feels from heaven a sympathetic power !
See ! not a cloud careers yon pathless deep
Of molten azure—mute as lovely sleep ;
Full in her pâllid light the moon presides,
Shrined in a halo, mellowing as she rides ;

ARTHUR TO GUINEVERE.

Liest thou here so low, the child of one
I honour'd, happy, dead before thy shame?
Well is it that no child is born of thee.
The children born of thee are sword and fire,
Red ruin, and the breaking up of laws,
The craft of kindred, and the godless hosts
Of heathen swarming o'er the Northern Sea, Whom I, while yet Sir Launcelot, my right arm,
The mightiest of my knights, abode with me,
Have everywhere about this land of Christ
In twelve great battles ruining overthrown.
And knowest thou now from whence I come—from him,
From waging bitter war with him ; and he,

ULYSSES.

DEATH closes all : but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with gods.
The lights begin to twinkle from the rocks :
The long day wanes : the slow moon climbs :
 the deep Moans round with many voices. Come, my friends,
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
Push off, and, sitting well in order, smite
The sounding furrows ; for my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset and the baths
Of all the western stars, until I die.
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down :
It may be we shall touch the Happy isles,
And see the great Achilles, whom we knew.

Certain homme dont l'encolure
Ne me présage rien de bon.

Je veux chanter un peu d'ici.

Que de chanter, et m'étourdir ainsi ?
Veut-il qu'à l'étriller ma main un peu s'applique ?

VIVIEN'S TENDER RHYME.

IN Love, if Love be Love, if Love be ours,
Faith and unfaith can ne'er be equal powers ;
 Unfaith in aught is want of faith in all.

It is the little rift within the lute
That by-and-bye will make the music mute,
 And ever widening slowly silence all.

The little rift within the lover's lute ;
Or little pitted speck in garner'd fruit,
 Which rotting inward slowly moulders all.

It is not worth the keeping : let it go :
But shall it ? answer, darling, answer, No.
 And trust me not at all or all in all.

CUPID'S REVENGE.

LEUCIPPUS, thou art shot through with a shaft
That will not rankle long, yet sharp enough
To sow a world of helpless misery
In this unhappy kingdom. Dost thou think,
Because thou art a prince, to make a part Against my power? But it is all the fault
Of thy old father, who believes his age
Is cold enough to quench my burning darts.
But he shall know ere long that my dart loose
Can thaw ice, and inflame the wither'd heart
Of Nestor. Thou thyself art lightly struck;
But his mad love shall publish that the rage
Of Cupid has the power to conquer age.

O EINE edle Himmelsgabe ist
Das Licht des Auges—Alle Wesen leben
Vom Lichte, jedes glückliche Geschöpf—
Die Pflanze selbst kehrt freudig sich zum Lichte.
Und er muss sitzen, fühlend, in der Nacht,
Im ewig Finstern—ihn erquickt nicht mehr
Der Matten warmes Grün, der Blumen Schmelz, Die rothen Firnen kann er nicht mehr schauen—
Sterben ist nichts—doch leben und nicht sehen,
Das ist ein Unglück—Warum seht ihr mich
So jammernd an? Ich hab' zwei frische Augen
Und kann dem blinden Vater keines geben,
Nicht einen Schimmer von dem Meer des Lichts,
Das glanzvoll, blendend mir ins Auge dringt.

To excuse the current of thy cruelty.

B. Do all men kill the things they do not love ?
S. Hates any man the thing he would not kill ?
B. Every offence is not a hate at first.
S. What, would'st thou have a serpent sting thee twice ?
A. I pray you, think you question with the Jew :
You may as well go stand upon the beach
And bid the main flood bate his usual height ;
You may as well use question with the wolf
Why he hath made the ewe bleat for the lamb ;
You may as well forbid the mountain pines
To wag their high tops and to make no noise,
When they are fretten with the gusts of heaven ;
You may as well do anything most hard,

His Jewish heart: therefore, I do beseech you,
Make no more offers, use no farther means,
But with all brief and plain conveniency
Let me have judgement, and the Jew his will.

B. For thy three thousand ducats here is six.

S. If every ducat in six thousand ducats

Were in six parts, and every part a ducat,
I would not draw them; I would have my bond.

D. How shalt thou hope for mercy, rendering none?

S. What judgement shall I dread, doing no wrong?

You have among you many a purchased slave,
Which like your asses, and your dogs and mules,
You use in abject and in slavish parts,
Because you bought them: shall I say to you,
Let them be free, marry them to your heirs?

Why sweat they under burdens? let their beds
Be made as soft as yours, and let their palates
Be season'd with such viands? You will answer,
'The slaves are ours': so do I answer you:
The pound of flesh, which I demand of him,
Is dearly bought; 'tis mine and I will have it.

There is no force in the decrees of Venice.

LA GUENON, LE SINGE, ET LA NOIX.

UNE jeune guenon cueillit
Une noix dans sa coque verte ;
Elle y porte la dent, fait la grimace, Ah ! certe,
Dit-elle, ma mère mentit
Quand elle m'assura que les noix étoient bonnes.
Puis, croyez aux discours de ces vieilles personnes
Qui trompent la jeunesse ! Au diable soit le fruit !
Elle jette la noix. Un singe la ramasse,
Vite entre deux cailloux la casse,
L'épluche, la mange, et lui dit :
Votre mère eut raison, ma mie,
Les noix ont fort bon goût; mais il faut les ouvrir.
Souvenez-vous que, dans la vie,
Sans un peu de travail on n'a point de plaisir.

THE AMBUSCADE.

BUT I remember :
Two miles on this side of the fort, the road
Crosses a deep ravine ; 'tis rough and narrow
And winds with short turns down the precipice,
And in its depth there is a mighty rock,
Which has, from unimaginable years,
Sustain'd itself with terror and with toil
Over a gulf, and, with the agony
With which it clings, seems slowly coming down ;
Even as a wretched soul, hour after hour,
Clings to the mass of life ; yet, clinging, leans ;
And, leaning, makes more dark the dread abyss
In which it fears to fall : beneath this crag,
Huge as despair, as if in weariness,
The melancholy mountain yawns—below

You hear, but see not, an impetuous torrent
Raging among the caverns, and a bridge

By the dark ivy's twine.

MAX CULLINAN.

'THOU WAST NOT BORN TO DIE, IMMORTAL BIRD.'

As Saint Kevin he was walkin'
By the lake of Glendalough,
'Twas then he met with King O'Toole,
An' he ask'd him for a shaugh.
Says the King, ' You're but a sthranger,
Sure yer face I niver seen,
But if ye've got a taste of weed,
I'll lend ye my dhudeen.'

As the Saint was kindlin' up the pipe,
The Monarch heaved a sigh.
Says the Saint, ' What ails ye, King O'Toole,
And are ye goin' to cry ?'
Says the King, ' I had a gandher
That was given me by my mother,
But yesterday he cock'd his toe,
Wid some disease or other.'

ΧΗΝ ΟΥ ΔΟΞΗΣ ΑΧΗΝ.

βῆ δ' ἵμεναι παρὰ θῖνα Κέινος μάντις ἀμύμων
 λίμνης, τῷ δὲ ἄναξ ξύμβλητ', ἀγαθὸς Τυλείδης, τὸν δέ τε παρφάμενος μάντις κηώδεα φύλλα ἔτεε· τὸν δ' ἡμείβετ' ἄναξ ἀγανοῖς ἐπέεσσι· ὁ ξεῦν', ἄγνωστος δ' ἐμοί ἐσσ', ἐπεὶ οὗτι θαμίζεις· εἰ δέ σε φύλλ' ὀδυνήφαθ' ἐλέσθαι θυμὸς ἄνωγεν, οὐκ ἀέκων σοι κοῦλον ἐμὸν νάρθηκα παρέξω.

ἡμος ὅγ' ἐκ νάρθηκος ἔδαιεν θεσπιδαὲς πῦρ,
 τῆμος νειόθεν ἐκ κραδίης βασιλεὺς στενάχιζεν,
 καί μιν φωνήσας προσέειπεν μάντις ἀμύμων·

ἢ ρά τι νῦν ποθέεις; καὶ δακρύσοντι ἔοικας.

τὸν δ' ὀλοφυρόμενος προσέφη κρατερὸς Τυλείδης·
 χήν μοι ἔην, ὁ μάντι, τὸν ὥπασε πότνια μήτηρ, τεκμήραντο δέ οἱ νοῦσον θεοὶ αἰὲν ἔόντες,
 ἴδνώθη δὲ πεσών, χθιζός δ' Ἀϊδόσδε βεβήκει.

‘Are ye cryin’ for your gandher,
 You unfortunate ould goose?
Dhry up yer tears, stop cryin’, man,
 In that there is no use;
But see here, what will you give me
 If yer gandher I revive?
Says the King, ‘I’ll be yer sarvint
 All the days that I’m alive.’

Says the Saint, ‘You ’re mighty civil,

 But civility is cheap,
An’ I’d sooner have a taste of land,
 To pasture my poor sheep.
Now I’ll revive yer gandher,
 And make him whole and sound,
If you’ll give me just the bit of land
 The gandher flies around.’

So the King went to his palace,

 In haste to fetch the bird,
Though he hadn’t the laste intintion, mind ye,
 Of stickin’ to his word.

When the bird came from the palace,
 The Saint took him from the King,
And first he touch’d him on the beak,
 And then he stroked his wing.

τὸν δ' ἀπαμειβόμενος προσεφώνεε μάντις ἀμύμων·

αὗταρ ἔπειτα δόμονδε ἀναξ σύτο χῆν' ἐρίηρον οἰσόμενος, φάτο δ' οὐ τελέσαι ἔπος, ώς μὲν ὑπέστη· τῷ δ' ἀπονοστήσαντι Κέϊνος δέξατο χῆνα·
 πρῶτον μὲν πτερὸν εὖ κατέρεξέ οἱ, εἶτα δὲ χεῖλος,

He whisk'd him high into the air ;
He flew thirty miles around :
Says the Saint, ‘ I’ll thank yer Highness,
For that little taste of ground.’
Then the King flew in a passion,
And he called the Saint a witch,
And sent off for his six big sons,
To throw him in the ditch.

‘ Nabocklish !’ cried Saint Kevin,
‘ I’ll soon settle them young urchins ; ’
So he turn’d the King and his six sons
Into the Seven Churches.

AMARYLLIS.

He. My dearest love, since thou wilt go,
And leave me here behind thee,
For love or pity let me know
The place where I may find thee.

She. In country meadows pearled with dew,
And set about with lilies,
There filling maunds with cowslips you May find your Amaryllis.

He. What have the meads to do with thee
And with thy youthful hours ?
Live thou at court, where thou mayst be
The queen of men, not flowers.
Let country wenches make 'em fine
With roses, since 'tis fitter
For thee with richest gems to shine,
And like the stars to glitter.

'THE PICCOLOMINI' OF SCHILLER.

COUNTESS.

THOU see'st it with a lovelorn maiden's eyes.
Cast thine eye round, bethink thee who thou art.
Into no house of joyance hast thou stepp'd,
For no espousals dost thou find the walls
Deck'd out, no guests the nuptial garland wearing.
Here is no splendour but of arms. Or think'st thou
That all these thousands here are congregated
To lead up the long dances at thy wedding !
Thou see'st thy father's forehead full of thought,
Thy mother's eye in tears ; upon the balance
Lies the great destiny of all our house.
Leave now the puny wish, the girlish feeling :
Not to herself the woman must belong,
Annex'd and bound to alien destinies.
But she performs the best part, she the wisest,
Who can transmute the alien into self,
Meet and disarm necessity by choice ;
And what must be, take freely to her heart,
And bear and foster it with mother's love.

A LITTLE LOWER THAN THE ANGELS.

HAMLET.

I HAVE of late (but wherefore I know not) lost all my mirth, foregone all custom of exercises ; and, indeed, it goes so heavily with my disposition, that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a steril promontory ; this most excellent canopy, the air, look you—this brave o'erhanging firmament—this majestical roof fretted with golden fire—why, it appears no other thing to me than a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours. What a piece of work is man ! how noble in reason ! how infinite in faculty ! in form and moving, how express and admirable ! in action, how like an angel ! in apprehension, how like a god !

ELOISA TO ABELARD.

RELENTLESS walls ! whose darksome round contains Repentant sighs, and voluntary pains :
Ye rugged rocks ! which holy knees have worn ;
Ye grots and caverns, shagg'd with horrid thorn !
Shrines ! where their vigils pale-eyed virgins keep ;
And pitying saints, whose statues learn to weep !
Though cold like you, unmoved and silent grown,
I have not yet forgot myself to stone.
All is not Heaven's while Abelard has part,
Still rebel nature holds out half my heart ;
Nor prayers, nor fasts, its stubborn pulse restrain,
Nor tears, for ages taught to flow in vain.
Soon as thy letters trembling I unclose,
That well-known name awakens all my woes.

Oh, name for ever sad ! for ever dear !
Still breathed in sighs, still usher'd with a tear.
I tremble, too, where'er my own I find,
Some dire misfortune follows close behind.
Line after line my gushing eyes o'erflow,
Led through a sad variety of woe ;
Now warm in love, now withering in my bloom,
Lost in a convent's solitary gloom :
There stern religion quench'd the unwilling flame ;
There died the best of passions, Love and Fame.

FLODDEN FIELD.

BUT as they left the darkening heath,
More desperate grew the strife of death.
The English shafts in volleys hail'd,
The horse in headlong charge assail'd,
Front, flank, and rear the squadrons sweep
To break the Scottish circle deep,
That fought around their king ;
Though thick the English shafts as snow,
Though charging knights like whirlwinds go,
Though billmen ply the ghastly blow,
Unbroken was the ring.
The stubborn spearmen still made good
Their dark, impenetrable wood,
Each stepping where his comrade stood,
The instant that he fell :
No thought was there of coward flight,
Link'd in the serried phalanx tight,
Groom fought like noble, squire like knight,
As fearlessly and well ;
Till utter darkness closed her wing
O'er their thin host and wounded king.

TOM BOWLING.

HERE a sheer hulk lies poor Tom Bowling,
The darling of our crew ;
No more he'll hear the tempest howling,
For Death has broach'd him to.
His form was of the manliest beauty,
His heart was kind and soft,
Faithful below he did his duty,
But now he's gone aloft.

Tom never from his word departed :
His virtues were so rare :
His friends were many and true-hearted :
His Poll was kind and fair.
And then he'd sing so blithe and jolly,
Ah ! many's the time and oft !
But mirth is turned to melancholy,
For Tom is gone aloft.

ΕΤΔΕ, ΦΙΛΑ ΨΥΧΑ.

όλκὰς ἄτ' ἀμφίκλαστος Ἀμύντιχος ἐνθάδε κεῖται·
 ὅμμ' ἦν εἰρεσίης καὶ φάος ἡμετέρης· λαῦλαπος οὐκ ὀλοῆς ἔτ' ἀκούσεται ἀσπετον ἥχῆν, φῶ παραβέβληκεν τὴν ἄκατον θάνατος.
 ἔπρεπεν εἰναλίοισιν ἐν ἀνδράσιν ὕψις ἀγήνωρ· ἥπιον αἱὲν ἔφυ μειλίχιόν τε κέαρ· ἐνθάδε πάντα καλῶς πράξας, τὸν δεύτατον ἥδη
 ἐς μακάρων νήσους ἔξεπέρησε πλόον.
 οὐχ ἀνὴρ ἀλίωσεν ὑπόσχεσιν, ἥνπερ ὑπέστη, τόσσον ἔλαμψ' ἀρεταῖς ἔξοχα θαυμασίαις· πολλοῖς καὶ κεδνοῖς πεφιλημένος ἔπλετ' ἔτησιν, τὸν δ' ἔστερξε λίην ἡ χαρίεσσα Χλόη·

 φρούδη δ' εὐφροσύνη, καὶ ὅρωρεν πένθος ἀλαστον,
 ἐς μακάρων νήσους ὡς ἐπέρησε πλόον.

Yet shall poor Tom find pleasant weather,
When He, who all commands,
Shall give, to call life's crew together,
The word to pipe all hands.

Thus Death, who kings and tars despatches,
In vain Tom's life has doff'd,
For though his body 's under hatches,
His soul is gone aloft.

STREW on her roses, roses,
 But never a spray of yew ;
In silence she reposes—
 Ah, would that I did too !

Her mirth the world required,
 She bathed them in smiles and glee ;
But her heart was tired, tired ;
 And now they let her be.

Her life was turning, turning,
 In mazes of light and sound ;
But for peace her soul was yearning,
 And now peace laps her round.

Her cabin'd, ample spirit
 Panted and strove for breath ;
To-night it doth inherit
 The vasty halls of death.

AD SOMNUM SI RES REDIT

F. THIS is strange: your father's in some passion
That works him strongly.

M. Never till this day
Saw I him touch'd with anger so distemper'd.

P. You do look, my son, in a mov'd sort
As if you were dismayed: be cheerful, sir:
Our revels now are ended: these our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits, and
Are melted into air, into thin air:
And like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
And, like this unsubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff

SISTER HELEN.

‘WHY did you melt your waxen man,
Sister Helen ?

To-day is the third since you began.’

‘The time was long, yet the time ran,
Little brother.’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
Three days to-day, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘But if you have done your work aright,
Sister Helen,

You’ll let me play, for you said I might.’

‘Be very still in your play to-night,
Little brother.’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
Third night to-night, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘You said it must melt ere vesper-bell,
Sister Helen ;

If now it be molten, all is well.’

‘Even so,—nay, peace ! you cannot tell,
Little brother.’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
O what is this, between Hell and Heaven ?)

‘ Oh the waxen knave was plump to-day,
 Sister Helen ;
 How like dead folk he has dropped away ! ’
 ‘ Nay now, of the dead what can you say,
 Little brother ? ’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
What of the dead, between Hell and Heaven ?)

‘ See, see, the sunken pile of wood,
 Sister Helen,
 Shines through the thinned wax red as blood ! ’
 ‘ Nay now, when looked you yet on blood,
 Little brother ? ’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
How pale she is, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘ Now close your eyes, for they’re sick and sore,
 Sister Helen,
 And I’ll play without the gallery door.’
 ‘ Aye, let me rest—I’ll lie on the floor,
 Little brother.’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
What rest to-night, between Hell and Heaven ?)

‘ Here high up in the balcony,
 Sister Helen,
 The moon flies face to face with me.’
 ‘ Aye, look and say whatever you see,
 Little brother.’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
What sight to-night, between Hell and Heaven ?)

‘ Outside it’s merry in the wind’s wake,
 Sister Helen,
 In the shaken trees the chill stars shake.’
 ‘ Hush, heard you a horse-tread as you spake,
 Little brother ? ’

(*O Mother, Mary Mother,
 What sound to-night between Hell and Heaven ?*)

‘ The wind is loud, but I hear him* cry,
 Sister Helen,
 That Keith of Ewern’s like to die.’
 ‘ And he and thou, and thou and I,
 Little brother.’

(*O Mother, Mary Mother,
 And they and we, between Hell and Heaven !*)

‘ For three days now he has lain a-bed,
 Sister Helen,
 And he prays in torment to be dead.’
 ‘ The thing may chance if he has prayed,
 Little brother ! ’

(*O Mother, Mary Mother,
 If he has prayed, between Hell and Heaven !*)

* The brother of Keith of Ewern : he has come to implore Helen’s forgiveness.

‘πάντα δοκεῖ σκιρτῆν γαθεῦντ’ ἀνέμοιο κατ’ ἵχνος,

And bids you mind the banks of Boyne.’

‘ What else he broke will he ever join,
Little brother?’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
Oh, never more, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘ He yields you these, and craves full fain,
Sister Helen,
You pardon him in his mortal pain.’

‘ What else he took will he give again,
Little brother?’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
No more, no more, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘ O sister Helen, you heard the bell,
Sister Helen !
More loud than the vesper-chime it fell.’
‘ No vesper-chime, but a dying knell,
Little brother !’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
His dying knell, between Hell and Heaven !)

Most sad of all, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘ See, see, the wax has dropped from its place,
 Sister Helen,
 And the flames are winning up apace !’

‘ Yet here they burn but for a space,
 Little brother !’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
Here for a space, between Hell and Heaven !)

‘ Ah ! what white thing at the door has cross’d,
 Sister Helen ?
 Ah ! what is this that sighs in the frost ?’

‘ A soul that’s lost as mine is lost,
 Little brother !’

(O Mother, Mary Mother,
Lost, lost, all lost, between Hell and Heaven !)

TOUT LASSE, TOUT PASSE, TOUT CASSE.

THE flower that smiles to-day

To-morrow dies :

All that we wish to stay

Tempts, and then flies ;

What is this world's delight ?

Lightning that mocks the night,

Brief even as bright.

Virtue, how frail it is !

Friendship too rare !

Love, how it sells poor bliss

For proud despair !

But we, though soon they fall,

Survive their joy and all

Which ours we call.

Dream thou—and from thy sleep
 Then wake to weep.

- R.* HAD'ST thou no poison mix'd, no sharp-ground knife,
No sudden mean of death, though ne'er so mean,
But—banished—to kill me ; banished ?
O friar, the damned use that word in hell ;
Howlings attend it. How hast thou the heart,
Being a divine, a ghostly confessor,
A sin-absolver, and my friend profess'd,
To mangle me with that word—banished ?
- F.* Thou fond mad man, hear me a little speak.
- R.* O, thou wilt speak again of banishment.
- F.* I'll give thee armour to keep off that word ;
Adversity's sweet milk, philosophy,
To comfort thee, though thou art banished.
- R.* Yet banished ? Hang up philosophy !
Unless philosophy can make a Juliet,
Displant a town, reverse a prince's doom ;
It helps not, it prevails not ; talk no more.
- F.* O, then I see that madmen have no ears.
- R.* How should they, when that wise men have no
eyes ?

BATTLE OF THE LAKE REGILLUS.

THEN tenfold round the body
The roar of battle rose,
Like the roar of a burning forest
When a strong north wind blows.
Now backward, and now forward,
Rocked furiously the fray,
Till none could see Valerius,
And none wist where he lay.
For shivered arms and ensigns
Were heaped there in a mound,
And corpses stiff, and dying men
That writhed and gnawed the ground ;
And wounded horses kicking,
And snorting purple foam :
Right well did such a couch befit
A consular of Rome.

' HOW ARE THE MIGHTY FALLEN !'

THE beauty of Israel is slain upon thy high places :
How are the mighty fallen !

Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon ; lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain, upon you, nor fields of offerings : for there the shield of the mighty is vilely cast away, the shield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil. . . .

Saul and Jonathan were lovely in their lives,
and in their death they were not divided. . . .

How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished !

ABHORRED slave,

Which any print of goodness wilt not take
Being capable of all ill ! I pitied thee, Took pains to make thee speak, taught thee each hour

One thing or other : when thou didst not, savage, Know thine own meaning, but wouldest gabble like
A thing most brutish, I endowed thy purposes
With words that made them known. But thy vile race,

Though thou didst learn, had that in 't which good natures
Could not abide to be with ; therefore wast thou Deservedly confined into this rock,
Who hadst deserved more than a prison.

THREE children sliding on the ice,
All on a summer's day,
As it fell out, they all fell in,
The rest they ran away.

Now, had these children been at school,
Or sliding on dry ground,
Ten thousand pounds to one penny,
They had not all been drown'd.

You parents that have children dear,
And eke you that have none,
If you will have them safe abroad,
Pray keep them safe at home.

KATHERINE AND PETRUCHIO.

P. Come on, i' God's name: once more toward our father's.

Good Lord, how bright and goodly shines the moon !

K. The moon ! the sun: it is not moonlight now.

P. I say it is the moon that shines so bright.

K. I know it is the sun that shines so bright.

P. Now, by my mother's son, and that's myself,

It shall be moon, or star, or what I list,

Or ere I journey to your father's house.

Go on, and fetch our horses back again.

Evermore cross'd and cross'd: nothing but cross'd.

H. Say as he says, or we shall never go.

K. Forward, I pray, since we have come so far,
And be it moon, or sun, or what you please :

ΠΑΝΤΑ ΣΤΜΦΕΡΟΤΣ' ΙΑΣΟΝΙ.

- Π. πρὸς θεῶν σπεύδωμεν ἐγκονῶμεν ἐς πατρὸς δόμον.
 ὁ φίλε Ζεῦ καὶ θεοί, τὸ χρῆμα τῆς μήνης ὅσον.
- Κ. ἦν ἵδον μήνης· τί μήνης; ἥλιος μὲν οὖν ὅδε.
- Π. φήμ' ἔγωγε τήνδε μήνην ἀργυροῦν φαίνειν σέλας.
- Κ. φήμ' ἔγὼ μάλ' αὐθίς εἶναι Φοῖβον οὐκ ἄλλον τινά.

 ὡς δοκήσει μοι καλεῖς νιν, εἴτε μήνην εἴτε που ἀστέρων γέ τινα, πρὶν ἐλθεῖν πρὸς πατρῷα δώματα.
 πρόσπολοι, τάχ' ἀπάγεθ' ὑπουρούς οἴκαδ' ἐς φάτνας
 πάλιν,
- ώς ἀεί τις ἀντερεῖ μοι μυριάκις ἦ καὶ πλέον.
- Ο. σὺ δὲ διδάσκου πρίν γε νοστεῖν, διμολόγει δὲ πᾶν πόσει.
- Κ. ἄγετ' ἵωμεν, ὡς ἐμοῦ γε πάντα συμφάσης λόγον,
 εἴτε μήνην εἴτε Φοῖβον οὐρανοῦ φάσκεις κρατεῖν,

An' if you please to call it a rush-candle,
Henceforth I vow it shall be so for me.

P. I say it is the moon.

K. I know it is the moon.

P. Nay, then, you lie: it is the blessed sun.

K. Then, God be bless'd, it is the blessed sun :
But the sun it is not, when you say it is not ;
And the moon changes even as your mind.
What you will have it named, even that it is ;
And so it shall be so for Katherine.

TIMON OF ATHENS.

- T. COMMEND me to my loving countrymen—
S. These words become your lips as they pass through them,
And enter in our ears like great triumphers
In their applauding gates.
- T. Commend me to them,
And tell them that, to ease them of their griefs,
Their fears of hostile strokes, their aches, losses,
Their pangs of love, with other incident throes
That nature's fragile vessel doth sustain In life's uncertain voyage, I will some kindness do them :
I'll teach them to prevent wild Alcibiades' wrath.
S. I like this well ; he will return again.
T. I have a tree, which grows here in my close,
That mine own use invites me to cut down,
And shortly must I fell it : tell my friends,

ΚΕΡΤΟΜΑ ΒΑΖΩΝ.

- T. φίλοις πολίταις εύμενή μ' εῖναι φράσον.
- B. πρέπει γε ῥῆμα τοῦτ' ἀφεῖσι χείλεσιν· χῆμιν δὶ' ὕτων ἥξεν ὡς πομπαὶ πύλας νικηφόροι περῶσ' ὑπὲν φήμου βοῆς.

 παῦσαι διδάσκων ὑβρεως τὸν Κλεινίον.
- B. καλῶς ἔχει τάδ'· εἶσι δ' ἄψορος πάλιν.
- T. ἐμοί τι δένδρον σηκὼς ἀμπέχει δόμου,
 ὃ κέρδος ἔσται πρέμνοθεν τετμηκότι,
 κούκ ἐν μακρῷ τέμοιμ' ἀν· ἄγγειλον δ' ἐμοῖς

Tell Athens, in the sequence of degree
From high to low throughout, that whoso please
To stop affliction, let him take his haste,
Come hither, ere my tree hath felt the axe,
And hang himself. I pray you, do my greeting.

F. Trouble him no further: thus you still shall find him.

T. Come not to me again: but say to Athens,
Timon hath made his everlasting mansion
Upon the beached verge of the salt flood;
Who once a day with his embossed froth
The turbulent surge shall cover: thither come,
And let my grave-stone be your oracle.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.

AND after these things I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.

And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.

Willkommen auf der Flur !

Ei ! Ei ! da bist ja wieder !
Und bist so lieb und schön !
Und freun wir uns so herzlich,
Entgegen dir zu gehn.

Denkst auch noch an mein Mädchen ?
Ei, Lieber, denke doch !
Dort liebte mich das Mädchen,
Und 's Mädchen liebt mich noch !

Fürs Mädchen manches Blümchen
Erbat ich mir von dir—
Ich komm und bitte wieder,
Und du ?—du gibst es mir.

Willkommen, schöner Jüngling !
Du Wonne der Natur !
Mit deinem Blumenkörbchen
Willkommen auf der Flur !

MACBETH DOES MURDER SLEEP, THE INNOCENT SLEEP.

- Q.* How now, my lord ? why do you keep alone,
Of sorriest fancies your companions making ?
Using those thoughts which should indeed have died
With them they think on. Things without all remedy
Should be without regard : what's done is done.
- K.* We have scotch'd the snake, not kill'd it ;
She'll close, and be herself ; whilst our poor
malice
Remains in danger of her former tooth.
But let the frame of things disjoint, both the
worlds suffer,
Ere we will eat our meal in fear, and sleep
In the affliction of these terrible dreams,
That shake us nightly : better be with the dead,

ΟΙ ΑΥΤΩΙ ΚΑΚΑ ΤΕΤΧΕΙ ΑΝΗΡ ΑΛΛΩΙ ΚΑΚΑ ΤΕΤΧΩΝ.

- ΚΛΤΤ. ὅναξ, τί σαυτὸν ὁδὸς ἐρημωθέντ' ἔχων λυγρῶν λογισμῶν τήνδ' ὄμιλίαν σέβεις;
 τί δ' ὡς ἑταίρους ταῖσδε φροντίσιν σύνει
 οἵας ἀμὲν ἐχθροῖς, ὃν σὺ φροντίζεις πέρι, χρῆν συνθανεῖν; ἄγ', ὅνπερ οὐδὲν ἔστ' ἄκος,

- ΑΙΓ. ἔα· τὴν ἔχιδναν οὐκ ἐπαύσαμεν, μόνον σχίσαντες οὐ κτείναντες· ἢ δέ, τραυμάτων τὸ σχισθὲν ἱαθεῖσα, τὴν αὐτὴν πάλιν ὀργὴν ἀν ἵσχοι· παραμενεῖ δὲ ἡμῖν κότος,
 ὁ δειλός, ἄρδιν τὴν πρὸν ὀρρωδῶν ἔτι.
 ἀλλ' οὖν φύσεως τὰ δεσμά τις σπαρασσέτω, πόντῳ κυκάτῳ γαῖαν, ἀλλ' ὄμως χαρᾶς ἐδεσμάτων θαρσοῦσιν ἀπολαύειν θέμις, ὕπνου τε, δεινῶν τῶνδ' ὀνειράτων δίχα,
 ὅποια πάσης νυκτὸς ἐκστέίει τινά.

Whom we, to gain our peace, have sent to peace,
Than on the torture of the mind to lie
In restless ecstasy. Duncan is in his grave;
After life's fitful fever he sleeps well;
Treason has done its worst: nor steel, nor poison,
Malice domestic, foreign levy, nothing,
Can touch him further.

ELOISA TO ABELARD.

IN these deep solitudes and awful cells,
Where heavenly-pensive contemplation dwells,
And ever-musing melancholy reigns,
What means this tumult in a vestal's veins ?
Why rove my thoughts beyond this last retreat ?
Why feels my heart its long-forgotten heat ?
Yet, yet I love ! From Abelard it came,
And Eloisa yet must kiss the name.
Dear fatal name ! rest ever unreveal'd,
Nor pass these lips in holy silence seal'd :
Hide it, my heart, within that close disguise
Where, mix'd with God's, his loved idea lies :
Oh, write it not, my hand !—the name appears
Already written—wash it out, my tears !
In vain lost Eloisa weeps and prays,
Her heart still dictates, and her hand obeys.

Du. You have bestowed on me a second life,
For which I live your creature, and have better'd
What Nature framed imperfect. My first being Insolent pride made monstrous, but this later
In learning me to know myself hath taught me
Not to wrong others.

Do. Then we live indeed
When we can go to rest without alarum
Given every minute to a guilt-sick conscience
To keep us waking, and rise in the morning Secure in being innocent; but when
In the remembrance of our worser actions
We ever bear about us whips and Furies,
To make the day a night of sorrow to us,
Even Life 's a burden.

Du. I have found and felt it;
But will endeavour, having first made peace
With these intestine enemies, my rude passions,
To be so with mankind.

IF IT WERE DONE, WHEN 'TIS DONE.

If it were done, when 'tis done, then 'twere well
It were done quickly: if the assassination
Could trammel up the consequence, and catch
With his surcease success; that but this blow
Might be the be-all and the end-all, here.
But here, upon this bank and shoal of time,
We'd jump the life to come. But in these cases,
We still have judgment here; that we but teach Bloody inventions, which, being taught, return
To plague the inventor.

PSALM CIV.

O WORSHIP the King, all-glorious above;
O gratefully sing His power and His love;
Our Shield and Defender, the Ancient of days,
Pavilion'd in splendour, and girded with praise.

O tell of His might, O sing of His grace,
Whose robe is the light, whose canopy space;
His chariots of wrath deep thunder-clouds form,
And dark is His path on the wings of the storm.

The earth with its store of wonders untold,
Almighty, Thy power hath founded of old,
Hath 'stablished it fast by a changeless decree,
And round it hath cast, like a mantle, the sea.

It breathes in the air, it shines in the light ;

In Thee do we trust, nor find Thee to fail :
Thy mercies how tender ! how firm to the end
Our Maker, Defender, Redeemer and Friend.

M. Callicrates stands here, awaiting sentence.

The gods, who knew, delay'd him till thou

A. Speak to thy friend, Callicrates !

C. Speak thou.

My lips are seal'd from speaking : yet I listen.

A. Hear then the truth, O Minos, and thou, friend,
Whose love was dearer to my soul than life !

It was midsummer at Thermopylae,
Where we three hundred with our lion king
Lay in the Straits awaiting what should happen.

Then did the captain send me forth to seek
A privy passage through Trachinian hills :
For I was first of runners, stoutest-soul'd,
Men said, of athletes ; and the love I bore

Callicrates had crown'd my name with honour.
So I, thus bidden, girt me; and could see,
Running, the vast barbarian host aflood
From sea-beach unto hill-side, toward our host Surging, that rock-like rose to stem the tide.
But I the mountains clove. A dry white gorge
Mid towering crags received me, and I ran Hour after hour; until what time the noon Flamed in mid ether, and my strength was minish'd.

I came unto a barren scaur up-raised Heaven-high above me. At its feet a pool Lay slumbering, smooth and blue as polish'd
steel,
Broad each way as the temple steps that front
Queen Hera's shrine in Argos: and therefrom
Gush'd a full stream pellucid-froth'd, and fill'd
Its rocky runlet down the mountain side,
Mid myrtles trembling a thin silver thread.
There on my knees I bow'd, and lean'd, and drew Draughts that refresh'd my spirit, while above Burn'd summer, and my brain with heat was heavy.

But when I rose—nay, listen ; this is true—
There stood between me and the myrtle-boughs,
In blood-red chlamys like a boy array'd,
One on whose lips persuasion sat, whose eyes
Flamed fiercer than the light of summer noon.
He in his hands forth stretch'd a pomegranate,
Ripe, ruddy to the core, and smiled, and said,
‘If thou would'st see Callicrates alive,
Eat this !’ Then I, who long had served love
well,

Cried : ‘Even so, Lord Erôs.’ For I knew
How Pan unto Pheidippides vouchsafed,
Mid vales Arcadian, speech, what time he ran
From Athens to fair Sparta, night and day ;
And in my soul I deem'd that love had deign'd
To smile on Hellas. So I took and ate
That cursèd fruit. Therewith deep slumber fell Upon my drowsèd eyes.

THE DAY OF THE LORD.

STRENGTHEN ye the feeble hands,
And confirm the tottering knees ;
Say ye to the faint-hearted—Be ye strong :
Fear ye not ; behold your God !
He Himself will come, and will deliver you.
Then shall be unclosed the eyes of the blind ;
The ears of the deaf shall be unstopp'd ;
Then shall the lame bound like a hart,
And the tongue of the dumb shall sing,
For in the wilderness shall burst forth waters,
And torrents in the desert :
And in the haunt of the dragon shall spring forth
The grass, with the reed and the bulrush.
No lion shall be there, nor any ravenous beast :
But the redeemed shall dwell there ;
And the ransom'd of the Lord shall return,
And come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy :
They shall obtain joy and gladness,
And sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

MANFRED.

WELL, though it torture me, 'tis but the same;
My pang shall find a voice. From my youth upwards
My spirit walk'd not with the souls of men,
Nor look'd upon the earth with human eyes;
The thirst of their ambition was not mine,
The aim of their existence was not mine;
My joys, my griefs, my passions, and my powers,
Made me a stranger; though I wore the form,
I had no sympathy with breathing flesh,
Nor midst the creatures of clay that girded me
Was there but one who—but of her anon.
I said, with men and with the thoughts of men,
I held but slight communion; but instead,

My joy was in the wilderness—to breathe
The difficult air of the iced mountain's top,
Where the birds dare not build, nor insect's wing
Flit o'er the herbless granite ; or to plunge
Into the torrent, and to roll along
On the swift whirl of the new breaking wave
Of river stream, or ocean, in their flow.
In these my early strength exulted.

THE KING'S SOLILOQUY.

WHAT if this cursed hand
Were thicker than itself with brother's blood ?
Is there not rain enough in the sweet heav'ns
To wash it white as snow ? whereto serves mercy
But to confront the visage of offence ?
And what 's in prayer, but this twofold force,
To be forestalled ere we come to fall,
Or pardon'd being down ? Then I'll look up ;
My fault is past. But oh, what form of prayer
Can serve my turn ? Forgive me my foul murder !
That cannot be, since I am still possess'd
Of those effects for which I did the murder,
My crown, mine own ambition, and my Queen.
May one be pardon'd, and retain th' offence ?
In the corrupted currents of this world,
Offence's gilded hand may shove by justice ;

 ἄγει κακίστῳ τῷδε· τίς δὲ προστροπὴ μέλλει, τίς ἔδρα μ' ὠφελεῖν; σύγγνωθί μοι δὲ δυσσεβῶς αἷμ' εἶλον; ἀλλὰ ποὶ βλέπων φῶ ταῦτ', ἔχων ὧν οὕνεκ' εἴργασμαι φόνον, σκῆπτρον, λέχος τε βασιλικόν, κράτος τ' ἐμόν;
 πῶς ἐγκρατεῖ τῷ τῶν βίᾳ λελησμένων ἀζημία πρόχειρος; ἢ διαστρόφοις ῥεῖ τάνθάδε ῥοαῖσιν, ὕστη ἄμαρτίας

And oft 'tis seen, the wicked prize itself
Buys out the laws. But 'tis not so above.
There is no shuffling ; there the action lies
In his true nature, and we ourselves compell'd,
Ev'n to the teeth and forehead of our faults,
To give in evidence. What then ? what rests ?
Try what repentance can ? what can it not ?
Yet what can it, when one cannot repent ?
O wretched state ! oh bosom black as death !
Oh limèd soul, that, struggling to be free,
Art more engaged ! Help, angels ! make assay !
Bow, stubborn knees ; and, heart, with strings of steel,
Be soft as sinews of the new-born babe !
All may be well.

'WELL FARES THE LAND THAT BEARS SUCH FRUIT.'

Lo, I stand
Here on this brow's crown of the city's head
That crowns its lovely body, till death's hour
Waste it; but now the dew of dawn and birth
Is fresh upon it from thy womb, and we Behold it born how beauteous; one day more
I see the world's wheel of the circling sun
Roll up rejoicing to regard on earth
This one thing goodliest, fair as heaven or he Worth a god's gaze, or strife of gods; but now,
Would this day's ebb of their spent wave of strife
Sweep it to sea, wash it on wreck, and leave
A costless thing contemned; and in our stead
Where these walls were and sounding streets of men,
Make wide a waste for tongueless water-herds,
And spoil of ravening fishes; that no more Should men say, Here was Athens.

THERE was a king in Thulé,
 And he loved an humble maid,
And she, who loved him truly,
 When she came to her death-bed,

A golden cup she gave him,
 Which none could better prize ;
And ever as he drank of it,
 Tears dimm'd his flowing eyes.

And when he came to die,
 To his heirs his wealth he told ;
Left all without a sigh
 But his mistress' cup of gold.

As at the royal banquet
 Among his knights sate he,
In the high hall of his fathers,
 In their fortress o'er the sea,

I SEE a man's life is a tedious one :
I have tired myself, and for two nights together
Have made the ground my bed. I should be sick,
But that my resolution helps me. Milford,
When from the mountain-top Pisanio show'd thee,
Thou wast within a ken : O Jove ! I think Foundations fly the wretched ; such, I mean,
Where they should be relieved. Two beggars told me
I could not miss my way : will poor folks lie,
That have afflictions on them, knowing 'tis
A punishment or trial ? Yes ; no wonder, When rich ones scarce tell true. To lapse in fulness
Is sorer than to lie for need, and falsehood

My hunger 's gone ; but even before, I was At point to sink for food. But what is this ?
Here is a path to 't : 'tis some savage hold :
I were best not call ; I dare not call : yet famine,
Ere clean it o'erthrow nature, makes it valiant.
Plenty and peace breeds cowards : hardness ever
Of hardiness is mother. Ho ! who 's here ?
If anything that's civil, speak ; if savage,
Take or lend. Ho ! No answer ? Then I'll enter.
Best draw my sword ; and if mine enemy
But fear the sword like me, he'll scarcely look

EXTINCTUS AMABITUR IDEM.

THIS shalt thou
Sustain not, nor thy son endure to see,
Nor thou to live and look on ; for the womb
Bare me not base that bare me miserable,
To hear this loud brood of the Thracian foam
Break its broad strength of billowy-beating war
Here, and upon it as a blast of death
Blowing, the keen wrath of a fire-soul'd king,
A strange growth grafted on our natural soil,
A root of Thrace in Eleusinian earth
Set for no comfort to the kindly land,
Son of the sea's lord and our first-born fire,
Eumolpus ! Nothing sweet in ears of thine
The music of his making, nor a song
Toward hopes of ours auspicious ; for the note
Rings as for death oracular to thy sons,
That goes before him on the sea-wind blown

The brief light kindled of mine own child's life,
Or with this helmsman-hand that steers the state
Run right on the under-shoal and ridge of death
The populous ship with all its fraughtage gone,
And sails that were to take the wind of time
Rent, and the tackling that should hold out fast
In confluent surge of loud calamities Broken, with spars of rudders and lost oars
That were to row toward harbour and find rest
In some most glorious haven of all the world,
And else may never near it: such a song
The gods have set his lips on fire withal
Who threatens now, in all their names, to bring Ruin; but none of these, thou knowest, have I
Chid with my tongue or cursed at heart for grief,
Knowing how the soul runs reinless on sheer death
Whose grief or joy takes part against the gods.

THE BRIDGE OF SIGHs.

MAKE no deep scrutiny
Into her mutiny,
Rash and undutiful.
Past all dishonour,
Death has left on her
Only the beautiful.
Still, for all slips of hers,
 One of Eve's family ;
Wipe those poor lips of hers
 Oozing so clammily.
Loop up her tresses
Escaped from the comb,
Her fair auburn tresses !
While wonderment guesses
 Where was her home ?

IRREMEABILIS UNDA.

Who was her mother ?
Had she a sister ?
Had she a brother ?
Or was there a nearer one Still, and a dearer one Yet than all other ?
Oh ! for the rarity
Of Christian charity
Under the sun !
Oh ! it was pitiful,
Near a whole city full,
Home she had none.
Fatherly, motherly,
Sisterly, brotherly
Feelings had changed.
Love by harsh evidence
Thrown from its eminence,
Even God's Providence
Seeming estranged !

JULIET'S WEDDING-DAY.

F. COME, is the bride ready to go to church ?
C. Ready to go, but never to return ;
 O son, the night before thy wedding-day
 Hath death lain with thy wife :—there she lies,
 Flower as she was, deflowerèd by him.
 Death is my son-in-law, death is my heir,
 My daughter he hath wedded ! I will die,
 And leave him all ; life leaving, all is death's.

HAMLET.

To be, or not to be: that is the question :
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing end them ? To die : to sleep ;
No more ; and by a sleep to say we end
The heart-ache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to, 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wish'd. To die, to sleep :
To sleep : perchance to dream : ay, there's the rub :
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause : there's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life :
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of dispriz'd love, the law's delay,

The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of the unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscover'd country from whose bourn
No traveller returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear those ills we have Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscience does make cowards of us all;
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprizes of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action.

TRANSLATIONS INTO LATIN.

HENDECASYLLABICS.

O you chorus of indolent reviewers,
Irresponsible indolent reviewers—
Look, I come to the test, a tiny poem,
All composed in a metre of Catullus ;
All in quantity, careful of my motion,
Like the skater on ice that hardly bears him,
Lest I fall unawares before the people,
Waking laughter in indolent reviewers.
Should I flounder awhile, without a tumble,
Through this metrification of Catullus,
They should speak to me not without a welcome,
All that chorus of indolent reviewers.
Hard, hard, hard is it, only not to tumble,
So fantastical is the dainty metre.
Wherfore slight me not wholly, nor believe me
Too presumptuous, indolent reviewers.
O blatant magazines, regard me rather—
Since I blush to belaud myself a moment—
As some rare little rose, a piece of inmost
Horticultural art, or half-coquette like Maiden, not to be greeted unbenignly.

TENNYSON.

CARMEN CATVLLIANVM.

ignavi male iudices quot estis,
exlegum pecus et pigerrimorum,
en parvum in trutinam poëma veni perscriptum penitus modis Catulli, certis temporibus, memorque motus,
ne lapsus, velut ire fune tento
coner, fabula multa in urbe fiam, et dem iudicibus pigris cachinnos.
tantum si titubem, ruina nec sim,
hos dum versiculos sequor Catulli,
id, credo, id tacitum feram: sed omnis Tarparum ista hara salva sit pigrorum.
durum est est modo ne cadam cavere,
tam mollis modus estque delicatus.
quocirca neque vile me neque expers frontis ducite, iudices obesi.
quin balatibus, o libri, remotis (iam tingit rubor ora glorianti) vobis bellula sim rosa, elegantis horti gloria, vel puella simplex, qualem non licet alloqui proterve.

JOHN F. DAVIES.

AUBURN.

WHERE, then, ah ! where shall poverty reside,
To 'scape the pressure of contiguous pride ?
If to some common's fenceless limits stray'd,
He drives his flock to pick the scanty blade,
Those fenceless fields the sons of wealth divide,
And ev'n the bare-worn common is denied.
If to the city sped—What waits him there ?
To see profusion that he must not share ;
To see ten thousand baneful arts combined
To pamper luxury, and thin mankind ;
To see each joy the sons of pleasure know
Extorted from his fellow-creature's woe.
Here while the courtier glitters in brocade,
There the pale artist plies the sickly trade ;
Here while the proud their long-drawn pomps display,
There the black gibbet glooms beside the way ;

QVANTVM DIMISSA PETITIS PRAESTANT !

ergo ubi consideret pauper cui proximus urgens eripiat dives tecta brevemque larem ?
si pecus in nullo descriptos limite campos
egerit, ut sterilis gramina carpat agri, arrogat at dives vel publica iugera campi,
pauperibusque situ vel loca senta negat.
quaesierit Romam—quid querere proderit immo ?
quippe sitit vetitas, Tantalus alter, opes :
in genus humanum coniuravisse nefandas
mille artes, luxus mille alimenta, videt ;
quot sibi Patricii delectamenta pararint
plebeiis cernit suppeditata malis.
scilicet ut Tyrio princeps splendescat in ostro
hic grave pallescens textor adurget opus ;
ducitur hic fulgens Capitolia ad alta triumphus,
illic crux maestis imminet atra viis ;

The dome where Pleasure holds her midnight reign,
Here, richly deckt, admits the gorgeous train :
Tumultuous grandeur crowds the blazing square,
The rattling chariots clash, the torches glare.
Sure, scenes like these no troubles e'er annoy !
Sure, these denote one universal joy !
Are these thy serious thoughts ?—Ah ! turn thine
eyes

Where the poor houseless shiv'ring female lies.
She once, perhaps, in village plenty blest,
Has wept at tales of innocence distrest :
Her modest looks the cottage might adorn,
Sweet as the primrose peeps beneath the thorn.
Now lost to all ; her friends, her virtue fled,
Near her betrayer's door she lays her head ;
And, pinch'd with cold, and shrinking from the show'r,
With heavy heart deplores that luckless hour,
When idly first, ambitious of the town;
She left her wheel and robes of country brown.

GOLDSMITH.

hic epulantur ubi media de nocte beati accipiunt festos atria festa choros ;
luce nitent, reboant lautae clamore Carinae,
dum pilenta ruunt dum rutilantque faces :
‘ nimirum,’ dicas, ‘ tanta inter gaudia nunquam surgit amari aliquid, laetus it usque dies !’
falleris ah ! demens—i, lumina flecte, puellam contemplare istam, quae iacet, alget, eget :
illa, ut paganae cui quondam copia, flebat
si narraretur capta puella viro :
digna verecundo casulae decus addere vultu,
primula ceu mediis semireducta rubis ;
iam proiecta suis—proiecerat ipsa pudorem—
en ! corruptoris sternitur ante fores ;
et contracta gelu, pluviis tremebunda profusis,
flet male felicem corde dolente diem, quom fatua, et fieri cupiens urbana, Minervam contempsit tenuem carbaceosque sinus.

T. J. B. BRADY.

BILLY TAYLOR.

BILLY TAYLOR was a brisk young fellow,
Full of mirth and full of glee,
And his mind he did discover
To a maiden fair and free.

Four-and-twenty brisk young fellows,
Clad in jackets' blue array,
And they took poor Billy Taylor
From his true love out to sea.

His true love she follow'd after,
Under the name of Richard Carr,
And her hands they were bedaubed
With the nasty pitch and tar.

An engagement came on the very next morning,
Bold she fought among the rest ;
The wind aside did blow her jacket,
And discover'd her lily-white breast.

FVREN'S QVID FEMINA POSSIT.

acer erat nulli non Mopsus idoneus arti,
festivum pleno cum salis ore caput ;
ille adiens facilem, qua non formosior ibat,
Phyllida, quo penitus ferveat igne, refert.
viginti iuvenes et bis duo, mascula pubes (tincta nitescebat murice cuique chlamys), corripiunt puerum, raptusque requirere amores
cogitur amissos, et freta longa sequi.
inde habitu sumpto Phyllis tituloque virili abreptum pelagi per mala dura petit, femineoque videt fastu retinacula tractans
saepe picem teneras commaculare manus.
proxima lux ridet : committitur aequore toto pugna : furit mixtis acrior illa viris :
flamina crebrescunt : tunica fluitante reiecta
femineum prodit nuda papilla sinum.

Now, when the captain he came for to hear of it,
Says he, ‘What wind has blown you to me?’
‘Kind sir, I be come for to seek my true love,
Whom you press’d and sent to sea.’

‘If you be come for to seek your true love,
He from his ship is gone away;
And you ’ll find him in London streets, ma’am,
Walking with his lady gay.’

So she rose up early in the morning,
Long before the break of day,
And she found false Billy Taylor
Walking with his lady gay.

Straight she call’d for swords and pistols,
Which were brought at her command;
And she kill’d poor Billy Taylor,
With his lady in his hand.

When the captain he came for to hear of it,
He very much applauded her for what she had done,
And he made her first lieutenant
Of the gallant ‘Thunder Bomb.’

quae res delata est postquam rumore magistro, ‘quisnam,’ ait, ‘huc, virgo, te tulit unde Notus?’
 illa, ‘tot in casus, o dux metuende, marinos quem rapis, hunc quaerens per vada salsa vagor.’ ‘per vada salsa vagans quem tu, fortissima, quaeris, navis amatorem non habet ulla tuum;
 i, propera Romam: comitatum pellice cernes ornata puerum, qui fuit ante, tuum.’
 proxima lux caelo non iam dimoverat umbras;
 surgit ab inviso fida puella toro;
 it, properat Romam: comitatum pellice cernit
 ornata puerum, qui fuit ante, suum.
 ‘quis pharetram,’ clamat, ‘nemone huc ocios arcum?’
 nec mora: feminea sumpserat arma manu;
 et puer amplexu nondum divulsus amicae—
 proh! pudor—imbelli vulnere pressit humum.
 quae res delata est postquam rumore magistro,
 ‘euge!’ ait, ‘infidos sic periisse iuvat;
 ‘et Ballista’—fuit navi hoc ab imagine nomen—
 ‘aequora te clavum, Phylli, regente secet.’

ROBERT Y. TYRRELL.

THALABA.

OR, when the winter torrent rolls
Down the deep-channelled raincourse foamingly,
Dark with its mountain spoils,
With bare feet pressing the wet sand,
There wanders Thalaba ;
The rushing flow, the flowing roar
Filling his yielded faculties,
A vague, a dizzy, a tumultuous joy.
Or lingers it a vernal brook,
Gleaming o'er the yellow sands ?
Beneath the lofty bank reclined
With idle eyes he views its little waves,
Quietly listening to the quiet flow ;
While in the breathings of the stirring gale
The tall canes bend above,
Floating, like streamers on the wind,
Their lank uplifted leaves.

TALABAS.

ubi in alveo imbre adeso fluvius ruit hiemans spumas agens, iugorum spoliants nigra capita, madidas premens arenas niveis ibi pedibus Talabas vagatur. olli fluviique tonitrua animos tenent stupentes fremitusque celeripes ;
et iam dubia voluptas malesanaque trepidat.
ubi rivulus micanti sabulosus itinere remoransque vere flavet, mare parvulum ibi videt ripa sub ille celsa recubans, vagus oculos ;
placidusque in aure captat cava murmura placida ;
super interim inquietus recrepat ferus Aquilo, et arundines acutae fluitantia veluti vexilla deprimuntur curüata columina.

MAX CULLINAN.

DIRGE FOR A MAIDEN.

UNDERNEATH the sod low-lying,
Dark and drear,
Sleepeth one who left in dying
Sorrow here.

Yet they 're ever bending o'er her Eyes that weep.
Forms that to the cold grave bore her Vigils keep.

When the summer moon is shining
Soft and fair,
Friends that loved in tears are twining
Chaplets there.

Rest in peace, thou gentle spirit,
Throned above;
Souls like thine with God inherit Life and love.

NAENIA.

heu tegit herboso Lalagen velamine caespes,
lucifugaque domo ;
nunc humilis dormit quae nobis mortua liquit
nil nisi maestitiam.

hanc tamen haud lacrimis dolor unquam pronus obortis
spargere cessat humum ;
non oculos claudit vigiles, quicumque feretri triste subivit onus.

ast ubi candescens aestiva lampade Phoebe despicit in tumulum, fletur, et intextas fletu, pia dona, coronas fingit amica manus.

sit tibi, molle caput, solium caeleste per annos ;
sit tibi dia quies :
talibus ambrosium dabitur felicibus aevum associare deo.

THE POET'S DEATH.

CALL it not vain :—they do not err
Who say that, when the poet dies,
Mute Nature mourns her worshipper,
And celebrates his obsequies :
Who say, tall cliff and cavern lone
For the departed Bard make moan ;
That mountains weep in crystal rill ;
That flowers in tears of balm distil ;
Through his loved groves that breezes sigh,
And oaks in deeper groan reply ;
And rivers teach their rushing wave
To murmur dirges round his grave.

MORS POETAЕ.

non fabulas, non somnia inania fingunt, poëtam mors ubi ademerit, plorare Naturam, suique
exsequias celebrare mutam culturis. illum namque sub invidas raptum tenebras aëriae gemunt rupes et antrorum recessus :
flumine flet vitreo soluta montana moles : de lacrimantibus stillant odores ambrosii rosis ;
perflantque per lucos amatos sollicitas Zephyri querellas :
nec tristiores non referunt sonos
querceta ; nec non, qui tumulum lavat, quae murmura effundant, ruentes
ipse suas docet amnis undas.

Not that, in sooth, o'er mortal urn
Those things inanimate can mourn ;
But that the stream, the wood, the gale
Is vocal with the plaintive wail
Of those who, else forgotten long,
Lived in the Poet's faithful song.

SCOTT.

M E M O R Y.

THUS the ideas, as well as children, of our youth often die before us ; and our minds represent to us those tombs to which we are approaching : where, though the brass and marble remain, yet the inscriptions are effaced by time, and the imagery moulders away.

LOCKE.

at non—quis haec tam finxerit inscius?— possunt ad urnam plangere talia tam bruta feralem; sed aurae et nemora et fluvii loquellas dant luctuosas, cum sibi naenias
illi crient, qui, ne sopor improbus urgeret ignotos, fidelis carminibus viguere vatis.

ANNIE'S TRYSTE.

YOUR hand is cauld as snaw, Annie,
Your cheek is wan and white :
What gars ye tremble sae, Annie ?
What mak's your e'e sae bright ?

The snaw is on the ground, Willie,
The frost is cauld and keen,
But there's a burning fire, Willie,
That sears my heart within.

The Spring will come again, Annie,
And chase the winter's showers,
And you and I shall stray, Annie,
Amang the Summer flowers.

O bonnie are the braes, Willie,
When a' the drifts are gane ;
But my heart misgi'es me sair, Willie,
Ye'll wander there alone.

SI QVA FATA ASPERA RVMPAS !

pallent, Delia, cur genae ?
friget cur nivibus frigidior manus ?
cur artus teneri tremunt ?
ardent insolita cur oculi face ?

durantur positae nives hiberni gelidis flatibus aetheris ;
at pectus, Corydon, meum,
heu ! caecis penitus carpitur ignibus.

brumam nubibus horridam grata ver roseum mox vice proteret :
tum per rura vagabimur
aestas flore novo quae decoraverit.

quom diffugerit alta nix, ridebunt nitidis prata coloribus ;
at tristissima praescius
erres ne sine me corda subit timor.

O will ye tryste wi' me, Annie ?
 O will ye tryste me then ?
 I'll meet you by the burn, Annie,
 That wimples doon the glen.

I daur na tryste wi' you, Willie,
 I maun na tryste ye here,
 But we'll hold our tryste in Heaven, Willie,
 In the spring time of the year.

AYTOUN.

SWEET WESTERN WIND.

SWEET Western Wind, whose luck it is,
 Made rival with the air,
 To give Perenna's lips a kiss,
 And fan her wanton hair ;
 Bring me but one, I'll promise thee
 Instead of common showers,
 Thy wings shall be embalmed by me,
 And all beset with flowers.

HERRICK.

quin te constituis mihi
venturam comitem vere novo meam, ut quondam prope rivuli
ripas per silüam qui trepidat loquax ?

ah ! non constituam tibi,
nec fas est, soliti margine rivuli.
sed, cum verna aderit dies,
lucis Elysiis consociabimur.

T. J. B. BRADY.

AVRA VENI !

quod tibi, Note, contigit beato,
aëris levis aemulo, Perennae
labra basiolis tuis adire, ventilare tibi comas protervas ;
huc, Note, huc ades, adferas vel unum,
sicque di, Note, sic deae me amabunt, ut Iovis minime imbribus madebit rursus, at tua flosculis renidens ala turiferas olebit auras.

ROBERT Y. TYRRELL.

TO DELIA.

FAIR the face of orient day,
Fair the tints of opening rose ;
But fairer still my Delia dawns,
More lovely far her beauty shews.

Sweet the lark's wild warbled lay,
Sweet the tinkling rill to hear ;
But, Delia, more delightful still Steal thine accents on mine ear.

The flower-enamour'd busy bee
The rosy banquet loves to sip :
Sweet the streamlet's limpid lapse
To the sun-brown'd Arab's lip :

But, Delia, on thy balmy lips
Let me, no vagrant insect, rove :
Oh ! let me steal one liquid kiss,
For, oh ! my soul is parch'd with love.

AD DELIAM.

pulcher est solis redeuntis ortus ;
pulcher est floris color explicati ;
pulchrior solem superas rosamque, Delia, pulchram.

dulcis indoctae canor est alaudae ;
dulcis est lapsus trepidantis undae :
dulcior longe tua vox amantis serpit in aurem.

sic apis gaudet studiosa florum ore delibans roseos liquores ;
sic Arabs gaudet recreans scatebris
 arida labra.

non apis ritu temere avolantis in tuis labris mihi sit vagari ;
hinc sinas haustum rapiam, levemque pectoris ignes.

THE BAIT.

COME live with me, and be my love,
And we will some new pleasures prove
Of golden sands and crystal brooks,
With silken lines and silver hooks.

There will the river whispering run,
Warm'd by thine eyes more than the sun ;
And there the enamell'd fish will stay,
Begging themselves they may betray.

When thou wilt swim in that live bath,
Each fish which every channel hath
Will amorously to thee swim,
Gladder to catch thee than thou him.

Let others freeze with angling-reeds,
And cut their legs with shells and weeds ;
Or treacherously poor fish beset
With strangling snare or windowy net ;

DVM CAPIMVS CAPIMVR.

huc, Galatea, veni ; mea lux, age, gaudia mecum
plurima nec solitis hic aditura modis, quot meus aureolis vitreus tibi rivus harenis
cumque hamo tereti Serica lina ferant.
perstrepet apricos tibi garrula lympha lapillos sole minus visu quam calitura tuo ;
et tibi terga frequens pictus gemmantia piscis
obvius astanti se feret ipse capi.
balnea sive petes quando haec piscosa, ciebis undique flumineos ad tua labra greges :
in te praecipiti ruet omnis amore protervus,
cedet et in laetas, laetior ipse, manus.
frigidulus demptis calami moderator alutis conchis et rigida carice crura secet :
aut nassas vafer aut interlucentia nodis
retia letiferis insidiosa paret :

Let coarse bold hands from slimy nest
The bedded fish in banks outwrest ;
Let curious traitors' sleave-silk flies
Bewitch poor fishes' wandering eyes.

For thee, thou need'st no such deceit,
For thou thyself art thine own bait ;
The fish that is not catch'd thereby
Alas ! is wiser far than I.

DONNE.

PEACE, PEACE !

YE have not sowed in vain !
Though the heavens seem as brass,
And piercing the crust of the burning plain
Ye scan not a blade of grass ;

Yet there is life within,
And waters of life on high ;
One morn ye shall wake, and the spring's soft green
O'er the moisten'd fields shall lie.

LYRA ANGLICANA.

durus in arcano latitantia corpora limo

sive vagos pisces fallacis imagine muscae aera recurva astu dissimulante trahat.
tu tamen illecebras, tali procul arte remota,
unica materia ducis ab ipsa tua :
piscis enim, qui te bene fugerit, aurea, visam,
hei mihi ! plus nobis, suspicor, ille sapit.

J. R. WEST.

BASE COMPARISONS.

FALSTAFF—PRINCE—POINS.

Fal. BUT, as the devil would have it, three misbegotten knaves in Kendal-green came at my back and let drive at me; for it was so dark, Hal, that thou could'st not see thy hand.

Prince. These lies are like their father that begets them; gross as a mountain, open, palpable. Why, thou clay-brained guts, thou knotty-pated fool, thou obscene, greasy tallow-catch—

Fal. What! art thou mad? art thou mad? is not the truth the truth?

Prince. Why, how could'st thou know these men in Kendal-green, when it was so dark thou could'st not see thy hand? Come, tell us your reason: what sayest thou to this? .

Poins. Come, your reason, Jack; your reason.

Prince. I'll be no longer guilty of this sin ; this sanguine coward, this bed-presser, this horse-back-breaker, this huge hill of flesh—

Fal. 'Sblood ! you starveling, you elf-skin, you dried neat's tongue, you stock-fish ! O for breath to utter what is like thee ! you sheath, you bow-case, you vile standing-tuck—

Prince. Well, breathe awhile, and then to it again : and when thou hast tired thyself in base comparisons, hear me speak but this.

THE NURSERY OF NATIONS.

MEANTIME o'er rocky Thrace and the deep vales
Of gelid Haemus I pursued my flight ;
And, piercing farthest Scythia, westward swept Sarmatia traversed by a thousand streams.
A sullen land of lakes and fens immense,
Of rocks, resounding torrents, gloomy heaths,
And cruel deserts black with sounding pine ;
Where Nature frowns ; though sometimes into smiles
She softens, and immediate, at the touch
Of southern gales, throws from the sudden glebe
Luxuriant pasture and a waste of flowers.
But, cold-compress'd, when the whole loaded heaven
Descends in snow, lost in one white abrupt Lies undistinguish'd earth ; and, seized by frost,
Lakes, headlong streams, and floods, and oceans sleep.

THOMSON.

GENTIS CVNABVLA NOSTRAE.

interea Thraces scopulos gelidique per Haemi
ima viam tendo fugiens, Scythiaeque recessus invadens vel ad occiduos iter usque novatum Sauromatas flecto, fluviis bis mille rigatos, si stagnantve lacus, largisve paludibus unda
saxa lavat; reboant amnes; stant horrida campis tesqua salebrosis resona nigrantia pinu.
hic Natura dolet; necnon tamen est ubi risus solvitur in faciles, quotiens contacta Favoni flaminibus subiti varios per vasta locorum luxuriante solo submittit daedala flores.
at, cum frigoribus niveis onerantibus aether deciderit totus, strictim promiscua cano terra iacet tractu; vaga tunc devincta pruinis flumina, torrentes, aequor sopor occupat unus.

SAMUEL ALLEN.

LALLA ROOKH.

How calm, how beautiful comes on
The stilly hour, when storms are gone ;
When warring winds have died away,
And clouds beneath the glancing ray Melt off, and leave the land and sea
Sleeping in bright tranquillity,
Fresh, as if day again were born,
Again upon the lap of morn !
When the light blossoms, rudely torn
And scattered at the whirlwind's will,
Hang floating in the pure air still,
Filling it all with precious balm,
In gratitude for this sweet calm ;
And every drop the thunder showers
Have left upon the grass and flowers
Sparkles, as 'twere that lightning gem,
Whose liquid flame is born of them.

EX IMBRI SOLES.

o quam venustus quam placidus redit nimbis fugatis candidior dies !
depraeliantes cum procellae
iam rabiem posuere, et omnis nubes tepenti numine vanuit evicta Phoebi ; cum maris aequora campique, ceu blando sopore compositi, placide refulgent ;
partu recenti credideris novam
lucem renasci ; cum levia undique, erupta maternis iniqui
turbinis arbitrio rosetis,
iam puriori germina in aethere suspensa, ob iram depositam Aeolo grates odoratis rependunt muneribus ; pluviique rores, si quos tonanti nube Diespiter effudit herbis, illius illius flagrantis ardescunt gemelli, fulmina quam peperere, gemmae.

BROUGHAM'S CASTLE.

ARMOUR rusting in his halls
On the blood of Clifford calls :
' Quell the Scot,' exclaims the lance;
' Bear me to the heart of France'
Is the longing of the shield.
' Tell thy name, thou trembling field ;
Field of death, where'er thou be,
Groan thou with our victory !
Happy day, and mighty hour,
When our Shepherd in his power,
Mail'd and horsed, with lance and sword,
To his ancestors restored,
Like a reappearing star,
Like a glory from afar,
First shall head the flock of war.'

F. Well, sirs, I am almost out at heels.

P. Why then let kibes ensue.

F. There is no remedy ; I must cony-catch ; I

FATHER WILLIAM.

(From Alice in Wonderland.)

‘ You are old, Father William,’ the young man said,
‘ And your hair has become very white;
And yet you incessantly stand on your head—
Do you think at your age it is right?’

‘ In my youth,’ Father William replied to his son,
‘ I fear’d it might injure the brain ;
But now I am perfectly sure I have none—
Why I do it again and again.’

‘ You are old,’ said the youth, ‘ as I mention’d before,
And have grown most uncommonly fat;
Yet you turn’d a back-somersault in at the door—
Pray, what is the reason of that?’

‘ In my youth,’ said the sage, as he shook his grey locks,
‘ I kept all my limbs very supple
By the use of this ointment—one shilling the box—
Allow me to sell you a couple?’

CALLIDVS ALIPTES.

‘ te, genitor, senuisse vides’ (ita filius olim) ;
‘ albent matura tempora canitie :
vertice demisso pedibus sublimia captas ?
corporibus tardis haec, mihi crede, nefas.’ ‘ abstinui iuvenis,’ pater inquit, ‘ talibus ausis, ne qua foret cerebro noxia facta meo :
at genio quis me nunc indulgere vetabit expertum capiti nuper inesse nihil ?’ ‘ te senuisse vides, si fas iterare querellam ;
crescunt crura tibi pinguia, pingue latus ;
te tamen inversos dantem trans limina saltus
miror : quae tanti causa furoris erat ?’
Nestoreos agitans crines, ‘ mihi contigit,’ inquit, ‘ membrorum summa mobilitate frui :
hoc ceroma vides ; cessas emere? ünguere; nummo
(sume duos) uno venditur unus onyx.’

‘ You are old,’ said the youth, ‘ and your jaws are too weak

For anything tougher than suet;
Yet you finish’d the goose, with the bones and the beak—

Pray, how did you manage to do it?’

‘ In my youth,’ said his father, ‘ I took to the law,
And argued each case with my wife;
And the muscular strength which it gave to my jaw
Has lasted the rest of my life.’

‘ You are old,’ said the youth; ‘ one would hardly suppose

That your eye was as steady as ever;
Yet you balanced an eel on the end of your nose—
What made you so awfully clever?’

‘ I have answer’d three questions, and that is enough,’
Said his father; ‘ don’t give yourselves airs!
Do you think I can listen all day to such stuff?
Be off, or I’ll kick you down stairs!’

LEWIS CARROLL.

‘ indoluit, genitor, quoties gingiva senilis, ipsa nocent tactu mollia larda suo ;
at, quaeso, anser ubi est ? non ossa neque ora · supersunt ;
o vires raras insolitamque gulam !’
ille sub haec : ‘ olim causas ego publicus egi, ac reduci parvum fit domus ipsa forum ;
qui mihi maxillas his viribus induit usus,
ut senio haud fractus manserit ille vigor.’ ‘ at, pater, annoso nemo iam sanus ocello virtutem priscam credat inesse tuo ;
anguillam tamen hanc—opus admirabile—naso,
dic mihi, librasti qua ratione, pater ?’ ‘ plura nefas ! tria iam dedimus responsa petenti ;
hinc,’ genitor, ‘ fastus, hinc, puer, aufer,’ ait :
‘ tene diem totum nugas trivisse canentem !
i—pedibus nostris eiiciendus abi !’

A LOVER'S MISGIVINGS.

THYRSIS, when we parted, swore
 Ere the spring he would return—
Ah! what means yon violet flower,
 And the bud that decks the thorn?
'Twas the lark that upward sprung!
 'Twas the nightingale that sung!
Idle notes! untimely green!
 Why this unavailing haste?
Zephyr winds and skies serene Speak not always winter past.
Cease, my doubts, my fears to move—
 Spare the honour of my love.

T. GRAY.

PLENA TIMORIS AMANS.

in mea iurabas proficiscens, perfide, verba, ‘cum primo repetam, lux mea, vere domum’ ;
quid sibi picta volunt multo violaria flore ?
quaeque rubum decorant quid sibi, Thyrsi, rosae ?
fallor, an ille canor Philomelae percutit aures ?
fallor, an alta petens spernit alauda solum ?
immature color ! non tempestiva querella !
sicine iam vernus praeripiendus honor ?
detonuit num bruma, semel si Iuppiter albus,
cogitur et Zephyro ponere flante minas ?
ah ! nolite metus, nolite movere timores—
vivat amatoris non temerata fides.

RALPH S. BENSON.

SALLY IN OUR ALLEY.

OF all the girls that are so smart,
There's none like pretty Sally ;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

There is no lady in the land
Is half so sweet as Sally ;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

Her father he makes cabbage-nets,
And through the streets does cry 'em ;
Her mother she sells laces long
To such as please to buy 'em :
But sure such folks could ne'er beget
So sweet a girl as Sally !
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

TOTA MERVVM SAL.

nulla inter nitidas, puto, puellas conferri lepidae potest Megillae :
meae deliciae est, mei lepores,
iuxta nos habitans in angiportu.
ecquae nobilis et superba virgo tam mellitula quam Megilla vivit ?
illam depereo intimis medullis
iuxta nos habitantem in angiportu.
pauper cauliculis meae puellae
pater reticula et facit tuendis, et venalia clamitat per urbem ;
at matrcula venditat puellae
limbos, quisquis emet, laboriosos.
sed credas cave plebe de scelestas tales delicias fuisse natas :
illam plus oculis amo gemellis
iuxta nos habitantem in angiportu.

When she is by I leave my work,
I love her so sincerely ;
My master comes like any Turk,
And bangs me most severely ;
But let him bang his bellyful,
I'll bear it all for Sally ;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

Of all the days that's in the week,
I dearly love but one day,
And that's the day that comes betwixt
A Saturday and Monday ;
For then I'm drest all in my best
To walk abroad with Sally ;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

My master carries me to church,
And often am I blamed
Because I leave him in the lurch
As soon as text is named ;
I leave the church in sermon-time
And slink away to Sally ;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

ad nos cum mea ventitat puella,
confestim, quod erat mihi negoti,
qui tam perdite amem, lubens omitto :
existit similis truci Britanno iracundus erus, meisque malis infringit colaphos severiores :
sed per me colaphis iecur saginet ;
plagas nil moror ob meam puellam :
meae deliciae est, mei lepores,
iuxta nos habitans in angiportu.
non huius facio dies profestos—
festi plus oculis meis amantur !
tum demum licet ire feriatum, et cultum pretiosiore veste cum cara spatiarier puella :
illam depereo impotente amore
iuxta nos habitantem in angiportu.
adsisto, domino trahente, sacris,
et male audio identidem, quod inde,
orarit bona verba cum sacerdos,
erum inter medias preces hiantem linquens, aufugio ad meam puellam :
quae desiderium meum est, meum mel,
iuxta nos habitans in angiportu.

When Christmas comes about again,
O then I shall have money ;
I'll hoard it up, and box it all,
And give it to my honey :
I would it were ten thousand pound,
I'd give it all to Sally ;
She is the darling of my heart,
And she lives in our alley.

My master and the neighbours all
Make game of me and Sally,
And, but for her, I'd better be
A slave, and row a galley ;
But, when my seven long years are out,
O then I'll marry Sally—
O then we'll wed, and then we'll bed,
But not in our alley !

H. CAREY.

Saturnalia laeta cum redibunt,
prae manu quid erit mihi lucelli,
quantum quantum erit, arcula repostum,
dabo melliculo meo nitenti :
di faxint deciens sit ! usque ad assem effundam in gremium meae puellae :
nam desiderium meum est, meum mel,
iuxta nos habitans in angiportu.
at vicinia tota erusque mordax ludos me facilit, et meos amores :
et credo, nisi quod levat puella,
vitam vivere liberaliorem
servos lautumiis datos in aevum :
sed post tempora tarda servitutis
a praetore meusque pileatusque egressus dominam volens volentem ducam, Hymen Hymenae!—at in malam rem nostrum abire sinemus angiportum !

ARTHUR PALMER.

THE GIFT.

SAY, cruel Iris, pretty rake,
Dear mercenary beauty,
What annual offering shall I make Expressive of my duty ?

My heart, a victim to thine eyes,
Should I at once deliver,
Say, would the angry fair one prize
The gift, who slighted the giver ?

A bill, a jewel, watch, or toy,
My rivals give, and let 'em ;
If gems or gold impart a joy,
I'll give them—when I get 'em.

I'll give, but not the full-blown rose,
Or rosebud, more in fashion ;
Such short-lived offerings but disclose
A transitory passion.

I'll give thee something yet unpaid,
Not less sincere than civil ;
I'll give thee, ah ! too charming maid,
I'll give thee—to the d——.

ESSE QVID HOC DICAM?

ROBERT Y. TYRRELL.

THE SILENT LOVER.

FEW the words that I have spoken—
True love's words are ever few ;
But by many a speechless token
Hath my heart discoursed to you.

Souls that to each other listen,
Hear the language of a sigh ;
Read the silent tears that glisten
In the tender trembling eye.

When your cheek is pale with sadness,
Dimmer grows the light of mine ;
And your smiles of sunny gladness
In my face reflected shine.

Though my speech is faint and broken,
Though my words are ever few ;
Yet by many a voiceless token
All my heart is known to you.

MVTVS AMOR.

pauca quidem dixi, cultor taciturnus amabam,
fidus amans semper multa tacere solet ;
attamen indiciis mea corda silentibus usa
saepe tibi sensus exhibuere suos.
concordes animae quid egent interprete lingua ?
colloquii gemitus scilicet instar habent ;
literulis illae quid egent ? i, perlege guttam luminibus teneris quae tremebunda nitet.
cum tibi sollicitae pallet flos iste genarum,
tum mea contristat mutuuus ora dolor ;
et tibi laetanti vultus cum risus inaurat,
ora repercussa tum mea luce nitent.
quid quod lingua labat mediaque in voce resistit,
atque amor eloquium praepedit ipse suum ?
quod lateat tacito non enarrabile corde
pluribus indiciis tu, mea vita, tenes.

T. J. B. BRADY.

MARY.

‘OH ! it’s time I should speak to your father,
Dear Mary,’ says I.
‘Oh ! don’t speak to my father,’ says Mary,
Beginning to cry ;
‘For my father he loves me so dearly,
He ne’er will consent I should go ;
If you speak to my father,’ says Mary,
‘He’ll surely say no !’
‘Then I think I must speak to your mother,
Dear Mary,’ says I.
‘Oh ! don’t speak to my mother,’ says Mary,
Just wiping her eye ;
‘For mother says men are deceitful ;
She never will give her consent,
And that girls in a hurry to marry
At leisure repent.’

ΤΕΤΛΑΘΙ ΜΟΙ, ΚΡΑΔΙΝ.

‘ iam manet orandus genitor tuus,’ inquit Alexis,
 ‘ o magis his oculis cara Corinna mihi.’ ‘ heu ! minime’ clamat ‘ pater est adeundus amanti,’ irrigat ut teneras lacrima fusa genas, ‘ ah ! nescis, nescis, quali foveatur amore filia, non questus audiet ille tuos ;
 orabis frustra talem, carissime, patrem,
 invida ferventes auferet aura preces.’ ‘ at genetrix oranda tamen ; nam mollior aegri femina non nihili pendere vota solet.’ ‘ hanc quoque tu’ clamat, lacrimam dum siccat obortam, ‘ hanc caveas, nihili mollia verba facit ;
 haec tibi num credet, nullam quae semper amanti quamvis iurato dictitat esse fidem ?
 praeripiatque faces citius si vana iugales,
 mutatos sero flere dolore deos.’

‘ Then how shall I get you, my jewel,
 Dear Mary?’ says I;
 ‘ If your parents will both be so cruel,
 I surely must die.’
 ‘ Oh never say die, love,’ says Mary,
 ‘ The way to relieve you I see:
 Since my parents are both so contrary,
 You’d better—ask me!’

S. LOVER.

SEA-SHORE STANZA.

METHINKS I fain would lie by the lone sea,
 And hear the waters their white music weave !
 Methinks it were a pleasant thing to grieve,
 So that our sorrows might companion’d be
 By that strange harmony
 Of winds and billows, and the living sound
 Sent down from heaven when the thunder speaks
 Unto the listening shores and torrent creeks,
 When the swollen sea doth strive to burst its bound !

BARRY CORNWALL.

‘ dic igitur tandem, vita mihi carior ipsa,
 dic misero, quonam sis potiunda modo.
 non exorandi si te genuere parentes,
 quid me ni fatis occubuisse manet?’
 illa ‘ omen procul hoc absit, carissime ; restat non tibi nil tantis quo medeare malis ;
 si mens heu durat non exoranda parentum,
 quin natam, frustra non abiturus, adis?’

SOLACIA VICTIS.

(THE FIREWORSHIPPERS.)

WHAT ! while our arms can wield these blades,
Shall we die tamely ? die alone
Without one victim to our shades,
One Moslem heart, where, buried deep,
The sabre from its toil may sleep ?
No. God of Iran's burning skies,
Thou scorn'st th' inglorious sacrifice.
No, though of all earth's hopes bereft,
Life, swords, and vengeance still are left.
We'll make yon valley's reeking caves
Live in the awe-struck minds of men
Till tyrants shudder, when their slaves
Tell of the Gheber's bloody glen.
Follow, brave hearts ! This pile remains,
Our refuge still from life and chains ;
But his the best, the holiest bed,
Who sinks entomb'd in Moslem dead.

STANZAS ON WOMAN.

WHEN lovely woman stoops to folly,
And finds too late that men betray,
What charm can soothe her melancholy,
What art can wash her guilt away ?

The only art her guilt to cover,
To hide her shame from every eye,
To give repentance to her lover,
And wring his bosom, is—to die.

ALFRED P. GRAVES.

THE PLAGUE OF A SERVING-MAN.

A PLAGUE of my master to send me out this dreadful dark night to bring the news of his victory to my lady : and was I not bewitched for going on his errand without a convoy for the safeguard of my person ? How am I melted into sweat with fear ? I am diminished of my natural weight above two stone. I shall not bring half myself home again to my poor wife and family. I have been in ague fit ever since shut of evening, what with the fright of trees by the highway, which looked maliciously like thieves by moonshine, and with bulrushes by the river-side that shaked like spears and lances at me. Well, the greatest plague of a servingman is to be hired to some great lord ! They care not what drudgery they put upon us, while they lie lolling at their ease a-bed, and stretch their lazy limbs.

NVNTIVS.

sine ullo praesidio, qui me praestarent fore incolumem, egressus fubi. di bene me adiuvent ut in sudorem solvor piae formidine;
sum iam hercle libris levior praeut dudum fui viginti pondo; vix equidem ad proprios Lares referam me dimidiatum. hanc noctem perpetem cum Vesperugo exortast, quartana horreo, ita mihi ad lunam ob viam obsitae arbores quasi fures essent miserum iniecerunt metum, et tragularum ad exemplum motae arundines.
ecastor pestis nulla adaeque est atque ubi servit quis servitutem apud opulentum erum;
nam illi quidem lecto malaco malaci obdormiunt,
nec curant quod servo exhibeant negotium.

DRINKING SONG.

COME, old friend ! sit down and listen !
From the pitcher placed between us,
How the waters laugh and glisten
In the head of old Silenus !

Old Silenus, bloated, drunken,
Led by his inebriate Satyrs ;
On his breast his head is sunken ;
Vacantly he leers and chatters.

Fauns with youthful Bacchus follow ;
Ivy crowns that brow supernal
As the forehead of Apollo,
And possessing youth eternal.

Round about him fair Bacchantes,
Bearing cymbals, flutes, and thyrses,
Wild from Naxian groves, or Zante's
Vineyards, sing delirious verses.

ΙΗΣΙ ΣΕΠΤΟΝ ΝΕΙΛΟΣ ΕΤΠΙΟΤΟΝ ΡΕΟΣ.

hospes, sodalem me veterem, vetus, sic stratus audi. quam micat in cado
caelata Sileni per ora Bandusiae liquor et renidet !

pinguem et madentem Capripedes ferunt (ipsi madentes non levius) senem ;
qui, vertice in pectus relapso,
vana crepat vacuumque ridet.

Fauni sequuntur, non sine Libero ;
excelsa cui frons, qualis Apollinis,
vittata lascivis corymbis,
perpetua fruitur iuventa.

circa venustae Bistonides choro, thyrsos ferentes, tympana, tibias, bacchantur ; effusae Zacynthi saltibus, uviferaeque Diae.

Thus he won, through all the nations,
 Bloodless victories, and the farmer
Bore, as trophies and oblations,
 Vines for banners, ploughs for armour.

Judged by no o'er-zealous rigour,
 Much this mystic throng expresses :
Bacchus was the type of vigour,
 And Silenus of excesses.

These are ancient ethnic revels,
 Of a faith long since forsaken :
Now the Satyrs changed to devils
 Frighten mortals wine-o'ertaken.

Now to rivulets from the mountains
 Point the rods of fortune-tellers ;
Youth perpetual dwells in fountains—
 Not in flasks, and casks, and cellars.

Claudius, though he sang of flagons,
 And huge tankards fill'd with Rhenish,
From that fiery blood of dragons
 Never would his own replenish.

sic orbe toto sanguinis inscios egit triumphos ; cultor ubi ferox nec signa traduxit nec arma, vomere palmitibusque onustus.

haec non iniquus si reputaveris,
multum docebit te thiasus sacer ;
monstrante Sileno nocentem luxuriam, Bromioque vires.

mutata cultum saecula pristinum,
et tot furores destituunt diu :
Faunosque iam vino petiti et Furias pariter pavescunt.

potanda monstrat iam radio magus delapsa rivi flumina montibus.
Hebe colit fontes, perosa horreaque et cyathos cadosque.

grandes lagenas Claudius ut canat, quas vitis explet Rhaetica, ne suos cavit coronaret cululos ille cruor calidus draconum.

Even Redi, though he chaunted
 Bacchus in the Tuscan valleys,
 Never drank the wine he vaunted
 In his dithyrambic sallies.

Then with water fill the pitcher,
 Wreath'd about with classic fables ;
 Ne'er Falernian threw a richer Light upon Lucullus' tables.

Come, old friend ! sit down and listen !
 As it passes thus between us,
 How its wavelets laugh and glisten
 In the head of old Silenus !

LONGFELLOW.

AN EPITAPH.

UNDERNEATH this marble herse
 Lies the subject of all verse—
 Sidney's sister, Pembroke's mother :
 Death, ere thou hast slain another,
 Learn'd and fair, and good as she,
 Time shall throw a dart at thee.

BEN JONSON.

 purpureo melius Falerno.

audi, sodalis, sic temere accubans :

 caelata Sileni per ora
 fluctuat ut liquor et renidet !

COME NOT WHEN I AM DEAD.

COME not, when I am dead,
To drop thy foolish tears upon my grave,
To trample round my fallen head,
And vex the unhappy dust thou would'st not save.
There let the wind sweep, and the plover cry ;
But thou, go by.

Child, if it were thine error or thy crime
I care no longer, being all unblest ;
Wed whom thou wilt, but I am sick of time,
And I desire to rest.
Pass on, weak heart, and leave me where I lie :
Go by, go by.

STREW on her roses, roses,
 But never a spray of yew ;
In silence she reposes :
 Ah, would that I did too !

Her mirth the world required,
 She bathed them in smiles and glee ;
But her heart was tired, tired,
 And now they let her be.

Her life was turning, turning,
 In mazes of light and sound ;
But for peace her soul was yearning,
 And now peace laps her round.

Her cabin'd ample spirit
 Flutter'd and fail'd for breath ;
To-night it doth inherit
 The vasty hall of death.

MATTHEW ARNOLD.

FVNGAR INANI MVNERE.

huc adeste, rosae, rosae, puella
est vobis cumulanda ; sed profanae taxi vos procul este ; quam profundum dormit ! o utinam haud secus quiescam !
illa tam lepidaque tamque bella in risusque soluta gaudiumque urbs se posse carere denegabat ;
taedebat sed enim sui puellam,
taedebat ; sinite otio fruatur !
festis scilicet orbibus voluta delicatior ibat, ibat aetas ;
ast inter strepitumque opesque Romae hoc unum omnibus expetebat usque votis ut requiesceret ; quiescit.
arto limite comprimente mundi mens divinior aestuabat illa ;
mox elanguit, et tuam nova heres
nunc amplam, Libitina, crevit aulam.

ISLE OF PALMS.

Oh many are the beauteous isles
Unknown to human eye,
That, sleeping 'mid the ocean's smiles,
 In happy silence lie.
The ship may pass them in the night,
Nor the sailors know what a lovely sight
 Is resting on the main ;
Some wandering ship who hath lost her way,
And never, or by night or day,
Shall pass these isles again.
There, groves that bloom in endless spring
Are rustling to the radiant wing
Of birds, in various plumage bright,
As rainbow hues, or dawning light.
Soft falling showers of blossom fair
Float ever on the fragrant air,
 Like showers of vernal snow ;
And from the fruit-tree, spreading tall,
The richly-ripen'd clusters fall
 Oft as sea-breezes blow.

OH, FORTVNATOS NIMIVM SVA SI BONA NORINT!

amaena, credo, plurima est sita insula, ignota quae mortalibus
cubat beato dormiens silentio, ridentia inter aequora.
praetervehetur nocte forsitan ratis,
nec navitae in mentem venit spectanda rerum forma, quam tenet mare :
cursu vagata devio,
non rursus illa nocte, non die, ratis praetervehetur insulam.
florens perenni vere ibi nemus strepit
pennis coruscis alitum, quibus renidet pluma tot coloribus,
quot arcus aut Eoa lux.
molli cadentes imbre floreae comae (sic vere descendunt nives) auris odoris usque candidae natant :
late minantis arboris
matura poma, flabra cum spirant maris, cadunt racemis aureis.

The sun and clouds alone possess
The joy of all that loveliness ;
And sweetly to each other smile
The live-long day—sun, cloud, and isle.
How silent lies each shelter'd bay !
No other visitors have they
To their shores of silvery sand,
Than the waves that, murmuring in their glee,
All hurrying in a joyful band,
Come dancing from the sea.

WILSON.

A WIDOW BIRD.

A WIDOW bird sat mourning for her love
Upon a wintry bough ;
The freezing wind kept on above—
The freezing stream below.

There was no leaf upon the trees,
No flower upon the ground ;
And little motion in the air,
Save of the mill-wheel's sound.

THE SPANISH GIPSY.

PUSH off the boat,

Quit, quit the shore,

The stars will guide us back :—

O gathering cloud,

O wide, wide sea,

O waves that keep no track !

On through the pines !

The pillar'd woods,

Where silence breathes sweet breath :—

O labyrinth,

O sunless gloom,

The other side of Death !

SAMUEL ALLEN.

THE DAISY.

THEE Winter in the garland wears
That thinly decks his few grey hairs ;
Spring parts the clouds with softest airs,
 That she may sun thee :
Whole summer fields are thine by right ;
And Autumn, melancholy wight !
Doth in thy crimson head delight,
 When rains are on thee.

Be violets in their secret mews
The flowers the wanton zephyrs choose ;
Proud be the rose, with rains and dews
 Her head impearling ;
Thou liv'st with less ambitious aim,
Yet hast not gone without thy fame :
Thou art, indeed, by many a claim,
 The poet's darling.

AT TENVIS NON GLORIA.

TATTA KAMOI ΣΤΝΔΟΚΕΙ.

STAY now thy hand !

Proclaim not man's dominion
Over God's works by strewing rocks and sand
With sea-bird's blood-stained plumes and broken pinion.

Oh stay thy hand !

Spend not thy days of leisure
In scattering death along the peaceful strand
For very wantonness, or pride, or pleasure.

For birds' sake spare !

Leave it in happy motion,
To wheel its easy circles through the air,
Or rest and rock upon the shining ocean.

For man's sake spare !

Leave him this thing of beauty,
To glance and glide before him everywhere,
And throw a gleam on after days of duty.

TIO, TIO, TIO, TIO, TIOTIRE.

iam siste dextram : iam pudeat viros praestare rerum se dominos, data, per saxa, per litus cruentum,
strage avium laceraeque plumae.

iam parce : noli conterere otium funesta marmor per placidum struens tropaea ; lascivae sit artis seu specimen studiumve praedae.

oro per ipsas te volucres : iter radant recurvum per spatia aëris qua fert libido ; seu nitenti oceano fluitare malint.

nec te per ipsos non homines precor :
rem tam venustam sensibus intimis,
dum splendet et gyros decoros
ludit agens, memores reponant.

For God's sake spare !

He notes each sea-bird falling,
And in Creation's groans marks its sad share,
Its dying cry for retribution calling.

Oh stay thy hand !

Cease from this useless slaughter ;
For though kind nature from the rocks and sand Washes the stains each day with briny water ;

Yet on thy hand,

Raised against God's fair creature,
Beware lest there be found a crimson brand
Indelible by any force of Nature.

MORAL IMPROVEMENT.

INFINITE toil would not enable you to sweep away a mist ; but by ascending a little you may often look over it altogether. So it is with our moral improvement. We wrestle fiercely with a vicious habit, which would have no hold upon us if we ascended into a higher moral atmosphere.

et per deorum te iubeo fidem, iam parce : caesae vox volucris deos non fallit, ut poenas iniqua sors meritas Furiasque poscat.

 intendis, atri criminis insidet tantum quod et Neptunus omni aequore non valeat piare.

A MEDITATION.

OH, the praties they are small,
Over there !

Oh, the praties they are small,
Over there !

Oh, the praties they are small,
And they digs them at the fall,
And they ates them—skins and all—
Over there !

Oh, I wish I were a geese,
All forlorn !

Oh, I wish I were a geese,
All forlorn !

Oh, I wish I were a geese,
I would live and die in peace,
And accumulate much grease,
Eating corn.

HASTINGS CROSSLEY.

ORINDA.

Now all these charms, that beauteous grace,
The well-proportion'd shape and beauteous face,
Shall never more be seen by mortal eyes ;
In earth the much-lamented virgin lies.
Nor wit nor piety could Fate prevent,
Nor was the cruel Destiny content
To finish all the murder at a blow, . . .
To sweep at once her life and beauty too,
But, like a harden'd felon, took a pride
To work more mischievously slow,
And plunder'd first and then destroy'd :
A double sacrilege on things divine—
To rob the relic and deface the shrine !
But thus Orinda died ;
Heaven by the same disease did both translate ;
As equal were their souls, so equal was their fate.

ΕΣΤΙ ΔΕ ΚΑΙ ΤΙ ΘΑΝΟΝΤΕΣΣΙ ΜΕΡΟΣ.

iam raptae veneres iam vegetus decor ;
fugit forma decens et facies bona conspectus hominum ; terraque virginem ploratam tumulo tegit.
nec mens nec pietas fata retorserat :
tristis non habuit Parca satis necem maturare semel, non rapuit tibi vitamque et veneres simul.
sed patrare nefas, perditus ut latro, cunctanter cupiit ; furtaque post ruit ultra strage nova ; sacraque numinum laesit plus vice simplici, divellens statuam templaque diruens.
sic Orinda obiit. sustulit, heu, Deus una peste duos. mens similis neque sors his dissimilis fuit.

Meanwhile her warlike brother on the seas
His waving streamers to the winds displays ;
And vows for his return with vain devotion pays.
Ah, generous youth, that wish forbear !
The winds too soon will waft thee here.
Slack all thy sails, and fear to come.
Alas, thou knowest not thou art wreck'd at home.

DRYDEN.

A LEARNED WOMAN.

IN Beauty or Wit
No mortal as yet
To question your empire has dared ;
But men of discerning
Have thought that in learning
To yield to a woman is hard.
Impertinent schools
With dull musty rules
Have reading to females denied ;
So Papists refuse
The Bible to use
Lest flocks should be wise as their guide.

ROBERT V. TYRRELL.

GUINEVERE.

HENCEFORWARD, too, the powers that tend the soul,
To keep it from the death that cannot die,
And save it even in extremes, began
To plague and vex her. Many a time, for hours
Beside the placid breathings of the king,
In the dead night, grim faces came and went
Before her ; or a vague spiritual fear,
Like to some doubtful noise of creaking doors
Heard by the watcher in a haunted house,
That keeps the rust of murder on the walls,
Held her awake ; or, if she slept, she dream'd
An awful dream ; for then she seem'd to stand
On some vast plain, before a setting sun,
And from the sun there swiftly made at her
A ghastly something, and its shadow flew Before it till it touch'd her, and she turned—
When lo ! her own, that broadening from her feet,
And blackening, swallow'd all the land, and in it Far cities burnt—and with a cry she woke.

TENNYSON.

NVNC TE FACTA INPIA TANGVNT.

continuo hinc animas circumvolitantia nostras numina, perpetua morte eruptura cadentes, servatura eadem summo in discrimine lapsas,
reginam vexare minis; quin nocte profunda
dum placidus rex dormit et ad latus ipsa recumbit, horribiles voltus ire atque redire per umbras saepe diuque videt; fugat aut insueta sopores nescio quo vexans formido corda pavore—qualis ubi incertum stridentes cardine valvas nocturnus stupuit custos ubi caede vetusta conspersus paries et inulto sanguine livet, ergo agit excubias illa, aut si forte sopore
lumina declinat, suspensam insomnia terrent:
scilicet inmenso visa est consistere campo,
subter vergentem solem; petere unde misellam de iubare ipso exsangue aliquid pernicibus alis devectum, signansque viam praeeruntibus umbris—ad cuius tactum se vertere, et ipsius umbra ante pedis sese nigrans expandere eundo latior, involvens terras caligine dira;
sub qua magna, nefas, volcano maenia late fervere; dein somnum excussit, voxque excidit ore.

W. R. BARRY.

EUPHELIA AND CLOE.

THE merchant, to secure his treasure,
Conveys it in a borrow'd name :
Euphelia serves to grace my measure,
But Cloe is my real flame.

My softest verse, my darling lyre
Upon Euphelia's toilet lay—
When Cloe noted her desire
That I should sing, that I should play.

My lyre I tune, my voice I raise,
But with my numbers mix my sighs ;
And whilst I sing Euphelia's praise,
I fix my soul on Cloe's eyes.

Fair Cloe blush'd : Euphelia frown'd ;
I sung and gazed ; I play'd and trembled :
And Venus to the Loves around
Remark'd how ill we all dissembled.

AEMILIA ET CHLOE.

fictis, ut sibi sospitet, cautus vector opes sub titulis tegit ;
versus Aemiliam mei
laudant, sed penitus depereo Chloën.

ornanti Aemiliae comas praesto forte chelys, deliciae meae, et carmen lepidum iacet ;
ut iungam fidibus verba rogat Chloë.

hanc sumptam modulor, cano,
sed suspiria cum carmine misceo ;
vox sane Aemiliam sonat,
mens defixa Chloën tota inhiat Chloën.

illa avertitur, haec rubet,
canto ipse, et modulor, contueor, tremo ;
dixit Cypris Amoribus,
' quam non dissimulant quisque suam facem ! '

APOLOGY FOR PLEASURE.

GLAUCOPIS forsakes her own ;
The angry gods forget us ;
But yet the blue streams along Walk the feet of the silver song ;
And the night-bird wakes the moon ;
And the bees in the blushing noon
 Haunt the heart of the old Hymettus ?
We are fallen, but not forlorn,
 If something is left to cherish ;
As Love was the earliest born,
 So Love is the last to perish.
Wreathe then the roses, wreathe !
 The Beautiful still is ours ;
While the stream shall flow, and the sky shall glow,
 The Beautiful still is ours !
Whatever is fair or soft or bright
In the lap of Day or the arms of Night,

SPIRAT ADHVC AMOR.

cedit ab urbe sua—tanta est caelestibus ira—immemor heu ! Pallas cedit ab urbe sua :
at, quae caeruleo praeter pede labitur, unda integrat argenteos iam numerosa choros ;
iam Lunam Philomela ciet ; iam viscera Hymetti sole rubescentis nota frequentat apes.
sternamur licet ; at non spe sternemur adempta,
si quid inextinctum quod foveamus erit :
non nisi primigenus—sic creditur—est Amor ortus,
non nisi supremus—crede—peribit Amor.
nectamus roseas, nectat sibi quisque, corollas ;
sit mihi de Paphiis nexa corolla rosis.
pulcher adhuc nobis nullus non volvitur amnis ;
pulcher adhuc nobis fulget uterque polus :
quidquid habet clari, quidquid tenerique bonique,
seu Nox sive Dies, hic gremio illa sinu,

Whispers our soul of Greece—of Greece—
And hushes our care with a voice of peace.
Wreathe then the roses, wreathe !

They tell me of earlier hours ;
And I hear the heart of my country breathe
From the lips of the strangers' flowers.

BULWER LYTTON.

ON A PINE TREE.

(Planted by the Countess of St. Germans in the Phœnix Park, 1855.)

Poor tree ! a gentle mistress placed thee here,
To be the glory of the glade around ;
Thy life has not survived one fleeting year,
And she too sleeps beneath another mound.

But mark what differing terms your fates allow,
Tho' like the period of your swift decay ;
Thine are the sapless root and wither'd bough ;
Her's the green memory and immortal day.

CARLISLE.

Hellade nos celebrat ; pavidos vox Helladis inde nos mulcet placidas vaticinata vices.
nectamus roseas, nectat sibi quisque, corollas ;
aetatem redolent quae fuit ante rosae :
quippe mihi ex istis—audin' tu ?—floribus, hospes,
afflatur patriae spiritus ipse meae.

SAMUEL ALLEN.

NEFASTO TE POSVIT DIE.

arbor, te miseram posuit manus alma puellae ut nemoris stares gloria magna tui ; sed tibi vita brevem non suppeditavit in annum,
mortua sub tumulo dormit et illa suo.
at brevitate pares quamquam mors abstulit ambas,
impare sunt sortes condicione datae ;
est marcere tuum ramis arentibus, illa
floret in ore virum, floret in Elysio.

T. J. B. BRADY.

TEARS, IDLE TEARS.

TEARS, idle tears, I know not what they mean ;
Tears from the depths of some divine despair
Rise in the heart, and gather to the eyes,
In looking on the happy Autumn fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more.

Ah ! sad and strange as in dark summer dawns
The earliest pipe of half-awaken'd birds
To dying ears, when unto dying eyes
The casement slowly grows a glimmering square ;
So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.

Dear as remember'd kisses after death,
And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feign'd
On lips that are for others ; deep as love,
Deep as first love, and wild with all regret,
Oh ! Death in Life, the days that are no more.

TENNYSON.

QVIS DESIDERIO SIT PVDOR AVT MODVS.

cur fonte guttae cordis ab intimo surgunt inanes—crediderim deos sic flere—dum contemplor, anni pomiferi sata laeta lustrans, fulsere soles qui mihi pristini ?
quam mira, tristis quam morientibus extendit angustas trementi luce dies oculis fenestras aestate prima, sol rediens choros cum semisomnos concitat alitum ;
tam mira, tam tristis latescit
corde dies reditura nunquam.
non tam negatis dulcia quae labris fingunt amantes oscula ; mortuae non illa quae caro puellae ore suae meminere pressa !
non ipse amator tam penitus nova aetate primis uritur ignibus !
quam vivus elapsos, sepulta spe, crucior meminisse soles !

TOWNSEND MILLS.

A VOTE.

THIS only grant me, that my means may lie
Too low for envy, for contempt too high;

Some honour would I have,

Not from great deeds, but good alone:

Th' unknown are better than th' illknown;

Rumour can ope the grave!

Acquaintance I would have, but when 't depends
Not on the number, but the choice, of friends;

Books should, not business, entertain the light;
And sleep, as undisturb'd as death, my night.

My house a cottage more

Than palace, and should fitting be

For all my use, no luxury:

My gardens painted o'er

With Nature's hand, not Art's, should pleasure yield Horace might envy in his Sabine field.

HOC ERAT IN VOTIS.

detur minor res invidia, neque fastidienti tenuia sordeat ;
 sed fama ne desit precanti,
 fama bonis bene parta factis ;
nam nomen amplum deprecor incliti, mallem latenter vivere quam male audire ; rumori sepulcri porta patet stygiaeque fauces !
turbam salutantum atria ne vomant,
commendet at mi quemque fides sua ;
nec luce me rixae forenses sollicitent mediusque Ianus libris vacantem ; grata quies mihi sit nocte, leto sit similis sopor ;
 et munda contingant, nocentes
 nescia suppeditare luxus, tecta apta parco, non laris aemula lauti potentum ; nec sciat addere ars ulla quaesitos honores sponte sua nitidis agellis

Thus would I double my life's fading space ;
For he who runs it well twice runs his race :
And in this true delight,
These unbought sports and happy state,
I would not fear nor wish my fate ;
But boldly say each night,
' To-morrow let my sun his beams display,
Or in clouds hide them ; I have lived to-day.'

COWLEY.

TO A LADY SLEEPING.

THOU sleep'st, soft silken flower ! would I were Sleep,
For ever on those lids my watch to keep !
So should I have thee all my own, nor he Who seals Jove's wakeful eyes my rival be.

C. MERIVALE.

Flacco invidendis. sic geminas datur

HASTINGS CROSSLEY.

On thy cold gray stones, O sea !
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.

O well for the fisherman's boy
That he shouts with his sister at play !
And well for the sailor lad
That he sings in his boat on the bay !

And the stately ships go on
To their haven under the hill ;
But oh for the touch of a vanish'd hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still !

Break, break, break,
At the foot of thy crags, O sea !
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me.

TENNYSON.

WELTSCHMERZ.

dum glaucas gelidis cautes mare verberat undis,
cur quae mens agitet lingua referre negat?
felix heu ! nimium parvus piscator harena quocum ludit ovans consociata soror :
tuque, puer, felix nimium, cui litora cantus
curva sinus reddunt, dum vada lintre secas !
non humilem cessat portum ratis alta subire :
cessat nota manus, vox et amata silet.
frangantur scopulis undae: non temporis acti bis tenerum florem carpere fata sinunt.

THE EPICURE.

METHINKS I am batten'd well of late, grown lusty,
Fat, high, and kicking—thanks to the bounteous Rugio ;

And now, methinks, I scorn these poor repasts,
Cheese-parings and the stinking tongues of pilchers :
But why should I remember these ? they are odious,
They are odious in my eyes : the full fat dish now,
The bearing dish is that I reverence,
The dish an able serving man sweats under,
And bends i' th' hams, as if the house hung on him;
The state of a fat turkey, the decorum
He marches in with, all the train and circumstance—

'Tis such a matter, such a glorious matter !
And then his sauce with oranges and onions,
And he displayed in all parts ! for such a dish now,
And at my need I would betray my father,
And for a roasted conger all my country.

EPICVRI DE GREGE PORCVS.

iamdudum mihi curato bene pinguis, opinor, crescit aqualiculus, crescent fastidia, naso
omnia suspendo ; tanti est tua gratia nobis, Virro, lautorum lautissime : nunc ego certe
vilia contemno convivia pauperiorum, et lardi fragmenta et mucida frusta siluri ; quid tamen haec meminisse iuvat ? surgit mihi bilis
atra recordanti : mensas nunc inter onustas mazonomum veneror quo non spatiösior alter ;
scilicet hunc portans contento poplite sudat,
sustineat veluti tota atria, magnus agaso.
quinetiam magni nasum (mihi crede) supinor altilis introitu ; quanto molimine, quanta luxuria ingreditur, magna comitante caterva !
quali iure natat malis et caepe superba !
quam iacet et toto spectacula corpore praebet !
quam mihi si obtuleris pretium, et latraverit alvus,
proditor exstarem cari genitoris, et idem,
si modo contigerint assi mihi praemia congra,
laxarem Romae metuendis claustra Britannis !

ON THE FOREGOING DIVINE POEMS.

WHEN we for age could neither read, nor write,
The subject made us able to indite :
The soul, with nobler resolutions deckt,
The body stooping, does herself erect :
No mortal parts are requisite to raise
Her, who unbody'd, can her Maker praise.

The seas are quiet, when the winds give o'er :
So, calm are we, when passions are no more !
For then we know how vain it was to boast
Of fleeting things, so certain to be lost.
Clouds of affection from our younger eyes
Conceal that emptiness which age descries.

The soul's dark cottage, batter'd and decay'd,
Lets in new light through chinks that time has made.
Stronger by weakness, wiser men become,
As they draw near to their eternal home.
Leaving the old, both worlds at once they view,
That stand upon the threshold of the new.

AVREA DICTA.

cum nec p^rae senio legere aut plus scribere possim,
ut dictare queam studium et res p^raestitit ipsa.
corpore curvato, tum demum accincta animae vis consilium ad melius, sursum sese ardua tollit ;
nec corpus mortale opus est quo se levet, expers
corporis ipsa potens laudes celebrare Parentis.
aequor uti placidum vento cessante quiescit,
sic nobis quoque mens, animi cum concidit aestus ;
rescit enim rebus quam prave gaudeat illis quae fluitant, quas sors non evitabilis aufert :
id iuvenem fallit quod nube cupidinis acta cernit iam senior, quantum insit rebus inane.
ut tenebrosa domus quassata aevoque vieta per rimas lumen iam plenius accipit intro, sic macie validus, macie sapientior idem fit vir quo propius sub finem venerit aevi ;
resque deumque hominumque simul, tellure reicta,
conspicit ingrediens insuetum limen Olympi.

JOHN F. DAVIES.

TO A PENSIVE FRIEND.

WHY, why repine, my pensive friend,
At pleasures slipt away ?
Some the stern Fates will never lend,
And all refuse to stay.

I see the rainbow in the sky,
The dew upon the grass ;
I see them, and I ask not why
They glimmer or they pass.

With folded arms I linger not
To call them back ; 'twere vain :
In this or in some other spot,
I know, they'll shine again.

OSWALD.

THE mountain-ash

Deck'd with autumnal berries, that outshine
Spring's richest blossoms, yields a splendid show
Amid the leafy woods : and ye have seen
By a brook-side or solitary tarn
How she her station doth adorn ; the pool
Glows at her feet, and all the gloomy rocks
Are brighten'd round her. In his native vale
Such and so glorious did this youth appear ;
A sight that kindled pleasure in all hearts
By his ingenuous beauty, by the gleam
Of his fair eyes, by his capacious brow,
By all the graces with which Nature's hand
Had plenteously array'd him. As old bards
Tell in their idle song of wandering gods,
Pan or Apollo, veil'd in human form,
Yet, like the sweet-breath'd violet of the vale,

SONG.

WHEN Zephyr waves his balmy wings,
To kiss the sweets of May :
When the soft melodies of spring
Resound from every spray ;
With thee, sweet maid, I'll rove along,
And tread the morning dews,
To hear the wood-lark's early song,
Or court the laughing Muse.

JOHN F. DAVIES.

AUBURN.

SWEET smiling village, loveliest of the lawn,
Thy sports are fled, and all thy charms withdrawn :
Amidst thy bowers the tyrant's hand is seen,
And desolation saddens all thy green :
One only master grasps the whole domain,
And half a tillage scants thy smiling plain :
No more thy glassy brook reflects the day
But choked with sedges works its weedy way :
Along thy glades, a solitary guest,
The hollow-sounding bittern guards its nest :
Amidst thy desert walks the lapwing flies,
And tires their echoes with unvarying cries :
Sunk are thy bowers in shapeless ruin all,
And the long grass o'ertops the mouldering wall ;
And, trembling, shrinking from the spoiler's hand,
Far, far away thy children leave the land.
Ill fares the land to threatening ills a prey,
Whose wealth accumulates, and men decay ;
Princes and lords may flourish or may fade,
A breath can make them, as a breath has made ;
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed can never be supplied.

GOLDSMITH.

SQVALENT ABDVCTIS ARVA COLONIS.

page placens, quo non ridebat amaenior alter,
et ludi et veneres praeteriere tuae;
per nemora et saltus domini violentia saevit,
et lugubre viret depopulatus ager.
possidet omne solum pulsis cultoribus unus,
arvaque defraudat dimidiata seges.
iam vitreus soles iterat non amplius amnis,
obsitus ille ulvis ire laborat iter.
ardea rauca canens circumvolat hospita saltus
unica, dum nidos protegit ipse suos;
non nisi triste sonat defessi montis imago
avia dum resonas voce, vanelle, tua.
strata iacent miseris umbracula laeta ruinis;
herba putri muro luxuriosa viget;
et tua raptorem fugiens tremebunda propago
exilio mutant arva aliena suis.
heu! terra infelix! properis, heu! debita fatis,
cui cumulantur opes degenerantque viri!
vel stent vel pereant reges regumque ministri; (aura illos potuit gignere, et aura potest)
sed genus acre virum, patriae sed gloria pubes rustica, si pereat non revocanda perit.

THE BRAES OF YARROW.

THY braes were bonny, Yarrow stream,
When first on them I met my lover ;
Thy braes, how dreary, Yarrow stream,
When now thy waves his body cover !
For ever now, O Yarrow stream,
Thou art to me a stream of sorrow ;
For never on thy banks shall I
Behold my love, the pride of Yarrow.

He promised me a milk-white steed
To bear me to his father's bowers ;
He promised me a little page
To squire me to his father's towers ;
He promised me a wedding ring,
The wedding day was fixed to-morrow ;
Now he is wedded to his grave,
Alas ! his watery grave in Yarrow.

ECLOGA HODIERNA.

praedulces inter ripas tunc, Hebre, fluebas,
cum iuveni comitem me novus egit amor ;
sed nimium squalet mihi nunc tua ripa, venustum
post tua quam iuvenem condidit unda meum.
usque mihi reliquos tu triste meabis in annos, Hebre, nec infaustum deseret omen aquas ;
nam neque in adspectum ripis venit amplius istis,
nec veniet, patriae flos tener ille tuae.
' munus,' ait, ' mittam niveo candore caballum ;
sic vectam soceri limen adire decet ;
vernulaque accedet cultu et spectabilis aevo,
deducetque mei patris adusque fores.
tortile erit pignus certi tibi foederis aurum ;
iuraque coniugii cras dabit orta dies.'
dixit : at exceptum subito sibi nympha maritum vindicat, et liquido nunc tenet, Hebre, toro.

Sweet were his words when last we met ;
My passion I as freely told him ;
Clasp'd in his arms I little thought
That I should never more behold him.
Scarce was he gone, I saw his ghost ;
It vanish'd with a shriek of sorrow ;
Thrice did the water-wraith ascend,
And gave a doleful groan through Yarrow.

His mother from the window looked
With all the longing of a mother ;
His little sister weeping walked
The greenwood path to meet her brother.
They sought him east, they sought him west,
They sought him all the forest thorough ;
They only saw the cloud of night,
They only heard the roar of Yarrow.

No longer from thy window look,
Thou hast no son, thou tender mother ;
No longer walk, thou lovely maid,
Alas ! thou hast no more a brother ;
No longer seek him east or west,
And search no more the forest thorough,
For, wandering in the night so dark,
He fell a lifeless corpse in Yarrow.

summum illud, memini, convenimus : acrius arsit ;
urere me flammam sum quoque fassa parem ;
nec minimum, lentis teneor dum laeta lacertis,
mens verita est posthac ut foret ille redux.
vix abiit : solique apparet amantis imago, continuoque ululans flebilis umbra fugit ;
deinde instar nebulae fluvii deus ipse resurgens
ter maesto per aquas ingemis, Hebre, sono.
sollicita e patulis spectat matercula clathris,
utque solent matrum corda timere timet :
parva nemus, flenti propior, germana petebat,
obvius in viridi si foret ille via.
tum vero occasum versus, tum solis ad ortum lustrantes saltus avia quaeque petunt ;
sola tamen visa est caligo noctis, ad aures
sola venit fera vox quam, pater Hebre, dabas.
non opus est patulis te prospectare fenestris,
iam neque enim natum tu, pia mater, habes :
neve petas nemoris, virgo formosa, recessus,
non etenim posthac frater ut ante redit.
iam neque in occasum nec quaerite solis in ortum lustrando saltus avia quaeque, viri ;
nempe sub incerta dum nocte errabat, in undis
decidit, atque animam reddidit, Hebre, tibi.

The tear shall never leave my cheek,
 No other youth shall be my marrow ;
I'll seek thy body in the stream,
 And then with thee I'll sleep in Yarrow !
The tear did never leave her cheek :
 No other youth became her marrow ;
She found his body in the stream,
 And now with him she sleeps in Yarrow.

THE BIRD'S RELEASE.

Go forth, for she is gone !
With the golden light of her wavy hair,
She is gone to the fields of the viewless air :
She hath left her dwelling lone !

Go forth, and like her be free !
With thy radiant wing and thy glancing eye,
Thou hast all the range of the sunny sky :
And what is our grief to thee ?

Is it aught even to her we mourn ?
Doth she look on the tears by her kindred shed ?
Doth she rest with the flowers o'er her gentle head,
Or float on the light wind borne ?

We know not—but she is gone !
Her step from the dance, her voice from the song,
And the smile of her eye from the festal throng—
She hath left her dwelling lone !

RICHARD H. COLLINS.

MAY.

LED by the jocund train of vernal hours,
And vernal air, uprose the gentle May :
Blushing she rose ; and blushing rose the flowers
That sprang spontaneous in her genial ray.
Her locks with heaven's ambrosial dews were bright,
And amorous Zephyrs flutter'd on her breast ;
With every shifting gleam of morning light
The colours shifted of her rainbow vest.
Imperial ensigns graced her smiling form :
A golden key, and golden wand she bore :
This charms to peace each sullen eastern storm,
And that unlocks the summer's copious store.
Onward in conscious majesty she came,
The grateful honours of mankind to taste ;
To gather fairest wreaths of future fame,
And blend fresh triumphs with her glories past.

FLORA.

mitis Flora venit, vernis cum flatibus horae antevolant verna, laeta caterva, deam ;
surgentib[us] subit ora rubor, surgentibus idem
floribus, iniussos luce quot alma ciet, ambrosio crines respersi rore micabant,
alludit teneros aura proterva sinus ;
quotque vices mutant orientis lumina solis,
iride lucidior tot tunica illa refert.
regia ridentem decorabant signa figuram,
aurea clavis inest, aurea virga, manu ;
hac pacare ferus si quando saeviat Eurus,
illa aestatis opes mox reserare parat ;
incedit memores hominum ut delibet honores,
scilicet imperii conscia diva sibi ;
carpat uti famae pulcherrima serta futurae,
utque novus veteri consocietur honor.

NE SVTOR SVPRA CREPIDAM.

WHEN some brisk youth, the tenant of a stall,
Employs a pen less pointed than his awl,
Leaves his snug shop, forsakes his store of shoes,
St. Crispin quits, and cobbles for the muse.
Heavens ! how the vulgar stare ! how crowds applaud !
How ladies read, and literati laud !
If chance some wicked wag should pass his jest,
'Tis sheer ill-nature—don't the world know best ?
Genius must guide when wits admire the rhyme,
And Capel Lofft declares 'tis quite sublime.
Hear, then, ye happy sons of needless trade !
Swains, quit the plough, resign the useless spade ;
Lo, Burns and Bloomfield, nay, a greater far,
Gifford was born beneath an adverse star,
Forsook the labours of a servile state,
Stemm'd the rude storm, and triumph'd over fate.

ΕΡΔΟΙ ΤΙΣ ΉΝ ΕΚΑΣΤΟΣ ΕΙΔΕΙΗ ΤΕΧΝΗΝ.

impiger en ! iuvenis, cerdo prius, exsilit omni abieco instrumento artis clausaque taberna ;
et genium spernens infabre facta Camaenis

constupet extemplo vulgus, plauditque beato, scripta legunt matronae, extollunt laude periti ;
et si forte iocum tentaverit improbus olim,
'aerugo mera,' vulgus ait, ' me iudice vincit,
quid quaeris ? ' nempe, urbanis mirantibus, ipsam Pallada crediderim stulto aspirasse poetae, pollice quem Bavius recitantem laudet utroque.
quare agite, artifices, vana vos arte relicta,
et vos, agricolae, spreta cum vomere marra,
scribite ! quid ? raucus Codrus, Lucilius, ipso ... cum Flacco, Dis iratis duroque sub astro ...
nati, serviles non destituere labores,
fatis restantes tempestatique malorum ?

Then why no more ? if Phœbus smiled on you,
Bloomfield, why not on brother Nathan too ?
Him too the mania, not the muse, has seized ;
Not inspiration, but a mind diseased :
And now no boor can seek his last abode,
No common be enclosed, without an ode.

BYRON.

SONG.

THE rose, that in the springtide ventures forth
To woo the Zephyr with her crimson smiles
And odorous wiles,
Too often chances on the cruel North :
For every kiss of his cold lips
With poisonous blight her beauty nips,
Till one by one, with downcast head,
She weeps away her petals red,
And with the last bereft of life and light
Sighs forth her passionate soul on the dark lap of night.

CORONACH.

HE is gone on the mountain,
 He is lost to the forest,
Like a summer-dried fountain,
 When our need was the sorest.
The font re-appearing
 From the rain-drops shall borrow,
But to us comes no cheering,
 To Duncan no morrow !

The hand of the reaper
 Takes the ears that are hoary,
But the voice of the weeper
 Wails manhood in glory.
The autumn winds, rushing,
 Waft the leaves that are severest,
But our flower was in flushing
 When blighting was nearest !

Fleet foot on the correi,
 Sage counsel in cumber,
Red hand in the foray,
 How sound is thy slumber !
Like the dew on the mountain,
 Like the foam on the river,
Like the bubble on the fountain,
 Thou art gone, and for ever !

SAMUEL ALLEN.

THE ANCIENT MARINER.

THE fair breeze blew, the white foam flew,
The furrow follow'd free,
We were the first that ever burst
Into that silent sea.

Down dropt the breeze, the sails dropt down,
'Twas sad as sad could be;
And we did speak only to break
The silence of the sea.

All in a hot and copper sky
The bloody sun at noon
Right up above the mast did stand,
No bigger than the moon.

Day after day, day after day,
We stuck, nor breath nor motion,
As idle as a painted ship
Upon a painted ocean.

HORRESCO REFERENS.

crebrescunt venti: canens respergitur unda,
insequitur limes latus sulcante carina,
audaces tacitum primi violavimus aequor.
en ventus cecidit, ceciderunt vela soluta,
ne tu quaere metus—verbis quis vincere possit?
tantum ne regerent tam vasta silentia pontum fugit ab ore sonus; rutila ferrugine caelum fervet; sol medio malum supereminet aestu ipse maligna rubens nec maior imagine lunae.
tarda dies, et quaeque dies haerentibus ibat
tardior, haud ullo vento fluctuve movente, picta ratis veluti si pictis pendeat undis.

Water, water, everywhere,
And all the boards did shrink ;
Water, water, everywhere,
Nor any drop to drink.

The very deep did rot : O Christ,
That ever this should be !
Yea, slimy things with legs did crawl
Upon the slimy sea.

About, about, in reel and rout,
The death-fires danced at night ;
The water, like a witch's oils,
Burnt green, and blue, and white.

COLERIDGE.

'I NVNC, EDERE ME IVBE LIBELLOS.'

A LITERARY lady once asked Dr. Johnson for his candid opinion on a recent work of hers, adding that, if it did not meet his approbation, she had other irons in the fire; whereon the great critic, with grim humour, advised her to put the book where her other irons were.

AMONG THE FLOWERS.

SHE took my flowers with simple grace,
And then I breath'd the truth she knew ;
No flush, the while, was on her face ;
I ceased, and she was silent, too.
At length she speaks, with heaving breast,
Of duty owed to adverse powers ;
She hints at feelings long suppress'd,
And hides her face among the flowers.

Blest garland ! fleeting years have sped ;
Your bliss is past ; your bloom is o'er ;
Fades, too, this cheek, this bosom dead,
These lips that sue and sigh no more ;
Lives, lives relentless Fate alone ;
Still Hope is born in leafy bowers,
But when the blushing buds have blown,
Still finds her grave among the flowers.

‘ vota parum facili debita nostra deo,’ et vix fassa premi veteres sub pectore curas, contegit obductis ora puella rosis.

VANITY OF VANITIES, SAITH THE PREACHER.

FAME, wisdom, love, and power were mine,
And health and youth possess'd me ;
My goblets blush'd from every vine,
And lovely forms caress'd me ;
I sunn'd my heart in beauty's eyes,
And felt my soul grow tender ;
All earth can give or mortal prize,
Was mine of regal splendour.

I strive to number o'er what days
Remembrance can discover,
Which all that life or earth displays
Would lure me to live over.
There rose no day, there roll'd no hour
Of pleasure unembitter'd ;
And not a trapping deck'd my power !
That gall'd not while it glitter'd.

All nature laughs, the groves are fresh and fair,
 The sun's mild lustre warms the vital air ;
 If Sylvia smile, new glories gild the shore,
 And vanquish'd nature seems to charm no more.

STREPHON.

In spring the fields, in autumn hills I love,
 At morn the plains, at noon the shady grove ;
 But Delia always ; absent from her sight,
 Nor plains at morn, nor groves at noon delight.

DAPHNIS.

Sylvia 's like autumn ripe, yet mild as May,
 More bright than noon, yet fresh as early day :
 E'en spring displeases, when she shines not here,
 But, bless'd with her, 'tis spring throughout the year.

DAPHNIS.

Idaliae lucos proles colit alma Diones,
 flava Ceres Hyblam, Cynthum Latonia virgo ;
 haec nostrae placeant formosae prata puellae,
 his pratis cedent Cynthi iuga, cedet et Hybla.

STREPHON.

omnia iam lugent ; iam fletu solvitur aër ;
 conticuere et aves ; cessant se pandere flores :
 Delia si ridet, cito se flos explicat, aër
 incipit effulgere, et aves renovare canorem.

DAPHNIS.

omnia iam rident ; lucus viret et nitet herba ;
 vitales auras modico Sol temperat aestu :
 Silvia si ridet, decorat venus altera campos ;
 victa iacet, nec iam natura habet ipsa lepores.

STREPHON.

Vere ager, Auctumno ventosa cacumina montis,
 mane placent campi, mediisque ardoribus antrum :
 Delia grata aderit semper ; sin absit, acerbus et campus mane est, mediisque ardoribus antrum.

DAPHNIS.

Maius habet flores, Auctumnus poma, calores
 Sol medius, roremque recens lux orta tenellum :
 Silvia habet pulchri quodcunque est ; displicet ipsum
 Ver si quando abeat ; redeat, reddit assiduum Ver.

STREPHON.

Say, Daphnis, say, in what glad soil appears
A wondrous tree that sacred monarchs bears :
Tell me but this, and I'll disclaim the prize,
And give the conquest to thy Sylvia's eyes.

DAPHNIS.

Nay, tell me first, in what more happy fields
The thistle springs, to which the lily yields :
And then a nobler prize I will resign,
For Sylvia, charming Sylvia, shall be thine.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS.

WHEN the Devil was sick in bed
 The Devil a monk would be ;
But when the Devil was well again
 The devil a monk was he.

STREPHON.

dic quae sit tellus tam laeta ut, Daphni, timendos
mira ferat reges ramis felicibus arbor ;
hoc modo si doceas agnum tibi cedimus ultro,
eximiaeque feret primas tua Silvia formae.

DAPHNIS.

immo age dic ubi sit tanto felicius arvum
ut tribulos pariat quales non lilia vincant :
dic, tibi enim longe pulcherrima praemia cedam :
virgineumque decus te Silvia nostra sequetur.

ROBERT V. TYRRELL.

THE SAILOR BOY.

HE rose at dawn, and, fired with hope,
Shot o'er the seething harbour bar,
And reach'd the ship and caught the rope,
And whistled to the morning star.
And, while he whistled long and loud,
He heard a fierce mermaiden cry,
'O boy, tho' thou art young and proud,
I see the place where thou wilt lie.
The sands and yeasty surges mix
In caves about the dreary bay,
And on thy ribs the limpet sticks,
And in thy heart the scrawl shall play.'
'Fool,' he answer'd, 'death is sure
To those that stay and those that roam;
But I will never more endure
To sit with empty hands at home.'

MANET OCEANVS CIRCVMVAGVS.

Nereis horrendis vaticinata modis,
‘a ! miser,’ exclamat, ‘tibi cor iuvenile superbit,

mista ubi ferventi spumat harena sale ;
mitulus, heu miserum ! costis obscaenus inhaeret,

My mother clings about my neck,
 My sisters crying "Stay, for shame!"
My father raves of death and wreck—
 They are all to blame ! they are all to blame !
God help me ! save I take my part
 Of danger on the roaring sea,
A devil rises in my heart,
 Far worse than any death to me.'

NURSERY RHYME.

THERE were two birds sat on a stone,
 Fa la la la lal de :
One flew away, and then there was one,
 Fa la la la lal de :
The other flew after, and then there was none,
 Fa la la la lal de :
And so the poor stone was left all alone,
 Fa la la la lal de.

NIGHT'S HARMONIES.

As the moon's soft splendour
O'er the faint pale starlight of heaven
Is thrown,
So thy voice most tender
To the strings without soul has given
Its own.
The stars will awaken
Though the moon sleep a full hour later
To night;
No leaf will be shaken
While the dews of your melody scatter Delight.
Though the sound overpowers,
Sing again; with your dear voice revealing
A tone
Of some world far from our's,
Where music and moonlight and feeling
Are one!

astra tamen solitis ignibus orta trement,
nullaque frons usquam spirante movebitur aura

JOHN VERSCHOYLE.

A SMALL SWEET IDYLL.

COME down, O maid, from yonder mountain height;
What pleasure lives in height (the shepherd sang):
In height and cold, the splendour of the hills?
But cease to move so near the Heavens, and cease
To glide a sunbeam by the blasted Pine—
To sit a star upon the sparkling spire;
And come, for Love is of the valley, come!
For Love is of the valley, come thou down
And find him: by the happy threshold he,
Or hand in hand with Plenty in the maize,
Or red with spirited purple of the vats,
Or foxlike in the vine; nor cares to walk
With Death and Morning on the silver horns;
Nor wilt thou snare him in the white ravine,
Nor find him dropt upon the firths of ice,
That huddling slant in furrow-cloven falls
To roll the torrent out of dusky doors:

CANTANDO RIGIDAM DEDVCIT MONTE PVELLAM.

quin ades huc, virgo, quin deseris ardua montis ?
(incipit upilio) ; quid enim te summa morantem frigora delectant tantum, candorque iugorum ?
desine cunctari caelo vicinior, exstas seu delapsa velut pinus iubar inter obustas, vertice seu stellae ritu subnixa corusco.
tolle moras ; invade viam ; si quaeris Amorem,
incola vallis Amor ; fert laeta ad limina gressum,
vel divae iunctus dextrae ditantis aristas
it comes, elisove rubescit sanguine prelis, vel sub vite latet ceu vulpes. nulla per albas
mortis et Aurorae sequitur vestigia cautes ;
non tibi in anfractu niveo captandus agenti,
aequora non sidit supra glacialia, sulcis concretum trudunt quae per declivia pondus certatim, ut luteis effundant faucibus amnem.

But follow ; let the torrent dance thee down
To find him in the valley. Let the wild Lean-headed Eagles yelp alone, and leave
The monstrous ledges there to slope, and spill
Their thousand wreaths of dangling water-smoke,
That like a broken purpose waste in air :
So waste not thou ; but come, for all the vales
Await thee : azure pillars of the earth
Arise to thee : the children call, and I
Thy shepherd pipe, and sweet is every sound ;
Sweeter thy voice, but every sound is sweet :
Myriads of rivulets hurrying through the lawn,
The moan of doves in immemorial elms,
And murmuring of innumerable bees.

WILLIAM MOORE MORGAN.

IN A GARDEN.

WHY, Damon, with the forward day
Dost thou thy little spot survey,
From tree to tree with doubtful cheer
Pursue the progress of the year,
What winds arise, what rains descend—
When thou before that year shalt end ?

What do thy noon-tide walks avail,
To clear the leaf, and pick the snail,
Then wantonly to death decree
An insect usefuller than thee ?
Thou and the worm are brother kind,
As low, as earthy, and as blind.

Vain wretch ! canst thou expect to see
The downy peach make court to thee ?
Or that thy sense shall ever meet
The bean-flower's deep enbosom'd sweet Exhaling with an evening blast ?
Thy evenings then will all be past.

THE GOOD GREAT MAN.

' How seldom, friend, a good great man inherits
Honour and wealth, with all his work and pains !
It seems a story from the world of spirits
When any man obtains that which he merits,
 Or any merits that which he obtains.'
For shame, my friend, renounce this idle strain !
What would'st thou have a good great man obtain ?
Wealth, title, dignity, a golden chain,
Or heaps of corses which his sword had slain ?
Goodness and greatness are not means, but ends.
Hath he not always treasures, always friends,
The good great man ? Three treasures—love, and light,
And calm thoughts, equable as infant's breath ;
And three fast friends, more sure than day or night—
 Himself, his Maker, and the angel Death.

GERAINT.

AND in a moment after, wild Limours,
Borne on a black horse, like a thunder cloud,
Whose skirts are loosened by the breaking storm,
Half ridden off with by the thing he rode,
And all in passion, uttering a dry shriek,
Dashed on Geraint, who closed with him, and bore
Down by the length of lance and arm beyond
The crupper, and so left him stunned or dead ;
And overthrew the next that followed him,
And blindly rushed on all the rout behind.
But at the flash and motion of the man
They vanished, panic-stricken, like a shoal
Of darting fish, that on a summer morn
Adown the crystal dykes of Camelot
Come slipping o'er their shadows on the sand ;
But if a man who stands upon the brink
But lift a shining hand against the sun,

THE GAIN OF LOSS.

' COME, give me back my blossoms,' Sigh'd the palm-tree to the Nile ;
But the river flow'd unheeding
With its soft and silver smile.
It seem'd to say, ' 'Tis better far
To leave your flowers to me ;
I will bear their yellow beauty on
To the wond'ring, wond'ring sea.'
The amber tresses vanish'd,
And the dear spring fragrance fled ;
But the welcome fruit in clusters
Came richly up instead.

THE GOLDEN YEAR.

THE world's great age begins anew,
 The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
 Her winter weeds outworn :
Heaven smiles, and faiths and empires gleam
Like wrecks of a dissolving dream.

A brighter Hellas rears its mountains
 From waves serener far ;
A new Peneus rolls its fountains
 Against the morning star.
Where fairer Tempes bloom, there sleep
Young Cyclads on a sunnier deep.

A loftier Argo cleaves the main,
 Fraught with a later prize ;
Another Orpheus sings again,
 And loves, and weeps, and dies.
A new Ulysses leaves once more Calypso for his native shore.

COMUS. PROLOGUE.

BUT their way

Lies through the perplex'd paths of this drear wood,
The nodding horror of whose shady brows
Threats the forlorn and wandering passenger ;
And here their tender age might suffer peril,
But that by quick command from sovereign Jove,
I was despatch'd for their defence and guard :
And listen why, for I will tell you now,
What never yet was heard in tale or song,
From old or modern bard, in hall or bower.

Bacchus, that first from out the purple grape
Crush'd the sweet poison of misused wine,
After the Tuscan mariners transform'd,
Coasting the Tyrrhene shore, as the wind listed,
On Circe's island fell : who knows not Circe,
The daughter of the Sun ? whose charmed cup
Whoever tasted lost his upright shape,
And downward fell into a groveling swine.

This nymph, that gazed upon his clustering locks,
With ivy berries wreathed, and his blithe youth,
Had by him, ere he parted thence, a son,
Much like his father, but his mother more,
Whom therefore she brought up, and Comus named :

Who, ripe and frolic of his full-grown age,
Roving the Celtic and Iberian fields,
At last betakes him to this ominous wood,
And, in thick shelter of black shades embowered,
Excels his mother at her mighty art,
Offering to every weary traveller,
His orient liquor in a crystal glass,
To quench the drouth of Phoebus : which as they

(For most do taste through fond intemperate thirst)
Soon as the potion works, their human countenance,
The express resemblance of the gods, is changed
Into some brutish form, of wolf, or bear,
Or ounce, or tiger, hog, or bearded goat,
All other parts remaining as they were ;
And they, so perfect is their misery,
Not once perceive their foul disfigurement,
But boast themselves more comely than before,
And all their friends and native home forget,

To roll with pleasure in a sensual sty.
Therefore, when any, favour'd of high Jove,
Chances to pass through this adventurous glade,
Swift, as the sparkle of a glancing star,
I shoot from Heaven, to give him safe convoy,
As now I do : but first I must put off
These my sky robes, spun out of Iris' woof,
And take the weeds and likeness of a swain,
That to the service of this house belongs,
Who, with his soft pipe, and smooth-dittied song,
Well knows to still the wild woods when they roar,
And hush the waving woods ; nor of less faith :
And in this office of his mountain watch,
Likeliest and nearest, to the present aid
Of this occasion. But I hear the tread
Of hateful steps ; I must be viewless now.

VLTOR ADEST.

WHICH when his ladie saw, she follow'd fast,
And on him catching hold 'gan loud to crie,
Not so to leave her, or away to cast,
But rather of his hand besought to die.
With that he drew his sword all wrathfully,
And at one stroke cropp'd off her head with scorne,
In that same place wherat it now doth lie.
So he my love away with him hath borne,
And left me here both his and mine own love to mourn.

'Aread,' quoth he, 'which way then did he make?
And by what marks may he be known again?'
'To hope,' said he, 'him soon to overtake,
That hence so long departed, is but in vain;
But yet he prickéd over yonder plain,
And, as I mark'd him, bore upon his shield
(By which it's easy him to know again)
A broken sword within a bloody field,
Expressing well his nature who the same did yield.'

LES TRAVAILLEURS DE LA MER.

No fish astir in our heaving net,
The sky is dark and the night is wet,
And we must ply the lusty oar,
For the tide is ebbing from the shore.
And sad are they whose faggots burn,
So kindly stored for our return.
Our boat is small, and the tempest raves ;
And nought is heard but the lashing waves,
And the sullen roar of the angry sea,
And the wild winds piping drearily :
Yet sea and tempest rise in vain,
We'll bless our blazing hearths again.
Push bravely, mates ; our guiding star
Now from its turret streameth far :
And now along the nearing strand
See swiftly move yon flaming brand :
Before the midnight hour is past,
We'll quaff our bowl and mock the blast.

WHY slumbers Gifford? once was ask'd in vain.
Why slumbers Gifford? let us ask again.
Are there no follies for his pen to purge?
Are there no fools whose backs demand the scourge?
Are there no sins for Satire's bard to greet?
Stalks not gigantic vice in every street?
Shall peers or princes tread pollution's path,
And 'scape alike the law's and Muse's wrath?
Nor blaze with guilty glare through future time,
Eternal beacons of consummate crime?
Arouse thee, Gifford! be thy promise claim'd,
Make bad men better, or at least ashamed!

THE THREE SAILORS.

[Version taken from the Preface to O. W. HOLMES' ‘Wit and Humour.’]

THERE were three sailors, of Bristol city,

Who took a boat and went to sea ;

But first with beef and captain's biscuit

And pickled pork, they loaded she.

There was guzzling Jack and gorging Jimmy,

And the youngest he was little Billee.

Now very soon they were so greedy,

They did not leave not one split pea.

Says guzzling Jack to gorging Jimmy,

‘ I am confounded hungery.’

Says gorging Jim to guzzling Jacky,

‘ We have no wittles, so we must eat we.’

Says guzzling Jack to gorging Jimmy,

‘ O gorging Jim, what a fool you be !

There's little Bill, as is young and tender :

We're old and tough ; so lets eat he.’

O Bill, we're going to kill and eat you :
So undo the collar of your chemee.
When Bill he heard this infamation,
He used his pocket handkerchee :
' O let me say my catechism,
As my poor mammy taught it me ! '
' Make, haste, make haste,' says guzzling Jacky,
While Jim pull'd out his snickersnee.
So Bill went up the maintop gallant mast,
Where down he fell on his bended knee :
He scarce had said his catechism,
When up he jumps, ' There's land I see ! '
There's Jerusalem and Madagascar,
And North and South Ameriky.
There's the British fleet a-riding at anchor,
And Admiral Nelson, K.C.B.
So when they came to the Admiral's vessel,
He first hanged Jack, then flogg'd Jimmy :
But as for little Bill, he made him
The captain of a seventy-three.

THE WORLD.

THE world's a bubble, and the life of man
 Less than a span ;
In his conception wretched, from the womb,
 So to the tomb ;
Curst from his cradle, and brought up to years,
 With cares and fears ;
Who, then, to frail mortality shall trust,
But limns on water or but writes in dust.

Yet whilst with sorrow here we live oppress'd,
 What life is best ?
Courts are but only superficial schools
 To dandle fools ;
The rural part is turn'd into a den
 Of savage men ;
And where's a city from foul vice so free
But may be term'd the worst of all the three ?

HEV, HEV, NOS MISEROS, QVAM TOTVS HOMVNCIO NIL EST!

omnia bullatae quam sunt sine pondere nugae !
quam nihili angustae properata diecula vitae !
materie miser a prima, miser editus alvo,
funus obire miser miserum cito pergit homullus.
a cunis agit omne infaustus et iratis dis
aerumna gravis in mediis terroribus aevum.
ergo si quis avet mortalia credulus, unda exprimit effigiem, scribitque in pulvere nomen.
dum tamen hic aegri in tanto maeoro moramur optima quaenam sit vitae via forte requiras ?
stultitiae numquid nisi porticus aula tyranni,
vecordum nutrix, vera ratione carentum ?
rura rudes habitant, inculti, pectora bruta ;
orbe pererrato terrarum ubi viseris urbem
vincere quam vitiis non rus fatearis et aulam ?

Domestic cares afflict the husband's bed,
Or pains his head :
Those that live single take it for a curse,
Or do things worse :
These would have children ; those that have them moan,
Or wish them gone :
What is it, then, to have or have no wife,
But single thraldom or a double strife ?

Our own affections still at home to please
Is a disease ;
To cross the seas to any foreign soil,
Peril and toil ;
Wars with their noise affright us ; when they cease,
We're worse in peace :
What, then, remains, but that we still should cry
For being born, and, being born, to die ?

ON SHAKSPEARE.

WHAT needs my Shakspeare, for his honoured bones,
The labour of an age, in piled stones ?
Or that his hallowed reliques should be hid
Under a star-ypointing pyramid ?
Dear son of Memory, great heir of Fame,
What need'st thou such weak witness of thy name ?
Thou, in our wonder and astonishment,
Hast built thyself a livelong monument.
For whilst, to the shame of slow endeavouring art,
Thy easy numbers flow ; and that each heart
Hath, from the leaves of thy unvalued book,
Those Delphic lines with deep impression took ;
Then thou, our fancy of itself bereaving,
Dost make us marble with too much conceiving ;
And, so sepulchred, in such pomp dost lie,
That kings, for such a tomb, would wish to die.

dum stupet adspectans cantus miracula lector
exigis ipse tibi marmor quod duret in aevum.
nam tibi, quo pudeat pigram conaminis artem, dum faciles numeri manant, sensusque per omnes
dum tuus insculpit liber aureus undique nostrae menti sortilegumque et non deleibile carmen, surripis ingenio vires, nimiumque ciendo

immanique adeo cumulatus honore quiescis ut mutare velint reges ea funera vita.

JOHN F. DAVIES.

THE BACHELOR'S DREAM.

My pipe is lit ; my grog is mix'd :
 My curtain's drawn, and all is snug.
Old Puss is in her elbow-chair,
 And Tray is sitting on the rug.
Last night I had a curious dream,
 Miss Susan Bates was Mistress Mogg :
What do you think of that, my cat ?
 What do you think of that, my dog ?

She looked so fair, she sang so well,
 I could but woo, and she was won.
Myself in blue, the bride in white,
 The ring was placed, the deed was done.
Away we went in chaise-and four,
 As fast as grinning boys could flog :
What do you think of that, my cat ?
 What do you think of that, my dog ?

SOMNIVM CAELIBIS.

herba ardet fragrans, cepit cratera Lyaeum,
praebet ridentem clausa fenestra larem.
iam felis propriam requiescit nacta cathedram,
et Glaucis, quanta est, sternitur ante focum.
praeterita Rufo sopito nocte Metellam nubere portendit prodigiosa quies.
talia dic, felis, moneant quid somnia, tuque,
dic, catula, et quo sint conicienda modo !
bella fuit facies : belle cantabat : amavi :
quid facerem ? atque dedit rara puella manus.
virgo albata venit, mihi vestis caerulea fulget,
anulus et sacrum rite coronat opus.
ponimur in reda pueris ridentibus : ‘ heia ’ !
virga crepat, rapidis avehimurque rotis.
talia dic, felis, moneant quid somnia, tuque,
dic, catula, et quo sint conicienda modo !

What loving tête-à-têtes to come !
But tête-à-têtes must still defer !
When Susan came to live with me,
Her mother came to live with her ;
With sister Belle she couldn't part :
But all my ties had leave to jog.
What do you think of that, my cat ?
What do you think of that, my dog ?

Her mother brought a pretty Poll,
A monkey, too : what work he made !
Her sister introduced a beau ;
My Susan had a favourite maid.
She had a tabby of her own,
A snappish mongrel christen'd Gog :
What do you think of that, my cat ?
What do you think of that, my dog ?

The monkey bit, the parrot scream'd ;
All day the sister strumm'd and sung :
The petted maid was such a scold,
My Susan learned to use her tongue.
Her mother had such wretched health
She sat and croaked like any frog :
What do you think of that, my cat ?
What do you think of that, my dog ?

qualia cum sola finxi mihi gaudia soli !
gaudia quis faciunt fata maligna moram.
nam secum ad Rifi deducta Metella Penates adduxit matrem, filia grata, suam.
addidit huic Annam non divellenda sororem,
sed parvi duxit me caruisse meis.
vos o concilium fidum, felisque canisque,
dicite, quid monstrent somnia mira novi !
cur te, rauce, queror comitari, psittace, socrum ?
simia vastabat, pestis alenda, domum.
sectari nitidus visus mihi Trossulus Annam, visaque mi dominae Latris adesse sua.
non suus aelurus, catulus non defuit illi,
cui nomen Titan, hybrida, dente minax.
o canis et felis, Rifi vos este senatus,
res nova defertur ; quid sibi visa volunt ?
simia dum mordet, dum clamas, psittace, Musas
dum colit aversas voce lyraque soror, voce furit Latris, dominae dulcissima rerum,
ipsaque fit lingua prompta Metella sua.
perpetuo tardos odiosa loquacula morbos
voce malae ranae questa sedebat anus.
talia dic, felis, moneant quid somnia, tuque
dic, catula, et quo sint conoscienda modo !

No longer ‘deary,’ ‘duck,’ and ‘dove,’

I soon came down to simple M. ;

The very servants cross’d my wish ;

My Susan let me down to them.

The poker hardly seem’d my own :

I might as well have been a log.

What do you think of that, my cat ?

What do you think of that, my dog ?

My clothes they were the queerest shape ;

Such coats and hats she never met :

My ways they were the oddest ways !

My friends were such a vulgar set !

Poor Tomkinson was snubb’d and huff’d ;

She could not bear that Mister Blogg :

What do you think of that, my cat ?

What do you think of that, my dog ?

At times we had a spar, and then

Mamma must mingle in the song :

The sister took a sister’s part ;

The maid declared her master wrong.

The parrot learn’d to call me ‘fool !’

My life was like a London fog :

What do you think of that, my cat ?

What do you think of that, my dog ?

dulcia nomina anas, mea vita, columba silentur :
littera nunc Rufo est ista canina satis.
mox famulis ipsis, facinus miserabile, coram obloquitur fracto saeva puella viro.
iamque super foculo componere ligna timebam,
nec potui stipes vilior esse domi.
talia dic, felis, moneant quid somnia, tuque
dic, catula, et quo sint conicienda modo !
saepe querebatur de prava veste mariti ;
risus erant petasi, nec placuere togae :
saepe viro mores, saepe exprobrabat amicos,
dedignata ortos inferiore loco.
insperata bono fecit convicia Balbo :
‘ an tolerandus ’ ait ‘ Ponticus iste mihi ! ’
talia dic, felis, moneant quid somnia, tuque
dic, catula, et quo sint conicienda modo !
cum vero altercamur, init certamina mater,
et partem pugnae vindicat ipsa sibi.
cara soror carae succurrit voce sorori :
condemnatque reum non proba Latris herum.
‘ stulte ! salutabat me psittacus ore perito,
visaque mi nebulis tristior ire dies.
talia dic, felis, moneant quid somnia, tuque
dic, catula, et quo sint conicienda modo !

My Susan's taste was superfine,
As proved by bills that had no end.
I never had a decent coat :
I never had a coin to spend.
She forced me to resign my club,
Lay down my pipe, retrench my grog.
What do you think of that, my cat ?
What do you think of that, my dog ?
Each Sunday night we gave a rout
To fops and flirts—a pretty list ;
And when I tried to steal away,
I found my study full of whist.
Then, first to come and last to go,
There always was a Captain Hogg :
What do you think of that, my cat ?
What do you think of that, my dog ?
Now, was not that an awful dream,
For one who single is and snug ;
With Pussy in her elbow-chair,
And Tray reposing on the rug ?
If I must totter down the hill,
'Tis safest done without a clog :
What do you think of that, my cat ?
What do you think of that, my dog ?

uxorem minime esse rudem docuere libelli argenti expensi, sed sine fine, virum.
sordidus ipse foris frustra spatiabar in urbe,
asse uno, si quid forte placeret, egens.
non me passa frui sociorum est improba coetu,
non refici calamo, non caluisse mero.
heu ! heu ! spectati, felisque canisque, sodales,
dicite, quid Rofi somnia dira canant !
turba die festo pueri nitidaeque puellae complebant totam luxuriosa domum.
quaque latere volo sonat alea iacta recessu,

ante omnes Verres, nisi nomine fallor, adesse, Verres post omnes visus abire domo.
ei mihi ! quo spectant, felis, mea somnia dira ?
quo, catula, et quo sunt conienda modo ?

hoc melius : nonne huc spectant mea somnia, felis ?
sic coniecta tibi nonne, catella, placent ?

THE SHORTNESS OF LIFE.

OUR life is carried with too strong a tide ;
A doubtful cloud our substance bears,
And is the horse of all our years :
Each day doth on a winged whirlwind ride ;
We and our glass run out, and must
Both render up our dust.

But his past life who without grief can see,
Who never thinks his end too near,
But says to Fame, ‘ Thou art my heir,’
That man extends life’s natural brevity :
This is, this is the only way
To outlive Nestor in a day.

THE BRIDE IS DEAD.

THE bride is dead ! the bride is dead !
 Cold and fair and frail she lieth ;
Wrapt is she in sullen lead ;
And a flower is at her head ;
 And the breeze above her sigheth,
Through the night and through the day,
‘ Fled away ! fled away ! ’

Once—but what can that avail ?—
 Once she wore within her bosom
Pity which did never fail ;
A hue that dash’d the lily pale ;
 And upon her cheek a blossom
Such as yet was never known :—
All is past and overthrown !

Mourn ! the sweetest bride is dead ;
 And her knight is sick with sorrow
That her bloom is lapp’d in lead ;
Yet he hopeth, fancy fed,
 He may kiss his love to-morrow.
But the breezes—what say they ?
‘ Fled away ! fled away ! ’

IDLENESS.

IDLENESS is a stream which flows slowly on, but yet undermines the foundation of every virtue. A vice of a more lively nature were a more desirable tyrant than this rust of the mind, which gives a tincture of its nature to every action of one's life. It were as little hazard to be lost in a storm as to lie thus perpetually becalmed: and it is to no purpose to have within us the seeds of a thousand good qualities, if we want the vigour and resolution necessary for exerting them. Death brings all persons back to an equality; and this image of it, this slumber of the mind, leaves no difference between the meanest intellect and the greatest genius. A faculty for doing things remarkably praiseworthy, thus concealed, is of no more use to the owner than a heap of gold to the man who dares not use it. To-morrow is still the fatal time when all is to be rectified: to-morrow comes; it goes, and still I please myself with the shadow while I lose the reality, unmindful that the present time alone is ours, the future is yet unborn, and the past is dead. The time we live ought not to be computed by the number of years, but by the use that has been made of it. Thus it is not the extent of ground, but the yearly rent which gives the value to the estate. Wretched and thoughtless creatures! In the only place where covetousness were a virtue, we turn prodigals.

AN AUTUMN LOVE-SONG.

THE frail flowers are dying,
The thistledown flying,
 Summer is past !
The first leaves that wither
Roam hither and thither
 With the treacherous blast ;
And away to dark ruin he will ravish at last
Their green mates from the bough,
 Where they sigh and tremble now.

The surges are shatter'd,
The tough ragweed tatter'd,
 By the gusts of the gale ;
O'er lowland and highland,
And round the green island,
 A wanderer pale Strays the sunshine ; the moor seethes with whispers of wail,
As its reed-grasses quake,
 And serely shudders the brake.

AD LYDEN.

hic illic rapidis turbinibus leves pappos spargit, et abripit frondes queis viduat perfidus arbores.

rara luget adhuc coma cum lugente nemus ; mox et honoribus his raptis Dryades gement.
pulsis spuma maris pumicibus fremit,

algas dilacerat Notus
lentas ; vix radiis sol iuga, pallidus
erro, vixque cubantia tangit rura, virens qua patet insula ;

murmur quassat arundines,
et per tesqua vagus maeror inhorruit.
flores, nil moror, aridi et maestas iterent aequora naenias ;

The leaves and the surges
May chant their wild dirges,
 The pale flowers pine.
My heart at their voices
More hugely rejoices ;
 One draught of Love's wine
Unwinters the earth ! thou art mine, thou art mine !
 Let the wind have its will
 And rave : I glow in its chill !

Thy kisses, warm clinging,
My heart have set singing ;
 Autumn's at bay !
One rose blooms unmarr'd in My yew-cloistered garden—
 I'll pluck it to-day,
And bid it go die in thy bosom, and say,
 With its passionate breath,
 ‘Love greets thee—victor o'er death !’

JOHN TODHUNTER.

evoe ! corde salit meo sanguis, sola hiemis solvere vinculis terram sola potes, Venus.
ventus nunc igitur saeviat ; ut meam
mentem recreet, hoc tuum est;
Flaccum namque tuis muneribus beas.
autumnnum procul arceo cum Lyde calidis concitat osculis exultantia pectora.
inter floret adhuc unica funebres
taxos sera vigil rosa ;
hanc decerpam hodie, marceat ut meae
in Lydes tenero sinu, exspiransque animam dicat amabilem,
' hoc esto indicio tibi
ipsa posse magis morte Cupidinem.'

JOHN O. HYDE.

OENONE.

‘ O THOU hollow ship, that bearest
Paris o’er the faithless deep,
Would’st thou leave him on some island
Where alone the waters weep !
Where no human foot is moulded
In the wet and yellow sand—
Leave him there, thou hollow vessel,
Leave him on that lonely land !
Then his heart will surely soften,
When his foolish hopes decay,
And his older love rekindle
As the new one dies away.
Visionary hills will haunt him,
Rising from the glassy sea,
And his thoughts will wander homeward Unto Ida and to me !’

SVSTINET OENONEN DESERVISSE PARIS.

‘ navis, Priamidem per freta quae volas nobis abripiens perfida perfidum, qua solum mare plangit,
illum desere in insula !

illum linque, precor, navis, inhospita terra ; linque, precor, nullus ubi virum pes signarit arenas
flavas, fluctibus uidas !

tum corda incipient ferrea flectier, spes postquam fatuae deciderint ; amor
antiquus revirescet, cum defloruerit novus.

illi conscientia mens finget imagines
surgentum vitreo marmore montium ;
Idae mox vaga colles
Oenonenque petet suam.’

Thus lamented fair Oenone,
Weeping ever, weeping low,
On the holy mount of Ida,
Where the pine and cypress grow.
In the self-same hour Cassandra
Shrieked her prophecy of woe,
And into the Spartan dwelling
Did the faithless Paris go.

AYTOUN.

WHAT MATTER ?

We sat on the steps, for the evening was warm ;
The scent of the hay-field crept up from the farm ;
We spoke very softly—and as to his arm—
It was just Cousin Jack—and so what was the harm ?
We were quite in the dark, save the fire-flies' swarm ;
A bird whirring out from the hedge broke the charm ;
He bent, as I started in foolish alarm,
And —— 'twas only old Jack, and so where was the harm ?

ELEANOR PUTMAN.

Oenone teneris talia questibus flebat, perpetuis questibus, in sacra pinus quaque cupressus
Ida consociant nemus :

ast illo tonuit praescia cladium Cassandrae fera vox tempore : perfidus illo tecta subibat
Spartanae Paris hospitae.

T. J. B. BRADY.

APOSIOPESIS.

nos ambo cepit fugientes porticus aestum ;
suave recens messos rus redolebat agros ;
voce loquebamur submissa ; bracchia—sed quis
sobrinis Paphiam credat inesse facem ?
nox erat, interdum lucens lampyridis igni ;
excita dat pennis sepe columba sonum ;
terrata subsedi ; caput hic admoverat ;—at quis sobrinis ullam credat inesse facem ?

ROBERT V. TYRRELL.

THE MEETING OF THE WATERS.

THERE is not in the wide world a valley so sweet,
As that vale in whose bosom the bright waters
meet ;

Oh ! the last rays of feeling and life must depart,
Ere the bloom of that valley shall fade from my heart !

Yet it was not that Nature had shed o'er the scene
Her purest of crystal and brightest of green ;
'Twas not the soft magic of streamlet or hill,
Oh ! no—it was something more exquisite still.

'Twas that friends, the beloved of my bosom, were near,
Who made ev'ry dear scene of enchantment more
dear ;
And who felt how the best charms of nature improve,
When we see them reflected from looks that we love.

AVOCA.

illa convales mihi praeter omnes vallis arridet, gremio micantes quae fovet rivos. mihi vel suprema fugerit ipsi
aura vitalis, gelidisque venis repserit sanguis tenuis, priusquam illius vallis memori exularit corde venustas ;
non quod ornassent nemus omne Nymphae
vitrea lympha viridique ripa, monsque cum rivo decus addidisset
molle viretis :
suavius quoddam mihi amaeniores
fecit has umbras ; aderant amati queis magis risit tua pulchritudo, dulcis Avoca,

Sweet vale of Avoca ! how calm could I rest
In thy bosom of shade, with the friends I love best,
Where the storms that we feel in this cold world should cease,
And our hearts, like thy waters, be mingled in peace.

MOORE.

CONSTANCY.

By your truth she shall be true,
Ever true, as wives of yore :
And her ‘ Yes ’ once said to you Shall be ‘ Yes ’ for evermore.

E. B. BROWNING.

quod mihi risit simul. oh, libenter hoc sinu grato placidus foverer cum pio coetu comitum Catullus pace repostus.
tum ferae longe fugient procellae
quae brevem vitam lacerant, et, amnes ceu tibi, nobis sociata tandem corda quiescent !

JOHN MURRAY.

'CONCORDIA FATA DVORVM.'

illa quidem coniunx fido tibi fida manebit, laudatur qualis Penelopea fides ;
cumque in verba semel iuraverit illa mariti
vox ea perpetui pignus amoris erit.

T. J. B. BRADY.

GO UP AND WATCH THE NEW-BORN RILL.

Go up and watch the new-born rill
Just trickling from its mossy bed,
Streaking the heath-clad hill
With a bright emerald thread.

Canst thou her bold career fortell,
What rocks she shall o'erleap or rend,
How far in Ocean's swell
Her freshening billows send?

Perchance that little brook shall flow
The bulwark of some mighty realm,
Bear navies to and fro,
With monarchs at their helm.

Or canst thou guess, how far away
Some sister nymph, beside her urn
Reclining night and day,
'Mid reeds and mountain-fern,

Nurses her store with thine to blend
When many a moor and glen are past,
Then in the wide sea end
Their spotless lives at last?

FVTVRI TEMPORIS EXITVS.

spectes petita fontis origine,
destillet herba rivos ut uvida, montisque depingat genistas purpurei viridante filo.

narrare cursus num potes arduos?
quae saxa rumpat? quae saliat super?
salsumve mutarit salubri
quatenus oceanum fluento?

fors in remotis praevalidi fluet munimen oris rivulus imperi, portabit huc illuc triremes,
rege manu moderante clavum.

num scis locorum Nais ubi altera
aequalis urnam caeruleam prope
noctuque procumbens dieque, subter arundineas latebras,

opes aquosas condat, ut, avios emensa cursus, amne sororio commista, mox reddat marinis hausta fretis animam innocentem?

T. J. B. BRADY.

OH, WHO WOULD NOT REST WITH THE BRAVE ?

YES, let me like a soldier fall
Upon some open plain,
This breast expanding for the ball,
To blot out every stain !
Brave manly hearts confer my doom,
That gentler ones may tell,
Howe'er forgot, unknown my tomb,
I like a soldier fell.

I only ask of that proud race
Which ends its blaze in me,
To die the last and not disgrace
Its ancient chivalry.
Though o'er my clay no banner wave,
Nor trumpet requiem swell,
Enough, they murmur o'er my grave—
‘ He like a soldier fell ! ’

E. FITZBALL.

SPECTANDVS IN CERTAMINE MARTIO.

sit mihi, qua vacuo se pandunt aequore campi,
ut decet armiferum non sine laude mori !
sic capiam laetus nudato pectore vulnus,
sic scelerum purus vindice morte cadam !
quid si longa meum subeant oblia bustum,
exitium referent fortia corda mihi :
et tenerae dicent submissa voce puellae—‘ quo decet armiferos more perire perit ! ’
quid si magnanimae peream spes ultima gentis ?
quid si tota domus me pereunte ruat ?
felix sorte mea moriar si gloria patrum
non erit exitio dedecorata meo.
quamvis nulla meum decorent vexilla sepulcrum,
nulla licet tristes det tuba rauca sonos—
intumulata satis mihi si super ossa susurrent, ‘ quo decet armiferos more perire perit ! ’

EDWARD SULLIVAN.

LADY CLARA VERE DE VERE.

LADY Clara Vere de Vere,
 Of me you shall not win renown :
You thought to break a country heart
 For pastime, ere you went to town.
At me you smiled, but unbeguiled
 I saw the snare, and I retired :
The daughter of a hundred earls,
 You are not one to be desired.

Lady Clara Vere de Vere,
 I know you proud to bear your name,
Your pride is yet no mate for mine,
 Too proud to care from whence I came.
Nor would I break, for your sweet sake,
 A heart that doats on truer charms,
A simple maiden in her flower
 Is worth a hundred coats of arms.

FASTVS INEST PVLCHRIS.

Iulia, non de me spoliis laudabere raptis ;
Iulia, clarorum nomine clara patrum :
ruricolam ludens voluisti occidere telis
Cypridis, urbanos mox aditura procos.
ast ego perspexi vultus mendacia blandi,
et reduci vito retia tensa gradu.
sit genus a centum priscis tibi regibus ortum,
est mulier nulli talis amanda viro.
Iulia, sublimi tumeant tua pectora fastu, nomina dum iactas eximiumque genus ;
sed magis elatos animos ego, Iulia, iacto,
cui genus haudquaquam referat unde traham.
non moriar, fueris quia tu crudelis amanti ;
nempe magis digno pectus amore calet.
stemma tibi placeat, centumque insignia gentis ;
me tenero simplex flore puella iuvat.

Lady Clara Vere de Vere,
Some meeker pupil you must find,
For were you queen of all that is,
I could not stoop to such a mind.
You sought to prove how I could love,
And my disdain is my reply.
The lion on your old stone gates
Is not more cold to you than I.

Lady Clara Vere de Vere,
You put strange memories in my head.
Not thrice your branching limes have blown
Since I beheld young Lawrence dead.
Oh ! your sweet eyes, your low replies :
A great enchantress you may be ;
But there was that across his throat
Which you had hardly cared to see.

Lady Clara Vere de Vere,
When thus he met his mother's view,
She had the passions of her kind,
She spake some certain truths of you.
Indeed I heard one bitter word
That scarce is fit for you to hear ;
Her manners had not that repose
Which stamps the caste of Vere de Vere.

Iulia, discipuli tibi sunt aliunde petendi,
qui facili leges mente subire velint ;
nam licet Aethiopes, tibi pareat ultima Thule, sperneret indignum mens mea ferre iugum,
quae caeca voluisti accendere pectora flamma,
hoc audi : ‘talis nunc mihi sordet amor’ ;
nil moveor durus ; non limina servat avita pectore marmoreo durior iste leo.
heu ! me conturbas, crudelis, imagine dira,
quae iactas gentis nomina clara tuae :
nondum, ex quo iuvenem vidi Corydona peremptum,
ramosae tiliae ter tibi flore virent.
ah ! dulces oculi tibi sunt, blandique susurri,
atque ars Circaeа quae magis arte valet ;
signa tamen iugulo nonnulla impressa ferebat,
mente parum laeta conspicienda tibi.

WILLIAM H. KELLY.

Iulia, celsa domus cui sanguine fulget Iüli,
sic positum iuvenem matris ad ora ferunt.
femina, si quaeris, nec voci iraeque pepercit,
nec timuit meritis te violasse probris.
una etiam incautae vox excidit aspera linguae,
auribus illa quidem vix satis apta tuis ;
non tegere affectus poterat nec fingere vultum,
sicut in Aeneae nata puella domo.

Lady Clara Vere de Vere,
There stands a spectre in your hall :
The guilt of blood is at your door :
 You changed a wholesome heart to gall.
You held your course without remorse,
 To make him trust his modest worth :
At last you fix'd a vacant stare,
 And slew him with your noble birth.

Lady Clara Vere de Vere,
From yon blue heavens above us bent
The grand old gardener and his wife
 Smile at the claim of long descent.
Howe'er it be, it seems to me
 'Tis only noble to be good.
Kind hearts are more than coronets,
 And simple faith than Norman blood.

I know you, Clara Vere de Vere,
You pine among your halls and towers :
The languid light of your proud eyes
 Is weary of the rolling hours.
In glowing health, with boundless wealth,
 But sickening of a vague disease,
You know so ill to deal with time,
 Your needs must play such pranks as these.

Iulia, celsa domus cui sanguine fulget Iüli,
incestat patrios umbra nefanda Lares.
quod sanum pectus vitio mutaveris, ultrix
assidua pulsat limina Poena manu.
te non paenituit vana spe ludere amantem,
non ‘meritis’ timido dicere ‘fide tuis,’ frigora mox duri plorat despectus ocelli, et nimia occisus nobilitate perit.

Iulia, celsa domus cui sanguine fulget Iüli,
scilicet aetheria despicit arce deûm
Deucalion, lapides vacuum qui iecit in orbem ;
Deucalion magnos ridet et uxor avos.
solus enim, dicant alii quaecunque, videtur ingenuus, cui sit mens generosa, mihi.
effigie potiora patris bona pectora, sordet
nobile prae fida simplicitate genus.
te (bene enim novi), Teucrorum clara propago,
sollicitam misere turris et aula tenent.
languidiore tibi iam lumine fulget ocellus,
et quereris longum tardius ire diem.
scilicet ignota marcescis tabe peresa,
dum solidae vires, dum cumulantur opes ;
cogeris immitem sic ludere, Iulia, ludum,
fallere cessantes non bene docta dies.

Clara, Clara Vere de Vere,
If time be heavy on your hands,
Are there no beggars at your gate,
Nor any poor about your lands ?
Oh ! teach the orphan-boy to read,
Or teach the orphan-girl to sew,
Pray Heaven for a human heart,
And let the foolish yeoman go.

TENNYSON.

SMILES AND TEARS.

You ask me, wondering, why I sing,
And why my lips in laughter part ;
The ripples of my mirth all spring
From the deep sorrow at my heart.
A smile is easier than the tear
That serves to keep sad memories green,
And always through what was I hear
The echoes of what might have been.

Iulia, celsa domus cui sanguine fulget Iüli,
 si nimium lenta labitur hora fuga, respice mendicos ad limina, respice num sit squalidus in patriis unus et alter agris.
 cura sit orbatae dare lanea pensa puellae,
 discat et orbatus reddere verba puer,
 posce deos humana tibi dent corda, colatque
 rura miser, stulto liber amore, puer.

JOHN DICKIE.

ΔΑΚΡΥΟΕΝ ΓΕΛΑΣΑΣΑ.

tu ne quaesieris sociem cur carmina chordis,
 et risus circum cur mea labra volet,
 ortum qui simulans ipso de flore leporum
 ex imo penitus fonte doloris habet.
 triste quidem risus, sed lacrima tristior aegri vulnera cum cordis scissa coire negant ;
 id neque adest menti fuerat quod amarius olim ;
 quod, si venisset, dulce fuisset, adest.

ROBERT Y. TYRRELL.

LIFE'S FITFUL FEVER.

SHE had left all on earth for him—

 Her home of wealth, her name of pride ;
And now his lamp of love was dim,
 And, sad to tell, she had not died.

She watched the crimson sun's decline

 From some lone rock that fronts the sea—
‘ I would, O burning heart of mine,
 There was an ocean-rest for thee.

‘ The thoughtful moon awaits her turn,
 The stars compose their choral crown,
But those soft lights can never burn
 Till once the fiery sun is down.’

LORD HOUGHTON.

MORTE BEATORUM.

nobilitate domus florens et laude pudoris omnia perdiderat posthabuitque viro ;
iamque viro marcebat amor, nec fata puellae
heu ! miserae dederant occubuisse prius.
e scopulo solo solum qui prospicit aequor purpureum vidit praecipitare iubar ;
· ah ! ubi flammato dabitur requiescere cordi,’ dixit, ‘ut Hesperiis sol requiescit aquis ?
sidera gemmantes nectunt sociata chores,
consciaque expectat Luna subire vices ;
mitibus at nunquam datur his splendescere flammis
dempserit igniferis dum iuga Phoebus equis.’

Lydes hic posita es manu tenella, ut ruri decus addereris, annus

quae te severat annus abstulisse

laus vernal nova, luxque noctis expers :
o factum bene ! io beata Lyde !

SHERIFF MUIR.

They've lost some gallant gentlemen
 Among the Highland clans, man;
 I fear my Lord Panmure is slain
 Or fallen in Whiggish hands, man.
 Now wad ye sing this double fight,
 Some fell for wrong and some for right,
 But mony bade the world good night.
 Then ye may tell how pell and mell,
 By red claymores and muskets' knell,
 Wi' dying yell the Tories fell,
 And Whigs to Hell did flee, man.

EUTHANASIA.

Come, lovely and soothing Death,
Undulate round the world, serenely arriving,
arriving,
In the day, in the night, to all, to each,
Sooner or later, delicate Death.

Praised be the fathomless universe,
For life and joy, and for objects and knowledge curious ;
And for love, sweet love—But praise ! praise !
praise !
For the sure-enwinding arms of cool-enfolding
Death.

Dark Mother, always gliding near, with soft feet,
Have none chanted for thee a chant of fullest welcome ?
Then I chant it for thee—I glorify thee above all ;

Ω ΓΛΥΚΤΣ ΑΙΔΑΣ, ΕΤΝΑΣΟΝ Μ' ΕΤΝΑΣΟΝ.

ὦ Μοῖρα φίλη, μεῖλιγμα κακῶν,

I bring thee a song that when thou must indeed come, come unfalteringly.

Approach strong Deliveress !
When it is so—when thou hast taken them, I joyously sing the dead,
Lost in the loving, floating ocean of thee,
Laved in the flood of thy bliss, O Death.

Who scream'd so that no one could hush her ;
 Her screams were extreme,
 You ne'er heard such a scream
As was scream'd by this lady of Russia.

DEATH'S FINAL CONQUEST.

The glories of our blood and state
Are shadows, not substantial things ;
There is no armour against fate :
Death lays his icy hands on kings :
Sceptre and crown
Must tumble down,
And in the dust be equal made
With the poor crooked scythe and spade.

Some men with swords may reap the field,
And plant fresh laurels where they kill ;
But their strong nerves at last must yield ;
They tame but one another still.
Early or late
They stoop to fate,
And must give up their murmuring breath,
When they, pale captives, creep to death.

The garlands wither on your brow,
 Then boast no more your mighty deeds :
 Upon death's purple altar now
 See where the victor victim bleeds :
 Your heads must come
 To the cold tomb :
 Only the actions of the just Smell sweet, and blossom in the dust.

SHIRLEY.

BLEAK DECEMBER.

When hungry fowl go roosting soon,
 And nightly shines the crystal moon
 O'er silent rills,
 And icy winds their bugles blow,
 And crisping sheet the powdery snow
 Out o'er the hills ;
 Then merrily, merrily trim the fire,
 Merrily troll about the bowl,
 And merrily sing to your hearts' desire ;
 For to solace the winter lack There's nothing so good as song and sack ;
 So merrily, merrily trim the fire.

DRINKING SONG OF THE CAVALIERS.

Ho ! fill me a flagon as deep as you please ;
Ho ! pledge me the health we all quaff on our knees ;
And the knave who refuses to drink till he fall,
Why, the hangman shall crop him, ears, lovelocks,
and all.
Then a halter we'll string,
And the rebels shall swing,
For the gallants of England are up for the king.

Ho ! fling me my beaver, and toss me the glove,
That but yesterday clung to the hand of my love ;
To be bound on my crest, to be borne in the van,
And the rebel that reaps it must fight like a man.
For the sabre shall swing,
And the head-pieces ring,
When the gallants of England are up for the king !

My name is Caius Marcius, who hath done
To thee particularly, and to all the Volsces, Great hurt and mischief; thereto witness may
My surname, Coriolanus; the painful service,
The extreme dangers, and the drops of blood
Shed for my thankless country, are requited
But with that surname; a good memory,
And witness of the malice and displeasure
Which thou shouldst bear me; only that name remains;

The cruelty and envy of the people,
Permitted by our dastard nobles, who
Have all forsook me, hath devour'd the rest;
And suffer'd me by the voice of slaves to be Whoop'd out of Rome. Now, this extremity
Hath brought me to thy hearth; not out of hope, Mistake me not, to save my life; for if I had fear'd death, of all men i' the world
I would have 'voided thee; but in mere spite
To be full quit of these my banishers.

SHAKESPEARE.

ΦΙΛΕΙ ΤΙΚΤΕΙΝ ΤΒΡΙΣ.

LYCIDAS.

Yet once more, O ye laurels ! and once more,
Ye myrtles brown, with ivy never sere,
I come to pluck your berries, harsh and crude,
And with forced fingers rude
Shatter your leaves before the mellowing year.
Bitter constraint, and sad occasion dear,
Compels me to disturb your season due ;
For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime,
Young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer :
Who would not sing for Lycidas ? He knew
Himself to sing, and build the lofty rhyme.

He must not float upon his watery bier
Unwept, and welter to the parching wind
Without the meed of some melodious tear.
Begin then, sisters of the sacred well,
That from beneath the seat of Jove doth spring ;
Begin, and somewhat loudly sweep the string.
Hence with denial vain and coy excuse,
So may some gentle muse
With lucky words favour my destined urn,
And, as he passes, turn
And bid fair peace be to my sable shroud.

HOLY GRAIL.

There rose a hill that none but man could climb,
Scarr'd with a hundred wintry watercourses—
Storm at the top, and when we gained it, storm
Round us and death ; for every moment glanced
His silver arms and gloom'd : so quick and thick
The lightnings here and there to left and right
Struck, till the dry old trunks about us, dead,
Yea, rotten with a hundred years of death,
Sprang into fire : and at the base we found
On either hand, as far as eye could see,
A great black swamp and of an evil smell,
Part black, part whiten'd with the bones of men,
Not to be crost, save that some ancient king
Had built a way, where, link'd with many a bridge,
A thousand piers ran into the great Sea.

ΑΕΘΛΟΣ ΑΑΑΤΟΣ.

EDWARD GWYNN.

ON THE DEATH OF COL. BURNABY IN THE SOUDAN.

Yes ! slain like Hector, smitten in the throat,
Where lights the speediest death from foeman's hand,

Low lies brave Burnaby. On that burnt strand
Haply some swarthy warrior well did note
With fell intent, even as the fierce Phthiot,
Where best to plant in him the deathful brand,
Madden'd with blood upsteaming from the sand
Of kinsmen whom the giant guardsman smote,
And still was smiting. Sped the savage shaft,
And his sword dropp'd ; and from his towering height,

Reeling, he fell. Beneath the unquiet sun
A huge dead man lay quiet. And the fight
Went on around him : gone his knightly craft
Clean out of mind, and all his riding done.

CHORIAMBICS.

Love, what ail'd thee, to leave life that was made lovely, we thought, with love ?

What sweet visions of sleep lured thee away, down from the light above ?

What strange faces of dreams, voices that call'd,
hands that were raised to wave,

Lured or led thee, alas, out of the sun, down to the sunless grave ?

Ah, thy luminous eyes ! once was their light fed with the fire of day ;

Now their shadowy lids cover them close, hush them and hide away.

Ah, thy snow-colour'd hands ! once were they chains,
mighty to bind me fast ;

Now no blood in them burns, mindless of love,
senseless of passion past.

Ah, thy beautiful hair ! so was it once braided for me, for me ;

Now for death it is crown'd, only for death, lover and lord of thee.

Ω ΤΥΜΒΟΣ Ω ΝΤΜΦΕΙΟΝ.

Sweet the kisses of death, set on thy lips, colder are they than mine ;
Colder, surely, than past kisses that love pour'd for thy lips as wine.
Lov'st thou death ? Is his face fairer than love's, brighter to look upon ?
Seest thou light in his eyes, light by which love's pales and is overshone ?
Lo, the roses of death, grey as the dust, chiller of leaf than snow !
Why let fall from thy hand loves that were thine,
roses that loved thee so ?
Large red lilies of love, sceptral and tall, lovely for eyes to see ;
Thornless blossom of love, full of the sun, fruits that were rear'd for thee.
Now death's poppies alone circle thy hair, girdle thy breasts as white ;
Bloodless blossoms of death, leaves that have sprung never against the light.
Nay, then, sleep if thou wilt ; love is content ; what should he do to weep ?
Sweet was love to thee once ; now in thine eyes sweeter than love is sleep.
