ON A HITHERTO UNEXAMINED MANUSCRIPT OF JOHN DE PLANO CARPINI.

By C. RAYMOND BEAZLEY, M.A.

(From 'The Geographical Journal' for December.)

WHILE working lately in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, I came upon a manuscript (No. 181, pp. 279-321) hitherto unknown except by the bare mention of its title in Nasmith's and other catalogues, which seems to have a distinct interest and value. It contains, in the most complete form, the text of John de Plano Carpini's account of the Mongols, and of his journey to the Great Khan's court (A.D. 1245-7). The last chapter of Carpini's Historia Mongalorum has hitherto been supposed to exist only in the Leyden manuscript known as "Petau," from its old possessor Paul Petavius; and as this chapter is the record of Carpini's journey to Mongolia and back, it is more valuable than any of the eight that precede it. Now, the whole of this final chapter is to be found in the Corpus manuscript referred to, whose value was wholly unknown to the eminent French scholar M. d'Avezac, when he prepared his remarkable edition of Carpini for volume iv. of the Paris Geographical Society's Recueil de Voyages et de Mémoires publié par la Société de Géographie, 1839. Its worth and content were equally unknown to Thomas Wright, who collated in a strangely casual manner the London manuscript of Carpini (B. Mus., Reg. 13 A. XIV.) for this edition of the Société de Géographie. The aforesaid edition of 1839 is, of course, still the standard, and, indeed, the only recognizable one of this great Franciscan traveller, for the truncated and corrupt text printed by Hakluyt, and generally accepted till 1839, is unworthy of comparison with that exhibited in the manuscripts of "Petau" and "Corpus" and in the Paris text.

It may be added that the Corpus manuscript contains in several places fuller and more satisfactory readings even than "Petau." M. d'Avezac, no doubt guided by the information or want of information he received from England about Carpini manuscripts, evidently considered that another manuscript of the Historia Mongalorum existed in Cambridge, viz. No. 61 (or rather one in No. 61) in the collection of "Bennet" College; but this is the very same thing as one in No. 181 in the present numbering of the Corpus collection, 61 being the number in Edward Bernard's catalogue, now superseded by 181 in Nasmith's. It is strange that this simple verification seems never to have been made hitherto. According to Bernard, moreover (Catalogi librorum manuscriptorum Angliæ et Hiberniæ, 1697; part iii., p. 133, no. 1337, referring to 61 in the list of codices manuscripti Collegii S. Benedicti, and to the third item in the sixty-first manuscript), the Carpini manuscript, called Historia Monogallorum sive Tartarorum Pr. Omnibus fidelibus, is the third piece in the volume, the Rubruquis manuscript being reckoned as the fifth. This reckoning is reproduced by d'Avezac (Recueil, as quoted above, p. 448), the great Paris geographer evidently considering that this manuscript of Carpini was only catalogued in Bernard. But, as a matter of fact, the Rubruquis text follows Carpini here without any interval whatever, and the two really form the eighth and ninth items in the volume. It is also noteworthy that Nasmith (Catalogus librorum manuscriptorum quos Coll. Corp. Christ. et B. M. Virg. in Acad. Cantab. legavit Matth. Parker; 1777; in the general heading to clxxxii., which is described as seculo xv. scriptus) speaks as if all the pieces were of the fifteenth century, whereas they are of distinctly varying date, and the two with which we are specially concerned (Carpini and Rubruquis) cannot possibly be later than the early fourteenth century, and were probably written before 1300.

As Carpini is in the first rank of mediæval explorers, standing but little below Marco Polo, the discovery of another manuscript of his complete text, preferable in some points even to the best hitherto collated, may not be without interest. The writing is of the latter part of the thirteenth century, or earlier part of the fourteenth (c. 1260–1320), and is in the same hand as the manuscript of Rubruquis known as D, which immediately follows, and the extracts from Æthicus which end the volume; the lines are long, running over the whole breadth of the page. The additions which "Petau" makes to the text of the earlier chapters (De moribus Tartarorum, etc.), and which are in several cases direct and avowed additions of the author revising his work, appear in "Corpus," e.g. the passage haec autem quæ superius scripta sunt . . . possidebit, following the words adversarii manifesti, with which all but these two manuscripts end. This passage contains an author's "personal note" to the effect that in the military details he has just given of the Mongol army, and of the best manner of resisting that army, he has no intention of trespassing on soldiers' ground, but only of furnishing occasionem et materiam cogitandi. The whole bears the most distinct evidence of belonging to a second revised and improved edition. The Corpus manuscript of Carpini is not only (with Petau) the fullest, it is also the oldest, text of the Historia Mongalorum, and it seems to have been written at latest within seventy years of the traveller's return from Central Asia, and probably (as Michel and Wright consider of the Rubruquis manuscript in the same hand, which follows) even before the end of the thirteenth century. It is, therefore, to all appearance a few years older than "Petau;" and the years 1260-1320 (above referred to) may be taken as an outside, 1270-1290 as an inside, date for its transcription.

AT THE UNIVERSITY PRESS

INTRODUCTION.

THE objects of the present volume are; first, to give an exact reprint of the texts and versions of the great XIII-century Friar travellers, John de Plano Carpini and William de Rubruquis, as printed, for the first time, by Richard Hakluyt in 1598 (and 1599), [Hak. pp. 21—117 = pp. 43—234 of the present volume]; second, to reprint with the same exactness the shorter pieces, especially the voyages of Ohthere and Wulfstan, with which Hakluyt opens the final edition of his Principal Navigations (pp. 1—21 of the same = pp. 1—42 of the present volume); third, to furnish a critical and explanatory commentary on the foregoing.

The text as given by Hakluyt has been always and in every detail reproduced to the letter and the comma, to the best of the editor's ability: no alteration has been made of Hakluyt's mistakes, but corrections of such mistakes (where they are not too obvious) have been offered in the notes. Where Hakluyt is making excerpts from books already printed in his day, an attempt has been made in each case to suggest or fix the edition from which he probably or certainly borrowed, and the exact place from which he took his citation. Where he is printing from a manuscript, as in the cases of Carpini and Rubruquis, his text has been compared afresh with all the more important manuscripts now known. In the course of my work upon these manuscripts I had the good fortune to make two discoveries (1) of a hitherto unexamined manuscript of Carpini in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; (2) of the identity of the London or British Museum manuscript of the same traveller with that once in Lord Lumley's Library, from which Hakluyt himself transcribed and which has been assumed to be quite different from and independent of the former.

As to the MSS. of Carpini: These are five in number, viz. 'Corpus,' 'Petau,' 'Colbert,' 'London-Lumley,' 'Dupuy': see p. 249. I may say a word about each in the order given above.

I. 'Corpus.' This is now in codex no. 181 in the Library of

Corpus Christi College, Cambridge: the text of Carpini occupies pp. 278—321 of the volume: the writing is of the later XIIIth or earliest XIVth century, and is in the same hand as the MS. of Rubruquis (known as D.) which immediately follows; the page is single-columned; and the lines are long, running over the whole breadth of the page. The present editor came upon this text while working at the Rubruquis MS. just referred to: but hitherto it seems to have been quite unknown except for the bare mention of its title by d'Avezac and Wright, repeating the notice in Nasmith and other Catalogues. It contains in the most complete form the text of Carpini's Historia Mongalorum, including the last chapter, usually supposed to exist only in the Leyden or 'Petau' manuscript: but its value was apparently unrealized by M. d'Avezac, when he prepared the (standard) edition of Carpini in 1838, reprinted next year in volume IV. of the Paris Geographical Society's Recueil de Voyages et de Mémoires publié par la Société de Géographie (1839: this last being the form usually quoted). For the eminent French scholar depended for information (about English manuscripts of Carpini) on Thomas Wright; and Wright, though he examined in detail the Rubruquis MS. next following, seems to have paid no attention to its even more valuable predecessor, except so far as to make a bare mention in the Introductory Notice sur Guillaume de Rubruk (Recueil, IV. p. 210). In general the Corpus Manuscript has the closest agreement with 'Petau.' The additions which 'Petau' makes to the text of the earlier chapters (De Moribus Tartarorum etc.), and which are in several cases direct and avowed additions of the author's, when revising his work, appear also in Corpus, e.g. the passage haec autem quae superius scripta sunt etc., following the words adversarii manifesti with which Hakluyt's text (based on the 'London-Lumley' MS.) ends. This passage contains a personal note by Carpini (before he begins the Itinerary, or Narrative of the Journey proper) to the effect that in the military details he has given of the Mongol army and of the best manner of resisting that army he has no intention of trespassing on soldiers' ground, but only of furnishing occasionem et materiam cogitandi. The whole bears distinct evidence of belonging to a second revised and improved edition. The Corpus MS. is not only (with 'Petau') the fullest, it is also the oldest, text of the Historia Mongalorum; and it seems to have been written at latest within seventy years of the travellers' return from Central Asia, and probably (as Michel and Wright consider of the Rubruquis MS. in the same hand which follows) even before the end of the thirteenth century. It is therefore to all appearance a few years older than 'Petau,' and the date of its execution may be fixed as probably falling within the years 1270—1290. In several places, moreover, Corpus contains more satisfactory readings than the Leyden MS.: but as a general rule the similarity of the two is that of sister texts; the differences are hardly ever more than verbal. Thus Carпинi's four great name-lists—of the Mongol princes, of the nations subdued by the Mongols, of the nations that had successfully resisted them, and of the witnesses to the veracity of his narrative,—the last a catalogue which includes all the Italian merchants whom Friar John could remember as trading at Kiev on his return in 1247,—are identical in both texts.

There are in all thirty-two passages, longer and shorter, which are only to be found in the Cambridge and Leyden MSS.; which are to be found, in their entirety, with occasional slight variants, in both these MSS.; and which may all be considered to fall under the head of author's additions, inserted to supplement and correct the imperfect forms of his work already in circulation. These passages are the following:

(1) At the end of the Prologue, where Carпинi declares his veracity and warns his readers against the incredulity which springs only from ignorance or surprise, Corpus adds with Petau: —sed si aliqua scribimus propter noticiam legentium quae in vestris partibus [partibus vestris in Petau] nesciuntur, non debetis propter hoc nos appellare mendaces qui vobis referimus illa [alia in Pet.] quae ipsi vidimus vel ab aliis pro certo audivimus quos esse credimus fide dignos. Immo est valde crudele ut homo propter bonum quod facit ab aliis infametur (Recueil, p. 605: supply after l. 32, p. 43 of this vol.). (2) At the end of the list of chapters, into which the main work is to be divided, following the Prologue, a heading is given for the last chapter as follows, both in Corpus and Petau: —ultimo de via quam fecimus et curia Imperatoris et testibus qui in terra Tartarorum nos invenerunt (Recueil, p. 606: supply in l. 8, p. 44 of this vol.). (3) In chapter i. § 2, both MSS. add the name of the one and only Tartar settlement which could be called a town, quae Caracaron nominatur (Recueil, p. 608: supply in l. 26, p. 44 of this vol.). (4) In chap. II. § 2, various details are added in reference to the personal appearance of the Tartars, nasum habent planum et modicum; oculos habent parvos, et palpebras usque ad supercilia elevatas (Recueil, pp. 611—12: supply in l. 20, p. 45 of this vol.). (5) In chap. III. § 1, an account is given by both MSS. of the manufacture and magico-medical use of the Tartar idols, sed quando volunt illa ydola facere, omnes maiores

dominae conveniunt quae sunt in stationibus illis, et cum reverentia faciunt illa; et cum fecerunt interficiunt ovem et manducant, et ossa eius igne comburunt. Et cum etiam puer aliquis infirmatur, praedicto modo faciunt ydolum et ligant super lectum ipsius (Recueil, p. 619: supply in l. 17, p. 47 of this vol.). (6) In chap. III. § 1, an exception is quoted to the rule that the Tartars forced no one to deny his faith, and a fear is expressed that if they could win universal dominion they would force the whole world to reverence their 'idol,' excepto Michaelae de quo dictum est supra. Quid ulterius faciant, ignoramus: praesumitur tamen a quibusdam quod si monarchiam haberent, quod Deus advertat [advertat in Recueil text], facerent quod omnes isti ydolo inclinarent (Recueil, p. 622: supply in l. 9, p. 48 of this vol.). (7) In chap. III. § 3 there is in both MSS. a curious addition, on Tartar superstitions about the dead, and an illustration of the same in relation to Okkodai Khan, et ossa illius equi quem comedunt pro anima eius comburunt. Et saepe etiam conveniunt mulieres ad comburendum ossa pro animabus hominum, ut nostris vidimus oculis et ab aliis intelleximus ibidem. Vidimus etiam quod Occodai can [so in Corpus; Occodai cam in Pet., which the Recueil amends to Occodai can] dimisit unum virgultum crescere pro anima sua: unde praecepit quod nullus incideret ibi, et quicumque incidet ibi aliquam virgam, ut ipsi vidimus, verberabatur, expoliabatur, et male tractabatur [expoliatur...tractatur in Pet.]; et cum nos multum indigeremus ad equum percutiendum, non fuimus ibi ausi incidere unam virgam (Recueil, p. 629: supply after l. 38, p. 49 of this vol.). (8) In chap. IV. § 3, Corpus, like Petau, adds the Tartar saying in defence of their lice-eating habits, dicebant enim Numquid eos debeo manducare cum mei filii carnes manducent et ipsius sanguinem bibant (Recueil, p. 639: supply in l. 12, p. 52 of this vol.). (9) In chap. V. § 1, on the wild men of the desert, Corpus makes the same addition in essential, as the Petau and Colbert MSS., as well as Vincent of Beauvais, about these savages making camels-hair-garments; but for the final clause ponunt gramina in vulneribus... (when wounded by the Tartars) Corpus agrees with Petau in reading ponunt gramina in manus (Recueil, p. 649: supply in l. 36, p. 54 of this vol.). (10) In chap. V. § 1, Corpus, like Petau, adds the passage expressing the contempt of the Tartars for threats of coming ruin at the hands of any other nation. Unde adhuc quando aliquis eos minatur etc. Here however Corpus in the last clause reads non teneremur for Petau's vero teneremur and the Recueil's non terremur (Recueil, p. 650: supply in l. 1, p. 55 of this vol.). (11) In chap. V. § 1, Corpus, like Petau, gives a fuller account of the discomfiture of the Tartar army by Prester John with the aid of Greek Fire. Unde factum est quod ex igne graeco, etc. Precisely as in Petau, the word homines is needlessly repeated in Corpus, after this;—homines comburebantur homines et equi (Recueil, p. 656: supply in l. 21, p. 56 of this vol.). (12) In chap. v. § 1, Corpus quotes the proverb current among the Tartars about their enemies the 'dogs,' et de hoc adhuc est proverbium inter eos: pater tuus vel frater a canibus fuit occisus: mulieres autem eorum quas ceperant dixerunt [so Corpus; duxerunt in Paris Recueil text p. 658, professedly following Petau] in terram eorum, et usque ad diem mortis earum ibidem fuerunt (Recueil, p. 658: supply in l. 40, p. 56). (13) In chap. v. § 1, the fable about the race shut up within the 'Caspian' mts. occurs in its complete form in Corpus, as in Petau, and (to a less degree) in Vincent of Beauvais, in ea parte ad quam aplicuerunt [so Corpus; attraxerunt in Pet.] ...conclusi clamorem exercitus...montem invenerunt [invenerunt in Recueil text, p. 659, professedly following Pet.] confractum...attemptassent...nubes.. illi autem ex adverso...statim cum [ut in Recueil text, amending the non of Pet.] ...propter causam praetaxatam (Recueil, pp. 659—660: supply in ll. 8—12, p. 57). (14) In chap. v. § 1, Corpus gives the passage describing the terror of a fabulous Oriental people at hearing the sound of the sun-rising, videntes quod nichil profiterent...immo eo tempore quo sol oriebatur...vocaverunt [necarentur in the emendation of the Recueil text, p. 662]. Corpus here agrees exactly with Petau, and in substance with Vincent of Beauvais (Recueil, pp. 661—2: supply in l. 28, p. 57). (15) In ch. v. § 1, Corpus supplies the passage describing the Tartars' belief in their own future, and ultimate overthrow by another race, quadraginta duobus siquidem annis pugnaverunt et ante decem et octo annis, etc....devinci... Corpus here agrees with Petau exactly (Recueil, p. 664: supply in l. 8, p. 58). (16) In ch. v. § 2, Corpus supplies the passage referring to Chirpodan's expedition against various Moslem countries, soldanos quosdam terrae Sarraacenorum et alios qui sunt ultra mare (Recueil, p. 667: supply in l. 31, p. 58 [soldanum Damasci, in other mss., only]). Corpus here exactly agrees with Petau. (17) Corpus also supplies the passage describing, in chap. v. § 3, the ruin of Kiev more precisely, unde quando per terram illam ibamus...nunc quasi in nichilum redacta est [reducta in Recueil, professedly following Petau], vix enim [enim not in Recueil, professedly following Petau] ducentae domus sunt ibi...maxima servitute (Recueil, p. 675: supply in l. 23, p. 60). Corpus here exhibits some verbal variations from Petau. (18) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. v. § 3, describing more fully the dog-headed monsters of the far North, et humanum caput habebant sed faciem, etc. (Recueil, p. 678: supply in l. 7, p. 61). Corpus here agrees exactly with Petau. (19) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. v. § 3, describing the Cyclopedes more fully revolvendo se quasi in circulo: istos autem Isidorus Cyclopedes appellavit (Recueil, p. 679: supply in l. 25, p. 61). Corpus here agrees exactly with Petau. (20) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 1, describing the rigour of Mongol military discipline, adding one detail, et si omnes decem fugiunt nisi fugiunt alii centum omnes occiduntur (Recueil, p. 684: supply in l. 16, p. 62). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (21) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 2, prefatory to Carpini's enumeration of the weapons necessary for action against the Tartars, arma autem ista...habere (Recueil, p. 684: supply in l. 20, p. 62). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (22) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 2, adding one or two details about Mongol armour, loricas et...co-operturam equorum...corrugas de bove vel alio animali (Recueil, p. 685: supply in l. 25, p. 62). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (23) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 2, adding a detail about the defensive armour of the Mongols, quae duplicatur ex utraque parte...corrugiola (Recueil, p. 687: supply in l. 20, p. 63). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (24) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 3, describing the Mongol 'heralds,' spies or scouts, nichilominus tamen principes...homines et munenta...querendum (Recueil, p. 690: supply after l. 3, p. 64). Here Corpus reads apparently munenta for munita of the Recueil text, which professedly follows Petau. (25) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 3, describing more fully the Mongol devices of wearing out their foes with arrow-wounds, and then closing, et cum iam homines et equi sunt debilitati sagittis, tunc congregiuntur cum eis (Recueil, p. 694: supply in l. 12, p. 65). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (26) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vi. § 4, describing how the Tartars may be frustrated in their efforts to set towns on fire, extingui tamen potest, ut dicitur, cum vino...confricatione palmarum magnus [sic] potest extingui (Recueil, p. 696: supply after l. 21, p. 65). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau, even in reading magnus for manus. (27) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vii. § 1, detailing more fully the oppressions and extortions of the Mongol tax-gatherers, et quantum placet, absque ulla conditione...accipiunt (Recueil, p. 704: supply in l. 27, p. 67). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (28) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. vii. § 4, detailing the agricultural oppressions of the Mongols more fully, dimittunt tamen...semina...sufficit pro expensis etc. (Recueil, p. 711: supply in l. 39, p. 68). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau, even in reading sufficit. (29) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. VIII. § 1, describing more fully how the Tartars were preparing for another attack upon Christendom, in martio praeterito exercitum invenimus.....per omnes Tartaros.....ad terram Rusciae (Recueil, p. 718: supply in l. 26, p. 70). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (30) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. VIII. § 1, expressing doubt as to the exact date of the next Mongol invasion, ignoramus tamen utrum...post terciam hyemem veniant...ex improviso (Recueil, p. 718: supply in l. 29, p. 70). Here Corpus agrees exactly with Petau. (31) Corpus also supplies the passage, in chap. VIII. § 5, declaring that the author, in giving the suggestions he has done, only wishes to assist the military leaders of Christendom against the Tartars and not to dictate to them, haec autem quae superius scripta sunt...possidebit (Recueil, p. 732: supply after l. 3, p. 74). Here Corpus has some slight verbal difference with Petau. (32) Finally Corpus supplies the whole of chap. IX. describing the journey, De provinciis et situ earum per quas transivimus et de testibus qui nos invenerunt ibidem, et de curia imperatoris Tartarorum et principum eius (Recueil, pp. 733—773: supply after l. 3, p. 74). The title is exactly the same in Corpus and in Petau, and the text of the chapter which follows only varies in minute details, except for certain rather more important differences of name-forms; e.g. Corpus' Lancisci for Petau's Lantisci, the Lancisci of the Recueil, p. 734; Corpus' Conraudum and Conradus for Petau's Conrandum and Conrandus, the Conradum and Conradus of the Recueil, pp. 734—5; Corpus' Durissa for Petau's Durisa, the Duxissa of the Recueil, p. 735; Corpus' Kiovienses for Petau's Kiovensens, the Kiovienses of the Recueil, p. 769; Corpus' Nongrot for the Mongrot of the Recueil, p. 770, professedly following Petau; Corpus' Coligneum for the Ugneum of the Recueil, p. 771, professedly following Petau; Corpus' Sancopolitus for Petau's Sancopolitus, the Santopolicus of the Recueil, p. 771; Corpus' Olahu for the Aloha of the Recueil, p. 771, professedly following Petau; Corpus' Cherneglorie for Petau's Gerneglorie, the Cherneglove of the Recueil, p. 771; Corpus' Polonai for the Polonia of the Recueil, p. 772, professedly following Petau. Especially interesting is the concluding note (Recueil, p. 773) identical in Corpus and Petau:—Rogamus cunctos qui legunt praedicta ut nichil immutent...Sed quia illi per quos transitum fecimus, qui sunt in Polonia, Boemia, et Teutonia, et in Leodio et Campania, suprascriptam historiam libenter habebant, idcirco eam rescripserunt antequam esset completa et etiam plene contracta, quia nondum tempus habueramus quietis ut eam possemus complere plene. Ideo nemo miretur quod in ista plura sint et melius correcta quam sint in illa: quoniam istam, postquam habuimus qualecunque otium, correximus ad plenum, et perfecimus illa quae nondum erant completa.

The Chapter Headings in Corpus differ both from the Petau ms. and the Recueil text in several details, though bearing the same general resemblance to Petau that has been already noticed. Thus, at the commencement Corpus has Incipit ystoria Mongalorum for the Incipit historia etc. of the Recueil, p. 603, professedly following Petau. For the heading to chapter i. Corpus has De terra Tartarorum et situ etc. for the De terrae Tartarorum situ etc. of the Recueil, p. 606, professedly following Petau. Similarly in the headings to chapters II., III., VII., VIII. there are variations of like character and extent.

M. d'Avezac (Recueil, p. 448) evidently considered that another ms. of the Historia Mongalorum existed at Cambridge—viz. one in a volume numbered 61 in the collection of 'Bennet' College: but this is the very same as the text in no. 181 in the present numbering of the Corpus collection, 61 being the number in Edward Bernard's catalogue, which, for Corpus or 'Bennet' College, is now superseded by Nasmith's. According to Bernard (Catalogi librorum manuscriptorum Angliae et Hiberniae, 1697; part iii. p. 133, no. 1337, referring to 61 in the list of Codices manuscripti Collegii S. Benedicti, and to the third item in this manuscript no. 61) the Carpini ms., called Historia Monogallorum sive Tartarorum Pr. Omnibus fidelibus, is the third piece in the volume, the Rubruquis ms. being reckoned as the fifth. This reckoning is reproduced by d'Avezac (Recueil, p. 448), the great Paris geographer evidently supposing that this ms. of Carpini was only noticed in Bernard and had been lost sight of since. But as a matter of fact, in Corpus 181, the Rubruquis text follows Carpini without any interval whatever, and the two form the eighth and ninth items (on the lowest reckoning) in the aforesaid volume. It is also noteworthy that Nasmith (Catalogus librorum manuscriptorum quos Coll. Corp. Christ. et B.M. Virg. in Acad. Cantab. legavit Matth. Parker; 1777; in the general heading to clxxxi) speaks as if all the pieces were of one date, the whole volume being seculo xv scriptus, whereas they are of distinctly varying periods, and the two with which we are especially concerned, Carpini and Rubruquis, cannot possibly be later than the early xivth century, and were probably written before 1300.

II. The Petau ms., on which d'Avezac's 1838 edition is based (reprinted in the Paris Recueil, 1839), is now the property of the University Library at Leyden, and is in the codex numbered 104 in the ms. collection of that library. It bears the signature Pa. Petavius, and the printed note ex bibliotheca viri illustris Isaaci Vossii. Paul Petau, André Duchesne, and Isaac Vossius, all owned it at different times before it passed to Leyden University (cf. Bergeron, Traicté des Tartares, p. 73; Edw. Bernard, Catalogus librorum manuscriptorum Angliae et Hiberniae, part iii. p. 65, no. 2429; Casimir Oudin, Commentarius de scriptoribus Ecclesiae antiquis, vol. III. col. 182; d'Avezac, Recueil, 444). The value and character of this ms. have been fully illustrated in the preceding notes upon its twin-sister at Corpus, Cambridge. In date it is probably a few years later than 'Corpus,' being apparently of the earlier xivth century: d'Avezac's remarks upon its mis-readings apply equally well to the Cambridge ms.: 'mais nous ne devons pas dissimuler que si l'exemplaire dont nous faisons usage est d'une belle et élégante écriture, il est déparé par de fréquentes incorrections'—and this in spite of its nearness to the traveller's own time and personal redaction. It is however incomparably the most valuable text of Carpini with the single exception of the Corpus ms., whose worth is almost exactly equal.

III. The Colbert ms., in ms. Lat. 2477 in the Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris, written about the middle of the xivth century, is imperfect, like 'London-Lumley' and 'Dupuy,' and unlike 'Corpus' and 'Petau.' It does not contain the last chapter or the record of Carpini's journey, properly speaking; nor does it possess the author's additions already noticed. It belongs in fact, in some respects, to the first unrevised edition, though exhibiting a better text than 'London-Lumley' and one much nearer to 'Petau-Corpus'; but it has a special value as giving, besides Carpini's own text, the narrative of Benedict the Pole, which here forms a sort of introduction to, or first chapter of, the Historia Mongalorum, as well as the letter of Kuyuk Khan to Pope Innocent IV (fol. 67, v^o, col. 1). It is a closely-written but admirably clear ms., double-columned, having 40 lines to a column. The narrative of Benedict the Pole begins on fol. 66 r^o, col. 1: the text of Carpini, proper, opens on fol. 67, v^o, col. 2 (Omnibus Christi fidelibus, etc.), and ends on fol. 83, r^o, col. 2 (adversarii eorum manifesti, as in 'London-Lumley,' 'Dupuy,' and Hakluyt: followed by the peculiar terminal rubric expliciunt gesta Tartarorum). At the beginning of Benedict's text is the title incipiunt gesta Tartarorum secundum fratrem Iohannem ordinis fratrum minorum, followed by the record of Benedict:—Anno domini MCCXLV frater Iohannes de ordine minorum fratrum dictus de Plano Carpini a domino papa missus ad Tartaros cum alio fratre in pascha exiens a Lugduno Gallie ubi papa fuit profectus in Poloniam, etc. (cf. Recueil, p. 774). We may note here the very early occurrence of the form de Plano Carpini, sometimes carelessly attributed to 'corruption' by later writers. The value of the Colbert ms. is thus quite peculiar; no other text gives Benedict's narrative or Kuyuk's letter, or the rubrics for subdivision of the chapters, followed by d'Avezac in the Recueil edition (cf. Recueil, p. 607, note 2): but apart from these advantages Colb. occasionally supplies us with better readings than even 'Petau' or 'Corpus.'

IV. The 'London-Lumley' ms. ['Lond.-Lum.'], in British Museum, MSS. Reg. 13 A. XIV, is the least valuable of all the old mss. of Carpini ('Dupuy' not included, being itself a copy from Hakluyt's printed text). It was the only one known to the Elizabethan compiler and forms the sole basis of the text on pp. 21—37 of the Principal Navigations (1598—9; = pp. 43—74 of this volume). In the xvth century it was one of the treasures of Lord Lumley's Library; in the xvith century it passed into the Royal Library; and in the xviiith century it came into the possession of the British Museum. On the flyleaf, fol. 1, r^o, are the names of 'Arundel' and 'Lumley' written in a stiff hand at the foot of the page. The writing is close, difficult, crabbed, and of very peculiar character: the scribe was probably not an Englishman: the text is single-columned, has 28 lines to the page, and begins on fol. 198, r^o, ending on fol. 213, r^o. By a remarkable oversight two mss. have been made out of one, at the same time that one of the two most important copies was passed by altogether. For while the Corpus ms. was never examined or collated, 'London' has been treated as a different text from 'Lumley'; and readings from 'both' appear together, in agreement or opposition, upon many of the pages of the Recueil edition of Carpini. Yet the 'two' differ only in this: 'Lumley,' as d'Avezac refers to it (doubtless misled by Thomas Wright), is the text with Hakluyt's mis-readings; 'London,' in the Recueil, is the same text as more accurately read by xixth century scholars. The copy once 'in Lord Lumley his stately library' is no other than the identical MS. Reg. 13 A. XIV. The date of execution has been variously estimated, from c. 1270 to 1330; it probably belongs to the last decade of the xiiith century, being a copy of the earliest (imperfect) form of the Historia Mongalorum; this form, as we have seen, Carpini formally complains of and repudiates in his complete, authorized, edition, represented by Corpus and Petau.

V. The 'Dupuy' ms. [D.] is only a copy made from Hakluyt's printed text in the xviiith century. It is in no. 686 of the collection bequeathed to the Royal Library of France (now 'Bibliothèque Nationale') by Jacques Dupuy. The frontispiece of the vol. bears the date MDCXLVII and the signature 'P. Dupuy.' The fuller text of Carpini (first eight chapters) occupies pp. 1-19 (Omnibus Christi fidelibus...adversarii manifesti): the abridgment of Vincent of Beauvais follows on pp. 19-38, exactly as in Hakluyt.

In the critical notes to Carpini, given in this volume, where H. [Hakluyt] stands alone as supporting any reading, it is to be assumed that 'Lond.-Lum.' and 'Dupuy' read the same. Differences between Hakluyt's readings and those of 'London-Lumley' (and 'Dupuy') are always indicated. D.[upuy] of course, being a transcript of Hakluyt's text, should always agree with the latter, but here and there occurs a slight difference.

In the same way where A. [= d'Avezac's Recueil text] stands alone in support of any reading, it is understood that 'Petau,' 'Corpus,' and 'Colbert' have the same. 'A. with Pet.,' without mention of 'Corpus' and 'Colb.' carries the implication that both the latter agree with the Recueil. Where not otherwise stated, Corpus agrees with 'Petau,' even where 'Petau' differs from Colbert and d'Avezac; but normally the Recueil text [A.] which is based on 'Petau,' and therefore has a close agreement with 'Corpus,' will be found to have the support of 'Colbert' also, not infrequently preferring the readings of the latter, where they differ from 'Petau.' On the 'Petau' ms., and to a less extent on the 'Colbert' and 'Dupuy' mss., d'Avezac did excellent work; but 'London-Lumley' was very badly collated for him by Thomas Wright, and the error of 'seeing double' in this case vitiated a great part of the critical commentary of the Recueil edition. It is obvious moreover that no edition of Carpini could be regarded as exhaustive which took no account of 'Corpus.' The present editor has attempted to examine with the greatest care in his power all the mss. above described, except 'Petau,' which has already been adequately overhauled. No trace has been forthcoming of the Tournai ms. of Carpini mentioned in the xviiith century by Antoine Sander in his Bibliotheca Belgica Manuscripta (Insulis, 1641, part i. p. 130) and said to be then known as G. 6 in the Library of St Martin of Tournai.

No Carpini ms. has any illustrations.

The MSS. of Rubruquis, whose whereabouts are ascertainable, are five; viz. one in London, three in Cambridge (all at Corpus), and one in Leyden, quoted in the critical notes of this volume as A, B, C, D, E. The same letters are used for the same copies in the Recueil edition of 1839 (ed. Michel and Wright, whose critical notes are referred to by the letters MW in the present vol.). A word may be said about each.

I. The London ms. (A) in the British Museum, Reg. 14 C. XIII. occupies fols. 225 (r^o)—236 (r^o). It is single-columned, written in a close and difficult hand, and has 50 lines to a page. It is truncated, ending abruptly [like ms. C] et inter, after the author has begun to describe the Chinese or Seres (Recueil, p. 291 = Hak. p. 117 = p. 234 of this volume). Hakluyt's text is based upon this manuscript. Its date seems to be of the middle of the xivth century.

II. The first Cambridge ms. of Rubruquis (B) is in no. 66 in the Library of Corpus Christi College. It is of the first third of the xivth century, is double columned, has 39 lines to a page, and extends from fol. 67 v^o to fol. 110 v^o containing the whole of Rubruquis as far as known (down to copiosas expensas). The handwriting is fairly large, but close and rather difficult. There are no proper chapter headings, but some of these are added in the margin in a later hand in a small niggling script. Other marginal headings are occasionally added, e.g. Ibat ad incredulos, Sarthac, De mari non profundo, De terris tributariis Tartariis. This ms. has the well-known illustration in the first folio (67) in the initial E (Excellentissimo), which is filled up with two roughly coloured pictures, (1) of the two monks, William de Rubruquis and Bartholomew of Cremona, presenting their report to the Saint-king of France, Louis IX, (2) of the same two monks on their journey. This is very fairly reproduced in the Recueil's facsimile sheet inserted after p. 212 (Rec. vol. IV., 1839). The volume formerly belonged to Bury St Edmunds monastery and is well described by Nasmith, Catalogus libr. manuscr. quos Coll. Corp. Christ....legavit M. Parker, 1777, pp. 44—6. The next ms. (C) apparently refers to B as containing the full text of Rubruquis.

III. The second Cambridge ms. of Rubruquis (C) is in no. 407 in the Corpus collection. It is of the earliest xvth century, is written in a small, close, and difficult late-mediæval hand, abounding in abbreviations, and extends from fol. 37, r^o to fol. 67, r^o. Like A, which it closely resembles in orthography, errors, omissions and peculiarities, C gives us only an imperfect text, ending et inter (as Hakluyt): a MS. of Friar Odoric's travel-narrative immediately follows. At the close of the Rubruquis text is the note Hic deficit multum: vide apud Sanctum Edmundum residuum, an apparently clear reference to B. We may note that many of the misreadings of C, found also in A, do not exist in any other MS.: further, the initial letter is closely similar in these two sister-texts, while they alone give the full title printed in the Recueil, p. 213, Itinerarium fratris Wilh. de Rubruk de ordine fratrum minorum anno gratie MCCLIII ad partes orientales. No MS. reads Galli after minorum, as Hakluyt does, but the compiler's addition is perfectly accurate in fact.

IV. The third Cambridge MS. of Rubruquis (D) is in no. 181 in the Corpus collection. It is of the last quarter of the XIIIth century, is single columned, extends from p. 321 to p. 398, and is written in an admirably clear good hand, the same as that of the Carпинi MS. ('Corpus') which immediately precedes it. This is the basis of the standard (Recueil) text, edited by Michel and Wright, 1839: it contains (like B) the whole of Rubruquis, but its value is clearly superior to B's, or indeed to that of any other MS. of the Itinerarium...de Rubruc. Michel and Wright, like Nasmith, describe D as forming the last item in the vol. (no. 181); this is practically but not literally true; for after the Rubruquis text ends on p. 398, a letter of Pope Martin is added on the same page, and the lower half of p. 398, with the upper half of p. 399, is occupied by extracts from Æthicus of Istria, with which the book closes: ut ait Ethicus...gentes ad aquilonem...ubi Tanais exoritur frigore undique circumvallari inter Oceanum et Tanaim gens inquieta...incognita monstruosa ydolatria fornicaria in cunctis stupris et lupanariis truculenta a quibus et nomen accepit de stirpe Gog et Magog. Gens ista...sal et frumentum ignorat: comedit universa abhominabilia...Alexander Magnus...erexit portas et limina mire magnitudinis et induxit eas...bitumine incognito...Caspas portas. No one appears hitherto to have noticed the occurrence of these passages in this MS.

V. The Leyden MS. of Rubruquis (E), written in the XIVth century, is to be found under no. 77 in the Leyden University Library. It was formerly in the Collection of Isaac Vossius, and was bought, after the death of that scholar, on Feb. 21, 1689, by Leyden University. Its agreement with D is very close, so close indeed that it has probably been copied from that MS. The text of Rubruquis is single-columned: the whole volume contains 191 leaves, on the first of which is the signature po Petavius.

Another MS. of Rubruquis—of the xvth century—is mentioned by Michel and Wright as existing in 1839 in the library of Sir Thomas Phillipps, of Middle Hill, Worcestershire, previously the property of John Cochran and entitled Rescriptio unius Cordigeri qui abiit in regionem Tartrorum [sic] ex precepto pape et regis Francie, quomodo se habuit inter Tartaros et etiam in itinere. Of this the present editor knows nothing more. He has however re-examined, as carefully as possible, the first four MSS. above noticed, viz. A, B, C, D, and he has found the collations of the Recueil editors leave much to be desired. He has noticed all the mis-readings of Michel and Wright, as far as he has been able to observe them, and he has compared every line of the London and the three Cambridge MSS. with the text of Hakluyt, just as he has compared every sentence of (the fuller) Carpini as printed in the Principal Navigations, with the 'Corpus,' 'Petau,' 'Colbert,' 'London-Lumley' and 'Dupuy' MSS.

On p. 209 of the Recueil, it may be noticed, Michel and Wright speak of a London and a Lumley MS. of Rubruquis. As in the case of Carpini, they are one and the same, viz. Reg. 14 C. XIII.

In the critical notes to Rubruquis, given in this volume, where H [= Hakluyt] stands alone in support of any reading, it is understood that A (the London MS.) and C (the second Cambridge MS.) have the same; where P [= Paris text, i.e. the Recueil edition of 1839] or MW [= Michel and Wright] are similarly quoted without further note, D, B, and E (the first and third Cambridge MSS. and the Leyden MS.) may be assumed to be in agreement with the Recueil.

The pages numbered in the margins of the text, in heavy type, are those of the original Hakluyt of 1598: in the notes these page-numbers are inserted in the middle of the line-space, and in the margin the pages and lines of the present edition are marked.

25 I N the yere of Christ, 517. king Arthur in the second yeere of his reigne, hauing subdued all parts of Ireland, sailed with his fleet into Island, and brought it and the people thereof vnder his subiection. The rumour afterwards being spread thorowout all the other Islands, that no countrey was able to withstand him Doldaius the king of Gotland, and Gunfacius the king of Orkney, came voluntarily vnto him, and yeelded him their obedience, promising to pay him tribute. The Winter being spent, he returned into Britaine, and establishing his kingdome in perfect 5 peace, he continued there for the space of twelue yeres.

ARthur which was sometimes the most renowned king of the Britains, was a mightie, and valiant man, and a famous warrior. This kingdome was too litle for him, & his minde was not contented with it. He therefore valiantly subdued all Scantia, 5 which is now called Norway, and all the Islands beyond Norway, to wit, Island and Greenland, which are appertaining vnto Norway, Sweeland, Ireland, Gotland, Denmarke, Semeland, Windland, Curland, Roe, Femeland, Wireland, Flanders, Cherilland, Lapland, and all the other lands & Islands of the East sea, euen vnto 10 Russia (in which Lapland he placed the Easterly bounds of his Brittish Empire) and many other Islands beyond Norway, euen vnder the North pole, which are appendances of Scantia, now called Norway. These people were wild and sauage, and had not in them the loue of God nor of their neighbors, because all euill 15 commeth from the North, yet there were among them certeine Christians liuing in secret. But king Arthur was an exceeding good Christian, and caused them to be baptized, and thorowout all Norway to worship one God, and to receiue and keepe inuiolably for euer, faith in Christ onely. At that time all the noble 20 men of Norway tooke wiues of the noble nation of the Britaines, whereupon the Norses say, that they are descended of the race and blood of this kingdome. The aforesayd king Arthur obtained also in those dayes of the Pope & court of Rome, that Norway should be for euer annexed to the crowne of Britaine for the 25 enlargement of this kingdome, and he called it the chamber of Britaine. For this cause the Norses say, that they ought to dwell with vs in this kingdome, to wit, that they belong to the crowne of Britaine: for they had rather dwell here then in their owne natiue

[p. 3] countrey, which is drie and full of | mountaines, and barren, and 30 no graine growing there, but in certeine places. But this countrey of Britaine is fruitfull, wherein corne and all other good things do grow and increase: for which cause many cruell battels haue bene oftentimes fought betwixt the Englishmen and the people of Norway, and infinite numbers of people haue bene slaine, & the 35 Norses haue possessed many lands and Islands of this Empire, which vnto this day they doe possesse, neither could they euer afterwards be fully expelled. But now at length they are incorporated with vs by the receiuing of our religion and sacraments, and by taking wiues of our nation, and by affinitie, and mariages. For 40 so the good king Edward (who was a notable maintainer of peace) ordeined and granted vnto them by the generall consent of the whole kingdome, so that the people may, and ought from hence-foorth dwell and remaine in this kingdome with vs as our louing sworne brethren.

IN the yeere from the incarnation of our Lord, sixe hundreth twentie and foure, the people of Northumberland, to wit, those English people which inhabit on the North side of the riuer of Humber, together with their king Edwin, at the Christian preaching and perswasion of Paulinus aboue mentioned, embraced the 30 Gospel. Under which king, after he had once accepted of the Christian faith, the power both of the heauenly & of his earthly kingdome was enlarged; insomuch, that he (which no English king had done before him) brought vnder his subiection all the prouinces of Britaine, which were inhabited either by the English 35 men themselues, or by the Britons. Moreouer, he subdued vnto the crowne of England (as we haue aboue signified) the Hebrides, commonly called the Western Islands. The principall wherof being more commodiously and pleasantly seated towards the South, and more abounding with corne then the rest, conteineth 5 according to the estimation of the English, roome enough for 960. families, and the second for 300. and aboue.

The voyage of Bertus, generall of an armie sent into Ireland by Ecfridus king of Northumberland, in the yere of our Lord 684, out of the 4. Booke and 10 26. Chapter of Beda his Ecclesiasticall Hystorie.

15 Anno Dominicæ incarnationis sexcentesimo octogesimo quarto, Ecfridus rex Nordanhumbrorum, misso Hiberniam cum exercitu duce Berto, vastauit miserè gentem innoxiam, & nationi Anglorum semper amicissimam, ita vt nec ecclesijs quidem aut monasterijs manus parceret hostilis. At insulani & quantum valere armis arma repellebant, & inuocantes diuinæ auxilium pietatis cœlitus se 20 vindicari continuis diù imprecationibus postulabant. Et quamuis maledici regnum Dei possidere non possint, creditum tamen est, quòd hi qui merito impietatis suæ maledicebantur, ocyùs Domino vindice, poenas sui reatus luerent.

The same in English.

25 IN the yere of our Lord 684, Ecfrid the king of Northumberland sent captaine Bert into Ireland with an armie, which Bert miserably wasted that innocent nation being alwayes most friendly vnto the people of England, insomuch that the fury of the enemy spared neither churches nor monasteries. Howbeit the 30 Islanders to their power repelled armes with armes, and crauing Gods aid from heauen with continuall imprecations and curses, they pleaded for reuenge. And albeit cursed speakers can by no meanes inherit the kingdome of God, it was thought notwithstanding, that they which were accursed for their impiety did 35 not long escape the vengeance of God imminent for their offences.

The voyage of Ochter made to the Northeast parts beyond Norway, reported by himselfe vnto Alfred the famous king of England, about the yere 890.

Ochter said, that the countrey wherein he dwelt was called Helgoland. Ochter tolde his lord king 5
Alfred that he dwelt furthest North of any other Norman. He sayd that he dwelt towards the North part of the land toward the West coast : and affirmed that the land, notwithstanding it stretcheth marueilous farre towards the North, 10

Fynnes liue
by hunting & fishing.

yet it is all desert and not inhabited, vnlesse it be very few places, here and there, where certeine Finnes dwell vpon the coast, who liue by hunting all the Winter, and by fishing in Summer. He said that vpon a certeine time he fell into a fantasie and desire to prooue and know how farre that land stretched Northward, and 15 whether there were any habitation of men North beyond the desert. Whereupon he tooke his voyage directly North along the coast, hauing vpon his steereboord alwayes the desert land, and vpon the leereboord the maine Ocean : and continued his course for the space of 3. dayes. In which space he was come as far 20 towards the North, as commonly the whale hunters vse to trauell.

Whence he proceeded in his course still towards the North so farre as he was able to saile in other 3. dayes. At the end whereof he perceiued that the coast turned towards the East, or els the sea opened with a maine gulfe into the land, he knew not 25 how farre. Well he wist and remembred, that he was faine to stay till he had a Westerne winde, and somewhat Northerly : and thence he sailed plaine East along the coast still so far as he was

[p. 5] able in the space of 4. dayes. At the end of which time he | was compelled againe to stay till he had a full Northerly winde, forso- 30 much as the coast bowed thence directly towards the South, or at least wise the sea opened into the land he could not tell how farre : so that he sailed thence along the coast continually full South, so farre as he could trauaile in 5. dayes ; and at the fifth dayes end he discovered a mightie riuer which opened very farre 35 into the land. At the entrie of which riuer he stayed his course, and in conclusion turned backe againe, for he durst not enter thereinto for feare of the inhabitants of the land : perceiuing that on the other side of the riuer the countrey was thorowly inhabited : which was the first peopled land that he had found since his 40 departure from his owne dwelling : whereas continually thorowout

all his voyage, he had euermore on his steereboord, a wildernesse and desert country, except that in some places, he saw a few fishers, fowlers, and hunters, which were all Fynnes : and all the way vpon his leereboord was the maine ocean. The Biarmes had 5 inhabited and tilled their country indifferent well, notwithstanding he was afrayed to go vpon shore. But the country of the Terfynnes lay all waste, and not inhabited, except it were, as we haue sayd, whereas dwelled certeine hunters, fowlers, and fishers. The Biarmes tolde him a number of stories both of their owne country, 10 and of the countreyes adioyning. Howbeit, he knew not, nor could affirme any thing for certeine trueth : forsomuch as he was not vpon land, nor saw any himselfe. This onely he iudged, that the Fynnes and Biarmes speake but one language. The principall purpose of his traueile this way, was to encrease the knowledge 15 and discouerie of these coasts and countreyes, for the more commoditie of fishing of *horsewhales, which haue in their teeth bones of great price and excellencie : whereof he brought some at his returne vnto the king. Their skinnes are also very good to make cables for shippes, and so vsed. This kinde of whale is much 20 lesse in quantitie then other kindes, hauing not in length aboue seuen elles. And as for the common kind of whales, the place of most and best hunting of them is in his owne country : whereof some be 48. elles of length, and some 50. of which sort he affirmed that he himselfe was one of the sixe, which in the space of 3. dayes 25 killed threescore. He was a man of exceeding wealth in such riches, wherein the wealth of that country doth consist. At the same time that he came to the king, he had of his owne breed 600. tame Deere, of that kinde which they call Rane Deere : of the which number 6. were stall Rane Deere, a beast of great value, 30 and marueilously esteemed among the Fynnes, for that with them they catch the wilde Rane Deere. He was among the chiefe men of his country one : and yet he had but 20. kine, and 20. swine, and that little which he tilled, he tilled it all with horses. Their principall wealth consisteth in the tribute which the Fynnes pay 35 them, which is all in skinnes of wilde beasts, feathers of birds, whale bones, and cables, and tacklings for shippes made of Whales or Seales skinnes. Euery man payeth according to his abilitie.
 The richest pay ordinarily 15. cases of Marternes, 5. Rane Deere skinnes, and one Beare, ten bushels of feathers, a coat of a Beares 40 skinne, two cables threescore elles long apiece, the one made of

of Norway.

He sayd, that the countrey of Norway was very long and small. So much of it as either beareth any good pasture, or may be tilled, lieth vpon the Sea coast, which notwithstanding in some places is very rockie and stonie: and all Eastward, all along against the inhabited land, lie wilde and huge hilles and mountaines, which are 5 in some places inhabited by the Fynnes. The inhabited land is broadest toward the South, & the further it stretcheth towards the North, it groweth euermore smaller and smaller. Towards the South it is peradventure threescore miles in bredth or broader in some places: about the middest, 30. miles or aboue, and to- 10 wards the North where it is smallest, he affirmeth that it proueth not three miles from the Sea to the mountaines. The mountaines be in breadth of such quantitie, as a man is able to traueile ouer in a fortnight, and in some places no more then may be traueiled in sixe dayes. Right ouer against this land, in the other side of 15 the mountaines, somewhat towards the South, lieth Swethland, and against the same towards the North, lieth Queeneland. The Queenes sometimes passing the mountaines, inuade and spoile the Normans: and on the contrary part, the Normans likewise sometimes spoile their countrey. Among the mountaines be many and 20 great lakes in sundry places of fresh water, into the which the Queenes vse to carie their boats vpon their backs ouer land, and thereby inuade and spoile the countrey of the Normans. These boats of theirs be very little and very light.

land into the sound of Denmarke vnto a port called Hetha, which seemeth to be Wismer or Rostorke.

[p. 6] OCther sayd that the countrey wherein he dwelled, was called Halgoland: and affirmed that there was no man dwelling towards the North from him. From this countrey towards the 30 South, there is a certeine *port called Scirings hall, whither, he sayth, that a man was not able to saile in a moneths space, if he lay still by night, although he had euery day a full winde. And he shall saile all the way along the coast, hauing on his steere-boord, first Iutland and the Islands which lie betwixt this countrey 35 & Iutland, still along the coast of this countrey, till he come to Scirings hall, hauing it on his larboord. At Scirings hall there entreth into the land a maine gulfe of the Sea, which is so broad, that a man cannot see ouer it : and on the other side against the same, is Gotland, and then Silland. This sea stretcheth many hundreth miles vp into the land. From Scirings hall he sayd that he sailed in 5. dayes to the port which is called Hetha, which lieth betwixt the countries of *Wendels, Saxons, and Angles, whereunto it is subiect. And as he sailed thitherward from Scirings hall, he had vpon his steereboord Denmarke, and on his leereboord the maine sea, for the space of 3. dayes : and 2. dayes before, he arriued in Hetha, he had Gotland on leerboord, and Silland, with diuers other Islands. In that countrey dwelt English men, before they came into this land. And these 2. dayes he had vpon his leerboord the Islands that are subiect to Denmarke.

*V*Volstans nauigation in the †East sea, from Hetha to Trusco, which is about Dantzic.

15  Olstan sayd, that he departed from Hetha, and arriued at Trusco, in the space of 7. dayes, and 7. nights : during which time, his shippe kept her course continually vnder saile. All this voyage Wenedland was still vpon his steerboord, and on his leerboord was Langland, Layland, Falster, and Sconie : all which countreyes are subiect to Denmarke. Upon his leerboord also, was Bargaenland, which hath a priuate king, vnto whom it is subiect. Hauing left Bargaenland, he passed by Blekingie, Meere, Eland and Gotland, 25 hauing them on his leerboord : all which countreyes are subiect to Sweden : and Wenedland was all the way vpon his steerboord, vntil he came to Wixel mouth. Wixel is a very great riuer which runneth along betwixt Witland and Wenedland. Witland is appertaining to the Easterlings : and the riuer of Wixel runneth 30 out of ‡Wenedland into Eastmeere, which Eastmeere is at the least 15. miles in breadth. There runneth also another riuer called Ilsing from the East, and falleth into Eastmeere, out of another lake vpon the banke, whereupon is situated Fruso. So that Ilsing comming out of ||Eastland, and Wixel out of Wened- 35 land, fall both together into Eastmeere, and there Wixel depriueth Ilsing of his name, and runneth thence West & North into the sea ; whereof the place is called Wixelmouth.

The nauigation of King Edgar, taken out of Florentius Wigorniensis, Houeden, and M. Dee his discourse of the Brittish Monarchie, pag. 54, 55, &c. 10

Haue often times (sayd he) and many wayes looked into the state of earthly kingdomes, generally the whole world ouer (as farre as it may be yet knowen to Christian men commonly) being a studie of no great difficultie, but rather 15 a purpose somewhat answerable to a perfect Cosmographer, to finde himselfe Cosmopolites, a citizen and member of the whole and onely one mysticall citie vniuersall, and so consequently to meditate of the Cosmopoliticall gouernment thereof, vnder the King almightie, passing on very 20 swiftly toward the most dreadfull and most comfortable terme prefixed.

And I finde (sayd he) that if this Brittish Monarchie would heretofore haue followed the aduantages which they haue had onward, they might very well, yer this, haue surpassed by iustice, 25 and godly sort, any particular Monarchie els, that euer was on earth since mans creation: and that to all such purposes as to God are most acceptable, and to all perfect common wealths, most honorable, profitable, and comfortable.

But yet (sayd he) there is a little locke of Lady Occasion 30 flickering in the aire, by our hands to catch hold on, wherby we may yet once more (before all be vtterly past, and for euer) discreetly and valiantly recouer and enioy, if not all our ancient & due appurtenances to this Imperiall Brittish monarchie, yet at the least some such notable portion thereof, as (al circumstances 35 [p. 7] duely and iustly | appertaining to peace & amitie with forrein princes being offred & vsed) this may become the most peaceable, most rich, most puissant, & most flourishing monarchie of al els (this day) in christendome. Peaceable, I say, euen with the most part of the selfe same respects that good king Edgar had (being but a Saxon) and by sundry such meanes, as he chiefly in this Empire did put in prooffe and vre triumphantly, whereupon his sirname was Pacificus, most aptly and iustly. This peaceable

 5 king Edgar had in his minde about six hundred yeeres past, the representation of a great part of the selfe same Idæa, which from aboute onely, & by no mans deuise hath streamed downe into my imagination, being as it becommeth a subiect carefull for the godly prosperitie of this British Empire vnder our most peaceable
 10 Queene Elizabeth.

O wisdomes imperiall, most diligently to be imitated, videlicet, prospicere, to foresee. O charitable kingly parent, that was touched with ardent zeale, for procuring the publike profite of his 20 kingdome, yea and also the peaceable enioying therof. O, of an incredible masse of treasure, a kingly portion, yet, in his coffers remayning: if then he had, (or late before) any warres, seeing no notable taxe, or contribution publike is historically mentioned to haue bene for the charges leuied: if in peace he himselfe flourished
 25 so wealthily: O marueilous politicall, & princely prudence, in time of peace to foresee, and preuent, (and that most puissantly, and inuincibly) all possible malice, fraude, force, and mischief forrain. O most discreet liberalitie to such excellent vses, powring out his treasure so abundantly. O faithfull English people (then,)
 30 and worthy subiects, of such an Imperiall and godly Gouvernour. O your true, and willing hearts, and blessed ready hands (then,) so to impart such abundance of victuals for those huge Nauies maintenance: so (I say) as neither dearth of famine, seemed (fondly) to be feared of you, for any intolerable want likely to 35 ensue thereby, nor prices of victuals complained of to be vnreasonable enhaunsed by you, finding for their great sales so good, and rare opportunitie.

This peaceable king Edgar, was one of the perfect Imperiall Monarches of this British Empire, and therefore thus his fame 40 remaineth (for euer) recorded.

whose carcasses are committed to thy custody, yet that Apostolike Ioseph, that triumphant British Arthur, and nowe this peaceable and prouident Saxon king Edgar, doe force me with a certaine sorrowful reuerence, here to celebrate thy memorie.

This peaceable king Edgar (as by ancient Records may 15 appeare) his Sommer progresses, and yerely chiefe pastimes were, the sailing round about this whole Isle of Albion, garded with his grand naue of 4000. saile at the least, parted into 4. equall parts of petie Nauies, eche one being of 1000. ships, for so it is anciently recorded.

nauigauit: hyeme verò, iudicia in Prouincia exercuit:
& hæc omnia ad sui exercitium, & ad hostium fecit 25

Could, and would that peaceable & wise king Edgar, before need, as being in peace and quiet with all nations about him, and notwithstanding mistrusting his possible enemies, make his pastimes so roially, politically, and triumphantly, with so many 30 thousand ships, and at the least with ten times so many men as ships, and that yerely! and shall we being not assured of such neighbors friendship, as may become to vs as cruel and tyrannicall enemies as neuer king Edgar needed to dread the like, and they as many and mighty princes, as neuer king Edgar coped with the 35 like, shall we (said he) not iudge it some part of wisdom, to imitate carefully in some litle proportion (though not with so many thousands) the prosperous pastimes of peaceable king Edgar, that Saxonick Alexander? yea, prosperous pastimes these may bee iustly counted, by which he also made euident to the 40 whole world, that as he wisely knew the ancient bounds and limits of this British Empire, | so that he could and would royally, [p. 8] iustly, and triumphantly enjoy the same, spite of the deuil, and maugre the force of any forreine potentate. And al that, so highly and faithfully to the glory of God finally intended and brought to 5 passe, as the wisest and godliest Prelates and counsellors of those dayes (so counted of and recorded) coulede best aduise and direct him, or perchance, but sincerely commend and duetifully in-courage him in, he being of himselfe so bent, as purposing first inuincibly to fortifie the chiefe and vttermost walles of his Islandish 10 Monarchie, against all forreine encombrance possible. And in that fortification furthering and assuring to trust best his owne ouersight and iudgement, in yeerely viewing the same in euery quarter thereof, and that as it were for his pastime Imperiall, also in Sommer time, to the ende that afterward in all securitie, hee 15 might in Winter time (vacare) be at conuenient leisure on land, chiefly to set foorth Gods due honour, and secondly to vnder-stand, and diligently to listen to the causes and complaints of his commons. For as Matthæus Westmonasteriensis of him to his

20 Habebat autem præterea consuetudinem, per omnes Regni prouincias transire, vt intelligeret quomodo legum iura, & suorum statuta decretorum, à principibus obseruarentur, & ne pauperes à potentibus præiudicium passi, opprimerentur, diligenter inuestigare solebat: in vno fortitudini, in 25 altero Iustitiæ studens, & Reipub. regnique vtilitati con-sulens in vtroque. Hinc hostibus circumquaque timor, & amor omnium erga eum excreuerat subditorum.

Thus we see how in opportunitie, this peaceable Edgar procured to this Empire such prosperous securitie, that his true and 30 faithfull subiects, all maner of wayes (that is at home and also at sea, both outward and inward) might peaceably, safely and securely employ their wits and trauels for the marueilous enriching of this kingdome, and pleasuring very many other, carying forth the naturall commodities of this land, abounding here aboue our 35 necessary vses (and due store reserued) and likewise againe furnishing the same with all necessary and not superfluous forreine commodities, fet from farre or forrein countreys. This was in deed (as before is recorded) a kingly prouidence, Reipub. Regnîq; vtilitati consulens, &c. besides with great vtilitie and profite 40 publique foreseeene, and by his meanes enjoyed, he himselfe vsed most gladly the aduantage of that securitie, in ministring of iustice, or causing the same to be executed all his kingdome ouer, not squmishly, frowningly or skornefully shunning the ragged and tattered sleeue of any suppliant, holding vp to him a simple soiled bill of complaint or petition, and that homely contriued, or afraide at, and timerously hasting from the sickly pale face or feeble limmed suter, extreemely constrained so to speake for himselfe, 5 nor partially smothering his owne conscience, to fauour or mainteine the foule fault and trespasse vnlawfull of any his subiects, how mightie or necessary soeuer, they (els) were, but diligently made search, least Pauperes à potentibus præiudicium passi, opprimerentur. 10

Thus did publike securitie frō forrein foe abroad, and true loue of his owne subiects, garding him at home, and the heauenly spirit directing all his good purposes, cause iustice and equitie in all quarters of this Albion to flourish. For which his peaceable and prosperous benefits at the eternall king his hand obtained, 15 hee became not insolent or declined to tyrannicall regiment (as some princes in other countreis haue made their liues Comico-tragical) but with all his foresaide inuincible Seaforce, abundant wealth, triumphant peace, with securitie and Iustice ouer all his Monarchie preuailing, his heart was continually, and most zealously 20 bent to set foorth the glory, laude and honour of the Almighty Creator, the heauenly and euerlasting king, by such principall and princely meanes, as (then) were deemed to God most acceptable, as many monuments yet to our dayes remaining, do of him vndoubtedly testifie: As this, for one. 25

So that by all these rehearsed Records, it is most euident that the peaceable king Edgar, was one of those Monarchs, in whose handes (if life had suffised) the incredible value and priuledge 20 granted by God and nature vnto this British monarchie, might haue bene peaceably purchased in such sort, as the very blessing and fauour of the diuine Trinitie hath laid meanes for our industrie to attaine to, and enioye the same by.

And though sundry other valiant princes and kings of this land 25 I could recite, which in times past haue either by intent gone about, or by wise and valiant exploit, haue meetely well prospered towards this Islandish appropriate supremacie attaining, yet neuer any other reasonable meanes was vsed, or by humane wit, or industrie can be contriued, to al purposes sufficient, but only by 30 our sea forces preuailing, and so by our inuincible enioying al within the sea limites of our British royaltie contained.

To which incredible political mysterie attaining, no easier, readier, or perfecter plat and introduction, is (as yet) come to my imagination, then is the present and continuall seruice of threescore 35 good and tall warlike ships, with twentie smaller barkes, and those 80. ships (great and smal) with 6660. apt men furnished, and all singularly well appointed for seruice both on sea and land, faithfully and diligently to be done in such circumspect and discreet order, as partly I haue in other places declared, and further (vpon 40 good occasion offered) may declare.

This grand nauie of peaceable king Edgar, of so many thousand ships, and they furnished with an hundred thousand men at the least, with all the finall intents of those sea forces, so inuincible, continually mainteined, the order of the execution of their seruice, the godly and Imperial successe thereof, are in a maner kingly 5 lessons and prophetical encouragements to vs left, euen now to bee as prouident for publique securitie as he was, to be as skilful of our sea right and royal limits, and wisely to finde our selues as able to recouer and enioy the same as he was, who could not chuse, but with the passing and yeerely sayling about this Brittiish 10 Albion, with all the lesser Isles next adiacent round about it, he could not chuse I say, but by such ful and peaceable possession, find himselfe (according to right, and his hearts desire) the true and soueraigne Monarch of all the British Ocean, enuironing any way his empire of Albion and Ireland, with the lesser Islands 15 next adiacent: with memorial whereof, as with one verry precious iewel Imperial, hee adorned the title and crowne of his regalitie, as with the testimonie annexed of the states and nobles of his Empire, to commit to perpetuall memorie, the stile of his chiefe worldly dignitie, in this very tenor of words before also re- 20 membred.

5 E Dric counselled king Kanutus to murther the yong princes Edward and Edmund the sonnes of King Edmund. But because it seemed a thing very dishonourable vnto him to haue them put to death in England, hee sent them, after a short space, vnto the king of Sweden to be slaine. Who, albeit there was a league betweene them, would in no case condescend vnto Canutus 10 his bloody request, but sent them vnto Salomon the king of Hungarie to be nourished and preserued aliue. The one whereof namely Edmund in processe of time there deceased. But Edward receiued to wife Agatha daughter vnto the Germane Emperour Henry, of whom he begot Margaret the Queene of the Scots, and 15 Christina a Nunne, and Clito Edgar.

A Chronicle of the Kings of Man, taken out of M. Camdens Chorographie.

20 IN the yeere of our Lord 1066. Edward King of England, of famous memory deceased, whom Harald sonne of Godwin succeeded in his kingdome; against which Harald the king of Norwaie called Harald Harfager fought a battel at Stain-ford bridge, where the English winning the field put all the Noruegians to flight: out of which 25 flight one Godredus sirnamed Crouan (the sonne of Harald the blacke, who had before time fled out of Island) repaired vnto Godred sonne of Syrric, who then reigned in Man, and was right friendly and honourably entertained by him.

In the very same yeere William the Conquerour subdued 30 England, and Godred the sonne of Syrric, king of Man, deceased, after whom succeeded his sonne Fingal.

Fingal.

In the yeere 1066. Godredus Crouan gathered a fleete of ships, and sailed vnto Man, and giuing battell vnto the people of the countrie, was vanquished and put to flight. The second time 35 also hauing gathered his armie and ships together, hee came vnto Man, fought with the inhabitants, lost the victorie, and was chaced away. Yea, the third time he assembled a great multitude, and comming by night vnto the port which is called Ramsa, hid 300.

of his men in a wood standing vpon the side of the hill called Scacafel. The Sunne was no sooner vp, but the Mannians arranged themselues and with great furie set vpon Godred. And in the midst of the skirmish, the foresaid 300. men rising out of their ambush, and comming vpon the backes of the Mannians, 5 molested them so sore, that they were enforced to flie. But when they saw y^t they were ouercome and had no place of refuge to retire vnto (for the tide of the sea had filled the chanel of the riuier of Ramsa) and seeing the enemie so fiercely pursuing them on the other side, they which remained, with lamentable outcries 10 beseeched Godred to spare their liues. Then hee being mouued with compassion, and pitying their extreme calamitie, because hee had bene of late sustained and nourished among them, sounded a retreat and forbad his souldiers to make any longer pursuit. The day following Godred put his souldiers to their choice, 15 whether they would diuide Man among themselues and inhabite it, or whether they would take the wealth of the countrey, and so returne vnto their owne home. Howbeit, it pleased them better to waste the whole Island and to enrich themselues with the commodities thereof, and so to returne from whence they came. 20 Nowe Godred himselfe with a fewe Islanders which had remained with him, tooke possession of the South part of the Island, and vnto the remnant of the Mannians he granted the North part thereof, vpon condition, that none of them should at any time afterward dare once to chalenge any parcell of the said ground 25 by title of inheritance. Whereupon it commeth to passe, that vnto this day the whole Island is the kings owne Fee-simple, and that all the reuenues thereof pertaine vnto him. Also Godredus subdued Dublin vnto himselfe & a great part of Lainestir. And he so tamed the Scots, that none of them durst build a ship or 30 a boate, with aboue three yron nailles in it. Hee reigned 16. yeeres and died in the Island called Yle. He left behinde him three sonnes, Lagman, Harald, and Olauus. Lagman being the eldest chalenged the kingdome and reigned seuen yeeres. Howbeit Harald his brother rebelled against him a long time, but 35 being at length taken by Lagman, hee was gelt and had his eyes put out. Afterward Lagman repenting him that he had put out the eyes of his brother, did of his owne accord relinquish his kingdome, and taking vpon him the badge of the crosse, he went on pilgrimage to Ierusalem, in which iourney also he died. 40

Boats hauing

In the yeere 1075. all the principall men of the Islands hauing intelligence of the death of Lagman, sent messengers vnto Murecardus O-Brien King of Ireland, requesting him that hee would send some wel-disposed person of his owne kinred and blood royall, vntill Olauus sonne of | Godred were come to full age. The [p. II] king most willingly condescended vnto their request, and sent vnto them one Dopnald the sonne of Tade, charging and commaunding him that with all meekenesse and modestie, hee should gouerne that kingdome, which of right belonged not vnto him.

Howbeit he, after he had once attained vnto the kingdome, neglecting the commaundement of his lord, vsurped the gouernment with great tyrannie, committing many heinous crimes, and so he reigned very disorderly for the space of three yeeres. Then all the princes of the Islands making a generall conspiracie, banded themselues against him, and expelled him out of their dominions. And he flying into Irland returned no more vnto them.

15 In the yeere 1077. one Ingemundus was sent from the king of Norway, to take possession of the kingdome of the Islands.
And being come vnto the Island of Leodus, hee sent messengers vnto all the princes of the Islands to come vnto him, commaund- Lewis.
ing them to assemble themselues, and to appoint him to be their 20 King. In the meane season he and his companions spent their time in robbing and rioting, rauished women and virgines, and addicted themselues to filthy pleasures and to the lustes of the flesh. And when these things were reported vnto the princes of the Islands, who had assembled themselues to chuse him king, 25 being mightely incensed thereat, they made haste towards him, and comming vpon him in the night, they burnt the house wherein hee was, and slue both him and the rest of his company, partly with sword, and partly with fire.

In the yeere 1098. the abbey of S. Maries at Cistertium was 30 founded. In the same yeere also Antiochia was taken by the Christians, and a Comet appeared.

Moreouer, the same yeere there was a battell fought betweene the inhabitants of Man, at Santwat, and they of the North obtained the victory. In which battell were slaine Earle Othor and Mac-35 Maras, chieftaines of both parts.

The same yeere Magnus king of Norway, sonne of Olauus, sonne of Harald Harfagre, being desirous to view the corps of S. Olauus king and Martyr, gaue commaundement that his monument should be opened. But the Bishop and the Clergie with-40 standing this his attempt, the king went very boldly and by his kingly authoritie, caused the cophin to be opened. And when hee had seene with his eyes, and handled with his hands the incorrupt body of the foresaid King and Martyr, a sudden feare came vpon him, and he departed with great haste. The night following Olauus king and Martyr appeared vnto him in a vision, saying: Chuse (I say) vnto your selfe one of these two, either within 30. dayes to lose your life with your kingdome, or else to depart from Norway and neuer to see it againe. The King so 5 soone as he was awaked out of sleepe, called his Princes and Senatours, and expounded the foresaide vision vnto them. And they also being astonished thereat gaue him this counsell, that with all speed he should depart out of Norway. Then he without any further delay caused a Nauie of 160. ships to be prouided, 10 and so sailed vnto the Islands of Orkney, which hee presently subdued, and passing along through all the Islands and conquering them, at length he came vnto the Isle of Man, where he was no sooner arriued, but he went vnto the Isle of S. Patric to see the place of battell, where the inhabitants of Man had of late 15 fought, because many of the dead bodies were as yet vnburied. And seeing that it was a most beautifull Island, it pleased him exceeding well, and therefore hee made choice to inhabite therein his owne selfe, and built forts there which are at this day called by his owne name. He had the people of Galway in such awe, 20 that he constrained them to cut downe their owne timber, and to bring it vnto his shore for the building of his fortes. Hee sailed on further vnto the Isle of Anglesey neere vnto Wales, and finding two Earles therein (either of them being called by the name of Hugo) he slue the one, and the other hee put to flight, and so 25 subdued the Island. But the Welshmen presented many gifts vnto him, and so bidding them farewell he returned vnto Man. Unto Murecard king of Irland he sent his shooes, commaunding him that he should cary them on his shoulders, vpon the birth-day of our Lord through the midst of his Palace, in the sight of 30 his Embassadours, that thereby it might appeare vnto them, that he was subiect vnto king Magnus. Which when the Irishmen heard, they tooke it grieuously and disdeined much thereat. But the King being better aduised, I had rather (said he) not only beare his shooes, but eate his shooes, then that king Magnus 35 should destroy any one prouince in Irland. Wherefore he fulfilled his commaundement, and honourably entertained his Embassadours. Many gifts also he sent vnto king Magnus by them, and concluded a league. But the messengers returning vnto their lord, tolde him of the situation of Irland, of the beautie thereof, 40 of the fruitfulnessse of the soile, and of the holesomnesse of the aire. Magnus hearing these things was fully resolu'd to conquer all Irland vnto himselfe. And for the same purpose he commaunded that a Fleet should be made ready. But he taking his voyage with sixteene ships, & being desirous to view the land, when he had vndiscreetly departed from his Naue, he was suddenly inuironed by the Irish, and was himselfe slaine, together

 5 with all that were with him almost. Hee was interred neere vnto the Church of S. Patric in Armagh. Hee reigned | sixe yeeres. [p. 12]
 After his death the Princes of the Islands sent for Olauus the sonne of Godredus Crouan, who liued in the Court of Henry King of England son vnto William the Conquerour.

10 In the yeere 1102. Olauus sonne of Godredus Crouan beganne his reigne and reigned fourtie yeeres: he was a peaceable man being in league with all the Kings of Scotland and Irland in his time. He tooke to wife Affrica the daughter of Fergusius of Galway, of whom he begat Godredus. Of his concubines he 15 begat Regnaldus, Lagmannus, and Haraldus, and many daughters, whereof one married vnto Sumerledus king of *Herergaidel, which afterward occasioned the ouerthrow of the whole kingdome of the Islands. He begat foure sonnes by her, namely Dulgallus, Raig-naldus, Engus, and Olauus.

20 In the yeere 1134. Olauus gaue vnto Yuo the Abbat of Furnes a portion of his owne ground in Man to build an Abbey in the place which is called Russin. Also hee inriched with reuenues and indued with priuiledges al places of religion within his Islands.

25 In the yere 1142. Godredus y^e son of Olauus sailed vnto the K. of Norway called Hinge, and doing his homage vnto him he remained with him, & was by him honorably entertained. The same yere the 3. sonnes of Harald brother vnto Olauus, who were brought vp at the citie of Dublin, gathering together a great
 30 multitude of people, and all the fugitiues and vagabonds of the kingdome resorted vnto Man, and demaunded of the said king the one halfe of al the kingdome of the Islands. Which thing when the king heard, being desirous to pacifie them, he answered that he would consult about that matter. And a day and place
 35 being appointed, where the consultation should bee kept, in the meane time those miscreants cōspired together, about the murthering of the King. And when the day appointed was come, both companies assembled themselues vnto the hauen towne called Ramsa, and they sate in order, the king with his nobilitie on the 40 one side, and they with their confederates on the other side. Howbeit Regnaldus who had an intention to slay the king, stode

a-side in the midst of the house talking with one of the Princes of the lande. And being called to come vnto the king he turned himselfe about as if hee would haue saluted him, and lifting vp his glittering axe, he chopt the kings head quite off at a blow.

1143. Nowe hauing committed this outrageous vilanie, within a short space they diuided the Island betweene themselues, and gathering an armie together sailed vnto Galway, intending to subdue that also; howbeit the people of Galway assembled themselues, and with great furie encountred with them. Then they immediately turning their backs with great confusion fled vnto Man. And as touching all the Galwedians which inhabited in the said Island, some of them they slue, and the residue they banished.

In the yeere 1143. Godredus sonne of Olaus returning out of Norway was created king of Man; who in reuenge of his fathers death, put out the eyes of two of Haralds sonnes and slue the 15 thirde.

In the yeere 1144. Godredus began his reigne, and hee reigned thirtie yeeres. In the thirde yeere of his reigne the citizens of Dublin sent for him and created him king of Dublin, against whom Murecardus king of Irland made warre, and encamping 20 himselfe at the citie called Coridelis, he sent his brother Osibel with 3000. horsemen vnto Dublin, who was slaine by Godred and the Dubliners, the rest of his company being put to flight. These things being thus finished, Godredus returned vnto Man, and began to exercise tyrannie, disinheriting certaine of his nobles, 25 of whom one called Thorfinus the sonne of Oter, being mightier then the rest, went vnto Sumerledus, and named Dubgal the sonne of Sumerledus, king of the Islands, and subdued many of the said Islands on his behalfe. Whereof when Godred had intelligence by one Paulus, prouiding a Nauie, hee went to meete 30 Sumerledus comming against him with 80. ships: and in the 1156. yeere 1156. vpon the night of the feast of Epiphanie, there was a Sea-battell fought, and many being slaine on both parts, the day folowing they were pacified, and diuided the kingdome of the Islands among themselues, and it continued two kingdomes from 35 that day vnto this present time. And this was the cause of the ruine of the monarchie of the Islands, from which time the sonnes of Sumerled inioyed the one halfe thereof.

In the yeere 1158. Sumerled came vnto Man with 53. ships, putting Godred to flight and wasting the Island: and Godred 40 sailed vnto Norway to seeke for aide against Sumerled. In the yere 1164. Sumerled gathered a fleete of 160. ships together; and arriued at Rhinfrin, intending to subdue all Scotland vnto himselfe : howbeit, by Gods iust iudgement being ouercome by a few, together with his sonne, and an innumerable multitude of people, he was slaine. The very same yere there was a battel fought at Ramsa, betweene Reginald the brother of Godred, and the inhabitants of Man, but by the stratageme of a certaine Earle the Mannians were put to flight. Then began Reginald to vsurpe the kingly authoritie. Howbeit his brother Godred within foure dayes after, comming out of Norway with a great power of armed men, apprehended his brother Reginald, gelt him, and put out his eyes.

 10 The same yeere deceased Malcolme the king of Scots, and | his [p. 13]
 brother William succeeded in the kingdome.

In the yeere 1166. two Comets appeared in the moneth of August, before the rising of the Sunne, one to the South and another to the North.

15 In the yeere 1171. Richard earle of Penbroke sailed into Irland, and subdued Dublin with a great part of Irland.

In the yere 1176. Iohn Curcy conquered Vlster vnto himselfe. And at the same time also Viuianus legate frō the sea of Rome came into Man, & caused king Godred to bee lawfully wedded 20 vnto his wife Phingola, daughter of Maclotlen son of Murkartac king of Irlād, mother of Olauus, who was then 3. yeeres old. Siluanus the abbat married them, vnto whom the very same day, king Godred gaue a portion of ground in Mirescoge, where he built a Monastery : howbeit, in processe of time, the said land with 25 the monkes, was granted vnto the abbey of Russin.

In the yere 1172. Reginaldus the son of Eacmarcat (a man descended of the blood royal) comming into Man with a great multitude of people, in the absence of the king, at the first conflict hee put to flight certaine watchmen which kept the shoare, 30 and slue about 30. persons. Whereupon the very same day the Mannians arranging themselues put him, & almost al his folowers to the sword.

In the yere 1183. O-Fogolt was vicount of Man.

In the yere 1185. the Sunne was eclipsed vpon the feast of 35 S. Philip and Iacob.

In the yere 1187. deceased Godred king of the Islands, vpō the 4. of the Ides of Nouember, and the next sommer his body was translated vnto the island of Hy. He left 3. sonnes behinde him, Reginaldus, Olauus, and Yuarus. In his life time he 40 ordeined his sonne Olauus to be his heire apparant, because he onely was borne legitimate. But the Mannians, when Olauus was scarce ten yeeres olde, sent vnto the islands for Reginald and created him king.

In the yeere 1187. began Reginald the sonne of Godred to reigne ouer the islands: and Murchardus a man of great power throughout all the kingdome of the islands was put to death.

In the yere 1192. there was a battel fought betweene Reginald and Engus the two sonnes of Sumerled: but Engus obtained the victory. The same yere was the abbey of Russin remooued vnto Dufglas, howbeit within foure yeeres after the monkes returned vnto Russin.

In the yere 1203. Michael bishop of the islands deceased at Fontanas, and Nicholas succeeded in his roome. 10

In the yere 1204. Hugo de Lacy inuaded Vlster with an armie and encountered with Iohn de Curcy, tooke him prisoner & subdued Vlster vnto himselfe. Afterward he permitted the said Iohn to goe at libertie, who comming vnto king Reginald was honourably entertained by him, because he was his sonne in lawe, for Iohn de Curcy had taken to wife Affrica the daughter of Godredus, which founded the abbey of S. Mary de iugo domini, and was there buried. 15

In the yeere 1205. Iohn de Curcy & Reginald king of the islands inuading Vlster with a hundreth ships at the port which is called Stranfeord did negligently besiege the castle of Rath: but Walter de Lacy cōming vpō them with his armie, put them to flight, & from that time Curcy neuer recouered his land. In the yere 1210. Engus the son of Sumerled & his 3. sonnes were slaine. 25

passed into Ireland with 500. sailes.

At the same time Iohn king of England conducted a fleet of 500. ships into Irland, and subdued it vnto himselfe: and sending a certaine earle named Fulco, vnto the isle of Man, his souldiers almost vtterly wasted it in the space of 15. dayes, and hauing taken pledges they returned home into their owne countrey. King Reginald and his nobles were at this time absent from Man. 30

In the yere 1217. deceased Nicolas bishop of the islands, and was buried in Vlster, in the house of Benchor, whom Reginald succeeded.

I thinke it not amisse to report somewhat more concerning the two foresaid brethren Reginaldus and Olauus. 35

Reginald gaue vnto his brother Olauus, the island called Lodhus or Lewes, which is saide to be larger then the rest of the islands, but almost destitute of inhabitants, because it is 40

so ful of mountaines & quarreis, being almost no where fit for tillage. Howbeit the inhabitants thereof do liue for the most part vpon hunting and fishing. Olauus therefore went to take possession of this Island, and dwelt therein leading a poore life: and
 5 when he saw that it would by no meanes suffice for the sustentation of himselfe & his folowers, hee went boldly vnto his brother Reginald, who as then remained in the islands, & spake on this wise vnto him. My brother (said he) and my lord and king, you know that the kingdom of the islands pertained vnto me by right
 10 of inheritance, howbeit because the Lord had chosen you to beare the scepter, I doe not enuie that honour vnto you, neither doeth it any whit grieue mee that you are exalted vnto this royall dignitie. Nowe therefore I beseech you to prouide mee some portion of land in the islands, whereby I may honestly liue. | For [p. 14]
 15 the Island of Lewis which you gaue me is not sufficient for my maintenance. Which his brother Reginald hearing said that he would consult about the premisses. And on the morow, when Olauus was sent for to parle, Reginald cōmanded him to be attached, and to be caried vnto William king of Scotland, and with 20 him to remaine prisoner: and Olauus remained in prison almost for the space of 7. yeres. But at the 7. yeres end William king of Scots deceased, and Alexander his sonne reigned in his stead. The foresaid William, before his death, commanded that all prisoners should be set at libertie. Olauus therefore being at 25 libertie came vnto Man, and immediately with a great company of nobles tooke his iourney vnto S. Iames: and his brother Reginald caused the said Olauus to take vnto wife, the daughter of a certaine noble man of Kentyre, cousine german vnto his owne wife, & by name being called Lauon, and he granted vnto him
 30 the possession of Lewis. After a few dayes Reginald the bishop of the Islands hauing gathered a Synod, separated Olauus and Godred his sonne, and Lauon his wife, namely because shee was cousin german vnto his former wife. Afterward Olauus married Scristina daughter vnto Ferkarus earle of Rosse.
 35 Hereupon the wife of Reginald Queene of the Islands being incensed, sent letters vnto the Island of Sky in K. Reginald his name to her sonne Godred willing him to take Olauus. Which cōmandement Godred putting in practise, & entring the isle of Lewis for y^e same purpose, Olauus fled in a litle skiffe vnto his 40 father in law the earle of Rosse, & in the meane time Godred wasted the isle of Lewis. At the very same time Pol the son of Boke vicount of Sky, being a man of power in al the Islands, because he would not consent vnto Godred, fled, & dwelt together with Olauus in the dominions of the earle of Rosse, & making a league with Olauus, they went both in a ship vnto Sky. To be short, sending certaine spies, they were informed that Godred remained secure with a smal company in a certaine Isle called y^e isle of S. Columba. And vniting vnto themselues their friends 5 and acquaintance, & others that would goe voluntarily with them, in the dead of the night, hauing lanched 5. ships from the next sea-shore, which was distant about the space of 2. furlongs from the foresaid Island, they enuironed the said Island on all sides. Now Godred and his company rising early in the morning, and 10 seeing themselues beset with their enemies on all sides, they were vtterly astonied. Howbeit arming themselues they began stoutly to make resistance, but altogether in vaine. For about 9. of the clocke in the morning, Olauus and the foresaid vicount Pol, with al their souldiers, entred the Island, and hauing slaine all whom 15 they found without the precincts of the Church, they apprehended Godred, gelding him, and putting out his eyes. Unto which action Olauus gaue not his cōsent, neither could he withstand it, by reason of the forenamed vicount the son of Boke. This was done in the yere of Christ 1223. The next sommer folowing 20 Olauus hauing receiued pledges from all the chiefe men of the Islands, with a fleet of 32. ships sailed vnto Man, and arriued at Rognolfwaht. At the same time Reginald and Olauus diuided the kingdome of the Islands betweene themselues, Man being granted vnto Reginald, & besides his portion the name of a king 25 also. Olauus hauing receiued certaine victuals of the people of Man, returned, together with his company, vnto his owne portion of Islands. The yeere folowing Reginald taking vnto him Alanus lord of Galway, together with his subiects of Man, sailed vnto the Islands, that hee might take away that portion of ground from his 30 brother Olauus, which he had granted vnto him, and subdue it vnto himselfe. Howbeit, by reason that the people of Man had no list to fight against Olauus or the Islanders, because they bare good will towards them, Reginald and Alanus lord of Galway being defeated of their purpose, returned home vnto their owne. 35 Within a short space after Reginald, vnder pretense of going vnto the Court of his lord the king of England, receiued an 100. markes of the people of Man, and tooke his journey vnto Alanus lord of Galway. Which the people of Man hearing tooke great indignation thereat, insomuch that they sent for Olauus, and appointed 40 him to be their king.

The Isle of Man aduanced to a kingdome.

In the yeere 1226. Olauus recouered his inheritance, that is to say the kingdome of Man and of the Islands, which Reginald his brother had gouerned for the space of 38. yeeres, and he reigned two yeeres in safetie.

In the yeere 1228. Olauus with all his nobles of Man, and the stronger part of his people, sailed vnto the Islands. A short
 5 space after Alanus lord of Galway, Thomas earle of Athol, & king Reginald came vnto Man with a mightie army, and wasted all the South part of Man, spoiled the Churches, and slue all the men whom they coulde take, insomuch, that the South part of the saide Island was brought almost into desolation. And then Alanus 10 returned with his army into his owne land, leauing behind him bailiffes and substitutes in Man, which should gather vp and render vnto him the tribute of the countrey. Howbeit king Olauus came suddenly vpon them, chaced them away and recovered his kingdome. And the Mannians which of late were
 15 dispersed and scattered abroad, began to vnite themselues, and to inhabite without feare. The same yeere, in the time of Winter, vpon the sudden, and in the very dead of the night came king Reginald out of Galway | with fiue ships, and burnt all the ships [p. 15] of his brother Olauus, and of the nobles of Man, at the Isle of
 20 S. Patric, & concluding a peace with his brother, remained at the port of Ragnolwath 40. dayes: in the meane while hee allured vnto himselfe all the Islanders vpon the South part of Man, who sware, that they would aduenture their liues, vntill hee had gotten the one halfe of his kingdome: contrarywise Olauus ioyned vnto
 25 himselfe them of the North part, & vpon the 14. of February in the place called Tingualla, a field was fought betweene the two brothers, wherein Olauus got the victory, and Reginald the king was by certaine souldiers slaine without the knowledge of his brother. Also certaine pirates comming to the south part of 30 Man, wasted & spoiled it. The monkes of Russin conueyed the body of K. Reginald, vnto the abbey of S. Mary of Fournes, & there he was interred in the place, which his owne selfe had chosen for the purpose. After these things Olauus traueiled vnto the king of Norway, but before he was arriued there, Haco king of 35 Norway appointed a certaine noble man named Husbac the son of Owmund, to be king of the Islands of the Hebrides & called his name Haco. Then came the said Haco with Olauus & Godred Don the son of Reginald, and a multitude of Noruegians, vnto the islands: and while they were giuing an assault vnto 40 a castle in the island of Both, Haco being hit with a stone died, and was buried in Iona.

In the yere 1230. came Olauus, with Godredus Don, & certeine Noruegians vnto Man, and they parted the kingdome among themselves, Olauus stil reteining Man. Godred as he was going vnto the islands, was slaine in the isle of Lewis, & Olauus inioyed the kingdome of the islands also.

In the yere 1237. vpon the 12. of the Kalends of Iune, Olauus sonne of Godred king of Man deceased in the isle of 5 S. Patric, and was interred in the abbey of Russin. He reigned 11. yeres, two while his brother was aliue, and nine after his death.

Haraldus his sonne being of the age of 14. yeres, succeeded, and he reigned 12. yeeres. The first yere of his reigne taking his 10 iourney vnto the islands, he appointed one Loglen his kinsman to be his deputie in Man. The Autumne folowing Haraldus sent the three sonnes of Nel, namely Dufgaldus, Torquellus, & Molmore, and his friend Ioseph vnto Man, that they might enter into cōsultation together. Wherefore the 25. day they assembled them- 15 selues at Tingualla: and malice growing betweene the sonnes of Nel, and Loglen, they fel to blowes and skirmished sore on both parts, Molmore, Dufgald, and the foresaid Ioseph being all slaine in the fray. The Spring folowing, king Harald came into the isle of Man, and Loglen fleeing into Wales, was himselfe, together with 20 Godred the sonne of Olauus his pupil, and 40. others, drowned by shipwracke.

In the yere 1238. Gospatricius and Gillescrist sonne of Mac-Kerthac came from the king of Norway vnto Man, expelling Harald out of the said island, and taking tribute on the behalfe of 25 the Noruegian king, because the said Harald refused to come vnto his Court.

In the yere 1240. Gospatricius deceased and was buried in the abbey of Russin.

In the yere 1239. Haraldus went vnto the king of Norway, 30 who within two yeres confirmed vnto him, his heires and successors, vnder seale, all the islands which his predecessors enioyed.

In the yeere 1242. Haraldus returned out of Norway vnto Man, and being honourably receiued by the inhabitants, he liued 35 in peace with the kings of England and Scotland.

In the yeere 1247. Haraldus (like as his father also before him) was knighted by the king of England, and so being rewarded with many gifts, he returned home. The same yere he was sent for by the king of Norway, and he married his daughter. And in 40 the yere 1249. as he was returning home with his wife, with Laurence the elect of Man, and with many other nobles, neere vnto the confines of Radland, he was drowned in a tempest.

In the yere 1249. Reginald the sonne of Olauus, and brother vnto Harald began to reigne the day next before the Nones of May: and vpon the 30. day of the same moneth he was slaine by Yuarus a souldier, and other of his complices, in the South part of 5 a certaine medow, neere vnto the Church of the holy Trinitie, and he was buried at the Church of S. Marie at Russin.

The same yere Alexander king of Scots prouided a great nauie of ships, that he might conquire the islands vnto himselfe: howbeit falling into an ague at the isle of Kerwary, he deceased.

10 Then Haraldus the sonne of Godred Don vsurped the name of a king ouer the islands, hee banished also all the princes of Harald the sonne of Olauus, and ordeined his fugitiues to bee princes and nobles in their stead.

In the yere 1250. Haraldus the son of Godred Don being 15 summoned by letters went vnto the king of Norway, who deteined him in prison because he had vniustly possessed the kingdome. The same yeere Magnus the sonne of Olauus, and Iohn the sonne of Dugalt arriued at Roghalwaht, which Iohn named himselfe king, but the Mannians taking it grieuously, that Magnus was not 20 nominated, draue them from their shoare, and many of the company perished by shipwracke.

In the yeere 1252. came Magnus the sonne of Olauus vnto Man, and was ordeined king. The yere folowing he tooke his journey vnto the king of Norway, & there he remained one whole 25 yere.

| In the yeere 1254. Haco king of Norway ordeined Magnus [p. 16] the sonne of Olauus king of the Islands, confirming them to him and to his heires, and by name vnto Harald his brother.

In the yere 1256. Magnus tooke his iourney into England, and 30 was by the king of England created knight.

In y^e yere 1257. the Church of S. Maries of Russin was dedicated by Richard bishop of Soder.

In the yeere 1260. Haco king of Norway came into the parts of Scotland, and without atchieuing ought, turning his course towards 35 the Orcades he there deceased at Kirwas, and was buried at Bergen.

In the yeere 1265. Magnus the sonne of Olauus king of Man and of the Islands died at the castle of Russin, and was buried at the Church of S. Mary at Russin.

40 In the yere 1266. the kingdome of the Islands was translated vnto Alexander king of Scots.

That which followeth was written in a new character or letter, and of a diuers kinde from the former.

IN the yeere 1270. vpon the seuenth day of October the Fleete of Alexander king of Scots arriued at Roghalwath, and the next day before the Sunne rising there was a battell fought betweene the Mannians and the Scots, in the which conflict there were slaine 535. Mannians: whereupon a certaine versifier writeth to this effect:

Fiue hundreth fourtie men are slaine:

against ill haps,

Yee Mannians arme your selues, for feare of afterclaps.

In the yeere 1313. Robert king of Scots besieged the castle of Russin, which Dingawy Dowil held against him, howbeit at the last the king tooke the castle.

15

In the yeere 1316. vpon the feast of Ascension, Richard le Mandeuille and his brethren, with diuers great personages of Irland arriued at Ramaldwath, demaunding to haue victuals and money ministred vnto them, because they had bene spoyled by their enemies, which made continuall warre vpon them. But when the whole company of the Mannians answered that they would giue nothing, they proceeded against them in warlike maner with two bands, till they were come vnder the side of the hill called Warthfel, in the felde where Iohn Mandeuille remained, and there hauing fought a battell, the Irish ouercame the people of Man, and spoiled the Island and the Abbey of Russin also: and when they had reueled a whole moneth in the Island, lading their ships they returned home.

H Arald being slaine his two sonnes with their sister sped themselves immediatly into Denmarke. Whom Sweno forgetting their fathers deserts receiued in most kinde and friendly maner, and bestowed the yong damosell in mariage vpon Walde-from Edward the Confessour and William the Conquerour, and so downe to Edward the first, 20 faithfully gathered by the learned Gentleman

M. William Lambert in his Perambulation of Kent, out of the most ancient Records of England.

25  Finde in the booke of the generall suruey of the Realme, which William the Conquerour caused to bee made in the fourth yeere of his reigne, and to be called Domesday, because (as Matthew Parise saith) it spared no man but iudged all men 30 indifferently, as the Lord in that great day wil do, that Douer, Sandwich, and Rumney, were in the time of K. Edward the Confessour, discharged almost of all maner of impositions and burdens (which other townes did beare) in consideration of such seruice to bee done by them vpon the Sea, as in their special titles shall hereafter appeare.

35 Whereupon, although I might ground reasonable coniecture, that the immunitie of the hauen Townes (which we nowe call by a certaine number, the Cinque Ports) might take their beginning from the same Edward: yet for as much as I read in the Chartre of K. Edward the first after the conquest (which is reported in our booke of Entries) A recitall of the graunts of sundry kings to the Fiue Ports, the same reaching no higher then to William the Conquerour, I will leaue my coniecture, and leane to his Chartre: contenting my selfe to yelde to the Conquerour, the thanks of 5 other mens benefits, seeing those which were benefited, were wisely contented (as the case then stood) to like better of his confirmation (or second gift) then of K. Edwards first graunt, and endowment.

And to the ende that I may proceed in some maner of array, 10 I will first shewe, which Townes were at the beginning taken for the Fiue Ports, and what others be now reputed in the same number: secondly, what seruice they ought, and did in times passed: and lastly, what priuiledges they haue therefore, and by what persons they haue bene gouerned. 15

If I should iudge by the common, and rude verse,

Douer, Sandwich, Ry, Rum, Frigmarc ventus,

Which be the Fiue
Ports.

I must say, that Douer, Sandwich, Rie, Rumney, and Winchelsey, (for that is, Frigmarc ventus) be the Fiue Ports: Againe, if I should be ruled by the Rolle which reciteth the Ports that send 20 Barons to the Parliament, I must then adde to these, Hastings and Hyde, for they also haue their Barons as well as the other: and so should I not onely, not shew which were the first Fiue, but also (by addition of two others) increase both the number, and doubtfulnesse. Leauing the verse therefore, for ignorance of the 25 authour and suspicion of his authoritie, and forsaking the Rolle (as not assured of the antiquitie) I will flee to Henry Bracton, a man both ancient, learned, and credible, which liued vnder K. Henry the thirde, and wrote (aboue three hundreth yeeres since) learnedly of the lawes of this Realme. 30

1250.

He (I say) in the third booke of his worke, and treatise of the Crowne, taking in hand to shewe the articles inquirable before the Iustice in Eire, (or Itinerent, as we called them, because they vsed to ride from place to place throughout the Realme, for administration of iustice) setteth forth a special fourme of writs, to be directed 35 seuerally to the Bailifes of Hastings, Hithe, Rumney, Douer, and Sandwich, commanding them, that they should cause twentie & foure of their Barons (for so their Burgesses, or townesmen, and the citizens of London likewise, were wont to be termed) to appeare before the Kings Iustices at Shipwey in Kent (as they accustomed 40 to do) there to enquire of such points, as should be giuen in charge. Which done, hee addeth moreouer, that forsomuch as there was oftentimes cōtention betweene them of the Fiue Ports, & the in-

were called

habitants of Yarmouth in Norfolke and Donwich in Suffolke, there should be seuerall writs directed to them also, returnable before the same Iustices at the same day and place, reciting, that where the King had by his former writs sommoned the Pleas of the Fiue Ports to bee holden at Shipwey, if any of the same townes had cause to complaine of any (being within the liberties of the said Ports) he should be at Shipwey to propound against him, and there to receiue according to law and Iustice.

Thus much I recite out of Bracton, partly to shew that Shipwey was before K. Edward the firsts time, the place of assembly for the Plees of the Fiue Ports: partly to notifie the difference, and controuersie that long time since was betweene these Ports, and those other townes: But purposely, and chiefly, to proue, that Hastings, and Hithe, Douer, Rumney, and Sandwich, were in Bractons time accompted the Fiue principall hauens or Ports, which were endowed with priuiledge, and had the same ratified by the great Chartre of England.

Neither yet will I deny, but that soone after, Winchelsey and Rie might be added to the num|ber. For I find in an old recorde, that king Henry the third tooke into his owne hands (for the better defence of the Realme) the townes of Winchelsey, and Rie, which belonged before to the Monasterie of Fescampe in Normandie, and gaue therefore in exchange, the Manor of Chiltham in Gloucestershire, & diuers other lands in Lincolneshire. This he did, partly to conceale from the Priors Aliens the intelligence of the secret affaires of his Realme, and partly because of a great disobedience & excesse, that was committed by the inhabitants of Wincelsey, against Prince Edward his eldest sonne. And therefore, although I can easily be led to thinke, that he submitted them for their correction to the order, and gouernance of the Fiue ports, yet I stand doubtfull whether hee made them partners of their priuiledges, or no, for that had bene a preferment, and no punishment vnto them: but I suspect rather, that his sonne king Edward the first, (by whose encouragement and aide, olde Winchelsey was afterward abandoned, and the newe towne builded) was the first that apparelled them with that preeminence.

[p. 18]

Winchelsey
first builded.
1277.

By this therefore let it appeare, that Hastings, Douer, Hithe, Rumney, and Sandwich, were the first Ports of priuiledge: which (because they were 5. in number) both at the first gaue, and yet continue, to all the residue, the name of Cinque Ports, although not onely Winchelsey and Rie, be (since that time) incorporated with them as principals, but diuers other places also (for the ease of their charge) be crept in, as partes, lims, and members of the same.

Now therefore, somewhat shalbe said, as touching the seruices that these Ports of duetie owe, and in deed haue done, to the Princes: whereof the one (I meane with what number of vessels, in what maner of furniture, and for how long season, they ought to wait on the king at the Sea, vpon their owne charges) shall partly appeare by that which we shall presently say, and partly by that which shall followe in Sandwich, and Rumney: The other shall bee made manifest by examples, drawne out of good histories: and they both shall be testified by the words of king Edward the first in his owne Chartre. 10

The booke of Domesday before remembred, chargeth Douer with twentie vessels at the sea, whereof eche to be furnished with one and twentie men for fiteene dayes together: and saith further, that Rumney and Sandwich answered the like seruice. But now whether this (like) ought to be vnderstoode of the like altogether, both in respect of the number and seruice, or of the (like) in respect of seruice, according to the proportion of their abilitie onely, I may not hereby take vpon me to determine. For on the one side, if Rumney, Sandwich, and the residue, should likewise finde twentie vessels a piece, then (as you shall anone see) the fise Ports were subject to a greater charge at that time, then King Edward the first layd vpon them: And on the other side, if they were onely chargeable after their proportion, then know I not how farre to burthen them, seeing the Record of Domesday it selfe, bindeth them to no certeintie. And therefore leauing this as I find it, I must elsewhere make inquisition for more lightsome prooffe. And first I will haue recourse to king Edward the first his Chartre in which I read, that At ech time that the King passeth ouer the sea, the Ports ought to rigge vp fiftie and seuen ships, (whereof euery one to haue twentie armed souldiers) and to mainteine them at their owne costes, by the space of fiteene dayes together. 20 25 30

And thus it stode with the Ports for their generall charge, in the sixt yeere of his reigne, for then was this Chartre sealed. But as touching the particular burthen of ech one, I haue seene two diuers testimonies, of which the first is a note in French (bearing the countenance of a Record) and is intituled, to haue bene renued in the two and twentie yeere of the Reigne of the same king, by Stephan Penchester, then Constable of Douer Castle, in which the particular charge is set downe in this maner. 40

The Port of Hastings ought to finde three ships.

The lowie of Peuensey, one.

Buluerhithe and Petit Iahn, one.

Bekesborne in Kent, seuen.

Grenche at Gillingham in Kent, two men and armour, with the ships of Hastings.

The towne of Rie, fwe.

5 To it was Tenterdene annexed, in the time of King Henrie the sixt.

The towne of Winchelsey, tenne.

The Port of Rumney, foure.

Lydde, seuen.

10 The Port of Hythe, fwe.

The Port of Douer, nineteene.

The towne of Folkestone, seuen.

The towne of Feuersham, seuen.

The Port of Sandwich, with Stonor, Fordwich, Dale, &c.

| These ships they ought to finde vpon fortie dayes summons, [p. 19] armed and arrayed at their owne charge, and in ech of them twentie men, besides the Master of the Mariners : all which they shall likewise mainteine fwe dayes together at their owne costs, 20 giuing to the Maister sixe pence by the day, to the Constable sixe pence, and to ech other Mariner three pence. And after those fwe dayes ended, the King shall defray the charges.

The other is a Latine Custumall of the towne of Hyde, the which although it pretend not so great antiquity as the first, yet 25 seemeth it to me to import as much or more likelihood and credit : It standeth thus.

These be the Five Ports of our soueraigne Lord the King hauing liberties, which other Ports haue not : Hasting, Romenal, Heth, Douer, Sandwich, the chiefe Townes.

30 The seruices due by the same.

Hasting shall finde 21. ships, in euery ship 21. men, and a Garcion, or Boy, which is called a Gromet. To it perteine (as the members of one towne) the Seashore in Seford, Peuenshey, Hodeney, Winchelsey, Rie, Ihame, Bekesbourne, Grengre, Northie, 35 Bulwerheth.

Romenal 5. ships, in euery ship 21. men, and a Garcion : To it perteine, as members thereof, Promhell, Lede, Eastwestone, Dengemareys, olde Rumney.

Hethe 5. ships, as Romenal before. To it perteineth the 40 Westheth.

Douer 21. ships, as Hasting before. To it perteine, Folkstane, Feuersham, and S. Margarets, not concerning the land, but for the goods and cattels.

Sandwich 5 ships, as Romenal, and Hethe. To it pertaine Fordwich, Reculuer, Serre, and Dele, not for the soile, but for the goods.

Summe of ships 57.

Summe of the men 1187. and 57. Garcions.

This seruice, the Barons of the Fiue Ports doe acknowledge to owe to the King, vpon summons yerely (if it happen) by the space of 15. dayes together, at their owne costs and charges, accounting that for the first day of the 15. in which they shall spread their sailes to goe towards those parts that the King intendeth: 10 and to serue so long after 15. dayes, as the King will, at his owne pay and wages.

Thus much out of these ancient notes, whereby your selfe may easily discerne the difference: but whether the one or the other, or (by reason of some latter dispensation) neither of these, haue 15 place at this day, I must referre it to them that be priuie, and of counsell with the Ports: and so leauing this also vndecided, holde on the way, wherein I am entred.

This duetie of attendance therefore (being deuised for the honourable transportation, and safe conduct of the Kings owne 20 person or his armie ouer the narrow Seas) the Ports haue not onely most diligently euer since that time performed, but furthermore also valiantly behaued themselues against the enemie from time to time, in sundrie exploits by water, as occasion hath bene profered, or the necessitie of the Realme required. 25

seruice of the fiue Ports.

1217.

And amongst other feats not vnwoorthy perpetuall remembrance, after such time as Lewes (the eldest sonne of the French King) had entred the Realme to aide Stephan Langton the Archbishop, and the Nobilitie, in the life of King Iohn, and had sent into France for new supply of souldiers after his death, Hubert 30 of Borough (then captaine of Douer) following the opinion of Themistocles in the exposition of the oracle of the wooden walles, by the aide of the Port townes, armed fortie tall ships, and meeting with eightie saile of Frenchmen vpon the high seas, gaue them a most courageous encounter, in which he tooke some, sunke 35 others, and discomfited the rest.

King Henrie the third also, after that he came to riper age, had great benefit by the seruice of the Cinque Ports: And king Edward the first in his Chartre, maketh their continuall faithfull 40 seruice (and especially their good endeuour, then lately shewed against the Welshmen) the principall cause, and motiue of that his liberall grant.

Furthermore, about the midst of the reigne of the same king, an hundreth saile of the Nauie of the Ports fought at the Sea with a fleet of 200. French men, all which (notwithstanding the great oddes of the number) they tooke, and slew, and sunke so many of 1293.
5 the Mariners, that France was thereby (for a long season after) in maner destitute, both of Seamen, and shipping.

Finally, and to conclude this part, in the dayes of king Henrie 1406.
the fourth, the nauie of the Fiue Ports, vnder the conduct of one Henrie Paye, surprised one hundreth and twentie French ships, 10 all laden with Salt, Iron, Oile, and no woorse merchandize.

The priuiledges of these Ports, being first granted by Edward the Confessour, and William the Conquerour, and then confirmed and increased by William Rufus, Henrie the second, Richard | the first, Henrie the third, and king Edward the first, be very great, 1293.

Part of an Epistle written by one Yuo of Nar-bona vnto the Archbishop of Burdeaux, conteining the confession of an Englishman as touching the barbarous demeanour of the Tartars, which had liued long among 20 them, and was drawn along perforce with them in their expedition against Hungarie: Recorded by Mathew Paris in the yere of our Lord 1243.

25 THe Lord therefore being prouoked to indignation, by reason of this and other sinnes committed among vs Christians, is become, as it were, a destroyingemie, and a dreadfull auenger. This I may iustly affirme to be true, because an huge nation, and a barbarous and inhumane people, whose law is lawlesse, whose wrath is furious, euen the rod of Gods anger, ouerrunneth, and 30 vtterly wasteth infinite countreyes, cruelly abolishing all things where they come, with fire and sword. And this present Summer, the foresayd nation, being called Tartars, departing out of Hungarie, which they had surprised by treason, layd siege vnto the very same *towne, wherein I my selfe abode, with many thousands 35 of souldiers: neither were there in the sayd towne on our part about 50. men of warre, whom, together with 20. crosbowes, the capitaine had left in garrison. All these, out of certeine high places, beholding the enemies vaste armie, and abhorring the beastly crueltie of Antichrist his complices, signified forthwith vnto their gouernour, the hideous lamentations of his Christian subiects, who suddenly being surprised in all the prouince adioyning, without any difference or respect of condition, fortune, 5 sexe, or age, were by manifolde cruelties, all of them destroyed : with whose carkeises, the Tartarian chieftains, and their brutish and sauage followers, glutting themselues, as with delicious cates, left nothing for vultures but the bare bones. And a strange thing it is to consider, that the greedie and rauinous vultures disdeined 10 to praye vpon any of the reliques, which remained. Olde, and deformed women they gaue, as it were, for dayly sustenance, vnto their Canibals : the beautifull deuoured they not, but smothered them lamenting and scritchng, with forced and vnnaturall rauishments. Like barbarous miscreants, they quelled virgins vnto 15 death, and cutting off their tender paps to present for deinties vnto their magistrates, they engorged themselues with their bodies.

Howbeit, their spials in the meane time discryng from the top of an high mountaine the Duke of Austria, the King of 20 Bohemia, the Patriarch of Aquileia, the Duke of Carinthia, and (as some report) the Earle of Baden, with a mightie power, and in battell aray, approching towards them, that accursed crew immediatly vanished, and all those Tartarian vagabonds retired themselues into the distressed and vanquished land of Hungarie ; 25 who as they came suddenly, so they departed also on the sudden : which their celeritie caused all men to stand in horreur and astonishment of them. But of the sayd fugitiues, the prince of Dalmatia tooke eight : one of which number the Duke of Austria knew to be an English man, who was perpetually banished 30 out of the Realme of England, in regard of certaine notorious crimes by him committed. This fellow, on the behalfe of the most tyrannical king of the Tartars, had bene twice, as a messenger and interpreter, with the king of Hungarie, menacing and plainly foretelling those mischiefes which afterward happened, vnlesse he 35 would submit himselfe and his kingdome vnto the Tartars yoke. Well, being allured by our Princes to confesse the trueth, he made such oathes and protestations, as (I thinke) the deuill himselfe would haue benee trusted for. First therefore he reported of himselfe, that presently after the time of his banishment, namely 40 about the 30. yere of his age, hauing lost all that he had in the citie of Acon at dice, euen in the midst of Winter, being compelled by ignominious hunger, wearing nothing about him but a shirt of sacke, a paire of shooes, and a haire cappe onely, being shauen like a foole, and vttering an vncoth noise as if he had bene dumbe, he tooke his iourney, and so traueiling many countreyes, and finding in diuers places friendly entertainment, he prolonged his life

 5 in this maner for a season, albeit euery day by rashnesse of speech, and inconstancie of heart, he endangered himselfe to the deuill. At length, by reason of extreame trauaile, and continuall change of aire and of meats in Caldea, he fell into a grievous sicknesse, insomuch that he was wearie of his life. Not being able therefore
 10 to go forward or backward, and staying there a while to refresh himselfe, he began (being somewhat learned) to commend to writing those wordes which hee heard spoken, and within a short space, so aptly to pronounce, and to vtter them himselfe, that he was reputed for a natieue member of that countrey: and by the 15 same dexteritie he attained to manie languages. This man the Tartars hauing intelligence of by their spies, drew him perforce into their societie: and being admonished by an oracle or vision, to challenge dominion ouer | the whole earth, they allured him by [p. 21]
 many rewards to their faithfull seruice, by reason that they wanted 20 Interpreters. But concerning their maners and superstitions, of the disposition and stature of their bodies, of their countrey and maner of fighting &c., he protested the particulars following to be true: namely, that they were aboue all men, couetous, hasty, deceitfull, and mercilesse: notwithstanding, by reason of the 25 rigour and extremitie of punishments to be inflicted vpon them by their superiours, they are restrained from brawlings, and from mutuall strife and contention. The ancient founders and fathers of their tribes, they call by the name of gods, and at certaine set times they doe celebrate solemne feasts unto them, many of them
 30 being particular, & but foure onely generall. They thinke that all things are created for themselues alone. They esteeme it none offence to exercise cruelty against rebels. They be hardie and strong in the breast, leane and pale-faced, rough and huf-shouldred, hauing flatte and short noses, long and sharpe chinnes, their vpper
 35 iawes are low and declining, their teeth long and thinne, their eye-browes extending from their fore-heads downe to their noses, their eies inconstant and blacke, their countenances writhen and terrible, their extreame ioynts strong with bones and sinewes, hauing thicke and great thighes, and short legs, and yet being equall vnto vs in 40 stature: for that length which is wanting in their legs, is supplied in the vpper parts of their bodies. Their countrey in olde time was a land vtterly desert and waste, situated far beyond Chaldea, from whence they haue expelled Lions, Beares, and such like vntamed beasts, with their bowes, and other engines. Of the hides of beasts being tanned, they vse to shape for themselves light, but yet impenetrable armour. They ride fast bound vnto their horses, which are not very great in stature, but exceedingly strong, and maintained with little prouender. They vse to fight constantly and valiantly with iauelins, maces, battle-axes, and swords. But specially they are excellent archers, and cunning warriers with their bowes. Their backs are slightly armed, that they may not flee. They withdraw not themselves from the combate, till they see the chiefe Standerd of their Generall giue backe. Vanquished, they aske no fauour, and vanquishing, they shew no compassion. They all persist in their purpose of subduing the whole world vnder their owne subiection, as if they were but one man, and yet they are moe then millions in number. They haue 60000. Courriers, who being sent before vpon light horses to prepare a place for the armie to incampe in, will in the space of one night gallop three dayes iourney. And suddenly diffusing themselves ouer an whole prouince, and surprising all the people thereof vnarmed, vnprouided, dispersed, they make such horrible slaughters, that the king or prince of the land invaded, cannot finde people sufficient to wage battell against them, and to withstand them. They delude all people and princes of regions in time of peace, pretending that for a cause, which indeed is no cause. Sometimes they say, that they will make a voyage to Colen, to fetch home the three wise kings into their owne countrey; sometimes to punish the auarice and pride of the Romans, who oppressed them in times past; sometimes to conquere barbarous and Northren nations; sometimes to moderate the furie of the Germans with their owne meeke mildnesse; sometimes to learne warlike feats and stratagems of the French; sometimes for the finding out of fertile ground to suffice their huge multitudes; sometimes againe in derision they say, that they intend to goe on pilgrimage to S. Iames of Galicia. In regard of which sleights and collusions certaine vndiscreet gouernors concluding a league with them, haue granted them free passage thorow their territories, which leagues notwithstanding being violated, were an occasion of ruine and destruction vnto the foresayd gouernours &c.

5 Omnibus Christi fidelibus ad quos præsens scriptum peruenit, frater Ioannes de Plano Carpini ordinis fratrum minorum, Apostolicæ sedis Legatus, nuncius ad Tartaros & nationes alias Orientis, Dei gratiam in præsentī, & gloriam in futuro, & de inimicis suis gloriam triumphalem. Cum ex mandato 10 sedis Apostolicæ iremus ad Tartaros & nationes alias Orientis, & sciremus Domini Papæ & venerabilium Cardinalium voluntatem, elegimus prius ad Tartaros proficisci. Timebamus enim ne per eos in proximo ecclesiæ Dei periculum immineret. Et quamvis a Tartaris & alijs nationibus timeremus occidi, vel perpetuo capti-
15 uari, vel fame, siti, | algore, æstu, contumelia, & laboribus nimijs, [p. 22] & quasi vltra vires affligi (quæ omnia multo plusquam prius credi-dimus, excepta morte vel captiuitate perpetua nobis multipliciter euenerunt) non tamen pepercimus nobis ipsis, vt voluntatem Dei secundum Domini papæ mandatum adimplere possemus, & vt 20 proficeremus in aliquo Christianis, vt saltem scita veraciter voluntate & intentione ipsorum, possemus illam patefacere Christianis, ne forte subito irruentes inuenirent eos imparatos, sicut peccatis hominum exigentibus alia vice contigit: & fecerunt magnam stragem in populo Christiano. Vnde quæcunque pro vestra vtili-25 tate vobis scribimus ad cautelam, tanto securius credere debetis, quanto nos cuncta vel ipsi vidimus oculis nostris, qui per annum & quatuor menses & amplius ambulauimus per ipsos & cum ipsis, ac fuimus inter eos, vel audiuius a Christianis qui sunt inter eos captiui, & vt credimus fide dignis. Mandatum etiam a supremo 30 pontifice habebamus, vt cuncta perscrutaremur & videremus omnia diligenter. Quod tam nos quam frater Benedictus eiusdem ordinis qui nostræ tribulationis fuit socius & interpres fecimus studiose.

De terra Tartarorum, situ, qualitate et dispositione aeris in eadem. Cap. I.

Volentes igitur facta scribere Tartarorum, vt lectores facilius valeant inuenire, hoc modo per capitula describemus. Primo quidem dicemus de terra. Secundo de hominibus. Tertio 5 de ritu. Quarto de moribus. Quinto de ipsorum imperio. Sexto de bellis. Septimo de terris quas eorum dominio subiugauerunt. Octauo quomodo Bello occurratur eisdem. De terra possumus hoc modo tractare. In principio quidem dicemus de situ ipsius: secundo de qualitate: tertio de dispositione aeris in eadem. Terra 10 vero prædicta est in ea posita parte Orientis in qua oriens sicut credimus coniungitur Aquiloni. Ab Oriente autem est terra posita Kytaiorum & etiam *Solangorū: a meridie sunt terræ Saracenorum: inter Occidentem & Meridiem Huyrorum. Ab Occidente prouincia Naymanorum; ab Aquilone mari oceano 15 circumdatur. Hæc vero in parte aliqua est nimium montuosa, & in aliqua est campestris, sed fere tota admixta glarea, raro argillosa, plurimum est arenosa. In aliqua parte terræ sunt aliquæ modicæ syluæ: alia vero est sine lignis omnino. Cibaria autem sua decoquunt & sedent tam imperator quam principes & alij ad 20 ignem factum de boum stercoribus & equorum. Terra autem prædicta non est in parte centesima fructuosa: nec etiam protest fructum portare nisi aquis fluuialibus irrigetur. Sed aqua & riui ibidem sunt pauci: flumina vero rarissima vnde ibidem villæ sunt paucae; nec aliquæ ciuitates excepta vna, quæ esse dicitur satis 25 bona; nos autem non vidimus illam, sed fuimus prope ad dimidium diem, cum apud Syram ordam essemus, quæ curia est maior imperatoris eorum. Et licet alias infructuosa sit, quamuis non multum, tamen competenter est alendis pecoribus apta. Aer in ipsa est mirabiliter inordinatus. In media etiam æstate quando in 30 alijs partibus solet calor maximus abundare; ibi sunt tonitrua magna & fulgura, ex quibus homines quàm plurimi occiduntur. Cadunt etiam ibi eodem tempore maximæ niues. Ibi sunt etiam frigidissimorum ventorum tam maximæ tempestates, quod cum labore vix possunt homines aliquando equitare. Vnde cum 35 essemus apud ordam (sic enim stationes imperatoris apud eos & principum appellantur) iacebamus in terra præ magnitudine venti prostrati, & propter pulueris multitudinem videre minime poteramus. In ea etiam in hyeme nusquam pluit, sed in æstate: &

tam modicum, quod vix potest aliquando puluerem & radices graminum madidare. Grando etiam ibi sæpe maxima cadit. Grando maxima.
Vnde eo tempore quando fuit electus, & in sede regni poni debuit imperator, nobis in curia existentibus, tanta cecidit grando, quod
5 ex subita resolutione, sicut plenius intelleximus, plusquam centum & quadraginta homines in eadem curia fuerunt submersi. Res autem & habitacula plura deducta fuerunt. Ibi est etiam in estate subito magnus calor, & repente maximum frigus. In hyeme vero in aliqua parte cadunt maximæ niues, in alia autem paruæ. Et vt 10 breuiter de terra concludam, magna est, sed aliter, sicut vidimus oculis nostris, (quia per ipsam circuendam quinque mensibus & dimidium ambulauimus) multo vilior est, quàm dicere valeamus. Maxima

De formis Tartarorum, de coniugio, vestibus et habitaculis eorum. Cap. 2.

15 Dicto de terra, de hominibus est dicendum. Primò quidem formas describemus personarum. Secundò de ipsorum coniugio supponemus. Tertio de vestibus. Quarto de habitaculis. Quinto de rebus eorum. Forma personarum ab hominibus alijs est remota. Inter oculos enim & genas plusquam alij [p. 23] 20 homines sunt lati. Genæ etiam satis prominent a maxillis. Graciles sunt generaliter in cingulo exceptis quibusdam paucis. Pene omnes sunt mediocris staturæ. Barba fere omnibus minime crescit. Aliqui tamen in inferiori labio & in barba modicos habent crines, quos minime tondent. Super verticem capitis in modum 25 clericorum habent coronas, & ab aure vna vsque ad aliam, ad latitudinem trium digitorum similiter omnes radunt. Quæ rasuræ coronæ prædictæ iunguntur. Super frontem etiam ad latitudinem duorum digitorum similiter omnes radunt. Illos autem capillos qui sunt inter coronam & prætaxatam rasuram crescere vsque ad 30 supercilia sinunt. Et ex vtraque parte frontis tondendo plusquam in medio crines faciunt longos: reliquos vero crines permittunt crescere vt mulieres. De quibus faciunt duas cordas, & ligant vnamquamque post aurem. Pedes etiam modicos habent. Vxores vero habet vnusquisque quot potest tenere. Aliquis centum, 35 aliquis quinquaginta, aliquis decem, aliquis plures vel pauciores:
& omnibus parentibus generaliter iunguntur, excepta matre, filia, vel sorore ex eadem matre, sororibus etiam ex patre: tamen & vxores patris post mortem ducere possunt. Vxorem etiam fratris

vxores, & emunt eas valde pretiosè a parentibus suis. Post mortem maritorum de facili ad secunda coniugia non migrant, nisi quis velit suam nouercam ducere in vxorem. Vestes autem tam virorum quàm mulierum sunt vno modo formatæ. Pallijs, cappis vel capputijs vel pellibus non vtuntur. Tunicas vero portant de 5 Bukeramo, purpura, vel Baldaquino in hunc modum formatas. A supremo vsque deorsum sunt scissæ, quia ante pectus duplicantur. A latere vero sinistro vna, & in dextris tribus ligaturis nectuntur, & in latere & in sinistro vsque ad brachiale sunt scissæ. Pellicia cuiuscunque sunt generis in eundem modum formantur: superius 10 tamen pellicium exterius habet pilum, sed a posterioribus est apertum. Habet autem caudulam vnam vsque ad genua retro. Mulieres vero quæ sunt maritatæ habent tunicam valde amplam & vsq; ad terram ante scissam. Super caput vero habent vnum quid rotundum de viminibus vel de cortice factum, quod in longū 15 protenditur ad vnam vnam, & in summitate desinit in quadrum: & ab imo vsque ad summum in amplitudine semper crescit, & in summitate habet virgulam vnam longam & gracilem de auro vel de argento seu de ligno, vel etiam pennam: & est assutum super vnum pileolum, quod protenditur vsque ad humeros. Instru- 20 mentum prædictum est tectum de buccaramo, siue purpura vel baldaquino: sine quo instrumento coram hominibus nunquam vadunt, & per hoc ab alijs mulieribus cognoscuntur. Virgines autem & iuuenes mulieres cum magna difficultate a viris suis possunt discerni: quum per omnia vestiuntur ut viri. Pileola 25 habent alia quàm aliæ nationes, quorum formam intelligibiliter describere non valemus. Stationes rotundas habent in modum tentorij præparatas, de virgis & baculis subtiliter factas. Supra vero in medio rotundam habent fenestrâ vnde lumen ingreditur, & ut possit fumus exire: quia semper in medio ignem faciunt. 30 Parietes autem & tecta filtro sunt cooperta. Ostia etiam de filtro sunt facta. Quædam stationes sunt magnæ, quædam parvæ, secundum dignitatem & hominum paruitatem. Quædam soluuntur subito & reparantur, & super somarios deferuntur. Quædam dissolui non possunt, sed in curribus deferuntur. Minoribus autem 35 in curru ad deferendum vnus bos; maioribus tres vel quatuor, vel etiam plures, vel quod est magis, sufficiunt ad portandum. Quocunque vadunt siue ad bellum, siue aliàs, semper illas deferunt secum. In animalibus sunt diuites valde: in camelis, bobus, ouibus, capris, & equis. Iumentorum tantam habent multitudi- 40 nem, quantam non credimus habere totum mundum. Porcos & alias bestias minime habent.

De cultu & de hijs quæ credunt esse peccata, & de diuinationibus & ritu funeris eorum, & de purgationibus suorum peccatorum. Cap. 3.

Dicto de hominibus, dicendum est de ritu : de quo tractabimus
5 in hunc modum. Primo de cultu : secundo de hijs quæ credunt esse peccata : tertio de diuinationibus, & purgationibus peccatorum : quarto de ritu funeris. Vnum Deum credunt, quem credunt esse factorem omnium visibilium & inuisibilium. Et credunt eum tam 10 bonorum in hoc mundo quàm pœnarum esse factorem : non tamen orationibus vel laudibus, aut ritu aliquo ipsum colunt. Nihilominus habent idola quædam de filtro ad imaginem hominis facta ; & illa ponunt ex vtraque parte ostij stationis, & subtus illa ponunt quiddam de filtro in modum vberis factum, & illa credunt esse pecorum custodes, & eis beneficium lactis & pullorum præstare. Alia vero 15 faciunt de pannis sericis, & illa multum honorant. Quidam ponunt illa in pulchro curru tecto ante ostium stationis : & quicunq ; aliquid de illo curru furatur, sine vlla miseratione occiditur. [p. 24]
| Duces, millenarij, & centenarij vnum semper habent in medio stationis.
Prædictis idolis offerunt primum lac omnis pecoris & iumentis.
20 Et cum primo comedere & bibere incipiunt, primo offerunt eis de cibarijs & potu. Et cum bestiam aliquam occidunt, offerunt cor Idolo quod est in curru in aliquo cypho, & dimittunt vsque mane, & tunc auferunt de præsentia eius, & decoquant & manducant.
Primo etiam imperatori faciunt idolum, quod ponunt in curru, 25 ante quam stationem honorifice, sicut vidimus ante ordam imperatoris istius, offerunt munera multa. Equos etiam offerunt ei, quos nullus audet ascendere vsque ad mortem. Alia etiam animalia eidem offerunt. Quæ vero occidunt ad manducandum, nullum os ex eis confringunt, sed igni comburunt. Et etiam ad meridiem 30 tanquam Deo inclinant, & inclinare faciunt alios nobiles, qui se reddunt eisdem. Vnde nuper contigit quod Michael, qui fuit vnus de magnis ducibus Russiæ, cum iuisset ad se reddendum Bati, fecerunt eum prius inter duos ignes transire : Post hoc dixerunt, quod ad meridiem Cyngis can inclinaret. Qui re-35 spondit, quod Bati & seruis suis inclinaret libenter, sed imagini hominis mortui non inclinaret, quia non licet hoc facere Christianis. Et cum saepe diceretur, quod inclinaret, & nollet, mandauit ei prædictus per filium Ieroslai, quod occideretur si non inclinaret. Qui respondit, quod potius vellet mori, quàm 40 hoc faceret, quia non liceret. At ille satellitem vnum misit, qui tam diu contra cor eum in ventre calce percussit, quousque

deficeret. Tunc quidam de suis militibus qui astabat confortans eum dixit: Esto robustos quia hæc pœna non diu tibi durabit, & statim sequetur gaudium sempiternum: post hoc fuit caput eius cultello præcisum. Militi vero prædicto fuit caput etiam cultello amputatum. Solem igitur lumina & ignem venerantur & adorant, 5 & aquam & terram, eis ciborum & potus primitias offerentes, & mane potissime antequam comedant & bibant: quia de cultu Dei nullam legem observant. Neminem cogunt suam fidem vel legem negare. Accidit tamen dum adhuc nuper essemus in terra quod Andreas dux de *Saruogle quæ est in Russia fuit apud Bati 10 accusatus, quod educeret equos Tartarorum de terra & venderet aliàs. Et cum tamen non esset probatum fuit occisus: quod audiens iunior frater eius, venit cum vxore occisi ad ducem prædictum Bati, volens supplicare, ne terra tolleretur eisdem. Qui dixit par esse, quod vxorem fratris carnalis prædicti duceret 15 in vxorẽ: & mulieri præcepit ducere illum in virum secundum consuetudinem Tartarorum. Qui respondit, quod prius vellet occidi, quàm faceret contra legem. At ille nihilominus tradidit eam illi, quamuis renuerat quantum posset: & duxerunt ambo in lecto, & posuerunt puerum super illam plorantem & clamantem, 20 & cogerunt eos commisceri coactione non conditionali, sed absoluta. Quamuis de iustitia facienda, vel peccato cauendo nullam habeant legem, nihilominus tamen habent aliquas traditiones, quas dicunt esse peccata: quas confinxerunt ipsi & patres eorum. Vnum est, cultellum figere in igne, vel etiam quocunque modo 25 tangere cum cultello: vel cum cultello extrahere carnes de caldario: iuxta ignem etiam incidere cum securi. Credunt etiam quod sic auferri caput debeat igni. Item appodiare se ad flagellum, cum quo percutitur equus: Ipsi enim calcaribus non vtuntur. Item tangere flagellis sagittas. Item iuuenes aues occidere, vel accipere: 30 cum fræno equum percutere. Item os cum osse alio frangere. Item lac vel aliquem potum vel cibum super terram effundere. In statione mingere, sed si voluntarie facit occiditur: si autem aliter, oportet quod pecunia soluatur incantatori, qui purificet eos: faciat etiam stationem & ea quæ in ipsa sunt inter duos ignes transire. 35 Sed antequam sic purificetur nullus audet intrare vel aliquid de ipsa portare. Item si alicui morsus imponitur, & deglutire non potest, & de ore suo eijcit eum, fit foramen sub statione, & extrahunt per illud foramen, & sine vlla misericordia occiditur. Item si aliquis calcat limen stationis alicuius ducis interficitur eodem 40 modo. Et multa habent similia, de quibus longum est narrare.

* Vel Sciruogle. Andreas dux Russiæ.

Sed homines occidere, aliorum terras inuadere, res aliorum accipere, quocunque iniusto modo fornicari, alijs hominibus iniuriari, facere contra Dei prohibitiones & Dei præcepta, nullum est peccatum apud eos. De vita æterna & damnatione perpetua, nihil sciunt. Credunt tamen quod post mortem in alio seculo viuant, greges multiplicent, comedant, bibant, & alia faciant, quæ in hoc seculo a viuentibus hominibus fiunt. Diuinationibus, augurijs, aruspicijs, veneficijs, incantationibus multum intendunt. Et cum a dæmonibus ipsis respondetur, credunt quod Deus ipsis loquatur, quem Deum vocant Itoga: sed Comani Cham, id est, imperatorem ipsum appellant, quem mirabiliter timent & reuerentur: ac oblationes offerunt multas, & primitias cibi & potus. Secundum autem responsa ipsius faciunt vniuersa. In principio etiam lunationis vel plenilunio incipiunt quicquid noui agere volunt. Vnde illam magnum imperatorem appellant, eique genua flectunt et deprecantur. Solem dicunt esse matrem lunæ, eo quod lumen a sole recipiat. Et vt breuiter dicam per ignem credunt omnia purificari. Vnde cum nuncij veniunt ad eos, vel principes, vel qualescunq; personæ, oportet ipsos & munera quæ portant per duos ignes transire, vt purificentur. Item si cadit ignis de cœlo super pecora, vel super homines, quod ibidem | sæpe contingit, siue aliquid talium euenerit eis, per quod immundos seu infortunatos se reputant, oportet similiter per incantatores mundari. Et quasi omnem spem suam in talibus posuerunt. Quando aliquis eorum infirmatur, ponitur in statione eius vna hasta, & contra illam filtrum circumuoluitur nigrum: & ex tunc nullus audet alienus postes stationum intrare. Et quando incipit agonizare, omnes recedunt ab eo; quoniam nullus de ijs qui morti eius assistunt, potest ordam alicuius ducis vel imperatoris vsq; ad nouam lunationem intrare. Cum autem mortuus est, si est de maioribus, sepelitur occulte in campo vbi placuerit: sepelitur autem cum statione sedendo in medio eius, & ponunt mensam ante eum, & alueum carnibus plenum, & cyphum lactis iumentini: Sepelitur autem cum eo vnum iumentum cum pullo, & equus cum fræno & sella: & alium equum comedunt & stramine corium implent, & super duo vel quatuor ligna altius ponunt, vt habeat in alio mundo stationem vbi moretur, & iumentum de quo lac habeat, & possit sibi equos multiplicare, & equos etiam in quibus valeat equitare. Aurum & argentum sepeliunt eodem modo cum ipso. Currus in quo ducitur frangitur, & statio sua destruitur, nec nomen proprium eius vsque ad tertiam generationem audet aliquis nominare. Alius etiam est modus sepeliendi quosdam maiores. Vaditur in campo occultè, & ibi gramina remouent cum radicibus, & faciunt foueam magnum, & in latere illius foueæ faciunt vnam sub terra, & illum seruum quem habet dilectum ponunt sub eo, qui iacet tam diu sub eo donec incipit agonizare, deinde extrahunt eum vt valeat respirare, & sic faciunt ter. Et si euadet, postea est liber, & facit quicquid ei placuerit, & est magnus in statione, ac inter parentes 5 illius. Mortuum autem ponunt in foueam, quæ est in latere facta cum his quæ superius dicta sunt. Deinde replent foueam quæ est ante foueam suam, & desuper gramina ponunt, vt fuerant prius, ad hoc, ne locus vltius valeat inueniri. Alia faciunt vt dictum est. In terra eorum sunt cœmeteria duo. Vnum in quo sepeliuntur 10 imperatores, duces & nobiles omnes: & vbicunque moriuntur, si congruè fieri potest, illuc deferuntur. Sepelitur autem cum eis aurum & argentum multum. Aliud est in quo sepeliuntur illi qui in Hungaria interfecti fuerunt: multi enim ibidem occisi fuerunt. Ad illa cœmeteria nullus audet accedere præter custodes, qui ad 15 custodiendum positi sunt ibidem. Et si aliquis accesserit, capitur, spoliatur & verberatur, & valde malè tractatur. Vnde nos ipsi nescientes intrauimus terminos cœmeterij eorum qui in Hungaria occisi fuerunt, & venerunt super nos sagittæ volantes: sed quia eramus nuncij consuetudinem terræ nescientes, nos liberos 20 dimiserunt abire. Parentes autem & omnes alij qui morantur in stationibus suis oportet purificari. per ignem: quæ purificatio fit hoc modo. Faciunt duos ignes, & duas hastas ponunt iuxta ignes, & vnam cordam in summitate hastarum: & ligant super cordam illam quasdam scissuras de buccaramo: sub qua corda 25 & ligaturis inter illos duos ignes transeunt homines, bestię & stationes: Et sunt duæ mulieres, vna hinc, & alia inde aquam projicientes, & quædam carmina recitantes. Et si aliqui currus ibi franguntur, vel etiam res ibi cadunt aliquæ, incantatores accipiunt. Et si aliquis occiditur à tonitruo, omnes illos homines 30 qui morantur in stationibus illis, oportet prædicto modo ignes transire. Statio, lectus, filtra, currus, vestes, & quicquid talium habuerint, a nullo tanguntur, sed tanquam immunda ab omnibus respuuntur.

eorum. Cap. 4.

Dicto de ritu, dicendum est de moribus: de quibus tractabimus hoc modo. Primo dicemus de bonis, secundo de malis: tertio de consuetudinibus: quarto de cibis. Prædicti homines, scilicet Tartari sunt magis obediētes Dominis suis, 40 quàm aliqui homines in hoc mundo, siue religiosi, siue seculares:

Obedientia.

et magis reuerentur eosdem: neq; de facili mentiuntur eis. Verbis ad inuicem rarò aut nunquam contendunt, factis vero nunquam. Bella, rixæ, vulnera, homicidia inter eos non contingunt. Prædones & fures magnarum rerum non inueniuntur
5 inter eos. Vnde stationes & currus eorum, vbi habent thesaurum suum seris aut vectibus non firmantur. Si aliquæ bestię perduntur, quicunque inuenerit eas vel dimittit sic esse, vel ducit eas ad homines illos, qui positi sunt ad hoc. Homines autem quorum
10 sunt bestię apud eosdem illas requirunt, & absque vlla difficultate recipiunt illas. Vnus alium satis honorat: & ad inuicem sunt satis familiares: Et cibaria quamuis inter illos sint pauca, tamen inter se satis competenter communicant illa; & satis sunt sufferentes. Vnde quum ieiunant vno die vel duobus diebus nihil comedentes omninò de facili non videntur impatientes, sed
15 cantant & ludunt quasi comederunt bene. In equitando multum sustinent frigus, & calorem nimium patiuntur. Non sunt homines delicati. Inuidi ad inuicem non videntur. Inter eos quasi nulla placita sunt: nullus alium spernit, sed iuuat & promouet quantum congruè potest. Mulieres eorum sunt castæ: nec de impudicitia
20 earum inter eas aliquid auditur. Verba tamen quædam ex eis in ioco satis habent turpia & impudica. Seditiones verò inter eas rarò vel nunquam audiuntur. Et quamuis multum inebrientur, in ebrietate sua tamen verbis vel facto nunquam contendunt. Nunc de malis moribus eorum est supponendum. Superbissimi alijs
25 hominibus sunt, & despiciunt omnes: ideò quasi pro nihilo reputant, siue nobiles sint, siue ignobiles. Vidimus enim in curia Imperatoris nobilem virum Ieroslaum, magnum Ducem Russiæ, filium etiam Regis & Reginæ Georgiæ, & Soldanos multos, duces etiam Soldanorum nullum honorem debitum
30 recipere inter eos. Sed Tartari qui erant eis assignati, quantumcunq; erant viles, antecedeabant eos, & semper primum locum & summum tenebant: immò sæpè oportebat eos post eorum posteriora sedere. Iracundi multum & indignantis naturæ sunt: & etiam alijs hominibus plus sunt mendaces, & ferè nulla veritas 35 inuenitur in eis. In principio quidem sunt blandi, sed in sine pungunt vt scorpio. Subdoli sunt & fraudulentī, & si possunt astutia circumueniunt omnes. Homines sunt immundi, sumendo cibum & potum, & alijs factis suis. Qui cum volunt aliquid mali facere alijs hominibus, miro modo occultant, vt præuidere non

Cibi. Cibi eorum sunt omnia quæ mandi possunt. Comedunt canes, lupos, vulpes, & equos; & in necessitate carnes humanas. Vnde 5 quando pugnaverunt contra quandam ciuitatem Kytaorum, vbi morabatur imperator ipsorum; eam obsederunt tam diu, quod defecerunt ipsis Tartaris omninò expensæ. Et quia non habebant quòd manducarent omninò, tunc accipiebatur de decem hominibus vnus ad manducandum. Abluiones etiam quæ egrediuntur de iumentis cum pullis manducant. Imò vidimus etiam eos pediculos manducare: vidimus etiam eos comedere mures. Mensalibus & manutergijs non vtuntur: panē non habent, nec olera, nec legumina, nec aliquid aliud nisi carnes: & tam paucas habent, quòd aliæ nationes vix inde viuere possent. Cum pinguedine 15 carniū multum pollunt manus: quando verò comederunt, tunc manus ad ocreas suas, vel ad gramina, vel ad aliquid talium tergunt. Solent etiā honestiores habere aliquos panniculos paruos, cum quibus vltimo tergunt manus, quando carnes manducarunt. Cibus vnus eorum incidit, & alius accipit cum puncto cultelli 20 morsellos, & vnicuiq; præbet, quibusdā plus, quibusdam minus, secundum quod plus vel minus volunt eos honorare. Scutellas non lauant, & si aliquando cum brodio lauant carniū, iterum cum carnibus in olla reponunt. Ollas etiā vel caldaria, vel alia vasa ad hoc deputata si abluunt, simili modo lauant. Apud eos 25 est magnum peccatum, si de cibo vel potu perire permittatur aliquid. Vnde ossa, nisi prius extrahatur medulla, dari canibus non permittunt. Vestes etiam non lauant, nec lauari permittunt, & maximè quo tonitrua ab illa hora incipiunt donec desinant. Lac iumentinum bibunt in maxima quantitate si habent: bibunt 30 etiam ouinum, caprinum, vaccinum, & camelorum. Vinum, ceruisiam, & medonem non habent, nisi ab alijs nationibus mittatur, vel donetur eisdem. In hyeme, nisi diuites sint, lac iumentinum non habent. Millitū cum aqua decoquunt, quod tū tenue faciunt, quòd non comedere sed bibere possunt. Et vnus 35 quisq; ex eis bibit cyphum vnum vel duos in mane, & nil plus in die māducant. In sero vnicuique; parum de carnibus datur, & brodium de carnibus bibunt. In æstate autem, quia tunc habent satis de lacte iumentino carnes rarò māducant, nisi fortè donentur eis, aut venatione aliquam bestiam ceperint, siue auem. Legem 40 etiam siue consuetudinē habent occidendi virum & mulierem quos in adulterio inuenerint manifestè. Similiter & virginem si fornicata fuerit, mulierē occidunt & virum. Si aliquis inuenitur differentia, sed dat pater vnicuiq; eorum quod vult, & si est de genere ducum, ita est dux filius concubinæ, sicut filius per se suam stationem, & familiam habet: & cum vna comedit, & bibit, & dormit vna die, & altera die cum alia. Vna tamen ex ipsis maior est inter alias, & frequentius cum illa quam cum alijs commoratur. Et cum tam multæ sint inter se tamen de facili non sunt duorum annorum vel trium, incipiunt equitare. Equos opera quæ de corio fiunt. Currus etiam ducunt & reparant,

De ipsorum Imperio. Cap. 5.

DICTO de eorum consuetudinibus, dicendum est de eorum imperio. Et primò de ipsius principio. Secundò de 35 principibus eius. Tertio de dominio Imperatoris & principum.
 Terra quædam est in partibus Orientis, de qua dictum est suprà, quæ Mongol nominatur. Hæc terra quondam quatuor populos habuit. Et vnus Yeka-Mongol, id est, magni Mongali vocabatur.
 Secundus Sumongol, id est Aquatici Mongali. Ipsi autem seipso 40 Tartaros appellabant, à quodam fluuio, qui currit per terram eorum, qui Tartar nominatur. Alius appellatur Merkat, quartus

Tartar
fluuius. Metrit. Hij populi omnes vnam formam personarum, & vnam linguam habebant: quamuis inter se per principes & prouincias essent diuisi. In terra Yeka-Mongol fuit qui vocabatur Cyngis.
Iste incepit esse robustus venator coram Domino. Didicit enim Cyngis ortus
& res gestę. homines furari, rapere, prædari. Ibat autem ad alias terras, & 5 quosunque potuit capere, & sibi associare non demittebat:
homines verò suę gentis ad se inclinabat, qui tanquam ducem ipsum sequebantur ad omnia malefacta. Hic autem incepit pugnare cum Sumongal, siue Tartaris, postquam homines aggregauerat sibi, & interfecit ducem eorum, & multo bello omnes 10 Tartaros sibi subiugauit & in suam seruitutem redegit. Post hæc cum omnibus his pugnavit, cum Merkat, qui erant positi iuxta terram Tartarorum, quos etiam bello sibi subiecit: Inde procedens pugnauit contra Metritas, & etiam illos deuicit. Audientes itaque Naymani, quod Cyngis erat taliter eleuatus, indignati fuerunt. 15
Ipsi enim habuerunt Imperatorem, qui fuerat strenuus valdè, cui dabant tributum omnes nationes prædictæ. Qui debitum vniuersæ carnis exsoluens, filij eius successerunt loco eius; sed iuuenes erant & stulti, & populum nesciebant tenere: sed inuicem diuisi erant & scissi: vnde medio tempore Cyngis erat taliter exaltatus, 20 nihilominus insultum faciebant in terras superius annotatas, viros & mulieres, & pueros occidebant, & capiebant prædam eorum.
Cyngis hoc audiens, omnes sibi subiectos homines aggregauit.
Kara Kitai. Naymani & Kara Kitai, id est, nigri Kitai, ex aduerso in quandam vallem strictam inter montes duos, per quam nos euntes ad impe- 25 ratorem eorum transiuimus, similiter conueniunt: & commissum est prælium, in quo Naymani & Kara Kitai a Mongallis sunt deuicti, & maior pars eorum occisa: & alij qui euadere non potuerunt in seruitutem redacti sunt. In terra autem prædictorum fuit imperator, quandam ciuitatem ædificauit, quam *Omyl appel-

Et quum aliquantulum quieuisset Cyngis, præparauit se rursus ad prælium & contra terram Huyrorum processit ad bellum. Isti homines Christiani de secta Nestorianorum erant, quos etiam bello deuicit, & eorum literas acceperunt. Nam prius scripturam aliquam non habebant. Nunc autem eandem literam Mongallorum appellant. Inde processit contra terram Saruiuorum, & contra terram Karaitarum, & contra terram Voyrat, & contra terram Comana, quas terras omnes deuicit. Inde est in terram suam reuersus. Et cum aliquantulum quieuisset, conuocatis omnibus gentibus supradictis, contra Kytaos ad bellum processit, & cum diu contra eos pugnasset magnam partem terræ Kytaorum vicerunt: Imperatorem autem eorum concluserunt in sua ciuitate maiori: quam cum tam diu obsiderunt, quod exercitui defecerunt expensæ, & cum non haberent quod manducarent, præcepit illis Cyngis can, quod de decem hominibus vnum darent ad manducandum. Illi autem de ciuitate pugnabant viriliter contra illos sagittis & machinis: Et cum deficerent lapides, pro lapidibus proiecerunt argentum, & maximè liquefactum. Ciuitas enim hæc multis diuitijs erat plena. Et cum diu pugnassent, & eam bello vincere minimè possent, fecerunt vnam magnam viam sub terra ab exercitu vsque ad mediam ciuitatem, & aperientes subitò terram, eis nescientibus profilierunt in medio ciuitatis, & pugnabant cum hominibus ciuitatis, & illi qui erant extra simili modo pugnabant, & concidentes portas intrauerunt ciuitatem: & occidentes Imperatorem & homines plures, ciuitatem possidebant: & aurum & argentum, & omnes diuitias abstulerunt. Et cum terræ prædictæ Kytaorum suos homines præfecissent, in terram propriam sunt reuersi. Et tunc Imperatore Kytaorum deuicto factus est Imperator. Quandam autem partem terræ Kytaorum, quæ posita est in mari, vsque in hodiernum diem nullatenus deuicerunt. Kytai autem, de quibus superius diximus, homines sunt Pagani, qui habent literam specialem; & habent nouum & vetus Testamentum; & habent vitas patrum, & Eremitas & domos quasi Ecclesias factas, in quibus orant temporibus suis: Et dicunt se quosdam sanctos habere. Vnum Deum colunt: Dominum nostrum Iesum Christum honorant, & credunt vitam æternam, sed minimè baptizantur. Scripturam nostram honorant & reuerentur: Christianos diligunt, & Ecclesias faciunt plures. Homines benigni & humani satis videntur: barbam non habent, & in dispositione faciei satis concordant cum Mongalis, non tamen sunt in facie ita lati. Linguam propriam habent: meliores artifices non inueniuntur in toto mundo in omnibus operibus, in quibus solent homines exercitari. Terra eorum est opulenta valdè in frumento, vino, auro, argento, & serico, & omnibus rebus in quibus solet sustentari humana natura. Et cum aliquantulum quieuisent, suos exercitus diuiserunt. Vnum de filijs Tossuch nomine, quem etiam Can appellabant, id est Imperatorem, misit cum exercitu contra Comanos, quos multo bello deuicit : & postquam vicerat eos in terram suam reuertebatur. Alium etiam filium misit cum exercitu contra Indos; qui minorem Indiam deuicerunt. Hij autem nigri sunt Saraceni, qui Æthiopes nuncupantur. Hic autem exercitus contra Christianos, qui sint in India maiori in pugnam processit. Quod audiens rex terræ illius, qui vulgò Præsbyter Iohannes appellatur, venit contra eos exercitu congregato. Et faciens imagines cupreas hominum in sella posuit super equos, ponens ignem interius, & posuit hominem cum folle post imaginem cupream super equum : & cum multis imaginibus, & equis taliter præparatis venerunt contra prædictos ad pugnandum. Et cum ad locum prælij peruenissent, istos equos vnum iuxta vnum præmiserunt. Viri autem, qui erant retro, posuerunt nescio quid super ignem qui erat in prædicta imagine, & cum follibus fortiter sufflauerunt. Vnde factum est, quod de fumo illo aer est denigratus. Et tunc super Tartaros iecerunt sagittas, ex quibus multi interfecti & vulnerati fuerunt. Et sic cum confusione eos de finibus suis eiecerunt : Et nunquam audiuius, quod vltra ad eos redierunt. Cum autem per deserta redirent, in quandam terram venerunt in qua quædam monstra fœmineas imagines habentia reperiunt. Et cum interrogassent eas per multos interpretes vbi essent viri terræ illius, responderunt quod in illa terra quæcunque fœminæ nascebantur, habebant formam humanam : Masculi verò formam caninam. Et dum moram protraherent in terra prædicta, Canes in alia parte conuenerunt in vnum : Et dum esset hyems asperissima, se omnes proiecerunt in aquam : & post hæc incontinenti in pulcrem mouebantur, & ita puluis admixtus aquæ super eos congelauit : & dum sæpè hoc fecissent, glacies densa facta est super eos : Vnde cum magno impetu cum Tartaris conuenerunt ad pugnam. At illi quum sagittas super eos iactabant, ac si super lapides sagitassent, retro sagittæ redibant : Alia etiam arma eorum in nullo eos lædere potuerunt. Canes verò insultum facientes in eos morsibus vulnerauerunt, multos etiam occiderunt, & ita eiecerunt eos de finibus suis. Et dum reuerteretur exercitus ille, venit ad terram Burutabeth, quos bello vicerunt : qui sunt Pagani. Qui consuetudinem mirabilem imo potius miserabilem habent. omnem congregant parentelam, & comedunt eum. Isti pilos in barba non habent: immo quoddam ferrum in manibus portant, cum quo barbam semper depilant, si fortè aliquis crinis crescit in ipsa: & multum etiam deformes sunt. Inde exercitus ille reuertebatur in terram suam. Cyngis can etiam eo tempore quo diuisit exercitus illos, misit in expeditione contra Orientem per terram Kergis, quos bello non vicit: & vsque ad Caspios montes peruenit, montes autem illi sunt de lapide adamantino. Vnde eorum sagittas & arma ferrea ad se traxerunt. Homines inter Caspios montes conclusos viderunt, qui iam montem fregerunt: sed nubes quædam erat posita ante ipsos, ad quam accedere non poterant villo modo, quia statim moriebantur, cum perueniebant ad illam. Sed antequam peruenirent ad prædictum montem plusquam per mensem vastam solitudinem transierunt. Inde procedentes adhuc contra Orientem plusquam per mensem per magnum desertum iuerunt. Et peruenerunt ad quandam terram, vbi viderunt vias tritas, sed nullum hominem poterant inuenire. Sed tantum quæsiuerunt per terram, quod inuenerunt hominem cum vxore sua; quos ante Cyngis can adduxerunt. Et cum interrogasset, vbi essent homines terræ illius, responderunt quod in terra sub montibus habitarent. At Cyngis can retenta vxore misit virum | illum cum nuncijs suis mandans hominibus illis vt venirent ad mandatum ipsius. Illi verò euntes ad eos, narrauerunt omnia quæ Cyngis can mandauerat. Qui responderunt quod tali die venirent ad mandatum suum faciendum. Medio vero tempore congregauerunt se per vias occultas sub terra, & venerunt contra istos ad pugandum: & irruentes subito super eos plurimos occiderunt. At illi, Cyngis can videlicet & sui fugam ineuntes, terram exierunt prædictam. Illos tamen homines, virum scilicet & mulierem secum duxerunt, qui vsque ad mortem in terra Tartarorum fuerunt. Interrogati verò quare sub terra habitarent, dixerunt quod vno tempore anni quum sol oritur, tantus sonitus est, quod homines nulla ratione possunt sustinere. Immo etiam tunc percutiebant in organis & tympanis, & alijs instrumentis, vt illum sonitum non audirent. Et dum Cyngis de terra illa reuerteretur, defecerunt ei victualia, et habebant maximam famem. Et tunc recentia interiora vnus bestię eos contigit inuenire: quæ accipientes, depositis tamen stercorebus decoxerunt; & coram Cyngis can portantes cum suis illa comedit. Et ex hoc statutum fuit ab eo, vt nec sanguis, nec interiora, nec aliquid de bestia quod manducari potest, exceptis stercorebus, proijciatur. Et deinde in terram propriam est reuersus: & ibidem leges & statuta multiplicia fecit, quæ Tartari non violabiliter obseruant. Ex quibus tantum duo

 omnes. Nullus audet in aliqua parte morari, nisi ipse assignet ei.
 Ipse autem assignat vbi maneant duces: millenarij centenarijs.
 Centenarij decanis. In super quicquid præcipitur in quocunq; 40 tempore, quocunq; loco, siue ad bellum, siue ad mortem, siue ad vitam, siue vlla contradictione obediunt. Etiam si petit filiam virginem vel sororem, sine contradictione dant ei. Aut singulis annis, aut intermissis aliquibus annis virgines colligit ex omnibus finibus Tartarorum. Si ipse vult sibi retinere aliquas retinet: alias dat suis hominibus, sicut videtur ei expedire. Nuncios quoscunq; quotcunq; & vbicunq; transmittit, oportet quod dent

 5 ei sine mora equos subditios & expensas. Vndecunq; venerint ei tributa vel nuncij, oportet quod equi, currus, & expensę similiter dentur eis. Nuncij qui veniunt aliunde in magna miseria sunt in victu pariter & vestitu: quia expensę viles sunt & paucę: & maximè cum veniunt ad principes, et ibi debent morā contrahere.
 10 Tunc ita parum datur decem hominibus, quod inde vix possint viuere duo. Nec etiam in curijs principum, nec in via datur eis comedere, nisi semel in die, & satis parum. Insuper si aliquę iniurię sibi fiunt, conqueri de facili minimè possunt. Vnde eos oportet illa patienter portare. Insuper multa tã à principibus, 15 quam ab alijs nationibus & minoribus ab eis exiguntur: & si non daretur, vili pendunt eos, immò quasi pro nihilo habent eos. Et si à magnis viris mittuntur, nolunt ab eis modicum munus habere: sed dicunt: A magno homine venistis, & cur modicum datis? & accipere dedignantur. Et si nuncij benè volunt facere facta sua,
 20 oportet eos dare maiora. Idcirco magnam partem rerum, quę nobis à fidelibus erant datę, oportuit nos de necessitate muneribus dare. Et | sciendum, quod ita omnia sunt in manu Imperatoris prædicti, quod nemo audet dicere, hoc est meum vel illius; sed omnia sunt Imperatoris, res, iumenta, & homines. Et super hoc
 25 etiam nuper emanauit Imperatoris statutum. Idem dominium per omnia habent duces super homines suos. Diuisi enim sunt homines Tartari, videlicet etiam alij inter duces. Nuncij etiam ducum, quocunque eos transmittunt, & homines tam Imperatoris quàm alij omnes equos subditios & expensas, & qui equos cus-
 30 todiant, & etiam nuncijs seruiant sine contradictione dare tenentur. Imperatori autem iumenta vt habeat ex eis lac ad annum vel ad duos, vel ad tres, sicut placuerit ei, tam duces quàm alij pro redditu dare tenentur. Et homines ducum idem facere tenentur dominis suis. Inter eos enim nullus est liber. Et vt breuiter
 35 dicam, Quicquid Imperator & Duces volunt, & quantū volunt de rebus suis accipiunt. De personis etiam eorum disponunt per omnia, sicut volunt. Mortuo Imperatore, sicut superius dictum est, conuenerunt Duces & elegerunt Occoday filium Cyngis can prædicti Imperatorem. Qui habito consilio principum diuisit 40 exercitus. Bati, qui in secundo gradu attinebat ei, misit contra Altisoldanum, & contra terram Biserminorum. Hij erant Saraceni, & Comanicum loquebantur. Et cum intrasset terram illorum pugnauit contra eos, & bello eos sibi subiecit. Quędam autem ciuitas quæ *Barthra dicitur, diu restitit ei, fecerant enim foueas multas in circuitu ciuitatis & operuerant illas; & quando illi veniebant cadebant in foueas. Vnde non potuerunt capere ciuitatem, donec illas foueas replessent. Homines autem de quadam ciuitate quæ vocatur †Iakint hæc audientes exierunt obuiam eis, 5 se sponte in manus eorum tradentes: vnde ciuitas eorum non erat destructa, sed plures eorum occiderunt, & alios transtulerunt. Et accepto spolio ciuitatis, ipsam alijs hominibus repleuerunt. Et venerunt contra ciuitatem quæ vocatur Orna. Ista ciuitas erat nimium populosa: Christiani ibi erant plures; Gazari videlicet, 10 Rutheni, & Alani, & alij: nec non & Saraceni. Saracenorum enim erat dominium ciuitatis. Hæc autem ciuitas erat diuitijs multum plena. Est enim posita super fluuium qui vocatur Don, qui intrat in mare. Vnde est quasi portus: & forum maximum habebant de illa ciuitate alij Saraceni. Et cum non possent aliter 15 deuincere, præciderunt fluuium, qui currebat per ciuitatem, & illam cum rebus omnibus submerserunt. Quo facto: postea intrauerunt terram Tortorum, qui similiter sunt Pagani: quam deuincens, iuerunt contra Russiam, & fecerunt magnam stragem in terra Russiæ, ciuitates & castra destruxerunt, & homines occi- 20 derunt: etiam Kiouiam quæ erat Metropolis Russiæ obsederunt: & cum diu obsedissent, illam ceperunt, & occiderunt homines ciuitatis. Inde procedentes pugnando destruxerunt totam Russiam. De Russia autem & Comania processerunt duces prædicti, & pugnaverunt contra Hungaros & Polonos. Ex quibus Tartaris in 25 Polonia & in Hungaria plures interfecti fuerunt. Et si non fugissent, sed viriliter restitissent Hungari exiissent Tartari de finibus suis: quia tunc habuerunt timorem, quod omnes fugere attentabant. Sed Bati vaginato gladio in faciem eis restitit, dicens: Nolite fugere: quia si fugitis nullus euadet: Et si debemus mori, 30 moriamur omnes: quia futurum est, vt Cyngis can prædixit, quod interfici debeamus: Et si nunc est tempus, sustineamus. Et sic animati sunt & remanserunt, & Hungariam destruxerunt. Inde reuertentes iuerunt in terram Morduanorum, qui sunt Pagani, & bello deuicerunt. Inde procedentes contra Bileros, id est, Bul- 35 gariam magnam, & ipsam destruxerunt omnino. Inde procedentes ad Aquilonem adhuc contra Bascart, id est, Hungariam magnam, & eos etiam deuicerunt. Inde egredientes iuerunt ad Aquilonem, & venerunt ad Parossitas qui habent paruos stomachos & os paruulum, nec manducant, sed decoquunt carnes: quibus decoctis 40 ponunt se inter fumum & ollam, & recipiunt fumum, & de hoc

Hij autem homines tantum de venationibus viuunt : tabernacula & vestes habent tantummodo de bestiarum pellibus. Inde vltra procedentes venerunt ad quandam terram super Oceanum, vbi inuenerunt quædam monstra quæ per omnia formam humanam habebant, sed pedes desinebant in pedes bouinos, & faciem per omnia habebant vt canis : duo verba loquebantur more humano & tertio latrabant vt canis : & sic per interualla temporum latratum interponebant : tum ad naturam suam redibant : & sic intelligi poterat quod dicebant : Inde redierunt in Comaniam, & vsq; nunc quidam ex eis morantur ibidem. Cyrpodan vero eodem tempore misit Occoday can cum exercitu ad meridiem contra Kergis, quos etiam bello deuicit. Hij autem homines sunt pagani, qui pilos in barba non habent. Quorum consuetudo est talis. Cum pater moritur alicuius, præ dolore quasi vnam corrigiam in signum lamenti ab aure vsq; ad aurem de facie sua leuant. Quibus deuictis, ad meridiem iuit contra Armenos. Sed cum per deserta transiret, etiam quædam monstra effigiem humanam habentia inuenerunt : sed non nisi vnum brachium cum manu in medio pectoris, & vnum pedem habebant : & duo sagittarunt cum vno arcu, & isti ita fortiter currebant, quod equi eos inuestigare non poterant. Currebant enim saltando super illum vnum pedem, & cum essent fessi taliter eundo, ibant super manum & pedem, remouendo se quasi rota ; & sic cum essent fessi iterum currebant secundum modum priorem : aliquos tamen occidebant ex eis. Inde procedentes venerunt in Armeniam, quam bello vicerunt, & partem Georgiæ : & alia pars venit ad mandatum eorum ; & quadraginta millia ypperperorum singulis annis dederunt, & adhuc faciunt idem. Inde procedentes ad terram Soldani Deurum, qui erat satis magnus & potens, cum eo pugnaverunt & deuicerunt. . Inde procedentes vltra debellando & vincendo vsq; ad terram Soldani Halapiæ & nunc terram illam impugnant : nec postea vsque in hodiernum diem in terram suam fuerunt reuersi. Alius exercitus iuit contra terrâ Calif de Baldach, quam sibi etiâ subdiderunt : Et quadraginta bisantia exceptis Baldachinis & alijs muneribus omni die dant pro tributo : Et omni anno pro Calif, vt ad eos veniat, nuncios mittunt : qui cum tributo munera magna mittit, rogans vt eū supportent. Ipse vero imperator munera accipit, & nihilominus vt veniat mittit pro eo.

Qualiter Tartari se habent in pręlijs. Cap. 6.

DICTO de imperio, dicendum est hoc modo de bello. Primo de ordinatione acierum. Secundo de armis. Tertio de astutijs in congressione, quarto de crudelitate quam faciunt in captiuos. Quinto de oppugnatione castrorum & ciuitatum. Sexto de perfidia quam exercent cum hijs qui se reddunt eisdem. De ordinatione acierum dicemus hoc modo. Cyngis can ordinauit, vt decem hominibus pręponeretur vnus: & ille secundum nos appellatur Decanus. Decem autem Decanis pręponeretur vnus, qui centenarius nuncupatur: Decem vero Centenarijs pręponeretur vnus qui millenarius nuncupatur: decem millenarijs pręponeretur vnus, & ille numerus vocatur tenebre apud eos. Cuncto vero exercitui pręponuntur duo duces vel tres, ita tamen quod habeant respectum ad vnum. Cum autem omnes sunt in bello si de decem hominibus fugit vnus vel duo, vel tres, vel etiam plures, omnes occiduntur. Et vt breuiter dicam, nisi communiter cedant, omnes qui fugiunt occiduntur. Item si vnus vel duo aut plures audacter ad pugnam accedunt, & decem alij non sequuntur, etiam occiduntur. Item si vnus de decem vel plures capiuntur, & alij socij sui non liberant eos, etiam occiduntur. Duo arcus vel tres, vel vnum bonum ad minus, & tres pharetras magnas plenas de sagittis & vnam securim, & funes ad machinas trahendas habere debet vnusquisque. Diuites autem habent gladios acutos in fine, ex vna tantum parte incidentes, & aliquantulum curuos: & habent equum armatum, crura etiam tecta. Galeas & loricas quidam habent de corio in hunc modum formatas. Habent quasdam corrigias de boue ad latitudinem vnus manus, & bituminant tres vel quatuor simul, & ligant illas corrigiolis vel cordis. In corrigia superiori ponunt cordulas in fine; in inferiori ponunt in medio, & sic faciunt vsque ad finem. Vnde quum se inclinant in inferiores, corrigiæ superiores ascendunt & sic duplicantur super corpus, vel triplicantur. De coopertura equi faciunt quinque partes: ex vna parte faciunt vnam, ex alia parte faciunt aliam, quam partem ducunt à cauda vsq; ad caput: quæ ligantur ad sellam, & post sellam in dorso & etiam in collo, super renes etiam partē aliam ponunt, vbi duæ partium ligaturæ iunguntur: in qua pecia faciunt vnum foramen, per quod caudas exponunt: & ante pectus ponunt etiam vnam: quæ omnes protenduntur vsque ad crurium iuncturas. Et ante frontem laminam ferream ponunt, quæ ex vtraque parte colli partibus prædictis ligatur. Lorica vero etiam quatuor partes habet, vna pars protenditur à fœmore vsque ad collum; sed est

facta secundum dispositionem humani corporis : quia ante pectus est stricta : in rotundum obuoluitur circa corpus à brachijs inferius : Super humeros autem retro ad renes habent aliam peciam, quæ protenditur a collo vsque ad aliam peciam, quæ reuoluitur
5 circa corpus : Super humeros autem istæ duæ peciæ anterior videlicet & posterior, ad duas laminas ferreas quæ sunt in vtroque humero fibulis connectuntur. Et in vtroque brachio vnam habent peciam, quæ ab humero protenduntur vsque ad manus, quæ etiam inferius sunt apte. Et in vtroque crure vnam habent peciam :
10 quæ peciæ omnes fibulis coniunguntur. Galea autem superius est ferrea. Sed illud quod protegit in circuitu collum & gulam de corio fit. Et omnes istæ peciæ de corio sunt formatæ secundum modum superius annotatum. Quidam autem omnia quæ superius diximus habent de ferro in hunc modum formata. Vnam laminam
15 tenuem ad latitudinem vnus digiti faciunt, & ad longitudinem palmæ vnus. Et in hunc modum faciunt laminas multas : & in vnaquaque lamina octo foramina paruula faciunt, & interius tres corrigias strictas & fortes ponunt, & laminas vnam super aliam ponūt, quasi ascendendo per gradus : & ligant laminas prædictas
20 ad corrigias tenuibus corrigiolis, quas mitunt per foramina superius [p. 32] annotata : Et in superiori patre consuunt corrigiolam vnam, vt laminæ prædictæ bene & firmiter cohæreant sibi. Et faciunt ex laminis quasi corrigiam vnam, & postea ligant per pecias per omnia, sicut superius dictum est. Et ista faciunt tam ad equorum
25 quam ad hominum armaturas. Et faciunt illa ita lucere, quod potest homo in eis faciem suam videre. Aliqui eorū lanceas habent : & in fine ferri lanceæ vnum habent vncū, cum quo trahunt hominem de sella si possunt. Longitudo sagittarum est duorum pedum & vnus palmæ, & duorum digitorum. Et quia diuersi sunt
30 pedes, mensurā pedum geometricā ponimus. Duodecem grana hordei pollicis transuersio est. Sexdecem pollices transuersi faciunt vnum geometricum pedem. Ferramenta sagittarum sunt acutissima, & ex utraq; parte incidentia quasi gladius biceps, & semper portant limas iuxta pharetram ad acuendum sagittas.
35 Ferramenta prædicta caudam habent acutam ad longitudinem vnus digiti, quam imponunt in lignum. Scutum habent de viminibus vel de virgulis factum. Sagittas habent alias ad sagittandum aues bestias & homines inermes ad trium digitorum latitudinem. Sagittas alias habent diuersimodas ad aues & bestias
40 sagittandas. Quum ad bellum procedere volunt præcursores præmittunt, qui nihil secum portant præter filtra sua, equos & arma. Isti nihil rapiunt, domos non comburunt, bestias non occidunt : Sed tamen homines vulnerant & mortificant, & si non possunt aliud, mittunt in fugam; multo libentius tamen occidunt, quam fugant, post istos sequitur exercitus, qui cuncta quę inuenit accipit, & homines etiam, si inueniri possunt, accipiunt & occidunt. Quum autem ad flumina perueniunt, hoc modo transeunt illa etiamsi sunt magna. Maiores vnum rotundum & leue corium 5 habent, in quo in summitate per circuitum crebras faciunt ansas, in quibus funem imponunt, & stringunt ita quod in circuitu faciunt quendam ventrem, quem replent vestibus, & alijs rebus, & fortissime comprimunt ad inuicem: post hoc in medio ponunt sellas & alias res duriores: homines autem in medio sedent: & 10 ligant ad caudam equi nauem hanc taliter præparatam, & vnum hominum qui equum regat faciunt pariter cum equo ante natare: vel habent aliquando duos remos, & cum illis remigant ultra aquam, & sic transeunt fluuium. Equos vero pellunt in aqua, & vnus homo iuxta vnum equum, quē regit, natat: & alij equi illum 15 sequuntur. Et sic transeunt aquas & flumina magna. Alij vero pauperiores vnam bursam de corio bene consutam vnusquisq; tenetur habere: in qua bursa vel in quo sacco vestes & omnes res suas imponunt; & in summitate sacculi fortissime ligant, & suspendunt ad caudam equi, & transeunt, vt supradictum est. Sciendum 20 est, quod cum vident hostes tunc vadunt ad eos, & vnusquisq; iacit tres sagittas vel quatuor contra aduersarios: Et si vident quod eos superare non possunt, retro gradiuntur ad suos: Et hoc faciunt in fraudem, vt aduersarij eos sequantur ad loca vbi insidias parauerunt: Et si inimici eorum sequuntur ad prædictas insidias, 25 circumdant eos & sic vulnerant & occidunt. Item si vident quod magnus exercitus est contra eos, aliquando diuertunt ab eo per vnam dietam vel duas, & aliā partem terræ inuadunt & spoliant: & interficiunt homines, & terrā destruunt & deuastant. Et si vident quod hoc etiā facere non possunt, cedunt retro ad decem 30 vel duodecem dietas: aliquando etiā morantur in loco tuto, quousq; aduersariorū exercitus separetur, & tunc furtim veniunt, & depopulantur totā terram. In bellis etiam astutissimi sunt: quia iam per quadraginta annos & amplius cum alijs gentibus dimicarunt. Cum autem volunt ad pugnam accedere, omnes acies ordinant 35 sicut deberēt pugnare. Duces siue principes exercitus bellū non intrant, sed stant à longe cōtra inimicorū exercitum, & iuxta se habent pueros in equis & mulieres & equos. Et faciunt aliquando imagines hominum, & ponunt super equos. Hoc ideo faciunt, vt multitudo magna bellantium esse credantur. Contra faciem 40 equorum vnam aciem captiuorum & aliarum gentium quę sunt inter eos transmittunt: & forsitan aliqui Tartari vadunt cum eis. Alias acies fortiorum hominum longe mittunt à dextris & à sinistris, vt non videantur ab aduersarij suis : & sic circundant aduersarios & colligunt in medium, & pugnare incipiunt ~~ex~~ omni parte. Et cum sunt aliquando pauci, putantur ab aduersarijs qui circundati sunt, esse multi. Et maxime cum videant illos, qui sunt cum 5 duce vel principe exercitus pueros & mulieres & equos, & homines fictos, vt dictum est supra : quos credunt esse pugnatores : & per hoc terrentur & confunduntur. Et si forte aduersarij bene pug-nant, faciunt eis viam vt fugiant : & statim cum fugere incipiunt, ab inuicem separati insequuntur eos, & plures tunc occidunt fuga, 10 quàm mortificare possent in bello. Sciendum tamen est, quod si aliud possunt, non libèter cōgrediuntur, sed homines & equos sagittis vulnerant & occidunt. Munitiones in hunc modum expugnāt. Si est talis munitio ipsam circundant, immo aliquando ita sepiunt, vt nullus ingredi vel exire possit. Expugnāt fortissime 15 machinis & sagittis : & nec die nec nocte cessant a prælio, vt illi qui sunt in munitionibus non quiescant. Ipsi Tartari quiescunt :

 quia acies diuidunt & vna succedit alteri in pugna vt non nimiū fatigentur. Et si eam taliter habere non possunt græcū proijciunt ignem. Imo solent aliquando accipere aruinā hominum quos
 20 occidunt, & liquefactum proijciunt | super domos : Et vbicunque venit ignis super pinguedinem illam, quasi inextinguibiliter ardet.
 Et si ita non præualent, & si ciuitas illa vel castrum habeat flumen, obstruunt illud, vel faciunt alium alueum & submergunt illam munitionem si possunt. Si autem non possunt suffodiunt 25 illam, & sub terra armati in ipsam ingrediuntur. Et cum iam intrauerunt, vna pars ignem imponit vt comburatur : & alia pars cum illius munitionis hominibus pugnat. Si autem nec sic illam vincere possunt, castrum vel munitionem suam faciunt contra illam, vt ab inimicorum iaculis non grauentur, & contra illam 30 multo tempore iacent : nisi forte exterius adiutorium exercitus qui pugnat cum eis adhibeat, & vi remoueant ipsos. Sed cum iacent ante munitionem blande eis loquuntur, & multa promittunt, ad hoc vt se in eorum manus tradant : Et si illi se eis tradiderint, dicunt : Exite, vt secundum morem nostrum vos muneremus. Et 35 cum illi ad eos exeunt, quærunť qui sunt artifices inter eos, & illos reseruant : alios autem, exceptis illis quos volunt habere pro seruis cum securi occidunt. Et si aliquibus alijs parcunt, vt dictum est, nobilibus & honestis nunquam parcunt. Et si fortè aliquo casu contingente reseruant aliquos nobiles ; nec prece nec precio vltra 40 de captiuitate possunt exire. In bellis autem quoscunque capiunt occidunt, nisi forte velint aliquos reseruare vt habeant eos pro seruis. Occidendos autem diuidunt per centenarios, vt cum bipenni interficiantur ab eis. Ipsi vero post hoc diuidunt captiuos,

De terris quas eorum dominio subiugarunt. Cap. 7.

SCripto quomodo pugnant, dicendum est de terris, quas eorum dominio subiugarunt. De quo isto modo scribemus. Primo ⁵ dicemus quomodo faciunt cum hominibus pacem. Secundo de terrarum nominibus quas sibi subdiderunt. Tertio de tyrannide quam exercent in eis. Quarto de terris quæ viriliter restiterunt. Sciendum est quod cum nullis hominibus faciunt pacem, nisi sub-dentur eis: quia, vt dictum est supra, Cyngis can habent manda- ¹⁰ tum, vt cunctas si possunt sibi subiiciant nationes. Et hæc sunt illa quæ petunt ab eis, vt vadant cum eis in exercitu contra omnem hominem quando placet, & vt dent decimam de omnibus tam de hominibus, quàm de rebus. Computant enim decem, & vnum accipiunt. De puellis faciunt illud idem, quos in terram eorum ¹⁵ deducunt & tenent eos pro seruis: reliquos numerant & ordinant secundum morem. Sed quando plene habent dominium super eos, si aliquid promiserunt eis nihil obseruant: sed quascunque possunt congrue occasiones inueniunt contra eos. Nam cum essemus in Russia, missus fuit Saracenorum ex parte Cuynthcan ²⁰ vt dicebatur & Bati: & præfectus ille a quolibet homine qui habebat tres pueros vnum accipiebat: & quicumque viri non habebant vxores, illos deducebant, & faciebant de mulieribus etiam illud idem quæ viros legitimos non habebant. Pauperes etiam qui mendicando suum victum quærebant similiter deporta- ²⁵ bunt. Reliquos autem secundum eorum consuetudinem numeravit, præcapiens vt vnusquisq; tam paruus quam magnus, & infans vnus diei, siue pauper siue diues esset, tale tributū præberet: vt scilicet daret vnū pellem albi vrsi, & vnum nigrum castorē, & vnum Zabulum, & vnam nigram pellem cuiusdam ³⁰ animalis quod in terra latibulum habet, cuius nomen nescio in latinum transferre, sed Tentonice dicitur *illit: Poloni autem & Rutheni appellant illam Dochon: & vnam nigram pellem vulpinam. Et quicumque ista non dat, inter Tartaros debet duci, & in eorum redigi seruitutem. Mitunt etiam pro principibus terrarum, vt ad ³⁵ eos veniant sine mora: & cum venerint, debitum honorem nullum recipiunt, sed habentur vt aliæ viles personæ: & oportet vt eis munera magna præsentent, tam ducibus quàm vxoribus eorum, & officialibus, millenarijs & centenarijs. Imo omnes generaliter, & ipsi etiam serui ab eis cum magna importunitate munera quærent: Et non solum ab ipsis, sed etiam à nuncijs eorum cum mittuntur. Aliquibus etiam inueniunt occasiones vt eos occidant. Sicut de 5 Michaelē & alijs actum est. Aliquos vero alliciunt, quos permittunt redire. Aliquos etiam potionibus perimunt vel veneno. Eorum enim intentio est, vt ipsi soli dominentur in terra. Idcirco quærent occasiones contra nobiles, vt eos occidant. Ab illis vero quos redire permittunt petunt eorum filios aut fratres, quos ulterius

10 nunquam dimittunt. Sicut factum est de filio Ieroslai, & de quodam duce Alanorum, & alijs plurimis. Et si moritur pater vel frater siue hæres, filium vel fratrem nunquam dimittunt: immo illius principatum totaliter accipiunt sibi. Sicut de quodam Solangorum vidimus esse factum. Baschathos suos ponunt in 15 terris eorum quos redire permittunt, quibus oportet vt ad nutum tam duces quàm alij debeant obedire. Et si homines alicuius ciuitatis vel terræ non faciunt quod volunt, isti Baschathi imponunt eis, quod sunt Tartaris infideles: & sic ciuitatem illam vel terram destruunt, & homines qui sunt in ea occidunt, per manum validam
20 Tartarorum, qui ex mandato principis illius cui obedit terra illa veniunt eis nescientibus, & subito irruunt super eos: sicut nuper contigit cum in terra | Tartarorum essemus de quadam ciuitate. Quod ipsummet de Ruthenis fecerunt in terra Comanorum. Et non solum princeps Tartarorum qui terram vsurpauit, sed præ-
25 fectus ipsius, & quicumque Tartarus per ciuitatem illam siue terram transit quasi dominatur eidem, & maxime qui maior est apud eos. Insuper aurum & argentū, & alia quæ volunt & quando libet ad imperatorem vadant Tartarorum ad placitandum. Sicut nuper contigit de duobus filijs regis Georgiæ. Vnus enim erat legitimus, &
30 alter de adulterio natus, qui vocabatur Dauid: legitimus autem Melic vocabatur. Filio adulteræ terræ partem relinquebat pater. Alius vero, qui iunior erat, veniebat cum matre ad Tartarorum imperatorem, pro eo quod Dauid prædictus ad ipsum iter arripuerat veniendi. Mater alterius scilicet Melic regina Georgiæ, per quam
35 maritus tenebat regnum, quia per fœminas illud regnum tenebatur, mortua fuit in via. Illi autem cum venerunt dederunt maxima munera: & maxime legitimus filius, qui repetebat terram quam reliquerat pater filio suo Dauid, cum non deberet habere, quia adulteræ filius erat. Ille vero respondit: Licet sim filius concu-
40 binæ, peto tamen vt fiat mihi iustitia secundum legem Tartarorum, qui nullam differentiam faciunt inter filios legitimæ & ancillæ: vnde fuit data sententia contra filium legitimum, vt ille Dauidi qui maior erat subesset, & terram haberet quiete & pacifice, quam dederat ei pater: & sic donaria quæ dederat, & causam quam contra fratrem suum Daudid habuerat, amisit. Ab illis etiam nationibus quæ longe sunt ab eis, & coniunctæ sunt alijs nationibus quas aliquo modo timent, quæ non sunt eis subiectæ, tributū accipiunt & quasi misericorditer agunt cum eis, vt non adducant 5 exercitum super eos, vel etiam vt alij non terreantur, se tradere eis. Sicut factum est de Obesis siue Georgianis, a quibus quinquaginta vel quadraginta millia, vt dictum est, ypperperorum siue Bysantiorū accipiunt pro tributo: aliās ad hoc in pace esse permittunt. Tamen, secundum quod intelleximus ab eis, rebellare 10 proponunt.

Terrarum nomina quas vicerunt sunt hæc. Kytai, Naymani, Solangi, Kara Kytai, siue nigri Kytai, Comania, Tumat, Voyrat, Caraniti, Huyur, Soboal, Merkiti, Meniti, Baryhryur, Gosmit, Saraceni, Bisermini, Turcomani, Byleri, magna Bulgaria, Baschare, 15 magna Hungaria, Kergis, Colona, Thorati, Buritabeth, Parossiti, Sassi, Iacobiti, Alani, siue Assi, Obesi siue Georgiani, Nestoriani, Armeni, Cangiti, Comani Brutachi, qui sunt Iudæi, Mordui, Torci, Gazari, Samogedi, Perses, Thoas, India minor siue Æthiopia, Yrchasi, Rutheni, Baldach, Sarthi: Aliæ terræ sunt plures, sed 20 earum nomina ignoramus. Vidimus etiam viros & mulieres fere de omnibus terris supra nominatis. Hæc autem sunt nomina Terrarum quæ eis viriliter restiterunt, nec sunt adhuc subditæ eis, India magna, Mangia; Quædam pars Alanorum: Quædam pars Kytaorum, Sayi. Quandam enim ciuitatem Sayorum prædictorum 25 obsederunt & debellare tentauerunt. At ipsi fecerunt machinas contra machinas eorum, & Tartarorum machinas omnes fregerunt, nec ciuitati appropinquare poterant ad pugnam contra machinas & balistas. Tandem vnā viam sub terra fecerunt, & prosiluerūt in ciuitatē, & alij tentabant incendere ciuitatē, alij pugnabant. 30 Homines autem ciuitatis vnam partem populi ad extinguendū ignem posuerunt, & alia pars fortiter pugnabat cum hijs qui intrauerunt ciuitatem, & multos occiderunt ex eis, & alios vulnerauerunt, cōpellentes eos ad suos redire. At ipsi videntes quod nihil possent facere, & multi homines morerentur, recesserunt ab 35 eis. In terra Saracenorū & aliorū vbi sunt quasi inter eos domini, accipiūt omnes artifices meliores, & in omnibus operibus suis ponunt. Alij autē artifices dant eis de opere suo tributum. Segetes omnes condunt in horreis dominorum: & vniciue vnum pondus satis modicum dant in die: nihil aliud nisi ter in septimana 40 modicum quid de carnibus eis prebent. Et illi hoc tantum artificibus faciunt qui in ciuitatibus commorantur. Item quando dominis placet iuuenes omnes accipiunt, & post se cum omnibus famulis suis ire cogunt: qui de cætero certo sunt numero Tartarorū, immo potius de numero captiuorū: quia etsi inter ipsos sunt numerati, non tamen habentur in reuerentia sicut Tartari; sed habentur pro seruis, & ad omnia pericula vt alij captiui mittuntur. Ipsi enim in bello sunt primi: Etiam si debet palus vel aqua periculosa transiri, eos oportet primo vadum tentare. Ipsos est etiam necesse operari omnia quæ sunt facienda. Ipsi etiam si in aliquo offendunt, vel si non obediunt ad nutum, vt asini verberantur. Et vt breuiter dicam, modicum quid manducant, & etiam modicum bibunt, & pessime induuntur; nisi forte aliquid possunt lucrari, nisi sunt aurifabri & alij artifices boni. Sed aliqui tam malos dominos habent, quod nihil eis dimittunt, nec habent tempus præ multitudine operum dominorum, vt sibi aliquid operentur, nisi furentur sibi tempus, quando forsitan debent quiescere vel dormire. Et hoc si vxores vel propriam stationem permittuntur habere. Alij autem qui tenentur in domo pro seruis omni miseria sunt repleti. Vidi enim eos ire in brasis sæpissime, & toto corpore nudos in maximo solis ardore. Et in hyeme patiuntur maximum frigus. Vidimus etiam aliquos pedicas & digitos manuum de magno frigore perdidisse. Audiuius etiam alios esse mortuos, vel etiam de magno algore quasi in omnibus membris inutiles esse factos.

| Quomodo bello occurratur Tartaris. Cap. 8. [p. 35]

DICTO de terris, quæ obediunt eis, supponendum est quomodo bello occurratur eisdem. Quod videtur nobis hoc modo dicendum. Primo scribendum est quid intendunt. Secundo de armis & ordinatione acierū. Tertio quomodo occurratur astutijs eorum in congressione. Quarto de munitione castrorum & ciuitatū. Quinto quid faciendum sit de captiuis eorum. Intentio Tartarorum est subijcere sibi totum mundum si possunt. Et de hoc Cyngischā habent mandatum, sicut superius dictum est. Idcirco eorum imperator sic in literis suis scribit. Dei fortitudo, Omnium Imperator. Et in superscriptione sigilli sui hoc habet.

Dominus in cælo, & Cuynch Chan super terram. Dei fortitudo, omnium hominum imperatoris sigillum. Et ideo cum nullis hominibus faciunt pacem, vt dictum est, nisi forte se in eorum manibus tradunt. Et quia excepta Christianitate nulla est terra in orbe quam timent, idcirco se ad pugnam præpararunt contra nos. Vnde nouerint vniuersi quod nobis existentibus in terra eorum in solenni curia, quæ iam ex pluribus annis indicta erat, fuimus, vbi elegerunt Cuynch imperatorem in præsētia nostra, qui in lingua eorum dicitur Chan. Qui Cuynch Chan prædictus erexit cum omnibus principibus vexillum contra ecclesiam dei & Romanum imperium, & contra omnia regna Christianorum & populos occidentis, nisi forsā facerent ea, quæ mandat Domino Papæ, & 5 potentibus ac omnibus Christianorū populis Occidentis: quod nulla ratione faciendum est: tum propter nimiam seruitutem & intolerabilem, quæ est hactenus inaudita, quam vidimus oculis nostris, in quam redigunt omnes gentes sibi subiectas: tum propterea quod nulla in eis est fides: nec potest aliqua gens con- 10 fidere in verbis eorum: quia quicquid promittunt non observant, quando vident sibi tempora fauere: & subdoli sunt in omnibus factis & promissis eorū. Intendunt etiam delere omnes principes, omnes nobiles, omnes milites de terra, vt superius dictum est: sed hoc faciunt subdole & artificiose in subditos suos: Tum etiam quia 15 indignum est quod Christiani subdantur eisdem, propter abominatōnes eorum, & quia in nihilum redigitur cultus dei, & animæ pereunt, & corpora vltra quā credi possit multitudine affliguntur. In primo quidem sunt blandi, sed postea vt scorpio cruciant & affligunt. Tum quia pauciores sunt numero, & corpore debiliores 20 quā populi Christiani. In prædicta autem curia sunt bellatores & principes & exercitus assignati. De decē hominibus mittuntur tres cum familijs eorū, de omni terra potestatis eorū. Vnus exercitus debet intrare per Hungariam: secundus per Poloniam. Veniunt autem pugnaturi continue octodecem annis. Tēpus est 25 etiam eis assignatum, In Martio An. Dom. 1247, si de terra sua mouebunt. Venient autem in tribus vel in quatuor *annis vsq; ad Comaniā. De Comania autē insultum facient in terras superius annotatas. Hæc omnia firma sunt & vera, nisi Dominus aliquod impedimentū pro sua gratia faciat eis. Sicut fecit quando 30 venerunt in Hungariā & Poloniā. Debebāt enim procedere tunc pro certo triginta annis. Sed interfectus fuit tunc imperator eorū veneno: & propter hoc quieuerunt à prælijs vsq; nunc. Sed modo, quia positus est imperator de nouo, iterum se de nouo ad pugnam incipiunt præparare. Adhoc sciendum est, quod impe- 35 rator dixit ore suo, quod vellet mittere exercitum in Liunioniam & Prussiam. Et quoniam omnem terram volunt delere vel in seruitutem redigere, quæ seruitus est intolerabilis nostræ genti, vt superius dictum est: Occurrendum est igitur eis in bello. Sed si vna prouincia non vult alteri opem ferre, terra illa delebitur contra 40 quam pugnant, & cum illis hominibus quos capiunt pugnabunt contra aliam terram; & in acie erunt primi. Si male pugnant occidentur ab eis: Si autem bene, ipsos cum promissis adulationibus tenent: & etiam vt ab ipsis non fugiant promittunt eis quod facient eos dominos magnos: & post hoc quando securi esse possunt de 5 ipsis, vt non redeant, faciunt eos infelicissimos seruos. Ac de mulieribus quas volunt in concubinas tenere pro seruitijs faciunt illud idem. Et ita cum hominibus deuictæ prouinciæ destruunt aliam terram. Nec est aliqua prouincia quæ per se possit resistere eis: quia de omni terra potestatis eorum, vt dictum est, homines 10 congregant ad bellum. Vnde si Christiani seipsos & suã terram, & Christianitatem volunt seruare, oportet quod in vnum conue-niant reges, principes & barones, & terrarum rectores, & mittant de cõmuni consilio homines contra eos ad pugnã, antequam ipsi incipiant in terras diffundi. Quoniam postquam incipiunt spargi 15 per terras, vndiq; homines quærunt, & nullus congrue auxilium alteri potest præbere: quoniam ipsi cateruatim vndiq; quærunt homines & occidunt. Et si claudunt se in castris, ponunt tria millia vel quatuor millia hominum contra castrum vel ciuitatem, qui obsideant eam; & ipsi nihilominus diffunduntur per terras 20 homines occidentes. Quicunq; autem volunt pugnare cum eis, hæc arma debent habere. Arcus bonos & fortes, & balistas, quas multũ timent, & sagittas sufficientes: & bonum dolabrũ de bono ferro, & scutũ cũ longo manubrio. Ferramenta sagittarũ de arcu vel de balista debent, | vt Tartari, quando sunt calida, temperari 25 in aqua cum sale mixta, vt fortia sint ad penetrandum arma eorum. Gladios & etiam lanceas cum vnco, qui valeant ad trahendum eos de sellis: quia de eis facillime cadunt: ac cultellos ac loricas duplicatas; quia illos eorum sagittæ non penetrant: & galeã & arma alia ad protegendum corpus & equum ab armis 30 & sagittis eorum. Et si aliqui non sunt ita bene armati, vt dixi; debent ire post alios vt faciunt Tartari: & trahere contra eos de armis & sagittis. Nec debent parcere pecuniæ, quoniam comparent arma, vt possint animas & corpora, libertatem & res alias con-seruare. Acies debent ordinari, vt ipsi, per millenarios, cente-35 narios, & decanos & duces exercitus: qui duces nequaquam debent prælium intrare, sicut nec duces eorum, sed debent exercitus videre & ordinare: legemquẽ debent ponere vt simul incedant ad bellum, siue aliãs, sicut sunt ordinati. Et quicumque relinquit alium siue ad bellum procedentem, siue pugnantem, vel quicumque fugerit, 40 nisi omnes cõmuniter cedant, grauissime puniatur: quia tunc pars bellantium sequitur fugientes, & sagittis eorum occidunt, & pars cum hijs qui remanēt pugnant, & sic confundūtur & occiduntur remanentes & fugientes. Similiter quicumq; conuersus fuerit ad prædam tollendam, antequam omnino sit exercitus contrariorū deuictus, maxima pœna mulctetur. Talis enim apud Tartaros sine vlla miseratione occiditur. Locus ad præliandum est eligendus, si fieri potest vt campus sit planus, & possint vndique videre: & si possunt habeant syluam magnam a tergo vel a latere, 5 ita tamen quod non possunt intrare inter ipsos & syluam: nec debent simul omnes conuenire in vnum, sed facere acies multas, & diuersas ab inuicem, nec tamen multum distantes. Et contra illos qui post veniunt debent vnam aciem mittere qui eis occurrat. Et si Tartari simulant fugam, non multum vadant post 10 eos, nisi forte quantum possunt videre, ne forte ipsos ad paratas insidias trahant, sicut facere solent: Et alia sit parata ad iuuandum aciem illam, si fuerit opportunum. Insuper habeant speculatores ex omni parte, vt videant quando veniant aliæ acies Tartarorum retro, à dextris & à sinistris: & semper debent mittere aciem 15 contra aciem quæ eis occurrat. Ipsi enim semper nituntur concludere aduersarios eorum in medio, vnde magnam cautelā debent habere ne hoc facere possint, quia sic exercitus facillime debellatur. Omnes acies hoc debent cauere, ne diu currant post eos, propter insidias quas solent præparare: plus enim fraudulentia 20 quàm fortitudine pugnant. Duces exercitus semper debent esse parati ad mittendum adiutorium, si necesse est, illis qui sunt in pugna, & propter hoc etiam debent vitare nimium cursum post eos: ne forte fatigentur equi eorum; quoniam nostri multitudinem equorum non habent. Sed Tartari illum quem equitant vna die, 25 illum non ascendunt in tribus vel in quatuor diebus post hoc. Vnde non curant si fatigentur equi eorū propter multitudinem quam habent. Et si Tartari cedunt, non tamen nostri debent recedere, vel ab inuicem separari: quia simulando hoc faciunt, vt exercitus diuidatur, & post hoc terram libere ingrediantur, & eam 30 destruant. Debent etiam cauere vt non faciant nimias expensas, vt solent; ne propter penuriam redire compellantur, & dent Tartaris viam, vt ipsos & alios occidant, & destruant omnem terram; & propter eorum superfluitatem nomen Domini blasphemetur. Et hoc debent facere diligenter: vt si contingat aliquos 35 pugnatores recedere, quod alij loco eorum succedant. Duces etiam nostri debent die noctēque facere exercitum custodiri, ne repente & subito irruant super ipsos: quia Tartari vt dæmones, multas excogitant iniquitates & artes nocendi: Immo tam de die quam de nocte semper debent esse parati: sed nec spoliati debent 40 iacere nec deliciose ad mensam sedere, ne imparati inueniantur, quia Tartari semper vigilant, vt possint nocere. Homines vero terræ qui Tartaros expectant, vel super se tiinent venire, occultas foucas debent habere, in quibus sagittas, & alia debent reponere, propter duo: vt videlicet Tartari non possint ea habere; & si propitius fuerit eis Deus, valeant ea postea inuenire; Eis fugientibus de terra, debent fœnum & stramina comburere, vt equi

5 Tartarorum ad comedendum minus inueniant. Ciuitates autem & castra si volunt munire, videant prius qualia sint in situ. Situs enim talis debet esse in castris, quod machinis & sagittis expugnari nō possit; & aquā habeant sufficientem & lignū, & si fieri potest, quod introitus & exitus eis tolli non possit: & quod
10 habeant homines sufficientes qui possint vicissim pugnare. Et debent vigilare diligenter ne aliqua astutia possint castrum furari. Expensas ad multos annos debent habere sufficientes: custodiant tamen diligenter illas, & in mensura manducant, quia nesciunt quanto tempore eos in castris oportet esse inclusos. Quum enim
15 incipiunt, tunc multis annis obsident vnum castrum. Sic fit hodierna die in terra Alanorum de quodam monte, quem, vt credo, iam obsederunt per duodecem annos; qui viriliter restiterunt, & multos Tartaros & nobiles occiderunt. Alia autem castra & ciuitates, quæ talem situm non habent debent fortiter
20 vallari foueis profundis munitis, & muris bene præparatis; & arcus & sagittas sufficientes: & lapides ac fundas debent habere. Et debent diligenter cauere, quod non permittant Tartaros ponere machinas suas; & suis machinis debent eos repellere. Et si forte aliquo ingenio vel arte erigunt | Tartari machinas suas, debent eas
25 destruere machinis suis si possunt. Balistis etiam, fundis & machinis debent resistere ne ciuitati appropinquent. Aliàs etiam debent esse parati, vt superius dictum est. De castris & ciuitatibus, quæ sunt in fluminibus positæ, diligenter debent videre ne possint submergi. Sed ad hoc sciendū est, quod Tartari plus
30 diligunt, quod homines claudant se in ciuitatibus, quàm quod pugnent cū eis in campo. Dicunt enim eos esse suos porcellos in hara conclusos. Vnde ponunt eis custodes, vt supradictū est. Si autē aliqui Tartari de equis suis in bello proijciuntur, statim sunt capiendi: quia cum sunt in terra fortiter sagittant, & equos &
35 homines vulnerant & occidunt. Et si seruantur tales, potest esse, quod habeatur pro eis pax perpetua, aut pecunia magna redimantur: quoniā se adinuicem satis diligunt. Sed quomodo Tartari cognoscantur, superius dictum est vbi forma eorum fuit expressa. Tamen quando capiuntur, si debent seruari, ne fugiant
40 diligens est custodia adhibenda. Sunt etiā aliæ multę gentes cū eis, quæ per formā superius annotatā possunt ab ipsis cognosci. Est etiam hoc sciendum, quod multi in exercitu eorum sunt, qui si viderent tempus, & haberēt fiduciam, quod nostri non occiderent eos, ex omni parte exercitus, sicut ipsimet nobis dixerunt, pugnarent cū eis, & plura mala facerent ipsis, quàm alij, qui sunt eorum aduersarij manifesti.

THe long and wonderful voyage of Frier Iohn de Plano Carpini, sent ambassadour by Pope Innocentius the iiii. An. 5 Do. 1246. to the great CAN of Tartaria; wherein he passed through Bohemia, Polonia, Russia, and so to the citie of Kiow vpon Boristhenes, and from thence rode continually post for the space of sixe moneths through Comania, ouer the mighty and famous riuers of Tanais, Volga, and Iaic, & 10 through the countries of the people called Kangittæ, Bisermini, Kara-Kitay, Naimani, & so to the natiue countrie of the Mongals or Tartars, situate in the extreme Northeasterne partes of all Asia: and thence backe againe the same way to Russia, and Polonia, and so to Rome; spending in the whole 15 voyage among the sayd Tartars one whole yeere & aboue foure moneths: Taken out of the 32. booke of Vincentius Beluacensis his Speculum historiale.

HOc etiam tēpore misit Innocentius IIII. Papa Fr. Ascelinū de ordine Prædicatorū cū tribus alijs Fratribus, auctoritate, qua fungebantur, de diuersis ordinis sui conuentibus sibi associatis, cum literis 25 Apostolicis ad exercitū Tartarorū, in quibus hortabatur eos, vt ab hominū strage desisterent, & fidei veritatē reciperent. Siquidē & eo tempore quidā Frater ordinis Minorū, videlicet Fr. Ioannes de his, quæ apud Tartaros vel oculis proprijs vidit, vel à Christianis fide dignis, qui inter illos captiui erant, audiuit, libellum historiale conscripsit, qui & ipse ad manus nostras peruenit. De situ & qualitate terræ Tartarorum. Cap. 3.

Iohannes de Plano Carpini.

EST in partibus Orientis terra, quæ Mongal siue Tartaria dicitur, in ea scilicet parte sita, in qua Oriens Aquiloni coniungi creditur. Ab Oriente quidem habet terram Kythaorum & etiam Solangorum, à meridie verò terrâ Sarracenorum. Inter 15 *Orientē & meridiem terram Huynorum, & ab Occidente provinciam Naymanorum, ab Aquilone verò circundatur Oceano. In parte aliqua nimium est montuosa, & in aliqua campestris, sed tota ferè admixta glarea plurimum arenosa, nec est in centesima parte fructuosa. Nec enim potest fructum portare, nisi aquis
 20 fluuiialibus irrigetur, quæ ibi sunt rarissimæ. Vnde nec villæ nec aliquæ ciuitates ibidē reperiuntur, | excepta vna, quæ Cracurim appellatur, & satis bona esse dicitur. Nos quidem illam non vidimus, sed ad dimidiam dietam prope fuimus, cū apud Syram ordam, quæ curia maior Imperatoris eorum est, essemus. Licet
 25 autem aliàs infructifera sit illa terra, tamen alendis pecoribus est apta. In aliqua eius parte sunt aliquæ syluæ modicæ, alia verò sine lignis est omninò. Itaque tam Imperator quàm Principes, & omnes alij sedent, & cibaria sua decoquunt ad focum, de boum & equorum stercoribus factum. Ipse quoq; aër inordinatus est
 30 ibidem mirabiliter. In media siquidem æstate ibi tonitrua magna & fulgura fiunt, ex quibus plurimi occiduntur homines, & eodem quoq; tempore cadunt ibidem maximè niues. Sunt & ibi ventorum frigidissimorum tam maximè tempestates, quòd aliquando vix possunt equitare homines. Vnde cū ante ordam essemus (sic 35 enim apud eos stationes Imperatoris & Principum appellantur) præ venti magnitudine in terra prostrati iacebamus, & videre propter pulueris magnitudinē minimè poteramus. Nunquam ibi pluit in hyeme, sed frequenter in æstate, & tam modicum, vt vix posset aliquando puluerem & radicem graminum madefacere. Ibi quoq; maxima grando cadit sæpè. Vnde cùm Imperator electus in sede regni debuit poni, nobis in curia tunc existentibus, tanta cecidit grando, quod ex subita resolutione plusquam CLX. homines in eadem curia fuerunt submersi. Res etiam & habi- 5

Mongalorum autem siue Tartarorum forma ab omnibus alijs hominibus est remota. Inter oculos enim, & inter genas, 10
lati sunt plus cæteris, genæ quoq; satis prominent à maxillis. Nasum habent planum & modicum, oculos etiam paruos, & palpebras vsq; ad supercilia eleuatas, ac super verticem in modum Clericorum coronas. Ex vtraq; parte frontis tondendo, plusquam in medio crines longos faciunt, reliquos autem sicut mulieres 15 crescere permittunt. De quibus duas cordas faciunt, & vnamquamq; post aurem ligant. Pedes quoq; modicos habent. Vestes tam virorum quàm mulierum vno modo formatæ sunt. Pallijs vel cappis vel caputijs non vtuntur. Tunicas verò miro modo formatas portant de buccaramo, vel purpurato, vel baldaquino. 20 Pellicium habet pilos exterius, sed apertum est à posterioribus. Habet tamen caudulam vnam vsq; ad genua retrò. Vestes suas non lauant, nec lauari permittunt, & maximè à tempore, quo tonitrua incipiunt, vsquequo desinat illud tempus. Stationes 25 habent rotundas in modum tentorij de virgulis & baculis subtilibus præparatas. Supra vero in medio rotundam habent fenestram, vnde ingrediatur lumen, & fumus exire possit: quia semper in medio faciunt ignem: parietes autem & tecta filtro sunt operata. Ostia quoq; de filtro sunt facta. Harum quædam subito soluuntur, & reparantur, & super summarios deferuntur: quædam 30 verò dissolui non possunt sed in curribus portantur. Et quocunq; siue ad bellum siue aliàs vadunt, semper illas secum deferunt. In animalibus valde diuites sunt, vt in Camelis & hibus, capris & ouibus. Iumenta & equos habent in tanta multitudine, quantum non credimus totum mundi residuum habere. Porcos autè 35 & alias bestias non habent. Imperator ac Duces atq; alij magnates in auro & argento ac serico & gemmis abundant. Cibi eorū sunt omnia, quæ mandi possunt. Vidimus eos etiā manducare pediculos. Lac bibit animalium, & in maxima quantitate, si habent, iumentinum. Porro in hyeme, quia nisi diuites sint, lac 40

iumentinū non habent, millium cum aqua decoquunt, quod tam tenue faciunt, vt illud bibere valeant. Vndē quilibet eorū scyphum bibit vnū vel duos in mane, & quandoq; nihil amplius manducant in die. In sero autem vnicuiq; datur de carnibus 5 modicū, & bibunt ex eis brodium. Porrò in æstate quando satis habent de lacte iumentino, carnes comedunt rarò, nisi fortè donetur eisde, aut venatione bestiā aliquam ceperint vel auem.

De moribus eorum bonis & malis. Cap. 5.

 quosdam detestabiles. Magis quippe sunt obedientes Dominis suis, quàm aliqui qui in mundo sint homines, siue reli-giosi siue seculares. Nam eos maximè reuerentur, nec illis de facili mentiuntur verbis factisue: rarò vel nunquam ad inuicem contendunt, bellāq; vel rixæ, vulnera vel homicidia nunquam inter 15 eos contingunt. Prædones etiam ac fures rerum magnarū ibi nequaquā inueniuntur, ideoq; stationes & currus eorū, vbi thesauros habent, seris aut vectibus non firmantur. Si aliqua bestia perdita fuerit, quicumq; inuenit eam vel dimittit, vel ad illos, qui ad hoc positi sunt, eam ducit. Apud quos ille, cuius est bestia, illam 20 requirit, & absq; vlla difficultate recipit. Vnus alium satis honorat, & familiaritatē ac cibaria, quamuis apud eos sint pauca, liberaliter satis communicat. Satis etiā sunt sufferentes, nec cū ieiunauerint
 vno die, vel duobus, omninò sine cibo, videntur | impatientes, sed

 25 sustinent frigus, calorem quoq; nimium patiuntur. Inter eos quasi nulla placita sunt, & quamuis multum inebrientur, tamen in ebrietate sua nunquam contendunt. Nullus alium spernit, sed iuuat & promouet, quantum congruè potest. Castæ sunt eorum mulieres, nec aliquid inter eos auditur de ipsarum impudicitia. Castitas.
 30 Quædam tamen ex ijs verba turpia satis habent & impudica. Porrò erga cæteros homines ijdem Tartari superbissimi sunt, omnesq; nobiles & ignobiles quasi pro nihilo reputantes despiciunt. Vnde vidimus in curia Imperatoris magnum Russiæ ducem, & filium regis Georgianorum, ac Soldanos multos & magnos nullum honorem 35 debitum recipere apud eos. Quinetiam Tartari eisdem assignati, quantumcunq; viles essent illos antecedeabant, semperq; primum locum & summum tenebant, imò etiam sæpè oportebat illos post eorū posteriora sedere. Præterea iracundi sunt, & indignantis naturæ multum erga cæteros homines, & vltra modum erga

Vnde dum adhuc essemus in terra, Dux quidam Russiæ, Andreas nomine, apud Baty, quòd equos Tartarorum de terra educeret, & alijs venderet, accusatus est: quod licet non esset probatum, occisus est. Hoc audiens iunior frater, & vxor occisi, pariter venerunt ad præfatum Ducem, 30 supplicare volentes, ne terra auferretur eisdem. At ille paruo præcepit, vt fratris defuncti duceret vxorem, mulieri quoq; vt illum in virum duceret, secundum Tartarorum consuetudinē. Quæ respondit, se potius occidi velle, quàm sic contra legem facere. At ille nihilominus eam illi tradidit quamuis ambo renuerent, 35 quantum possent. Itaq; ducentes eos in lectum, clamantem puerum & plorantē super illam posuerunt, ipsosq; commisceri, pariter coëgerunt. forte quis velit sororiam aut nouercam suam ducere. Nulla verò differentia est apud eos inter filiū vxoris & concubinæ, sed dat pater quod vult vnicuiq;. Itaq; si sunt etiam ex Ducum genere, ita fit Dux filius concubinæ, sicut filius vxoris legitimæ. Vnde
 5 cū rex Georgiæ duos filios nuper, vnum scilicet nomine Melich legitimum, alterum verò Dauid ex adulterio natum haberet, moriensq; terræ partem adulteræ filio reliquisset, Melich, cui etiam ex parte matris regnum obuenerat, quia per fœminas tenebatur, perrexit ad Imperatorem Tartarorum, eo quòd & Dauid iter 10 arripuerat ad illum. Ambobus igitur ad curiam venientibus, datisq; maximis muneribus, petebat adulteræ filius, vt fieret ei iustitia secundum morem Tartarorum. Dataq; est sententia contra Melich, vt Dauid, qui maior erat natu, subesset, ac terrā à patre sibi concessam quietè ac pacificè possideret. Cumq; Tar-

De superstitiosis traditionibus ipsorum. Cap. 7.

Q Vibusdam verò traditionibus indifferentia quēdā esse peccata dicunt, quas vel ipsi vel antecessores eorum confinxerunt. Vnum est, cultellum in ignem figere, vel quocunq; modo ignem
 25 cultello tangere, vel etiam de caldaria cum cultello carnes extrahere, vel cum securi iuxta ignem incidere. Credunt enim, quòd sic auferri debeat caput igni. Aliud est appodiare se ad flagellum, quo percutitur equus: ipsi enim non vtuntur calcaribus. Item flagello sagittas tangere, iuvenes aues capere vel occidere, cum
 30 frēno equum percutere, os cum osse alio frangere. Itemq; lac, vel aliquem potum aut cibum super terram effundere, in statione mingere. Quod si voluntariè facit, occiditur, si autem aliter, oportet quòd pecuniam multā incantatori soluat, à quo purificetur. Qui etiam faciat, vt statio cum omnibus, quæ in ipsa sunt, inter
 35 duos ignes transeat. Antequam sic purificetur, nullus audet intrare, nec aliquid de illa exportare. Præterea si alicui morsellus imponitur, quem deglutire non possit, & illum de ore suo eijcit, foramen sub statione fit, per quod extrahitur, ac sine vlla miseratione occiditur. Iterum si quis calcat super limen stationis Ducis

De vita æterna & damnatione perpetua nihil sciunt. Credunt tamen, quòd post mortem in alio seculo uiuant, gregesque multiplicent, comedant & bibant, & 5

In principio lunationis vel in plenilunio incipiunt, quicquid noui agere volunt, ipsamq; Lunam Imperatorem magnum appellant, eamq; deprecantes genua flectunt. Omnes, qui morantur in stationibus suis, oportet per ignem purificari. Quæ scilicet purificatio fit hoc modo. Duos 10 quidem ignes faciunt, & duas hastas iuxta eos, vnamq; cordam in suminitate hastarum ponunt. Ligantq; super cordam illam quædam de Bucaramo scissiones, sub qua scilicet corda & ligaturis inter illos ignes transeunt homines, ac bestię ac stationes. Sunt etiam duæ mulieres, vna hinc, & alia inde aquam proijcientes, ac 15 quædam carmina recitantes. Cæterum si aliquis à fulgure occiditur, oportet prædicto modo per ignes transire omnes illos, qui in illis stationibus morantur. Statio siquidem ac lectus & currus, filtra & vestes, & quicquid talium habent, à nullo tanguntur, sed ab hominibus tanquam immunda respuuntur. Et vt breuiter dicam, 20 omnia purificari credunt per ignem. Vnde quando veniunt ad eos nuncij, vel Principes, aut qualescunq; personæ, oportet ipsos & munera sua per duos ignes, vt purificentur, transire, ne fortè beneficia fecerint, aut venenum seu aliquid mali attulerint.

Tartarizæ populi.

TERRA quidem illa Orientalis, de qua dictum est suprà, quæ Mongal nominatur, quatuor quondam habuisse populos memoratur. Vnus eorum Yeka Mongal, id est, magni Mongali vocabantur. Secundus Sumongal, id est, aquatici Mongali, qui seipsos appellabant Tartaros, à quodam fluuio per eorum terram 30 corrente, qui Tartar nominatur. Tertius appellabatur Merkat. Quartus verò Metrit. Omnes vnam personarum formam & vnam linguam habebant hi populi, quamuis inter se per Principes ac prouincias essent diuisi. In terra Yeka Mongal quidam fuit, qui vocabatur Chingis. Iste cœpit robustus venator esse: didicit 35 enim homines furari, & prædam capere. Ad alias terras ibat, & quoscunque poterat, captiuabat, sibiq; associabat. Homines quoque suæ gentis inclinauit ad se, qui tanquam Ducem sequebantur ipsum ad malè agendum. Cœpit autem pugnare cum Sumongal, siue cum Tartaris, & Ducem eorum interfecit, multoq; bello sibi 40

Tartaros omnes subiecit, & in seruitutem redegit. Post hæc cum istis omnibus contra Merkatas, iuxta terram positos Tartarorum pugnavit, quos etiam bello sibi subiecit. Inde procedens contra Metritas pugnam exercuit, & illos etiam obtinuit. Audientes Naymani, quod Chingis taliter eleuatus esset, indignati sunt. Ipsi enim habuerant Imperatorem strenuum valde, cui dabant tributum cunctę nationes prædictæ. Qui cum esset mortuus, filij eius successerunt loco ipsius. Sed quia iuuenes ac stulti erant, populum tenere nesciebant, sed ad inuicem diuisi ac scissi erant. Vnde Chingis prædicto modo iam exaltato, nihilominus in terras prædictas faciebant insultum, & habitatores occidebant, ac diripiebant prædam eorum. Quod audiens Chingis, omnes sibi subiectos congregauit. Naymani & Karakytay ex aduerso similiter in quandam vallem strictam conuenerunt, & commissum est prælium, in quo Naymani & Karakytay à Mongalis deuicti sunt. Qui etiam pro maiori parte occisi fuerunt, & alij, qui euadere non potuerunt, in seruitutem redacti sunt. In terra prædictorū Karakytay Occoday Cham, filius Chingischam, postquam imperator fuit positus, quandam ciuitatem ædificauit, quam Chanyl appellauit. Prope quam ad Meridiem est quoddam desertum magnū, in quo pro certo syluestres homines habitare dicuntur, qui nullatenus loquuntur, nec iuncturas in cruribus habent, & si quando cadunt, per se surgere non valent. Sed tamen discretionem tantam habent, quod filtra de lana Camelorum, quibus vestiuntur, faciunt & contra ventum ponunt. Et si quando Tartari pergentes ad eos vulnerant eos sagittis, gramina in vulneribus ponunt, & fortiter ante ipsos fugiunt.

Christum IESVM Dominum venerantur, & credunt vitā æternam, sed non baptizantur. Scripturam nostram honorant ac reuerentur. Christianos diligunt, 35 & eleemosynas plures faciunt, homines benigni satis & humani videntur. Barbam non habent, & in dispositione faciei cum Mongalis in parte concordant. Habent verò scuta de viminibus, aut de virgulis facta. Sed non credimus, quòd ea soleant portare, nisi ad castra & ad custodiam Imperatoris ac principum, & hoc tantum de nocte. In bellis astutissimi 20 sunt: quia per annos xlij. cum cæteris gentibus dimicârunt. Cùm autem ad flumina peruenerunt, maiores habent rotundum ac leue corium, in cuius summitate per circuitum ansas crebras facientes, funem imponunt ac stringunt, ita quod in circuitu quasi ventrem efficiunt, quem vestibus ac rebus cæteris replent, fortissimeq; ad 25 inuicem comprimunt. In medio autem ponunt sellas & alias res duriores: ibi quoque sedent homines. Huiusmodi nauim ad equi caudam ligant, & hominem, qui equum regat, pariter natare faciunt, vel habent aliquando duos remos, cum quibus remigant. Equo igitur in aquam impulso, omnes alij equi sequuntur illum, & 30 sic transeunt fluuium. Pauperior autem quilibet vnam bursam vel saccum de corio benè consutum habet, in quo res suas omnes imponit, & in summitate fortiter ligatum, ad equi caudam suspendit, sicq; modo prædicto transit.

NVllam æstimo prouinciam esse, quæ per se possit eis resistere: quia de omni terra potestatis suæ solent homines ad bellum congregare. 5 multum timent, sagittasq; sufficientes, dolabrum quoq; de bono ferro, vel securim cum manubrio longo. Ferramenta verò sagittarum more Tartarorum, quando sunt calida, temperare debent in aqua, cum sale mixta, vt fortia sint ad penetrandum illorum arma. Gladios etiam & lanceas cum vncis habeant, qui volunt, ad detra-
10 hendū illos de sella, de qua facillimè cadunt. Habeant & galeas & arma cætera, ad protegendum corpus & equum ab armis & sagittis eorum, & si qui non ita sunt armati, debent more illorum post alios ire, & contra ipsos arcubus vel balistis trajicere. Et sicut dictum est suprà de Tartaris, debent acies suas ordinare, ac legem
15 pugnantibus imponere. Quicumq; conuersus fuerit ad prædā ante victoriam, maximam debet pœnam subire: talis enim apud illos occiditur absq; miseratione. Locus ad prælium, si fieri potest, eligendus est planus, vt vndiq; possint videre, nec omnes debent in vnum conuenire, sed acies multas & diuisas, nec tamen
20 nimis distantes ab inuicem, facere. Contra illos, qui primò veniunt, debent vnam aciem mittere, & alia parata sit ad iuuandum illam opportuno tempore. Habeant & speculatores ex omni parte, qui videant, quando veniunt acies ceteræ. Nam ideò semper debent aciem contra aciem, vt ei occurrant, mittere, quo-
25 niam illi semper nituntur aduersarios in medio concludere. Hoc autem acies caueant, ne si etiam illi fugere videantur, diu post illos currant, ne fortè, sicut facere solent, ipsos ad paratas insidias trahant: quia plus fraudulentia quàm fortitudine pugnant. Et iterum ne fatigentur equi eorum: quia nostri multitudinem non 30 habent equorum. Tartari verò quos equitant die vna, non ascendunt tribus diebus, vel quatuor postea. Præterea si cedunt Tartari, non ideò debent nostri recedere, vel ab inuicem separari: quoniam [p. 46] hoc simulando faciunt, vt exercitus diuidatur, & sic ad terræ destructionem liberè ingrediantur. Cæterum Duces nostri die 35 noctūque facere debent exercitum custodiri: nec iacere spoliati, sed semper ad pugnam parati: quia Tartari quasi Dæmones semper vigilant, excogitantes artem nocendi. Porro si aliqui Tartarorum in bello de suis equis proijciuntur, statim capiendi sunt, quia quando sunt in terra fortiter sagittant, & equos hominesq;
40 vulnerant.

N Os igitur ex mandato sedis Apostolicæ cū iremus ad Orientis nationes, elegimus prius ad Tartaros proficisci: quia timebamus, ne per illos in proximo Ecclesiæ Dei periculum 5 immineret. Itaq; pergētes, ad regem Boëmōrū peruenimus: qui cū esset nobis familiaris, consuluit, vt per Poloniam & Russiam iter ageremus. Habebat enim consanguineos in Polonia, quorum auxilio Russiam intrare possemus. Datisq; literis & bono conductu, fecit & expensas nobis dari per curias & ciuitates eius, quo 10 vsque ad Ducem Slesię Bolezlaum, nepotem eius, veniremus, qui etiam erat nobis familiaris & notus. Hinc & ipse nobis similiter fecit, donec veniremus ad Conradum, Ducem *Lautisicę, ad quem tunc, Dei gratia nobis fauente, venerat Dominus Wasilico, Dux Russię, à quo etiam plenius de facto audiuius Tartarorum: quia 15 nuncios illuc miserat, qui iam redierant ad ipsum. Audito autem, quòd oporteret nos illis munera dare, quasdam pelles castorum & aliorum animalium fecimus emi, de hoc, quod datum nobis fuerat in eleemosynam ad subsidiū vię. Quod agnoscentes Dux Conradus & †Ducissa Cracouię, & Episcopus & quidam milites, 20 plures etiam nobis dederunt huiusmodi pelles. Denique Dux Wasilico à Duce Cracouię, & Episcopo atque Baronibus pro nobis attentē rogatus, secum nos in terram suam duxit, & vt aliquantulum quiesceremus, aliquot diebus nos in expensis suis detinuit. Et cū rogatus à nobis, fecisset Episcopos suos venire, legimus 25 eis literas Domini Papę, monentis eos, ad sanctę matris Ecclesię vnitatem redire. Ad idem quoque nos ipsi monuimus eos, & induximus, quantum potuimus, tam Ducem quàm Episcopos & alios. Sed quia Dux Daniel, frater Wasiliconis prædicti, præsens non erat, quoniam ad Baty profectus erat, non potuerunt eo tem- 30 pore finaliter respondere. Post hæc Dux Wasilico transmiſit nos vsque in Kiouiam metropolin Russię, cum seruiēte vno. Ibamur tamen in periculo capitis semper propter Lituanos, qui sæpè faciebant insultum super terram Russię, & in illis maximè locis, per quos debebamus transire. At per prædictum seruiētem 35 eramus securi à Ruthenis, quorum etiam maxima pars occisa vel captiuata erat à Tartaris. Porro in Danilone vsque ad mortem tunc infirmati fuimus. IN die porrò Sabbathi sancti ad stationem fuimus vocati, & exiuit ad nos procurator Bathy prædictus, dicens ex parte ipsius, quòd ad Imperatorem Cuyne in terram ipsorum iremus, retentis quibusdam ex nostris sub hac specie, quòd vellent eos remittere ad Dominum Papam, quibus & literas dedimus de omni- 30 bus factis nostris, quas deferrent eidem. Sed cum rediissent vsq; ad Montij Ducem supradictum, ibi retenti fuerunt vsque ad reditum nostrum. Nos autem in die Paschæ officio dicto, & facta comestione qualicunq; cum duobus Tartaris, qui nobis apud Corrensam fuerant assignati, cum multis lacrymis recessimus, 35 nescientes vtrum ad mortem vel vitam pergeremus. Erasmus tamen ita infirmi corpore, quòd vix poteramus equitare. In tota siquidem illa quadregesima fuerat cibus noster millium cum aqua & sale tantum, & in aliis similiter diebus ieiuniorum. Nec habebamus aliquid ad bibendum præter niuem in caldario liquefactam. 40

Ibamus autem per Comaniam equitando fortissimè, quoniam habebamus equos recentes quinquies aut pluries in die, nisi quando per deserta ibamus, & tunc equos meliores atque fortiores, qui possent continuum sustinere laborem, accipiebamus. Et hoc
 5 ab ineunte quadragesima vsque ad octo dies post Pascha. Hæc terra Comania ab Aquilone immediatè post Russiam habet Morduynos, Byleros, id est, magnam Bulgariam, Bastarcos, id est, magnam Hungariam, post Bastarcos, Parositas & Samogetas. Post Samogetas, illos, qui dicuntur habere faciem caninam in Oceani
 10 littoribus desertis. A meridie habet Alanos, Circassos, Gazaros, Græciam & Constantinopolin, ac terram Iberorum, Cathos, Brutachios, qui dicuntur esse Iudæi, caput radentes per totum, terram quoq; Cithorum atque Georgianorum & Armeniorum & Turcorum. Ab occidente autem Hungariam habet atque Russiam. Et est
 15 Comania terra maxima & longa. Cuius populos, scilicet Comanos, Tartari occiderunt, quidam tamen à facie eorum fugerunt, & quidam in eorum seruitutem redacti sunt. Plurimi autem ex eis, qui fugerunt, ad ipsos redierunt. Post hæc intrauimus terram Kangittarum, quæ magnam habet in plurimis locis penuriam
 20 aquarum, in qua etiam homines pauci morantur propter aquæ defectum. Vnde homines Ieroslai, Ducis Russiæ, cum ad ipsum in terram Tartarorum perrexerunt, plures eorum in illo deserto præ siti mortui sunt. In hac etiam terra & in Comania multa inuenimus capita & ossa mortuorum hominum, super terram iacentia tanquam 25 sterquilinum. Per hanc itaq; terram iuimus ab octo diebus post Pascha ferè vsque ad Ascensionem Dominicam. Huiusq; habitatores Pagani erant, & tam ipsi quàm Comani non laborabant, sed tantum de animalibus viuebant, nec domos ædificabant, sed in tabernaculis habitabant. Atque in finibus illis propinquis morantur duo fratres carnales, Tartarorum Duces, scilicet Burin & Cadan, filij Thiaday, qui fuit filius Chingischam. Ab Aquilone verò terram habet nigrorum Kythaorum & Oceanum. In illa verò moratur Syban, frater Bathy. Per hanc iuimus à festo Ascensionis dominicæ ferè vsque ad viij. 5 dies ante festum sanct. Iohan. Et ille, qui erat ibidem ex parte imperatoris, fecit maiores ciuitatis, & etiam duos filios eius, plaudere coram nobis. Hinc exeuntes, quoddam mare 10 paruum inuenimus, in cuius littore quidam existit mons paruus. In quo scilicet monte quoddam foramen esse dicitur, vnde in hyeme tam maxime tempestates ventorum exeunt, quòd homines inde vix & cum magno periculo transire possunt. In æstate verò semper quidem ibi ventorum sonitus auditur, sed de foramine 15 tenuiter egreditur. Per huius maris littora plurimis diebus perreximus, quod quidem licet non multum sit magnum, plures insulas habet, & illud in sinistris dimisimus. In terra verò illa habitat Ordu, quem omnium Ducum Tartarorum antiquiorem diximus, & est orda, siue curia patris ipsius, quam inhabitat, & 20 regis vna de vxoribus eius. Consuetudo enim est apud Tartaros, quòd principum & maiorum curiæ non delentur, sed semper ordinantur aliquæ mulieres, quæ illas regant, eisque donariorum partes, sicut Dominis earum dari solebant, dantur. Sic tandem ad primam Imperatoris curiam venimus, in qua erat vna de vxoribus 25 ipsius.

Inde procedentes in vigilia sanctorum Petri & Pauli, terram Naymanorum intrauimus, qui sunt Pagani. In ipsa verò die Apostolorum ibidem cecidit magna nix, & habuimus magnum frigus. Hæc 35 quidem terra montuosa & frigida est supra modum, ibiq; de planicie reperitur modicum. Istæ quoque duæ nationes prædictæ non laborabant, sed sicut & Tartari in tentorijs habitabant, quas & ipsi deleuerant. per hanc etiam multis diebus perreximus. Deinde terram Mongalorum intrauimus, quos Tartaros appellamus. Per 40

has itaque terras, vt credimus, tribus septimanis equitando fortiter electum peruenimus. Ideò autem per omnem viam istam valdè festinauimus, quia præceptum erat Tartaris nostris, vt citò nos propter ipsius Imperatoris electionem. Idcirco de mane surgentes, ibamus usque ad noctem sine comestione, & sæpius tam tardè

bant, vt à nobis creditur. Alius autem vniuersus populus longè extra tabulatum collocabatur, & ita ferè vsque ad meridiem morabantur. Tunc incipiebant lac iumentinum bibere, & vsque ad vespervas tantum bibebant, quod erat visu mirabile. Nos autem vocauerunt interius, & dederunt nobis cereuisiam : quia iumentinū 5 lac non bibebamus. Et hoc quidem nobis pro magno fecerunt honore : sed tamen nos compellebant ad bibendum, quod nullatenus poteramus propter consuetudinem sustinere. Vnde ostendimus eis, hoc esse nobis graue, ideoq; nos cessauerunt compellere. Foris autem erat Dux Ieroslaus de Susdal Russiæ, pluresq; Duces 10 Kythaorum & Solangorum. Duo quoq; filij regis Georgiæ, nuncius etiam Caliphi de Baldach, qui erat Soldanus, & plus quam decem alij Soldani Sarracenorum, vt credimus. Et sicut nobis à procuratoribus dicebatur, erant ibi nunciorum plus quàm quatuor millia, inter illos, qui tributa portabant, & illos, qui deferebant munera, & 15 Soldanos ac Duces alios, qui ad tradendum seipsos veniebant, & illos, pro quibus ipsi miserant, illosq; qui terrarum præfecti erant. Hi omnes simul extra tabulatum ponebantur, eisq; simul bibere præbebatur. Nobis autem & Duci Ierozlao ferè semper ab eis dabatur superior locus, quando cum eis eramus exterius. 20

ET quidem, si benè meminimus, ibidem per septimanas circiter quatuor fuimus. Credimusq; quòd ibi fuit electio celebrata, non tamen ibidem fuit publicata. Propter hoc autem id maximè credebatur, quia semper, quando Cuyne tentorio exhibat, 25 eidem cantabatur, & cum virgis speciosis, in summitate lanam coccineam habentibus, inclinabatur, quod alteri Ducum nulli fiebat, quousq; exterius morabatur. Hęc autem statio siue Curia nominatur ab eis Syra orda. Hinc exeuntes, vnanimiter omnes equitauimus per tres aut quatuor leucas ad alium locum, vbi erat 30 in quadā pulchra planicie iuxta riuum inter montes aliud tentorium, quod apud ipsos appellatur Orda aurea, præparatū. Ibi enim Cuyne debebat poni in sede in die Assumptionis Domine nostræ. Sed propter grandinem nimiam, quæ tunc, vt suprà dictum est, cecidit, res dilata fuit. Eratq; tentorium in columnis positum, 35 quæ laminis aureis erant tectæ, & clauis aureis cum alijs lignis fixæ. Porrò de Baldakino erat tectum superius, sed alij erant panni exterius. Fuimus autem ibi vsq; ad festum Beati Bartholomæi, in quo maxima multitudo conuenit, & contra meridiem versis vultibus stetit. Et quidam ad iactum lapidis longè à cæteris erant, 40

semperq; orationes faciendo, ac genua flectendo, contra meridiem longius, & longius procedebant. Nos autem vtrum incantationes facerent, aut genua Deo vel alteri flecterent, nescientes, nolebamus facere genuflexiones. Cumq; diu ita fecissent, ad tentorium re-5 uersi sunt, & Cuyne in sede imperiali posuerunt, Ducesq; coram eo genua flexerunt. Post hoc idem fecit vniuersus populus, exceptis nobis, qui eis subditi non eramus.

- 10 Hic autem Imperator quando sublimatus est in regnum, videbatur esse circiter xl. vel xlv. annorum. Mediocris erat staturæ, prudens valde, nimis astutus multumq; seriosus, & grauis in moribus. Nec vnquam videbat eum homo de facili ridere, vel aliquam leuitatem facere, sicut dicebant Christiani, qui cum ipso morabantur continuè. Dicebant etiam nobis asserendo firmiter
 15 Christiani, qui erant de familia eius, quòd deberet fieri Christianus. Cuius signum erat, quod ipse Clericos Christianos tenebat, & expensas eis dabat. Habebat etiam semper capellam Christianorum ante maius tentorium suum, vbi cantant Clerici publicè & apertè, ac pulsant ad horas, vt ceteri Christiani secundum mores
 20 Græcorum, quantacunq; sit ibi multitudo Tartarorum, vel etiam aliorum hominum. Hoc tamen non faciunt alij Duces ipsorum. Est autem mos Imperatoris ipsius, vt nunquam ore proprio loquatur cum extraneo, quantumcunq; magnus sit, sed audit & respondet per interpositam personam, & quodocunq; negotium 25 proponunt, vel Imperatoris responsionem audiunt illi, qui sub eo sunt, quantumcunq; sint magni, flexis genibus vsq; ad finem verborum persistunt.  35 solenni curia, iam ex pluribus annis indicta, idem Cuyne Imperator, de nouo electus, cum omnibus suis Principibus erexit vexillum contra Ecclesiam Dei, ac Romanum Imperium, & contra omnia regna Christianorum & populos Occidentis, nisi fortasse, quod absit, facerent ea, quæ mandabat Domino Papæ,

IN loco illo, vbi positus est Imperator in throno, vocati fuimus 20 coram ipso. Cumq; Chingay protonotarius eius nomina nostra scripsisset, illorūq; à quibus missi eramus, & Ducis Solan- gorum & aliorum, clamauit alta voce, recitans illa coram Im- peratore ac Ducum vniuersitate. Quo facto, flexit vnusquisq; nostrum quater genu sinistrum, & monuerunt, ne tangeremus 25 limen deorsum. Cumq; pro cultellis nos diligentissimè scrutati fuissent, & nullatenus inuenissent, intrauimus ostium ab Orientali parte: quia nullus ab Occidente, nisi solus imperator, audet intrare. Similiter & Dux ab illa parte ingreditur solus, si est tentorium eius. Minores autem non multum curant de talibus. Tunc ergò 30 primum in eius præsentia suam intrauimus stationem, videlicet postquam factus est Imperator ibidem. Omnes quoque nuncij tunc ab eo recepti sunt, sed paucissimi tentorium eius intrauerunt. Ibi verò tanta donaria ab ipsis nuncijs fuerunt ei præsentata, quòd 35 quasi videbantur infinita, videlicet in samitis ac purpureis & baldakinis ac cingulis sericis cum auro præparatis, pellibus etiam nobilibus, ceterisq; muneribus. Quoddam etiam Solinum, siue tentoriolum, quod super caput Imperatoris portatur, fuit eidem præsentatum, quod totum erat cum gemmis præparatum. Quidam 40 verò præfectus vnus prouinciæ adduxit ei Camelos multos cum

5 requisiti fuimus, an ei munera dare vellemus: sed iam facultas non erat, quoniam omnia ferè nostra consumpseramus. Ibidem longè à stationibus super montem erant positi currus plusquam quingenti, qui omnes auro & argento ac sericis vestibus erant pleni. Cunctiq; inter imperatorem & Duces diuisi fuerunt,

15 I Nde recedentes, venimus ad alium locum, vbi tentorium mirabile, totum de purpura rufa, quod Kitay dederant, erat positum. Illic interius introducti fuimus, & semper cum intrabamus nobis dabatur ad bibendum cereuisia vel vinum, & etiam carnes coctæ, si volebamus, ad edendum. Erátque solariolum vnum, de tabulis altè præparatum, vbi thronus Imperatoris erat
20 positus, ex ebore mirabiliter sculptus, in quo etiã erat aurum, & lapides preciosi, si benè meminimus, & illuc ascendebatur per gradus. Erátque rotundum superius. Banci | verò erant positi in circuitu sedis, vbi dominæ sedebant à parte sinistra in scamnis, à dextris autem nemo sedebat superius, sed Duces sedebant in
25 Bancis inferius, & hoc in medio. Alij verò sedebant post eos, & quolibet die veniebat dominarum maxima multitudo. Ista verò tria tentoria, de quibus suprà diximus, erant valdè magna, aliaq; habebant vxores eius de filtro albo satis magna & pulchra. Ibidem Imperator diuisus est à matre sua, quæ iuit in vnam terræ partem, 30 & Imperator in aliam ad iudicia facienda. Capta siquidem erat amica Imperatoris istius, quæ veneno interfecerat patrem eius, eo tempore, quo exercitus eorum in Hungaria fuit. Propter quod etiam exercitus eorum, qui erat in partibus illis, recessit. De qua cum alijs pluribus factum fuit iudicium, & occisi fuerunt.
35 Eodem tempore mortuus fuit Ierozlaus. Dux magnus Soldai, quæ est quædam Russiæ pars. Vocatus enim ad matrem Imperatoris quasi pro honore, vt manducaret ac biberet de manu ipsius, in continenti ad hospitium est reuersus, infirmatusq; mortuus est post septem dies, totúmque corpus eius miro modo 40 glaucum effectum est, dicebaturq; ab omnibus, quod ibidem, vt terram eius liberè ac plenariè possiderent, fuisset impotionatus.

DEniq; Tartari nostri nos ad Imperatorem duxerunt: qui cùm audisset per illos, nos ad eum venisse, iussit nos ad matrem redire. Volebat enim secundo die, sicut superius dictum 5 est, contra totam Occidentis terram vexillum erigere, quod nos volebat ignorare. Itaque reuersi stetimus paucis diebus, & iterum ad ipsum reuersi sumus. Cum quo benè per mensem fuimus in tanta fame ac siti, quòd vix viuere poteramus. Nam expensæ, quæ nobis pro diebus quatuor dabantur, vix vni sufficebant. 10
Nec inuenire poteramus aliquid ad emendum, quia forum erat nimis remotum. Sed Dominus nobis quendam Ruthenum, nomine Cosmam, aurifabrum præparauit, qui satis dilectus Imperatori, nos in aliquo sustentauit. Et hic nobis ostendit thronum Imperatoris, quem ipse fecerat, antequam poneretur in sede, 15 & sigillum eiusdem, quod etiam fabricauerat ipse. Post hoc Imperator pro nobis misit, nobisq; per Chingay protonotarium suum dici fecit, vt verba nostra & negotia scriberemus, eiq; porrigeremus. Quod & fecimus. Post plures dies nos iterum vocari fecit, & vtrum essent apud Dominum Papam, qui Ruthe- 20 norum vel Sarracenorum, aut etiam Tartarorum litteram intelli-gerent, interrogauit. Cui respondimus, quòd nullam istarum litterarum habebamus. Sarraceni tamen erant in terra, sed remoti erant à Domino Papa. Diximus tamen, quia nobis expedire videbatur, quòd in Tartarico scriberent, & nobis interpretarentur, nos 25 autem in litera nostra diligenter scriberemus, & tam litteram quàm interpretationem ad Dominum Papam deferremus. Tunc à nobis recesserunt, & ad Imperatorem iuerunt. Porro à die Beati Martini fuimus vocati. Tunc Kadac, totius imperij procurator, & Chingay & Bala, pluresq; scriptores ad nos venerunt, nobisq; 30 litteram de verbo ad verbum interpretati fuerunt. Et cùm in Latina litera scripsissemus, faciebant sibi per singulas orationes interpretari, volentes scire, si nos in aliquo verbo erraremus.
Cùm igitur ambæ literæ fuissent scriptæ, fecerunt nos semel ac secundo legere, ne fortè minus aliquid haberemus. Dixerunt enim 35 nobis, videte, quòd omnia benè intelligatis, quia non expediret, quòd non omnia benè intelligeretis. Litteras etiam in Sarracenco scripserunt, vt aliquis in partibus nostris inueniri posset, qui eas si opus esset, legeret.

Qualiter licentiati fuerunt. Cap. 32.

V^T autem nobis Tartari nostri dixerunt, proposuit Imperator nuncios suos nobiscum mittere. Volebat tamen, vt credimus, quod nos id ab eo peteremus. Sed cùm vnus de Tartaris nostris, qui senior erat, nos ad hoc petendum hortaretur, nobis quidem, vt venirent, nequaquam bonum videbatur. Ideoq; respondimus ei, quòd non erat nostrum petere, sed si sponte ipse Imperator mitteret eos, libenter eos securè conduceremus, Domino adiuuante. Nobis autem ob plures causas vt venirent, non videbatur expedire. Prima quidem fuit, quia timuimus, ne visis dissentionibus aut gueris, quæ fiunt inter nos, magis animarentur ad veniendum contra nos. Secunda fuit, timebamus eos exploratores terræ fieri. Tertia verò, quia timebamus eos interfici. Gentes enim nostræ arrogantes sunt & superbæ. Vnde quando seruiantes, qui stant nobiscum, ex rogatu Cardinalis, legati scilicet Alemanniæ, in habitu Tartarico ibant ad ipsum, in via ferè lapidati sunt à Teutonicis, & coacti sunt deponere habitum illum. Consuetudo autem est Tartarorum, vt cum illis, qui nuncios eorum occiderint, nunquam faciant pacem, nisi sumant de ipsis vltionem. Quarta etiã causa fuit, quia timebamus ne nobis auferrentur vi. | Quinta verò causa erat, quia de aduentu eorum nulla foret vtilitas, cum nullum haberent aliud mandatum vel potestatem, nisi quòd literas Imperatoris ad Dominum Papam & ad Principes deferrent, quas videlicet literas ipsi nos habebamus, & malum ex eorum aduentu posse contingere credebamus. Itaq; tertia die post hoc, scilicet in festo beati Briccij nobis dederunt licentiam & literam, Imperatoris sigillo munitam, mittentes nos ad ipsius Imperatoris matrem, quæ vniciq; nostrum dedit pelliceum vnum de pellibus vulpinis, quod habebat pilos de foris, & purpuram vnam. De quibus Tartari nostri furati sunt ex vnaqua; vnum passum. De illa quoq;, quæ dabatur seruienti, meliorem medietatem sunt furati. Quod nos quidem non ignorauimus, sed inde verba mouere noluimus:

☛ The voyage of Johannes de Plano Carpini vnto the Northeast parts of the world, in the yeere of our Lord, 1246.

Of the first sending of certaine Friers Prædicants
5 and Minorites vnto the Tartars, taken out of the 32. Booke of Vincentius Beluacensis his Speculum Historiale: beginning at the second Chapter.

10  Bout this time also, Pope Innocentius the fourth Ascellinus. sent Frier Ascelline being one of the order of the Prædicants, together with three other Friers (of the same authoritie whereunto they were called) consorted with him out of diuers Couens of their order, with letters Apostolicall vnto the Tartars campe: wherein hee exhorted them to 15 giue ouer their bloudie slaughter of mankinde, and to receiue the Christian faith. And I, in verie deede, receiued the relations concerning the deedes of the Tartars onelie, (which, according to the congruence of times, I haue aboue inserted into this my woorke) from a Frier Minoritie, called Simon de Sanct. Quintin, Simon Quintin-tinianus.
20 who lately returned from the same voyage. And at that verie time also, there was a certaine other Frier Minorite, namely Frier Iohn de Plano Carpini, sent with certaine associates vnto the Tartars, who likewise (as himselfe witnesseth) abode and con-uersed with them a yeere and three moneths at the least. For Iohn de plano Carpini.
25 both he & one Frier, Benedict a Polonian being of the same order, and a partaker of all his miserie and tribulation, receiued straight commaundement from the Pope, that both of them shoulde diligently searche out all things that concerned the state of the Tartars. And therefore this Frier Iohn hath written Benedictus Polonus.
30 a little Historie (which is come to our hands) of such things, as with his owne eyes hee sawe | among the Tartars, or which he [p. 54] heard from diuers Christians worthy of credit, remaining there in captiuitie. Out of which historie I thought good by way of conclusion, to insert somewhat for the supply of those things which 35 are wanting in the said Frier Simon.

Of the situation and qualitie of the Tartars land,

By Iohannes de Plano Carpini. Chap. 3.

A description of Tartaria.

The North
Ocean.

Syra Orda.

The intemperature of the aire.

What Orda
signifieth.

There is towards the East a land which is called Mongal or Tartaria, lying in that part of the worlde which is thought to be most North Easterly. On the East part it hath the countrey of 5 Kythay and of the people called Solangi: on the South part the countrey of the Saracens: on the South east the land of the Huini: and on the West the prouince of Naimani: but on the North side it is inuironed with the Ocean Sea. In some part thereof it is full of mountaines, and in other places plaine and 10 smoothe groundes, but euerie where sandie and barren, neither is the hundreth part thereof fruitefull. For it cannot beare fruite vnlesse it be moistened with riuier waters, which bee verie rare in that countrey. Wherevpon they haue neither villages, nor cities among them, except one which is called Cracurim, and is said to 15 be a proper towne. We our selues sawe not this towne, but were almost within halfe a dayes iourney thereof, when we remained at Syra Orda, which is the great court of their Emperour. And albeit the foresaid lande is otherwise vnfruitfull, yet is it very commodious for the bringing vp of cattell. In certaine places thereof 20 are some small store of trees growing, but otherwise it is altogether destitute of woods. Therefore the Emperour, and his noble men and all other warme themselues, and dresse their meate with fires made of the dounge of oxen, and horses. The ayre also in that countrey is verie intemperate. For in the midst of Sommer there 25 be great thunders and lightnings, by the which many men are slaine, and at the same time there falleth great abundance of snowe. There bee also such mightie tempestes of colde windes, that sometimes men are not able to sitte on horsebacke. Whereupon, being neere vnto the Orda (for by this name they call the 30 habitations of their Emperours and noble men) in regarde of the great winde we were constrained to lye groueling on the earth, and could not see by reason of the dust. There is neuer any raine in Winter, but onely in Sommer, albeit in so little quantitie, that sometimes it scarcely sufficeth to allay the dust, or to moysten the 35 rootes of the grasse. There is often times great store of haile also. Insomuch that when the Emperour elect was to be placed in his Emperiall throne (my selfe being then present) there fell such abundance of haile, that, vpon the sudden melting thereof, more then 160. persons were drowned in the same place: there were 40 manie tentes and other things also caried away. Likewise, in the Sommer season there is on the sudden extreame heate, and suddenly againe intollerable colde.

Of their forme, habite, and maner of liuing.

Chap. 4.

- 5 THe Mongals or Tartars, in outward shape, are vnlike to all other people. For they are broader betweene the eyes, and the balles of their cheekes, then men of other nations bee. They haue flat and small noses, litle eyes, and eye liddes standing streight vpright, they are shauen on the crownes like priests.
- 10 They weare their haire somewhat longer about their eares, then vpon their foreheads: but behinde they let it growe long like womans hair, whereof they braide two lockes binding eche of them behind either eare. They haue short feet also. The garments, as well of their men, as of their women are all of one fashion. They
- 15 vse neither cloakes, hattes, nor cappes. But they weare Jackets framed after a strange manner, of buckeram, skarlet, or Baldakines. Their shoubes or gownes are hayrie on the outside, and open behinde, with tailes hanging downe to their hammes. They vse not to washe their garments, neither will in any wise suffer them
- 20 to bee washed, especially in the time of thunder. Their habitations bee rounde and cunningly made with wickers and stauies in manner of a tent. But in the midst of the toppes thereof, they haue a window open to convey the light in and the smoake out. For their fire is alwayes in the midst. Their walles bee couered
- 25 with felt. Their doores are made of felte also. Some of these Tabernacles may quickly be taken asunder, and set together againe, and are caried vpon beastes backs. Other some cannot be taken insunder, but are stowed vpon carts. And whitherso-euer they goe, be it either to warre, or to any other place, they
- 30 transport their tabernacles with them. They are very rich in cattel, as in camels, oxen, sheep, and goats. And I thinke they haue more horses and mares then all the world besides. But they haue no Kine nor other beasts. Their Emperors, Dukes, & other of their nobles doe abound with silk, gold, siluer, and
- 35 precious stones. Their victuals are al things that may be eaten: for we saw some of them eat lice. | They drinke milke in great quantitie, but especially mares milke, if they haue it: They seeth Mill also in water, making it so thinne, that they may drinke thereof. Euery one of them drinks off a cup full or two in
- 40 a morning, and sometime they eate nought else all the day long.

But in the euening each man hath a little flesh giuen him to eate, and they drinke the broath thereof. Howbeit in summer time, when they haue mares milke enough, they seldome eate flesh, vnles perhaps it be giuen them, or they take some beast or bird in hunting.

Of their manners both good and bad. Chap. 5.

Their
obediēce.

THEir manners are partly prayse-worthie, and partly detestable:
For they are more obedient vnto their lords and masters, then any other either clergie or laie-people in the whole world. For they doe highly reuerence them, and will deceiue them, 10 neither in wordes nor deedes. They seldome or neuer fall out among themselues, and, as for fightings or brawlings, wounds or manslaughters, they neuer happen among them. There are neither theeues nor robbers of great riches to be found, and therefore the tabernacles and cartes of them that haue any treasures are not 15 strengthened with lockes or barres. If any beast goe astray, the finder thereof either lets it goe, or driueth it to them that are put in office for the same purpose, at whose handes the owner of the said beast demaundeth it, and without any difficultie receiue it againe. One of them honoureth another exceedingly, and bestoweth 20 banquets very familiarly and liberally, notwithstanding that good victuals are daintie and scarce among them. They are also very hardie, and when they haue fasted a day or two without any maner of sustenance, they sing and are merry as if they had eaten their bellies full. In riding, they endure much cold and extreme heat. 25 There be, in a maner, no contentions among them, and although they vse commonly to be drunken, yet doe they not quarell in their drunkennes. Noe one of them despiseth another but helpeth and furthereth him, as much as conueniently he can. Their women are chaste, neither is there so much as a word vttered concerning 30 their dishonestie. Some of them will notwithstanding speake filthy and immodest words. But towards other people, the said Tartars be most insolent, and they scorne and set nought by all other noble and ignoble persons whatsoeuer. For we saw in the Emperours court the great duke of Russia, the kings sonne of 35 Georgia, and many great Soldanes receiuing no due honour and estimation among them. So that euen the very Tartars assigned to giue attendance vnto them, were they neuer so base, would alwaies goe before them, and take the vpper hand of them, yea, and sometimes would constraîne them to sit behinde their backs. 40

Moreouer they are angrie and of a disdainefull nature vnto other people, and beyond all measure deceitfull, and treacherous towards them. They speake fayre in the beginning, but in conclusion, they sting like scorpions. For craftie they are, and full of falshood, 5 circumuenting all men whom they are able, by their sleights. Whatsoever mischiefe they entend to practise against a man, they keepe it wonderfully secrete, so that he may by no meanes prouide for himselfe, nor find a remedie against their conspiracies. They are vnmanerly also and vncleanly in taking their meat and their 10 drinke, and in other actions. Drunkennes is honourable among them, and when any of them hath taken more drinke then his stomacke can well beare, hee casteth it vp and falles to drinking againe. They are most intollerable exacters, most couetous possessours, and most nigardly giuers. The slaughter of other people 15 is accompted a matter of nothing with them.

Of their lawes and customes. Chap. 6.

Moreouer, they haue this law or custome, that whatsoever man or woman be manifestly taken in adultery, they are punished with death. A virgine likewise that hath committed 20 fornication, they slay together with her mate. Whosoever be taken in robberie or theft, is put to death without all pitie. Also, if any man disclose their secrets, especially in time of warre, he receiue an hundreth blowes on the backe with a bastinado, layd on by a tall fellow. In like sort when any inferiours offend in 25 ought, they finde no fauour at their superiours handes, but are punished with grieuous stripes. They are ioyned in matrimony to all in generall, yea, euen to their neare kinsfolkes except their mother, daughter and sister by the mothers side. For they vse to marrie their sister by the fathers side onely, and also the wife 30 of their father after his decease. The yonger brother also, or some other of his kindred, is bound to marry the wife of his elder brother deceased. For, at the time of our aboad in the country, a certaine duke of Russia named Andreas, was accused before duke Baty for conueying the Tartars horses out of the land, and 35 for selling them to others: and although it could not be proued, yet was he put to death. His yonger brother and the wife of the party deceased hearing this, came & made their supplication vnto the forenamed duke, | that the dukedome of Russia might not be taken from them. But he commanded the youth to marrie his 40 deceased brothers wife, and the woman also to take him vnto her husband, according to the custome of the Tartars. She answered, that she had rather die, then so haynously transgresse the law. Howbeit, hee deliuered her vnto him, although they both refused as much as they could. Wherefore carying them to bed, they constrained the youth, lamenting and weeping, to lie downe and 5 commit incest with his brothers wife. To be short, after the death of their husbands, the Tartars wiues vse very seldome to marrie the second time, vnlesse perhaps some man takes his brothers wife or his stepmother in mariage. They make no difference betweene the sonne of their wife and of their concubine, but the 10 father giues what he pleaseth vnto each one: For of late the king of Georgia hauing two sonnes, one lawfully begotten called Melich; but the other Dauid, borne in adulterie, at his death left part of his lande vnto his base sonne. Hereupon Melich (vnto whome the kingdome fell by right of his mother, because it was gouerned 15 before time by women) went vnto the Emperour of the Tartars, Dauid also hauing taken his iourney vnto him. Nowe both of them comming to the court and proffering large giftes, the sonne of the harlot made suite, that he might haue iustice, according to the custome of the Tartars. Well, sentence passed against Melich, 20 that Dauid being his elder brother, should haue superioritie ouer him, and should quietly and peaceably possesse the portion of land granted vnto him by his father. Whensoever a Tartar hath many wiues, each one of them hath her family and dwelling place by her selfe. And sometime the Tartar eateth, drinketh and lieth 25 with one, and sometime with another. One is accompted chiefe among the rest, with whom hee is oftener conuersant, then with the other. And notwithstanding (as it hath bin said) they are many, yet do they seldome fal out among themselues.

Of their superstitious traditions. Chap. 7. 30 traditions.

BUT by reason of certain traditions, which either they or their predecessors haue deuised, they accompt some things indifferent to be faults. One is to thrust a knife into the fire, or any way to touch the fire with a knife, or with their knife to take flesh out of the cauldron, or to hewe with an hatchet neare vnto the 35 fire. For they think by that means to take away the head or force from the fire. Another is to leane vpon the whip, wherewith they beate their horses: for they ride not with spurs. Also, to touch arrowes with a whip, to take or kill yong birds, to strike an horse with y^e raine of their bridle, and to breake one bone against 40 another. Also, to powre out milke, meate, or any kinde of drinke vpon the ground, or to make water within their tabernacle: which whosoeuer doth willingly, he is slaine, but otherwise he must pay a great summe of money to the inchanter to be purified. Who likewise must cause the tabernacle with all things therein, to passe betweene two fires. Before it be on this wise purified, no man dare once enter into it, nor conueigh any thing thereout. Besides, if any man hath a morsell giuen him, which he is not able to swallow, and for that cause casteth it out of his mouth, there is an hole made vnder his tabernacle, by which hee is drawn forth and slaine without all compassion. Likewise, whosoeuer treads vpon the threshold of any of their dukes tabernacles, he is put to death. Many other things there be, like vnto these, which they take for heinous offences. But to slay men, to inuade the dominions of other people, and to rife their goods, to transgresse the commandements and prohibitions of God, are with them no offences at all. They know nothing concerning eternall life, and euerlasting damnation, and yet they thinke, that after death they shall liue in another world, that they shall multiply their cattell, that they shall eate and drinke and doe other things which liuing men performe here vpon earth. At a new moone, or a full moone, they begin all enterprises that they take in hand, and they call the moone the Great Emperour, and worship it vpon their knees. All men that abide in their tabernacles must be purified with fire: Which purification is on this wise, They kindle two fires, and pitch two Iauelines into the ground neere vnto the said fires, binding a corde to the tops of the Iauelines. And about the corde they tye certaine iaggies of buckram, vnder which corde, and betweene which fires, men, beastes, and tabernacles do passe. There stand two women also, one on the right side, and another on the left casting water, and repeating certaine charmes. If any man be slaine by lightning, all that dwell in the same tabernacle with him must passe by fire in maner aforesaid. For their tabernacles, beds, and cartes, their feltes and garments, and whatsoever such things they haue, are touched by no man, yea, and are abandoned by all men as things vncleane. And to bee short, they thinke that all things are to be purged by fire. Therefore, when any ambassadours, princes, or other personages whatsoever come vnto them, they and their giftes must passe betweene two fires to be purified, lest peradventure they haue practised some witchcraft, or haue brought some poyson or other mischief with them.

Chap. 7.

The people
of Tartaria.

THE East cuntrye, whereof wee haue entreated, which is called Mongal, is reported to haue had of olde time foure sortes of people. One of their companions was called Yeka Mongal, 5 that is the great Mongals. The second company was called Sumongal, that is, the Water-Mongals, who called themselues Tartars of a certaine riuier running through their countrey named Tartar. The third was called Merkat, and the fourth Metrit. All these people had one and the same person, attire of body 10 and language, albeit they were diuided by princes and prouinces. In the prouince of Yeka Mongal, there was a certaine man called Chingis. This man became a mighty hunter. For he learned to steale men, & to take them for a pray. He ranged into other countries taking as many captiues as he could, and ioining them 15 vnto himselfe. Also hee allured the men of his owne countrey vnto him, who followed him as their captaine and ringleader to doe mischiefe. Then began he to make warre vpon the Sumongals or Tartars, and slewe their captaine, and after many conflicts, subdued them vnto himselfe, and brought them all into bondage. 20 Afterward he vsed their helpe to fight against the Merkats, dwelling by the Tartars, whom also hee vanquished in battell. Proceeding from thence, he fought against the Metrites, and conquered them also. The Naimani hearing that Chingis was thus exalted, greatly disdeined thereat. For they had a mighty & puissant Emperour, 25 vnto whom all the foresaid nations payed tribute. Whose sonnes, when he was dead, succeeded him in his Empire. Howbeit, being young and foolish, they knew not howe to gouerne the people, but were diuided, and fell at variance among themselues. Now Chingis being exalted, as is aforesaid, they neuerthesse inuaded the fore- 30 named countries, put the inhabitants to the sword, and carried away their goods for a pray. Which Chingis hauing intelligence of, gathered all his subiects together. The Naimani also, and the people called Karakitay assembled and banded themselues at a certaine straight valley, where, after a battell foughten they were 35 vanquished by the Mongals. And being thus vanquished, they were, the greater part of them, slaine; and others, which could not escape, were carried into captiuitie. In the land of the fore-sayd Karakytayans, Occoday Cham, the sonne of Chingis Cham, after he was created Emperour, built a certaine citie, which he 40 called Chanyl. is an huge desert, wherein wilde men are certainly reported to inhabite, which cannot speake at all, and are destitute of ioynts in their legges, so that if they fall, they cannot rise alone by themselves. Howbeit, they are of discretion to make feltes of Camels
 5 haire, wherewith they clothe themselves, and which they holde against the winde. And if at any time, the Tartars pursuing them, chance to wound them with their arrowes, they put herbes into their wounds, and flye strongly before them.

Of the mutuall victories betweene them, and 10 the people of Kythay. Chap. 9.

BUt the Mongals returning home into their owne countrey, prepared themselves to battell against the *Kythayans: Which their Emperour hearing, set forward against them with his armie, and they fought a cruell battell, wherein the Mongals
 15 were ouercome, and all their nobles in the armie, except seuen, were slaine. And for this cause, when they, purposing to inuade anie region, are threatned by the inhabitants thereof to be slaine, they doe, to this day, answer: in old time also our whole number besides being slaine, we remayned but seuen of vs alieue, and yet
 20 notwithstanding we are now growen vnto a great multitude, thinke not therefore to daunt vs with such brags. But Chingis and the residue that remained alieue, fled home into their countrey: And hauing breathed him a little, he prepared himselfe to warre, and went forth against the people called Huyri: These men were 25 Christians of the sect of Nestorius. And these also the Mongals ouercame, and receiued letters or learning from them: for before that time they had not the arte of writing, and nowe they call it the hand or letters of the Mongals. Immediately after, hee marched against the countrey of Saruyur, and of the Karanites, and against 30 the land of Hudirat; all which he vanquished. Then returned he home into his owne countrey, and breathed himselfe. Afterward, assembling his warlike troupes, they marched with one accord against the Kythayans, and waging warre with them a long time, they conquered a great part of their land, and shut vp their Em-
 35 perour into his greatest citie: which citie they had so long time besieged, that they began to want necessary prouision for their armie. And when they had no victuals to feede vpon, Chingis Cham commaunded his souldiers, that they should eate eury

tenth man of the companie. | But they of the citie fought manfully against them, with engines, dartes, and arrowes, and when stones wanted they threw siluer, and especially melted siluer: for the same citie abounded with great riches. Also, when the Mongals had fought a long time and could not preuayle by warre, they 5 made a great trench vnderneath the ground from the armie vnto the middest of the citie, and there issuing foorth they fought against the citizens, and the remnant also without the walles fought in like manner. At last, breaking open the gates of the citie, they entred, and putting the Emperour, with many other 10 to the sworde, they tooke possession thereof and conueighed away the golde, siluer, and all the riches therein. And hauing appointed certaine deputies ouer the countrey, they returned home into their owne lande. This is the first time, when the Emperour of the Kythayans being vanquished, Chingis Cham 15 obtayned the Empire. But some parte of the countrey, because it lyeth within the sea, they could by no meanes conquere vnto this day. The men of Kytay are Pagans, hauing a speciall kinde of writing by themselues, and (as it is reported) the Scriptures of the olde and newe Testament. They haue also recorded in 20 hystories the liues of their forefathers: and they haue Eremites, and certaine houses made after the manner of our Churches, which in those dayes they greatly resorted vnto. They say that they haue diuers Saints also, and they worship one God. They adore and reuerence CHRIST IESVS our Lorde, and beleue 25 the article of eternall life, but are not baptized. They doe also honourably esteeme and reuerence our Scriptures. They loue Christians, and bestowe much almes, and are a very courteous and gentle people. They haue no beardes, and they agree partly with the Mongals in the disposition of their countenance. In 30 all occupations which men practise, there are not better artificers in the whole worlde. Their countrey is exceeding rich, in corne, wine, golde, silke, and other commodities.

Thossut Can son of Chingis.

AND when the Mongals with their emperour Chingis Cham had a while rested themselues after the foresayd victorie, they diuided their armies. For the Emperour sent one of his sonnes named Thossut (whom also they called Can, that is to say, Emperour) with an armie against the people of Comania, 40 whom he vanquished with much warre, and afterward returned into his owne country. But he sent his other sonne with an armie against the Indians, who also subdued India minor. These Indians are the blacke Saracens, which are also called Æthiopians.

 5 But here the armie marched forward to fight against Christians dwelling in India maior. Which the King of that countrey hearing (who is commonly called Presbiter Iohn) gathered his souldiers together, and came foorth against them. And making mens images of copper, he set each of them vpon a saddle on horse-10 backe, and put fire within them, and placed a man with a paire of bellows on the horse backe behinde euery image. And so with many horses and images in such sorte furnished, they marched on to fight against the Mongals or Tartars. And comming neare vnto the place of the battell, they first of all 15 sent those horses in order one after another. But the men that sate behind laide I wote not what vpon the fire within the images, and blew strongly with their bellows. Whereupon it came to passe, that the men and the horses were burnt with wilde fire, and the ayre was darkened with smoake. Then the 20 Indians cast dartes vpon the Tartars, of whom many were wounded and slain. And so they expelled them out of their dominions with great confusion, neither did we heare, that euer they returned thither againe.

How being repelled by monstrous men shapen 25 like dogs, they ouercame the people of Burithabeth. Chap. 11.

B Ut returning through the deserts, they came into a certaine countrey, wherein (as it was reported vnto vs in the Emperours court, by certaine clergie men of Russia, and others, who 30 were long time among them, and that by strong and stedfast affirmation) they found certaine monsters resembling women:
 who being asked by many interpreters, where the men of that land were, they answered, that whatsoever women were borne there, were indued with the shape of mankinde, but the males 35 were like vnto dogges. And delaying the time, in that countrey they met with the said dogges on the other side of the riuier.
 And in the midst of sharpe winter, they cast themselues into the water: Afterward they wallowed in the dust vpon the maine land, and so the dust being mingled with water, was frozen to their 40 backes, and hauing often times so done, the ice being strongly frozen vpon them, with great fury they came to fight against the Tartars. And when the Tartars threwe their dartes, or shot their arrowes among them, they rebounded backe againe, | as if they had lighted vpon stones. And the rest of their weapons coulede by no meanes hurt them. Howbeit, the Dogges made an assault vpon 5 the Tartars, and wounding some of them with their teeth, and slaying others, at length they draue them out of their countries. And thereupon they haue a Prouerbe of the same matter, as yet rife among them, which they speake in iesting sorte one to another; My father or my brother was slaine of Dogges. The women which 10 they tooke, they brought into their owne countrey, who remayned there till their dying day. And in traueiling homewardes, the sayd armie of the Mongals came vnto the lande of Burithabeth (the inhabitants whereof are Pagans) and conquered the people in battell. These people haue a strange or rather a miserable kinde 15 of custome. For when anie mans father deceaseth, he assembleth all his kindred, and they eate him. These men haue no beards at all, for we saw them carie a certaine iron instrument in their hands, wherewith, if any haire growe vpon their chinne, they presently plucke them out. They are also very deformed. From 20 thence the Tartars armie returned to their owne home.

Another expeditiō of Chingis.

MOreouer Chingis Cham, at the same time when he sent 25 other armies against the East, hee himselfe marched with a power into the lande of Kergis, which notwithstanding, he conquered not in that expedition, and as it was reported vnto vs, he went on forward euen to the Caspian mountaines. But the mountaines on that part where they encamped themselves, 30 were of adamant, and therefore they drew vnto them their arrowes, and weapons of iron. And certaine men contained within those Caspian mountaynes, hearing, as it was thought, the noyse of the armie, made a breach through, so that when the Tartars returned vnto the same place tenne yeeres after, they 35 found the mountaine broken. And attempting to goe vnto them, they could not: for there stood a cloud before them, beyond which they were not able to passe, being depriued of their sight so soone as they approached thereunto. But they on the contrary side thinking that the Tartars durst not come nigh them, gaue the 40

assault, & when they came at the cloud, they could not proceed for the cause aforesaid. Also the Tartars, before they came vnto the said mountaines, passed for the space of a moneth and more, through a vast wildernes, & departing thence towards the East, 5 they were about a moneth traueiling through another huge desert. At length, they came vnto a land wherein they saw beaten waies, but could not find any people. Howbeit, at the last, diligently seeking, they found a man & his wife, whom they presented before Chingis Cham: and demanding of them where the people of that 10 countrey were, they answered, that the people inhabited vnder the ground in mountains. Then Chingis Cham keeping still the woman, sent her husband vnto thẽ, giuing thẽ charge to come at his command. And going vnto them, he declared all things that Chingis Cham had commanded them. But they answered, that 15 they would vpon such a day visite him, to satisfie his desire. And in the meane season, by blinde & hidden passages vnder the earth, assembling themselves, they came against the Tartars in warlike manner, and suddenly issuing forth, they slewe a great number of them. This people were not able to endure the terrible noise, 20 which in that place the Sunne made at his vprising: for at the time of the Sunne rising, they were inforced to lay one eare vpon the ground, and to stoppe the other close; least they should heare that dreadfull sound. Neither could they so escape, for by this meanes many of them were destroyed. Chingis Cham therefore 25 and his company, seeing that they preuailed not, but continually lost some of their number, fled and departed out of that land. But the man and his wife aforesaid they caried along with them, who all their life time continued in the Tartars countrey. Being demanded why the men of their countrey doe inhabite vnder the 30 ground, they sayd, that at a certeine time of the yeare, when the sunne riseth, there is such an huge noyse, that the people cannot endure it. Moreouer, they vse to play vpon cymbals, drums, and other muscall instruments, to the ende they may not heare that sounde.

And hereupon Chingis Cham enacted; that neither the blood, nor the intrails, nor any other part of a | beast which might be eaten, should be cast away, saue onely the dunge. Wherefore he returned thence into his owne land, and there he ordayned lawes and statutes, which the Tartars doe most strictly and inuiolably obserue, of the which we haue before spoken. He was afterward slaine by a thunderclap. He had foure sonnes: the first was called Occoday, the second Thossut Can, the third Thiaday: the name of the fourth is vnknown. From these foure descended all the dukes of the 10 Mongals. The first sonne of Occoday is Cuyne, who is now Emperour: his brothers be Cocten and Chyrinen. The sonnes of Thossut Can are Bathy, Ordu, Siba, and Bora. Bathy, next vnto the Emperour, is richer and mightier then all the rest. But Ordu is the seignior of all the dukes. The sonnes of Thiaday be 15 Hurin and Cadan. The sonnes of Chingis Cham his other sonne, whose name is vnknown, are Mengu, Bithat, and certaine others. The mother of Mengu was named Seroctan, and of all others most honoured among the Tartars, except the Emperors mother, and mightier then any subiect except Bathy. These be the names of 20 the dukes: Ordu, who was in Poland and in Hungarie: Bathy also & Hurin & Cadan, and Siban, and Ouygat, all which were in Hungarie. In like maner Cyrpodan, who is as yet beyond the sea, making war against certaine Soldans of the Saracens, and other inhabitants of farre countries. Others remained in the land, 25 as namely Mengu, Chyrinen, Hubilai, Sinocur, Cara, Gay, Sybedey, Bora, Berca, Corrensa. There be many other of their dukes, whose names are vnknown vnto vs.

The absolute

of the Tartarian Emperour ouer his subiects.

MOreouer, the Emperour of the Tartars hath a wonderfull dominion ouer all his subiects. For no man dare abide in any place, vnles he hath assigned him to be there. Also he himselfe appointeth to his dukes where they should inhabite. Likewise the dukes assigne places vnto euery Millenarie, or con- 35 ducter of a thousand souldiers, the Millenaries vnto each captaine of an 100. the captaines vnto euery corporall of ten. Whatsoever is giuen them in charge, whensoever, or wheresoever, be it to fight or to lose their liues, or howsoever it be, they obey without any gainsaying. For if he demandeth any mans daughter, or sister 40 being a virgine, they presently deliuer her vnto him without all contradiction: yea, often times he makes a collection of virgines throughout all the Tartars dominions, and those whom he meanes to keepe, he retaineth vnto himselfe, others he bestoweth vpon his 5 men. Also, whatsoeuer messenger he sendeth, or whithersoever, his subiects must without delay finde them horses and other necessaries. In like sorte, from what countrey soeuer tribute payers, or ambassadours come vnto him, they must haue horses, carriages, and expenses allowed them. Notwithstanding ambassa-

 10 dours comming from other places do suffer great misery, and are in much wante both of victuals, and of apparel: especially when they come to any of the dukes, and there they are constrained to make some lingering abode. Then ten men are allowed so little sustenance, that scarcely two could liue thereof. Likewise, if any
 15 iniuries be offered them, they cannot without danger make complaint. Many gifts also are demaunded of them, both by dukes and others, which if they doe not bestow, they are basely esteemed, and set at nought. And hereupon, wee were of necessitie enforced to bestowe in giftes a great part of those things which were giuen
 20 vs by well disposed people, to defray our charges. To be short, all things are so in the power and possession of the Emperour, that no man dare say, This is mine, or, this is my neighbours; but all, both goods, cattell and men are his owne. Concerning this matter also he published a statute of late. The very same authority

30 After the death of Chingis Cham aforesayd, the dukes assembled themselves and chose Occoday his sonne to be their Emperour. And he, entering into consultation with his nobles, diuided his armies, and sent duke Bathy his nephew against the countrie of Altisoldan, and against the people called Bisermini, who were Saracens, but spake the language of Comania. The Tartars
 35 inuading their countrey, fought with them and subdued them in battel. But a certeine citie called Barchin resisted them a long time. For the citizens had cast vp many ditches and trenches about their citie, in regard whereof the Tartars could not take it, till they had filled the said ditches. But the citizens of Sarguit them of their owne accord. Whereupon their citie was not destroyed, but they slue manie of them and others they carried away captiue, and taking spoyles, they filled | the citie with other inhabitants, and so marched forth against the citie of Orna. This towne was very populous and exceeding rich. For there were 5 many Christians therein, as namely Gasarians, Russians, and Alanians, with others, and Saracens also. The gouernment of the citie was in the Saracens hande. It standeth vpon a mighty riuier, and is a kinde of porte towne, hauing a great marte exercised therein. And when the Tartars could not otherwise ouercome it, 10 they turned the sayd riuier, running through the citie, out of his channell, and so drowned the citie with the inhabitantes and their goods. Which being done, they set forward against Russia, and made foule hauocke there, destroying cities and castles and murthering the people. They layd siege a long while vnto Kiow 15 the chiefe citie of Russia, and at length they tooke it and slue the citizens. Whereupon, traueiling through that countrey, wee found an innumerable multitude of dead mens skulles and bones lying vpon the earth. For it was a very large and a populous citie, but it is nowe in a maner brought to nothing: for there doe scarce 20 remaine 200. houses, the inhabitants whereof are kept in extreame bondage. Moreouer, out of Russia and Comania, they proceeded forward against the Hungarians, and the Polonians, and there manie of them were slaine, as is aforesaid: and had the Hungarians manfully withstood them, the Tartars had beene con- 25 founded and driuen backe. Returning from thence, they inuaded the countrey of the Morduans being pagans, and conquered them in battell. Then they marched against the people called Byleri, or Bulgaria magna, & vtterly wasted the countrey. From hence they proceeded towards the North against the people called 30 Bastarci or Hungaria magna, and conquered them also. And so going on further North, they came vnto the Parossitæ, who hauing little stomacks and small mouthes, eate not any thing at all, but seething flesh they stand or sitte ouer the pottle, and receiuing the steame or smoke thereof, are therewith onely 35 nourished, and if they eate anie thing it is very little. From hence they came to the Samogetæ, who liue onely vpon hunting, and vse to dwell in tabernacles onely, and to weare garments made of beastes skinnes. From thence they proceeded vnto a country lying vpon the Ocean sea, where they found certaine 40 monsters, who in all things resembled the shape of men, sauing that their feete were like the feete of an oxe, and they had in deede mens heads but dogges faces. They spake, as it were, two words like men, but at the third they barked like dogges. From hence they retired into Comania, and there some of them remaine vnto this day.

Of the expedition of duke Cyrpodan. Chap. 16.

5 AT the same time Occoday Can sent duke Cyrpodan with an armie against Kergis, who also subdued them in battell. These men are Pagans, hauing no beardes at all. They haue a custome when any of their fathers die, for grieffe and in token of lamentation to drawe as it were, a leather thong ouerthwart their 10 faces, from one eare to the other. This nation being conquered, duke Cyrpodan marched with his forces Southward against the Armenians. And traailing through certain desert places, they found monsters in the shape of men, which had each of them but one arme & one hand growing out of the midst of their breast,
 15 and but one foote. Two of them vsed to shoote in one bowe, and they ran so swiftly, that horses could not ouertake them. They ran also vpon that one foote by hopping and leaping, and being weary of such walking, they went vpon their hand and their foote, turning themselues round, as it were in a circle. And being wearie
 20 of so doing, they ran againe according to their wonted manner. Isidore calleth them Cyclopedes. And as it was told vs in court, by the clergie men of Russia, who remaine with the foresayd Emperour, many ambassadours were sent from them vnto the Emperours court, to obtaine peace. From thence they proceeded 25 forth into Armenia, which they conquered in battell, and part also of Georgia. And the other part is vnder their iurisdiction, paying as yet euery yeare vnto them for tribute, 20000. pieces of coyne called Yperpera. From thence they marched into the dominions of the puissant and mighty Soldan called Deurum, whom also they 30 vanquished in fight. And to be short, they went on farther sacking and conquering, euen vnto the Soldan of Aleppo his dominions, and now they haue subdued that land also, determining to inuade other countries beyond it: neither returned they afterward into their owne land vnto this day. Likewise the same armie marched 35 forward against the Caliph of Baldach his countrey, which they subdued also, & exacted at his handes the daylie tribute of 400. Byzantines, besides Baldakines and other giftes. Also euery yeare they send messengers vnto the Caliph mouing him to come vnto them. Who sending back great gifts together with 40 his tribute beseecheth thẽ to be fauourable vnto him. Howbeit

| How the Tartars behaue themselues in warre. Chap. 17.

The military discipline of the Tartars.

C Hingis Cham diuided his Tartars by captaines of ten, 5 captaines of an 100. and captaines of a 1000. And ouer ten Millenaries or captains of a 1000, he placed, as it were, one Colonel, and yet notwithstanding ouer one whole armie he authorised two or three dukes, but yet so that all should haue especiall regard vnto one of the said dukes. And 10 when they ioine battel against any other nation, vnles they do all with one consent giue backe, euery man that flies is put to death. And if one or two, or more of ten proceed manfully to the battel, but the residue of those ten draw backe & follow not the company, they are in like maner slaine. Also, if one 15 among ten or more bee taken, their fellowes, if they rescue thē not, are punished with death. Moreouer they are enioined to haue these weapons following. Two long bowes or one good one at the least, three quiuers full of arrowes, & one axe, and ropes to draw engines withal. But the richer sort haue single 20 edged swords, with sharpe points, and somewhat crooked. They haue also armed horses with their shoulders and breasts defenced, they haue helmets and brigandines. Some of them haue iackes, and caparisons for their horses made of leather artificially doubled or trebled vpon their bodies. The vpper part of their helmet is of 25 iron or steele, but that part which compasseth about the necke and the throate is of leather. Howbeit some of them haue all their foresaide furniture of iron framed in maner following. They beate out many thinne plates a finger broad, and a handful long, and making in euery one of them eight little holes, they put there- 30 unto three strong and streight leather thongs. So they ioine the plates one to another, as it were, ascending by degrees. Then they tie the plates vnto the said thongs, with other small and slender thongs, drawen through the holes aforesayd, and in the vpper part, on each side therof, they fasten one small doubled 35 thong vnto another, that the plates may firmly be knit together.
These they make, as well for their horses caparisons, as for the armour of their men: And they skowre them so bright that a man may behold his face in them. Some of them vpon the necke of their launce haue an hooke, wherewithall they attempt to pull 40 men out of their saddles. The heads of their arrowes are exceedingly sharpe cutting both wayes like a two edged sworde, and they alwaies carie a file in their quiuers to whet their arrow-heads. They haue targets made of wickers, or of small rodde-

 5 Howbeit they doe not (as we suppose) accustome to carrie them, but onely about the tents, or in the Emperours or dukes guardes, & that only in the night season. They are most politike in warres, hauing bene exercised therein with other nations for the space of these 42. yeres. When they come at any riuers, the chiefe
 10 men of the company haue a round and light piece of leather, about the borders whereof making many loopes, they put a rope into them to drawe it together like a purse, and so bring it into the rounde forme of a ball, which leather they fill with their garments and other necessaries, trussing it vp most strongly. But vpon the 15 midst of the vpper parte thereof, they lay their saddles and other hard things, there also doe the men themselues sit. This their boate they tye vnto an horse tayle, causing a man to swimme before, & to guide ouer the horse, or sometime they haue two oares to row themselues ouer. The first horse therefore being 20 driuen into the water, all the other horses of the company followe him, and so they passe through the riuier. But the poorer sort of common souldiers haue euery man his leather bag or sachell well sown together, wherin he packs vp all his trinkets, and strongly trussing it vp hangs it at his horses tayle, and so passeth ouer, in 25 maner aforesaid.

Their experience & cunning in warres.

Their maner of passing ouer riuers.

Howe they may be resisted. Chap. 18.

I Deeme not any one kingdome or prouince able to resist them: because they vse to take vp souldiers out of euery countrey of their dominions. And if so be the neighbour prouince which 30 they inuade, wil not aide them, vtterly wasting it, with the inhabitants therof, whom they take from thence with them, they proceed on to fight against another countrey. And placing their captiues in the forefront of the battell, if they fight not couragiously, they put them to the sworde. Wherefore, if Christians would with-35 stande them, it is expedient, that the prouinces and gouernours of countreies should agree in one, and so by common counsell, should giue them resistance. Their souldiers also must be furnished with strong hand-bowes & cros-bowes, which they greatly dread, & with sufficiēt arrowes, with maces also of good 40 iron, or an axe with a long handle or staffe. When they make their arrow heads, they must (according to y^e Tartars custome)

dip the red-hot into water mingled with salte, that they may be strong to pierce the enemies armour. They that wil may haue swords also & lances with hooks at the ends, to pull the from their saddles, out of which they are easilie remoued. They must haue helmets likewise & other armour to defend theselues & their horses from the Tartars weapons & arrowes, & they that are vnarmed, must (according to y^e Tartars custome) | march behinde their fellows, and discharge at the enemy with long bowes and cros-bowes. And (as it is aboue said of the Tartars) they must orderly dispose their bandes and troupes, and ordeine lawes for their souldiers. Whosoeuer runneth to the pray or spoyle, before the victorie be atchieued, must vndergoe a most seuerer punishment. For such a fellow is put to death among the Tartars without all pitie or mercie. The place of battell must be chosen, if it be possible, in a plaine felde, where they may see round about, neither must all be in one company, but in manie and seuerall bandes, not very farre distant one from another. They which giue the first encounter must sende one band before, and must haue another in a readynesse to relieue and second the former in time conuenient. They must haue spies also on euery side to giue them notice when the rest of the enemies bandes approach. For therefore ought they alwayes to send forth band against band & troupe against troupe, because the Tartar euer practiseth to gette his enemy in the midst and so to enuiron him. Let our bands take this caueat also, if the enemy retire, not to make any long pursuit after him, lest peraduenture (according to his custome) he might draw them into some secret ambush: for the Tartar fights more by policie then by maine force. And againe, lest our horses bee tired: for we are not so well stored with horses as they. Those horses which the Tartars vse one day, they ride not vpon three or foure dayes after. Moreouer, if the Tartars draw homeward, our men must not therefore depart and casseir their bandes, or separate themselues asunder: because they doe this vpon policie, namely to haue our armie diuided, that they may more securely inuade and waste the countrey. And in very deede, our captaines ought both day and night to keepe their armie in a readines: and not to lie out of their armour, but at all assayes, to bee provided for battell. For the Tartars like diuels are alwaies watching and deuising howe to practise mischiefe. Furthermore, if in battell any of the Tartars be cast off their horse backs, they must presently bee layd holde on and taken, for being on foote they shoote strongly, wounding and killing both horses and men.

Of the iourney of frier Iohn* vnto the first guard of the Tartars. Chap. 19.

WE therefore by the commaundement of the sea apostolique setting forth towards the nations of the East, chose first 5 to trauel vnto the Tartars, because we feared that there might be great danger imminent vpon the Church of God next vnto them, by their inuasions. Proceeding on therefore, we came to the king of Bohemia, who being of our familiar acquaintance, aduised vs to take our iourney through Polonia and Russia. For we had kins-10 folkes in Polonia, by whose assistance, we might enter into Russia.
Hauing giuen vs his letters, hee caused our charges also to be defrayed, in all his chiefe houses and cities, till we came vnto his nephew Boleslaus duke of Slesia, who also was familiar and well known vnto vs. The like fauour he shewed vs also, till wee came vnto 15 Conradus duke of † Lautiscia, vnto whome then (by Gods especial faueur towards vs) lord Wasilico duke of Russia was come, from whose mouth we heard more at large cōcerning the deedes of the Tartars: for he had sent ambassadours thither, who were returned backe vnto him. Wherefore, it being giuen vs to vnderstand, that 20 we must bestow giftes vpon them, we caused certaine skinnes of beuers and other beastes to be bought with part of that money, which was giuen vpon almes to succour vs by the way. Which thing duke Conradus and the † duches of Cracow, and a bishop, and certaine souldiers being aduertised of, gaue vs likewise more 25 of the same skins. And to be short, duke Wasilico being earnestly requested by the duke of Cracow, and by the bishop and barons, on our behalfe, conducted vs with him, vnto his owne land, and there for certaine daies, entertained vs at his owne charges, to the ende that we might refresh our selues a while. And when, being 30 requested by vs, he had caused his bishops to resort vnto him, we reade before them the Popes letters, admonishing them to returne vnto the vnitie of the Church. To the same purpose also, we our selues admonished them, and to our abilitie, induced as well the duke as the bishops and others thereunto. Howbeit because duke 35 Daniel the brother of Wasilico aforesaid (hauing as then taken his iourney vnto Baty) was absent, they could not at that time, make a finall answer. After these things duke Wasilico sent vs forward with one of his seruants as farre as Kiow the chiefe citie of Russia.

The Lithuanians.

Howbeit we went alwayes in danger of our liues by reason of the Lituanians, who did often inuade y^e borders of Russia, euen in those verie places by which we were to passe. But in regard of the foresayd seruant, wee were out of the Russians daunger, the greatest part of whome were either slaine, or caried into captiuitie 5 by the Tartars. Moreouer, at Danilon wee were feeble euen vnto the death. (Notwithstanding wee caused our selues to bee carried in a waggon through the snowe and extreme colde) And being come vnto Kiow, wee consulted with the Millenary, & other noble men there concerning our iourney. They told vs, that if wee 10

[p. 64] | carried those horses, which wee then had, vnto the Tartars, great store of snowe lying vpon the ground, they would all dye: be cause they knew not howe to digge vp the grasse vnder the snow, as the Tartarian horses doe, neither could there bee ought found for them to eate, the Tartars hauing neither hay nor strawe, nor any other 15 fodder. We determined therefore to leaue them behind at Kiow with two seruants appointed to keepe them. And wee were constrained to bestow gifts vpon the Millenary, that we might obtaine his fauour to allowe vs poste horses and a guide. Wherefore beginning our iourney the second daye after the feast of the 20 Purification, wee arriued at the towne of Canow, which was immediatly vnder the dominion of the Tartars. The gouernour whereof allowed vs horses and a guide vnto another towne, where-receiued of the Tartars. Chap. 20.

W Herefore, the first saturday next after Ashwednesday, 30 hauing about the Sunnes going downe, taken vp our place of rest, the armed Tartars came rushing vpon vs in vnciuil and horrible maner, being very inquisitiue of vs what maner of persons, or of what condition we were: & when we had answered them that we were the Popes Legates, receiuing some victuals at 35 our handes, they immediatly departed. Moreouer in the morning rising and proceeding on our iourney, the chiefe of them which were in the guard met with vs, demaunding why, or for what intent and purpose we came thither: and what busines we had with them: Unto whom we answered, We are the legates of our 40 lord the Pope, who is the father & lord of the Christians. He hath sent vs as well vnto your Emperour, as to your princes, and all other Tartars for this purpose, because it is his pleasure, that all Christians should be in league with the Tartars, and should 5 haue peace with them. It is his desire also that they should become great or in fauour with God in heauen, therefore he admonisheth them aswel by vs, as by his own letters, to become Christians, and to embrace the faith of our Lord Iesu Christ, because they could not otherwise be saued. Moreouer, he giues

 10 thē to vnderstand, that he much marueileth at their mōstrous slaughters & massacres of mankind, & especially of Christians, but most of al of Hungariās, Mountaineirs, & Polonians, being al his subiects, hauing not iniuried them in ought, nor attempted to doe them iniurie. And because the Lord God is grievously
 15 offended thereat, he aduiseth them from henceforth to beware of such dealing, & to repent them of that which they had done. He requesteth also, that they would write an answer vnto him, what they purpose to doe hereafter, and what their intention is. All which things being heard and vnderstood, the Tartars sayd that 20 they would appoint vs poste horses and a guide vnto Corrensa. And immediately demanding gifts at our hands, they obtained them. Then receiuing the same horses, from which they dismounted, together with a guide wee tooke our iourney vnto Corrensa. But they riding a swift pace, sent a messenger before 25 vnto the sayd duke Corrensa, to signifie the message, which we had deliuered vnto them. This duke is gouernour of all them, which lie in guard against the natiōs of the West, least some enemy might on the sudden and at vnawares breake in vpon them. And hee is said to haue 60000. men vnder him.

BEing come therefore vnto his court, hee caused our tent to bee placed farre from him, and sent his agents to demanda of vs with what we would incline vnto him, that is to say, what gifts
 35 we would offer, in doing our obeisance vnto him. Unto whome wee answered, that our lord the Pope had not sent any gifts at all, because he was not certaine that wee should euer bee able to come at them: for we passed through most dangerous places. Notwithstanding, to our abilitie, we will honour him with some

& the fauour of the Pope, bestowed vpō vs for our sustenance. Hauing receiued our gifts, they conducted vs vnto the Orda or tent of the duke, & we were instructed to bow thrise with our left knee before the doore of the tente, and in any case to beware, lest wee set our foote vpon the threshold of the sayd doore. And that 5 after we were entred, wee should rehearse before the duke and all his nobles, the same wordes, which wee had before sayde, kneeling vpon our knees. Then presented wee the letters of our lord the Pope: but our interpreter whome we had hired and brought with vs from Kiow was not sufficiently able to interpret them, neither 10 was there any other esteemed to bee meete for the same purpose. Here certaine poste horses and three Tartars were appoynted for | vs to conduct vs from hence with al speede vnto duke Bathy. This Bathy is the mightiest prince among them except the Em- perour, & they are bound to obey him before all other princes. 15 We began our journey towards his court the first tuesday in Lent, and riding as fast as our horses could trot (for we had fresh horses almost thrise or foure times a day) we posted from morning till night, yea very often in the night season also, and yet could we not come at him before Maundie thursday. All this iourney we 20 went through the land of Comania, which is al plaine ground, and hath foure mighty riuers running through it: The first is called * Neper, on the side whereof towards Russia, duke Corrensa & Montij marched vp and downe, which Montij on the other side vpon the plaines is greater then he. The second is called † Don, 25 vpon the banke whereof marcheth a certain prince hauing in mariage the sister of Baty, his name is Tirbon. The third is called ‡ Volga, which is an exceeding great riuier, vpon the bankes whereof duke Bathy marcheth. The fourth is called || Iaec, vpon which two Millenaries doe march, on each side of the riuier one. 30 All these, in the winter time, descend down to the sea, & in summer ascend backe by the bankes of the said riuers vp to the mountains. The sea last named is the § Great sea, out of which the arme of S. George proceedeth, which runneth by Constantinople. These riuers do abound with plenty of fishes, but 35 especially Volga, & they exonerate thēselues into the Grecian sea, which is called Mare maior. Ouer Neper we went many daies vpon the ice. Along the shore also of the Grecian sea we went very dangerously vpon the ice in sundry places, & that for many

5 How we were receiued at the court of the great prince Bathy. Chap. 22.

Moreouer, when we came vnto Bathy in the land of Comania, we were seated a good league distant from his tabernacles. And when we should be conducted vnto his court, it was tolde vs 10 that we must passe between two fires. But we would by no means be induced thereunto. Howbeit, they said vnto vs: you may passe through without al danger: for we would haue you to doe it for none other cause, but only that if you intend any mischiefe against our lord, or bring any poyson with you, fire may take away all 15 euill. Unto whom we answered, that to the end we might cleare ourselues from all suspition of any such matter, we were contented to passe through. When therefore we were come vnto the Orda, being demanded by his agent Eldegay with what present or gift we would do our obeisance: Wee gaue the same answer which we 20 did at the court of Corrensa. The gifts being giuen and receiued, the causes of our iourney also being heard, they brought vs into the tabernacle of the prince, first bowing our selues at the doore, & being admonished, as before, not to tread vpon the threshold. And being entred, we spake vnto him kneeling vpon our knees, &
25 deliuered him our letters, and requested him to haue interpreters to translate them. Who accordingly on good friday were sent vnto vs, and we together with them, diligently translated our sayd letters into the Russian, Tartarian, and Saracen languages. This interpretation was presented vnto Bathy, which he read, & attentiuely
30 noted. At length wee were conducted home againe vnto our owne lodging, howbeit no victuals were giuen vnto vs, except it were once a litle Millet in a dich, the first night of our comming. This Bathy caries himselfe very stately & magnificently, hauing porters and all officers after the maner of the Emperour, and sittes in a 35 lofty seate or throne together with one of his wiues. The rest, namely, as well his brethren and sonnes, as other great personages sit vnderneath him in the midst vpon a bench, and others sit downe vpon the ground, behinde him, but the men on the right hand and the women on the left. He hath very faire and large 40 tentes of linnen cloth also, which were once the kings of Hungaria.

Neither dare any man come into his tent (besides them of his owne family) vnles he be called, be he neuer so mighty and great, except perhaps it be knowne that it is his pleasure. Wee also, for the same cause, sate on the left hand; for so doe all ambassadors in going: but in returning from the Emperour, we were alwaies 5 placed on the right hand. In the midst stands his table, neare vnto the doore of the tent, vpon the which there is drinke filled in golden and siluer vessels. Neither doth Bathy at any time drinke, nor any other of the Tartarian princes, especially being in a publique place, but they haue singing and minstrilsie before them. 10 And alwaies, when hee rides, there is a canopie or small tent caried ouer his head vpon the point of a iaueline. And so doe all the great princes of the Tartars, & their wiues also. The sayd Bathy is courteous enough vnto his owne men, and yet is hee had in great awe by them: he is most cruel in fight: he is exceedingly 15 prudent and politique in warre, because he hath now continued a long time in martiall affaires.

[p. 66] | How departing from Bathy, they passed through the land of Comania, and of the Kangittæ. Chap. 23.

MOreouer, vpon Easter euen we were called vnto the tent, 20 and there came forth to meete vs the foresaid agent of Bathy, saying on his masters behalfe, that we should go into their land, vnto the Emperor Cuyne, deteining certaine of our company with this pretence, that they would send them backe vnto the Pope, to whom we gaue letters of al our affaires to deliuer vnto 25 him. But being comē as farre as duke Montij aforesaid, there they were kept vntill our returne. Upon Easter day, hauing said our praiers, and taken a slender breakfast, in the company of two Tartars, which were assigned vnto vs by Corensa we departed with many teares, not knowing whether we went to death or to life. 30 And we were so feeble in bodie, that we were scarce able to ride. For all that Lent through, our meat was Millet onely with a little water and salte. And so likewise vpon other fasting dayes. Neither had we ought to drinke, but snowe melted in a skillet. And passing through Comania we rode most earnestly, hauing change 35 of horses fīue times or oftener in a day, except when we went through deserts, for then we were allowed better and stronger horses, which could vndergoe the whole labour. And thus farre had we trauiled from the beginning of Lent vntill eight dayes after Easter. The land of Comania on the North side immediately 40

after Russia, hath the people called Morduyni Byleri, that is, Bulgaria magna, the Bastarci, that is, Hungaria magna, next vnto the Bastarci, the Parositæ and the Samogetæ. Next vnto the Samogetæ are those people which are sayd to haue dogges faces, inhabiting vpon the desert shores of the Ocean. On the South side it hath the Alani, the Circassi, the Gazari, Greece and Constantinople; also the land of Iberia, the Cathes, the Brutaches who are said to be Iewes shauing their heads all ouer, the landes also of Scythia, of Georgia, of Armenia, of Turkie. On the West side it hath Hungaria, and Russia. Also Comania is a most large and long countrey. The inhabitantes whereof called Comani the Tartars slewe, some notwithstanding fled from them, and the rest were subdued vnder their bondage. But most of them that fled are returned againe. Afterward wee entred the lande of the Kangittæ, which in many places hath great scarcetie of waters, wherin there are but fewe inhabitants by reason of the foresayd defect of water. For this cause diuers of the seruants of Ieroslaus duke of Russia, as they were traueiling towards him into the land of Tartaria, died for thirst, in that desert. As before in Comania, so likewise in this countrey, wee found many skulles and bones of dead men lying vpon the earth like a dunghill. Through this countrey we were traueiling from the eight day after Easter vntill Ascension day. The inhabitants therof were Pagans, and neither they nor the Comanians vsed to till the ground, but liued onely vpon cattell, neither built they any houses but dwelled in tents. These men also haue the Tartars rooted out, and doe possesse and inhabite their countrey, howbeit, those that remained are reduced into their bondage.

How they came vnto the first court of the new Emperour. Chap. 24.

Moreouer, out of the land of the Kangittæ, we entered into the countrey of y^e Bisermini, who speake the language of Comania, but obserue the law of the Saracens. In this countrey we found innumerable cities with castles ruined, & many towns left desolate. The lord of this country was called Soldan Alti, who with al his progenie, was destroyed by the Tartars. This country hath most huge mountains. On the South side it hath Ierusalem and Baldach, and all the whole countrey of the Saracens. In the next territories adioyning doe inhabite two carnall brothers dukes of the Tartars, namely, Burin and Cadan

the sonnes of Thyaday, who was the sonne of Chingis Can. On the North side thereof it hath the land of the blacke Kythayans, and the Ocean. In the same cuntry Syban the brother of Bathy remaineth. Through this cuntry we were traueiling from the feast of Ascension, vntil eight daies before the feast of S. Iohn Baptist. And then we entred into the land of the blacke Kythayans, in which the Emperour built an house, where we were called in to drinke. Also the Emperours deputy in that place caused the chiefe men of the citie and his two sonnes to daunce before us. Departing from hence, wee founde a certaine small sea, vpon the shore whereof stands a little mountaine. In which mountaine is reported to be a hole, from whence, in winter time such vehement tempests of winds doe issue, that traueilers can scarcely, and with great danger passe by the same way. In summer time, the noise indeede of the winde is heard there, but it proceedeth gently out of the hole. Along the shores of the foresaid sea we trauailed for the space of many dayes, which although it bee not very great, yet hath it many islandes, and wee passed by leauing it on our left hande. In this lande dwelleth Ordu cap. 13. Ordu, whome wee sayde to bee auncient vnto all the Tartarian dukes. And it is the Orda or court of his father which hee inhabiteth, and one of his wiues beareth rule there. | For it is a custome among the Tartars, that the Courts of Princes or of noble men are not dissolued, but alwayes some women are appointed to keepe and gouerne them, vpon whom certain gifts are bestowed, in like sort as they are giuen vnto their Lords. And so at length we arriued at the first court of the Emperour, wherein one of his wiues dwelt.

But because we had not as yet seene the Emperour, they would not inuite vs nor admit vs into his Orda, but caused good attendance and entertainment, after the Tartars fashion, to be giuen vnto vs in our owne tent, and they caused vs to stay there, and to refresh our selues with them one day. Departing thence vpon the euen of Saint Peter and Saint Paul, wee entered into the land of the Naymani, who are Pagans. But vpon the very feast day of the saide Apostles, there fel a mightie snowe in that place, and wee had extreame colde weather. This lande is full of mountaines, and colde beyonde measure, 40 and there is little plaine ground to bee seene. These two nations last mentioned vsed not to till their ground, but, like vnto the Tartars, dwelt in tents, which the sayde Tartars had destroyed. Through this countrey wee were traailing manie dayes. Then 5 entered wee into the lande of the Mongals, whome wee call Tartars. Through the Tartars lande wee continued our trauaile (as wee suppose) for the space of some three weekes, riding alwayes hastily and with speede, and vpon the day of Marie Magdalene we arriued at the court of Cuyne the Emperour elect.

 10 But therefore did we make great haste all this way, because our Tartarian guides were straightly commaunded to bring vs vnto the court Imperiall with all speede, which court hath beene these many yeeres, ordained for the election of the Emperour. Wherefore rising earely, wee trauailed vntill night without eating of any 15 thing, and oftentimes wee came so late vnto our lodging, that we had no time to eate the same night, but that which we should haue eaten ouer night, was giuen vs in the morning. And often changing our horses, wee spared no Horse-fleshe, but rode swiftly and without intermission, as fast as our horses could trot.

20 How Cuyne entertained the Minorite Friers.
 Chap. 26.

BUt when wee were come vnto the court of Cuyne, hee caused (after the Tartars manner) a Tent and all expenses necessarie to bee prouided for vs. And his people entreated vs with 25 more regarde and courtesie, then they did anie other Ambassadors. Howbeei we were not called before his presence, because hee was not as yet elected, nor admitted vnto his empire. Notwithstanding, the interpretation of the Popes letters, and the message which we deliuered, were sent vnto him by the foresaid
 30 Bathy. And hauing stayed there fife or sixe dayes, hee sent vs vnto his mother, vnder whome there was mainteyned a verie solemne and royall court. And being come thither, we saw an huge tent of fine white cloth pitched, which was, to our iudgement, of so great quantitie, that more then two thousand men 35 might stand within it, and round about it there was a wall of planks set vp, painted with diuers images. Wee therefore with our Tartars assigned to attende vpon vs, tooke our iourney thither, and there were all the Dukes assembled, eche one of them riding vp and downe with his traine ouer the hilles and dales. The first 40 day they were all clad in white, but the second in skarlet robes.

Then came Cuyne vnto the saide tent. Moreouer, the third day they were all in blew robes, and the fourth in most rich robes of Baldakin cloth. In the wall of boardes, about the tent aforesaid, were two great gates, by one of the which gates, the Emperour only was to enter, and at that gate there was no gard of men appointed to stand, although it stood continually open, because none durst go in or come out the same way: all that were admitted, entred by another gate, at which there stood watchmen, with bowes, swords, & arrowes. And whosoeuer approched vnto the tent beyond the bounds and limit assigned, being caught, was beaten, but if he fled, he was shot at with arrowes or iron. There were many that to our iudgement, had vpon their bridles, trappers, saddles, and such like furniture, to the value of 20. markes in pure gold. The foresaid Dukes (as we thinke) communed together within the tent, and consulted about the election of their Emperor. But all the residue of the people were placed farre away without the walles of board, & in this maner they staid almost til noone.

The banquet
of the Nobles.

Then began they to drink mares milk, & so continued drinking til euen tide, and that in so great quantity, as it was wonderfull. And they called vs in vnto them, and gaue vs of their ale, because we could not drink their mares milke. And this they did vnto vs in token of great honor. But they compelled vs to drink so much, that in regard of our customary diet, wee coulede by no means endure it. Whereupon, giuing them to vnderstand, | that it was hurtful vnto vs, they ceased to compel vs any more. Without the doore stode Duke Ieroslaus of Susdal, in Russia, and a great many Dukes of the Kythayans, and of the Solangi. The two sonnes also of the king of Georgia, the ligier of the Caliph of Baldach, who was a Soldan, and (as we thinke) aboue ten Soldans of the Saracens beside. And, as it was tolde vs by the agents, there were more then 4000. ambassadors, partly of such as paide tributes, and such as presented gifts, and other Soldans, and Dukes, which came to yeeld themselues, and such as the Tartars had sent for, and such as were gouernours of lands. All these were placed without the lists, and had drinke giuen vnto them. But almost continually they all of them gaue vs and Duke Ieroslaus the vpper hand, when we were abroad in their companie.

How he was exalted to his Empire. Chap. 27.

The beginnings of Cuyne his empire.

And to our remembrance, we remained there, about the space of foure weekes. The election was to our thinking there celebrated, but it was not published and proclaimed there. And it was greatly suspected so to be, because alwayes when Cuyne came forth out of the tent, he had a noyse of musicke, and was bowed vnto, or honoured with faire wands, hauing purple wooll 5 vpon the tops of them, and that, so long as he remained abroad : which seruice was performed to none of the other Dukes. The foresaid tent or court is called by them Syra Orda. Departing thence, wee all with one accord rode 3. or 4. leagues vnto another place, where, in a goodly plaine, by a riuers side, betweene certaine

 10 mountaines, there was another tent erected, which was called the golden Orda. For there was Cuyne to be placed in the throne Emperiall, vpon the day of the Assumption of our Ladie. But, for the abundance of haile which fell at the same time, as is aboue said, the matter was deferred. There was also a tent erected vpon
 15 pillars, which were couered with plates of golde, and were ioyned vnto other timber with golden nailes. It was couered aboue with Baldakin cloth, but there was other cloth spread ouer that, next vnto the ayre. Wee abode there vnto the feast of Saint Bartholomew, what time there was assembled an huge multitude standing 20 with their faces towards the South. And a certaine number of them beeing a stones cast distant from the residue, making continuall prayers, and kneeling vpon their knees, proceeded farther and farther towards the South. Howbeit wee, not knowing whether they vsed inchantments, or whether they bowed their 25 knees to God or to some other, woulde not kneele vpon the ground with them. And hauing done so a long time, they returned to the tent, and placed Cuyne in his throne imperiall, and his Dukes bowed their knees before him. Afterwarde the whole multitude kneeled downe in like maner, except our selues, 30 for wee were none of his subiects.

Of his age and demeanour, and of his scale. Chap. 28.

THis Emperour, when hee was exalted vnto his gouernment, seemed to bee about the age of fourty or fourty fiue yeeres.
 35 He was of a meane stature, very wise and politike, and passing serious and graue in all his demeanour. A rare thing it was, for a man to see him laugh or behaue himselfe lightly, as those Christians report, which abode continually with him. Certaine Christians of his familie earnestly and strongly affirmed vnto vs, 40 that he himselfe was about to become a Christian. A token and argument whereof was, that hee retained diuers Cleargie men of the Christians. Hee had likewise at all times a Chappell of Christians, neere vnto his great Tent, where the Clearkes (like vnto other Christians, and according to the custome of the Græcians) doe sing publiquely and openly, and ring belles at certaine houres, bee there neuer so great a multitude of Tartars, or of other people in presence. And yet none of their Dukes doe the like. It is the manner of the Emperour neuer to talke his owne selfe with a stranger, though he be neuer so great, but heareth and answeareth by a speaker. And when any of his subiects (howe great soeuer they bee) are in propounding anie matter of importaunce vnto him, or in hearing his answeare, they continue kneeling vpon their knees vnto the ende of their conference. Neither is it lawfull for any man to speake of any affaires, after they haue beene determined of by the Emperour. The sayde Emperour, hath in his affaires both publike and priuate, an Agent, and Secretary of estate, with Scribes and all other Officials, except aduocates. For, without the noyse of pleading, or sentence giuing, all things are done according to the Emperours will and pleasure. Other Tartarian princes do the like in those things which belong vnto thẽ. But, be it known vnto al men, that whilst we remained at the said Emperours court, which hath bin ordained and kept for these many yeeres, the saide Cuyne being Emperor new elect, together with al his princes, erected a flag of defiance against the Church of God, & the Romane empire, and against al Christian kingdomes and nations of the West, vnlesse peraduenture (which God forbid) they will condescend vnto those things, which he hath inoined vnto our lord the Pope, & to all potentates and people of the Christiãs, namely, that they wil become obedient vnto him. For, except Christendom, there is no land vnder heauẽ, which they stand in feare of, and for that cause they prepare themselues to battel against vs. This Emperours father, namely Occoday was poisoned to death, which is the cause why they haue for a short space abstained from warre. But their intent and purpose is (as I haue aboue said) to subdue the whole world vnto themselues, as they were commanded by Chingis Can. Hence it is that the Emperor in his letters writeth after this maner: The power of God, & Emperour of all men. Also, vpon his seale, there is this posie ingrauen: God in heauen, and Cuyne Can vpon earth, the power of God: the seale of the Emperour of all men.

Of the admission of the Friers and Ambassadors vnto the Emperour. Chap. 29.

IN the same place where the Emperour was established into his throne, we were summoned before him. And Chingay his chiefe secretary hauing written downe our names, and the names of them that sent vs, with the name of the Duke of Solangi, & of others, cried out with a loude voice, rehearsing the said names before the Emperour, and the assembly of his Dukes. Which beeing done, ech one of vs bowed his left knee foure times, & they gaue vs warning not to touch the threshold. And after they had searched vs most diligently for kniues, and could not find any about vs, we entred in at the doore vpon the East side: because no man dare presume to enter at the West doore, but the Emperour onely. In like maner, euery Tartarian Duke entreth on the West side into his tent. Howbeit the inferiour sort doe not greatly regard such ceremonies. This therefore was the first time, when we entred into the Emperours tent in his presence, after he was created Emperour. Likewise all other ambassadours were there receiued by him, but very fewe were admitted into his tent. And there were presented vnto him such abundance of gifts by the saide Ambassadours, that they seemed to be infinite, namely in Samites, robes of purple, and of Baldakin cloth, silke girdles wrought with golde, and costly skinnes, with other gifts also. Likewise there was a certaine Sun Canopie, or small tent (which was to bee caried ouer the Emperours head) presented vnto him, being set full of precious stones. And a gouernour of one Prouince brought vnto him a companie of camels couered with Baldakins. They had saddles also vpon their backs, with certaine other instruments, within the which were places for men to sitte vpon. Also they brought many horses & mules vnto him furnished w^t trappers and caparisons, some being made of leather, and some of iron. And we were demanded whether we would bestow any gifts vpō him or no? But wee were not of abilitie so to doe, hauing in a maner spent all our prouision. There were also vpon an hill standing a good distance from the tents, more then 500. carts, which were all ful siluer and of gold, and silke garments. And they were all diuided betweene the Emperour and his Dukes, and euery Duke bestowed vpon his owne followers what pleased him.

Of the place where the Emperor and his mother
tooke their leaues one of another, and of Ieroslaus

A tent of purple.

DEparting thence, we came vnto another place, where a wonderfull braue tent, all of red purple, giuen by the 5 Kythayans, was pitched. Wee were admitted into that also, and alwaies when we entred, there was giuen vnto vs ale and wine to drinke, & sodden flesh (when we would) to eate.
There was also a loftie stage built of boords, where the Emperours throne was placed, being very curiously wrought out of 10 iuorie, wherein also there was golde and precious stones, and (as we remember) there were certain degrees or staires to ascend vnto it. And it was round vpon the top. There were benches placed about the saide throne, whereon the ladies sate towarde the left hand of the Emperour vpon stooles, (but none sate aloft 15 on the right hande) and the Dukes sate vpon benches below, the said throne being in the midst. Certaine others sate behinde the Dukes, and every day there resorted great companie of Ladies thither. The three tents whereof we spake before, were very large, but the Emperour his wiues had other great and faire tentes made 20 of white felt. This was the place where the Emperour parted companie with his mother: for she went into one part of the land, and the Emperour into another to execute iustice. For there was taken a certaine Concubine of this Emperour, which had poysoned his father to death, at the same time when the 25 Tartars armie was in Hungarie, which, for the same cause returned home. Moreouer, vpon the foresaide Concubine, and many other of her confederats sentence of iudgement was pronounced, and they were put to death. At the same time Ieroslaus
the great Duke of Soldal, | which is a part of Russia, deceased. 30 [p. 70] For being (as it were for honours sake) inuited to eate and drink with the Emperours mother, and immediately after the banquet, returning vnto his lodging, he fel sicke, and within seuen dayes, died. And after his death, his body was of a strange blew colour, and it was commonly reported, that the said Duke was poisoned, 35 to the ende that the Tartars might freely and totally possesse his Dukedome.

How the Friers comming at length vnto the Emperour, gaue, and receiued letters. Chap. 31.

TO be short, the Tartars brought vs vnto their Emperour, who when he had heard of them, that we were come vnto him, 5 cōmanded that we should return, vnto his mother. For he was determined the next day, (as it is abouesaid) to set vp a flag of defiāce against al y^e countreis of the West, which he would haue vs in no case to know. Wherefore returning, we staid some few dayes with his mother, and so returned backe again vnto him.
10 With whom we continued for the space of one whole moneth in such extreme hunger and thirst, that we could scarce hold life and soule together. For the prouision allowed vs for foure dayes, was scantly sufficient for one day. Neither could we buy vs any sustenance, because the market was too farre off. Howbeit the 15 Lorde prouided for vs a Russian goldsmith, named Cosmas, who being greatly in the Emperours fauour, procured vs some sustenance. This man shewed vnto vs the throne of the Emperour, which hee had made, before it was set in the proper place, and his seale, which he also had framed. Afterward the Emperour 20 sent for vs, giuing vs to vnderstand by Chingay his chief Secretary, that wee should write downe our messages & affaires, and should deliuer them vnto him. Which thing we performed accordingly.
After many daies he called for vs againe, demanding whether there were any with our Lord the Pope, which vnderstood the 25 Russian, the Sarracen, or the Tartarian language? To whom we answered, that we had none of those letters or languages. Howbeit, that there were certaine Saracens in the land, but inhabiting a great distance from our Lord the Pope. And wee saide, that wee thought it most expedient, that when they had written their 30 mindes in the Tartarian language, and had interpreted the meaning therof vnto vs, we should diligently translate it into our own tongue, and so deliuer both the letter and the translation thereof vnto our Lord the Pope. Then departed they from vs, and went vnto the Emperour. And after the day of S. Martine, we were 35 called for againe. Then Kadac principal agent for the whole empire, and Chingay, and Bala, with diuers other Scribes, came vnto vs, and interpreted the letter word for word. And hauing written it in Latine, they caused vs to interprete vnto them eche sentence, to wit if we had erred in any word. And when both 40 letters were written, they made vs to reade them ouer twice more, least we should haue mistaken ought. For they said vnto vs:

Take heed that ye vnderstand all things throughly, for if you should not vnderstand the whole matter aright, it might breed some inconuenience. They wrote the said letters also in the Saracen tongue, that there might be some found in our dominions which could reade and interprete them, if need should require. 5

How they were licensed to depart. Chap. 32.

The Legates are loath to haue any Ambassa-dours sent

Tartars to the Christians.

And (as our Tartars told vs) the Emperour was purposed to send his ambassadors with vs. Howbeit, he was desirous (as we thought) that we our selues should craue that fauour at his hands. And when one of our Tartars being an ancient man, 10 exhorted vs to make the said petition, we thought it not good for vs, that the Emperour should send his ambassadors. Wherefore we gaue him answere, that it was not for vs to make any such petition, but if it pleased the Emperour of his owne accord to send them, we would diligently (by Gods assistance) see them 15 conducted in safetie. Howbeit, we thought it expedient for vs, that they should not goe, and that for diuers causes. First, because we feared, least they, seeing the dissentions and warres which are among vs, should be the more encouraged to make warre against vs. Secondly, we feared, that they would be insteade 20 of spies and intelligencers in our dominions. Thirdly, we misdoubted that they would be slaine by the way. For our nations be arrogant and proud. For when as those seruants (which at the request of the Cardinall, attended vpon vs, namely the legates of Almaine) returned vnto him in the Tartars attire, they were 25 almost stoned in the way, by the Dutch, and were compelled to put off those garments. And it is the Tartars custome, neuer to bee reconciled vnto such as haue slaine their Ambassadors, till they haue reuenged themselues. Fourthly, least they should bee taken from vs by mayne force. Fifthly, because there could 30 come no good by their ambassade, for they were to haue none other commission, or authoritie, but onely to deliuer their Emperours letter vnto the Pope, and to the Princes of Christendome, which very same letters wee our selues had, and we knew right well, that much harme might ensue thereof. Wherefore, the third day after this, namely, vpon the feast of Saint 35 Brice, they gaue vs our passe-port and a Letter sealed with the Emperours owne seale, sending vs vnto the Emperours mother, who gaue vnto eche of vs a gowne made of Foxe-skinnes, with the furre on the outside, and a piece of purple. And our Tartars 40 stole a yarde out of euery one of them. And out of that which was giuen vnto our seruant, they stole the better halfe. Which false dealing of theirs, we knew well enough, but would make no words thereof.

5 How they returned homewards. Chap. 33.

Then taking our iourney to returne, we trauailed all Winter long, lying in the deserts oftentimes vpon the snow, except with our feete wee made a piece of ground bare to lye vpon. For there were no trees, but the plaine champion field. And oftentimes in the morning, we found our selues all couered with snow 10 driuen ouer vs by the winde. And so trauailing till the feast of our Lordes Ascension, we arriued at the court of Bathy. Of whom when wee had enquired, what answere he would send vnto our Lord the Pope, he said that he had nothing to giue vs in 15 charge, but onely that we should diligently deliuer that which the Emperour had written. And, hauing receiued letters for our safe conduct, the thirteenth day after Pentecost, being Saturday, wee were proceeded as farre as Montij, with whome our foresaide associates and seruants remained, which were withheld from vs, 20 and we caused them to be deliuered vnto vs. From hence we trauailed vnto Corrensa, to whom, requiring gifts the second time at our hands, we gaue none, because we had not wherewithall. And hee appointed vs two Comanians, which liued among the common people of the Tartars, to be our guides vnto the citie of 25 Kiow in Russia. Howbeit one of our Tartars parted not from vs, till we were past the vtmost gard of the Tartars. But the other guides, namely the Comanians, which were giuen vs by Corrensa, brought vs from the last garde vnto the citie of Kiow, in the space of sixe dayes. And there we arriued fiteene dayes before the 30 feast of Saint Iohn Baptist. Moreouer, the Citizens of Kiow, hauing intelligence of our approch, came foorth all of them to meete vs, with great ioy. For they reioyced ouer vs, as ouer men that had bene risen from death to life. So like wise they did vnto vs throughout all Russia, Polonia, and Bohemia. Daniel and his 35 brother Wasilico made vs a royall feast, and interteined vs with them against our willes for the space of eight dayes. In the meane time, they with their Bishops, and other men of account, being in consultation together about those matters which we had propounded vnto them in our iourney towards the Tartars, 40 answered vs with common consent, saying: that they would holde the Pope for their speciaall Lord and Father, and the Church of

Ille enim fluuius antequam ingreditur mare Ponti, facit quoddam mare

15 versus Aquilonem, habens in latitudine & longitudine septinginta milliaria, nusquam habens profunditatem vltra sex passus, vnde magna vasa non ingrediuntur illud. Sed mercatores de Constantinopoli applicantes ad prædictam ciuitatem Matertam, mittunt barcas suas vsque ad flumen Tanaim, vt emant pisces siccatos,

20 sturiones, thosas, borbatas, & alios pisces infinitæ multitudinis. Prædicta verò prouincia Cassaria cingitur mari in tribus lateribus: ad Occidentem scilicet, vbi est Kersoua ciuitas Clementis, ad meridiem vbi est ciuitas Soldaia, ad quam applicuimus, quæ est cuspis prouinciæ, & ad Orientem Maricandis, vbi est ciuitas

25 Materta, & orificium Tanais. Vltra illud orificium est Zikia, quæ non obedit Tartaris: Et Sueui & Hiberi ad Orientem, qui non obediunt Tartaris. Postea versus meridiem est Trapesunda quæ habet proprium Dominum nomine Guidonem, qui est de genere imperatorum Constantinopolitanorum, qui obedit Tartaris:

30 postea Synopolis quæ est Soldani Turchiæ qui similiter obedit: postea terra Vastacij cuius filius dicitur Astar ab auo materno, qui non obedit. Ab orificio Tanais versus Occidentem vsque ad Danubium totum est subditum. Etiam vltra Danubium versus Constantinopolim, Valakia, quæ est terra Assani, & minor

35 Bulgaria vsque in Solonomam omnes soluunt eis tributum. Et etiam vltra tributum condictum sumpserunt annis nuper transactis de qualibet domo securim vnam, & totum frumentum quod inueniunt in massa. Applicuimus ergò Soldaię in 12. 40 dixerunt venturos illuc nuncios de terra sancta volentes ire ad Sartach. Ego tamen prædicaueram publicè in Ramis Palmarum apud Sanctam Sophiam, quod non essem nuncius, nec vester, nec alicuius, sed ibam apud illos incredulos secundum re-

gulam nostram. Tunc cùm applicuissem, monebant me dicti mercatores vt cautè loquerer, quia dixerunt me esse nuncium, & si non dicerem me esse nuncium, quod non præberetur mihi transitus. Tunc loquutus sum hoc modo ad capitaneos ciuitatis, imò ad vicarios capitaneorum, quia capitanei iuerant ad Baatu 5 portantes tributum, & non fuerant adhuc reuersi. Nos audiuimus, dixi, de Domino vestro Sartach in Terra Sancta quod esset Christianus: & gausi sunt inde vehementer Christiani, & præcipuè Dominus Rex Francorum Christianissimus, qui ibi peregrinatur, & pugnat contra Saracenos, vt eripiat loca sancta de 10 manibus eorum: vnde volo ire ad Sartach, & portare ei literas Domini Regis, in quibus monet eum de vtilitate totius Christianitatis. Et ipsi receperunt nos gratanter, & dederunt nobis hospitium in ecclesia Episcopali. Et Episcopus ipsius ecclesiæ fuerat ad Sartach, qui multa bona dixit mihi de Sartach, quæ ego 15 postea non inueni. Tunc dederunt nobis optionem vtrum vellemus habere bigas cum bobus ad portandum res nostras vel equos pro summarijs. Et mercatores Constantinopolitani consuluerunt mihi quod non acciperem bigas, imò quod emerem proprias bigas coopertas, in quibus apportant Ruteni pelles suas, & in illis 20 includerem res nostras quas vellem quotidie deponere, quia si acciperem equos, oporteret me in qualibet Herbergia deponere & reponere super alios, & præterea equitarem lentiori gressu iuxta boues. Et tunc acquieui consilio eorum malo, tum quia fui in itinere vsq; Sarthach duobus mensibus, quod potuissem vno mense 25 fecisse, si iuissem equis. Attuleram mecum de Constantinopoli fructus & vinum muscatum, & biscoctum delicatum de consilio mercatorum ad præsentandū capitaneis primis, vt facilius pateret mihi transitus; quia nullus apud eos respicitur rectis oculis, qui venit vacua manu. Quæ omnia posui in vna biga, quando nō 30 inueni ibi capitaneos ciuitatis, quia dicebāt mihi, quod gratissima foret Sarthach, si possem deferre ea vsq; ad eū. Arripuimus ergo iter tunc circa Kalend. Iunij cum bigis nostris quatuor coopertis & cū alijs duabus quas accepimus ab eis, In quibus portabantur lectisternia ad dormiendū de nocte, & quinque equos dabant 35 nobis ad equitandum. Eramus enim quinq; | personæ. Ego & socius meus frater Bartholomeus de Cremona, & Goset lator præsentium, & homo dei Turgemannus, & puer Nicolaus, quem emeram Constantinopoli de nostra eleemosyna. Dederunt etiam duos homines qui ducebant bigas & custodiebant boues & equos. 4 Sunt autem alta promontoria super Mare à Kersoua vsque ad orificium Tanais: & sunt quadraginta castella inter Kersouam & Soldajam, quorum quodlibet fere habet proprium idioma:

inter quos erant multi Goti, quorum idioma est Teutonicum. Post illa montana versus Aquilonem est pulcherrima sylua in planicie, plena fontibus & riulis: Et post illam syluam est planicies maxima, quæ durat per quinque dietas vsque ad extre-
 5 mitatem illius prouinciæ ad aquilonem, quæ coarctatur habens Mare ad Orientem & Occidentem: Ita quod est vnum fossatum magnum ab vno Mari vsque ad aliud. In illa planicie solebant esse Comani antequam venirent Tartari, & cogebant ciuitates prædictas & castra vt darent eis tributum. Et cum venerunt
 10 Tartari, tanta multitudo Comanorū intrauit prouinciam illam, qui omnes fugerunt vsque ad ripam Maris, quod comedebant se mutuo viui morientes: secundum quod narrauit mihi quidam mercator, qui hoc vidit: Quod viui deuorabant & lacerabant dentibus carnes crudas mortuorum, sicut canes cadauera. Versus 15 extremitatem illius prouinciæ sunt lacus multi & magni: in quorum ripis sunt fontes salmastri, quorum aqua, quàm cito intrat lacum, efficit salem durum ad modum glaciei. Et de illis salinis habent Baatu & Sartach magnos redditus: quia de tota Russia veniunt illuc pro sale: & de qualibet biga onusta dant 20 duas telas de cottone valentes dimidiam Ipperperam. Veniunt & per Mare multæ naues pro sale, quæ omnes dant tributum secundum sui quantitatem. Postquam ergo recessimus de Soldaia, tertia die inuenimus Tartaros: inter quos cū intraueram, visum fuit mihi recte quod ingrederer quoddam aliud sæculum. Quorum 25 vitam & mores vobis describam prout possum.

De Tartaris & domibus eorum.

N Vsquam habent manentem ciuitatem, sed futuram ignorant. Inter se diuiserunt Scythiam, quæ durat à Danubio vsque ad ortum solis. Et quilibet Capitaneus, secundum quod habet 30 plures vel pauciores homines sub se, scit terminos pascuorum suorum, & vbi debet pascere hyeme & æstate, vere & autumnis. In hyeme enim descendunt ad calidiores regiones versus meridiem. In æstate ascendunt ad frigidiores versus aquilonem. Loca pas-
 35 cuosa sine aquis pascunt in hyeme quando est ibi nix, quia niuem habent pro aqua. Domum in qua dormiunt fundant super rotam de virgis cancellatis, cuius tigna sunt de virgis, & conveniunt in vnā paruulā rotā superius, de qua ascendit collum sursum tanquam fumigatorium, quam cooperiunt filtro albo: & fre-
 40 quentius imbuunt etiam filtrum calce vel terra alba & puluere ossium, vt albens splendeat, & aliquando nigro. Et filtrum illud

circa collum superius decorant pulchra varietate picturæ. Ante ostium similiter suspendunt filtrum opere polimitario variatum. Consumunt enim filtrum coloratum in faciendo vites & arbores, aues & bestias. Et faciunt tales domos ita magnas, quod habent triginta pedes in latitudine. Ego enim mensuraui semel latitudinem inter vestigia rotarum vnus bigæ viginti pedum: & quando domus erat super bigam excedebat extra rotas in vtroque latere quinque pedibus ad minus. Ego numeraui in vna biga viginti duos boues trahentes vnam domum: Vndecem in vno ordine secundum latitudinem bigæ, & alios vndecem ante illos: Axis bigæ erat magnus ad modum arboris navis: Et vnus homo stabat in ostio domus super bigam minans boues. Insuper faciunt quadrangulos de virgulis fissis attenuatis ad quantitatem vnus arcæ magnæ: & postea de vna extremitate ad aliam eleuant testudinem de similibus virgis, & ostiolum faciunt in anteriori extremitate: & postea cooperiunt illam cistam siue domunculam filtro nigro imbuto seu siue lacte ouino, ne possit penetrari pluuiæ: quod similiter decorant opere polimitario vel plumario. Et in talibus arcis ponunt totam suppellectilem suam & thesaurum: quas ligant fortiter super bigas alteras quas trahunt cameli, vt possint transuadare flumina. Tales arcas nunquam deponunt de bigis. Quando deponunt domus suas mansionarias, semper vertunt portam ad meridiem; & consequenter collocant bigas cum arcis hinc & inde prope domum ad dimidium iactum lapidis: ita quod domus stat inter duos ordines bigarum quasi inter duos muros. | Matronæ faciunt sibi pulcherrimas bigas, quas nescirem vobis describere nisi per picturam. *Imo omnia depinxissem vobis si sciuissem pingere. Vnus diues Moal siue Tartar habet bene tales bigas cum arcis ducentas vel centum. Baatu habet sexdecem vxores: quælibet habet vnam magnam domum, exceptis alijs paruis, quas collocant post magnam, quæ sunt quasi cameræ; in quibus habitant puellæ. Ad quamlibet istarum domorum appendunt ducentæ bigæ. Et quando deponunt domus, prima vxor deponit suam curiam in capite occidentali, & postea aliæ secundum ordinem suum: ita quod vltima vxor erit in capite Orientali: & erit spacium inter curiam vnus dominæ & alterius, iactus vnus lapidis. Vnde curia vnus diuitis Moal apparebit quasi vna magna Villa: tunc paucissimi viri erunt in ea. Vna muliercula ducet 20. bigas vel 30. Terra enim plana est. Et ligant bigas cum bobus vel camelis vnam post aliam: & sedebit muliercula in anteriori minans bouem, & omnes aliæ

pari gressu sequentur. Si contingat venire ad aliquem malum passum, soluunt eas & transducunt sigillatim: Vadunt enim lento gressu, sicut agnus vel bos potest ambulare.

De lectis eorum & poculis.

- 5 Postquam deposuerint domus versa porta ad meridiem, collocant lectum domini ad partem aquilonarem. Locus mulierum est semper ad latus Orientale hoc est ad sinistrum domini domus cum sedet in lecto suo versa facie ad meridiem: locus verò virorum ad latus occidentale, hoc est ad dextrum.
- 10 Viri ingredientes domum nullo modo suspenderent pharetram ad partem mulierum. Et super caput Domini est semper vna imago quasi puppa & statuuncula de filtro, quam vocant fratrem domini: alia similis super caput dominæ, quam vocant fratrem dominæ, affixa parieti: & superius inter vtramque illarum est vna
- 15 paruula, macilenta, quæ est quasi custos totius domus. Domina domus ponit ad latus suum dextrum ad pedes lecti in eminenti loco pelliculam hœdinam impletam lana vel alia materia, & iuxta illam statuunculam paruulam respicientem famulas & mulieres. Iuxta ostium ad partem mulieris est iterum alia imago cum vbere
- 20 vaccino, pro mulieribus quæ mungunt vaccas. De officio fæminarum est mungere vaccas. Ad aliud latus ostij versus viros est alia statua cum vbere equæ pro viris qui mungunt equas. Et cum conuenerint ad potandum primo spargunt de potu illi imagini, quæ est super caput domini: postea alijs imaginibus
- 25 per ordinem: postea exit minister domum cum ciphō & potu, & spargit ter ad meridiem, quolibet vice flectendo genu; & hoc ad reuerentiam ignis: postea ad Orientem ad reuerentiam aeris: postea ad Occidentem ad reuerentiam aquæ: ad aquilonem projiciunt pro mortuis. Quando tenet dominus ciphum in manu
- 30 & debet bibere, tunc primo antequam bibat, infundit terræ partem suam. Si bibit sedens super equum, infundit antequam bibat, super collum vel crinem equi. Postquam vero minister sic sparserit ad quatuor latera mundi, reuertitur in domum & sunt parati duo famuli cum duobus ciphis & totidem patenis
- 35 vt deferant potum domino & vxori sedenti iuxta eum sursum in lecto. Et cum habet plures vxores, illa cum qua dormit in nocte sedet iuxta eum in die: & oportet quod omnes aliæ veniant ad domum illam illa die ad bibendum: & ibi tenetur curia illa die: & xenia quæ deferuntur, illa deponuntur in thesauris
- 40 illius dominæ. Bancus ibi est cum vtre lactis vel cum alio potu & cum ciphis.

De potibus eorum & qualiter prouocant alios ad bibendum.

Faciunt in hyeme optimum potum, de risio, de millio, de melle: claret sicut vinum. Et defertur eis vinum à remotis partibus. In æstate non curant nisi de Cosmos. Stat semper 5 infra domum ad introitum portæ, & iuxta illud stat citharista cum citherula sua. Citheras & vielas nostras non vidi ibi, sed multa alia instrumenta, quæ apud nos non habentur. Et cum incipit bibere tunc vnus ministrorū exclamat alta voce, HA: & citharista percutit cicharum. Et quando faciunt festum mag- 10 num, tunc omnes plaudunt manibus & saltant ad vocem citharæ, viri coram Domino, & mulieres coram domina. Et postquam dominus biberit, tunc exclamat minister sicut prius, & tacet citharista: tunc bibunt omnes in circuitu viri & mulieres: & aliquando bibunt certatim valde turpiter & gulose. Et quando 15 volunt aliquem prouocare ad potū arripiunt eum per aures & trahunt fortiter vt dilatent ei gulam, & plaudunt & saltant coram eo. Item cum aliqui volunt facere magnum festum & gaudium, vnus accipit ciphum plenum, & alij duo sunt ei à dextris & sinistris: & sic illi tres veniunt cantantes vsque ad 20 illum cui debent porrigere ciphum, & cantant & saltant coram eo: & cum porrigit manum ad recipiendum ciphum, ipsi subito resiliunt, & iterum sicut prius reuertuntur, & sic illudunt ei ter vel quater retrahendo ciphum, donec fuerit bene exhilaratus & bonum habeat appetitum, & tunc dant ei ciphum, & cantant 25 & plaudunt manibus & terunt pedibus donec biberit.

De cibarijs eorum.

DE cibis & victualibus eorum noueritis, quod indifferenter comedunt omnia morticinia sua. Et inter tot pecora & armenta non potest esse quin multa animalia moriantur. Tamen 30 in æstate quamdiu durat eis cosmos, hoc est lac equinum, non curant de alio cibo. Vnde tunc si contingat eis mori bouem vel equum, siccant carnes scindendo per tenues pecias & suspendendo ad solem & ventum, quæ statim sine sale siccantur absque aliquo fætore. De intestinis equorum faciunt andulges meliores quàm 35 de porcis: quas comedunt recentes: reliquas carnes reseruant ad hyemem. De pellibus bouum faciunt vtres magnos, quos mirabiliter siccant ad fumum. De posteriori parte pellis equi faciunt pulcherrimos soculares. De carne vnus arietis dant comedere quinquaginta hominibus vel centum. Scindunt enim minutatim in scutella cum sale & aqua, aliam enim salsam non faciunt, & tunc cum puncto cultelli vel furcinula, quas proprias faciunt ad 5 hoc, cum qua solemus comedere pira & poma cocta in vino, porrigunt cuilibet circumstantium buccellam vnā vel duas, secundum multitudinem comedentium. Dominus antequam proponitur caro arietis in primo ipse accipit quod placet ei: & etiam si dat alicui partem specialem, oportet quod accipiens comedat 10 eam solus, & nemini licet dare ei. Si non potest totum comedere, asportat secum, vel dat garcioni suo, si est presens, qui custodiat ei: sin aliter, recondit in saptargat suo, hoc est in bursa quadrata, quam portant ad recondendum omnia talia, in qua & ossa recondunt, quando non habent spacium bene rodendi ea, vt postea 15 rodant, ne pereat aliquid de cibo.

Quomodo faciunt Cosmos.

Ipsum Cosmos, hoc est lac iumentinum fit hoc modo. Extendunt cordam longam super terram ad duos palos fixos in terra, & ad illam cordam ligant circiter horas tres, pullos 20 equarum quas volunt mungere. Tunc stant matres iuxta pullos suos & permittunt se pacifice mungi. Et si aliqua est nimis indomita, tunc accipit vnus homo pullum & supponit ei permittens parum sugere, tunc retrahit illum, & emunctor lactis succedit. Congregata ergo multitudine lactis, quod est ita dulce sicut vaccinum, 25 dum est recens, fundunt illud in magnum vtrem siue bucellam, & incipiunt illud concutere cum ligno ad hoc aptato, quod grossum est inferius sicut caput hominis & cauatum subtus: & quam cito concutiunt illud, incipit bullire sicut vinum nouū, & aescere siue fermentari, & excutiunt illud donec extrahant butirum. Tunc 30 gustant illud; & quando est temperate pungitium bibunt: pungit enim super linguam sicut vinum raspei dum bibitur. Et postquam homo cessat bibere, relinquit saporem super linguam lactis amygdalini, & multum reddit interiora hominis iucunda, & etiam inebriat debilia capita: multum etiam prouocat vrinam. Faciunt 35 etiam Cara-cosmos, hoc est nigrum cosmos ad vsum magnorum dominorum, hoc modo. Lac equinum non coagulatur. Ratio enim est: quod nullius animalis lac nisi cuius fetet venter non inuenitur coagulum. In ventre pulli equi non inuenitur: vnde lac equæ non coagulatur. Concutiunt ergo lac in tantum, quod 40 omnino quod spissum est in eo vadat ad fundum rectā, sicut

fæces vini, & quod purum est remanet superius, & est sicut serum, & sicut mustum album. Fæces sunt albæ multum, & dantur seruis, & faciunt multum dormire. Illud clarum bibunt domini: & est pro certo valde suavis potus & bonæ efficacisë. Baatu habet 30. casalia circa herbergiam suam ad vnam dietam, 5 quorum vnumquodq; qualibet die seruit ei de tali lacte centum equarum, hoc est, qualibet die lac trium millium equarū, excepto alio lacte albo, quod deferunt alij. Sicut enim in Syria rustici dant tertiam partem fructuum, quam ipsi afferunt ad curias dominorum suorum, ita & isti lac equarū terciæ diei. De lacte vaccino 10 primò extrahunt butyrū & bulliunt illud vsque ad perfectā decoctionē, & postea recondunt illud in vtribus arietinis quos ad hoc reseruant. Et non ponunt sal in butiro: tamen propter magnam decoctionē non putrescit: & reseruant illud contra hyemem. Residuū lac quod remanet post butirum permittunt 15 acescere quantum acius fieri potest & bulliunt illud, & coagulatur bulliendo, & coagulum illud desiccant ad solem, & efficitur durum sicut scoria ferri. Quod recondunt in saccis contra hyemem: tempore hyemali quando | deficit eis lac, ponunt illud acre coagu- [p. 76] lum, quod ipsi vocant gri-vt, in vtre, & super infundunt aquam 20 calidam, & concutiunt fortiter donec illud resoluatur in aqua; quæ ex illo efficitur tota acetosa, & illam aquam bibunt loco lactis. Summè cauent ne bibant aquam puram.

De bestiis quas comedunt, & de vestibis, ac

Magni domini habent casalia versus meridiem, de quibus afferunt eis milium & farinam contra hyemem. pauperes procurant sibi pro arietibus & pellibus commutando. Sclauī etiam implent ventrem suum aqua crassa, & hac contenti sunt. Mures cum longis caudis non comedunt & omne genus murium habens 30 curtam caudam. Sunt etiam ibi multæ marmotes, quas ipsi vocant Sogur: quæ conueniunt in vna fouea in hyeme 20. vel 30. pariter, & dormiunt sex mensibus: quas capiunt in magna multitudine. Sunt etiam ibi, cuniculi habentes longam caudam sicut cati; & in summitate caudæ habent pilos nigros & albos. Habent 35 & multas alias bestiolas bonas ad comedendum: quas ipsi valde bene discernunt. Ceruos non vidi ibi. lepores paucos vidi, gaselos multos. Asinos syluestres vidi in magna multitudine, qui sunt quasi muli. Vidi & aliud genus animalis quod dicitur Artak, quod habet recte corpus arietis & cornua torta, sed tantæ quan- 40 titatis, quod vix poteram vna manu leuare duo cornua: & faciunt de cornibus illis ciphos magnos. Habent falcones, girfalcones, & herodios in magna multitudine: quos omnes portant super manum dexteram: & ponunt semper falconi vnam corrigiam paruulam circa collum, quæ pendet ei vsque ad medietatem pectoris: per quam cum proijciunt eum ad prædā, inclinant cum sinistra manu caput & pectus falconis, ne verberetur à vento, vel ne feratur sursum. Magnum ergo partem victus sui acquirunt venatione. De vestibus & habitu eorum noueritis, quod de Cataya & alijs regionibus Orientis, & etiam de Perside & alijs regionibus austri veniunt eis panni serici & aurei, & telæ de bambasio, quibus induuntur in æstate. De Russia, de Moxel, & Maiore Bulgaria & Pascatir, quæ est maior Hungaria, & Kersis: (quæ omnes sunt regiones ad Aquilonem & plenæ syluis;) & alijs multis regionibus ad latus aquilonare, quæ eis obediunt, adducuntur eis pelles preciosæ multi generis: quas nunquā vidi in partibus nostris: Quibus induuntur in hyeme. Et faciunt semper in hyeme duas pelliceas ad minus: vnam, cuius pilus est ad carnem: aliam cuius pilus est extra contra ventum & niues, quæ multoties sunt de pellibus lupinis vel vulpibus vel papionibus. Et dum sedent in domo habent aliam delicatiorem. Pauperes faciunt illas exteriores de canibus & capris. Quum volunt venari feras, conueniunt magna multitudo & circundant regionem in qua sciunt feras esse, & paulatim appropinquant sibi, donec concludant feras inter se quasi infra circulum, & tunc sagitant ad eas. faciunt etiam braccas de pellibus. Diuites etiam furrant vestes suas de stupa setæ, quæ est supra modum mollis, & leuis & calida. Pauperes furrant vestes de tela de bambasio, de delicatiori lana quam possunt extrahere: de grossiori faciunt filtrum ad cooperiendum domos suas & cistas, & ad lectisternia. De lana etiam & tertia parte pilorum equi admixta, faciunt cordas suas. De filtro etiam faciunt pauellas sub sellis, & capas contra pluuiam. Vnde multum expendant de lana. Habitu virorum vidistis.

Major Hungaria.

Nota.

De rasura virorum & ornatu mulierum.

Viri radunt in summitate capitis quadrangulum, & ab anterioribus angulis ducunt rasuram cristæ capitis vsque ad tempora. Radunt etiam tempora & collum vsque ad summum concauitatis ceruicis: & frontem antè vsque ad frontinellam, super quam relinquunt manipulum pilorum descendantium vsque ad supercilia: In angulis occipitis relinquunt crines, quibus faciunt tricas, quas succingunt nodando vsque ad aures. Et habitus

[p. 77]

puellarum non differt ab habitu virorum, nisi quod aliquantulum est longior. Sed in crastino postquam est nupta radit caluariam suam à medietate capitis versus frontem, & habet tunicam latam sicut cucullam monialis, & per omnia latiore & longiore, fissam ante, quam ligat sub dextro latere. In hoc enim differunt 5 Tartari à Turcis: quod Turci ligant tunicas suas ad sinistram, Tartari semper ad dextram. Postea habent ornamentum capitis, quod vocant botta, quod fit de cortice arboris vel alia materia, quam possunt inuenire, leuiore: & est grossum & rotundum, quantum potest duabus manibus complecti; longum vero vnus 10 cubiti & plus, quadrum superius, sicut capitellum vnus columnæ. Istud botta cooperiunt panno serico precioso; & est concauum interius: & super capitellum in | medio vel super quadraturā illam ponunt virgulam de calamis pennarum vel cannis gracilibus longitudinis scilicet vnus cubiti & plus: & illam sibi virgulam ornant 15 superius de pennis pauonis, & per longum in circuitu pennulis caudæ malardi, & etiam lapidibus præciosis. Diuites dominæ istud ornamentum ponunt in summitate capitis quod stringunt fortiter cum almucia, quæ foramen habet in summitate ad hoc aptatū, & in isto recondunt crines suos quos recolligūt à parte 20 posteriori ad summitem capitis quasi in nodo vno & reponunt in illo botta, quod postea fortiter ligant sub gutture. Vnde quum equitant plures dominæ simul & videntur à longe, apparent milites, habentes galeas in capitibus cum lanceis eleuatis. Illud enim botta apparet galea desuper lancea. Et sedent omnes mulieres 25 super equos sicut viti diuersificantes coxas; & ligant cucullas suas panno serico aerij coloris super renes, & alia fascia stringunt ad mamillas: & ligant vnam peciam albam sub oculis, quæ descendit vsque ad pectus. Et sunt mulieres miræ pinguedinis, & quæ minus habet de naso pulchrior reputatur. Deturpant 30 etiam turpiter pinguedine facies suas: nunquam cubant in lecto pro puerperio.

De officio mulierum, & operibus earum, ac de nuptijs earum.

Officium fœminarum est ducere bigas, ponere domus super eas 35 & deponere, mungere vaccas, facere butirum & griut, parare pelles, & consuere eas, quas consuunt filo de nervis. diuidunt enim nervos in minuta fila, & postea illa contorquent in vnum longum filum. Consuunt etiam soculares & soccos & alias vestes. Vestes vero nunquam lauant, quia dicunt quod Deus tunc irascitur, & 40 quod fiant tonitrua si suspendantur ad siccandum: Imo lauantes verberant & eis auferunt. Tonitrua supra modum timent: tunc omnes extraneos emittunt de domibus suis; & inuoluunt se in filtris nigris, in quibus latitant, donec transierit. Nunquā etiā 5 lauant scutellos, imo carne cocta alueū in quo debent ponere eam lauant brodio bulliente de caldaria, & postea refundunt in caldariam. faciunt & filtrum & cooperiunt domos. Viri faciunt solū arcus & sagittas, fabricant strepas & fræna, & faciunt cellas, carpentant domos & bigas: custodiunt equos & mungunt equas,

 10 concutiunt ipsum cosmos & lac equinum, faciunt vtres in quibus reconditur: custodiunt etiam camelos, & onerant eos. Oues & Capras custodiunt mixtim & mungunt aliquando viri, aliquando mulieres. De lacte ouium inspissato & salso parant pelles. Cum 15 fundunt de ore suo super manus, & eadem humectant crines suos, & lauant caput suum. De nuptijs eorum noueritis, quod nemo habet ibi vxorem nisi emat eam: vnde aliquando sunt puellæ multum aduſtæ ante quam nubant: semper enim tenent eas parentes, donec vendant eas. Seruant etiam gradus consan-
 20 guinitatis primum & secundum: nullum autem seruant affinitatis. Habent enim simul vel successiue duas sorores. Nulla vidua nubit inter eos, hac ratione; quia credunt quod omnes qui seruiunt eis in hac vita seruiunt in futura. Vnde de vidua credunt, quod semper reuertitur post mortem ad primum maritum.
 25 Vnde accidit turpis consuetudo inter eos quod filius scilicet ducit aliquando omnes vxores patris sui, excepta matre. Curia enim patris & matris semper accidit iuniori filio. Vnde oportet quod ipse provideat omnibus vxoribus patris sui, quia adueniunt eæ cum curia paterna. Et tunc si vult vtitur eis pro vxoribus, quia non 30 reputat sibi iniuriam, si reuertatur ad patrem post mortem. Cum ergo aliquis fecerit pactum cum aliquo de filia accipienda, facit pater puellæ conuiuium, & illa fugit ad consanguineos, vt ibi lateat: Tunc pater dicit, Ecce filia mea tua est, accipe eam vbi-35 inueniat eam, & oportet, quod vi capiat eam, & ducat eam quasi violenter ad domum.

curiam domini. Et si alius post appellationem tangat eum, interficitur. Sed oportet quod statim absque dilatione vadat: Et ille qui passus est iniuriam ducit eum quasi captivum. Neminem puniunt capitali sententia, nisi deprehensus fuerit in facto, vel confessus. Sed quum diffamatus est à pluribus, bene torquent 5 eum, vt confiteatur. Homicidiū puniunt capitali sententia, & etiam coitum cum non sua. Non suam dico vel uxorem vel famulam: Sua enim sclaua licet vti | prout libet. Item enorme furtum puniunt morte. Pro leui furto, sicut pro vno ariete, dummodo non fuerit sæpe deprehensus in hoc, verberant crude- 10 liter. Et si dant centum ictus oportet quod habeant centum baculos, de illis dico, qui verberantur sententia curiæ. Item falsos nuncios, quia faciunt se nuncios & non sunt, interficiunt. Item sacrilegas, de quibus dicam vobis postea plenius, quia tales reputant veneficas. Quando aliquis moritur plangunt vehemēter 15 vlulando: & tunc sunt liberi quod non dant vectigal vsque ad annum. Et si quis interest morti alicujus adulti, non ingreditur domum ipsius Mangucham vsque ad annum. Si paruulus est qui moritur, non ingreditur vsque post lunationem. Iuxta sepulturam defuncti semper relinquunt domum vnā. Si est de nobilibus, hoc 20 est de genere Chingis, qui fuit primus pater & dominus eorum, illius qui moritur ignoratur sepultura: & semper circa loca illa vbi sepeliunt nobiles suos est vna herbergia hominum custodientium sepulturas. Non intellexi quod ipsi recondunt thesaurum cum mortuis. Comani faciunt magnum tumultum super defunctum 25 & erigunt ei statuam versa facie ad orientem, tenentem ciphum in manu sua ante vmbelicum. fabricant & diuitibus pyramides, id est domunculas acutas: & alicubi vidi magnas turres de tegulis coctis: alicubi lapideas domos, quamuis lapides non inueniantur ibi. Vidi quendam nouiter defunctum, cui suspenderant pelles 30 sexdecem equorum, ad quodlibet latus mundi quatuor inter perticas altas: & apposuerunt ei cosmos vt biberet, & carnes vt comederet: & tamen dicebant de illo quod fuerat baptizatus. Alias vidi sepulturas versus orientem. Areas scilicet magnas structas lapidibus, aliquas rotundas, aliquas quadratas, & postea 35 quatuor lapides longos erectos ad quatuor regiones mundi circa aream. Et vbi aliquis infirmatur cubat in lecto & ponit signum super domum suam, quod ibi est infirmus, & quod nullus ingrediat: vnde nullus visitat infirmum nisi seruiens eius. Quando etiam aliquis de magnis curijs infirmatur, ponunt custodes 40 longe circa curiam, qui infra illos terminos neminem permittunt transire: timent enim ne mali spiritus vel ventus veniant cum ingredientibus. Ipsos diuinatores vocant tanquam sacerdotes suos.

Qualiter ingressi sunt inter Tartaros, & de ingratitude eorum.

Q Vando ergo ingressi sumus inter illos barbaros, visum fuit mihi, vt dixi superius, quod ingrederer aliud sæculum.

5 Circumdederunt enim nos in equis postquam diu fecerant nos expectare sedentes in vmbra sub bigis nigris. Prima quæstio fuit, vtrum vnquam fuisset inter eos. habito quod non: in- ceperunt impudenter petere de cibarijs nostris, & dedimus de pane biscocto & vino quod attuleramus nobiscum de villa: &

10 potata vna lagena vini, petierunt aliam, dicentes, quod homo non ingreditur domum vno pede. non dedimus eis, excusantes nos quod parum haberemus. Tunc quæsiuerunt vnde veniremus, & quo vellemus ire. dixi eis superiora verba, quod audieramus de Sartach, quod esset Christianus, & quod vellem ire ad eum, quia

15 habebam deferre ei literas vestras. Ipsi diligenter quæsiuerunt, vtrum irem de mea voluntate, vel vtrum mitterer. Ego respondi quod nemo coegit me ad eundum, nec iuissem nisi voluissem: vnde de mea voluntate ibam, & etiam de voluntate superioris mei. Bene caui, quod nunquam dixi, me esse nuncium vestrum. Tunc

20 quæsiuerunt quid esset in bigis, vtrum esset aurum vel argentum, vel vestes preciosæ, quas deferrem Sartach. Ego respondi, quod Sartach videret quid deferremus ei, quando perueniremus ad eum; & quod non intererat eorum ista quærere: sed facerent me deduci vsque ad capitaneum suum, & ipse si vellet mihi præbere ducatum

25 vsque ad Sartach faceret: sin minus, reuerterer. Erat enim in illa prouincia vnus consanguineus Baatu, nomine Scacatai, cui dominus imperator Constantinopolitanus mittebat literas deprecatorias, quod me permetteret transire. Tunc ipsi acquieuerunt, præbentes nobis equos & boues & duos homines, qui deducerent

30 nos. Et alij qui adduxerant nos sunt reuersi. Prius tamen antequam prædicta darent, fecerunt nos diu expectare petentes de pane nostro pro parvulis suis: Et omnia quæ videbant super famulos nostros, cultellos, chirothecas, bursas, corrigias, omnia admirantes & volentes habere. Excusabam me, quia longa nobis

35 restabat via, nec debebamus ita cito spoliare nos rebus necessarijs ad tantam viam perficiendam. Tunc dicebant quod essem batrator. Verum est quod nihil abstulerint vi: Sed valde importune & impudenter petunt quæ vident. Et si dat homo eis perdit, quia sunt ingrati. Reputant se dominos mundi, & videtur eis,

40 quod nihil debeat eis negari ab aliquo. Si non dat, & postea indigeat seruicio eorum, male ministrant ei. Dederunt nobis bibere de lacte suo vaccino, a quo contractum erat butirum, acetoso valde, quod ipsi vocant Apram : & sic recessimus ab eis. Et visum fuit mihi recte, quod euasissem de manibus dæmonum. In crastino peruenimus ad capitaneum. Ex quo recessimus a Soldaia vsque ad Sartach in duobus mensibus nunquam iacui⁵mus in domo nec in tentorio, sed semper sub dio, vel sub bigis nostris, nec vidimus aliquam villam, vel vestigium alicujus ædificij vbi fuisset villa, nisi tumbas Comanorū in maxima multitudine. Illo sero dedit nobis garcio qui ducebat nos bibere cosmos ; ad cuius haustum totus sudaui propter horrorem & nouitatem, quia nun-¹⁰quam biberam de eo. valde tamen sapidum videbatur mihi, sicut vere est.

De curia Scacatay, & quod Christiani non bibunt cosmos.

MAne ergo obuiauius bigis Scacatay onustis domibus.¹⁵ Et videbatur mihi quod obuiaret mihi ciuitas magna. Mirabar etiam super multitudine armentorum boum & equorum & gregum ouium : paucos videbam homines qui ista gubernarent. vnde inquisiui quot homines haberet sub se? & dictum fuit mihi, quod non plusquam quingentos, quorum medietatem transi-²⁰ueramus in alia herbergia. Tunc incepit mihi dicere garcio qui ducebat nos, quod aliquid oporteret Scacatay dare : & ipse fecit nos stare, & præcessit nuncians aduentum nostrum. Iam erat hora plusquam tertia, & deposuerunt domos suas iuxta quandam aquam. Et venit ad nos interpret ipsius, qui statim cognito,²⁵ quod nunquam fueramus inter illos, poposcit de cibis nostris, & dedimus ei, poscebat etiam vestimentum aliquod, quia dicturus erat verbū nostrum ante dominum suum. Excusauimus nos. Quæsiuit quid portaremus domino suo? Accepimus vnum flasconem de vino, & impleuimus vnum veringal de biscocō & platellum³⁰ vnum de pomis & aliis fructibus. Sed non placebat ei, quia non ferebamus aliquem pannum pretiosum. Sic tamen ingressi sumus cum timore & verecundia. Sedebat ipse in lecto suo tenens citharulam in manu, & vxor sua iuxta eum : de qua credebā in veritate, quod amputasset sibi nasum inter oculos vt simior esset :³⁵ nihil enim habebat ibi de naso, & vnxerat locum illum quodam vnguento nigro, & etiam supercilia : quod erat turpissimum in oculis nostris. Tunc dixi ei verba supradicta. Vbique enim oportebat nos dicere idem verbum. Super hoc enim eram⁴⁰us bene præmoniti ab illis qui fuerant inter illos, quod nunquam mutaremus verba nostra. Rogavi etiam eum ut dignaretur accipere munusculum de manu nostra, excusans me, quia monachus eram, nec erat ordinis nostri possidere aurum, vel argentum, vel vestes preciosas. Vnde non habebam aliquid talium, quod possem

 5 ei dare: sed de cibis nostris acciperet pro benedictione. Tunc fecit recipi, & distribuit statim hominibus suis qui conuenerant ad potandum. Dedi etiam ei literas Imperatoris Constantinopolitani: (Hoc fuit in octauis ascensionis) Qui statim eas Soldaiam misit ut ibi interpretarentur: quia erant in Græco, nec habebat
 15 secum qui sciret literas Græcas. Quæsiuit etiam à nobis, si vellemus bibere cosmos, hoc est, lac iumentinum. Christiani enim Ruteni, Græci, & Alani, qui sunt inter eos, qui volunt stricte custodire legem suam, non bibunt illud: Imo non reputant se Christianos postquam biberunt. Et sacerdotes eorum reconciliant 25 eos, tanquam negassent fidem Christianam. Ego respondi, quod habebamus adhuc sufficienter ad bibendum: & cum ille potus deficeret nobis, oporteret nos bibere illud, quod daretur nobis. Quæsiuit etiam quid contineretur in literis nostris, quas mittebatis Sartach. Dixi quod clausæ erant bullæ nostræ: & quod non 30 erant in eis nisi bona verba & amicabilia. Quæsiuit & quæ verba diceremus Sartach? Respondi, Verba fidei Christianæ. Quæsiuit quæ? Quia libenter vellet audire. Tunc exposui ei prout potui per interpretem meum, qui nullius erat ingenij, nec alicuius eloquentiæ, symbolū fidei. Quo audito, ipse tacuit & mouit caput.
 35 Tunc assignauit nobis duos homines, qui nos custodirent, & equos & boues: & fecit nos bigare secum, donec reuerteretur nuncius, quem ipse miserat pro interpretatione literarum imperatoris; & iuimus cum eo vsque in crastinum Pentecostes.

Qualiter Alani venerunt ad eos in vigilia Pentecostes.

IN vigilia Pentecostes venerunt ad nos quidam Alani, qui ibi dicuntur *Acias, Christiani secundum ritum Græcorum; habentes literas Græcas & sacerdotes Græcos: tamen non sunt schismatici sicut Græci; sed sine acceptione personarum vene-35 rantur omnem Christianum: & detulerunt nobis carnes coctas, rogantes ut comederemus de cibo eorum, & oraremus pro quodam defuncto eorum. Tunc dixi quod vigilia erat tantæ solennitatis, quod illa die non comederemus carnes. Et exposui eis de solennitate, super quo fuerunt multum gauisi; quia omnia ignorabant quæ spectant ad ritum Christianum, solo nomine Christi excepto. Quæsiuerunt & ipsi & alij multi Christiani, Ruteni & Hungari, vtrum possent saluari, quia oportebat eos bibere cosmos, & comedere morticina & interfecta à Saracenis & alijs infidelibus: | quæ 5 etiam ipsi Græci & Ruteni sacerdotes reputant quasi morticina vel idolis immolata: quia ignorabant tempora ieiunij: nec poterant custodire etiam si cognouissent. Tunc rectificabar eos prout potui, docens & confortans in fide. Carnes quas detulerant reseruauimus vsque ad diem festum: nihil enim inueniebamus venale pro auro 10 & argento, nisi pro telis & alijs *pannis: & illos non habebamus. Quum famuli nostri offerebant eis ipperpera, ipsi fricabant digitis, & ponebant ad nares, vt odore sentirent, vtrum essent cuprum. Nec dabant nobis cibum nisi lac vaccinum acre valde & fœtidum. Vinum iam deficiebat nobis. Aqua ita turbabatur ab equis, quod 15 non erat potabilis. Nisi fuisset biscoctum quod habebamus, & gratia dei, fortè fuissetis mortui.

De Saraceno qui dixit se velle baptizarj, et de hominibus qui apparent leprosi.

IN die pentecostes venit ad nos quidam Saracenus, qui cum 20 loqueretur nobiscum, incepimus exponere fidem. Qui audiens beneficia dei exhibita humano generi in incarnatione Christi, & resurrectionem mortuorum, & iudicium futurum, & quod ablutio peccatorum esset in baptismo: dixit se velle baptizari. Et cum pararemus nos ad baptizandum eum, ipse subito ascendit equum 25 suum, dicens se iturum domum & habiturum consilium cum vxore sua. Qui in crastino loquens nobiscum, dixit quod nullo modo auderet accipere baptisma, quia tunc non biberet cosmos. Christiani enim illius loci hoc dicebant, quod nullus verus Christianus deberet bibere: & sine potu illo non posset viuere in solitudine 30 illa. A qua opinione nullo modo potui diuertere illum. Vnde noueritis pro certo quod multū elongantur à fide propter illam opinionem quæ iam viguit inter illos per Rutenos, quorum maxima multitudo est inter eos. Illa die dedit nobis ille capitaneus vnum hominem, qui nos deduceret vsque ad Sartach: & duos qui duce- 35 rent nos vsque ad proximam herbergiam; quæ inde distabat quinque dietas prout boues poterant ire. Dederunt etiam nobis vnam capram pro cibo & plures vtres lactis vaccini, & de cosmos

- parum : quia illud preciosum est inter illos. Et sic arripientes iter rectè in aquilonem, visum fuit mihi quod vnam portam inferni transissemus. Garciones qui ducebant nos, incipiebant nobis audacter furari, quia videbant nos parum cautos. Tandem amissis pluribus vexatio dabat nobis intellectum. Peruenimus tandem ad extremitatem illius prouinciæ, quæ clauditur vno fossato ab vno mari vsque ad aliud : extra quam erat herbergia eorum apud quos intrassemus : videbantur nobis leprosi omnes : quia erant viles homines ibi collocati, vt reciperent tributum ab accipientibus sal a salinis superius dictis. Ab illo loco, vt dicebant, oportebat nos ambulare quindecim diebus, quibus non inueniremus populum. Cum illis bibimus cosmos : & dedimus illis vnum veringal plenum fructibus & panem biscoctum. Qui dederunt nobis octo boues, vnam capram pro tanto itinere, & nescio quot vtres plenos lacte vaccino. Sic mutatis bobus arripuimus iter, quod perfecimus decem diebus vsque ad aliam herbergiam : nec inuenimus aquam in illa via nisi in fossis in conuallibus factis, exceptis duobus paruis fluminibus. Et tendebamus rectè in orientem ex quo exiuimus prædictam prouinciam Gasariæ, habentes mare ad meridiem & vastam solitudinem ad aquilonem : quæ durat per viginti dietas alicubi in latitudine : In qua nulla est sylua, nullus mons, nullus lapis. Herba est optima. In hac solebant pascere Comani, qui dicuntur Capchat. A Tentonicis verò dicuntur Valani, & prouincia Valani. Ab Isidoro vero dicitur à flumine Tanai vsque ad paludes Meotidis & Danubium Alania. Et durat ista terra in longitudine a Danubio vsque Tanaim ; qui est terminus Asiæ & Europæ, itinere duorum mensium velociter equitando prout equitant Tartari : Quæ tota inhabitabatur à Comanis Capchat, & etiam vltra à Tanai vsque *Etiliam : Inter quæ flumina sunt decem dietæ magnæ. Ad aquilonem verò istius prouinciæ iacet Russia, quæ vbique syluas habet, & protenditur à Polonia & Hungaria vsque Tanaim : quæ tota vastata est à Tartaris, & adhuc quotidie vastatur. Præponunt enim Rutenis, quia sunt Christiani, Sarcenos : & cum non possunt amplius dare aurum vel argentum, ducunt eos & paruulos eorum tanquam greges ad solitudinem vt custodiant animalia eorum. Vltra Russiam ad aquilonem est Prussia, quam nuper subiugauerunt totam fratres Teutonici. Et certe de facili acquirerent Russiam, si apponerent manum. Si enim Tartari audirent, quod magnus sacerdos, hoc est, Papa faceret cruce signari contra eos, omnes fugerent ad solitudines suas.

I Bbanus ergo versus orientem, nihil videntes nisi cœlum & terram, & aliquando mare ad dextram, quod dicitur Mare Tanais, & etiam sepulturas Comanorum, quæ apparebant nobis 5 à | duabus leucis secundum quod solebant parentelæ eorum sepeliri simul. Quam diu eramus in solitudine bene erat nobis: quòd tedium quod patiebar quum veniebanus ad mansiones eorum non possem exprimere verbis. Volebat enim dux noster, quod ad quoslibet capitaneos ingrederer cum xenio: & ad hoc non suffi- 10 ciebant expensæ. Quotidie enim eramus octo personæ comedentes viaticum nostrum exceptis seruiantibus, qui omnes volebant comedere nobiscum. Nos enim eramus quinque, & ipsi tres qui ducebant nos: duo ducentes bigas, & vnus iturus nobiscum vsque ad Sartach. Carnes quas dabant non sufficebant; nec inueniebamus aliquid 15 venale pro moneta. Et cum sedebamus sub bigis nostris pro vmbra, quia calor erat ibi maximus illo tempore, ipsi ita importune ingerebant se nobis, quod conculcabant nos, volentes omnia nostra videre. Si arripiebat eos appetitus purgandi ventrem, non elongabant se a nobis, quam possit faba iactari. Imo iuxta nos collo- 20 quentes mutuò faciebant immunditias suas: & multa alia faciebant quæ erant supra modum tediola. Super omnia grauabat me, quod cum volebam dicere eis aliquod verbum ædificationis, interpres meus dicebat, non facietis me prædicare; quia nescio talia verba dicere. Et verum dicebat. Ego enim perpendi postea, quum incepi 25 aliquantulum intelligere idioma, quod quum dicebam vnum, ipse totum aliud dicebat, secundum quod ei occurrebat. Tunc videns periculum loquendi per ipsum, elegi magis tacere. Ambulauimus ergo cum magno labore de mansionem in mansionem: ita quod paucis diebus ante festum beatæ Mariæ Magdalenæ veni ad fluuium 30 magnum Tanais: qui diuidit Asiam ab Europa, sicut Nilus fluius Ægypti, Asiam ab Africa. In illo loco quo applicuimus fecerunt Baatu & Sartach fieri quoddam casale de Rutenis in ripa orientali, qui transferunt nuncios & mercatores cum nauculis. Ipsi trans- 35 tulerunt nos primo & postea bigas ponentes vnam rotam in vna barca & aliam in alia, ligantes barcas ad inuicem; & sic remigantes transibant. Ibi egit dux noster valde stulte. Ipse enim credebatur, quod illi de casali deberent nobis ministrare equos, & dimisit animalia quæ adduxeramus in alia biga, vt redirent ad dominos suos. Et quum postulauimus ab eis animalia, ipsi respondebant 40 quod habebant priuilegiū à Baatu, quod non tenerentur ad aliud, nisi transferre euntes & redeuntes : etiam à mercatoribus accipiebant magnum tributum. Stetimus ergo ibi in ripa fluminis tribus diebus. Prima die dederunt nobis magnam borbatam recentem : secunda die panem de siligine & parum de carnibus, quas accepit procurator villæ ostiatim per diuersas domos. Tertia die pisces siccos, quos habent ibi in magna multitudine. Fluius ille erat ibi tantæ latitudinis, quantæ est Sequana Parisijs. Et antequam peruenissemus ad locum illum, transiuimus multas aquas pulcherrimas & piscosissimas : Sed Tartari nesciunt eos capere : nec curant de pisce nisi sit ita magnus, quod possunt comedere carnes eius, sicut carnes arietinas. Ille fluius est terminus Orientalis Russiæ ; & oritur de paludibus quæ pertingunt ad Oceanum ad aquilonem. Fluius vero currit ad meridiem in quoddam magnum Mare septingentorum millium, antequam pertingat ad Mare Ponti : Et omnes aquæ quas transiuimus vadunt ad illas partes. Habet etiam prædictum flumen magnam syluam in ripa Occidentali. Ultra locum illum non ascendunt Tartari versus Aquilonem : quia tunc temporis *circa introitum Augusti incipiunt redire versus meridiem. Vnde aliud est casale inferius vbi trans-eunt nuncij tempore hyemali. Eramus igitur ibi in magna angustia, quia nec equos nec boues inueniebamus pro pecunia. Tandem postquam ostendi eis, quod laboraui pro communi vtilitate omnium Christianorum, accommodauerunt nobis boues & homines : nos autem oportebat ire pedibus. Tunc temporis metebant siliginem : triticum non proficiebat ibi bene. Milium habent in magna copia. Mulieres Rutenæ ornant capita sicut nostræ. Supertunica sua exterius ornant vario vel grisio a pedibus vsque ad genua. Homines portant capas sicut Teutonici : sed in capite portant pileos de filtro acutos in summitate longo acumine. Ambulauius ergo tribus diebus non inuenientes populum. Et cum essemus valde fatigati & boues similiter, nec sciremus quorsum possemus Tartaros inuenire, accurrerunt subito duo equi, quos recepimus cum gaudio magno, & ascenderunt eos dux noster & interpres, vt specularentur quorsum possemus populum inuenire. Tandem quarta die inuentis hominibus gauisi sumus tanquam naufragi venientes ad portum. Tunc acceptis equis & bobus iuimus de mansionem ad mansionem donec peruenimus vsque ad herbergiam Sartach secundo Calendas Augusti.

R Egio ista vltra Tanaim est pulcherrima, habens flumina & syluas ad aquilonem. Sunt syluæ maximæ, quas inhabitant duo genera hominum: Moxel scilicet, qui sunt sine lege, puri pagani. Ciuitatem non habent sed casulas in syluis. 5 Dominus eorum & magna pars eorum fuerunt interfecti in Alemania. Tartari enim duxerant eos ad introitum Alemaniae. Vnde ipsi multum commendant Alemanos, sperantes quod adhuc liberabuntur per eos à seruitute Tartarorum. Si mercator veniat ad eos, oportet quod ille apud quem primo descendit prouideat ei quamdiu vult esse inter eos. Si quis dormiat cum vxore alterius, ille non curat nisi videat proprijs oculis: vnde non sunt Zelotypi. Abundant apud eos porci, mel, & cera, pelles preciosæ, & falcones. Post illos sunt alij qui dicuntur Merdas, quos latini vocant Merduos, & sunt Saraceni. Post illos est 15 *Etilia, quæ est maior fluuius, quam vnquam viderim: & venit ab Aquilone de maiori Bulgaria tendens ad meridiem: & cadit in quendam lacum habentem spacium quatuor mensium in circuitu, de quo postea dicam vobis. Ista ergo duo flumina Tanais & Etilia versus regiones Aquilonis per quas transiuimus non distant ab inuicem nisi decem dietis, sed ad meridiem multum diuiduntur ab inuicem. Tanais enim descendit in Mare Ponti: Etilia facit prædictum Mare siue lacum, cum alijs multis fluminibus, quæ cadunt in illum de Perside. Habebamus autem ad meridiem montes maximos in quibus habitant in lateribus versus 25 solitudinem illam Cergis & Alani siue †Acas, qui sunt Christiani & adhuc pugnant contra Tartaros. Post istos prope Mare siue lacum, Etiliæ sunt quidam Saraceni qui dicuntur Lesgi, qui similiter obediunt. Post hos est Porta ferrea, quam fecit Alexander ad excludendas Barbaras gentes de Perside: de cuius situ dicam 30 vobis postea, ‡quia transiui per eam in reditu. Et inter ista duo flumina in illis terris per quas transiuimus habitabant Comani antequam Tartari occuparent eas.

De Curia Sartach & de gloria eius.

& filius eius primogenitus iuxta eum duas vel tres : & quælibet habet domum magnam & bigas forte ducentas. Accessit autem ductor noster ad quendam Nestorinum Coiat nomine, qui est vnus de maioribus Curia suæ. Ille fecit nos ire valde longe ad
5 domini Iannam. Ita vocant illum qui habet officium recipiendi nuncios. In sero præcepit nobis dictus Coiat, vt veniremus ad eum. Tunc incepit quærere ductor noster quid portaremus ei, & cœpit multum scandalizari, quum vidit quod nihil parabamus ad portandum. Stetimus coram eo, & ipse sedebat in gloria sua
10 & faciebat sonare citharam & saltare coram se. Tunc dixi ei verba prædicta qualiter veniremus ad dominum eius, rogans eum vt iuuaret nos vt Dominus eius videret literas nostras. Excusauit etiam me quia monachus eram, non habens, nec recipiens, nec tractans aurum vel argentum vel aliquid preciosum, solis libris
15 & capella in qua seruiebamus deo exceptis : vnde nullum xenium afferebamus ei nec domino suo. Qui enim propria dimiseram, non poteram portator esse alienorum. Tunc respondit satis mansuete, quod bene faciebam ex quo eram monachus : sic seruarem votum meum, & non indigebat rebus nostris ; sed
20 magis daret nobis de suis, si indigeremus : & fecit nos sedere & bibere de lacte suo. Et post pauca rogauit vt diceremus benedictionem pro eo, quod & fecimus. Quæsiuit & quis esset maior dominus inter Francos. Dixi, Imperator, si haberet terram suam in pace. Non, inquit, sed Rex Franciæ. Audiuerat enim
25 de vobis à domino Baldewyno de Hannonia. Inueni etiam ibi vnum de Socijs domus Dominicæ, qui fuerat in Cypro, qui narrauerat omnia quæ viderat. Tunc reuersi sumus ad hospitium nostrum. In crastino misi ei vnum flasconem de vino Muscato, quod optime se custodierat in tam longa via ; & cophinum plenum
30 biscoccto quod fuit ei gratissimum, & retinuit illo sero famulos nostros secum. In crastino mandauit mihi quod venirem ad curiam ; afferens literas regis & capellam & libros mecum, quia dominus suus vellet videre ea : quod & fecimus, onerantes vnam bigam libris & capella, & aliam pane & vino & fructibus. Tunc
35 fecit omnes libros & vestes explicari, & circumstabant nos in equis multi Tartari & Christiani & Saraceni : quibus inspectis, quæsiuit, si vellem ista omnia dare domino suo, quo audito, expaui, & displicuit mihi verbum, dissimulans tamen respondi, domine rogamus, quatenus dominus noster dignetur recipere panem istum, 40 vinum & fructus non pro xenio quia exiguum quid est, sed pro benedictione, ne vacua manu veniamus coram eo. Ipse autem videbit literas domini regis, & per eas sciet, qua de causa venimus ad eum : & tunc stabimus mandato eius nos & omnes res nostræ.

[p. 83]

Vestes enim sanctæ sunt, & non licet eas contingere nisi sacerdotibus. Tunc præcepit quod indueremus nos ituri coram domino suo: quod & fecimus. Ego autem indutus preciosioribus vestibus accepi in pectore pulvinar, quod erat valde pulchrum, & biblium quod dederatis mihi, psalterium pulcherrimum, quod 5 dederat mihi domina regina, in quo erant picturæ pulchræ. Socius meus accepit missale & crucem, clericus indutus supercilicio accepit thuribulum: sic accessimus ante dominum eius: & leuauerunt | filtrum quod pendebat ante ostium vt nos posset videre. Tunc fecerunt flectere genua ter clerico & interpreti: 10 à nobis non requisierunt. Tunc monuerunt nos valde diligenter, vt caueremus ingrediendo & egrediendo ne tangeremus limen domus, & vt cantaremus aliquam benedictionem pro eo. Tunc ingressi suinus cantando, Salue regina. In introitu autem ostij stabat bancus cum cosmos & cum ciphis. Et conuenerant omnes 15 vxores eius: & ipsi Moal. Ingredients nobiscum comprimebant nos. Illic Coiac tulit ei thuribulum cum incenso, quod ipse respexit, tenens in manu diligenter: postea tulit ei psalterium quod valde respexit, & vxor eius sedens iuxta eum. Postea tulit biblium, & ipse quæsiuit, si euangelium esset ibi. Dixi, etiam tota Scriptura Sacra. Accepit etiam crucem in manu sua, & quæsiuit de imagine, vtrum esset imago Christi? Respondi quod sic. Ipsi Nestoriani & Armeni nunquam faciunt super cruces suas figuram Christi. Vnde videntur male sentire de passione, vel erubescunt eam. Postea fecit circumstantes nos retrahere se, vt plenius posset 25 videre ornamenta nostra. Tunc obtuli ei literas vestras cum transcriptis in Arabico & Syriano. Feceram enim eas transferri in Acon in vtraque litera & lingua. Et ibi erant sacerdotes Armeni, qui sciebant Turcicum & Arabicum, & Ille Socius domus Domini qui sciebat Syriacum, & Turcicum & Arabicum. Tunc 30 exiimus & deposuimus vestimenta nostra: & venerunt scriptores & ille Coiac, & fecerunt literas interpretari. Quibus auditis, fecit recipi panem & vinum & fructus: vestimenta & libros fecit nos reportare ad hospitium. Hoc actum est in festo Sancti Petri ad vincula.

35

Qualiter habuerunt in mandatis adire Baatu patrem Sartach.

IN crastino mane venit quidam sacerdos frater ipsius Coiac postulans vasculum cum chrismate, quia Sartach volebat illud videre, vt dicebat, & dedimus ei. Hora vespertina vocauit 40

nos Coiac, dicens nobis: Dominus rex scripsit bona verba Domino meo: Sed sunt in eis difficilia, de quibus nihil auderet facere, sine consilio patris sui. Vnde oportet vos ire ad patrem suum, & duas bigas quas adduxistis heri cum vestimentis & libris 5 dimittetis mihi, quia Dominus meus vult res diligentius videre.
 Ego statim suspicatus sum malum de cupiditate eius, & dixi ei.
 Domine, non solum illas sed etiam duas quas adhuc habemus relinquemus sub custodia vestra. Non inquit, illas relinquetis, de alijs facietis velle vestrum. Dixi quod hoc nullo modo posset 10 fieri. Sed totam dimitteremus ei. Tunc quæsiuit si vellemus morari in terra? Ego dixi, Si bene intellexistis literas domini regis, potestis scire, quod sic. Tunc dixit, quod oporteret nos esse patientes multum, & humiles. Sic discessimus ab eo illo sero. In crastino mane misit vnum sacerdotem Nestorinum pro 15 bigis, & nos duximus omnes quatuor. Tunc occurrens nobis frater ipsius Coiacis, sepeperat omnia nostra ab ipsis rebus quas tuleramus pridie ad curiam, & illa accepit tanquam sua, scilicet libros & vestimenta: & Coiac præceperat, quod ferremus nobiscum vestimenta quibus induti fueramur coram Sartach vt illis 20 indueremur coram Baatu si expediret: quas ille sacerdos abstulit nobis vi, dicens: Tu attulisti eas ad Sartach, modo vis ferre Baatu?
 Et cum vellem ei reddere rationem, respondit mihi, Ne loquaris nimis, & vade viam tuam. Tunc necessaria fuit patientia, quia apud Sartach, non patebat nobis ingressus; nec aliquis erat, qui 25 nobis exhiberet iusticiam. Timebam etiam de interprete, ne ipse aliquid aliter dixisset, quam ego dixissem ei: quia ipse bene voluisset, quod de omnibus fecissemus xenium. Vnum erat mihi solacium, quia quum persensi cupiditatem eorum, ego subtraxi de libris Biblium & sententias, & alios libros quos magis dili-30 gebam. Psalterium dominæ reginæ non fui ausus subtrahere, quia illud fuerat nimis notatum propter aureas picturas quæ erant in eo. Sic ergo reuersi sumus cum duobus residuis bigis ad hospitium nostrum. Tunc venit ille, qui debebat ducere nos ad
 Baatu, volens cum festinatione arripere iter: cui dixi quod nulla 35 ratione ducerem bigas. Quod ipse retulit ad Coiac. Tunc præ-cepit Coiac quod relinqueremus eas apud ipsum cum gacione nostro: quod & fecimus. Sic ergo euntes versus Baatu recta in Orientem, tertia die peruenimus ad Etiliam: cuius aquas cum vidi, mirabar vnde ab Aquilone descenderunt tantæ aquæ. Ante-40 quam recederemus à Sartach, dixit nobis supradictus Coiac cum alijs multis scriptoribus curiæ, Nolite dicere quod dominus noster sit Christianus, sed Moal. Quia nomen Christianitatis videtur eis nomen cuiusdam gentis. In tantam superbiam sunt erecti, quod

quamuis aliquid forte credant de Christo, tamen nolunt dici Christiani volentes nomen suum, hoc est, | Moal exaltare super omne nomen. Nec volunt vocari Tartari : Tartari enim fuerunt alia gens de quibus sic didici.

faciunt reuerentiam Christianis.

Con can.

TEmpore quo Franci ceperunt Antiochiam tenebat monarchiam in illis lateribus Aquilonis quidam qui vocabatur Concan. Con est proprium nomen : Can nomen dignitatis quod idem est qui diuinator. Omnes diuinatores vocant Can. Vnde principes 10 dicuntur Can, quia penes eos spectat regimen populi per diuinationem. Vnde legitur in historia Antiochiæ, quod Turci miserunt propter succursum contra Francos ad regnum Con can. De illis enim partibus venerunt omnes Turci. Iste Con erat Cara-Catay. Cara idem est quod nigrum. Catai nomen gentis. Vndè Cara- 15 Catay idem est quod nigri Catay. Et hoc dicitur ad differentiam ipsorum Catay qui erant in Oriente super Oceanum de quibus postea dicam vobis. Isti Catay erant in quibusdam alpibus per quas transiui. Et in quadam planicie inter illas Alpes erat quidam Nestorinus pastor potens & dominus super populum, 20 qui dicebatur Yayman, qui erant Christiani Nestorini. Mortuo Con can eleuauit se ille Nestorius in regem, & vocabant eum Nestoriani Regem Iohannem : & plus dicebant de ipso in decuplo quàm veritas esset. Ita enim faciunt Nestoriani venientes de partibus illis. De nihilo enim faciunt magnos rumores. Vnde 25 disseminauerunt de Sartach quod esset Christianus, & de Mangu Can & Ken can : quia faciunt maiorem reuerentiam Christianis, quàm alijs populis, & tamen in veritate Christiani non sunt. Sic ergo exiuit magna fama de illo Rege Iohanne. Et quando ego transiui per pascua eius, nullus aliquid sciebat de eo nisi Nestoriani 30 pauci. In pascuis eius habitat Kencam, apud cuius curiam fuit frater Andreas : & ego etiam transiui per eam in reditu. Huic Iohanni erat frater quidam potens, pastor similiter, nomine Vut : & ipse erat vltra Alpes ipsorum Caracatay, distans à fratre suo spacium trium hebdomadarum & erat dominus cuiusdam 35 Villulæ quæ dicitur Caracarum, populum habens sub se, qui dicebantur Crit, Merkit, qui erant Christiani Nestorini. Sed ipse dominus eorum dimisso cultu Christi, sectabatur idola ; habens sacerdotes idolorum, qui omnes sunt inuocatores dæmonum & sortilegi. Vltra pascua istius ad decem vel quindecim dietas 40

erant pascua Moal : qui erant pauperrimi homines sine capitaneo & sine lege, exceptis sortilegijs & diuinationibus, quibus omnes in partibus illis intendunt. Et iuxta Moal erant alij pauperes, qui dicebantur Tartari. Rex Iohannes mortuus fuit sine hærede, 5 & ditatus est frater eius Vnc ; & faciebat se vocari Can : & mitte-bantur armenta greges eius vsque ad terminos Moal. Tunc temporis Chingis faber quidam erat in populo Moal : & fura-batur de animalibus Vnc can quod poterat : In tantum quod conquesti sunt pastores Vut domino suo. Tunc congregauit 10 exercitum & equitauit in terram Moal, quærens ipsum Cyngis.
 Et ille fugit inter Tartaros & latuit ibi. Tunc ipse Vut accepta prædà Moal & à Tartaris reuersus est. Tunc ipse Cyngis allocutus est Tartaros & ipsos Moal dicens, Quia sine duce sumus opprimunt nos vicini nostri. Et fecerunt ipsum ducem & capitaneum 15 Tartari & Moal. Tunc latenter congregato exercitu irruit super ipsum Vut, & vicit ipsum, & ipse fugit in Cathaiam. Ibi capta fuit filia eius, quam Cyngis dedit vni ex filijs in vxorem, ex quo ipsa suscepit istum qui nunc regnat Mangu. Tunc ipse Cyngis 20 quia vbique clamabatur, Ecce Tartari veniunt. Sed per crebra bella modo omnes fere deleti sunt. Vnde isti Moal modo volunt extinguere illud nomen, & suum eleuare. Terra illa in qua primo fuerunt, & vbi est adhuc curia Cyngiscan, vocatur Mancherule.
 Sed quia Tartari est regio circa quam fuit acquisitio eorum, illam

DE Sartach autem vtrum credit in Christum vel non nescio.
 Hoc scio quod Christianus non vult dici. Immo magis 30 videtur mihi deridere Christianos. Ipse enim est in itinere Christianorum, scilicet Rutenorum, Blacorum, Bulgarorum minoris Bulgariæ, Soldainorum, Kerkisorum, Alanorum : qui omnes trans-eunt per eum quum vadunt ad curiam patris sui deferre ei munera, vnde magis amplectitur eos. Tamen si Saraceni veniant, 35 & maius afferant, citiùs expediuntur. Habet etiam circa se Nestorinos sacerdotes, qui pulsant tabulam, & cantant officium suum.

Est alius qui dicitur Berta super Baatu, qui pascit versus eum, deferunt ei munera. Et ille facit se Saracenum, & non permittit in terra sua comedi carnes porcinas. Baatu in reditu nostro præceperat ei, quod transferret se de illo loco vltra Etiliam ad Orientem, nolens nuncios Saracenorum transire per eum, quia videbatur sibi damnosum.

Quatuor autem diebus quibus fuimus in curia Sartach, nunquam prouisum fuit nobis de cibo, nisi semel de modico cosmos. In via verò inter ipsum & patrem suum habuimus magnum timorem. Ruteni enim & Hungari, & Alani serui eorum, quorum est magna multitudo inter eos, associant se viginti vel triginta simul, & fugiunt de nocte, habentes pharetras & arcus, & quemcunque inueniunt de nocte interficiunt, de die latitantes. Et quando sunt equi eorum fatigati veniunt de nocte ad multitudinem equorum in pascuis, & mutant equos, & vnum vel duos ducunt secum, vt comedant quum indigerint. Occursum ergo talium timebat multum Dux noster. In illa via fuissemus mortui fame, si non portauissemus nobiscum modicum de biscoccto.

Venimus tandem ad Etiliam maximum flumen. Est enim in quadruplo maius quàm Sequana, & profundissimum: Veniens de maiori Bulgaria, quæ est ad Aquilonem, tendens in quandam lacum, siue quoddam mare, quod modò vocant mare Sircan, à quadam ciuitate, quæ est iuxta ripam eius in Perside. Sed Isidorus vocat illud mare Caspium. Habet enim montes Caspios, & Persidem à meridie: montes verò Musihet, hoc est, Assassinorum ad Orientem, qui contiguntur cum montibus Caspijs: Ad Aquilonem verò habet illam solitudinem, in qua modò sunt Tartari. Prius verò erant ibi quidam qui dicebantur Canglæ: Et ex illo latere recipit Etiliam, qui crescit in æstate sicut Nilus Ægypti. Ad Occidentem verò habet montes Alanorum & Lesgi; & Portam feream, & montes Georgianorum. Habet igitur illud mare tria latera inter montes, Aquilonare verò habet ad planiciem. Frater Andreas ipse circumdedit duo latera eius, meridionale scilicet & Orientale. Ego verò alia duo; Aquilonare scilicet in eundo à Baatu ad Mangu cham, Occidentale verò in reuertendo de Baatu in Syriam. Quatuor mensibus potest circumdari. Et non est verum quod dicit Isidorus, quòd sit sinus exiens ab Oceano: nusquam enim tangit Oceanum, sed vndique circumdatur terra.

- Tota illa regio à latere Occidentali istius maris, vbi sunt Porta ferrea Alexandri, & montes Alanorum, vsq; ad Oceanum Aquilonarem & paludes Mæotidis vbi mergitur Tanais, solebat
 5 dici Albania : de qua dicit Isidorus, quòd habet canes ita magnos, tantæque feritatis, vt tauros premant, leones perimant. Quod verū est, prout intellexi à narrantibus, quod ibi versus Oceanum Aquilonarem faciunt canes trahere in bigis sicut boues propter magnitudinem & fortitudinem eorum. In illo ergo loco vbi nos
 10 applicuimus super Etiliam est casale nouum, quod fecerunt Tartari de Rutenis mixtim, qui transponunt nuncios euntes, & redeuntes ad curiam Baatu : quia Baatu est in vltiori ripa versus Orientem : nec transit illum locum vbi nos applicuimus ascendendo in æstate, sed iam incipiebat descendere. De Ianuario enim
 15 vsque ad Augustum ascendit ipse, & omnes alij versus frigidas regiones, & in Augusto incipiunt redire. Descendimus ergo in naui ab illo casali vsque ad curiam eius. Et ab illo loco vsque ad villas maioris Bulgarię versus Aquilonem, sunt quinque dietæ. Et miror quis Diabolus portauit illuc legem Machometi. A 20 Porta enim ferrea, quæ est exitus Persidis, sunt plusquam triginta dietæ per transuersum, solitudinem ascendendo iuxta Etiliam vsque in illam Bulgariam, vbi nulla est ciuitas, nisi quædam casalia propè vbi cadit Etilia in mare. Et illi Bulgari sunt pessimi Saraceni, fortius tenentes legem Machometi, quàm aliqui alij.
 25 Quum ergo vidi curiam Baatu, expaui : quia videbantur propè domus eius, quasi quædam magna ciuitas protensa in lōgum, & populus vndiq; circumfusus, vsq; ad tres vel quatuor leucas. Et sicut populus Israel sciebat vnusquisq; ad quam regionem tabernaculi deberet figere tentoria : ita ipsi sciunt ad quod latus curiæ
 30 debeant se collocare, quando ipsi deponunt domus. Vnde dicitur curia Orda lingua eorum, quod sonat medium, quia semper est in medio hominum suorum : hoc excepto, quod rectà ad meridiem nullus se collocat, quia ad partem illam aperiuntur portæ Curiae : Sed à dextris & à sinistris extendunt se quantum volunt secundum 35 exigentiam locorum : dummodo rectè ante curiam, vel ex opposito curiæ non descendunt. Fuimus ergo ducti ad quendam Saracenum, qui non prouidebat nobis de aliquo cibo : sequenti die fuimus ad curiam, & fecerat extendi magnum tentorium, quia domus non potuisset capere tot homines & mulieres, quot conuenerant. Monuit nos ductor noster vt non loqueremur, donec Baatu præciperet : & tunc loqueremur breuiter. Quæsiuit etiam vtrum misissetis nuncios ad eos. Dixi qualiter miseratis ad Kencham, & quod nec ad ipsum misissetis nuncios, nec ad Sartach literas, nisi credidissetis eos fuisse Christianos : quia non pro timore aliquo, sed ex congratulatione, quia audiueratis eos esse Christianos, misistis. Tunc duxit nos ad papilionem : & 5 monebamur, ne tangeremus cordas tentorij, quas ipsi reputant loco liminis domus. Stetimus ibi nudis pedibus in habitu nostro discoopertis capitibus, & eramus spectaculum magnum in oculis eorum. Fuerat enim ibi frater Iohannes de Plano carpini, sed ipse mutauerat habitum ne contemneretur ; quia erat nuncius 10 Domini Papæ. Tunc inducti fuimus vsque ad medium tentorij, nec requisierunt vt faceremus aliquam reuerentiam genua flec-tendo, sicut solent facere nuncij. Stetimus ergo coram eo quantum possit dici, Miserere mei Deus : & omnes erant in summo silentio.

Ipse verò super solium longum sedebat & latum sicut lectus, totum 15 deauratum, ad quod ascendebatur tribus gradibus, & vna domina iuxta eum. Viri vero diffusi sedebant à dextris dominæ & à sinistris : quod non implebant mulieres ex parte vna, quia erant ibi solæ vxores Baatu, implebant viri. Bancus verò cum cosmos & ciphis maximis aureis & argenteis, ornatis lapidibus prætiosis 20 erat in introitu tentorij. Respexit ergo nos diligentius, & nos eum : & videbatur mihi similis in statura Domino Iohanni de Bello monte cuius anima requiescit in pace. Erat etiam vultus eius tunc perfusus gutta rosca. Tandem præcepit vt loquerer.
Tunc ductor noster præcepit vt flecteremus genua, & loqueremur. 25
Flexi vnum genu tanquam homini : tunc innuit quod ambo flecterem, quod & feci, nolens contendere super hoc. Tunc præ-cepit quod loquerer. Et ego cogitans quod orarem Dominum, quia flexeram ambo genua, Incepi verba oratione, dicens : Domine, nos oramus Dominum, à quo bona cuncta procedunt, qui dedit 30 vobis ista terrena, vt det vobis post hæc cœlestia : quia hæc sine illis vana sunt. Et ipse diligenter auscultauit, & subiunxi :
Noueritis pro certo quòd cœlestia non habebitis, nisi fueritis Christianus. Dicit enim Deus, Qui crediderit & baptizatus fuerit, saluus erit : qui vero non crediderit, condemnabitur. Ad illud 35 verbum ipse modestè subrisit, & alij Moal inceperunt plaudere manus deridendo nos. Et obstupuit interpretes meus, quem oportuit me confortare ne timerem. Tunc facto silentio, dixi :
Ego veni ad filium vestrum, quia audiuius quòd esset Christianus, & attuli ei literas ex parte Domini Regis Francorum : ipse 40
misit me huc ad vos. Vos debetis | scire qua de causa. Tunc fecit me surgere. Et quæsiuit nomen vestrum, & meum, & socij mei, & interpretis, & fecit omnia scribi. Quæsiuit etiam, quia intellexerat quod exieratis terram vestram cum exercitu vt haberetis bellum. Respondi, Contra Saracenos violantes domum Dei Hierusalem. Quæsiuit etiam si vnquam misissetis nuncios ad eum. Ad vos dixi nunquam. Tunc fecit nos sedere, & dari de lacte suo ad bibendum, quod ipsi valdè magnum reputant, quando aliquis bibit cosmos cum eo in domo sua. Et dum sedens respicerem terram, præcepit vt eleuarem vultum, volens adhuc nos amplius respicere, vel fortè pro sortilegio : quia habent pro malo omine vel signo, vel pro mala Prognostica, quando aliquis sedet coram eis inclinata facie quasi tristis, maximè quum appodiat maxillam, vel mentum super manum. Tunc exiuimus, & post pauca, venit Ductor noster ad nos, & ducens nos ad hospitium, dixit mihi, Dominus Rex rogat, quod retinearis in terra ista : & hoc non potest Baatu facere sine conscientia Mangu cham. Vnde oportet quod tu & interpres tuus eatis ad Mangu cham. Socius verò tuus & alius homo reuertentur ad curiam Sartach ibi expectantes donec reuertatis. Tunc incepit homo DEI Interpres lugere reputans se perditum : Socius etiam meus contestari, quod citius amputarent ei caput, quam quod diuideretur à me. Et ego dixi, quod sine socio non possem ire : Et etiam quod benè indigebamus duobus famulis, quia si contingeret vnum infirmari, non possem solus remanere. Tunc ipse reuersus ad curiam dixit verba Baatu. Tunc præcepit : vadant duo sacerdotes & interpres : & Clericus reuertatur ad Sartach. Ille reuersus dixit nobis summam. Et quando volebam loqui pro Clerico, quod iret nobiscum, dixit, Non loquamini amplius, quia Baatu definiuit, & eo amplius non audeo redire ad curiam. De eleemosyna habebat Goset clericus viginti sex ipperpera, & non plus : quorum decem retinuit sibi & puero : & sexdecem dedit homini Dei pro nobis. Et sic diuisi sumus cum lachrimis ab inuicem : Illo redeunte ad curiam Sartach, & nobis ibi remanentibus.

De itinere fratrum versus curiam Mangu cham.

IN Vigilia Assumptionis peruenit ipse clericus ad Curiam Sartach : & in crastino fuerunt Sacerdotes Nestorini induti vestimentis nostris coram Sartach. Tunc ducti fuimus ad alium hospitem, qui debebat nobis prouidere de domo & cibo & equis. Sed quia non habuimus quod daremus ei, omnia malè faciebat. Et bigauimus cum Baatu descendendo iuxta Etiam quinque septimanas. Aliquando habuit socius meus tantam famem, quod dicebat mihi quasi lachrymando : videbatur mihi quod nunquam comederim. Forum sequitur semper Curiam Baatu. Sed illud erat tam longè à nobis, quod non poteramus ire. Oportebat enim nos ire pedibus pro defectu equorum. Tandem inuenerunt nos quidam Hungari, qui fuerant Clericuli, quorum vnus sciebat adhuc cantare multa corde, & habebatur ab alijs Hungaris quasi Sacerdos, 5 & vocabatur ad exequias suorum defunctorum: Et alius fuerat competenter instructus in Grammatica: qui intelligebat quicquid dicebamus ei literaliter, sed nesciebat respondere: qui fecerunt nobis magnam consolationem, afferentes cosmos ad bibendum, & carnes aliquando ad comedendum: qui quum postulassent à nobis 10 aliquos libros, & non haberem quos possem dare, nullos enim habebam, nisi Biblium & breuiarium, dolui multum. Tunc dixi eis, afferte nobis chartas, & ego scribam vobis, quamdiu erimus hic: quod & fecerunt. Et scripsi vtrasque horas Beatæ Virginis & officium defunctorum. Quodam die iunxit se nobis quidam 15 Comanus, salutans nos verbis latinis, dicens, Saluete Domini. Ego mirans, ipso resalutato, quæsiui ab eo, quis eum docuerat illam salutationem. Et ipse dixit quod in Hungaria fuit baptizatus à fratribus nostris qui docuerant illum eam. Dixit etiam quod Baatu quæsiuerat ab eo multa de nobis, & quod ipse dixerat ei 20 conditiones ordinis nostri. Ego vidi Baatu equitantem cum turba sua, & omnes patres familias equitantes cum eo, secundum æstimationem meam non erant quingenti viri. Tandem circa finem exaltationis sanctæ crucis venit ad nos quidam diues Moal, cuius pater erat millenarius, quod magnum est inter eos, dicens, Ego vos 25 debeo ducere ad Mangu cham, & est iter quatuor mensium: & tantum frigus est ibi, quod finduntur ibi lapides & arbores pro frigore: Videatis vtrum poteritis sustinere. Cui respondi: Spero in virtute Dei, quod nos sustinebimus, quod alij homines possunt sustinere. Tunc dixit: Si non poteritis sustinere, ego relinquam 30 vos in via. Cui respondi, hoc non esset iustum: quia non iuimus pro nobis, nisi missi à Domino vestro: Vnde ex quo vobis committimur, non debetis nos dimittere. Tunc dixit, benè erit. Post hoc fecit nos ostendere sibi omnes vestes nostras, & quod sibi videbatur minus necessarium fecit deponere sub custodia 35 hospitii nostri. In crastino attulerunt cuilibet nostrum vnam pelliceam villosam arietinam & braccas de eadem, & botas siue bucellos secundum morem eorum cum soccis de filtro; & almucias de pellibus secundum modum eorum. Et secunda die post exaltationem Sanctæ crucis incepimus equitare nos tres habentes 40 signarios: & equitauius continuè versus Orientem vsque ad festum Omnium Sanctorum, per totam illam terram, & adhuc amplius habitabant Cangle, quædam parentela Romanorum. Ad

De flumine Iagag, & de diuersis regionibus siue nationibus.

5 Postquam iueramus duodecim diebus ab Etilia inuenimus magnum flumen, quod vocant Iagag: & venit ab Aquilone de terra Pascatir descendens in prædictum mare. Idioma Pascatir & Hungarorum idem est: & sunt pastores sine ciuitate aliqua. Et contiguatur maiori Bulgariæ ab Occidente. Ab illa terra versus 10 Orientem in latere illo Aquilonari non est amplius aliqua ciuitas. Vnde Bulgaria maior est vltima regio habens ciuitatem. De illa regione Pascatir exierunt Huni, qui postea dicti sunt Hungari. Vnde ipsa est maior Bulgaria. Et dicit Isidorus, quòd pernicibus equis claustra Alexandri rupibus Caucasi feras gentes cohibentia
15 transierunt: ita quod usque in Ægyptum soluebatur eis tributum. Destruerunt etiam omnes terras usque in Franciam. Vnde fuerunt maioris potentiae, quàm sunt adhuc Tartari. Cum illis occurrerunt Blaci & Bulgari & Vandali. De illa enim maiori Bulgaria venerunt illi Bulgari: Et qui sunt vltra Danubium propè
20 Constantinopolin, & iuxta Pascatir sunt Ilac, quod idem est quod Blac: sed B. nesciunt Tartari sonare: à quibus venerunt illi qui sunt in terra Assani. Vtrosque enim vocant Ilac, & hos & illos lingua Rutenorum & Polonorum, & Boëmorum. Sclauorum est idem idioma cum lingua Vandalorum, quorum omnium manus
25 fuit cum Hunis: & nunc pro maiori parte est cum Tartaris quos Deus suscitauit à remotioribus partibus, populum multum, & gentem stultam, secundum quod dicit Dominus, Prouocabo eos, id est, non custodientes Legem suam, in eo qui non est populus, & in gente stulta irritabo eos: Hoc completur ad literam super omnes
30 nationes non custodientes Legem Dei. Hoc quod dixi de terra Pascatir scio per fratres Prædicatores,* qui iuerunt illuc ante aduentum Tartarorum. Et ex tunc erant ipsi subiugati à vicinis Bulgaris Saracenis, & plures eorum facti Saraceni. Alia possunt sciri per Chronica: quia constat quod illæ prouinciæ post Con-
35 stantinopolim, quæ modo dicuntur Bulgaria, Valachia, Sclauonia, fuerunt prouinciæ Græcorum. Hungaria fuit Pannonia. Equitauimus ergo per terram Cangle à festo Sanctæ crucis vsque ad festum Omnium Sanctorum, quolibet die ferè quantum est à Vnde oriebatur nobis difficillimus labor: quia multoties fatigabantur equi, antequam possemus peruenire ad populum. Et tunc oportebat nos percutere & flagellare equos, ponere etiam vestes super alios saginarios, mutare equos saginarios; aliquando nos duos ire in vno equo. 15

De fame & siti, & alijs miserijs quas sustinuerunt in itinere.

DE fame & siti, frigore & figatione non est numerus. Non enim dant cibum nisi in sero. In mane dant aliquid bibere, vel sorbere milium. In sero dabant nobis carnes, scapulam 20 arietis cum costis & de brodio ad mensuram bibere. Quando habebamus de brodio carnum ad satietatem optimè reficiebamur. Et videbatur mihi suauissimus potus & | maximè nutriens. Feria sexta permanebam ieiunus vsq; ad noctem, nihil hauriens. Tunc oportebat me in tristitia & dolore comedere carnes. Aliquando 25 oportebat nos comedere carnes semicoctas vel ferè crudas propter defectum materiæ ignis, quando iacebamus in campis & de nocte descendebamus: quia tunc non poteramus benè colligere stercora equorum vel boum: aliam materiam ignis rarò inueniebamus; nisi fortè alicubi aliquas spinas. In ripis etiam aliquorum fluminum 30 sunt alicubi syluæ. Sed hoc rarò. In principio despiciebat nos multùm Ductor noster, & fastidiebat eum ducere tam viles homines. Postea tamen quando incepit nos melius cognoscere, ducebat nos per curias diuitum Moallorum: & oportebat nos orare pro ipsis. Vnde si habuissem bonum interpretem, habeam 35 oportunitatem seminandi multa bona. Ille Chingis primus Cham habuit quatuor filios, de quibus egressi sunt multi, qui omnes habent modo magnas curias: & quotidie multiplicantur & diffunduntur per illam Vastam solitudinem, quæ est sicut mare. Per multos ergò illorum ducebat nos Ductor noster. Et mirabantur 40

Et quadam die dum esset ebrius, loquebatur ita cum hominibus suis. Nonne sum de genere Chingis can sicut Baatus (Et ipse erat nepos Baatu vel frater) quare non vadam super ripam Etiliæ, sicut Baatu, vt pascam ibi? Quæ verba relata fuerunt Baatu. Tunc ipse Baatu scripsit hominibus illius, vt adducerent ei domi-⁵ num ipsorum vinctum: quod & fecerunt. Tunc Baatu quæsiuit ab eo si dixisset tale verbum: & ipse confessus est, tamen excusauit se, quia ebrius erat: (quia solent condonare ebrijs:) & Baatu respondit: Quomodo audebas me nominare in ebrietate tua? Et fecit ei amputari caput. De illis Teutonicis nihil potui¹⁰ cognoscere vsque ad curiam Mangu. Sed in supradicto casali intellexi, quod Talas erat post nos iuxta mōtes per sex dietas. Quando veni ad curiam Mangu cham, intellexi quod ipse Mangu transtulerat eos de licentia Baatu versus Orientem spacio itineris vnus mensis à Talas ad quandam villam quæ dicitur Bolac: vbi¹⁵ fodiunt aurum, & fabricant arma. Vnde non potui ire nec redire per eos. Transiui eundo satis prope, per tres dietas fortè, ciuitatem illam: sed ego ignoraui: nec potuissem etiam declinasse extra viam, si benè sciuissem. A prædicto casali iuimus ad Orientem iuxta montes prædictos: & ex tunc intrauimus inter homines²⁰ Mangu cham, qui vbique cantabant & plaudebant coram ductore nostro: quia ipse erat nuncius Baatu. Hunc enim honorem exhibent sibi mutuo, vt homines Mangu cham recipiant nuncios Baatu | prædicto modo: Et similiter homines Baatu nuncios Mangu. Tamen homines Baatu superiores sunt, nec exequuntur ita dili-²⁵ genter. Paucis diebus post hoc intrauimus Alpes, in quibus solebant habitare Cara catay: & inuenimus ibi magnum fluuium, quem oportuit nos transire nauigio. Post hæc intrauimus quandam vallem, vbi vidi castrum quoddam destructum, cuius muri non erant nisi de luto, & terra colebatur ibi. Et pòst inuenimus³⁰ quandam bonam villam quæ dicitur Equius, in qua erant Saraceni loquentes Persicum: longissimè tamen erant à Perside. Sequenti die transgressis illis Alpibus quæ descendebant à magnis montibus ad meridiem, ingressi sumus pulcherrimam planiciem habentem montes altos à dextris, & quoddam mare à sinistris, siue quandam³⁵ lacum qui durat quindecim dietas in circuitu. Et illa planicies tota irrigabatur ad libitum aquis descendentibus de montibus, quæ omnes recipiuntur in illud mare. In æstate rediuimus ad latus Aquilonare illius maris, vbi similiter erant magni montes. In planicie prædicta solebant esse multæ villæ: sed pro maiori⁴⁰ parte omnes erant destructæ, vt pascerent ibi Tartari: quia optima pascua erant ibi. Vnam magnam villam inuenimus ibi nomine Cailac, in qua erat forum, & frequentabant eam multi mercatores.

supra modum, quia nolebamus recipere aurum, vel argentum, vel vestes præciosas. Quærebant etiam de magno Papa, si esset ita senex sicut audierant: audierant enim quod esset quingentorum annorum. Quærebant de terris nostris si ibi essent multæ oues, & 5 boues, & equi. De Oceano mari non potuerunt intelligere, quod esset sine termino vel sine ripa. In vigilia omnium Sanctorum dimisimus viam in Orientem, *quia iam populus descenderat multum versus meridiem: Et direximus iter per quasdam Alpes rectè in meridiem continuè per octo dies. In illa solitudine vidi 10 multos asinos, quos vocant Colan, qui magis assimilantur mulis: quos multum prosequuti sunt Dux noster & socij eius, sed nihil profecerunt propter nimiam velocitatem eorum. Septima die inceperunt nobis apparere ad meridiem montes altissimi: & intrauimus planiciem, quæ irrigabatur sicut hortus, & inuenimus terras cultas. 15 In octauis omnium Sanctorum intrauimus villam quandam Saracenorum nomine Kenchat: cuius capitaneus occurrebat extra villam duci nostro cum ceruisia & ciphis. Hic est enim mos eorum; quod de omnibus villis subditis eis, occurratur nuncijs Baatu, & Mangu cham cum cibo & potu. Tunc temporis ibant ibi 20 super glaciem. Et prius à festo Sancti Michaelis habueramus gelu in solitudine. Quæsiui de nomine Prouinciæ illius: sed quia iam eramus in alio territorio nescierunt mihi dicere, nisi à nomine ciuitatis, quæ erat valdè parua. Et descendebat magnus fluuius de montibus, qui irrigabat totam regionem, secundùm quod vole- 25 bant aquam ducere: nec descendebat in aliquod mare, sed absorbebatur à terra: & faciebat etiam multas paludes. Ibi vidi vites, & bibi bis de vino.

30 SEquenti die venimus ad aliud casale propinquius montibus. Et quæsiui de montibus, de quibus intellexi, quòd essent montes Caucasi: qui contiguntur ex vtraque parte maris ab Occidente vsque ad Orientem: & quod transiueramus mare supra- dictum, quod intrat Etilia. Quæsiui etiam de Talas ciuitate, in 35 qua erant Teutonici serui Buri, de quibus dixerat frater Andreas, de quibus etiam quæsiueram multum in curia Sartach & Baatu. In illa quieuimus quindecim diebus, expectantes quendam scriptorem Baatu, qui debebat esse socius ducis nostri in negotijs expediendis in curia Mangu. Terra illa solebat dici Organum: & solebant habere proprium idioma, & propriam literam: Sed

10 Quod Nestorini et Saraceni sunt mixti & Idolatrę.

- PRimi sunt Iugures, quorum terra contiguatur cum terra prædicta Organum inter montes illos versus Orientem: Et in omnibus ciuitatibus eorum sunt mixti Nestorini & Saraceni. Et ipsi etiã sunt diffusi versus Persidem in ciuitatibus Saracenorum.
- 15 In prædicta ciuitate Cealac habebant etiã ipsi tres Idolatrias, quarum duas intraui, vt viderem stultitias eorum. In prima inueni quendam, qui habebat cruciculam de atramento super manum suam. Vnde credidi quod esset Christianus: quia ad omnia quæ quærebam ab eo, respondebat vt Christianus. Vnde quęsiui ab 20 eo: Quare ergo non habetis crucem & imaginem Iesu Christi? Et ipse respondit, non habemus consuetudinem. vnde ego credidi quod essent Christiani: sed ex defectu doctrine omitterent. Videbam enim ibi post quandam cistam, quæ erat eis loco altaris, super quam ponunt lucernas & oblationes, quandam ima-
 25 ginationem habentem alas quasi Sancti Michaelis: & alias quasi ipsorum tenentes digitos sicut ad benedicendum. Illo sero non potui aliud inuenire. Quia Saraceni in tantū inuitant eos, quod nec etiam volunt loqui inde eis. Vnde quando quærebam a Saracenis de ritu talium, ipsi scandalizabantur. In crastino fu-
 30 erunt kalendæ & pascha Saracenorum & mutaui hospitium: ita quod fui hospitatus prope aliam Idolatriam. Homines enim colligunt nuncios, quilibet secuudum posse suum vel portionem suam. Tunc intrans Idolatriam prædictam inueni sacerdotes Idolorum. In kalendis enim aperiunt templa sua, & ornant se 35 sacerdotes, & offerunt populi oblationes de pane & fructibus. Primò ergo describo vobis ritus communes omnes Idolatrarum: & postea istorum Iugurum; qui sunt quasi secta diuisa ab alijs. Omnes adorant ad Aquilonem complosis manibus: & proster-nentes se genibus flexis ad terram, ponentes frontem super manus.
- 40 Vnde Nestorini in partibus illis nullo modo iungunt manus orando:

sed orant extensis palmis ante pectus. Porrigunt templa sua ab Oriente in Occidentem: & in latere Aquilonari faciunt cameram vnam quasi eorū exeuntem: vel aliter, Si est domus quadrata, in medio domus ad latus aquilonare intercludunt vnam cameram in loco chori. Ibi ergo collocant vnam arcam longam & latam 5 sicut mensam vnam. Et post illam arcam contra meridiem collocant principale idolum: quod ego vidi apud Caracarum, ita magnum sicut pingitur Sanctus Christopherus. Et dixit mihi quidam sacerdos Nestorinus, qui venerat ex Cataya, quod in terra illa est Idolum ita magnum, quod potest videri à duabus dietis. 10 Et collocant alia idola in circuitu, omnia pulcherrime deaurata: Super cistam illam, quæ est quasi mensa vna, ponunt lucernas & oblationes. Omnes portæ templorum sunt apertæ ad meridiem contrario modo Saracenis. Item habent campanas magnas sicut nos. Ideo credo quod orientales Christiani noluerunt habere eas. 15 Ruteni tamen habent & Græci in Gasaria.

[p. 91] | De templis eorum & idolis, & qualiter se habent
in officio deorum suorum.

OMnes sacerdotes eorum rasum habent totum caput & barbam; sunt vestiti de croceo, & seruant castitatem, ex quo 20 radunt caput: Et viuunt pariter centum vel ducenti in vna congregatione. Diebus quibus intrant templum, ponunt duo scamna, & sedent è regione chorus contra chorum habentes libros in manibus, quos aliquando deponunt super illa scamna: & habent capita discooperta quādiu insunt in tēplo, legentes in silencio, 25 & tenentes silentium. Vnde cū ingressus fuissem apud Orationarium quoddam eorum, & inuenissem eos ita sedentes, multis modis tentavi eos prouocare ad verba, & nullo modo potui. Habent etiam quocunque vadunt quendam restem centum vel ducentorum nucleorum, sicut nos portamus pater noster: Et 30 dicunt semper hæc verba: Ou mam Hactaui: hoc est, Deus tu nosti; secundum quod quidem eorum interpretatus est mihi. Et toties expectant remunerationem à Deo, quoties hoc dicendo memoratur Dei. Circa templum suum semper faciunt pulchrum atrium, quod bene includunt muro: & ad meridiem faciunt 35 portam magnam, in qua sedent ad colloquendum. Et super illam portam erigunt perticam longam, quæ emineat si possint, super totam villam. Et per illam perticam potest cognosci, quod domus illa sit templum Idolorum. Ista communia sunt omnibus Idolatris. Quando ergo ingressus fui prædictam Idolatriam, in- 40

- ueni sacerdotes sedentes sub porta exteriori. Illi quos vidi, videbantur mihi fratres Franci esse rasis barbis. Tyaras habebant in capitibus cartaceas. Istorum Iugurum sacerdotes habent talem habitum quocunque vadunt: semper sunt in tunicis croceis
- 5 satis strictis accincti desuper recte sicut Franci: & habent pallium super humerum sinistrum descendens inuolutū per pectus & dorsum ad latus dextrum sicut diaconus portans casulam in quadragesima. Istorum literas acceperunt Tartari. Ipsi incipiunt scribere sursum, & ducunt lineam deorsum, & eodem modo ipsi
- 10 legunt & multiplicant lineas a sinistra ad dextram. Isti multum vtutur cartis & characteribus pro sortilegio. Vnde templa sua plena sunt breuibis suspensis. Et Mangu-cham mittit vobis literas in idiomate Moal & literatura eorum. Isti comburunt mortuos suos secundum antiquum modum, & recondunt puluerem
- 15 in summitate pyramidis. Cum ergo sedissem iuxta prædictos sacerdotes, postquam ingressus fueram templum & vidissem idola eorum multa magna & parua: quæsiui ab eis, quid ipsi crederent de Deo. Qui responderunt, Non credimus nisi vnum Deum. Et ego quæsiui. Creditis quod ipse sit spiritus vel aliquid corporale?
- 20 Dixerunt, credimus quod sit spiritus. Et ego: Creditis quod nunquam sumpserit humanam naturam? Dixerunt, minime. Tunc ego: ex quo creditis, quod non sit nisi vnus spiritus, quare facitis ei imagines corporales, & tot insuper? Et ex quo non creditis quod factus sit homo, quare facitis ei magis imagines hominum,
- 25 quàm alterius animalis? Tunc responderunt, Nos non figuramus istas imagines Deo. Sed quando aliquis diues moritur ex nostris, vel filius, vel vxor, vel aliquis charus eius facit fieri imaginem defuncti, & ponit eam hic: & nos veneramur eam ad memoriam eius. Quibus ego, Tunc ergo non facitis ista nisi propter adulationem hominum. Immo dixerunt ad memoriam. Tunc quæsiuerunt à me quasi deridendo: vbi est Deus? Quibus ego. Vbi est anima vestra? Dixerunt, in corpore nostro. Quibus ego. Nonne est vbique in corpore tuo & totum regit, & tamen non videtur? Ita Deus vbique est, & omnia gubernat, inuisibilis
- 35 tamen, quia intellectus & sapientia est. Tunc cum vellem plura ratiocinari cum illis, interpretes mei fatigatus, non valens verba exprimere, fecit me tacere. Istorum sectæ sunt Moal siue Tartari, quantum ad hoc, quod ipsi non credunt nisi vnum Deum: tamen faciunt de filtro imagines defunctorum suorum, & induunt eas
- 40 quinque pannis preciosissimis, & ponunt in vna biga vel duabus, & illas bigas nullus audet tangere: & sunt sub custodia diuinorum suorum, qui sunt eorum sacerdotes, de quibus postea narrabo vobis. Isti diuinatores semper sunt ante curiam ipsius

Et tunc cum sit dies festus sive kalendæ ipsi extrahunt 5 prædictas imagines & ponunt eas ordinate per circuitum in domo sua. Tunc veniunt Moal & ingrediuntur domum illam, & inclinant se imaginibus illis & venerantur illas. Prædicti vero Iugures, qui sunt mixti cum Christianis & Saracenis, per frequentes disputationes, vt credo, peruenerunt ad hoc, quod non credunt nisi vnum deum. Et isti fuerunt 15 habitantes in ciuitatibus, qui post obediuerunt Chingis Cham: vnde ipse dedit regi eorum filiam suam. Et ipsa Caracarum est quasi in territorio eorum: Et tota terra regis siue presbyteri Iohannis & Vut fratris eius circa terras eorum: Sed isti in pascuis ad aquilonem, illi Iugures inter montes ad meridiem. Inde est 20 quod ipsi Moal sumpserunt literas eorum. Et ipsi sunt magni scriptores eorum: & omnes fere Nestorini sciunt literas eorum. Post istos sunt ipsi Tangut ad orientem inter montes illos, homines fortissimi, qui ceperunt Chingis in bello. Et pace facta dimissus ab eis, postea subiugauit eos. Isti habent boues fortis- 25 simos habentes caudas plenas pilis sicut equi, & ventres pilosos & dorsa. Bassiores sunt alijs bobus in tibijs, sed ferociores multum. Isti trahunt magnas domos Moallorum: & habent cornua gracilia, longa, acuesa, acutissima: ita quod oportet semper secare summitates eorum. Vacca non permittit se iniungi nisi cantetur 30 ei. Habent etiam naturam bubali quia si vident hominem indutum rubeis, insiliunt in eum volentes interficere. Post illos sunt Tebet homines solentes comedere parentes suos defunctos, ut causa pietatis non facerent aliud sepulchrum eis nisi viscera sua. Modo tamen hoc dimiserunt, quia abominabiles erant omni 35 nationi. Tamen adhuc faciunt pulchros ciphos de capitibus parentum, vt illis bibentes habeant memoriam eorum in iocunditate sua. Hoc dixit mihi qui viderat. Isti habent multum de auro in terra sua. Vnde qui indiget auro, fodit donec reperiatur, & accipiat quando indiget, residuum condens in terra: quia si re- 40

poneret in arca vel in thesauro, crederet quod Deus auferret ei aliud quod est in terra. De istis hominibus vidi personas multum deformes. Tangut vidi homines magnos sed fuscus. Iugures sunt mediocris staturæ sicut nostri. Apud Iugures est fons & radix ideomatis Turci & Comanici. Post Tebet sunt Langa & Solanga, quorum nuncios vidi in curia: Qui adduxerant magnas bigas plusquam decem, quarum quælibet trahebatur sex bobus. Isti sunt parui homines & fuscus sicut Hispani: & habent tunicas sicut supertunicale diaconi manicis parum strictioribus: & habent in capitibus mitras sicut episcopi. Sed pars anterior est parum interior quàm posterior, & non terminatur in vnum angulum: sed sunt quadræ desuper, & sunt de stramine rigidato per calorem magnum, & limato in tantum, quod fulget ad radium solis sicut speculum vel galea bene burnita. Et circa tempora habent longas bendas de eadem materia assutas ipsi mitræ; quæ se extendunt ad ventum sicut duo cornua egredientia de temporibus. Et quando ventus nimis iactat eas plicant eas per medium mitræ superius à tempore in tempus: & iacent sicut cîrculus ex transverso capitis. Et principalis nuncius quando veniebat ad curiam, habebat tabulam de dente elephantino ad longitudinem vnus cubiti, & ad latitudinem vnus palmi, rasam multum: Et quando-cunque loquebatur ipsi Cham, vel alicui magno viro, semper aspiciebat in illam tabulam, ac si inueniret ibi ea quæ dicebat: nec respiciebat ad dextram vel sinistram, nec in faciem illius cui loquebatur. Etiam accedens coram domino & recedens nusquam respicit nisi in tabulam suam. Vltra istos sunt alij homines, vt intellexi pro vero, qui dicuntur Muc, qui habent villas, sed nulla animalia sibi appropriant: tamen sunt multi greges & multa armenta in terra ipsorum, & nullus custodit ea. Sed cum aliquis indiget aliquo, ascendit collem & clamat, & omnia animalia audientia clamorem accedunt circa illum, & permittunt se tractari quasi domestica. Et si nuncius vel aliquis extraneus accedat ad regionem illam, ipsi includunt eum in domo, & ministrant ei necessaria: donec negocium eius fuerit expeditum. Quia si iret extraneus per regionem, animalia ad odorem eius fugerent, & efficerentur syluestria. Vltra est magna Cathaya, cuius incolæ antiquitus vt credo dicebantur Seres. Ab ipsis enim veniunt optimi panni serici. Et ille populus dicitur Seres a quodam oppido eorum. Bene intellexi, quod in illa regione est oppidum habens muros argenteos & propugnacula aurea. [p. 93] | The iournal of frier William de Rubruquis a French man of the order of the minorite friers, vnto the East parts of the worlde. An. Dom. 1253.

O his most Soueraigne, & most Christian Lord
 Lewis, by Gods grace the renowned king of 5 France, frier William de Rubruk, the meanest of the Minorites order, wisheth health & cōtinual triumph in CHRIST.

Eccclus. 39.
 ver. 4.

It is written in the booke of Ecclesiasticus concerning the wise man: He shall trauell into forren 10 countries, and good and euill shall he trie in all things. The very same action (my lord and king) haue I atchieued: howbeit I wish that I haue done it like a wise man, and not like a foole. For many there be, that performe the same action which a wise man doth, not wisely but more vndiscreetly: of which number I feare 15 my selfe to be one. Notwithstanding howsoever I haue done it, because you commanded mee, when I departed from your highnes, to write all things vnto you, which I should see among the Tartars, and you wished me also that I should not feare to write long letters, I haue done as your maiestie inioined me: yet with feare 20 and reuerence, because I want wordes and eloquence sufficient to write vnto so great a maiestie. Be it knowen, therefore vnto your sacred Maiestie, that in the yeare of our Lord 1253. about the Nones of May, we entered into the sea of Pontus, which the Bulgarians call the great sea. It containeth in length (as I learned 25 of certaine merchants) 1008 miles, and is in a maner, diuided into two parts. About the midst thereof are two prouinces, one towards the North, and another towards the South. The South prouince is called Synopolis, and it is the castle and porte of the Soldan of Turkie: but the North prouince is called of the Latines, 30
 Gasaria: of the Greeks, which inhabite vpon the sea shore thereof, it is called Cassaria, that is to say Cæsaria. And there are certaine head lands stretching forth into the sea towards Synopolis. Also, there are 300. miles of distance betweene Synopolis and Cassaria. Insomuch that the distance from those 35 points or places to Constantinople, in length and breadth is about 700. miles: and 700. miles also from thence to the East, namely to the countrey of Hiberia which is a prouince of Georgia. At the prouince of Gasaria or Cassaria we arriued, which prouince is, in a maner, three square, hauing a citie on the West part thereof 40 called Kersoua, wherein S. Clement suffered martyrdom. And sayling before the said citie, we sawe an island, in which a Church is sayd to be built by the hands of angels. But about the midst of the said prouince toward the South, as it were, vpon a sharpe

 5 angle or point, standeth a citie called Soldaia directly ouer Soldaia. against Synopolis. And there doe all the Turkie merchants, which traffique into the North countries, in their iourney outward, arriue, and as they returne homeward also from Russia, and the said Northerne regions, into Turkie. The foresaid merchants 10 transport thither ermines and gray fures, with other rich and costly skinned. Others carrie cloathes made of cotton or bombast, and silke, and diuers kindes of spices. But vpon the East part of the said prouince standeth a citie called Matriga, where the
The citie of Matriga. riuier Tanais dischargeth his streames into the sea of Pontus, the 15 mouth wherof is twelue miles in breadth. For this riuier, before it entreth into the sea of Pontus, maketh a little sea, which hath in breadth and length seuen hundreth miles, & it is in no place thereof aboue sixe paces deepe, whereupon great vessels cannot sayle ouer it. Howbeit the merchants of Constantinople, arriuing at the 20 foresayd citie of *Materta, send their barkes vnto the riuier of Tanais to buy dried fishes, Sturgeons, Thosses, Barbils, and an infinite number of other fishes. The foresayd prouince of Cassaria is compassed in with the sea on three sides thereof: namely on the West side, where Kersoua the citie of Saint Clement is situate:
 25 on the South side the citie of Soldaia whereat we arriued: on the East side Maricandis, and there stands the citie of Matriga vpon the mouth of the riuier Tanais. Beyond the sayd mouth standeth Zikia, which is not in subiection vnto the Tartars: also the people
Zikia. called Sueui and Hiberi towards the East, who likewise are not 30 vnder the Tartars dominion. Moreouer towards the South, standeth the citie of Trapesunda, which hath a gouernour proper to it selfe, named Guydo, being of the linage of the emperours of Constantinople, and is subiect vnto the Tartars. Next vnto that is Synopolis the citie of the Soldan of Turkie, who likewise is in 35 subiection vnto them. Next vnto these lyeth the country of Vastacius, whose sonne is called Astar, of his grandfather by the mothers side, who is not in subiection. All the land from the mouth of Tanais Westward as farre as Danubius is vnder their iurisdiction. Yea beyond Danubius also, towards Constantinople, imposed, they haue also, of late yeares, exacted of euery household an axe, and all such corne as they found lying on heapes. We arriued therefore at Soldaia the twelfth of the Kalends of Iune. And diuers merchants of Constantinople, which were arriued there before vs, reported that certaine messengers were comming 5 thither from the holy land, who were desirous to trauell vnto Sartach. Notwithstanding I my self had publikely giuen out vpon Palme Sunday within y^e Church of Sancta Sophia, that I was not your nor any other mans messenger, but that I trauailed vnto those infidels according to the rule of our order. And being arriued, the 10 said merchâts admonished me to take diligent heede what I spake : because they hauing reported me to be a messenger, if I should say the contrary, that I were no messenger, I could not haue free passage granted vnto me. Thẽ I spake after this maner vnto the 15 gouernors of the citie, or rather vnto their Lieutenâts, because the gouernors thẽselues were gone to pay tribute vnto Baatu, & were not as yet returned. We heard of your lord Sartach (quoth I) in the holy land, that he was become a Christian : and the Christians were exceeding glad therof, & especially the most 20 Christian king of France, who is there now in pilgrimage, & fighteth against the Saracens to redeeme the holy places out of their handes : wherfore I am determind to go vnto Sartach, & to deliuer vnto him y^e letters of my lord the king, wherein he admonisheth him concerning the good and commoditie of all Christendome. And they receiued vs with gladnes, and gaue vs 25 enterテインement in the cathedrall Church. The bishop of which Church was with Sartach, who told me many good things concerning the saide Sartach, which afterward I found to be nothing so. Then put they vs to our choyce, whither we woulde haue cartes and oxen, or packe horses to transport our cariages. And the 30 marchants of Constantinople aduised me, not to take cartes of the citizens of Soldaia, but to buy couered cartes of mine owne, (such as the Russians carrie their skins in) and to put all our carriages, which I would daylie take out, into them : because, if I should vse horses, I must be constrained at euery baite to take downe my 35 carriages, and to lift them vp againe on sundry horses backs : and besides, that I should ride a more gentle pace by the oxen drawing the cartes. Wherfore, contenting my selfe with their euil counsel, I was traueiling vnto Sartach 2. moneths which I could haue done in one, if I had gone by horse. I brought with me 40 from Constantinople (being by the marchants aduised so to doe) pleasant fruits, muscadel wine, and delicate bisket bread to present vnto the gouernours of Soldaia, to the end I might obtaine free passage: because they looke fauourable vpon no man which commeth with an emptie hand. All which thinges I bestowed in one of my cartes, (not finding the gouernours of the citie at home) for they told me, if I could carrie them to Sartach, that they

 5 would be most acceptable vnto him. Wee tooke our iourney therefore about the kalends of Iune, with fower couered cartes of our owne and with two other which wee borrowed of them, wherein we carried our bedding to rest vpon in the night, and they allowed vs fīue horses to ride vpon. For there were iust fīue persons in 10 our company: namely, I my selfe and mine associate frier Bartholomew of Cremona, and Goset the bearer of these presents, the man of God Turgemannus, and Nicolas my seruant, whome I bought at Constantinople with some part of the almes bestowed vpon me. Moreouer, they allowed vs two men, which draue our 15 carts and gaue attendance vnto our oxen and horses. There be high promontories on the sea shore from Kersoua vnto the mouth of Tanais. Also there are fortie castles betweene Kersoua and Soldaia, euery one of which almost haue their proper languages: amongst whom there were many Gothes, who spake the Dutch 20 tongue. Beyond the said mountaines towards the North, there is a most beautifull wood growing on a plaine ful of fountaines & freshets. And beyond the wood there is a mightie plaine champion, continuīg fīue dayes iourney vnto the very extremitie and borders of the said prouince northward, and there it is a 25 narrow Isthmus or neck land, hauing sea on the East & West sides therof, insomuch that there is a ditch made frō one sea vnto the other. In the same plaine (before the Tartars sprang vp) were the Comanians wont to inhabite, who compelled the foresayd cities and castles to pay tribute vnto them. But when the Tartars came 30 vpon them, the multitude of the Comanians entred into the fore said prouince, and fled all of them, euen vnto the sea shore, being in such extreame famine, that they which were aliue, were constrained to eate vp those which were dead: and (as a marchant reported vnto me who sawe it with his owne eyes) that the liuing
 35 men deuoured and tore with their teeth, the raw flesh of the dead, as dogges would gnawe vpon carrion. Towards the borders of the sayd prouince there be many great lakes: vpon the bankes whereof are salt pits or fountaines, the water of which so soone as it entereth into the lake, becommeth hard salte like vnto ice.
 40 And out of those salte pittes Baatu and Sartach haue great reuenues: for they repayre thither out of all Russia for salte: and for each carte loade they giue two webbes of cotton amounting to the value of half an Yperpera. There come by sea also many ships for salt, which pay tribute euery one of them according to their burden. The third day after wee were departed out of the

 The Tartars. precincts of Soldaia, we found the Tartars. Amongst whome [p. 95] being en[te]red, me thought I was come into a new world. Whose life and maners I wil describe vnto your Highnes aswell as 5
 I can.

Of the Tartars, and of their houses. Chap. 2.

THEY haue in no place any settled citie to abide in, neither knowe they of the celestiaall citie to come. They haue diuided all Scythia among themselues, which stretcheth from the 10 riuer Danubius euen vnto the rising of the sunne. And euery of their captaines, according to the great or or small number of his people, knoweth the bounds of his pastures, and where he ought to feed his cattel winter and summer, Spring and autumnne. For in the winter they descend vnto the warme regions southward. 15
 And in the summer they ascend vnto the colde regions northward. In winter when snowe lyeth vpon the ground, they feede their cattell vpon pastures without water, because then they vse snow in stead of water. Their houses wherein they sleepe, they ground vpon a round foundation of wickers artificially wrought and com- 20 packed together: the roofo whereof consisteth, (in like sorte) of wickers, meeting aboue into one little roundell, out of which roundell ascendeth vpward a necke like vnto a chimney, which they couer with white felte, and oftentimes they lay mortar or white earth vpon the sayd felt, with the powder of bones, that it 25 may shine white. And sometimes also they couer it with blacke felte. The sayd felte on the necke of their house, they doe garnish ouer with beautifull varietie of pictures. Before the doore likewise they hang a felt curiously painted ouer. For they spend all their coloured felt, in painting vines, trees, birds, and beastes 30 thereupon. The sayd houses they make so large, that they containe thirtie foote in breadth. For measuring once the breadth betweene the wheele-ruts of one of their cartes, I found it to be 20 feete ouer: and when the house was vpon the carte, it stretched ouer the wheelles on each side fīue feete at the least. I told 35
 22. oxen in one teame, drawing an house vpon a cart, eleuen in one order according to the breadth of the carte, and eleuen more before them: the axletree of the carte was of an huge bignes like vnto the mast of a ship. And a fellow stood in the doore of the house, vpon the forestall of the carte driuing forth the oxen. 40

Moreouer, they make certaine fouresquare baskets of small slender wickers as big as great chestes: and afterward, from one side to another, they frame an hollow lidde or couer of such like wickers, and make a doore in the fore side thereof. And then they couer
 5 the sayd chest or little house with black felt rubbed ouer with tallow or sheeps milke to keepe the raine from soaking through, which they decke likewise with painting or with feathers. And in such chests they put their whole household stuffe & treasure. Also the same chests they do strongly bind vpon other carts, which are
 10 drawn with camels, to y^e end they may wade through riuers. Neither do they at any time take down the sayd chests from off their carts. When they take down their dwelling houses, they turne the doores alwayes to the South: & next of all they place the carts laden with their chests, here & there, within half a stones
 15 cast of y^e house: insomuch that the house standeth between two ranks of carts, as it were, between two wals. The matrons make for thēselues most beautiful carts, which I am not able to describe vnto your maiestie but by pictures onlie: for I would right willingly haue painted al things for you, had my skill bin ought in that art.
 20 One rich Moal or Tartar hath 200. or 100. such cartes with chests. Duke Baatu hath sixteene wiues, euery one of which hath one great house, besides other little houses, which they place behind the great one, being as it were chambers for their maidens to dwel in. And vnto euery of the said houses do belong 200.
 25 cartes. When they take their houses from off the cartes, the principal wife placeth her court on the West frontier, and so all the rest in their order: so that the last wife dwelleth vpon the East frontier: and one of the said ladies courts is distant from another about a stones cast. Whereupon the court of one rich Moal or 30 Tartar will appeare like vnto a great village, very few men abiding in the same. One woman will guide 20. or 30. cartes at once, for their countries are very plaine, and they binde the cartes with camels or oxen, one behind another. And there sittes a wench in the foremost carte driuing the oxen, and al the residue follow 35 on a like pace. When they chance to come at any bad passage, they let them loose, and guide them ouer one by one: for they goe a slowe pace, as fast as a lambe or an oxe can walke.

Of their beds, and of their drinking pots. Chap. 3.

40 HAuing taken downe their houses from off their cartes, and turning the doores Southward, they place the bed of the master of the house, at the North part thereof. The womens

[p. 96]

place is alwaies on the East side, namely on the left hand of the good man of the house sitting vpon his bed with his face Southwards: but the mens place is vpon y^e West side, namely at the right hand of their master. Men when they enter into the house, will not in any case hang their quiuers on | the womens side. Ouer 5 the masters head there is alwaies an image, like a puppet, made of felte, which they call the masters brother: and another ouer the head of the good wife or mistresse, which they call her brother being fastened to the wall: and aboue betweene both of them, there is a little leane one, which is, as it were the keeper of the 10 whole house. The good wife or mistresse of the house placeth aloft at her beds feete, on the right hand, the skinne of a Kidde stuffed with wooll or some other matter, and neare vnto that a little image or puppet looking towards the maidens and women. Next vnto the doore also on the womens side, there is another image 15 with a coves vdder, for the women that milk the kine. For it is the duety of their women to milke kine. On the other side of the doore next vnto the men, there is another image with the vdder of a mare, for the men which milke mares. And when they come together to drinke and make merie, they sprinckle parte of their 20 drinke vpon the image which is aboue the masters head: afterward vpon other images in order: then goeth a seruaut out of the house with a cuppe full of drinke sprinckling it thrise towards the South, and bowing his knee at euery time: and this is done for the honour of the fire. Then perfourmeth he the like super- 25 stitious idolatrie towards the East, for the honour of the ayre: and then to the West for the honour of the water: & lastly to the North in the behalfe of the dead. When the maister holdeth a cuppe in his hande to drinke, before he tasteth thereof, hee powreth his part vpon the ground. If he drinketh sitting on horse 30 backe, hee powreth out part thereof vpon the necke or maine of his horse before hee himselfe drinketh. After the seruaut afore-saide hath so discharged his cuppes to the fower quarters of the world, hee returneth into the house: and two other seruants stand ready with two cuppes, and two basons, to carrie drinke vnto their 35 master and his wife, sitting together vpon a bed. And if he hath more wiues then one, she with whome hee slept the night before, sitteth by his side the daye following: and all his other wiues must that day resorte vnto the same house to drinke: and there is the court holden for that day: the giftes also which are pre- 40 sented that daye are layd vp in the chests of the sayd wife. And vpon a bench stands a vessell of milke or of other drinke and drinking cuppes.

Of their drinckes, and how they prouoke one another to drinking. Chap. 4.

IN winter time they make excellent drinke of Rise, of Mill, and of honie, being well and high coloured like wine. Also 5 they haue wine brought vnto them from farre countries. In summer time they care not for any drinke, but Cosmos. And it standeth alwaies within the entrance of his doore, and next vnto it stands a minstrell with his fidle. I sawe there no such citerns and vials as ours commonly be, but many other muscally instruments 10 which are not vsed among vs. And when the master of the house begins to drinke, one of his seruants cryeth out with a lowde voice HA, and the minstrell playes vpon his fidle. And when they make any great solemne feast, they all of them clap their hands & daunce to the noyse of musique, the men before their master 15 and the women before their mistresse. And when the master hath drunke, then cries out his seruant as before, and the minstrell stayeth his musique. Then drinke they all around both men and women: and sometimes they carowse for the victory very filthily and drunkenly. Also when they will prouoke any man, they pul 20 him by the eares to the drinke, and so lug and draw him strongly to stretch out his throate clapping their handes and dauncing before him. Moreouer when some of them will make great feasting and reioycing, one of the company takes a full cuppe, and two other stand, one on his right hand and another on his left, 25 and so they three come singing to the man who is to haue the cuppe reached vnto him, still singing and dauncing before him:
and when he stretcheth forth his hand to receiue the cuppe, they leape suddenly backe, returning againe as they did before, and so hauing deluded him thrice or fower times by drawing backe the 30 cuppe vntill he be merie, and hath gotten a good appetite, then they giue him the cuppe, singing and dauncing and stamping with their feete, vntill he hath done drinking.

Of their foode and victuals. Chap. 5.

35 CONCERNING their foode and victuals, be it knowen vnto your Highnesse that they do, without al difference or exception, eat all their dead carrions. And amongst so many droues it cannot be, but some cattell must needes die. Howbeit in summer, so long as their Cosmos, that is, their mares milke

lasteth, they care not for any foode. And if they chance to haue an oxe or an horse dye, they drie the flesh thereof: for cutting it into thin slices and hanging it vp against the Sunne and the wind, it is presently dried without salt, and also without stench or corruption. They | make better puddings of their horses then of 5 their hogs, which they eate being new made: the rest of the flesh they reserue vntill winter. They make of their oxe skins great bladders or bags, which they doe wonderfully dry in the smoake. Of the hinder part of their horse hides they make very fine sandals & pantofles. They giue vnto 50. or an 100. men the flesh of one 10 ram to eat. For they mince it in a bowle with salt and water (other sauce they haue none) and then with the point of a knife, or a litle forke which they make for the same purpose (such as wee vse to take rosted peares or apples out of wine withal) they reach vnto euery one of the company a morsell or twaine, accord- 15 ing to the multitude of gueses. The master of the house, before the rams flesh be distributed, first of all himselfe taketh thereof, what he pleaseth. Also, if he giueth vnto any of the company a speciall part, the receiuer therof must eat it alone, and must not impart ought therof vnto any other. Not being able to eate 20 it vp all, he caries it with him, or deliuers it vnto his boy, if he be present, to keepe it: if not, he puts it vp into his Saptargat, that is to say, his fourè square buget, which they vse to cary about with them for the sauing of all such prouision, and wherein they lay vp their bones, when they haue not time to gnaw them thoroughly, 25 that they may burnish them afterward, to the end that no whit of their food may come to nought.

How they make their drinke called Cosmos.

Chap. 6.

THEIR drinke called Cosmos, which is mares milke, is prepared 30 after this maner. They fasten a long line vnto 2. posts standing firmly in the ground, & vnto the same line they tie the young foles of those mares, which they mean to milke. Then come the dams to stand by their foles gently suffering themselues to be milked. And if any of them be too vnruely, then one takes 35 her fole, & puts it vnder her, letting it suck a while, and presently carying it away againe, there comes another man to milke the said mare. And hauing gotten a good quantity of this milke together (being as sweet as coves milke) while it is newe they powre it into a great bladder or bag, and they beat the said bag with a piece of 40

wood made for the purpose, hauing a club at the lower ende like a mans head, which is hollow within: and so soone as they beat vpon it, it begins to boile like newe wine, & to be sower and sharp of taste, and they beate it in that maner till butter come thereof.
5 Then taste they thereof, and being indifferently sharpe they drinke it: for it biteth a mans tongue like the wine of raspes, when it is drunk. After a man hath taken a draught therof, it leaueth behind it a taste like the taste of almon milke, and goeth downe very pleasantly, intoxicating weake braines: also it causeth vrine
10 to be auoided in great measure. Likewise Caracosmos, that is to say black Cosmos, for great lords to drink, they make on this maner. First they beat the said milke so long till the thickest part thereof descend right downe to the bottome like the lees of white wine, and that which is thin and pure remaineth aboue,
15 being like vnto whay or white must. The said lees or dregs being very white, are giuen to seruants, and will cause them to sleepe exceedingly. That which is thinne and cleare their masters drinke: and in very deed it is marueilous sweete and wholesome liquor. Duke Baatu hath thirty cottages or granges within a daies
20 journey of his abiding place: euery one of which serueth him dayly with the Caracosmos of an hundreth mares milk, and so all of them together euery day with the milke of 3000. mares, besides white milke which other of his subiects bring. For euen as the husbandmen of Syria bestow the third part of their fruicts and
25 carie it vnto the courts of their lords, euen so doe they their mares milke euery third day. Out of their cowes milke they first churne butter, boyling the which butter vnto a perfect decoction, they put it into rams skinnes, which they reserue for the same purpose. Neither doe they salte their butter: and yet by reason of the long
30 seething, it putrifieth not: and they keepe it in store for winter. The churnmilke which remaineth of the butter, they let alone till it be as sowre as possibly it may be, then they boile it and in boiling, it is turned all into curdes, which curds they drie in the sun, making them as hard as the drosse of iron: and this kind of 35 food also they store vp in sachels against winter. In the winter season when milke faileth them, they put the foresaid curds (which they cal Gry-vt) into a bladder, and powing hot water thereinto, they beat it lustily till they have resolued it into the said water, which is thereby made exceedingly sowre, and that they 40 drinke in stead of milke. They are very scrupulous, and take diligent heed that they drinke not fayre water by it selfe.

Of the beastes which they eat, of their garments, and of their maner of hunting. Chap. 7.

[p. 98]

Great lords haue cottages or granges towards the South, from whence their tenants bring them Millet and meale against winter. The poorer sort prouide themselues of such necessities, for y^e exchange of rams, & of other beastes skins. The Tartars slaues fil their bellies with thick water, & are therewithall contented. They wil neither eate mise with long tailes, nor any kinde of mise with short tailes. They haue also certaine litle beastes called by thē Sogur, which lie in a caue | twenty or thirty of them together, al the whole winter sleeping there for the space of sixe moneths: and these they take in great abundance. There are also a kind of conies hauing long tayles like vnto cats: & on the outside of their tailes grow blacke & white haire. They haue many other small beastes good to eat, which they know and discerne right well. I saw no Deere there, & but a fewe hares, but a great nūber of Roes. I saw wild asses in great abundance, which be like vnto Mules. Also I saw another kind of beast called Artak, hauing in al resemblance the body of a ram, & crooked hornes, which are of such bignes, that I could scarce lift up a paire of them with one hand: & of these hornes they make great drinking cups. // They haue Falcons, Girfalcons, & other haukes in great plenty: all which they cary vpon their right hands: & they put alwaies about their Falcons necks a string of leather, which hangeth down to y^e midst of their gorges, by the which string, whē they cast them off the fist at their game, with their left hand they bow downe the heads & breasts of the sayd haukes, least they should be tossed vp & downe, & beaten with the wind, or least they should soare too high. Wherefore they get a great part of their victuals, by hunting & hauking. // Concerning their garments and attire be it knowen vnto your Maiestie, that out of Cataya & other regions of the East, out of Persia also and other countries of the South, there are brought vnto them stufes of silke, cloth of gold, & cotton cloth, which they weare in time of summer. But out of Russia, Moxel, Bulgaria the greater, & Pascatir, that is Hungaria the greater, and out of Kersis (all which are Northerne regions & full of woods) & also out of many other countries of the North, which are subiect vnto them, the inhabitants bring them rich and costly skins of diuers sortes (which I neuer saw in our countries) wherewithal they are clad in winter. And alwaies against winter they make themselues two gowned, one with the fur inward to their skin, & another with the furre outward, to defend them from wind & snow, which for the most part are made of woolues skins, or Fox skins, or els of Papions. And whē they sit within the house, they haue a finer gowne to weare.

5 The poorer sort make their vpper gowne of dogs or of goats skins. When they goe to hunt for wild beasts, there meets a great company of them together, & inuironing the place round about, where they are sure to find some game, by litle & litle they approach on al sides, til they haue gotten the wild beasts into

10 the midst, as it were into a circle, & then they discharge their arrowes at them. Also they make thēselues breeches of skins. The rich Tartars somtimes fur their gowns with pellice or silke shag, which is exceeding soft, light, & warme. The poorer sort do line their clothes with cottō cloth which is made of the finest

15 wooll they can pick out, & of the courser part of the said wool, they make felt to couer their houses and their chests, and for their bedding also. Of the same wool, being mixed with one third part of horse haire, they make all their cordage. They make also of the said felt couerings for their stooles, and caps to defende their 20 heads from the weather: for all which purposes they spend a great quantity of their wooll. And thus much concerning the attyre of the men.

Great expense of wooll.

Of the fashion which the Tartars vse in cutting their haire, and of the attyre of their women.

Chap. 8.

25 THe men shaue a plot foure square vpon the crownes of their heads, and from the two formost corners they shaue, as it were, two seames downe to their temples: they shaue also their temples and the hinder part of their head euen vnto the nape of

30 the necke: likewise they shaue the forepart of their scalp downe to their foreheads, & vpon their foreheads they leaue a locke of hayre reaching downe vnto their eye browes: vpon the two hindermost corners of their heads, they haue two lockes also, which they twine and braid into knots and so bind and knit them

35 vnder each eare one. Moreouer their womens garments differ not from their mens, sauing that they are somewhat longer. But on the morrowe after one of their women is married, shee shaues her scalpe from the middest of her head down to her forehead, & weares a wide garment like vnto the hood of a Nunne, yea

40 larger and longer in all parts then a Nuns hood, being open before and girt vnto them vnder the right side. For herein doe the Tartars differ from the Turkes: because the Turkes fasten their garments to their bodies on the left side: but the Tartars alwaies on the right side. They haue also an ornament for their heads which they call Botta, being made of the barke of a tree, or of 5 some such other lighter matter as they can find, which by reason of the thicknes & roundnes therof cannot be holden but in both hands together: & it hath a square sharp spire rising frō the top therof, being more then a cubite in length, & fashioned like vnto a pinnacle. The said Botta they couer al ouer with a piece of rich 10 silke: & it is hollow within: & vpon the midst of the sayd spire or square toppe, they put a bunch of quilts or of slender canes a cubite long and more: & the sayd bunch, on the top thereof, they beautifie with Peacocks feathers, & round about al y^e length therof, with the feathers of a Malards taile, & with precious 15 stones also. Great ladies weare this kind of ornament vpon their heads binding it strongly with a certain hat or coiffe, which hath an hole in the crowne, fit for the spire to | come through it: & vnder the foresaid ornament they couer the haire of their heads, which they gather vp round together frō the hinder part therof to 20 the crowne, & so lap them vp in a knot or bundel within the said Botta, which afterward they bind strongly vnder their throtes. Hereupon when a great company of such gentlewomen ride together, and are beheld afar off, they seem to be souldiers with helmets on their heads carrying their launces vpright: for the 25 said Botta appeareth like an helmet with a launce ouer it. Al their women sit on horsebacke bestriding their horses like men: & they bind their hoods or gownes about their wastes with a skie coloured silke skarfe, & with another skarfe they girde it aboue their breasts: & they bind also a piece of white silke like a muffler 30 or maske vnder their eyes, reaching down vnto their breast. These gentlewomen are exceeding fat, & the lesser their noses be, the fairer are they esteemed: they daube ouer their sweet faces with grease too shamefully: and they neuer lie in bed for their trauel of childbirth.

Of the dueties iniointed vnto the Tartarian women, and of their labours, and also of their mariages.

Chap. 9.

THe duties of women are, to drieue carts, to lay their houses vpon carts & to take them downe again: to milke kine: 40 to make butter & Gry-vt: to dresse skins & to sow them, which they vsually sowe with thread made of sinewes, for they diuide sinewes into slender threads, & then twine thē into one long thread. They make sandals & socks & other garments. Howbeit 5 they neuer wash any apparel: for they say that God is then angry, & that dreadful thunder wil ensue, if washed garmēts be hanged forth to drie: yea, they beat such as wash, & take their garments frō them. They are wonderfully afraid of thunder: for in the time of thunder they thrust all strangers out of their houses,

 10 & then wrapping thēselues in black felt, they lie hidden therein, til the thunder be ouerpast. They neuer wash their dishes or bowles: yea, when their flesh is sodden, they wash the platter wherein it must be put, with scalding hot broth out of the pot, & then powre the said broth into the pot againe. They make
 15 felte also, & couer their houses therewith. The duties of the men are to make bowes & arrowes, stirrops, bridles, and saddles: to build houses & carts, to keepe horses: to milke mares: to churne Cosmos and mares milke, & to make bags wherein to put it: they keepe camels also & lay burthens vpon them. As for sheepe
 20 & goates they tend and milke them, aswell the men as the women. With sheeps milke thicked & salted they dresse and tan their hides. When they wil wash their hands or their heads, they fil their mouthes full of water, & spouting it into their hands by little and little, they sprinkle their haire & wash their heades
 25 therewith. As touching mariages, your Highnes is to vnderstand, that no man can haue a wife among them till he hath bought her: whereupon sometimes their maids are very stale before they be married, for their parents alwaies keepe thē till they can sel them. They keepe the first and second degrees of consanguinitie in-
 30 uiolable, as we do: but they haue no regard of the degrees of affinity: for they wil marrie together, or by succession, two sisters. Their widowes marie not at al, for this reason: because they beleue, that al who haue serued them in this life, shall do them seruice in the life to come also. Whereupon they are perswaded, 35 that euery widow after death shal returne vnto her own husband. And herehence ariseth an abominable & filthy custome among them, namely that the sonne marieth sometimes all his fathers wiues except his own mother: For the court or house of the father or mother falleth by inheritance alwaies to the yonger son. Where-
 40 upon he is to prouide for all his fathers wiues, because they are part of his inheritance aswel as his fathers possessions. And then if he will he vseth them for his owne wiues: for he thinks it no iniurie or disparagement vnto himselfe, although they returne vnto his father after death. Therefore whē any man hath bargained with another for a maid, the father of the said damosel makes him a feast: in the meane while she fleeth vnto some of her kinsfolks to hide her selfe. Then saith her father vnto the bridegrome: Loe, my daughter is yours, take her wheresoeuer you can find her. 5 Then he and his friends seek for her till they can find her, and hauing found her hee must take her by force and cary her, as it were, violently vnto his owne house.

Of their execution of iustice and iudgement: and of their deaths and burials. Chap. 10.

CONCERNING their lawes or their execution of iustice, your Maiesty is to be aduertised, that when two men fight, no third man dare intrude himself to part them. Yea, the father dare not help his owne sonne. But he that goes by the worst must appeale vnto the court of his lord. And whosoeuer els 15 offereth him any violence after appeale, is put to death. But he must go presently without all delay: and he that hath suffered the iniury, carieth him, as it were captiue. They punish no man with sentence of death, vnles hee bee taken in the deede doing, or confesseth the same. But being accused by the multitude, they put 20 him vnto extreme torture to make him confesse the trueth. They punish murder with death, and carnall copulation also with any [p. 100] | other besides his owne. By his own, I meane his wife or his maid seruant, for he may vse his slaue as he listeth himself. Heinous theft also or felony they punish with death. For a light theft, as 25 namely for stealing of a ram, the party (not being apprehended in the deed doing, but otherwise detected) is cruelly beaten. And if y^e executioner laies on an 100. strokes, he must haue an 100. staues, namely for such as are beaten vpon sentēce giuen in the court. Also counterfeite messengers, because they feine themselues to be 30 messengers, when as indeed they are none at all, they punish with death. Sacrilegious persons they vse in like maner (of which kind of malefactors your Maiesty shall vnderstand more fully hereafter) because they esteeme such to be witches. When any man dieth, they lament & howle most pitifully for him: & the said mourners 35 are free from paying any tribute for one whole yeare after. Also whosoeuer is present at the house where any one growen to mans estate lieth dead, he must not enter into the court of Mangu-Can til one whole yere be expired. If it were a child deceased he must not enter into the said court til the next moneth after. 40

Neere vnto the graue of the partie deceased they alwaies leaue one cottage. If any of their nobles (being of the stock of Chingis, who was their first lord & father) deceaseth, his sepulcher is vnknown. And alwayes about those places where they interre
 5 their nobles, there is one house of men to keep the sepulchers. I could not learn that they vse to hide treasures in the graues of their dead. The Comaniās build a great toomb ouer their dead, & erect the image of the dead party thereupon, with his face towards the East, holding a drinking cup in his hand, before 10 his nauel. They erect also vpon the monuments of rich men, Pyramides, that is to say, litle sharpe houses or pinacles: & in some places I saw mighty towers made of brick, in other places Pyramides made of stones, albeit there are no stones to be found thereabout. I saw one newly buried, in whose behalfe they 15 hanged vp 16. horse hides, vnto each quarter of the world 4, betweene certain high posts: & they set besides his graue Cosmos for him to drink, & flesh to eat: & yet they sayd that he was baptized. I beheld other kinds of sepulchers alsō towards the East: namely large flowres or pauemēts made of stone, some 20 rouēd & some square, & then 4. long stones pitched vpriht, about the said pauement towards the 4. regions of the world. When any man is sicke, he lieth in his bed, & causeth a signe to be set vpon his house, to signifie that there lieth a sicke person there, to the end that no man may enter into the sayd house:
 25 whereupon none at all visit any sicke party but his seruant only. Moreouer, when any one is sicke in their great courts, they appoint watchmen to stand round about the said court, who wil not suffer any person to enter within the precincts thereof. For they feare lest euill spirits or winds should come together with the parties 30 that enter in. They esteeme of soothsayers, as of their priests.

Of our first entrance among the Tartars, and of their ingratitude. Chap. II.

ANd being come amōgst those barbarous people, me thought (as I said before) y^t I was entred into a new world: for 35 they came flocking about vs on horse back, after they had made vs a long time to awaite for them sitting in the shadow, vnder their black carts. The first question which they demanded was whether we had euer bin with them heretofore, or no? And giuing thē answere that we had not, they began impudently to beg our which we had brought with vs from the towne of Soldaia. And hauing drunke off one flagon of our wine they demanded another, saying, that a man goeth not into the house with one foote. Howbeit we gaue them no more, excusing our selues that we had but a litle. Then they asked vs, whence we came, & whither we were bound? I answered them with the words aboue mentioned: that we had heard concerning duke Sartach, that he was become a Christian, & that vnto him our determination was to trauel, hauing your Maiesties letters to deliuer vnto him. They were very inquisitiue to know whether I came of mine own accord, or whether I were sent? I answered that no man compelled me to come, neither had I come, vnles I my selfe had bin willing: & that therefore I was come according to mine own wil, & to the will of my superior. I tooke diligent heed neuer to say that I was your Maiesties ambassador. Then they asked what I had in my carts; whether it were gold or siluer, or rich garments to carie vnto Sartach? I answered that Sartach should see what we had brought, when we were once come vnto him, & that they had nothing to do to aske such questions, but rather ought to conduct me vnto their captaine, and that he, if he thought good, should cause me to be directed vnto Sartach: if not, that I would returne. For there was in the same prouince one of Baatu his kinsmen called Scacati, vnto whom my lord the Emperor of Constantinople had written letters of request, to suffer me to passe through his territory. With this answeere of ours they were satisfied, giuing vs horses & oxen, & two men to conduct vs. Howbeit before they would allow vs the foresayd necessities for our iourney, they made vs to awayt a long while, begging our bread for their yong brats, wondering at all things which they sawe about our seruants, as their kniues, gloues, purses, & points, and desiring to haue them.

[p. 101] I excused my self that | we had a long way to trauel, & that we must in no wise so soon depriue our selues of things necessary, to finish so long a iourney. Then they said that I was a very varlet. True it is, that they tooke nothing by force frō me: howbeit they wil beg that which they see very importunatly & shamelesly. And if a man bestow ought vpon thē, it is but cost lost, for they are thankles wretches. They esteeme thēselues lords & think y^t nothing should be denied thē by any man. If a man giues them nought, & afterward stands in neede of their seruice, they will do right nought for him. They gaue vs of their coves milke to drink after y^e butter was cherned out of it, being very sower, which they cal Apram. And so we departed from thē. And in very deed it seemed to me y^t we were escaped out of the hands of diuels.

On the morrow we were come vnto the captain. From the time wherein we departed frō Soldaia till we arriued at the court of Sartach, which was the space of two moneths, we neuer lay in house or tent, but alwaies vnder the starry canopy, & in the open 5 aire, or vnder our carts. Neither yet saw we any village, nor any mention of building where a village had bin, but the graues of the Comanians in great abundance. The same evening our guide which had conducted vs, gaue vs some Cosmos. After I had drunke thereof I sweat most extreemly for the nouelty and 10 strangenes, because I neuer dranke of it before. Notwithstanding me thought it was very sauory, as indeed it was.

Of the court of Scacatai: and how the Christians drinke no Cosmos. Chap. 12.

ON the morrowe after we met with the cartes of Scacatai laden 15 with houses, and me thought that a mighty citie came to meete me. I wōdered also at the great multitude of huge droues of oxen, & horses, and at the flockes of sheepe. I could see but a fewe men that guided all these matters: wherupon I inquired how many men he had vnder him, & they told me that he had not
 20 about 500. in all, the one halfe of which number we were come past, as they lay in another lodging. Then the seruant which was our guide told me, that I must present somewhat vnto Scacatay: & so he caused vs to stay, going himselfe before to giue notice of our comming. By this time it was past three of the clocke, and
 25 they vnloaded their houses nere vnto a certain water: And there came vnto vs his interpreter, who being aduertised by vs that wee were neuer there before, demanded some of our victuals, & we yeelded vnto his request. Also he required of vs some garment for a reward, because he was to interpret our sayings vnto his 30 master. Howbeit we excused our selues as well as wee could. Then he asked vs, what we would present vnto his Lord? And we tooke a flagon of wine, & filled a maund with bisket, & a platter with apples and other fruits. But he was not contented therewith, because we brought him not some rich garment. Not-35 withstanding we entred so into his presence with feare and bashfulnes. He sate vpon his bed holding a citron in his hand, and his wife sate by him: who (as I verily thinke) had cut and pared her nose betweene the eyes, that she might seeme to be more flat and saddle-nosed: for she had left her selfe no nose at all ointment, and her eye browes also : which sight seemed most vgly in our eies. Then I rehearsed vnto him the same wordes, which I had spoken in other places before. For it stode vs in hand to vse one and the same speech in all places. For we were wel forewarned of this circumstance by some which had been amongst 5 the Tartars, that we should neuer varie in our tale. Then I besought him, that he would vouchsafe to accept that small gifte of our hands, excusing my selfe that I was a Monke, and that it was against our profession to possesse gold. or siluer, or precious garments, and therefore that I had not any such thing to giue 10 him, howbeit he should receiue some part of our victuals in stead of a blessing. Hereupon he caused our present to be receiued, and immediately distributed the same among his men, who were mette together for the same purpose, to drinke and make merrie.

I deliuered also vnto him the Emperor of Constantinople his 15 letters (this was eight dayes after the feast of Ascension) who sent them forthwith to Soldaia to haue them interpreted there : for they were written in Greeke, and he had none about him that was skilfull in the Greeke tongue. He asked vs also whether we would drink any Cosmos, that is to say mares milke? (For those 20 that are Christians among them, as namely the Russians, Grecians, and Alanians, who keep their own law very strictly, wil in no case drinke thereof, yea, they accompt themselues no Christians after they haue once drunke of it, & their priests reconcile them vnto the Church as if they had renounced the Christian faith.) I gaue 25 him answeare, that we had as yet sufficient of our owne to drinke, and that when our drinke failed vs, we must be constrained to drink such as should be giuen vnto vs. He enquired also what was contained in our letters, which your Maiestie sent vnto Sartach? I answered : that they were sealed vp, and that there 30 was nothing contained in them, but good and friendly wordes.
And he asked what wordes wee would deliuer vnto Sartach?
I answered : the words of Christian faith. He asked again what these words were? For he was very desirous to heare the. Then
I expounded vnto him as well as I | could, by mine interpreter, 35
(who had no wit nor any vtterance of speech) the Apostles creed.
Which after he had heard, holding his peace, he shooke his head.
Then hee assigned vnto vs two men, who shoulde giue attendance vpon our selues, vpon our horses, and vpon our Oxen. And hee caused vs to ride in his companie, till the messenger whome hee 40 had sent for the interpretation of the Emperours letters, was returned. And so we traueiled in his companie till the morowe after Pentecost.

[p. 102]

Howe the Alanians came vnto vs on Pentecost or Whitson euen. Chap. 13.

Vpon the euen of Pentecost, there came vnto vs certaine Alanians, who are there called *Acias, being Christians after the maner of the Grecians, vsing greeke bookes and Grecian priests: howbeit they are not schismatiques as the Grecians are, but without acceptiō of persons, they honour al Christiās. And they brought vnto vs sodden flesh, requesting vs to eat of their meat, and to pray for one of their company being dead. Then 10 I sayd, because it was the euen of so great and so solempne a feast day, that we would not eate any flesh for that time. And I expounded vnto them the solemnitie of the sayd feast, whereat they greatly reioyced: for they were ignorant of all things appertayning to Christian religion, except only the name of Christ.
15 They and many other Christians, both Russians, and Hungarians demanded of vs, whether they might be saued or no, because they were constrained to drinke Cosmos, & to eate the dead carkases of such things, as were slaine by the Saracens, and other infidels? Which euen the Greeke & Russian priests themselues also esteeme 20 as things strangled or offered vnto idoles: because they were ignorant of the times of fasting, neither could they haue obserued them albeit they had knowen them. Then instructed I them aswell as I could and strengthened them in the faith. As for the flesh which they had brought we reserued it vntill the feast day.
25 For there was nothing to be sold among the Tartars for gold & siluer, but only for cloth and garments, of the which kind of marchandise wee had none at all. When our seruants offered them any coine called Yperpera, they rubbed it with their fingers, and put it vnto their noses, to try by the smell whether it were 30 copper or no. Neither did they allow vs any foode but coves milke onely which was very sowre & filthy. There was one thing most necessary greatly wanting vnto vs. For the water was so foule and muddy by reason of their horses, that it was not meete to be drunk. And but for certaine bisket, which was 35 by the goodnes of God remaining vnto vs, we had vndoubtedly perished.

* Or, Akas.

Of a Saracen which said that he would be baptized :
and of certaine men which seemed to be lepers.

Chap. 14.

Vpon the day of Pentecost there came vnto vs a certain Saracen, vnto whome, as hee talked with vs, we expounded 5 the Christian faith. Who (hearing of Gods benefits exhibited vnto mankind by the incarnation of our Sauour Christ, and the resurrection of the dead, & the iudgement to come, & that in baptisme was a washing away of sinnes) sayd, that hee would be baptized. But when we prepared our selues to the baptizing of 10 him, he suddenly mounted on horsebacke, saying that he would goe home and consult with his wife what were best to be done.
And on the morrow after he told vs, that he durst in no case receiue baptisme, because then he should drinke no more Cosmos.
For the Christians of that place affirme that no true Christians 15 ought to drinke thereof: and that without the said liquor he could not liue in that desert. From which opinion, I could not for my life remoue him. Wherefore be it knowne of a certainty vnto your highnes, that they are much estranged from the Christian faith by reason of that opinion which hath bin broached & con- 20 firmed among them by the Russians, of whom there is a great multitude in that place. The same day Scacatay the captaine aforesayd gaue vs one man to conduct vs to Sartach, and two other to guide vs vnto the next lodging, which was distant from that place fīue dayes iourney for oxen to trauell. They gaue vnto 25 vs also a goate for victuals, and a great many bladders of cōwes milke, & but a little Cosmos, because it is of so great estimation among them. And so taking our iourney directly toward the North, me thought that wee had passed through one of hell gates.
The seruants which conducted vs began to play the bold theeues 30 with vs, seeing vs take so little heed vnto our selues. At length hauiug lost much by their theeuery, harme taught vs wisdomē.
And then we came vnto the extremity of that prouince, which is fortified with a ditch from one sea vnto another: without the bounds wherof their lodging was situate. Into the which, so 35 sooue as we had entred, al the inhabitants there seemed vnto vs to be infected with leprosie: for certain base fellowes were placed there to receiue tribute of al such as tooke salt out of the salt pits aforesaid. From that place | they told vs that we must trauel fīfteen daies iourney, before we shuld find any other people. With 40 them wee dranke Cosmos, and gaue vnto them a basket full of frutes and of bisket. And they gaue vnto vs eight oxen and one goate, to sustaine vs in so great a iourney, and I knowe not how many bladders of milke. And so changing our oxen, we 5 tooke our iournie which we finished in tenne dayes, arriuing at another lodging: neither found we any water all that way, but onely in certaine ditches made in the valleys, except two small riuers. And from the time wherein we departed out of the fore-said prouince of Gasaria, we trauiled directly Eastward, hauing 10 a Sea on the South side of vs, and a waste desert on the North, which desert, in some places, reacheth twenty daies iourney in breadth, and there is neither tree, mountaine, nor stone therein.

 And it is most excellent pasture. Here the Comanians, which were called Caphthac, were wont to feede their cattell. Howbeit 15 by the Dutch men they are called Valani, and the prouince it selfe Valania. But Isidore calleth all that tract of land stretching from the riuier of Tanais to the lake of Meotis, and so along as farre as Danubius, the countrey of Alania. And the same land continueth in length from Danubius vnto Tanais (which diuideth Asia from 20 Europe) for the space of two moneths iourney, albeit a man should ride poste as fast as the Tartars vse to ride: and it was all ouer inhabited by the Comanians, called Caphthac: yea and beyond Tanais, as farre as the riuier of Edil or Volga: the space betweene the two which riuers is a great and long iourney to bee 25 trauiled in ten dayes. To the North of the same prouince lieth Russia, which is full of wood in all places, and stretcheth from Polonia and Hungaria, euen to the riuier of Tanais: and it hath bene wasted all ouer by the Tartars, and as yet is daily wasted by them.

30 Of our afflictions which we sustained: and of the Comanians maner of buriall. Chap. 15.

They preferre the Saracens before the Russians, because they are Christians, and when they are able to giue them no more golde nor siluer, they driue them and their children like 35 flockes of sheepe into the wildernes, constraining them to keepe their cattell there. Beyond Russia lieth the countrey of Prussia, which the Dutch knights of the order of Saint Maries hospitall of Ierusalem haue of late wholly conquered and subdued. And in very deede they might easily winne Russia, if they would put to 40 their helping hand. For if the Tartars should but once knowe, that the great Priest, that is to say, the Pope did cause the ensigne of the crosse to bee displaied against them, they would flee all into their desert and solitarie places. We therefore went on towards the East, seeing nothing but heauen and earth, and sometimes the sea on our right hand, called the Sea of Tanais, and the sepulchres of the Comanians, which appeared vnto vs two leagues off, in which places they were wont to burie their kinred altogether. So long as we were traueiling through the desert, it went reasonably well with vs. For I cannot sufficiently expresse in words the irkesome and tedious troubles which I sustained, when I came at any of their places of abode. For our guide would haue vs goe in vnto euery Captaine with a present, and our expenses would not extend so farre. For we were euery day eight persons of vs spending our waifaring prouision, for the Tartars seruants would all of them eate of our victuals. We our selues were fīue in number, and the seruants our guides were three, two to driue our carts, and one to conduct vs vnto Sartach. The flesh which they gaue vs was not sufficient for vs: neither could we finde any thing to be bought for our money. And as we sate vnder our carts in the coole shadowe, by reason of the extreame and vehement heate which was there at that time, they did so importunately and shamelesly intrude themselues into our companie, that they would euen tread vpon vs, to see whatsoeuer things we had. Hauing list at any time to ease themselues, the filthy lozels had not the maners to withdrawe themselues farther from vs, then a beane can bee cast. Yea, like vile slouens they would lay their tailles in our presence, while they were yet talking with vs: many other things they committed, which were most tedious and loathsome vnto vs. But aboue all things it grieved me to the very heart, that when I would vtter ought vnto them, which might tend to their edification, my foolish interpreter would say: you shall not make me become a Preacher now: I tell you, I cannot nor I will not rehearse any such wordes. And true it was which he saide, For I perceiued afterward, when I began to haue a litle smattering in the language, that when I spake one thing, he would say quite another, whatsoeuer came next vnto his witlesse tongues end. Then seeing the danger I might incurre in speaking by such an interpreter, I resolued much rather to holde my peace, and thus we traueiled with great toile from lodging to lodging, till at the length, a fewe dayes before the feast of Saint Marie Magdalene, we arriued at the banke of the mightie riuer Tanais which diuideth Asia from Europa, euen as the riuer Nilus of Ægypt disioyneth Asia from Africa. At the same place where wee arriued, Baatu and Sartach did cause a certaine cotlage to be built, vpon [p. 104] the Easterne banke of the riuier, for a companie of Russians to dwell in to the ende they might transport Ambassadors and merchants in ferrie-boates ouer that part of the riuier. First they 5 ferried vs ouer, and then our carts, putting one wheele into one lyter, and the other wheele into another lyter, hauing bounde both the lyters together, and so they rowe them ouer. In this place our guide played the foole most extreemely. For hee imagining that the said Russians, dwelling in the cottage, should haue 10 prouided vs horses, sent home the beasts which we brought with vs, in another cart, y^t they might returne vnto their owne masters.

And when we demanded to haue some beasts of thē, they answered, that they had a priuiledge from Baatu, wherby they were bound to none other seruice, but only to ferry ouer goers 15 & commers: and that they receiued great tribute of marchants in regard therof. We staid therfore by the said riuers side three daies. The first day they gaue vnto vs a great fresh turbut: the second day they bestowed rye bread, and a litle flesh vpon vs, which the purueyer of the village had taken vp at euerie house for 20 vs: and the third day dried fishes, which they haue there in great abundance. The saide riuier was euen as broad in that place, as the riuier of Sein is at Paris. And before we came there, we passed ouer many goodly waters, and full of fish: howbeit the barbarous and rude Tartars know not how to take them: neither do they 25 make any reckoning of any fish, except it be so great, that they may pray vpon the flesh therof, as vpon the flesh of a ram. This riuier is the limite of the East part of Russia, and it springeth out of the fennes of Mæotis, which fennes stretch vnto the North Ocean. And it runneth Southward into a certain great sea 700.
30 miles about, before it falleth into the sea called Pōtus Euxinus.
And al the riuers, which we passed ouer, ran with ful stream into those quarters. The foresaid riuier hath great store of wood also growing vpon the West side thereof. Beyond this place the Tartars ascend no farther vnto the North: for at that season of 35 the yeere, about the first of August, they begin to returne backe vnto the South. And therfore there is another cottage somewhat lower, where passengers are ferried ouer in Winter time. And in this place wee were driuen to great extremitie, by reason that we could get neither horses, nor oxen for any money. At length, 40 after I had declared vnto them, that my comming was to labour for the common good of all Christians, they sent vs oxen & men; howbeit we our selues were faine to trauel on foote. At this time they were reaping their rye. Wheat prospereth not wel in that soile. They haue the seed of Millium in great abundance. The Russian women attire their heads like vnto our women. They imbroder their safegards or gowns on the outside, from their feet vnto their knees with particoloured or grey stuffe. The Russian men weare caps like vnto the Dutch men. Also they weare vpon 5 their heads certain sharpe, & high-crowned hats made of felt, much like vnto a sugar loafe. Then traueiled we 3. daies together, not finding any people. And when our selues and our oxen were exceeding weary and faint, not knowing how far off we should find any Tartars, on the sudden, there came two horses running 10 towards vs, which we tooke with great ioy, and our guide and interpreter mounted vpon their backs, to see, how far off they could descry any people. At length vpon the fourth day of our journey, hauing found some inhabitants, we reioyced like sea-faring men, which had escaped out of a dangerous tempest, and 15 had newly recouered the hauen. Then hauing taken fresh horses, and oxen, we passed on from lodging to lodging, till at the last, vpon the second of the Kalends of August, we arriued at the habitation of Duke Sartach himselfe.

Of the dominion of Sartach, and of his Subiects. 20

Chap. 16.

THE region lying beyond Tanais, is a very goodly countrey, hauing store of riuers and woods toward the North part thereof. There be mighty huge woods which two sorts of people do inhabite. One of them is called Moxel, being meere Pagans, 25 and without law. They haue neither townes nor cities, but only cottages in y^e woods. Their lord & a great part of themselves were put to the sword in high Germanie. Whereupon they highly commend the braue courage of the Almans, hoping as yet to be deliuered out of the bondage of the Tartars, by their meanes. If 30 any merchant come vnto them, he must prouide things necessary for him, with whom he is first of all entertained, all the time of his abode among them. If any lieth with another mans wife, her husband, vnles he be an eiewitnes therof, regardeth it not: for they are not ielous ouer their wiues. They haue abundance of 35 hogs, and great store of hony & waxe, and diuers sorts of rich and costly skins, and plentie of falcons. Next vnto them are other people called Merclas, which the Latines call Merdui, and they are Saracens. Beyond them is the riuier of Etilia or Volga, which is y^e mightiest riuier that euer I saw. And it issueth from 40

the North part of Bulgaria the greater, & so trending along Southward, disimboqueth into a certain lake cōtaining in circuit the space of 4. moneths trauel, whereof I will speak hereafter. The two foresaid riuers, namely Tanais & Etilia, otherwise called
 5 Volga, towards the Northern regions through the which we traueiled, are not distāt asunder aboue x. daies iourney, | but Southward they are diuided a great space one from another. For Tanais descēdeth into the sea of Pontus: Etilia maketh the foresaid sea or lake, with the help of many other riuers which fal
 10 therinto out of Persia. And we had to the South of vs huge high mountains, vpon the sides wherof, towards the said desert, doe the people called Cergis, and the Alani or Acas inhabit, who are as yet Christians, & wage warre against the Tartars. Beyond thē,
 15 next vnto the sea or lake of Etilia, there are certaine Saracens called Lesgi, who are in subiECTION vnto the Tartars. Beyond these is Porta ferrea, or the yron gate, nowe called Derbent, which Alexander built to exclude the barbarous nations out of Persia. Concerning the situation whereof, your maiestie shall vnderstand more about the end of this Treatise: for I trauailed in my returne 20 by the very same place. Betweene the two foresaid riuers, in the regions through the which we passed did the Comanians of olde time inhabite, before they were ouerrun by the Tartars.

Of the Court of Sartach, and of the magnificence thereof. Chap. 17.

25 AND we found Sartach lying within three daies iourney of the riuier Etilia: whose Court seemed vnto vs to be very great. For he himselfe had sixe wiues, and his eldest sonne also had three wiues: euery one of which women hath a great house, & they haue ech one of them about 200. cartes. Our guide went 30 vnto a certaine Nestorian named Coiat, who is a man of great authoritie in Sartachs Court. He made vs to goe very farre vnto the Lordes gate. For so they call him, who hath the office of entreteining Ambassadors. In the euening Coiac commanded vs to come vnto him. Then our guide began to enquire what we 35 would present him withal, & was exceedingly offended, when he saw that we had nothing ready to present. We stode before him, and he sate maiestically, hauing musicke and dauncing in his presence. Then I spake vnto him in the wordes before recited, telling him, for what purpose I was come vnto his lorde, and 40 requesting so much fauour at his hands, as to bring our letters

vnto the sight of his Lord. I excused my selfe also, that I was a Monke, not hauing, nor receiuing, nor vsing any golde, or siluer, or any other precious thing, saue onely our bookes, and the vestiments wherein wee serued God: and that this was the cause why I brought no present vnto him, nor vnto his Lord. For I that 5 had abandoned mine owne goods, could not be a transporter of things for other men. Then hee answered very courteously, that being a Monke, and so doing, I did well: for so I should obserue my vowe: neither did himselfe stand in neede of ought that we had, but rather was readie to bestow vpon vs such things as we 10 our selues stood in neede of: and he caused vs to sit downe, and to drinke of his milke. And presently after he requested vs to say our deuotions for him: and we did so. He enquired also who was the greatest Prince among the Franckes? And I saide, the Emperour, if he could inioy his owne dominions in quiet. No 15 (quoth he) but the king of France. For he had heard of your Highnes by lord Baldwine of Henault. I found there also one of the Knights of the Temple, who had bene in Cyprus, and had made report of all things which he sawe there. Then returned wee vnto our lodging. And on the morow we sent him a flagon of 20 Muscadel wine (which had lasted very wel in so long a iourney) and a boxe full of bisket, which was most acceptable vnto him. And he kept our seruants with him for that euening. The next morning he commanded me to come vnto the Court, and to bring the kings letters and my vestimentes, and bookes with me: because 25 his Lorde was desirous to see them. Which we did accordingly, lading one cart with our bookes and vestiments, and another with bisket, wine, and frutes. Then he caused all our bookes and vestiments to bee laide forth. And there stode round about vs many Tartars, Christians and Saracens on horseback. At the 30 sight whereof, he demanded whether I would bestow all those things vpon his Lord or no? Which saying made me to tremble, and grieued me full sore. Howbeit, dissembling our grieue as well as we could, we shaped him this answere: Sir, our humble request is, that our Lorde your master would vouchsafe to accept our 35 bread, wine, and fruits, not as a present, because it is too meane, but as a benediction, least we should come with an emptie hand before him. And he shall see the letters of my souereigne Lord the king, and by them he shall vnderstand for what cause we are come vnto him, and then both our selues, and all that we haue, 40 shall stand to his curtesie: for our vestiments be holy, and it is vnlawfull for any but Priests to touch them. Then he commaunded vs to inuest our selues in the saide garments, that we might goe before his Lord : and wee did so. Then I my selfe putting on our most precious ornaments, tooke in mine armes a very faire cushion, and the Bible which your Maiesty gaue me, and a most beautifull Psalter, which the Queenes Grace bestowed

 5 vpon me, wherein there were goodly pictures. Mine associate tooke a missal and a crosse : and the clearke hauing put on his surplesse, tooke a censer in his hand. And so wee came vnto the presence of his Lord : and they lifted vp the felt hanging before his doore, that hee might | behold vs. Then they caused the [p. 106]
 10 clearke and the interpreter thrise to bow the knee : but of vs they required no such submission. And they diligently admonished vs to take heed, that in going in, and in comming out, we touched not the threshold of the house, and requested vs to sing a benediction for him. Then we entred in, singing Salue Regina. And 15 within the entrance of the doore, stood a bench with cosmos, and drinking cups thereupon. And all his wiues were there assembled. Also the Moals or rich Tartars thrusting in with vs pressed vs sore. Then Coiat caried vnto his lord the censer with incense, which he beheld very diligently, holding it in his hand. Afterward hee
 20 caried the Psalter vnto him, which he looked earnestly vpon, and his wife also that sate beside him. After that he caried the Bible: then Sartach asked if the Gospel were contained therein? Yea (said I) and all the holy scriptures besides. He tooke the crosse also in his hand, and demanded concerning the image, whether it
 25 were the image of Christ or no? I said it was. The Nestorians & the Armenians do neuer make the figure of Christ vpō their crosses. Wherefore either they seem not to think wel of his passion, or els they are ashamed of it. Then he caused them that stood about vs, to stand aside, that he might more fully behold 30 our ornaments. Afterward I deliuered vnto him your Maiesties letters, with the translation therof into the Arabike, & Syriake languages. For I caused them to be translated at Acon into the character, & dialect of both the saide tongues. And there were certain Armenian priests, which had skil in the Turkish &
 35 Arabian languages. The aforesaid knight also of the order of the Temple had knowledge in the Syriake, Turkish, & Arabian tongues. Then we departed forth, and put off our vestiments, and there came vnto vs certaine Scribes together with the foresaid Coiat, & caused our letters to be interpreted. Which letters being heard, 40 he caused our bread, wine and fruits to be receiued. And he permitted vs also to carie our vestiments and bookes vnto our owne lodging. This was done vpon the feast of S. Peter ad vincula.

How they were giuen in charge to goe vnto Baatu the Father of Sartach. Chap. 18.

THe next morning betimes came vnto vs a certaine Priest, who was brother vnto Coiat, requesting to haue our boxe of Chrisme, because Sartach (as he said) was desirous to see it : and so we gaue it him. About euentide Coiat sent for vs, saying : My lord your king wrote good words vnto my lord and master Sartach.
Howbeit there are certaine matters of difficulty in them concerning which he dare not determine ought, without the aduise and counsell of his father. And therfore of necessitie you must depart vnto his father, leauing behind you the two carts, which you brought hither yesterday with vestiments and bookes, in my custodie : because my lorde is desirous to take more diligent view thereof. I presently suspecting what mischief might ensue by his couetousnes, said vnto him : Sir, we will not onely leaue those with you, but the two other carts also, which we haue in our possession, will we commit vnto your custodie. You shall not (quoth he) leaue those behinde you, but for the other two carts first named, we will satisfie your request. I saide that this could not conueniently be done : but needes we must leaue all with him. Then he asked, whether we meant to tarie in the land ? I answered : If you thoroughly vnderstand the letters of my lorde the king, you know that we are euen so determined. Then he replied, that we ought to bee patient and lowly : and so we departed from him that euening. On the morrowe after he sent a Nestorian Priest for the carts, and we caused all the foure carts to be deliuered. Then came the foresaid brother of Coiat to meet vs, and separated all those things, which we had brought the day before vnto the Court, from the rest, namely, the bookes and vestiments, and tooke them away with him. Howbeit Coiat had commanded, that we should carie those vestiments with vs, which wee ware in the presence of Sartach, that we might put them on before Baatu, if neede should require : but the said Priest tooke them from vs by violence, saying : thou hast brought them vnto Sartach, and wouldest thou carie them vnto Baatu ? And when I would have rendred a reason, he answered : be not too talkatiue, but goe your wayes. Then I saue that there was no remedie but patience : for wee could haue no accesse vnto Sartach himselfe, neither was there any other, that would doe vs iustice. I was afraide also in regard of the interpreter, least he had spoken other things then I saide vnto him: for his will was good that we should have giuen away all that wee had. There was yet one comfort remaining vnto me: for when I once perceiued their couetous intent, I conueyed from among our bookes the Bible, and the sentences, and certaine other bookes which I made speciall account of. Howbeit I durst not take away the Psalter of my soueraigne Lady the Queene, because it was too wel known, by reason of the golden pictures therein. And so we returned with the two other carts vnto our lodging. Then came he that was appointed to be our guide vnto the court of Baatu, willing vs to take our iourney in all poste-haste: vnto whom I said, that I would in no case haue the carts to goe with me. Which thing he declared vnto Coiat. Then Coiat commaun|ded, that we should leaue them and our seruant with him: And we did as he commanded. And so traueling directly Eastward towards Baatu, the third day we came to Etilia or Volga: the streams whereof when I beheld, I wondered from what regions of the North such huge and mighty waters should descend. Before we were departed from Sartach, the foresaid Coiat, with many other Scribes of the court said vnto vs: doe not make report that our Lord is a Christian, but a Moal. Because the name of a Christian seemeth vnto them to be the name of some nation. So great is their pride, that albeit they beleeeue perhaps some things concerning Christ, yet will they not bee called Christians, being desirous that their owne name, that is to say, Moal should be exalted aboue all other names. Neither wil they be called by the name of Tartars. For the Tartars were another nation, as I was informed by them.

Howe Sartach, and Mangu-Can, and Ken-Can doe reuerence vnto Christians. Chap. 19.

AT the same time when the French-men tooke Antioch, a certaine man named Con Can had dominion ouer the Northren regions, lying thereabouts. Con is a proper name: Can is a name of authority or dignitie, which signifieth a diuiner or soothsayer. All diuiners are called Can amongst them. Whereupon their princes are called Can, because that vnto them belongeth the gouernment of the people by diuination. Wee doe reade also in the historie of Antiochia, that the Turkes sent for aide against the French-men, vnto the kingdome of Con Can. For out of those parts the whole nation of the Turkes first came. The said Con was of the nation of Kara-Catay. Kara signifieth blacke, and Catay is the name of a countrey. So that Kara-Catay signifieth the blacke Catay. This name was giuen to make a difference between the foresaid people, and the people of Catay, inhabiting Eastward ouer against y^e Ocean sea : concerning whom your maiesty shall vnderstand more hereafter. These 5 Catayans dwelt vpon certaine Alpes, by the which I trauailed. And in a certain plaine countrey within those Alpes, there inhabited a Nestorian shepheard, being a mighty gouernour ouer the people called Yayman, which were Christians, following the sect of Nestorius. After the death of Con Can, the said Nestorian 10 exalted himselfe to the kingdome, and they called him King Iohn, reporting ten times more of him then was true. For so the Nestorians which come out of those parts, vse to doe. For they blaze abroad great rumors, and reports vpon iust nothing. Whereupon they gaue out concerning Sartach, that he was become 15 a Christian, and the like also they reported concerning Mangu Can, and Ken Can : namely because these Tartars make more account of Christians, then they doe of other people, and yet in very deede, themselues are no Christians. So likewise there went forth a great report concerning the said king Iohn. Howbeit, 20 when I trauailed along by his territories, there was no man that knew any thing of him, but onely a fewe Nestorians. In his pastures or territories dwelleth Ken Can, at whose Court Frier Andrew was. And I my selfe passed by it at my returne. This Iohn had a brother, being a mightie man also, and a shepheard 25 like himselfe, called Vut, and he inhabited beyond the Alpes of Cara Catay, being distant from his brother Iohn, the space of three weekes iourney. He was lord ouer a certain village, called Cara Carum, hauing people also for his subiects, named Crit, or Merkit, who were Christians of the sect of Nestorius. But their 30 Lorde abandoning the worship of Christ, followed after idoles, reteining with him Priests of the saide idoles, who all of them are worshippers of deuils and sorcerers. Beyond his pastures some tenne or fiteene dayes iourney, were the pastures of Moal, who were a poore and beggerly nation, without gouernour, and without 35 Lawe, except their soothsayings, and their diuinations, vnto the which detestable studies, all in those partes doe apply their mindes. Neere vnto Moal were other poore people called Tartars. The foresaid king Iohn died without issue male, and thereupon his brother Vut was greatly enriched, and caused himselfe to be 40 named Can : and his droues and flockes raunged euen vnto the borders of Moal. About the same time there was one Cyngis, a blacke smith among the people of Moal. This Cyngis stole as many cattel from Vut Can, as he could possibly get : insomuch that the shepheards of Vut complained vnto their Lord. Then prouided he an armie, and marched vp into the countrey of Moal 5 to seeke for the saide Cyngis. But Cyngis fledde among the Tartars, and hidde himselfe amongst them. And Vut hauing taken some spoiles both from Moal, and also from the Tartars, returned home. Then spake Cyngis vnto the Tartars, and vnto the people of Moal, saying: Sirs, because we are destitute of a gouernour

 10 and Captaine, you see howe our neighbours do oppresse vs. And the Tartars and Moals appointed him to be their Chieftaine. Then hauing secretly gathered together an armie, he brake in suddenly vpon Vut, and ouercame him, and Vut fledde into Cataya. At the same time was the daughter of Vut taken, which
 15 Cyngis | married vnto one of his sonnes, by whom she conceiued, [p. 108] & brought forth the great Can, which now reigneth, called Mangu-
 Can. Then Cyngis sent y^e Tartars before him in al places where he came: and thereupon was their name published and spread 20 abroade: for in all places the people woulde crie out: Loe, the Tartars come, the Tartars come. Howbeit, through continuall warres, they are now, all of them in a maner, consumed and brought to nought. Whereupon the Moals indeuour what they can, to extinguish the name of the Tartars, that they may exalt their owne name. The countrey wherein they first inhabited, and 25 where the Court of Cyngis Can as yet remaineth, is called Mancherule. But because Tartaria is the region, about which they haue obtained their conquests, they esteeme that as their royall and chiefe citie, and there for the most part doe they elect their great Can. Mancherule.

30 Of the Russians, Hungarians, and Alanians: and of the Caspian Sea. Chap. 20.

NOW, as concerning Sartach, whether he beleuees in Christ, or no, I knowe not. This I am sure of, that he will not be called a Christian. Yea rather he seemeth vnto mee to deride 35 and skoffe at Christians. He lieth in the way of the Christians, as namely of the Russians, the Valachians, the Bulgarians of Bulgaria the lesser, the Soldaianes, the Kerkis, and the Alanians: who all of them passe by him, as they are going to the Court of his father Baatu, to carie giftes: whereupon he is more in league with them.
 40 Howbeit, if the Saracens come, and bring greater giftes then they, they are dispatched sooner. He hath about him certaine Nestorian

Priestes, who pray vpon their beades, and sing their deuotions. Also, there is another vnder Baatu called Berta, who feedeth his cattell toward Porta ferrea, or Derbent, where lieth the passage of all those Saracens, which come out of Persia, and out of Turkie to goe vnto Baatu, and passing by, they giue rewards vnto him. 5 And he professeth himselfe to be a Saracene, and will not permit swines flesh to be eaten in his dominions. Howbeit, at the time of our returne, Baatu commanded him to remoue himselfe from that place, and to inhabite vpon the East side of Volga: for hee was vnwilling that the Saracens messengers should passe by the 10 saide Berta, because he sawe it was not for his profite. For the space of foure dayes while we remained in the court of Sartach, we had not any victuals at all allowed vs, but once onely a litle Cosmos. And in our iourney betweene him and his father, wee traueiled in great feare. For certaine Russians, Hungarians, and 15 Alanians being seruants vnto the Tartars (of whom they haue great multitudes among them) assemble themselues twentie or thirtie in a companie, and so secretly in the night conueying themselues from home, they take bowes and arrowes with them, and whomesoeuer they finde in the night season, they put him to 20 death, hiding themselues in the day time. And hauing tired their horses, they goe in the night vnto a company of other horses feeding in some pasture, and change them for newe, taking with them also one or two horses besides, to eate them when they stand in neede. Our guide therefore was sore afraide, least we 25 should haue met with such companions. In this iourney wee had died for famine, had we not caried some of our bisket with vs. At length we came vnto the mighty riuier of Etilia, or Volga. For it is foure times greater, then the riuier of Sein, and of a wonderfull depth: and issuing forth of Bulgaria the greater, it runneth into a 30 certaine lake or sea, which of late they cal the Hircan sea, according to the name of a certain citie in Persia, standing vpon the shore thereof. Howbeit Isidore calleth it the Caspian sea. For it hath the Caspian mountaines and the land of Persia situate on the South side thereof: and the mountaines of Musihet, that is to 35 say, of the people called Assassini towards the East, which mountaines are conioyned vnto the Caspian mountaines: but on the North side thereof lieth the same desert, wherein the Tartars doe now inhabite. Howbeit heretofore there dwelt certaine people called Changlæ. And on that side it receiuethe the streams of 40 Etilia; which riuier increaseth in Sommer time, like vnto the riuier Nilus in Ægypt. Vpon the West part thereof, it hath the mountaines of Alani, and Lesgi, and Porta ferrea, or Derbent, and the mountaines of Georgia. This Sea therefore is compassed in on three sides with the mountaines, but on the North side with plaine ground. Frier Andrew, in his iourney traueiled round about two sides therof, namely the South and the East sides: 5 and I my selfe about other two, that is to say, the North side in going from Baatu to Mangu-Can, and in returning likewise: and the West side in comming home from Baatu into Syria. A man may traueil round about it in foure moneths. And it is not true which Isidore reporteth, namely that this Sea is a bay or gulfe 10 comming forth of the Ocean: for it doeth, in no part thereof, ioyned with the Ocean, but is inuironed on all sides with lande.

15 AL the region extending from the West shore of the foresaid sea, where Alexanders Iron gate, otherwise called the city of Derbent, is situate, and from the mountaines of Alania, all along by the fennes of Męotis, whereinto the riuer of Tanais falleth, and so forth, to the North Ocean, was wont to be called Albania. Of 20 which countrey Isidore reporteth, that there be dogs of such an huge stature, and so fierce, that they are able in fight to match bulles, and to master lions. Which is true, as I vnderstand by diuers, who tolde me, that there towards the North Ocean they make their dogges to draw in carts like oxen, by reason of their bignes and strength. Moreouer, vpon that part of Etilia where 25 we arriued, there is a new cottage built, wherein they haue placed Tartars and Russians both together, to ferrie ouer, and transport messengers going and comming to and fro the court of Baatu. For Baatu remaineth vpon the farther side towards the East. Neither ascendeth hee in Sommer time more Northward then the 30 foresaide place where we arriued, but was euen then descending to the South. From Ianuarie vntill August both he and all other Tartars ascend by the banks of riuers towards cold and Northerly regions, and in August they begin to returne backe againe. We passed downe the streame therefore in a barke, from the foresaid 35 cottage vnto his court. From the same place vnto the villages of Bulgaria the greater, standing toward the North, it is fīue dayes iourney. I wonder what deuill caried the religion of Mahomet thither. For, from Derbent, which is vpon the extreame borders of Persia, it is aboue 30. daies iourney to passe ouerthwart the 40 desert, and so to ascend by the banke of Etilia, into the foresaid country of Bulgaria. All which way there is no citie, but onely certaine cottages neere vnto that place where Etilia falleth into the sea. Those Bulgarians are most wicked Saracens, more earnestly professing the dānable religion of Mahomet, then any other nation whatsoever. Moreouer, when I first beheld the court of Baatu, I 5 was astonied at the sight thereof: for his houses or tents seemed as though they had bene some huge and mighty citie, stretching out a great way in length, the people ranging vp and downe about it for the space of some three or foure leagues. And euen as the people of Israel knew euery man, on which side of the tabernacle 10 to pitch his tent: euen so euery one of them knoweth right well, towards what side of the court he ought to place his house when he takes it from off the cart. Wherupon the court is called in their language Horda, which signifieth, the midst: because the gouernour or chieftaine among them dwels alwaies in the midst 15 of his people: except onely that directly towards the South no subiect or inferiour person placeth himselfe, because towards that region the court gates are set open: but vnto the right hand, and the left hand they extend thēselues as farre as they will, according to the conueniencie of places, so that they place not their houses 20 directly opposite against the court. At our arriual we were conducted vnto a Saracen, who provided not for vs any victuals at all. The day following, we were brought vnto the court: and Baatu had caused a large tent to be erected, because his house or ordinarie tent could not containe so many men and women as 25 were assembled. Our guide admonished vs not to speake, till Baatu had giuen vs commandement so to doe, and that then we should speake our mindes briefly. Then Baatu demanded whether your Maiestie had sent Ambassadors vnto him or no? I answered, that your Maiestie had sent messengers to Ken-Can: and that 30 you would not haue sent messengers vnto him, or letters vnto Sartach, had not your Highnes bene perswaded that they were become Christians: because you sent not vnto them for any feare, but onely for congratulation, and curtesies sake, in regard that you heard they were conuerted to Christianitie. Then led he vs vnto 35 his pavilion: and wee were charged not to touch the cordes of the tent, which they account in stead of the threshold of the house. There we stode in our habite bare-footed, and bare-headed, and were a great and strange spectacle in their eyes. For indeed Frier Iohn de Plano Carpini had byn there before my cōming: howbeit, 40 because he was the Popes messenger, he changed his habit that he might not be contemned. Then we were brought into the very midst of the tent, neither required they of vs to do any reuerence

by bowing our knees, as they vse to doe of other messengers. Wee stood therefore before him for the space wherein a man might haue rehearsed the Psalme, Miserere mei Deus: and there was great silence kept of all men. Baatu himselfe sate vpon 5 a seate long and broad like vnto a bed, guilt all ouer, with three staires to ascend thereunto, and one of his ladies sate beside him. The men there assembled, sate downe scattering, some on the right hand of the saide Lady, and some on the left. Those places on the one side which the women filled not vp (for there were 10 only the wiues of Baatu) were supplied by the men. Also, at the very entrance of the tent, stode a bench furnished with cosmos, and with stately great cuppes of siluer, and golde, beeing richly set with precious stones. Baatu beheld vs earnestly, and we him: and he seemed to me to resemble in personage, Mon[sieur] Iohn [p. 110]
 15 de beau mont, whose soule resteth in peace. And hee had a fresh ruddie colour in his countenance. At length he commanded vs to speake. Then our guide gaue vs direction, that wee should bow our knees & speake. Wherupon I bowed one knee as vnto a man: then he signified that I should kneele vpon
 20 both knees: and I did so, being loath to contend about such circumstaunces. And again he cominanded me to speake. Then I thinking of praier vnto God, because I kneeled on both my knees, began to pray on this wise: Sir, we beseech the Lord, from whom all good things doe proceed, and who hath giuen you these earthly 25 benefites, that it would please him hereafter to make you partaker of his heauēly blessings: because the former without these are but vain and unprofitable. And I added further. Be it knowen vnto you of a certainty, that you shal not obtain the ioyes of heauen, vnles you become a Christian: for God saith, Whosoeuer be-
 30 leeueth & is baptized, shalbe saued: but he that beleeueth not, shalbe condemned. At this word he modestly smiled: but the other Moals began to clap their hands, and to deride vs. And my silly interpreter, of whom especially I should haue receiued comfort in time of need, was himself abashed & vtterly dasht out of 35 countenance. Then, after silence made, I said vnto him, I came vnto your sonne, because we heard that he was become a Christian: and I brought vnto him letters on the behalfe of my souereigne Lord the king of France: and your sonne sent me hither vnto you. The cause of my comming therefore is best 40 known vnto your selfe. Then he caused me to rise vp. And he enquired your maiesties name, and my name, and the name of mine associate and interpreter, and caused them all to be put down in writing. He demaunded likewise (because he had bene informed, that you were departed out of your owne countreys with an armie) against whom you waged warre? I answered: against the Saracens, who had defiled the house of God at Ierusalem. He asked also, whether your Highnes had euer before that time sent any messengers vnto him, or no? To you sir? (said I) neuer. 5 Then caused he vs to sit downe, and gaue vs of his milke to drinke, which they account to be a great fauour, especially when any man is admitted to drinke Cosmos with him in his own house. And as I sate looking downe vpon the ground, he commanded me to lift vp my countenance, being desirous as yet to take more 10 diligent view of vs, or els perhaps for a kinde of superstitious obseruation. For they esteeme it a signe of ill lucke, or a prognostication of euill vnto them, when any man sits in their presence, holding downe his head, as if he were sad: especially when he leanes his cheeke or chinne vpon his hand. Then we 15 departed forth, and immediatly after came our guide vnto vs, and conducting vs vnto our lodging, saide vnto me: Your master the King requesteth that you may remaine in this land, which request Baatu cannot satisfie without the knowledge and consent of Mangu-Can. Wherefore you, and your interpreter must of 20 necessitie goe vnto Mangu-Can. Howbeit your associate, and the other man shall returne vnto the court of Sartach, staying there for you, till you come backe. Then began the man of God mine interpreter to lament, esteeming himselfe but a dead man. Mine associate also protested, that they should sooner chop off 25 his head, then withdrawe him out of my companie. Moreouer I my selfe saide, that without mine associate I coulde not goe: and that we stood in neede of two seruants at the least, to attend vpon vs, because, if one should chance to fall sicke, we could not be without another. Then returning vnto the court, he told these 30 sayings vnto Baatu. And Baatu commanded saying: let the two Priests and the interpreter goe together, but let the clearke returne vnto Sartach. And comming againe vnto vs, hee tolde vs euen so. And when I would haue spoken for the clearke to haue had him with vs, he saide: No more words: for Baatu hath resolved, 35 that so it shall be, and therefore I dare not goe vnto the court any more. Goset the clearke had remaining of the almes money bestowed vpon him, 26. Yperperas, and no more; 10. whereof he kept for himselfe and for the lad, and 16. he gaue vnto the man of God for vs. And thus were we parted asunder with teares: he 40 returning vnto the court of Sartach, and our selues remaining still in the same place.

Of our iourney towards the Court of Mangu Can.
Chap. 22.

Vpon Assumption euen our clearke arriued at the court of Sartach. And on the morrow after, the Nestorian Priestes
5 were adorned with our vestments in the presence of the saide Sartach. Then wee our selues were conducted vnto another hoste, who was appointed to prouide vs houseroome, victualles, and horses. But because wee had not ought to bestowe vpon him, hee did all things vntowardly for vs. Then wee rode on for-
10 warde with Baatu, descending along by the banke of Etilia, for the space of fiue weekes together: Sometimes mine associate was so extremelie hungrie, that hee would tell mee in a manner weeping, that it fared with him as though hee had neuer eaten any thing in all his life before. There is a faire or market following the court
15 of Baatu at all times: but it was so farre distant from vs that we could | not haue recourse thereunto. For wee were constrained to walke on foote for want of horses. At length certaine Hungarians (who had sometime bene after a sort Cleargie men) found vs out: and one of them could as yet sing many songs without booke, and
20 was accompted of other Hungarians as a Priest, and was sent for vnto the funerals of his deceased countrey men. There was another of them also pretily wel instructed in his Grammer: for hee could vnderstand the meaning of any thing that wee spake, but could not answere vs. These Hungarians were a great 25 comfort vnto vs, bringing vs Cosmos to drinke, yea, and sometimes flesh for to eate also: who, when they requested to haue some bookes of vs, and I had not any to giue them (for indeede we had none but onely a Bible, and a breuiarie) it grieved mee exceedingly. And I saide vnto them: Bring mee some inke and 30 paper, and I will write for you so long as we shall remaine here: and they did so. And I copied out for them Horas beatae Virginis, and Officium defunctorum. Moreouer, vpon a certaine day, there was a Comanian that accompanied vs, saluting vs in Latine, and saying: Saluete Domini. Wondering thereat and 35 saluting him againe, I demaunded of him, who had taught him that kinde of salutation? Hee saide that hee was baptized in Hungaria by our Friers, and that of them hee learned it. He saide moreouer, that Baatu had enquired many things of him concerning vs, and that hee tolde him the estate of our order.
40 Afterwarde I sawe Baatu riding with his companie, and all his subiects that were housholders or masters of families riding with him, and (in mine estimation) they were not fūe hundred persons in all. At length about the ende of Holy roode, there came a certaine rich Moal vnto vs (whose father was a Millenarie, which is a great office among them) saying: I am the man that must 5 conduct you vnto Mangu-Can, and wee haue thither a iourney of foure moneths long to trauell, and there is such extreame colde in those parts, that stones and trees doe euen riue asunder in regarde thereof. Therefore I would wish you thoroughly to aduise your selues, whether you be able to indure it or no. Vnto whome I 10 answered: I hope by Gods helpe that we shalbe able to brooke that which other men can indure. Then he saide: if you cannot indure it, I wil forsake you by the way. And I answered him: it were not iust dealing for you so to doe: for wee goe not thither vpon anie businesse of our owne, but by reason that we are sent 15 by your lord. Wherefore sithence we are committed vnto your charge, you ought in no wise to forsake vs. Then he saide: all shalbe well. Afterward he caused vs to shewe him all our garments: and whatsoeuer hee deemed to be lesse needfull for vs, he willed vs to leaue it behind in the custodie of our hoste. On 20

the morrow they brought vnto ech of vs a furred gowne, made all of rammes skinnes, with the wool stil vpon them, and breeches of the same, and bootes also or buskins according to their fashion, and shooes made of felt, and hoods also made of skinnes after their maner. The second day after Holy rood, we began to set forward 25 on our iourney, hauing three guides to direct vs: and we rode continually Eastward, till the feast of All Saints. Throughout all that region, and beyonde also did the people of Changle inhabite, who were by parentage descended from the Romanes. Vpon the North side of vs, wee had Bulgaria the greater, and on the South, 30 the foresaid Caspian sea.

Pascatir.

HAuing traueiled twelue dayes iourney from Etilia, wee found a mightie riuer called Iagac: which riuer issuing out of 35 the North, from the land of Pascatir, descēdeth into the foresaid sea. The language of Pascatir, and of the Hungarians is all one, and they are all of them shepherds, not hauing any cities. And their countrey bordereth vpon Bulgaria the greater, on the West frontier thereof. From the Northeast part of the said countrey, 40

there is no citie at all. For Bulgaria the greater is the farthest cuntry that way, that hath any citie therein. Out of the forenamed region of Pascatir, proceeded the Hunnes of olde time, who afterwarde were called Hungarians. Next vnto it is Bulgaria 5 the greater. Isidore reporteth concerning the people of this nation, that with swift horses they trauesed the impregnable walles and bounds of Alexander, (which, together with the rocks of Caucasus, serued to restraine those barbarous and blood-thirstie people from inuading the regions of the South) insomuch that 10 they had tribute paied vnto them, as farre as Ægypt. Likewise they wasted all countreis euen vnto France. Whereupon they were more mightie then the Tartars as yet are. And vnto them the Blacians, the Bulgarians, and the Vandals ioyned themselues. For out of Bulgaria the greater, came those Bulgarians. Moreouer, they 15 which inhabit beyond Danubius, neere vnto Constantinople, and not farre from Pascatir, are called Ilac, which (sauing the pronūciation) is al one with Blac, (for the Tartars cannot pronounce the letter B) from whom also descended the people which inhabit the land of Assani. For they are both of thē called Ilac (both 20 these, & the other) in y^e languages of the Russians, y^e Polonians,
 & the Bohemians. | The Sclauonians speake all one language with the Vandals, all which banded themselues with the Hunnes:
 and now for the most part, they vnite themselues vnto the Tartars:
 whō God hath raised vp from the vtmost partes of the earth, 25 according to that which the Lord saith: I will prouoke them to enuy (namely such as keepe not his Law) by a people, which is no people, and by a foolish nation will I anger them. This prophecie is fulfilled, according to the literal sense thereof, vpon all nations which obserue not the Law of God. All this which I haue written 30 concerning the land of Pascatir, was told me by certaine Friers prædicants, which trauiled thither before euer the Tartars came abroad. And from that time they were subdued vnto their neighbors the Bulgarians being Saracens, whereupon many of them proued Saracens also. Other matters concerning this people, may 35 be known out of Chronicles. For it is manifest, that those prouinces beyond Constantinople, which are now called Bulgaria, Valachia, & Sclauonia, were of old time prouinces belonging to the Greekes. Also Hungaria was heretofore called Pannonia.
 And wee were riding ouer the land of Cangle, from the feast of 40 Holy roode, vntill the feast of All Saints: traueiling almost euery day (according to mine estimation) as farre, as from Paris to Orleans, and sometimes farther, as we were prouided of poste horses: for some dayes we had change of horses twise or thrise in a day. Sometimes we trauailed two or three daies together, not finding any people, and then we were constrained not to ride so fast. Of 20. or 30. horses we had alwayes the woorst, because wee were strangers. For euery one tooke their choice of the best horses before vs. They prouided mee alwaies of a strong horse, 5 because I was very corpulent & heauy: but whether he ambled a gentle pase or no, I durst not make any question. Neither yet durst I complaine, although he trotted full sore. But euery man must be contented with his lot as it fell. Whereupon wee were exceedingly troubled: for oftentimes our horses were tired before 10 we could come at any people. And then wee were constrained to beate and whip on our horses, and to lay our garments vpon other emptie horses: yea and sometimes two of vs to ride vpon one horse.

Of the hunger, and thirst, and other miseries, which 15 wee sustained in our iourney. Chap. 24.

OF hunger and thirst, colde and wearinesse, there was no end. For they gaue vs no victuals, but onely in the euening. In the morning they vsed to giue vs a little drinke, or some sodden Millet to sup off. In the euening they bestowed flesh vpon vs, as 20 namely, a shoulder and breast of rams mutton, and euery man a measured quantitie of broath to drinke. When we had sufficient of the flesh-broath, we were maruellously wel refreshed. And it seemed to me most pleasant, and most nourishing drinke. Euery Saterdag I remained fasting vntil night, without eating or drinking 25 of ought. And when night came, I was constrained, to my great grief and sorow, to eat flesh. Sometimes we were faine to eate flesh halfe sodden, or almost rawe, and all for want of fewel to seethe it withal: especially when we lay in the fields, or were benighted before we came at our iourneis end: because we could 30 not then conueniently gather together the dounge of horses or oxē: for other fewel we found but seldome, except perhaps a few thornes in some places. Likewise vpon the bankes of some riuers, there are woods growing here and there. Howbeit they are very rare. In the beginning our guide highly disdained vs, and it was tedious 35 vnto him to conduct such base fellowes. Afterward, when he began to know vs somewhat better, he directed vs on our way by the courts of rich Moals, and we were requested to pray for them. Wherefore, had I caried a good interpreter with me, I should haue had opportunitie to haue done much good. The foresaid Chingis, 40

who was the first great Can or Emperour of the Tartars, had foure sonnes, of whome proceeded by naturall descent many children, euery one of which doeth at this day enioy great possessions :
 and they are daily multiplied and dispersed ouer that huge and 5 waste desert, which is, in dimensions, like vnto the Ocean Sea.
 Our guide therefore directed vs, as we were going on our iourney, vnto many of their habitations. And they marueiled exceedingly, that we would receiue neither gold, nor siluer, nor precious and costly garments at their hands. They inquired also, concerning 10 the great Pope, whether he was of so lasting an age as they had heard? For there had gone a report among them, that he was 500. yeeres olde. They inquired likewise of our countreis, whether there were abundance of sheep, oxen, & horses or no? Concerning the Ocean sea, they could not cōceiue of it, because it was 15 without limits or banks. Vpon the euen of y^e feast of Al Saints, we forsook the way leading towards the East, (because the people were now descended very much South) and we went on our iourney by certaine Alpes, or mountaines directly Southward, for the space of 8. dayes together. In the foresaid desert I saw many 20 asses (which they cal Colan) being rather like vnto mules : these did our guide & his companions chase very eagerly : howbeit, they did but lose their labour : for the beastes were two swift for them.
 Vpon the 7. day there appeared to the South of vs huge high | mountaines, and we entred into a place which was well watered,
 25 and fresh as a garden, and found land tilled and manured. The eight day after the feast of All Saints, we arriued at a certain towne of the Saracens, named Kenchat, the gouernour whereof met our guide at the townes end with ale and cups. For it is their maner at all townes and villages, subiect vnto them, to meet the mes-30 sengers of Baatu and Mangu-Can with meate and drinke. At the same time of the yere, they went vpon the yce in that countrey.
 And before the feast of S. Michael, we had frost in the desert. I enquired the name of that prouince : but being now in a strange territorie, they could not tell mee the name thereof, but onely 35 the name of a very smal citie in the same prouince. And there descended a great riuier downe from the mountaines, which watered the whole region, according as the inhabitants would giue it passage, by making diuers chanel and sluces : neither did this riuier exonerate it selfe into any sea, but was swallowed vp by an 40 hideous gulfie into the bowels of the earth : and it caused many fennes or lakes. Also I saw many vines, and dranke of the wine thereof.

THE day following, we came vnto another cottage neere vnto the mountains. And I enquired what mountains they were, which I vnderstood to be the mountains of Caucasus, which are stretched forth, & continued on both parts to the sea, from the West vnto the East : and on the West part they are conioyned vnto the foresaid Caspian sea, wherinto the riuer of Volga dischargeth his streams. I enquired also of the city of Talas, wherein were certaine Dutchmen seruants vnto one Buri, of whom Frier Andrew made mention. Concerning whom also I enquired very diligently in the courts of Sartach & Baatu. Howbeit I could haue no intelligence of them, but onely that their lord & master Ban was put to death vpon the occasion following : This Ban was not placed in good and fertile pastures. And vpon a certain day being drunken, he spake on this wise vnto his men. Am not I of the stocke and kinred of Chingis Can, as well as Baatu ? (for in very deede he was brother or nephew vnto Baatu.) Why then doe I not passe and repasse vpon the banke of Etília, to feed my cattel there, as freely as Baatu himselfe doeth ? Which speeches of his were reported vnto Baatu. Whereupon Baatu wrote vnto his seruants to bring their Lorde bound vnto him. And they did so. Then Baatu demanded of him whether he had spoken any such words ? And hee confessed that he had. Howbeit, (because it is the Tartars maner to pardon drunken men) he excused himselfe that he was drunken at the same time. Howe durst thou (quoth Baatu) once name mee in thy drunkennesse ? And with that hee caused his head to be chopt off. Concerning the foresaid Dutchmen, I could not vnderstand ought, till I was come vnto the court of Mangu-Can. And there I was informed that Mangu-Can had remoued them out of the iurisdiction of Baatu, for the space of a moneths iourney from Talas Eastward, vnto a certaine village, called Bolac : where they are set to dig gold, and to make armour. Whereupon I could neither goe nor come by them. I passed very neere the saide citie in going forth, as namely, within three dayes iourney thereof : but I was ignorant that I did so : neither could I haue turned out of my way, albeit I had knowen so much. From the foresaide cottage we went directly Eastward, by the mountaines aforesaid. And from that time we trauailed among the people of Mangu-Can, who in all places sang and daunced before our guide, because hee was the messenger of Baatu. For this curtesie they doe affoord eche to other: namely, the people of Mangu-Can receiuing the messengers of Baatu in maner aforesaide: and so likewise the people of Baatu intertaining the 5 messengers of Mangu-Can. Notwithstanding the people of Baatu are more surlie and stoute, and shewe not so much curtesie vnto the subiectes of Mangu-Can, as they doe vnto them. A fewe dayes after, wee entered vpon those Alpes where the Cara Catayans were wont to inhabite. And there wee found a mightie

10 riuer: insomuch that wee were constrained to imbarke our selues, and to saile ouer it. Afterward we came into a certaine valley, where I saw a castle destroyed, the walles whereof were onely of mudde: and in that place the ground was tilled also. And there wee founde a certaine village, named Equius, wherein were 15 Saracens, speaking the Persian language: howbeit they dwelt an huge distance from Persia. The day following, hauing passed ouer the foresaide Alpes which descended from the great mountains Southward, we entred into a most beautiful plaine, hauing high mountaines on our right hande, and on the left hande of vs 20 a certaine Sea or lake, which containeth fiftene dayes iourney in circuite. All the foresayde plaine is most commodiously watered with certaine freshets distilling from the said mountaines, all which do fall into the lake. In Sommer time wee returned by the North shore of the saide lake, and there were great mountaines on that
25 side also. Vpon the forenamed piaine there were wont to bee great store of villages: but for the most part they were all wasted, in regarde of the fertile pastures, that the Tartars might | feede their cattel there. Wee found one great citie there named Cailac, wherein was a mart, and great store of Merchants frequenting it.
30 In this citie wee remained fiftene dayes, staying for a certaine Scribe or Secretarie of Baatu, who ought to haue accompanied our guide for the dispatching of certaine affaires in the court of Mangu. All this countrey was wont to be called Organum: and the people thereof had their proper language, and their peculiar 35 kinde of writing. But it was altogether inhabited of the people called Contomanni. The Nestorians likewise in those parts vsed the very same kinde of language and writing. They are called Organa, because they were wont to be most skilfull in playing vpon the Organes or citherne, as it was reported vnto me. Here 40 first did I see worshippers of idoles, concerning whom, bee it knownen vnto your maiestie, that there be many sects of them in the East countries.

How the Nestorians, Saracens, and Idolaters are ioyned together. Chap. 26.

The people called Iugures
idolaters.

THE first sort of these idolaters are called Iugures : whose land bordereth vpon the foresaid land of Organum, within the said mountains Eastward : and in al their cities Nestorians 5 do inhabit together, and they are dispersed likewise towards Persia in the cities of the Saracens. The citizens of y^e foresaid city of Cailac had 3. idole-Temples : and I entred into two of them, to beholde their foolish superstitions. In the first of which I found a man hauing a crosse painted with ink vpō his hand, wherupon 10
I supposed him to be a Christian : for he answered like a Christian vnto al questions which I demanded of him. And I asked him, Why therefore haue you not the crosse with the image of Iesu Christ therupon ? And he answered : We haue no such custome.
Whereupon I coniectured that they were indeede Christians : but, 15 that for lacke of instruction they omitted the foresaide ceremonie.
For I saw there behind a certaine chest (which was vnto them in steed of an altar, whereupon they set candles and oblations) an image hauing wings like vnto the image of Saint Michael, and other images also, holding their fingers, as if they would blesse 20 some body. That euening I could not find any thing els. For the Saracens doe onely inuite men thither, but they will not haue them speake of their religion. And therefore, when I enquired of the Saracens concerning such ceremonies, they were offended thereat. On the morrow after were the Kalends, and the Saracens 25 feast of Passeouer. And changing mine Inne or lodging the same day, I tooke vp mine abode neere vnto another idole-Temple. For the citizens of the said citie of Cailac doe curteously inuite, & louingly intertaine all messengers, euery man of them according to his abilitie and portion. And entring into the fore- 30 said idole-Temple, I found the Priests of the said idoles there.
For alwayes at the Kalends they set open their Temples, and the priests adorne themselues, and offer vp the peoples oblations of bread and fruits. First therefore I will describe vnto you those rites and ceremonies, which are common vnto all their idole- 35 Temples : and then the superstitions of the foresaid Iugures, which be, as it were, a sect distinguished from the rest. They doe all of them worship towards the North, clapping their hands together, and prostrating themselues on their knees vpon y^e earth, holding also their foreheads in their hands. Wherupon the Nestorians of 40 those parts will in no case ioyne their hands together in time of prayer : but they pray, displaying their hands before their breasts. They extend their Temples in length East and West : and vpon the North side they build a chamber, in maner of a Vestry for themselves to goe forth into. Or sometimes it is otherwise. If it

 5 be a foure square Temple, in the midst of the Temple towards the North side therof, they take in one chamber in that place where the quire should stand. And within the said chamber they place a chest long and broad like vnto a table : and behinde the saide chest towards the South stands their principall idole : which I
 10 sawe at Caracarum, and it was as bigge as the idole of Saint Christopher. Also a certaine Nestorian priest, which had bin in Catay, saide that in that countrey there is an idole of so huge a bignes, that it may be seen two daies iourney before a man come at it. And so they place other idoles round about the foresaid 15 principal idole, being all of them finely gilt ouer with pure golde : and vpon the saide chest, which is in manner of a table, they set candles and oblations. The doores of their Temples are alwayes opened towards the South, contrary to the custome of the Saracens. They haue also great belles like vnto vs. And that is 20 the cause (as I thinke) why the Christians of the East will in no case vse great belles. Notwithstanding they are common among the Russians, and Grecians of Gasaria.

ALL their Priests had their heads and beards shauen quite ouer : and they are clad in saffron coloured garments : and being once shauen, they lead an vnmarried life from that time forward :
 | and they liue an hundreth or two hundreth of them together in [p. 115]
 30 one cloister or couent. Vpon those dayes when they enter into their temples, they place two long foormes therein : and so sitting vpon the sayd foormes like singing men in a quier, namely the one halfe of them directly ouer against the other, they haue certaine books in their hands, which sometimes they lay downe by them
 35 vpon the foormes : and their heads are bare so long as they remaine in the temple. And there they reade softly vnto themselves, not vttering any voice at all. Whereupon comming in amongst them, at the time of their superstitious deuotions, and finding them all siting mute in maner aforesayde, I attempted any means possible. They haue with them also whithersoever they goe, a certaine string with an hundreth or two hundreth nutshells thereupon, much like to our bead-roule which we cary about with vs. And they doe alwayes vtter these words: Oum mam Hactani, God thou knowest: as one of them expounded it vnto me. And so often doe they expect a reward at Gods hands, as they pronounce these words in remembrance of God. Round about their temple they doe alwayes make a faire court, like vnto a churchyard, which they enuiron with a good wall: and vpon the South part thereof they build a great portal, wherein they sit and conferre together. And vpon the top of the said portall they pitch a long pole right vp, exalting it, if they can, aboue all the whole towne besides. And by the same pole all men may knowe, that there stands the temple of their idoles. These rites and ceremonies aforesayd be common vnto all idolaters in those parts. Going vpon a time towards the foresayd idole-temple, I found certain priests sitting in the outward portal. And those which I sawe, seemed vnto me, by their shauen beards, as if they had bene French men. They wore certaine ornaments vpon their heads made of paper. The priestes of the foresaide Iugures doe vse such attire whithersoever they goe. They are alwaies in their saffron coloured iackets, which be very straight being laced or buttoned from the bosome right downe, after the French fashion. And they haue a cloake vpon their left shoulder descending before and behind vnder their right arme, like vnto a deacon carying the housse-boxe in time of lent. Their letters or kind of writing the Tartars did receiue. They begin to write at the top of their paper drawing their lines right downe: and so they reade and multiply their lines from the left hand to the right. They doe vse certaine papers and characters in their magical practises. Whereupon their temples are full of such short scroules hanged round about them. Also Mangu-Can hath sent letters vnto your Maiestie written in the language of the Moals or Tartars, and in the foresayd hand or letter of the Iugures. They burne their dead according to the annient custome, and lay vp the ashes in the top of a Pyramis. Now, after I had sit a while by the foresaid priests, and entred into their temple and seene many of their images both great and small, I demanded of them what they beleueed concerning God? And they answered: We beleuee that there is onely one God. And I demaunded farther: Whether do you beleue that he is a spirit, or some bodily substance? They saide: We beleuee that he is a spirite. Then said I: Doe you beleuee that God euer tooke mans nature vpon him? They answered: Noe. And againe I saide : Sithence ye beleue that he is a spirit, to what end doe you make so many bodily images to represent him? Sithence also you beleue not that hee was made man : why doe you resemble him rather vnto the image of a man then of any other 5 creature? Then they answered saying : we frame not those images whereby to represent God. But when any rich man amongst vs, or his sonne, or his wife, or any of his friends deceaseth, hee causeth the image of the dead party to be made, and to be placed here : and we in remembrance of him doe reuerence thereunto.

 10 Then I replyed : you doe these things onely for the friendship and flatterie of men. Noe (said they) but for their memory. Then they demanded of me, as it were in scoffing wise : Where is God?
 To whom I answered : where is your soule? They said, in our bodies. Then saide I, is it not in euery part of your bodie, ruling 15 and guiding the whole bodie, and yet notwithstanding is not seene or perceiued? Euen so God is euery where and ruleth all things, and yet is he inuisible, being vnderstanding and wisdom it selfe.
 Then being desirous to haue had some more conference with them, by reason, that mine interpreter was weary, and not able to 20 expresse my meaning, I was constrained to keepe silence. The Moals or Tartars are in this regard of their sect : namely they beleue that there is but one God : howbeit they make images of felt, in remembrance of their deceased friends, couering them with fure most rich and costly garments, and putting them into one or 25 two carts, which carts no man dare once touch : and they are in the custody of their soothsayers, who are their priests, concerning whom I will giue your Highnesse more at large to vnderstand hereafter. These soothsayers or diuiners do alwaies attend vpon the court of Mangu and of other great personages. As for the 30 poorer or meaner sorte, they haue them not, but such onely as are of the stocke and kindred of Chingis. And when they are to remoue or to take any iourney, the said diuiners goe before them, euen as the cloudie pillar went before the children of Israel. And they appoint ground where the tents must be pitched, and first of 35 al they take down their owne houses : & after them the whole [p. 116] court doth the like. Also vpon their festiual daies or kalends they take forth the foresayd images, and place them in order round, or circle wise within the house. Then come the Moals or Tartars, and enter into the same house, bowing themselues before 40 the said images and worship them. Moreouer, it is not lawfull for any stranger to enter into that house. For vpon a certaine time I my selfe would haue gone in, but I was chidden full well for my labour.

Of diuers and sundry nations: and of certaine people which were wont to eate their owne parents.

Chap. 28.

BVt the foresayd Iugures (who liue among the Christians, and the Saracens) by their sundry disputations, as I suppose, 5 haue bene brought vnto this, to beleue, that there is but one onely God. And they dwelt in certaine cities, which afterward were brought in subiection vnto Chingis Can: whereupon he gaue his daughter in mariage vnto their king. Also the citie of Caracarum it selfe is in a manner within their territory: and the 10 whole countrey of king or Presbyter Iohn, & of his brother Vut lyeth neere vnto their dominions: sauing, that they inhabite in certaine pastures Northward, and the sayde Iugures betweene the mountaines towards the South. Whereupon it came to passe, that the Moals receiued letters from them. And they are the 15 Tartars principall scribes: & al the Nestorians almost can skill of their letters. Next vnto them, between the foresaid mountaines Eastward, inhabiteth the nation of Tangut, who are a most valiant people, and tooke Chingis in battell. But after the conclusion of a league hee was set at libertie by them, and afterward subdued 20 them. These people of Tangut haue oxen of great strength, with taitles like vnto horses, and with long shagge haire vpon their backs and bellyes. They haue legges greater then other oxen haue, and they are exceedingly fierce. These oxen drawe the great houses of the Moals: and their hornes are slender, long, streight, and 25 most sharpe pointed: insomuch that their owners are faine to cut off the endes of them. A cowe will not suffer her selfe to be coupled vnto one of them, vnles they whistle or sing vnto her. They haue also the qualities of a Buffe: for if they see a man clothed in red, they run vpon him immediately to kill him. Next 30 vnto them are the people of Tebet, men which were wont to eate the carcases of their deceased parents: that for pitie sake, they might make no other sepulchre for them, then their owne bowels. Howbeit of late they haue left off this custome, because that thereby they became abominable and odious vnto al other nations. 35 Notwithstanding vnto this day they make fine cups of the skuls of their parents, to the ende that when they drinke out of them, they may amidst all their iollities and delights call their dead parents to remembrance. This was tolde mee by one that saw it. The sayd people of Tebet haue great plentie of golde in their land. 40

Whosoeuer therefore wanteth golde, diggeth till he hath found some quantitie, and then taking so much thereof as will serue his turne, he layeth vp the residue within the earth: because, if he should put it into his chest or storehouse, hee is of opinion that 5 God would withholde from him all other gold within the earth.

I sawe some of those people, being very deformed creatures. In Tangut I saw lusty tall men, but browne and swart in colour. The Iugures are of a middle stature like vnto our French men.

Amongst the Iugures is the originall and roote of the Turkish, and 10 Comanian languages. Next vnto Tebet are the people of Langa and Solanga, whose messengers I saw in the Tartars court. And they had brought more then ten great cartes with them, euery one of which was drawn with sixe oxen. They be little browne men like vnto Spaniards. Also they haue iackets, like vnto the vpper

15 vestment of a deacon, sauing that the sleeues are somewhat streighter. And they haue miters vpon their heads like bishops. But the fore part of their miter is not so hollow within as the hinder part: neither is it sharpe pointed or cornered at the toppe: but there hang downe certaine square flappes compacted of a 20 kinde of strawe which is made rough and rugged with extreme heat, and is so trimmed, that it glittereth in the sunne beames, like vnto a glasse, or an helmet well burnished. And about their temples they haue long bands of the foresayd matter fastened vnto their miters, which houer in the wind, as if two long hornes grewe
 25 out of their heads. And when the winde tosseth them vp and downe too much, they tie them ouer the midst of their miter from one temple to another: and so they lie circle wise ouerthwart their heads. Moreouer their principal messenger comming vnto the Tartars court had a table of elephants tooth about him of a cubite

30 in length, and a handfull in breadth, being very smoothe. And whensoeuer hee spake vnto the Emperour himselfe, or vnto any other great personage, hee alwayes beheld that table, as if hee had found therein those things which hee spake: neither did he cast his eyes to the right hand, nor to the lefte, nor vpon his face, with
 35 whom he talked. Yea, going too and fro before his lord, he looketh no where but only vpon his table. Beyond thē (as I vnderstand of a certainty) there are other | people called Muc, hauing villages, but no one particular man of them appropriating any cattell vnto himselfe. Notwithstanding there are many flockes
 40 and droues of cattell in their countrey, & no man appointed to keepe them. But when any one of them standeth in neede of any beast, hee ascendeth vp vnto an hill, and there maketh a shout, and all the cattell which are within hearing of the noyse, come flocking about him, and suffer themselves to be handled and taken, as if they were tame. And when any messenger or stranger commeth into their countrey, they shut him vp into an house, ministring there things necessary vnto him, vntill his businesse be dispatched. For if anie stranger should trauell through that 5 countrey, the cattell would flee away at the very sent of him, and so would become wilde. Beyond Muc is great Cathaya, the inhabitants whereof (as I suppose) were of olde time, called Seres. For from them are brought most excellent stuffes of silke. And this people is called Seres of a certain towne in the same countrey. 10 I was credible informed, that in the said countrey, there is one towne hauing walles of siluer, and bulwarkes or towers of golde. There be many prouinces in that land, the greater part whereof are not as yet subdued vnto the Tartars. And amongst*

NOTES.

§ 1. EXTRACTS FROM GEOFFREY OF MONMOUTH, LAMBARDE
AND BEDE. pp. 1—4.

The page numbers in the middle of the text, in square brackets, refer to Hakluyt's original edition: the page and line numbers in the margins refer to the present volume.

[p. 1]

1. Anno Christi 517, etc.: the text of Geoffrey of Monmouth, Book IX. p. 1 l. 13 ch. 10, both in the Heidelberg edition of 1587, p. 67, from which Hak. cites, in the Oxford edition (ed. Giles, 1844) and in that of Halle (ed. A. Schulz, 1854), does not give the first line of Hak.'s quotation, Anno Christi...anno, which appears to be a gratuitous addition of the Elizabethan compiler; but begins adveniente...sequenti æstate...subiugatis itaque totius Hiberniæ. See the text of Geoffrey, ed. Commelin, on pp. 1—92 of the Rerum Britannicarum... Scriptores, Heidelberg, 1587; this was the second printed edition; the first was brought out at Paris in 1508 and edited by Ascensius and Cavellatus.

For Gotlandiæ Heidelberg reads Godlandiæ; Halle, Gothlandiæ.

For Gunfacius Heidelb., p. 67, and Halle, read Gunfasius.

See the notes in the Halle edition, p. 382, which notices the forms Ginnasius, Grynvas, Gonvals, etc.

2. Missis deinde...Legatis etc.: Hak. here transcribes with even more than p. 2 l. 8 his usual carelessness. Heidelb. reads (pp. 69—70) Hiberniæ for Hybæniæ; Godlandiæ for Gotlandiæ; Gunuasius for Gunnasius; Orcadum for Orchadum; Norwegiæ for Norvegiæ; Dacorum for Danorum.

See the notes to Geoffrey IX. 12, on pp. 388, 391, 392 of the Halle edition, which notices the forms Islont; Doldav, Dolvan, Doldonius; Godland, Ysgottlant, Gelandia; Guillamurius, Gillomanius; Aschillius, Acilius, Achel, Ethel; etc.

3. At reges, etc.:

Much the same variants occur here in Heidelb. p. 73 (Geoffrey text, Book IX. ch. 19) e.g. Hiberniæ for Hybæniæ, Godlandiæ for Gotlandiæ, Norwegiæ for Norvegiæ, etc. Halle (p. 396) notes the forms Iverdon, Ork, Islont, Ysgottlant, etc., as before. It is curious that Hak. should have begun his great collection with Geoffrey's and Lambarde's legends, when we remember that he attempted rigorously to exclude from the final edition of the Principal Navigations anything that seemed (like David Ingram's narrative of his American wanderings after Hawkins' disaster at S. Juan d'Ulúa) to be even in part untrustworthy and exaggerated. From the first Geoffrey's fabrications had been denounced (as by William of Newbury), but Hak. swallows the whole.

- p. 3 l. 3 4. M. Lambard his 'Αρχαιογῶνα: Hak.'s citation from William Lambarde's 'Αρχαιογῶνα sive de priscis Anglorum legibus (London, 1568) fol. 137 (verso; i.e. Hak.'s pag. 2) differs from the text he copies, in reading, e.g. Britanniae for Brytanniae; Britonum for Brytonum; Snechordam for Snechordam (Hak.'s Sweueland; see his version below); Cherelam for Cherrelam; multas insulas for mas alias insas; omits a sentence after Norweia vocatur, viz. Fuerunt gentes ferae...omne malum, before Fuerunt autem ibi Christiani, etc.; omits per before coniugia etc.

In Lambarde this passage is headed De iure et appendiciis coronae regni Brytanniae and professes to be an extract from the Leges Regis Edouardi, quas Gulielmus Bastardus postea confirmavit ('Αρχαιογῶνα, from fol. 126 verso to end of vol., at fol. 141 verso). The words propinquus noster, not translated by Hak., are therefore William the Conqueror's supposed reference to his predecessor. In the translation, the words These people were wild... commeth from the North are translated from Lambarde's original text. They are not in Hak.'s Latin. It is astonishing that Hak. can have taken this passage of the 'Αρχαιογῶνα seriously.

p. 5 l. 7

5. Vortiporio...Malgo: here, in its text of Geoffrey xi. 7, Heidelb. p. 84 reads (with Halle) cui for Vortiporio [successit]; comprouinciales for conprouinciales; Hiberniam for Hyberniam (here Halle agrees with Hak.); Godlandiam for Gotlandiam; Norwegiam for Noruegiam.

On Malgo (Maelgwyn Gwynedd) see the note pp. 436—8 in Halle edition, which notices the forms Malvus, Mailgo. In Gildas, Epistle, §§ 7—9, it is Maglocuna or Maglocune; in Nennius, History of the Britons, ch. 62, Mailcunnus. The historical element is greater in Malgo than in Arthur or most of the British heroes: Maelgwyn, son of Cadwallon, Prince of Gwynedd or North Wales, traditionally reigned 517—547; he is bitterly reproached by Gildas for his sins, but his prowess in arms is admitted. Denmarke is for Daciam.

l. 29

6. Eduinus etc.: after Eduinus Hak. omits rex; the omitted word appears in Heidelb., 1587, p. 180, as in other editions. For Cantuarios Heidelb. reads Cantuariis; for Menauias, Menanias; for polestati, imperio; in all these readings, Hak. is not supported by the best MSS., which agree with Heidelb. Cf. Plummer's text of Bede ii. 5 (Baedae Opera Historica, Oxford, 1896, vol. 1. p. 89) where also Eduini is read for Eduinus; Nordanhymbrorum for Nordanhumborum; Humbre for Humbri; Brittanium for Britanniam; Brettonum for Britonum. On the subject-matter cf. Plummer's notes, ii. 86; William of Malmesbury, Gesta Regum, ed. Stubbs, Rolls Series, i. 49, 50; Sigebert of Gemblours, ad ann. 628; Alcuin, De Sanctis Ebor., ll. 120—124. Anglesey is usually supposed to take this name from Eadwine's conquest here recorded: for Meuanias insulas certainly refer to Anglesey and Man.

p. 6 l. 12

7. Anno...sexcentesimo vicesimo, etc.: in this citation of Bede ii. 9, Hak.'s date is in the original text merely quo tempore etiam; cf. Heidelb., pp. 182—183 and Plummer, i. 97. The latter reads aquilonalem for aquilonarem; habitat for habitat; habitant for habitantur; acciperet for acceperit, besides minor differences and variations of name-forms (Humbre for Humbri) as noticed before. Plummer also omits fecit after ante eum: but supports Hak. in reading trecentarum [et ultra] against Heidelb.'s trecentorum. On the subject-matter see notes in Plummer's ed., II. 94; and cf. Will. Malmesb., Gesta Regum, ed. Stubbs, I. 50; Orkneyinga Saga, pp. 70, 73. p. 6

Hak.'s trans. of Menaias insulas by Hebrides here is as strange as it is mistaken: in the previous excerpt he rightly rendered the very same words by Isles of Man and Anglesey. The larger and richer of the two (situ amplior, etc.) is Anglesey.

[p. 4]

8. Anno...sexcentesimo octogesimo, etc.: in this citation Hak. agrees exactly with the Heidelb. of 1587 (p. 245). Plummer, I. 266, makes this chap. 24 (instead of 26 as in Hak. and Heidelb.) of Book IV. and has various small differences, e.g. Berto for Berto, Ecgfrid for Ecgfridus, ne for nec, etc. p. 7 l. 12

On the subject-matter, cf. Plummer's notes, II. 260; Chronicon Scotorum, Rolls Series, I. 265; Annals of Ulster, Rolls Series, 684, which last places the English devastation in the E. part of Old Meath.

The texts of Scripture referred to by Bede here are I Cor. vi. 10, and xv. 50.

§ 2. THE VOYAGES OF OHTHERE AND WULFSTAN, C. A.D. 890. pp. 4—6.

1. Ochter said, etc.: this narrative comes from King Alfred's Orosius, Book I. chap. 1 (Geography of Europe), near the end. It relates to the first recorded journey to the White Sea and the Northern Dvina: it is possible, however, that other Northmen ventured at least some way along this route before Ohthere, cf. Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 31—34; Egil Skallagrimson's Saga, chaps. vii—ix. The explorer's name is best spelt Ohthere in its Old-English form; it is the same as the Norse Ottar (cf. the Saga of St Olaf, ch. lxix. In Ælfred's form of it the words 'Oht' (fear) and 'Here' (army) seem to make it up: Ohthere is the reading of the Laud and Cotton MSS. p. 8 l. 4

The sentence Ochter said...Helgoland is interpolated from a later part of O.'s narrative, the beginning of the Second Voyage, as given in Hak.'s second extract, p. 5 (foot).

A good commentary on the full text of the voyages of Ohthere and Wulfstan, as given in Ælfred's Orosius, may be found in Joseph Bosworth's King Alfred's Description of Europe, 1855, pp. 7—22. In Hak., Wulfstan's narrative is greatly abridged. The three voyages (Ohthere's northern venture, his southern journey, and Wulfstan's Baltic voyage) together form a Periplus or Coast-Survey from the extreme North of Europe, and the White Sea, round Scandinavia, to the mouth of the Vistula and the island of Gothland.

2. Helgoland: later, at the beginning of the second Ohthere narrative (p. 5, at foot), Hak. spells it Halgoland: it is usually Halogaland in the Sagas (e.g. of the Heimskringla; cf. St Olaf's Saga ch. cxliii.), answering to the modern Helgeland, in the S. part of the province of Norrland, in the middle of the Trondhjem territory. Finmark was N. of it. It is a narrow but long coastal region, separated from Sweden (at about 60 miles from the sea) by the Kiölen mountains. In Ohthere's time it seems to have included the l. 5

- p. 8 whole of the present Norrland and a part of Tromsö; it is now limited to the coast between 65° 10' N. Lat. and the immediate neighbourhood of the Arctic circle.

The region 'where certeine Finnes dwell vpon the coast' refers to the Finmark of the Sagas and of modern geography, the extremest North of the Norwegian realm or sphere of influence. For Hak.'s fell into a fantasie and desire the original says simply he was desirous.

- l. 18 3. Steereboord...leereboord: i.e. Right and Left; in the original steor-bord, and baec-bord, 'starboard' and 'backboard' or 'larboard.' For as commonly the whale hunters vse to trauell read as the whale hunters go at the furthest.
 l. 25 4. For he knew not how farre read he knew not which. So, a little later, for Hak.'s he could not tell how farre, we should read he knew not which.

[p. 5]

- l. 34 5. And at the fifth...riuer, etc.: or rather There lay a great river up in that land (simply). This was no doubt the Northern Dvina, though other suggestions have been or might be made e.g. the Gulf of Kola, the Ponoï, etc. For Hak.'s At the entrie of which riuer he stayed his course...turned backe againe, for he durst not enter thereinto read They then turned up into that river, because they durst not sail on by that river, i.e. coast along on the other side of it. Also for the maine ocean read a wide sea.

- p. 9 l. 4 6. Biarmes: in original, Beornias. See Bosworth's note 42 (p. 9 of Alfred's Description of Europe). The coast region of the present Arkhangelsk or Archangel Government seems always to be called Biarmland in the Sagas (cf., in the Heimskringla, St Olaf's Saga, ch. cxliii.; Saga of Harald Grey-cloak, ch. xiv. and elsewhere; Egil Skallagrimson's Saga, ch. xxxvii.; Burnt Nial's Saga, ch. xxviii.). The modern names of Perm, Permians, Permiaks, etc. are derived by many from the Biarms and Biarmaland (or Biarmland). Ohthere's remark is doubtless correct that the Fynnes and Biarmes speake but one language (or rather, nearly one language). The whole of our North, North-West, and East Russia was then peopled by Finnish tribes.

For indifferent well read well; for he was afrayd to go vpon shore read they did not dare to come thereon.

- l. 6 7. The countrey of the Terfynnes: i.e. the present Lapland, including the Russian Lapp or 'Murman' (Norman) coast, from Varanger Fiord to the entrance of the White Sea.
 l. 11 8. He was not vpon land, nor: an addition of Hak.'s.
 l. 15 9. For the more commoditie...horsewhales, etc.: the text really says here that Ohthere's chief purpose was to see the country, and, besides this, to prospect for walrus fishing ('on account of the hors-hwaels'; the last word is a version of hwal-ros, 'whale-horse,' the Russian 'morse,' the W. European 'walrus'). These animals have never, within historical times, been noticed as numerous in the Baltic, but were and are common enough along the Lapland coast.

On walrus and whale-measurements (modern figures compared with Ohthere's), cf. Bosworth, Alfred's...Europe, notes 44—45, pp. 9—11.

- l. 23 10. Some be 48 elles...and some 50: read some are 48 ells and most 50. Ohthere's asserted feat of killing 60 of these largest whales, with five companions, in two days (not three days, as in Hak.) is considered by most people now to be a rather tall story. Cp. Bosworth, Alfred's...Europe, note 46.
 l. 28 11. Tame Deere: in original unsold tame deer. After wherain the wealth of that country doth consist the original adds, that is, in wild deer. For stall p. 9 Rane Deere modern English would say decoy rein-deer.

12. After 20 kine Hak. omits and 20 sheep. l. 32

13. Richest...one Beare: in original one bear-skin. For bushels, the l. 38 original has ambers, which is about the same measure; for a coat of a Beares skinne, read a bear- or otter-skin kirtle.

14. Country of Norway...small: in original Northmen's land...narrow: p. 10 l. 1 for in some places inhabited by the Fynnes the original has the Finns inhabit these mountains.

15. For South read East (twice). The measurement of threescore miles is l. 7 apparently in Ohthere's own Norse reckoning; 1 Norse mile = 5 Anglo-Saxon or Old English.

For smallest...it proueth not three miles from the Sea read narrowest...it might be three miles broad.

16. Swethland: i.e. Sweden, in A.-S. Sweoland; the Sweons being often l. 16 identified with the Suiones of Tacitus.

After Sweoland the original adds to that land northwards, and defines Cwenaland (Hak.'s Queeneland) as along that land northwards.

As to Cwena-land or Cwenland, the region of the Bothnia Gulf both E. and W.; the identification of the Cwen-Sea with the Gulf of Bothnia rather than the White Sea; and Adam of Bremen's notice of the Cwens, mistaken by him for Amazons, cf. Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 545-46;
 Adam of Bremen, Gesta Pontificum Hammaburg. Eccl., III. 15; IV. 14, 17, 19, 25; Bosworth, Alfred's...Europe, notes 36, 42, which last quotes the 14th century Icelandic description of the Dnae Quenlandiae quae ulterius quam Biarmia boream versus extenduntur (Antiquitates Americanae, p. 290).

17. Othter...Halgoland...Hetha: this second voyage of Ohthere's was from l. 25 his far Northern home in about 65° or 66° N. Lat. to Æt-Haethum (Schleswig, not Wismar or Rostock as Hak. surmises) in 54½° N. Lat. It forms the second part of the Periplus given in Alfred's Orosius, from the White Sea and the extreme N. of Europe round Scandinavia into the Baltic up to Esthonia; of this periplus Ohthere's Biarmia-land voyage formed the first part, Ohthere's southern voyage the second, Wulfstan's the third.

For country [wherein he dwelled] the original has shire (scir).

[p. 6]

18. Scirings hall: in full the original reads, there is likewise a port to the l. 31 South of that land [Halogaland], called Sciringes-heal: prob. some harbour on the W. of Christiania Fiord (very far S. of Halogaland, as Olithere says) is here referred to: cf. the Ynglinga Saga, ch. xlix. where 'Skaereid at Ski-ringsal' is mentioned as if in Westfold (W. of Christiania Fiord).

The maine gulfes of the Sea which entreth into the land at Sciringes-heal is apparently the Skager Rak and Kattegat.

For Hak.'s if he lay still by night, although...every day, etc., the original has if he landed at night and every day, etc.

19. Iutland...Iutland: the Cotton MS., which is the only source for the l. 35 text here, reads Iraland, and this reading is supported by Dahlmann, Forsch- ungen, 1822, and others, but most editors read Isaland (Iceland). Assuming, like Strabo, that Ireland lay north of Britain, or even north-west, there would be no need to amend the (MS.) text here. There is no authority for 'Jutland.' This

- p. 10 country is Britain: the Islands...betwixt this country and Ireland (al. Isaland; for Hak.'s Iutland) in any case must refer to Orkneys, Shetlands, Färoes, etc.
1. 36 20. For still along the coast of this country...larboord, the original has then it is this land [i.e. Britain] until he comes to Sciringes-heal, and all the way on the larboord, Norway.
1. 37 21. At Scirings hall...a maine gulfe of the Sea: the original has to the south of Sciringes-heal a very great sea: for on the other side against the same... Gotland...Silland read Iutland [Gothland] is opposite on the other side and then Zealand [Seeland]. The A.-S. forms are Gotland and Sillende.
Cf. Bosworth, Alfred's...Europe, note 56.
- p. 11 1. 2 22. Many hundreth miles up into the land: read many miles up into that land.
1. 4 23. Hetha: in original Æt-Heathum; see note 17. The name is thought to have survived in the modern Haddeby, also mentioned by the Old English chroniclers Æthelweard and William of Malmesbury.
1. 5 24. Wendels: i.e. Wends, Vandals, or Vinedi, the Slavs of the South Baltic Littoral in the modern Mecklenburg, Pomerania, and Prussia.
25. For wherunto it is subiect the original has and belongs to the Danes.
1. 7 26. Steeerboord Denmarke...leereboord the maine sea: in original Denmark was on his left [baecbord] and on the right [steorbord] a wide sea. Also for Gotland on leerboord we should read Iutland [Gothland] on the right (starboard). It has been suggested that the Denmark on the left refers to the old Danish provinces of Halland and Scania in the extreme S. of the modern Sweden, but there appears to be a simple mistake, of left for right, in this clause.
The comma in Hak. between before and he is certainly wrong.
It is noteworthy that Ælfred here makes the English [Engle] inhabit Iutland [Gotland], Zealand [Silland or Sillende], and many [divers other] islands, before they came to Britain. For in that country we should read in these lands. The main settlements of Engles and Saxons were usually supposed to be on the mainland: cf. Bede, Ecc. Hist. 1. 15: see also Anglo-Saxon Chronicle A.D. 449, and Procopius, Gothic War, Book IV. The mention of Denmark (Dena-meare in the A.-S.) is said to be one of the first occurrences of the name.
1. 12 27. Islands...subiect to Denmarke: i.e. Moen, etc. From this it would seem that Ohthere passed between Zealand and Moen.
1. 13 28. Wolstans...Trusco: here begins the third and last part of the northern Periplus recorded by Ælfred. As of Ohthere, nothing is known of Wulfstan except what is said by the West-Saxon king. Both were probably (Ohthere certainly) Northmen who had entered Ælfred's service. Trusco is Truso on Lake Truso or Drausen, from which the Elbing takes its course.
1. 19 29. Wenedland: in the A.-S. Wæonodland, i.e. the land of the Wends: see note 24.
1. 20 30. Langland, Layland...Sconie: the original has Langaland, Laeland...Sconeg, the regions of Langland, Laaland and Sconey (Sconeg, 'the beautiful island').
1. 22 31. Bargenland: A.-S. Burgenda-land, i.e. Bornholm, contracted from Burgundarholmr.
For a private king, modern English would say of course a king of its own.
1. 24 32. Blekingie, Meere, Eland, Gotland: A.-S. Blecinga-eg, Moore, Eowland, Gotland; by these are meant (1) Bleking province in S.W. Sweden, (2) the Upper and Lower Moehre region in the Smaland province of Sweden, (3) Oeland island, (4) Gothland island.
1. 27 33. Wixel: A.-S. Wisle, i.e. the Vistula (Polish Wisla, German Weichsel).

On this river in the earlier Middle Ages, cf. Jordanes (Jornandes), De reb. Get., ch. 3.

34. Witland: the ordinary mediaeval term, at least till far on in the Crusading period, for a part of the province of Samland in Old Prussia. This is said to be the first occurrence of the name. Cp. the Vithlandia of the 11th century monk Alberic. 1. 28

35. Easterlings: A.-S. Estas or Este, i.e. the Esthonians. 1. 29

36. Eastmere: A.-S. Estmere, the present Frisches Haff, now about 60 E. miles long and from 6 to 15 miles broad. 1. 30

37. Ilsing: a misreading for Ilfing, i.e. the river Elbing in Prussia near Danzig. For out of another lake...Fruso read from the lake on the shore of which stands Truso. Hak. of course should not have a comma between banke and wherupon. 1. 32

38. The wealthiest men...Mares milke: in the original the King and the richest men...Kumiss. Cf. Adam of Bremen, Gesta Pontificum Hammaburg. Eccl. iv. 18, on the old Prussians drinking Kumiss to intoxication. Kumiss is most fully described in Rubruquis, pp. 227—8 (Recueil); see pp. 151—2, 192—3 of this vol. p. 12 1. 5

Fully half of Wulfstan's narrative, following what is here printed, and relating to the burial customs of the Esthonians, is omitted by Hak.

§ 3. KING EDGAR'S NAVIGATION. pp. 6—9.

1. The nauigation of King Edgar...M. Dee: the whole of this long extract (pp. 6—9) is from pp. 54—60 of John Dee's General and rare memoirs pertayning to the perfect Arte of Navigation (1577), in which the heading The Brytish Monarchie is given at the top of all the pages, though not on the title page. The Colophon of Dee's book gives the date, Sept. 1577; and at the end of the vol. there is also the note Finished Anno Domini 1576, Augusto mense. 1. 8

Most of Dee's side-notes are omitted by Hak., and there are many variations of spelling and punctuation between Hak.'s copy and his original, e.g. (on p. 6 of the Principal Navigations), Christian for Christen, comfortable for cum-fortable, might for mought, appurtenances for appertenances, etc.

[p. 7]

2. Empire: in Dee always Impire; a little later Hak.'s deuise is altered from aduse; while the compiler omits Dee's gratiously before streamed downe, and his me before a subiect. p. 13 1. 3

3. Ædgarus, etc.: this passage occurs almost verbatim in the Flores Historiarum [so called 'Matthew of Westminster'] A.D. 975 (cf. p. 375 of Abp. Parker's edition of 1570, and p. 513, vol. 1., in Rolls Series Edition of 1890, by H. R. Luard. As to the number of ships, Dee, following Abp. Parker's 1567 and 1570 editions of the text, reads quatuor millia octingentas (which Hak. copies), but in the margin of the original edition a note reads 3600, and this is the reading of the critical edition in the Rolls Series, even though that edition preserves the fourfold arrangement of 1200 ships which requires a total of 4800. The present account may also be found, but with great differences of detail, in Florence of Worcester's (Florentius Wigor- 1. 11 niensis) Chronicon ex Chronicis, A.D. 975, p. 360 of the edition of 1592 (3600 robustas sibi congregaverit naves ex quibus...omni anno 1200 in orientali, 1200 in occidentali, 1200 in septentrionali insulae plaga coadunare...eo quo modo totam insulam omni aestate consueverat circumnavigare ad defensionem contra externos regni sui): see also p. 578 in the edition of Florence in the Monumenta Historica Britannica, 1848. The whole passage in Florence is really a continuation of the epitaph quoted by Dee a little later (Anglici orbis Basileus, etc.).

Other forms of this may be found in Higden (Ranulphus or Radulphus Cestrensis of Hak. and Dee), Polychronicon, VI. 11; and in Roger Hoveden (Annalium pars prior), p. 244, verso, of the edition of 1596, Rerum Anglicarum Scriptores post Bedam.

The punctuation, both in Dee and Hakluyt, is confusing, but if we transfer the comma from ducentas to naves in the second line it will be clearer.

1. 24 4. Charges leuied: in Dee Charges hercof leuied. So a little later Dee has excellent good uses for excellent uses, thesaur for treasure, dearth or famine for dearth of famine, vittayles for victuals, enhansed for enhansed.

1. 41 5. Anglici orbis Basileus, etc.: this passage, with some differences, may be found in Florence of Worcester, Chronicon ex Chronicis, edition of 1592, under A.D. 975, p. 360 (=p. 578 in the edition of 1848 in the Monumenta Historica Britannica), where after decus the text adds antecessorum regum, pacificus rex and after quam puts Romulus Romanis first of the comparisons, reading also Carolus Magnus, and after Francis a much fuller and very different continuation, viz. ...anno aetatis...XXXII, regni autem illius in Mercia et Northimbria XIX., ex quo vero per totam Angliam regnavit XVI., indictione tertia, VIII. Idus Julii, feria quinta, ex hac vita transiit...Corpus...Glastoniam delatum, etc.

Dee's citation is rather more closely represented by Higden ('Ranulphus Cestrensis,' as Hak. rightly amends Dee's Radulphus), Polychronicon, Book VI. ch. 11 (vol. VII. p. 18 of Rolls Series edition) where Graecis is read for Macedonibus, Arsaces Parthis is omitted, and vitalis suae, fratre suo, Idibus, and Glastoniam are the forms adopted. In the Flores Historiarum ['Matth. Westminster'] A.D. 975 (vol. I. p. 514, in Rolls Series edition), the parallel passage is worded very differently, the similarities being only in flos et decus...rex pacificus Eadgarus...anno aetatis suae tricesimo secundo, regni vero decimo sexto...corpus Glastoniae delatum, etc. In Dee, anno...37^{mo}; ...post, 21^{mo}, and Glascon. are the exact readings, and the marginal heading Charta Regis Henrici secundi is placed against the lines Quae olim...ancoritas, a little further on.

- p. 14 1. 5 6. For many, Dee reads many rare [persons].

1. 19 7. Eche one [being of 1000 ships]: in Dee Eche.

1. 21 8. Idem quoque Aedgarus, etc.: the marginal heading Ranulphus [Cestrensis] is in Dee Radulphus. This excerpt is represented, but by no means verbatim, in Higden, Polychronicon, Book VI. ch. 9 (vol. VI. p. 468 of Rolls Series edition): in omni aestate post festum Paschae naves coadunari fecit, quas in quatuor partes distribuit ad quatuor Angliae partes posuit: unde cum occidentali classe navigavit ad part[m] borealem, cum boreali classe ad partem orientalem, cum orientali classe ad partem australem, cum australi classe ad partem occidentalem...Hieme vero per provinciam...iudicia ministrorum exquirebat.

1. 34 9. For dread [the like] Dee reads dread any [the like]; for the...[pastimes], those...

[p. 8]

10. For deuil, Dee reads diuell; for chiefe [and uttermost walles], chiefest; p. 15 l. 2 for furthering, furdering, for Matthaeus Westmonasteriensis, Mathaeus West- monestariensis. Several smaller differences are passed over.

11. Habebat autem, etc.: this passage is from the Flores Historiarum l. 20 [‘Matth. Westminster’] A.D. 975 (vol. i. p. 513 in Rolls Series edition). It is an immediate continuation of the passage already quoted by Dee and Hak., Ædgarus pacificus, regni sui prospiciens utilitati, etc.

The Flores Histor., after praeterea, read omni tempore vitae suae and omit intelligeret, reading simply ut quomodo. The Rolls Series edition also amends ut to et before quomodo. Hak.’s citations from the Flores, here as before, are taken either from the first edition of 1567 (ed. by Archbishop Parker), or perhaps more probably from the second edition of 1570 (by the same). Both, in these passages, usually agree with the MSS. and with the critical text of the Rolls Series edition (Luard).

12. For [withs and] trauels Dee reads ...trauayles; for with [utilitie] he has l. 32 which...; for good [purposes], godly...; for Seaforce, Sea Strength: over security
...loue...heauenly spirite, Dee puts 1, 2, 3.

13. Altitonantis Dei, etc.: in this extract Dee omits the comma between p. 16 l. 26 Regum and Insularum, and reads Britanniani for Britanniam (which latter however is given in Dee’s margin) and Æthelwoldum for Athelwoldum.

This charter to Worcester may be found in Walter de Gray Birch’s Cartu- larium Saxonum, Vol. III. (1893), pp. 377—381 (no. 1135). It is of A.D. 964, and was given at Gloucester, Holy Innocents’ Day, Wed., Dec. 28. See also Kemble, Codex Diplomaticus Ævi Saxonici no. DXIV. The full text in Birch’s Cart. Sax. adds (after rex regum) et dominus dominantium, reads circumiacent for circumiacentis (the preceding que being relative), Æthelstani for Athelstani, regum for regnum (Anglorum), Brytanniam for Britanniam, Norregiam for Noruegiam, Hyberniae for Hiberniae, Dublina for Dublinia, Æthelwoldum for Athelwoldum, in (patres) for mihi, perfeci for effeci. It also omits et before omnes nationes and adds in regno meo after Christi gloriam et laudem.

[p. 9]

14. Omnipotentis Dei: this charter is really of 970 (not 973, as Hak.). It p. 17 l. 7 may be found in Walter de Gray Birch’s Cartularium Saxonum, Vol. III.
pp. 557—560 (no. 1266). See also Kemble, Codex Diplom. Ævi Sax., no. DLXIII.

The concluding asseveration Ego Ædgarus etc. is not in this charter, though it occurs elsewhere in so many words. In the body of Hak.’s extract the full text, in Birch’s Cart. Sax., reads quiete pacem for quieta pace, nostra for ne (inertia), and for the date anno Incarnationis...nonagesimo septua- gesimo...anno regni mei tertio decimo.

Another Ely charter of 970 from Eadgar (totius Britanniae basileus) is printed by Kemble, vol. VI. pp. 97—8 of Codex Diplomaticus Ævi Saxonici
(no. MCCLXIX.).

15. For attaining Dee reads attayning; for all, al; for only, onely; for l. 27 warlike, warlik; for order of the...seruice, order of...seruices; for able, hable; for Brittish, Brytish; for chuse, chose; for iewel, iuell, and other trivial differences.

§ 4. VOYAGE OF EDMUND AND EDWARD, SONS OF EDMUND IRONSIDE, INTO HUNGARY; CHRONICLE OF THE KINGS OF MAN; MARRIAGE OF HAROLD'S DAUGHTER TO IERUSLAUS DUKE OF RUSSIA. pp. 9—16.

p. 18 l. 29 1. Dedit consilium Edricus, etc.: this passage is from Florence of Worcester, Chronicon ex Chronicis, A.D. 1017, p. 391 of the edition of 1592.

Hak. inserts Canuto regi and omits etiam in the first clause; in the second sentence Hak.'s Suanorum is for the original (and right) Suanorum; in the last Hak. omits virginem after Sanctimonialem.

It is hardly worth commenting on the subject-matter of passages which do not really bear on Hak.'s proper subject, but Salomon was not king of Hungary till 1063; St Stephen reigned over that country down to 1038, and is probably, if any, the sovereign referred to. The whole of this account of the fortunes of Eadmund Ironside's descendants is very doubtful. Clitonem Eadgarum is Eadgar the Ætheling.

[p. 10]

p. 19 l. 16 2. A Chronicle of the Kings of Man, etc.: this long series of extracts is translated, apparently by Hakluyt himself, from William Camden's Britannia, pp. 529—542 of the 1st edition of 1586. It is no doubt called Chorographie by Hak. from the sub-title;—Britannia, sive florentissimorum regnorum Angliae, Scotiae, Hiberniae et insularum...adiacentium chorographica descriptio. Hak.'s version is, on the whole, faithful and close, but why he should have inserted this record in the Principal Navigations is a difficult question.

l. 18 3. In the yeere of our Lord 1066, etc.: an amended version of Camden's strange A.D. 1047...obiit Edwardus. Harfager is a mistake for Hardrada. Ramsa is Ramsay in Man.

l. 29 4. William the Conquerour: in Camden, Gulielmus Bastard. A little later sailed is Hak.'s trans. of venit.

p. 20 l. 1 5. A wood standing vpon...Seacafel: in Camden silva quae erat in deuexo montis supercilio, qui vocatur Seacasel.

l. 29 6. Lainestir: in Camden Laynestir, i.e. Leinster: at the foot of p. 10 Hak.'s wel-disposed person is a trans. of industrium.

[p. 11]

p. 21 l. 18 7. Vnto him [and appoint him...King]: in Camden in unum...; a little later, Earle Othor is in Camden Other Comes; again, the corps (of St Olaf of Norway) is in corruptionem, and presently is statim, while he had the people of Galway in such awe is Galwedientes ita constrinxit, and Anglesey is Moniam. Hak., omitting, here as elsewhere, most of Camden's marginal notes, passes over the gloss Monia pro Anglesey vide Giraldum Cambrensem in Itinerario Cambriae.

p. 22 l. 42 8. Fully resolved [to conquer...Ireland]: in Camden nihil cogitabat quam. For Armagh Camden has Dune.

[p. 12]

p. 23 l. 7 9. Sent for [Olauus]: in Camden accerserunt: for William the Conquerour Camden has Gulielmi only.

10. After Engus and Olauus and before in the yeere 1134 Hak. omits to p. 23 l. 20 translate the entry for 1133, referring to an eclipse.

11. With his nobilitie: Hak.'s trans. of cum suis; his gathering an armie, l. 39 a little later, is a version of congregata classe.

12. Coridelis: in Camden, Cortdelis: at the end of this paragraph Hak.'s p. 24 l. 21 one halfe thereof is simply illud in Camden; and at the end of p. 12 [Malcolme the king] of Scots is Scotiae.

[p. 13]

13. Iohn Curcy: in Camden, Joannes de Curcy; Hak.'s Vlster is Ultoniam, p. 25 l. 17 his sea of Rome is for Apostolicae Sedis.

14. Absent from: in Camden non erunt [for erant] in; in the next entry, p. 26 l. 31 under 1217, Hak.'s Reginald is Reginandus in Camden.

15. Folowers: in Camden exercitus; in the next clause boldly is Hak.'s p. 27 l. 6 version of fiduciter.

[p. 14]

16. That he would consult about the premisses: in Camden habiturum se consilium; by his journey vnto S. Iames a pilgrimage to the Spanish shrine of St James at Compostella in Galicia is meant. After this Hak. does not trans. et iam reuersum (i.e. that when Olaf came back from Compostella his brother made him marry). l. 16

17. Cousine german...Lauon: in Camden, germanam uxoris suae Lauon nomine, which leaves it uncertain whether the wife or the cousin-german was Lauon. Reginald the bishop is Reginandus Episcopus in Camden, who also adds canonice before separavit: for cousin german at the end of this paragraph Camden has consobrinam. l. 28

18. To take [Olauus]: in Camden ut occideret; for Boke, a little later, Camden has Beke, but subsequently Boke also. l. 37

19. In the dead of the night: in Camden intempestae noctis silentio. p. 28 l. 7

20. Certaine victuals: in Camden II...cibariis: a little later, had no list is Hak.'s version of libuit (sic), and vnder pretense is a trans. of sub occasione. After Alanus lord of Galway Hak. omits to trans. eodem tempore dedit filiam suam filio Alani in matrimonio. l. 26

21. Athol: in Camden Etholiae: for vpon the sudden...dead of the night Camden has inopinato...intempesta nocte. p. 29 l. 5

[p. 15]

22. Concluding a peace: in Camden pacem petens: in this clause Camden spells the port Ragnollwath: we may contrast this with Roghalwaht elsewhere. By certaine souldiers, a little later, is simply a quibusdam in Camden, whose ibidem here is not translated by Hak. l. 20

23. Haco: in Camden Hacho: Hak.'s of the Hebrides is a version of Camden's Soderensium, while Lewis is of course Lodhus in the Latin text. l. 34

24. Torquellus: in Camden Thorquellum: Hak.'s pupil, at end of this p. 30 l. 13 paragraph, is alumno in Camden, Yuarus a souldier (under A.D. 1249) is Yuario milite, and Alexander king of Scots is simply A...rex.

25. Kerwary: in Camden Kerwaray: Hak.'s falling into an ague is in p. 31 l. 9 Camden febre correptus. In the next entry fugitiues is Hak.'s version of profugos.

[p. 16]

p. 31 l. 35 26. Kirwas: in Camden Kirkwas, i.e. Kirkwall. In the entry under 1266 translated unto [Alexander] is in Camden translatum propter...

p. 32 l. 9 27. Five hundredth fourtie etc.: this verse in the original runs
L decies X ter et penta duo cecidere

Mannica gens de te damna futura caue.

On the subject-matter of this whole excerpt, surprisingly irrelevant as it is to the real theme of the Principal Navigations, it will perhaps be enough to say, that Man—conquered by Harald Fairhair of Norway in 870 and governed for some time by Norse viceroys—was under the Kings of Leinster from 1060 to 1072, under the Kings of Dublin from 1072 to 1075, under the Kings of Munster from 1075 to 1079. The island was ruled by Sigtrygg Ragnvaldson (Rogn—; Hak.'s 'Syrric'), from 1052 to 1060; by Gudrod II. Crowan Haraldson (Hak.'s 'Godredus Crouan'), from 1079 to 1089 [al. 1095]; by Lagman Gudrodson, from 1089 to 1096; by Dofnald (Hak.'s 'Dopnald') and Inge-mund, from 1096 to 1098; in this connection, Hak.'s 1075 and 1077, taken from Camden, should probably be 1095 and 1097; see pp. 10, 11 of the Principal Navigations. Man was conquered by Magnus III. of Norway ('Barefoot') in 1098 and was held by this sovereign till his death in 1103 (cf. Hak.'s sixt yeeres, p. 12; Hak. makes Magnus the grandson of Harald 'Harfager' or Fairhair, who died 930; it should be Harald Hardrada, killed at Stamford Bridge in 1066); Magnus' son Sigurd (Jerusalem-Farer, King of Norway 1103—1130) governed the island on his father's behalf during this time, 1098—1103. After Magnus was defeated and killed in Ireland (1103), Olaf I. Bitling Gudrodson (Hak.'s 'Olauus son of Godredus Crouan') reigned in Man from 1103 to 1153 (Hak.'s fourtie yeeres); Gudrod III. Olafson (Hak.'s 'Godredus son of Olauus') from 1153 to 1187; Ragnvald or Rognvald I. Gudrodson (Hak.'s 'Reginald sonne of Godred') from 1187 to 1229; Olaf II. Gudrodson ('Olauus' of 'Lodhus') from 1187 to 1237 (nominally; see Hak. p. 15, under 1237, on his 11 years of real power); Harald Olafson ('Haraldus his sonne') from 1237 to 1248; Gudrod IV. Don Ragnvaldson (Hak.'s 'Godredus Don') from 1229 to 1230 only; Harald II. Gudrodson ('Haraldus the sonne of Godred Don') from 1249 to 1250; Magnus II. Olafson from 1250 to 1265 (see Hak. p. 15, under 1252, for Magnus' real power in Man from that year); while Ragnvald II. Olafson ('Reginald the sonne of Olauus') reigned only during a part of May, 1249.

Sumerledus or Sumerled (p. 12 of Hak. under 1156, etc.) is Somerled or Somhairle, Lord of the Isle 1156—1164, and 'thane' of Argyle; 'Dubgal' is his younger son Dufgall or Dugald. It was in 1156 that Gudrod III. of Man ('Godredus son of Olauus') ceded part of the Hebrides to Somerled: on the death of Somerled some of his possessions in the Western Isles (including Cantire) went to his eldest son Ragnvald or Reginald, and another part (including Lorne) went to the younger son Dufgall.

l. 34 28. Haraldo caeso, etc.: this passage comes, not from the '9 booke' of Saxo Grammaticus, but from the xith, near the beginning, on p. 187, ll. 47—53, of the text of the Danica Historia Libris XVI... as printed at Frankfurt-on-Main (Francofurti ad Menum) by And. Wecheli in 1576, which is probably the edition used by Hak. The differences are very trifling, but the Frankfurt text begins Cuius filii duo confestim, and reads Sueno for Sveno, eorum for illorum (meriti) and Iarizlauus for Iarizlaus.

p. 38

Breue de generali summonitione in itinere iustitiariorum itinerantium apud Shipwey in com. Kanc. infra libertatem quinque portuum; as quoted by Lambarde; Rex dilectis...balliuis de Hastings salutem...eodem modo balliuis de Romnal...Heya...Doure...Sandwoyz. The precaution relative to Dunwich and Yarmouth is also as Lambarde translates it: et quoniam saepius contentio inter homines praedictorum portuum et homines de Gernemuth et de Donwiche, fiat breue vic. Norff. et Suff. in hac forma (in which form the forms Ierne-mewe and Donewitz occur), the whole concluding tunc fit apud Shipwey coram...iustitiariis...querelam suam propositurus et iustitiam inde recepturus.

§ 6. LETTER OF IVO OF NARBONNE. pp. 20, 21.

p. 39 l. 24

1. The Lord therefore, etc.: this part of Ivo's letter is quoted from Matthew Paris, Chronica Maiora (Historia Maior), A.D. 1243, vol. IV. pp. 272—276, of Rolls Series edition, 1877 (Luard). More than one-third of the complete letter precedes that portion printed by Hak. and about one-seventh follows after Hak.'s conclusion. The whole occupies pp. 270—277 in the Rolls edition, and has the heading Quaedam Epistola Archiepiscopo Burdegalensi transmissa terribilis nimis. For his purpose, Hak. prob. used the text published by Archbishop Parker in 1571, Matthaei Paris, Monachi Albanensis, Angli, Historia Maior, a Guilielmo Conquestore ad ultimum annum Henrici tertii. Londini, 1571, extracting pp. 819 (foot)—822 (top) Hoc igitur et multis aliis peccatis...mihilominus perierunt. In this edition of 1571 the letter is headed Epistola terribilis de crudelitate Tartarorum.

l. 25 2. Committed: in Hak. orig. emergentibus. In the next sentence This I may iustly affirme to be true is in Hak.'s original Hoc ideo dixerim.

l. 28 3. Lawlesse...furious: in Hak.'s orig. exlex...furor; Tartars, in the next sentence, is Hak.'s trans. of Tattari, Hungarie of Pannoniam. The marginal Neustat (i.e. Neustadt in Austria) is supplied by Hak. from an earlier paragraph of the letter (in quodam oppido Austriae quod Theutonice Neustat dicitur).

l. 34 4. I my selfe abode: in Hak.'s original tunc forte morabar. After souldiers Hak. does not translate truculenter.

l. 37 5. The captaine is Frederic duke of Austria (Friedrich II., 'the Warlike,' A.D. 1230—1246).

vaste [armie] in the next sentence is Hak.'s version of circumfusum [ex^m], and beastly is his trans. of immanem.

p. 40 l. 2

6. Signified forthwith vnto their gouernour...subiects: in Hak.'s orig. ascendentes ad Dominum Christianorum planctus miserabiles audiebantur. For Dominum the Rolls text reads Deum.

l. 7 7. [Chieftains] And...sauage followers...cates: in Hak.'s original [principes] cum suis cynocephalis aliisque lotophagis quasi pane vescentes. In the Rolls text cenofaris is read for Cynocephalis. In the MSS. a representation of the Tartars eating human victims is inserted here, at the foot of the page.

l. 16 8. Tender paps: in Hak.'s original papillis only. At the end of this sentence Hak.'s engorged...bodies is a version of ipsis virgineis corporibus lautius epulabantur.

l. 20 9. The Duke of Austria is Friedrich II. (see note 5): the King of Bohemia is Wenceslas III., otherwise Wenceslas I. (1230—1253): the Patriarch of

§ 5. ON THE CINQUE PORTS. pp. 17—20.

[p. 17]

1. I finde, etc.: this long excerpt, covering pp. 17—20 (top) of Hak., p. 33 l. 24 is from pp. 114—124 of the Perambulation of Kent, containing the Description, Hystorie, and Customes of that Shyre, written...1570...by William Lambarde of Lincolnes Inne, first published 1576...now increased...after the author's owne last copie: printed by Edm. Bollifant, London, 1596.

There are many small differences of spelling and punctuation, but nothing very material: the chief are the following on p. 17:—Hak. adds, in the margin, 1070 (near the beginning) and 1250 Antiquitie of Yarmouth fishing; in the text he reads flee for flie, commanding for commaunding, bene for been.

[p. 18]

2. Winchelsey: later spelt Wincelsey by Hak., Winchelsey by Lamb. Hak. p. 35 l. 21 here omits the date 1268 which Lamb. gives in the margin.

3. And thus it stood: against this Hak. adds the marginal date 1278. p. 36 l. 33 In the list of ports a little later Lamb. has Bekisborne and Rye.

[p. 19]

4. Charges: in Lamb. wages: in the list of Cinque and other Ports a little later Lamb. reads Hethe for Heth (at first), Bulwerhæthe for Bulwerheth. p. 37 l. 22

5. Sandwich...Romenal and Hethe: after this Lambarde reads before. p. 38 l. 1 A little later Lambarde reads daies together for dayes together, easely for easily, refer for referre.

6. Safe [conduct...Kings owne person]: in Lambarde salfe; in the same paragraph Lambarde reads enimie, proffered. The rest of the variations are exceedingly trivial, e.g. fourtie for fortie, wals for walles, graunt for grant, ods for oddes. l. 20

The place of the marginal heading The good service of the fiue Ports has been somewhat altered by Hak.: in Lambarde it stands against the lines beginning Thus much out of these ancient notes.

Lambarde's references to Domesday Book may be found pretty well borne out by the following entries:—In the edition of 1783 (Domesday Book seu Liber censualis Willelmi Primi Regis Angliae...jubente rege Georgio III.—the only complete printed text of Domesday), under Chenth (Kent) vol. 1. p. 1, col. 1, ll. 6—8, after the recital of the ships supplied by Dovere (xx naues regi una vice in anno ad xv dies et in unaquaque naui homines xx et unus) it is stated hoc faciebant pro eo quod eis pdonauerat saccam et socam. These customs were in force under Edward the Confessor: omnes hae consuetudines erant ibi quando Willelmus rex in Angliam uenit. On Sandwich (Sandwice) Domesday (same edition and vol., page 3, col. 1, ll. 6—7) records that the service owed by that port was similar to Dover's: reddit similem seruitium regi sicut Dovere: further, tempore mortis R. E. [Regis Edwardi] non erat ad firmam.

Lambarde's (and Hak.'s) citation from Bracton is doubtless from the edition of 1569; Henrici de Bracton de Legibus et Consuetudinibus Angliae Libri quinque; : Londini, Apud Richardum Tottellum 1569. In Liber III. tractatus secundus De Corona, cap. 2, fols. 117 v^o and 115 r^o, the form is given of the CHAPTERS 26—29 in Vinc. Beauv. do not correspond to the same in Hakluyt: V. All these are probably from Simon of St Quentin's lost work.

CHAPTER 2.

[p. 53]

1. Ascelline. Ascelin or Anselm was head of the Dominican embassy sent p. 107 l. 9 by Innocent IV. in 1247[—50] to the Tartars. Ascelin was accompanied by Simon of St Quentin, the historian of the expedition, and apparently by several others—Alexander, Albert, Guichard of Cremona and Andrew of Longumeau, Lonjumeau or Lonjumeil,—afterwards an envoy of Louis IX. to the Mongols. The last two joined Ascelin's party after it had set out. Authorities differ somewhat about these minor figures of the mission: in any case it was a supplement to the two Franciscan legations despatched in 1245 by the same pontiff to the new lords of the East, (1) one under Laurentius or Lourenço of Portugal, (2) the other under John de Plano Carpini (Giovanni del Pian di Carpine). Ascelin and his party were ordered to carry the Papal letters to the first Tartar army they should meet on the side of Persia and Armenia. This was one under Bachu or Baiju 'Noyan' ('General' Baiju, the 'Baiothnoy' of Simon of St Quentin), whom we find later encamped at Kars and who was now at Sitiens, 59 days' journey from Acre, according to Simon. Ascelin's letters were similar in tenor to Carpini's: after much trouble, they were translated through Persian into Mongol and so presented to Baiju. He greatly irritated the Mongols by implying that the Pope was superior even to the Great Khan, by having no presents to offer, by refusing to go on to the Imperial Court in Mongolia, by declining the accustomed genuflections before Baiju, and by urging him and his men to become Christians. 'What, become dogs, like you and your pope' was the reply. Ascelin and his companions were lodged a mile from the Tartar camp, treated like dogs, and denied all answer for nearly nine weeks, throughout June and July. Thrice Baiju, who had been mortally offended by the freedom of their speech, ordered their death. At last they were dismissed (July 25, 1247) with Baiju's response to the Pope, dated the 'region of Sitiens,' July 20. In this the 'Noyan' complained of the 'high words' of the Latin envoys, and commanded Innocent to come in person and submit to the master of all the earth; he also sent a copy of the instructions he professed to have received from the Great Khan, regulating his behaviour to foreign peoples. Baiju (sometimes mis-spelt Baitu) belonged to the Mongol tribe of Yissut, was a relation of the more famous general Chebe, had invaded Persia with Charmaghan, and afterwards destroyed the Sultanate of Rûm. He was visited by King Hayton or Hethum of Little Armenia in 1254 and 1255, at Kars on the way out, at 'Sisian' (Sitiens) on the return journey. 'Noyan' or 'Nuyan' properly means 'Myriarch,' a commander of 10,000. On Ascelin's journey cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, 1852, II. 200—1, 221—233, III. 79; Fontana, Monumenta Dominicana, p. 52, Rome, 1675; Wadding, Annales Minorum, III. 116—8; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches from Eastern Asiatic Sources, 1888, I. 113, 166, 171 and notes 455, 494; d'Avezac, Introd. to Carpini in his edition of 1838, reprinted in the publications of the Paris Société de Géographie, Recueil de Voyages, etc., 1839, vol. IV. pp. 464—5. Refs. to the text of Carpini and Rubruquis, to d'Avezac's Introd. and notes, and to the notes of Michel and Wright on Rubruquis, are always made to this vol. of the Recueil edition. On Charmaghan [Chormagûn] cf. p. 282.

p. 107

1. 11 2. Of the same auctoritie...were called: a translation of auctoritate, qua fungebantur.

1. 19 3. Simon de Sanct. Quintin: i.e. Simon de Sancto Quintino (of St Quentin), the historian of Ascelin's mission of 1247 to Baiju, is only preserved in Vincent of Beauvais' Speculum Historiale, where 19 chapters are expressly said to be ex libello fratris Simonis or labelled frater Simon (Symon) viz. Spec. Hist., book XXXII. [as usually quoted; sometimes called XXXI.] chs. 26—29, 32, 34, 40—52: besides these a number of other chapters, in books XXXI. and XXX. are probably from the same source; cf. book XXXI. [otherwise XXX.] chs. 3, 4, 7, 8, 13, 32, and book XXX. [otherwise XXIX.] chs. 69, 71, 74, 75, 78, 80, etc. Cf. Reinier Reinecke, who extracted all the matter relating to Oriental Nations from Vincent of Beauvais and published it in his Historia Orientalis [Haythoni Armenii et huius subjectum Marci Pauli Veneti Itinerarium, item fragmentum e Speculo Historiali Vincentii Belvacensis, ejusdem argumenti], Helmstadt 1585, Frankfurt 1595; d'Avezac in the Paris Recueil (as above) pp. 404—5, 433—4, 464—5; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 200—1, 221—233; Bretschneider, as quoted in note 1. Simon is the only 13th century Christian writer, except King Hayton of Little Armenia, who speaks of the Mongol Khan ('Gogcham' in Simon; Vinc. Beauv. book XXXI. ch. 32) being elevated on a felt in the air and so proclaimed; as Simon did not go to Mongolia proper, his word might be doubted; but Hayton declares that he himself was twice present at the confirmatio of the Tartar emperor.

1. 22 4. John de Plano Carpini: i.e. Giovanni del Piano di Carpine [-i], one of the original members of the Franciscan order, a companion of St Francis: appointed in 1228 Provincial of the Order in Germany, in 1230 Provincial in Spain, in 1241 again Provincial in Germany (at Cologne); member of a noble house, the Lords of Piano di ['Pian de'] Carpine [-i] near Perugia, now known as Piano della Magione. When sent by Innocent IV. to the Tartars he was, like Lourenço of Portugal, the Pope's penitentiary (penitentiarius ipsius). On his journey he was accompanied (by orders of Innocent IV.) by two other Franciscans, Benedict of Poland, who stood by him throughout, and Stephen of Bohemia, who turned back near Kiev. After his return he was 'interviewed' in France by the friar Salimbene de Salimbeni and others. Salimbene, who saw him in Nov. 1247, p. 107 calls him familiaris homo et spiritualis et litteratus et magnus prolocutor et in multis expertus, and says that he wrote de factis Tartarorum et aliis mirabilibus mundi, secundum quod oculis suis vidit, unum magnum librum: et faciebat illum librum legi, ut pluries audivi et vidi, quoties facta Tartarorum gravabatur referre (cf. Sbaraglia, Supplementum et castigatio ad Scriptores III. Ordinum, p. 452; d'Avezac in the Paris Recueil, 598). The Pope expressed great pleasure with the results of Carpini's mission and kept him three months in close attendance on himself, after which he appointed him Archbishop of Antivari and Metropolitan of Dalmatia; in this office John de Plano died, perhaps in 1248, certainly before the close of 1252. The letter of Innocent IV. (entrusted to Carpini), addressed Regi et Populo Tartarorum, is printed by d'Avezac in the Paris Recueil, iv. pp. 479—80. Carpini's credentials were given him March 5, 1245, and he started from Lyons April 16 of the same year, while the Council of Lyons was not formally opened until June 20, 1245; many have wrongly assumed that Carpini was sent out by the Council. Cf. d'Avezac in the Paris Recueil, iv. 464: on Carpini's earlier life, ibid. 467—478, and on the mission in general, ibid. 465—6, 478—597; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols (1852), II. 207—221; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 204, etc.: on Carpini's whole career, Wadding, Annales Minorum, II. 4—5, 74—5, 104, 209, 247, [408]; III. 116—125, where two Papal letters to the Mongols are printed: on Stephen of Bohemia cf. Wadding, Scriptores, 221, and the additional narrative of the Carpini Mission in Benedict the Pole, printed by d'Avezac in vol. IV. of the Paris Recueil, pp. 774—9.

CHAPTER 3.

1. Mongal or Tartaria...most North Easterly. The home-land of the Mongols was E. and S. of Lake Baikal, in what Rubruquis calls Onan-Kerule, i.e. in the basins of the Onon and Kerulen, head-waters of the Amur, as well as in those of the Orkhon and Selenga, head-waters of the Angara-Yenisei. The Yeka or Great Mongol tribe lay apparently to the north of the Su-Mongol, to the south of the Orengai or Oengai, to the east of the Merkit and north-east of the Krit or Mekrit. See the map accompanying Rockhill's translation of Rubruquis for the Hak. Soc., 1900, and that prefixed to vol. I. of d'Ohsson's Histoire des Mongols (1852), also cf. vol. I. pp. 6—7, 9—10, 423—9 of the latter work and Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 318; II. 159. p. 108 l. 3
2. On the East...Kythay...on...North...the Ocean Sea: i.e. in modern language China or North China (= Kythay of Carpini) and Manchuria and Korea (=the Solangi of Carpini, Langa and Solanga of Rubruquis, Sulangka of Moslem writers) lay east of the Mongol country; while the Mohammedan regions of the modern 'Russian' and 'Chinese' Turkestan (=the Saracens of Carp.) lay southward, the Ugurs of Zungaria south-westwards, the Naimans of the Upper Irtilsh and Northern Zungaria westward, and the Arctic Ocean northward. For Hak.'s on the South east the land of the Huini, the best texts read between South and West, the Ugurs. Cf. d'Avezac in the Paris Recueil, 519—23, also 459, 501—5; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 1, 4—10, 53, 54—5, 167, 428, 430; Sven Hedin, Through Asia, I. 316, II. 672 (Eng. ed.); several later passages of Carpini and some of Rubruquis illustrate this, e.g. pp. 653, 750, 752—3, 756 of the former in the Recueil text (d'Avezac's), and pp. 260, l. 5

Trans. on these portions of Rubruquis and the remarks of Ney Elias and Ross in their version of the Tarikh-i-Rashidi, pp. 74, 93, 290; Howorth's History of the Mongols, 1. part i., pp. 20, 691; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 43, 190, 236—63; II. 157, 173—4.

1. 15

3. Cracurim...proper towne: a trans. of C....sat is bona esse dicitur. The form best known is Karakorum (properly Kara-Kuren) whose ruins have been satisfactorily identified by the Russian traveller Yadrintsev (1889) near Karabalgassun in the upper valley of the Orkhon, about 30 miles S. of its confluence with the Urtu-Tamir, in N. Lat. 47° 15', and E. Long. (Greenwich) 102° 20' 15". The remains, as Yadrintsev found them, covered a space 6 miles round, and were connected by canals with the river Tirmanta, where some fragments of old bath-buildings stood near hot springs. The whole basin of the Orkhon abounds in evidence of former habitation. Karakorum, Okkodai's foundation, was called Ordu-Balik (Ordu-Town) by him and Ho-lin by the Chinese, but was commonly known among the Mongols as Kara-Kuren, i.e. The Black Enclosure, Kuren being the Mongol name for a collection of dwellings in a circle, or with roughly circular disposition, a term still applied to many monasteries, and especially to Urga. Near this site was an old 'royal vill' of Buku Khan of the Uigurs and his successors, said to date from the 8th cent. A.D. Okkodai chose it as his favourite residence in 1235 and in the same year enclosed it with a wall; in 1236 his new 'palace' was opened there; in 1254, while Rubruquis was there, Mangu made considerable additions to its rough splendour; but in 1256 the latter transferred the imperial seat to Kai-ping-fu, N. of Peking, and by 1289, in consequence of this and of the unsuccessful rebellion of Kaidu against Kublai, Karakorum was completely ruined. D'Ohsson, with his usual acuteness, though writing so long before the real discovery of the site, believed it to be on the Orkhon ('Orcoun'). Andrew of Longumeau has been often supposed, as by Élisée Réclus, to have visited Karakorum, in 1250; others do not believe that he went further than the 'Horde' of the Regent Mother Ogul Gaimish on the Imil, a little N.E. of Lake Balkhash: the only evidence of a visit to Karakorum or its neighbourhood on his part is a passage in Mangu's letter to King Louis, given by Rubruquis, Recueil, p. 370:—postquam Kenchan mortuus fuit, nuncii vestri pervenerunt ad curiam eius. Carpini, though he did not visit Karakorum, was within a few hours' journey of it, and is the first western writer to mention it; cf. Rockhill's Rubruck, Hak. Soc. XXXII. 111, 116, 149, 220, and the text of Rubruquis pp. 261, 263, 284, 292, 303, 308, 326, 334—9, 345—6, 367, 373—4 in the Paris Recueil; Joinville (in Francisque Michel's edition of 1859) pp. 143—8 of the Histoire de S. Louis; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 60—1, 64—5; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 122, 256; II. 162 and note 304.

4. Syra Orda: perhaps the same as Ormektua, probably a little to the south of Karakorum, and in any case half a day's journey distant from the latter, according to Carpini himself (p. 608 of the Recueil text). Friar John gives no explanation of the name; it has sometimes been translated as Yellow Tent or Golden Horde. But according to contemporary writers it was a camp of 2000 white tents; and the Golden Horde is expressly distinguished by Carpini from Syra Orda, p. 757 of the Recueil text; in Mongol, Golden Horde would be Altan Ordu; see Rockhill, Rubruck, etc. p. 22 note, of Hak. Soc. version; cf. also pp. 757, 758 of Carpini's text in the Recueil, and pp. 777 and 778 of Benedict the Pole, in the same ed. Rubruquis does not mention Syra

Orda, nor does M. Polo; the latter gives only a short hearsay description of p. 108 Karakorum (chap. 63, pp. 171—4, Pauthier).

Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 76—7; Karamzin's Russian History, IV. 31, 295 [IV. 1—3, 38—40, in French version by St Thomas and Jauffret, Paris, 1819]. On the Georgians and their princes see d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 206—7, Bretschneider, Med. Res., I. 299. l. 35

The Great Princes of Vladimir [-Suzdal] began in 1096: those of Kiev nominally continued till 1240, but the practical supremacy of the latter ended in 1169. The Georgiani of Carpini are the Kurj of Abulfeda (Reinaud, II. 286), the Gu-rh-ji of the Chinese, the Georgini or Curgi of Rubruquis (Recueil, p. 383, not in Hak.).

5. King of Georgia...Melich...David, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 206—7. According to d'Ohsson, both the Georgian claimants before Kuyuk were named David; one was a bastard of George Lascha, last King of Georgia before the Mongol overlordship; the other was son of Queen Rhuzudan, who had succeeded her brother George. Kuyuk divided Georgia between them, giving Kharthli to the first and Imeretia to the second, who had to do homage to the former.

CHAPTER 8 [misprinted 7].

p. 114 l. 3

1. Countrie...called Mongul...Yeka...Su...Tartars...Merkat...Metrit: on all these names see the discussion in M. d'Avezac's Introduction to Carpini in vol. IV. of the Paris Recueil, pp. 530—536; also the notes of Rockhill in his (Hak. Soc.) ed. of Rubruquis [and part Carpini] pp. 107, 111—12: 249, 196—7.

Following the Slav pronunciation, which Benedict the Pole and his (probably Russian) guides from Kiev to the Volga seem to have usually persuaded him to adopt, Carpini writes Mongal. His interpretations of Yeka as meaning great and of Su as meaning water are quite correct. They may be found also in Strahlenberg's Description historique de l'empire russe, II. pp. 338, 362 (vocabulaire calmuque et mungale, where the forms given are ike or yke and usu or sui, the shui of the Chinese), and in Abel Rémusat, Recherches sur les langues tartares, p. 172, where the spelling yake is given for yeka. The Yeka-Mongal are the Mongol-Nyrân of Eastern historians, the Black Tha-tha (or Tartars) of Chinese writers, who place the White Tha-tha adjoining the Great Wall. The derivation of the name of Tartar from a river Tar or Tartar, often asserted—as by Matthew Paris—is strenuously denied by Strahlenberg (Desc. hist. d. l'emp. russ., II. 176) and by the best modern authorities. On the other hand the title of Black Tha-tha, for the followers of Chighiz, is employed by the almost contemporary Meng-Kung who served in the Mongol armies. Cf. Abel Rémusat, Langues Tartares, p. 239; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 9—10, 21—25, 26—37, 425—9; Klaproth, Mémoires relatifs à l'Asie, I. 471, and Tableaux de l'Asie, 154, 155, 157. The White Tha-tha are the Ungut of various Arabic and Persian writers, e.g. Rashid-ed-din and Abul-Ghazi (Histoire généalogique des Tartares, pp. 117—121 (edition of 1726), 47—8 (edition of 1871—4, Desmaisons)). The Su-Mongal are the Su-Moghul of Wassaf (Abd-Allah ibn Fadhl-Allah Wassaf, the Persian historian), the Sy-Mogol of Abulfeda, following Ibn Said, and the Shui-Mung-ku and Shui-Tha-tha of various Chinese authors, cf. Von Hammer and Klaproth in Nouv. Journ. Asiat., xiv. 352, 361: Klaproth, Mém. rel. à l'Asie, I. 471, Rémusat, and Strahlenberg, as last quoted. To the Su-Mongols was applied par excellence the name of 'Tartars' by some, in opposition to the Great Mongols or Mongols proper.

Merkat is the Merkit of the best mss., and of the Arab and Persian historians, the Merghed of the Mongol text of Sanang-Setsen, the Mie-li-ki of Chinese authors. It was the name of a powerful Tartar tribe living in the Selenga and Lake Baikal basins, between the 'Eastern Tartars' and the Naimans or Naymans, cf. Klaproth, Nouv. Journ. Asiat., xi. 448—455, Abul-Ghazi, Hist. général. d. Tart., pp. 130, 201—4 (1726); 53, 76, 78, 89, 91, 99—100, 151, 178 (1871—4).

Metrit, otherwise Mekrit or Mecrit, is probably the same as the Crit [et Merkit] of Rubruquis, and the Mecri of Marco Polo, and refers to the tribe of the Keraits or Keryts, as they are called by Arab and Persian writers, the Ke-lie of Chinese historians. Cf. Gaubil, Gentchiscan, pp. 4, 5; Abul-Ghazi, Hist. général. d. Tart., 117, 173—193; d'Ohsson, Hist. d. Mong., I. 7, 48—60, 73—82, 425; M. Polo, ch. 70, p. 200 of Pauthier's edition; Klaproth, Nouv. Journ. Asiat., xi. 450—462; Rubruquis, pp. 261, 288 in the Recueil. The Crit or Mecrit are perhaps the Mukrites of Theophylact Simocatta, Histories, bk. vii. ch. 7: among them appears to have arisen the original Prester John, c. A.D. 1007—1008. In the 13th century they seem to have lived to the north of Karakorum, near the south and south-west sides of Lake Baikal.

On Mongol manners, besides what is said in Carpini and Rubruquis, cf. Vincent of Beauvais, Speculum Historiale, xxxii. [otherwise xxxi.] 50, and xxx. [otherwise xxix.] 71, 77, 81, the former professedly, and the latter probably, derived from Simon of St Quentin, and both referring to the Mongol cantibus vel potius ululatibus. In the second and longer description Vincent declares modo interrogativo, clamoroso, loquuntur, gutture rabido... Cantantes mugiunt ut tauri... ululant ut lupi, voces inarticulatas in cantando proferunt. See also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 394—403; II. 200—1.

2. One of their companions, a trans. of unus [sc. populus] eorum, viz. the Yeka tribe.

3. Chingiz. This is the most usual spelling of the name among the best-informed Latin writers of the 13th century, and very near to the modern critical form. There is no space here to annotate the history of Chingiz' conquests; but we may remark that his first campaigns were waged in the order that Carpini describes:—against the Su-Mongols in 1194, the Merkits in 1197, the Crit or Keraits in 1203. His victory over the Naimans which followed, was won in a narrow valley through which Carpini passed on his way to Kuyuk's court (see p. 648 of the Recueil text); it may be placed, as by d'Avezac (p. 537 in vol. iv. of the Paris Recueil), in a gorge of the Great Altai between Lakes Aral-Nor and Kizil-bash. In this reference, as in that which he makes to the check Chingiz received from the Kitans, Carpini has summarised rather confusedly a great number of separate campaigns (e.g. of 1199, 1204, 1205, 1206, 1207, 1209, 1218).

CHAPTER 9.

1. 12 1. Kythayans...[Pagans..artificers]: with Carpini's excellent description of the Chinese at the close of this chapter we may compare Rubruquis' more elaborate account on pp. 260, 284, 291—2, 327—9, 346 of Recueil text and Rockhill's notes on pp. 109, 144, 155—6, 196—202, 221 of the Hak. Soc. edition. On the terms Kythay, Khatai [Kat-], Khitai [Kit-], Khata [Kat-], Cathay, Catay, perhaps originating from the dynasty and empire of the Kitan, Kitai or Liao in N. China (A.D. 916—1125), cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 209, 225, 232; II. 281; Schott's Kitai u. Karakitai, 1878, Public. of the Berlin Akad. d. Wissenschaft. The classical and mediaeval terms Seres and Cathay, expressing overland knowledge of China, balance those of Sina, Tzìwora, and China for the maritime side of the same country. Nations such as Russians and Persians, whose knowledge of China has been almost exclusively overland, still hold to Kitai or Cathay. Western Europe, whose modern acquaintance with the Celestial Empire was made by the Portuguese, the Ocean routes, p. 115 Macao, etc., knows it by the older name, perhaps reappearing in that of the subsequent 'Kin' dynasty. In Fa-Hien's day 400 A.D., the Chinese knew their own country as the land of Han, from the great dynasty that then reigned.

2. Huyri...sect of Nestorius: the Uigurs, who submitted to Chingiz in 1209, are usually called Huiur by Carpini, Iogurs by King Hayton, and Iugures by Rubruquis. Cf. the latter's text in the Recueil, 282—9, 329, and see Klaproth, Tableaux historiques de l'Asie, pp. 121—130; Mémoires relatifs à l'Asie, II. 301—410; and Abhandlung über die Sprache u. Schrift d.
Uiguren; forming together perhaps the most valuable studies ever made of this people. See also Reinaud, Aboulféda, p. 360, etc.; the Chinese History of the Great Thang Dynasty, ch. 257 a, summarised by Bretschneider as quoted below; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 107—111, 429—441; Clavijo, p. 138 in Antonio de Sancha's Madrid edition of 1782; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 236—263, with notes 596—649; ibid., I. 214; II. 26, 53, 177—8, 180; here is presented with his usual lucidity this eminent sinologue's latest study of the subject. The Uigurs are the Wei-wu-rh [and Hui-ho?] of the Chinese, and were a widely scattered and long-enduring Turkish race; in the 8th century their Khans reigned over the site of Karakorum; in the 13th century their home was chiefly in W. Mongolia and Zungaria, to the S.W. of the Naimans, in the region of Bishbalikh.

3. Letters or learning...hand or letters: in each case a trans. of literam.

4. Saruyur: the Sari-Uigur or Yellow Uigurs, a sub-division of the Uigur nation, settled in the Tsaidam region near Lake Koko-Nor in Northern Tibet, cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 263; II. 205; Klaproth, Mémoires relatifs à l'Asie, II. 345. Both of these refer fully to the Chinese accounts (in the History of the Ming Dynasty or Ming Shi) of the Yellow-haired Uigurs or Sa-li Wei-wu-rh, 1500 li S.W. of Kan-su, between Khotan and the Empire of Hia or Tangut. See also Rémusat, Ville de Khotan, p. 95.

5. Karanites: perhaps the Karanut of Abul-Ghazi and other Oriental writers: cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 425—7, where the sub-divisions of the Mongol race are discussed: they were descended from one Tusbudai, like the Kurlass and Iljikin Mongols.

6. Hudirat: the Voyrat of most and best mss. of Carpini; also written Oyrat [Oi-], Oyrad, Olet, Euleut, Udryat, Uirat, Noyrad; an old name for the Western Mongols or Kalmuks, cf. Abul-Ghazi, Histoire généalogique des Tartares, 112—5 (1726); 45—6, 60, 89, 93, 152, 173—5 (1871—4); d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 7, 104, 105, 424; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 139, 159—173, and notes 896—923, an admirable account. The Oirat or Voyrat are called Wa-li by the Chinese; a very full series of refs. to them occurs in the History of the Ming Dynasty (Ming Shi).

l. 30

7. Kythayans...vanquished, Chingis...obtainned...Empire: the Kitan (within China) were of course overthrown by the Kin or 'Golden' Dynasty in 1115—1125: Chingiz' wars in N. China were against the latter, whom he decisively worsted by the capture of Yen-king, 1215, and who were finally crushed by the Mongols in 1234. As early as 1206, after his first campaign against the Hia or Tangut of Northern Tibet, Chingiz took the Imperial title of Khan or Khakhan. The name of Kitai is given by Carpini to the Tangut empire as well as to that of the Kin (the Altun-Khans or Golden Emperors).

p. 116 l. 15

CHAPTER 10.

- p. 116 l. 39 1. Thossut...Can, that is...Emperour: 'Thossut' or 'Tossuc' is Juji or Chuchi, eldest son of Chingiz; 'Juchi' in Rashid-ed-din; 'Jochi' in some Chinese records; he died before his father, 1224: Batu was his most famous son. Cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 189, 285, 289—290; II. 7—8, 13, 15, and notes 531, 700. Can, i.e. Khan, Khagan, or Khakhan, the Han of the Chinese, the Χαγάνος of the Byzantines, is the Turkish Imperial title. It first occurs in the Chinese Annals under A.D. 312.
- p. 117 l. 3 2. India minor...these Indians...blacke Saracens...Ethiopians. Under Lesser India Carpini probably refers to the regions on the west or right bank of the Indus (attacked by the armies of Chinghiz under Tului in 1221—2), the India Prima of Nicolo Conti and Fra Mauro, the India parva quae et Ethiopia of Marino Sanuto, as opposed to India Magna or Hindostan and India interior Joannis presbyteri, apparently Indo-China. Friar Jordanus of Severac and Columbum, and Nicolo Conti, also call this part India Minor.
- l. 6 3. India maior...Presbiter John: by Greater India Carpini appears to mean all India beyond (E. of) the Indus. India Major, India Secunda or India Magna is generally defined by Latin writers of the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries, such as Jordanus of Columbum, Marino Sanuto, and Nicolo Conti, as the region between Indus and Ganges, while India tertia or India interior is our Indo-China or Further India, and India Minor a vast ill-defined coastal region west of the Indus. It is India tertia which Jordanus and Sanuto call the Regnum Joannis Presbyteri. In Friar Odoric India Superior is Manzi or S. China,—a very odd use. On the Asiatic Prester John, placed behind Armenia and Persia, at the 'extremity of the East,' supposed to be a Nestorian Christian (like his people), to unite in himself regal and sacerdotal power, and to be the conqueror of great part of Persia and Media (including Ecbatana), cf. Otto of Freisingen, Chronicon, VIII. 32, 33, and Alberic Trois Fontaines, Chronicon, under 1145, based upon the reports of the Bishop of Gabala, sent by the Armenian Church to Eugenius III. (see also Alberic under the years 1221 and 1222). The ultimate original of this story seems to lie in the conversion of the Chief of the Keraits to Nestorian Christianity in 1007—1008. Letters purporting to come from this Presbyter Joannes (probably forgeries) and addressed to the Pope, the Emperors of East and West, the King of France, and the King of Portugal, are said by Alberic to have been circulated in Europe in or before 1165 (see Alb.'s Chronicon under 1165). Specimens of these letters to the Emperor of Rome and the King of France are in the Bibliothèque Nationale at Paris under the quotation O. 1243—1 (4to.). They are without date or place or paging: cf. d'Avezac in the Recueil, IV. (1839) p. 549. But in 1177 Alexander III., writing (5 Kal. Oct.) Indorum regi sacerdotum sanctissimo, makes no reference to these letters, but only to common rumour and the reports of one Master Philip, a Papal physician, who while in the East had heard of the Prester's wish to learn about the doctrine of the Roman Church. James de Vitry also mentions the Prester, in whose realms Nestorians were very numerous, masters of the greater part of India; cf. the Historia Hierosolymitana in Bongars, Gesta Dei per Francos, 1092, 1093; in 1219 De Vitry as bishop of Acre writes to Honorius III.: David, King of the Indians, commonly called Prester John, he declares, is now the terror of Asia. Matthew Paris, in the Historia Major (A.D. 1237, vol. III. pp. 397—9, and esp. 398, Rolls Series), refers to a letter received in 1237 from Philip, Prior of the Dominicans in Palestine, declaring that Nestorianism was dominant in Greater India, in regno sacerdotis Joannis, p. 117 etc. Simon of St Quentin (in Vinc. Beauv., Spec. Hist. xxx. [otherwise xxix., as in Augsburg edition of 1474], ch. 69) makes Prester John formerly King of India and suzerain of the Tartars: the latter under Chingiz, according to Simon, rebelled against his successor David and overthrew him (A^o Dⁱ 1203 secundum quosdam Tartari...in...Tartaria, quae affinis est Indiae, residentes contra regem David dominum suum...Presbyteri Johannis quondam dominatoris et imperatoris Indiae filium, conspiraverunt). Precisely the same is reported to Innocent IV. by Bishop Odo of Tusculum, Wed. in Holy Week 1249 (Dicebant quod...Tartari primo debellaverunt filium presbyteri Joannis; also quod ipse qui nunc agit in sceptris, Kiokai nomine, matrem habuit christianam filiam regis qui vocatur presbyter Joannes; cf. Achéry, Spicilegium, ed. Baluze, III. 624—8). Joinville (ed. Michel, 143) heard through Louis IX.'s communications with the Tartars, that the Prester's former kingdom lay between Persia and Tartary. Rubruquis (pp. 259—261, 295, of the Recueil text) makes the Prester chief of the Naimans, successor of Con Can King of the Kara-kitai, and predecessor of Unc [or Vut] King of Crit and Mecrit. Rubruquis' Con Can is no doubt the Gur Khan ('Universal Lord'), founder of the Kara-kitai empire—not 'when Antioch was taken by the Franks' as Rubruquis puts it, i.e. in 1098, but a generation later, in c. 1125—26. The Gur Khan's conquests from the Sayan Mts. and the modern Siberian border to Khiva and the Aral, answer fairly well to the descriptions of Alberic and Otto; but according to most Eastern Historians he was a Buddhist rather than a Christian. Abul-Faraj (Bar Hebraeus) makes Unc or Wang Khan himself to be the Prester or 'Malek Yuhanna' as well as King of the Keraites (converted by the Nestorians at the beginning of the 11th century, c. A.D. 1007, or at least between 1001 and 1012). Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 52—3, 163—6, 441—4; d'Avezac in the Paris Recueil (1839), IV. p. 553. The latter fastens upon the Kerail tradition as the essential feature.

Marco Polo makes Tenduc or 'Tanduc' the seat of the Prester, and says this region was still governed by his descendant George; this is repeated in part by John de Monte Corvino, who converted this King George († 1298), and his son John, to the Church of Rome. Ricold of Monte Croce refers vaguely to Prebstre Jehan's kingdom as stretching from Cathay to Media. Odoric with far more precision describes the land of Pretozoan, de quo non est centesima pars eius quod quasi pro certo dicebatur: its capital was called Tozan, Chosan or Cosan: it was not so big as Vicenza. The letter of Jan. 20, 1407, from Conrad von Jungingen, Grand Master of the Teutonic Order, to Prester John, King of Abassia (mentioned in connection with Armenia), really refers to the Abassia or Abkhasia of the Caucasus, but the verbal confusion with the African Abassia or Abyssinia (Habesh) was very easy. The Abissina of the Caucasus also occurs in Alberic, as cited by d'Avezac, Recueil, IV. 557. In 1436 and 1448 we have two clear references to the African Prester; in a letter from Jean de Lastic, Grand Master of Rhodes, to Charles VII. of France, July 3, 1448, and in the 1436 mappe-monde of Andrea Bianco, where the Imperium Prete Iani is placed in Ethiopia. The notion of the African Priest-king, being much better founded than the Asiatic, gradually supplanted the latter; yet as late as the early 16th century the learned Jew Abraham Peritsol puts Prester John in Further India. On the other hand, as early as the 14th century we may find in the confused language of Jordanus of Columbium and in John de Marignolli a distinct leaning towards the Abyssinian claim, for though e.g. Jordanus places in or near India tertia

(or Indo-China) that Emperor of the Ethiopians whom you call Prestre Johan, the aforesaid India was still occasionally imagined by Christian theorists (in the style of Ptolemy and of the chief Moslem geographers) as lying just opposite to, and at no great distance from, E. Africa, and the use of the term Ethiopians pointed to Africa. Four Asiatic Prester Johns have been often reckoned, but they may be reduced to two, (1) in North Central Asia:—among the Keraites or the Kara-kitai or in some other region N. of the Himalayas and Hindu Kush, (2) in Further India or Indo-China. The former is older and better attested—in fact has almost all history on its side, so far as the Priest-king of Christian Asia is an historical personage at all: the latter is later and of infinitely weaker basis in fact, but lasts longer, partly by a constantly recurring confusion with the Grand Lama of Tibet. On the other hand, the regular flow of Abyssinian pilgrims to the Holy Sites of Syria and the meetings of these pilgrims with the Franks of Syria, established the rival (African) Prester in western tradition. CHAPTER 11.

1. 29 1. Clergie men of Russia...males...like...dogges: these and similar tales are frequent enough: cf. King Hayton the Armenian, who visited the Mongol Court in 1256. Mediaeval cartography abounds in such delineations; in particular the maps known as the Psalter (c. 1250), the Hereford and the Ebstorf (both c. 1290—1300), contain examples of these dog-men monsters, with innumerable others; their ultimate source may be found in such passages as Pliny, Nat. Hist., VII. 2, based on Ktesias and Megasthenes. The dog-headed men also occur in the Chinese Encyclopaedia San-tshai-thu-hoei; cf. Nouveau Journal Asiatique, vol. XII., pp. 287—8. 3. Burithabeth...Pagans: Burithabeth, Buritibet, or Buruthabeth (-t) is certainly our Tibet, as to which Carpini agrees with Rubruquis and Odoric about the children eating their dead parents (cf. Rub., p. 289 in the Recueil, Odoric ch. 45; in Yule, Cathay, pp. 151—2, and Appendix I. p. xxxvii). Rashid-ed-din used the term Buritibet as a synonym for Tibet, and d'Avezac well compares the name Borotala still existing, cf. the Recueil (1839) IV. 564—5; also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 82, 84, 318. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 21—5 (esp. 24—5), 204, 221, 224. p. 118

CHAPTER 12.

1. Lande of Kergis: Hak.'s version of terram Kergis, the country of the Kergis; Hak. translates as if K. were a person, a king or ruler. Here Carpini's 'Kergis' do not refer to the Kirghiz, but to the Cherkess or Circassians of the Caucasus (Carp.'s Caspian mts.). The first expedition of the Mongols to this region was in 1227: the real Kirghiz submitted 20 years earlier, in 1207. Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 101—2, 326—37; II. 15, 63, 626; Viv. St Martin, Mémoire sur l'Arménie, II. 120—3, 264—5, 268, 272; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 28, 102, 129, 186, 225, 229, 241, 295, 305, 316; II. 90. l. 27

CHAPTER 13.

[p. 60]

1. Chingis...lawes and statutes. On Chingiz' legislation, cf. d'Ohsson, p. 120 l. 1
Histoire des Mongols, I. 404—16.
2. Thiaday: the best MSS. read Chyaaday, i.e. Chagatai (the 'Second Prince' of the Chinese traveller Chang-chun), to whom the Central Asiatic sub-kingdom fell. See note 5 in this chapter; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 99 and note 252. l. 9
3. Name of...fourth is unknown (ignoramus). This was Tului (called To-lei in the Chinese Annals Yuan-Shi), to whom Chingiz left the greater part of his Mongol troops (101,000 out of 129,000), the father of Mangu and Kublai. Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 2, 3, 9—10, 248; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 113, 189, 278, 286, 290 and note 281. In the struggle between Chingiz' descendants, Tului's branch finally prevailed, ousting Okkodai's.
4. Cuyne...now Emperour: i.e. Kuyuk, the Guyuk of some Chinese records, son of Okkodai, grandson of Chingiz, and Great Khan 1246—8. Okkodai wished his grandson Shyramûn to succeed him, but Kuyuk's mother Turakina persuaded the electors to disregard this wish. On this illegality (with others) was founded the subsequent rejection of Okkodai's line and the substitution of Tului's, in Mangu's election, 1251: cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 187—188, 195—199, 234—5, 245—250; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 160, 165, 308, 318, 333; II. 8 and note 742. l. 11
5. Cocten...Corrensa. These names are often corrupted beyond recognition in Hak. Cocten is Kutan, son of Okkodai; his name is also written Cucten, Cuthen, Corten, Coithen, Cocthen. Chyrynen (otherwise Sirenen, l. 12

Seremum, etc.) is Shyramün, grandson of Okkodai—miscalled 'son' by Carpini; Mangu had him drowned in China, after 1251; see note 4. Bathy is of course Batu, the 'firm' or 'stable' one, the great western conqueror, so fully described both by Carpini and Rubruquis, and the second son of Juji, the eldest of the male children of Chingiz. Ordu is Hordu, the eldest son of Juji; Siba is Shyban or Shiban; Bora, Bura; both these being younger and less important sons of Juji. Hurin is Burin or Buri, grandson of Chagatai, often mentioned by Rashid-ed-din, an enemy of Batu's, and finally a victim of the latter: cf. Rubruquis, Recueil, 279—280; see also Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 333—4, on the insulting language of Buri and Guyuk against Batu. Cadan is the Kadan always associated with Buri in the western campaigns; according to Rashid and the best authority he was the son of Okkodai, not of Chagatai, as in Carpini. Mengu is Mangu or Meungke, successor of Kuyuk as Great Khan. Bithat, otherwise Bethac, Bichac, Bechac, Becas, is another son of Tului, perhaps the Bujuk, Buygec, or Buchek of Oriental historians, the Pocho of the Chinese. Serectan, otherwise Serecten, is Surukten in Sanang-Setsen, Siurukteni in Rashid-ed-din, Surukti in Abul-Ghazi, Surakhtham in the Armenian Stephen Orpelian. Onygat is perhaps only a mis-reading for Buygec or Bithat. Cyrpodan is Charmaghan, otherwise Charmahan, Chormahan, Chirpodan, the invader of S.W. Asia 1229—1231, etc.; died 1241; according to some, but untrustworthy, guides the conqueror of Damascus. Hubilai is Kublai, afterwards Great Khan and the friend of the Polos. Sinocur is Shinkur, a son of Juji. Cara, Gay, a mis-reading for Caragay, is Karachar, Karajar, or Karanchay, the fourth son of Okkodai by Turakina. Sybedey or Sibedei is Sobadai, Subutai or Subudai, one of the greatest Mongol generals, whose valour was recognised by the title of Bahadur, Carpini's miles. Berka is the Bereké of the Polos, the Berké or Barkai of others, who succeeded his elder brother Batu (after Sartach and another) as Khan of Kipchak or the western sub-kingdom. Corrensa, otherwise Choranza, Corenza, Curoniza, Kurancha, or Karancha, commanded on the western frontier in Europe, the line of the Dnyepir (see note 4, chap. 20). For other Tartar 'dukes' mentioned elsewhere in Carpini and Rubruquis, see the separate notices, e.g. for Montii, Mauci, or Mauchi note 5, ch. 21; for Tirbon see note 6, ch. 20; for Sartach and Scacatai, Rubruquis, pp. 217—19, 238—46, 253—9, 263, 268, 375—7, 379—80, 390 of the Recueil text; cf. d'Avezac in same vol. of the Paris Recueil, 1839, IV. 580—8; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 3, 8—9, 15, 99, 110—2, 138, 147—8, 156, 158, 159, 166, 245—69, 619, 621, 624—9; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 109, 112—3, 140, 158, 165, 167—8, 170, 185, 279, 287, 289—90, 293—4, 297, 300, 302, 309—12, 315, 318—9, 322, 324—5, 330—1, 333—4; II. 11, 15—16, 44, 141; with notes 280, 281, 381, 459, 668, 689, 742, 744, 746, 747, 758, 779, 819; Viv. Pauthier, chs. 2, 3, 68, 76, 194, 220—1, pp. 6—9, 184, 187, 238—41, 720, 754; Gaubil, Gentchiscan, 98, 101; Abul-Ghazi, Histoire généalogique des Tartares, 375—81, 392, etc., 445—7, 452—3, etc., 482—4 (1726); 100—1, 145—6, 148—64, 173—4, 178—82, 186—93 (1871—4); Abul-Faraj, Historia Dynastiarum, 306, 310, 320, 327.

In spite of many omissions, Carpini's list of the Mongol Princes is unrivalled in Mediaeval Christian literature and is fully confirmed by the best Asiatic writers of the period. M. Polo and King Hayton give genealogies parallel to Carpini's, but not so full, and apparently irreconcilable with the latter in places.

CHAPTER 15.

1. Duke Bathy his nephew: in Hak.'s original, B....qui in secundo gradu attingebat eum.

l. 32

2. Countrie of Altisoldan...Bisermini...Saracens...spake...language of Comania.

Bisermin, Beserman, Besurman, Busurman, Bussurman, Basurman (in Chinese, Pu-su-man) are forms of an old Slav corruption of Musulman. Sig. von Herberstein, the Imperial ambassador to Moscow in 1517 and 1526, and Alexander Guagnino, who about 1520 served in the Polish garrison at Vitebsk, both declare it was a regular term for all the Tartar neighbours of Moscow. So Old Slavonic vocabularies use it for Moslems in general: in modern Russian it means 'heretic,' 'scoundrel.' Carpini's use of Slav terms is shewn here, as in his Neper, Don, and Volga, and his Bileri for Bulgari, Huyur for Uigur, and Chyaadai for Chagatai.

The Land of the Bisermini in John de Plano is employed for Moslem Central Asia, the lands of the 'Altisoldan' or Khwarezm Shah ('Khorazmian Empire'), which stretched from the Ural river to Badakhshan, and from the sources of the Tobol to the Indian Ocean, the Zagros Mts., and the neighbourhood of Tabriz, including nearly all the S. and E. coasts of the Caspian. The 'Altisoldan' or Supreme Sultan of Khwarezm (treated by Hak. as if a proper name) was conquered by the Mongols in 1220: one Ala-ed-din Mohammed ended this dynasty, a fugitive in the islets of the Caspian. His four sons Rukn-ed-din, Gayyath-ed-din, Gelal-ed-din, and Ozlak-Shah were associated as co-sovereigns with their father. Cf. d'Avezac in the Recueil, IV. 501—15; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 216—322; II. 255, and the map prefixed to vol. I.; Sprengel, Geographische Entdeckungen, 281; Karamzin, in the French version of 1819, Histoire de Russie, III. 280—2, IV. 52; Herberstein and Guagnino in Ramusio, II. 72, 171; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 70, 269; II. 78, and note 173.

3. Barchin...Orna: in his fuller text, Carpini reckons as the chief cities of the Bisermini:

l. 36

(1) Barchin, otherwise Karachin, Karkin, Pharchin (in Hayton), Barthra, probably a little below Otrar on the Syr Daria, the Ba-rh-jen and Pa-eul-ching of the Chinese, the Barkhaligh of Persian authors.

(2) Sarguit, otherwise Sakinc, Sargint, whose site is quite conjectural.

(3) Iankinc, otherwise Ianckin, Ianckint, Iakynt, Iamkint, the Yangi-kan of the Chinese, the Yangi-kand of Persian authors, the Yangi-kend or 'new city' of its own Turkish people, described by Benedict the Pole as the first city met with—by Carpini and himself—in traversing Turkia (usually the Seljuk Sultanate of Rûm in 13th cent. Latin, but here obviously Moslem Central Asia). Two famous Yangi-kends are known, (a) near the mouth of the Syr Daria, (β) on the upper Syr Daria, in Fergana.

(4) Lemfinc, otherwise Lemfint.

Here Carpini and Benedict certainly touched: that they visited Barchin, Iamkint, or Ornas is only conjecture, unless with Bretschneider we take Lemfinc to be a clerical error for Ianckint.

p. 122

(5) Orna[s], the Ornarum civitas of Benedict the Pole, who places it apparently in Gazaria (Khazaria, always understood as the modern S. Russia), is very hard to fix. Three of the Carpini mss. agree with Benedict in placing it in S. Russia, upon the river called Don; but the chief mss. (Petau and Corpus) say only upon a certain great river. D'Avezac argues powerfully for a position on the site of Azov or Tana (Recueil, IV. 505—12) but there is no other evidence for a town of Ornas at the Don Estuary; and the names of Ornay, Ornache, Arnay, Arnache and Ertsa in Moslem and Slav writers appear to refer to Urgenj (the modern Khiva, the capital of the Khwarezm oasis). According to Frähn, the Orna[s] of Carpini is the Ornatia or Oruntia of Alberic, and like Ornache, etc., is a corruption of Kurganj, i.e. Urgenj. A third identification with some point on the lower Syr Daria near Otrar is supported by several recent investigators, e.g. Rockhill, Rubruck, Hak. Soc. p. 14, note, based on Bretschneider's view.

In this connection we must also notice (1) that Benedict appears to confuse the Maeotid Marshes with the Aral Sea, or with certain swamps N. of the Aral, (2) that Carpini makes the Tartars, after taking Ornas, enter the terra Turcorum and Russia. By terra Turcorum here d'Avezac thinks Comania is meant, but in Friar John it generally signifies Moslem Central Asia, in other writers the Seljuk dominion of Rûm or Turkish Asia Minor. 'Barchin' and 'Iamkint' were captured by Juji (Chuchi), the eldest son of Chinghiz, in the spring of 1221. Cf. d'Avezac, as above; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 218—220, 221—23; Nouveau Journal Asiatique, XII. 284, giving evidence of King Hayton, also in Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 164—172; Gaubil, Histoire de Gentchiscan, p. 37; Frähn on Ibn al Wardi and other writers' use of Ornay, Ornache, etc., Ibn Foszlân, Beilage I. § 4, p. 162; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 170, 285, and notes 483, 676.

1. 13 4. Russia...Kiow. Here two expeditions are perhaps confused in one: (a) that of 1221—4, marked by the battle of the Kalka, May 31, 1223 (?), and the crushing defeat of the Russian Principalities in the open field by Subudai and Chebe, (β) that of 1236—43, led by Batu, and marked by the Mongol storm of Kiev, Vladimir, etc., and the conquest of all the Russian states except Old Novgorod by Lake Ilmen. The name of Kiev and of the grand duke Mstislav ('Mieczislav' or 'Mscislav') passed, through the Mongol conquest, into the annals of China. Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 338—345; II. 110—120, 183—86, esp. 119; Gaubil, Gentchiscan, 35—41, 90, 97, 103—4; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 295—8, 307, 318—20; II. 73—81, and notes under these pages, esp. no. 758; and on the earlier history of Kiev, Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Administrando Imperio, ch. 9; Adam of Bremen, Historia Ecclesiae Hammaburgensis, II. 19 [66 Lapp.]; and above all Nestor, passim, and esp. chs. V., VI., VIII., XIII., XVIII. etc. (A.M. 6388—6621 = A.D. 880—1113). We may notice Cahun's suggestion, Introduction à l'histoire de l'Asie, p. 350, that the Mongols were instigated by the Venetians to destroy Kiev, a dangerous rival to Italian trade in the Euxine. The full text of Carpini (in the Recueil, IV. 772; not in Hak.) gives a valuable reference to Italian traders at Kiev on the traveller's return to that city in 1247.

1. 22 5. Out of Russia and Comania...Hungarians...Polonians. After the campaigns of 1238—40, the Mongols were said to have collected 270,000 ears of Russians and Bulgarians [perhaps also of Kumans]; the right ears of the slain being cut off.

On the Mongols' attacks upon Hungary and Poland, cf. d'Ohsson, p. 122 Histoire des Mongols, II. 120—83; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 323—32.

6. As is aforesaid, after slain, properly belongs to the clause, had the Hungarians manfully withstood them (si Hungari viriliter restitissent).

7. Mordvans...monsters. The Mordvans, or as they are called later (in ch. 23 of Hak.'s division) Mordvyni, are the Finnish Mordvins of the Middle Volga: traces of them are found in Kazan, Penza, Simbirsk, Saratov, Astrakhan, and Orenburg provinces; they are now almost entirely Russianized.

The Byleri or Bulgaria Magna are the Old or Black Bulgarians of Bolghar and the Volga below Kazan, at its junction with the Kama; they are called Bilar[s] in several Moslem geographers and historians, e.g. Abulfeda and Rashid-ed-din.

The Bastarci or Hungaria Magna are the Bashkirs of (i.e. thinly scattered over) the modern Samara, Orenburg, Perm, and Vyatka.

The Parossits are probably the Borassits of Edrisi (writing c. 1150), considered to be Slavs by the 'Nubian geographer,' but probably a Finnish tribe of the modern provinces of Perm and Vyatka. Some have identified them, apparently by mistake, with the Berthas to the S. of Great Bulgaria.

The Samoyedes still exist under that name in the modern province of Archangel (Arkhangelsk); cf. Engelhardt's admirable account of their present state, Russian Province of the North, pp. 272—98.

The monsters in Hak.'s ch. 23 are said to have dogges faces. There may be a reference here, d'Avezac suggests, to non-Samoyede peoples whose grave mounds and other remains are known to antiquaries as those of the Chudes. This term is the regular Russian one for 'Finn,' while the derivative chudovishcha means 'monster.' See note 1, ch. 11.

As to the effect of Mongol invasions in the Far North, it may be noticed that just as Matthew Paris relates that in 1238 the people of Gothland and Friesland, through fear of the Mongols, dared not leave their homes and come to the Yarmouth herring fishery (Cronica Majora, under A.D. 1238, vol. III. pp. 488—9, in Rolls series edition), so Torfaeus has preserved a record of a great migration of Permiaks or inhabitants of our 'North Russia' (the mediaeval Permia or Biarmia) to Norway, between 1217 and 1263. Cf. d'Avezac in the Recueil, IV. 489—91, 492—3; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 185—6, 619—29; Peuples du Caucase, 72—81, 129—31, 213—8, 234—5, 257—8; Torfaeus, Historia rerum Norvegicarum (1711) IV. 303; Strahlenberg, Description historique de l'empire russe (1757, Amsterdam), II. 149—50, 166—8; Edrisi, Climate, v., section 4 [p. 142]; and Rubruquis, pp. 274—5, 327, in the Recueil text of 1839; the latter preserves a curious history of a Dominican mission from the Theiss in New Hungary to the Bashkirs of Old Hungary, noticed by Alberic Trois-Fontaines, Chronicon, 564; see also Rockhill's version of Rubruquis, Hak. Soc., 1900, pp. 129—31; Klaproth, Tableaux Historiques de l'Asie, 260—1, 274—6, maps 17—20; Mémoires rel. à l'Asie, I. 134; Magazin Asiatique, II. 52—96; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches (on Mordvins), I. 311, 317; II. 70, with notes 748, 830; (on Volga Bulgarians), I. 295—6, 300, 305, 307—10, and esp. CHAPTER 16.

- p. 123 l. 5 1. Duke Cypodan...Kergis: a reference to Charmaghan's [Charmogun's] expedition into Persia, the Caucasus lands, Asia Minor, and Syria, in 1229—31, etc. Here again the Kergis seem to be the Cherkess or Circassians of the Caucasus, the Cherkis or Kerkis of Rubruquis (p. 252 of the Recueil text), the Ferkes of Abulfeda, the Cherkassi of the Russian Annals. Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 337; II. 15, 63; Viv. St Martin, Mémoire sur l'Arménie, II. 120—3, 264—5, 272; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 112, 140, 295, 300, 305, 316; II. 90; with notes 280, 381; Nouv. Journ. Asiat. XII. 199—203.

- l. 25 4. Armenia...Deurum...Baldach: Deurum or rather De Urum refers to the Seljuk Sultanate of Rûm, Konieh, or Iconium, the Turkey par excellence of the 12th and 13th cents. Baldach of course is Bagdad; this is a very usual form: in Polo it is Baudas, e.g. ch. 24, Pauthier; it is the Ba-ghi-da and Bao-da of the Chinese. The reference here is probably to the Mongol raids of 1237, 1238, 1242, and 1243, in which they took Erzerûm (1242) and Erzinghian (1243), two of the chief centres of the Armenian race; these conquests were immediately followed by the submission of the Sultan of Rûm. But Bagdad was not taken till 1258, though tributary from about 1232, and Aleppo not till 1260, though it also had for some time owned vassalage. Cf. Abul-Faraj, Historia Dynastiarum, 312—14; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 123—125; also I. 118—120, 122, 138—9, 140 of the same.

6. Boleslaus duke of Slesia (Silesia), i.e. Boleslaw IV., pudicus, Duke of l. 13
Lignitz, Sandomir, and Krakow. At Breslau Carpini found Benedict the Pole; he was already travelling with Stephen of Bohemia, who turned back at Kanev: cf. Benedict, p. 775 of the Recueil text (IV.); d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 121; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 321; and see note 14 of this chapter.
7. Conradus duke of Lautiscia, i.e. an uncle of Boleslaw, Prince of l. 15
Lenczy, 'Mazovia, and Kuyavia,' whose seat was at Plotsk: in Benedict he is dux Polonorum, frankly (p. 774 of the Recueil text), cf. d'Ohsson and Bretschneider, as above.
8. Wasilico duke of Russia, i.e. Vasilko or Basil, Prince of [Volhynian] l. 16
Vladimir or 'Vladimir-Volinski,' 1214—1271.
9. Duches of Cracow...duke...: the Duchess is Gremislawa, the Duke is l. 23
Conrad of Lautiscia or Lenczy; he and his son Lesko or Leszek were now at Krakow; cf. d'Avezac, in Recueil, IV. 481, 482.
10. Daniel...brother of Wasilico: i.e. Danil or Daniel, Prince of Galicia l. 35
(Galich) and Vladimir (1205—6, 1211—1264), one of the Russian leaders at the Kalka battle (May 31, 1223 (?)), celebrated by Karamzin as the bravest of their princes, now on a visit to the Tartar court. Cf. d'Avezac in Recueil, IV. 481—2; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 120; Karamzin, in the French version of 1819, Histoire de Russie, III. 287—9, 323—332; IV. 20—24.
11. Lituanians...: Kiev and all Western Russia passed under the rule of p. 128 l. 2
the Lithuanians, through the conquests of Ghedymin, 1315—1328, and Olgierd, 1328—1381; and so under Poland, through the union of the crowns of Lithuania and Poland in 1385 (marriage of Jagello and Jadwiga or 'Hedwig').
12. Danilon, i.e. Danilov; the full text of Carpini here (Petau ms.) reads l. 6
Darifone, which d'Avezac, Recueil, 737, emends to Danilove. There are several places of this name in the Ukraine.
13. Millenary: in original millenarius, the Mongol mingatan or com- l. 9 mander of a thousand; cf. Rockhill, Rubruck, etc. (Hak. Soc.) p. 4.

14. Second daye after...Purification...Canow immediatly vnder...Tartars: l. 21
i.e. Carpini, Benedict, and Stephen, on Feb. 4, 1246, arrived at Kanev on the Dnyepr, 105 kils. or over 60 miles S.E. of Kiev, just above the junction of the Dnyepr and the Ros. Here Stephen of Bohemia was left behind (tertio fratre debilitato, Benedict, p. 775 of the Recueil text).
15. Michaeas: otherwise Micheas (in Vinc. Beauv. and d'Avezac's Recueil l. 24 text, p. 737; Mitheas in the Petau ms.). This general's camp appears to be what Benedict means by the secunda custodia of the Tartars (p. 775 of the Recueil text).

CHAPTER 20.

CHAPTER 21.

- l. 38 1. For we passed through: in Hak.'s original et insuper veneramus per.

[p. 65]

- p. 130 l. 14 2. Bathy...mightiest prince...except...Emperour: Batu, Rubruquis' Baatu, the Ba-du of Chinese annals (the Yuan-Shi), which also term him Great Prince (ta-wang). He was also known as Sain Khan, the Good Lord or Gracious Sovereign; cf. M. Polo, ch. 220, p. 754, Pauthier. His liberality was famous for a Mongol; in his life he affected the strict and primitive Nomade chief, uncorrupted by town life. On the death of Juji, his father, he divided his heritage with his brother Orda, the latter taking the lands and troops N. of the Jaxartes or Sihun (Syr Daria) and E. of the Ural river, Batu receiving all W. of the Ural. After the campaigns of 1236—43 he became the most powerful of the Mongol Princes, and in 1248 he put his nominee Mangu on the throne of Chingiz. Cf. note 7, chap. 21, and note 5, chap. 13; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 165, 167, 300, 308, 311, 318, 322, 324—5, 331—4; II. 11, 15, 141; also notes 459, 741.

In Hayton, Batu is the great basilopator (father of kings). Carpini's spelling is practically that of the Russian annals, Bati, another proof of the Slavonic influences in his work.

Simon of St Quentin (in Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., book xxxii. [otherwise xxxi.], ch. 34) makes Batu's (Batoth's) army in 1236—43 amount to over 600,000 men, 160,000 Tartars, 450,000 vassals, etc.: see also d'Olsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 334—7. For Batu's foundation of Sarai, cf. note 7, chap. 21.

For his honorific title of Aka or Aga, marking him as chief of the descendants of Chingiz after the Great Khan, cf. St Martin, Mémoire sur l'Arménie, II. 266; d'Avezac in the Recueil, IV. 484. For his refusal of the Imperial throne after Kuyuk's death, cf. d'Olsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 249. For Rubruquis' account of him, in close agreement with Carpini's, cf. pp. 264, 267, 268, 273, 280, 296, 307, 351, 353, 375, 377, 378 etc. in the Recueil text.

- l. 16 3. First tuesday in Lent...Maundie thursday: i.e. from the 27th of Feb. to the 5th of Apr., 1246.
 l. 21 4. Comania...Neper: Carpini's mention of the Borysthenes by its 'Slav' (or rather local) name of Dnyep'r is not the earliest in Christian literature, as often assumed (e.g. appar. by Rockhill, Hak. Soc. Rubruck, p. 8). Danapris is in the Anonymous Geographer of Ravenna, IV. 5 (p. 179 Pinder and Parthey),

c. A.D. 670. The forms Δάναπρι, Δάναστρι occur in Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Administrando Imperio, chap. 8, before A.D. 959. p. 130

Also Naperfida for Naper fluv. appears in the Cotton or Anglo-Saxon map in the British Museum (Cotton MSS., Tiberius B. v.) of c. A.D. 990; while of course it is the regular term among Russian and other Slavonic writers, e.g. Nestor, chaps. I., IV., VI., VII., XII., XV., etc. (A.M. 6368—6370, etc. = A.D. 860—862). These rivers, in their lower courses, flowed through what had long been Comania or Kuman-land: a region where the Mongols had now almost extirpated their Turkish predecessors. The Komans, Kumans, or Kipchak of Carpini and Rubruquis (cf. Rub. in Recueil, p. 246, etc.) are the Polovtsi of the Russian Chronicles, in succession to the Pechinegs. The name of Comania occurs in the Arab Geographers, e.g. Edrisi and Ibn Khaldun: the people and language were purely Turkish. Cf. the vocabulary of 1303 in Mémoires rel. à l'Asie.

5. Montij, otherwise Monty, Moncy, Manci, etc., is Mauchi, the second son of Chagatai.

l. 24

6. Don...Tirbon: here again the 'Slav' or local name for the Tanais is noticeable (as in Benedict the Pole, Carpini's comrade), and may be contrasted with Rubruquis, who only gives us the classical name, pp. 216, 246, 247, 249, 250, 252, 266, in the Recueil text. For earlier instances of the word Don we must go to the Russian Annals, e.g. Nestor, as in chap. XC., A.M. 6619 (A.D. 1111), of Nestor's Chronicle, the Pervonachal'naya Lyetopis.

l. 25

Tirbon, or Tyrbon, in Vinc. Beauv.'s text, is Carton and Carbon in the Petau and Corpus MSS., and Cartan in the Recueil text, d'Avezac, 743.

7. Volga...Bathy: the Volga, Ptolemy's Rha, is usually called Etil[ia], Ethil[ia], Itil[ia], Attil[ia] in Latin, as in Asiatic and Byzantine, Mediaeval Literature; the 'Slav' or local name here given is the one used in the Russian Annals, e.g. Nestor, throughout, as in chap. LXXXI. (A.M. 6604 = A.D. 1095); it does not seem to occur earlier in Latin or Greek writers, cf. Menander Protector, in Migne, Patrologia Graeca, vol. CXIII. 806—811 in the Bonn edition, pp. 295—302, 380—5; and in Muller's Fragmenta Histor. Graec. IV. 235, etc. (account of the Embassy of Zemarchus, A.D. 568—9, from the Emperor Justin II. to the court of the Turkish Khan Dizabul).

l. 28

Batu's encampment on the Volga dated from 1235. Here he founded Old Sarai (long after Carpini's visit) in about 1253—56 (though the foundation has often been ascribed to Berké, 1257—1265), and here he died in 1256. Cf. note 2, chap. 21, and note 5, chap. 13; Yule, M. Polo, I. 5; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 300, 306; II. 71; and note 831; also I. 165, 167; II. 8, 81, 141 of same work; Russia and Asia, 1876, by Prof. Grigoriev, identifies the ruins near Tsarev, on the left or east bank of the Akhtuba, with Old Sarai, but see p. 337. Rubruquis, pp. 376, 378, is decisive about the foundation by Batu.

8. Iacc: otherwise the Yaik or Ural river, the Iagac [-ag] of Rubruquis. Here the old name is kept, as in the Russian chronicles, cf. Menander Protector as ref. to in prev. note: Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 167, 300, 301, and esp. 306.

l. 29

9. Great sea...arme of S. George...Constantinople: on the 'arm,' or strait, of St George (the Dardanelles or Hellespont), cf. Saewulf, pilgrim narrative of c. A.D. 1102—3, end, in Recueil, vol. IV. 1839, p. 853; Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 154, 155.

l. 33

Also cf. Will. de Boldensell, a traveller of 1336—in Canisius, Antiq. Lect. (Basnage), IV. 337—57; d'Avezac in Recueil, IV. 486.

- p. 130 l. 36 10. Exonerate themselves into the Grecian sea...called Mare maior [sic]: in Hak.'s original, intrans mare Graeciae...dicitur Magnum mare.

Carpini here confuses the Euxine with the Caspian, or rather makes Dnyepyr, Don, Yaik, and Volga flow into one sea and that the Pontus; in this he had at least the apparent countenance of some ancient authors, cf. d'Avezac in the Recueil, iv. 486—7.

CHAPTER 22.

- p. 131 l. 7 1. Bathy...Comania: see notes 2 and 4, chap. 21.
 l. 8 2. Tabernacles: in original stationibus.
 l. 17 3. The Orda...Eldegay: on the state kept by Batu, cf. Rubruquis in the Recueil, iv. 267—273.
 l. 26 4. Good friday: in original die Parasceue, i.e. April 6, 1246.
 l. 28 5. Russian, Tartarian, and Saracen languages: the 'Tartar' language must be Mongol; the 'Saracen' is probably Arabic, though some have suggested a dialect of Turkish.
 l. 40 6. Once the kings of Hungaria: i.e. Bela IV.'s. Bela was successor of Andrew IV., and reigned 1235—70; cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 132—159.

[p. 66]

CHAPTER 23.

- p. 132 l. 20 1. Easter euen: i.e. April 7, 1246.
 l. 23 2. Emperor Cuyne: Hak.'s favourite form of the name: on Kuyuk see chap. 13, note 4.
 l. 34 3. Skillet: in Hak.'s original caldario.
 l. 35 4. Through Comania: cf. note 4, chap. 21 and note 13, chap. 23.
 p. 133 l. 1 5. Morduyni Byleri: translated by Hak. as if the name of one people; in Hak.'s original Morduynos, Byleros, i.e. Mordvins and Bulgarians. See note 7, chap. 15.
 l. 2 6. Bastarci...Hungaria magna: see note 7, chap. 15.
 l. 3 7. Parositae and...Samogetae: see note 7, chap. 15.
 l. 4 8. Dogges faces: see note 7, chap. 15.
 l. 6 9. Alani...Circassi...Gazari: the Alans are also called Ases, Osses, or Oss[etians]. They occupied an extremely important position among the Mongol vassals; many of them were Christians. Cf. note 8 to chap. 16 of Rubruquis.

The Circassi are the Cherkess[es] and the Gazari the Khazars. On these cf. d'Avezac in the Recueil, iv. 494—5; Frähn, De Chazaris, 1822, throughout; Nouveau Journal Asiatique, xii. 530, giving extracts from King Vakhtang's History of Georgia; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 295, 298—9, 305, 316; II. 84—90, 93; d'Ohsson, Peuples du Caucase, 31—71; 186—212; Klaproth, Tableaux historiques de l'Asie, 174—181, 268—273; Mémoires relatifs à l'Asie, I. 147—156; V. St Martin, Mémoire sur l'Arménie, II. 186—7.

- l. 7 10. Iberia...Cuthes...Brutaches: Iberia should be meant for Georgia. The Cathes [Cathos, otherwise Tacos, Cacos, Cachos, in mss. of Carpinus and Vincent of Beauvais] are probably the still existing Kakhetians (Kakhs), whose wine is so famous. The Brutaches [Brutachos], otherwise Bruthachos, Brucarchos, are connected by d'Avezac, Recueil, 496—7, with the district, and river, of Borchalo p. 133 in the Kur basin, the Berdaj of Moslem writers; cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 294, 299; V. St Martin, Mémoire sur l'Arménie, II. 356—9; Sprengel, Geographische Entdeckungen, 284; Rubruquis, p. 382 of Recueil text, ref. to Jews in Shirvan; Haxthausen, Trans-Caucasia, 136, etc.; Forster, Histoire des découvertes et voyages dans le Nord, I. 153.

11. Scythia...Georgia...Armenia...Turkie: Scythia is Hak.'s trans. of Cithorum. The Georgians are elsewhere called by Carpini Obesi or Obeses, i.e. Abases or Abkhasians of the western Caucasus. See p. 709 of the Recueil text, and d'Avezac, p. 497 of the same vol. l. 9

12. On...West...Hungaria, and Russia: this makes Comania or Kumanland stretch far northward. Its most northerly region seems to have been that around the Don sources.

13. Kangittae: the Káγγap or Káγκap of Constantine Porphyrogenetos, the Canglae of Rubruquis (pp. 265, 274 of the Recueil text), and of Abul-Ghazi;
Rub. makes them a branch of the Komans. They are the Kankalis and Kankli of Moslem writers, the Kanglin of the Chinese, and perhaps identical with some of the Pechinegs, Patzinaks, or Bajnaks, overthrown by the Komans in the 11th—12th centuries and driven out of our S. Russia into the poorer steeper
E. of the Yaik or Ural river. This identification with certain tribes of the Pechinegs seems approved by Constantine Porph., De Adm. Imp. ch. 37; Anna Comnena says the Káγγap spoke the Koman language. Cf. Bret-schneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 28, 223, 229, 299, 301—4, and note 735; d'Avezac, Recueil, IV. 499—500; d'Ohsson, Peuples du Caucase, 117—21;
254—60; Abul-Ghazi, Histoire généalogique des Tartares, 41, 83—9 (1726); 17, 37—8, 50, 124 (1871—4). Acc. to Klaproth, the Nogai Tartars, representing a branch of the Pechinegs, kept the name of Kangli in the early 19th century. l. 15

14. Ieroslaus duke of Russia: see note 3, chap. 30, and note 5, chap. 5. l. 17

15. From the eight day after Easter untill Ascension day: i.e. from April 16 to May 17, 1246. l. 22

CHAPTER 24.

1. Bisermini: see note 2, chap. 15. l. 32

2. Soldan Alti: in original Altisoldanus, see note 2, chap. 15. l. 35

3. On...South...Jerusalem and Baldach...Burin and Cadan...Thyaday...
On North...blacke Kythayans...Ocean...Syban: see note 5, chap. 13. l. 37

For S. and N. read S.W. and N.E. Carpini's directions are somewhat astray here, but usually they are fairly accurate and better than Rubruquis'.

4. From...Ascension, until eight daies before...S. John Baptist: i.e. from p. 134 l. 4 17 May to 17 June, 1246.

5. Dauce before: in Hak.'s original, plaudere coram. l. 9

6. Ordu...auncient unto all the Tartarian dukes [omnium...antiquiorem]: on Ordu or Hordu, see note 5, chap. 13. In Mangu's reign, Batu took precedence of all after the Great Khan himself, see note 2, chap. 21. l. 20

[p. 67]

CHAPTER 25.

1. Euen of Saint Peter and...Paul: i.e. June 28, 1246. l. 36

2. Naymani...Pagans. On June 28, 1246, the travellers entered the l. 37

- p. 134 Naiman country. 'Some writers call the Naimans Turks, others Mongols. Their centre was on the upper Irtysh; the Kirghiz were to the north, the Keraits to the east'; but cf. note 5, chap. 8.
- p. 135 1. 8 3. Day of Marie Magdalene...Cuyne the Emperour elect: i.e. on July 22, 1246, they reached the Mongol court.
1. 12 4. Court Imperiall: in Hak.'s original curiam solennem.
1. 18 5. Horse-fleshe: in Hak.'s original eis [equis].

CHAPTER 26.

1. 31 1. Was mainteyned a verie solempne and royall court: in orig. adunabatur curia solennis. This curia solennis for the election of Kuyuk was held, d'Ohsson thinks, near Lake Gueuca, where the last Emperor (Okkodai) had often resided in summer. Chagatai died soon after Okkodai; otherwise probably he and not Kuyuk would have been elected at this curia solennis, which only took place after more than four years of Turakina's regency. Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 195 etc., 217—19.
1. 33 2. Fine...cloth: in Hak.'s original purpura.
1. 35 3. Wall of planks: in Hak.'s original lignum tabulatum.
- p. 136 1. 2 4. Blew robes: in Hak.'s original blauéis purpuris.
1. 21 5. Could not drink [mares milke]: in Hak.'s original non bibebamus.

[p. 68]

1. 26 6. Ieroslaus of Susdal...Kythayans...Solungi: cf. note 2, chap. 29; note 3, chap. 30. On Yaroslav of Suzdal, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 196, and on the Mongol capture of Suzdal, ibid. II. 115—6.
1. 28 7. Sonnes...of...king of Georgia...4000. ambassadors: this was 'as told us by the agents' (procuratoribus) Carpini adds. Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 196—7; II. 217—220; Simon of St Quentin, in Vinc. Beauv., Spec. Hist. XXXII. (XXXI.) 50. Also note 5 to chap. 6 of this version. The ligier of the Caliph is a nuncius in Hak.'s original: the 'ten soldans besides' included Rokned-din, afterwards Sultan of Rûm, the princes of Mosul, Fars, and Kerman, the brother of the Prince of Aleppo, and the envoys of the Assassin or Ismaelian Prince of Alamut. This catalogue may be paralleled by Simon's account of the uncle of the Prince of Aleppo and the brother of the Sultan of Mosul at the camp of Baiju, ipsum cum trina genuum flexione, capitumque in terram allisione...adorantes. We may notice that Carpini only speaks of genuflexions, never of prostrations; Friar John is mistaken in thinking that the Great Khan never spoke directly with any man, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 218.
1. 35 8. Without the lists: in Hak.'s original extra tabulatum.

CHAPTER 27.

- p. 137 1. 4 1. [Wands...] purple wooll: in Hak.'s original lanam coccineam. These were the tufts or tughs, in all ages emblems of Nomade Sovereignty in Asia.
1. 12 2. Day of...Assumption, i.e. Aug. 15, 1246.
1. 17 3. Next unto the ayre, not in Hak.'s original.
1. 18 4. Feast of Saint Bartholomew, i.e. Aug. 24, 1246.

CHAPTER 28.

1. Was about [to become...Christian], in Hak.'s original deberet. p. 137 l. 40
2. Cleargie men of the Christians: after this Hak. does not translate the clause et expensas eis dabat. p. 138 l. 1
3. Great [Tent], in Hak.'s original maius [tentorium]. l. 3
4. According to...custome of...Graecians: i.e. according to the rites of the Greek Orthodox Church. l. 4
5. Ring belles: in Hak.'s original pulsant only. l. 5
6. By a speaker: in Hak.'s original per interpositam personam: see chap. 26, note 7. l. 10

[p. 69]

7. Occoday...poisoned: on the death of Okkodai in 1241, see d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 86—7. Okkodai really died of drunkenness, alternating with over-violent pastimes. He was 56 years old, and had reigned 13; he was buried in the valley of Kimen. He was famous for his generosity: 'the only use of wealth is to win the hearts of our subjects.' Turakina was the chief of more than 60 wives and concubines of Okkodai's, Kuyuk being Turakina's eldest son; her other four sons, Kutun, etc. never came to the throne; see d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 99, after Rashid-ed-din. l. 33
8. This posie: in original hoc, simply; on Kuyuk's seal-inscription cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 235—6. The description of Kuyuk given by Carpini must be compared with that of Chinese authors who describe the Khan's favour to the Kashmir lamas Watochi and Namu: Rashid-ed-din complains of Moslem humiliations in Kuyuk's reign: cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 234, 235; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 160, 165, 185, 308, 318—9, 333; II. 8 and notes 434—6, 742, 758. l. 39

CHAPTER 29.

1. Chingay...chiefe secretary: on the protonotarius, 'chancellor,' minister of state, general, and provincial governor Chinkai, Chen-hai, or Chingcai, cf. note 4, ch. 31, also Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 60—1, 63, 81, and note 144; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 189, 269. The fullest account of Chinkai is in the Yuan-Shi, ch. 120, the essence of which Bretschneider professes to give in his note 144 (as above). p. 139 l. 4
2. Duke of Solangi. Cp. note 6, chap. 26. The Solangi are the inhabitants of Korea and Manchuria (or great part of these regions), known as Solomghos by the Mongols, the Langa and Solanga of Rubruquis, pp. 289—90, the Sulangka of Moslem writers. Chingiz first conquered Korea in 1218; it revolted from the Mongols in 1231—2, and was then re-conquered, 1235—41; cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 360. King Vang-tung, after his revolt, took refuge in Tsiang-Hua island, off the W. coast of Korea. l. 6
3. Trappers and caparisons: in Hak.'s original phaleratos et armatos. l. 30

CHAPTER 30.

1. Tent...Kythayans: on the skill of the Chinese as artificers see Carpini above. p. 140 l. 5

- p. 140 l. 9 2. Stage...of boords: in Hak.'s original solarium...de tabulis.
 l. 29 3. Ieroslaus...Soldal: i.e. Yaroslav of Vladimir and Suzdal: see note 6, chap. 26. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 76—7, also gives the version of the Russian Annals, that Yaroslav died on his way home from the Mongol court. His body was brought back to Vladimir.

[p. 70]

- l. 31 4. After eate and drink Hak. does not translate the words de manu ipsius. On Turakina's regency, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 188—195.
 l. 34 5. Strange blew colour: in Hak.'s original miro modo glaucum.

CHAPTER 31.

- p. 141 l. 6 1. Flag of defiance: in Hak.'s original vexillum.
 l. 15 2. Russian goldsmith...Cosmas: cf. Rubruquis on William Buchier the French Christian, goldsmith at Karakorum, pp. 309—10, 334, 337, 342, 374, etc. in Recueil text (not in Hak.).
 l. 34 3. Day of S. Martine: i.e. Nov. 11, 1246.
 l. 35 4. Kadac...Bala: Kadak was a sort of President of the Mongol Imperial Council of State; in Hak.'s original procurator, translated principal agent. Cf. note 1, chap. 29; also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 189, 269, on the position of Kadak and 'Chingay' under Ogul Gaimish, their conspiracy with her on behalf of the House of Okkodai, and their execution by Mangu.
 l. 38 5. Eche sentence: in Hak.'s original singulas orationes.
 l. 41 6. Haue mistaken: in Hak.'s original minus haberemus: the full text of this letter exists only in the Colbert ms. of Carpini, immediately before the text of Benedict the Pole, and is printed by d'Avezac in the Recueil, IV. 594—5.

CHAPTER 32.

- p. 142 l. 21 1. Spies and intelligencers in our dominions: in Hak.'s original exploratores terrae, simply.
 l. 23 2. Servants...legates of Almaine: in Hak.'s orig. servientes, qui stant nobiscum, ex rogatu Cardinalis, legati scilicet Alemannie, viz. the Dominican Hugo de Santocaro.
 l. 26 3. Dutch: in Hak.'s original Teutonicis.

[p. 71]

- l. 36 4. Feast of Saint Brice, i.e. Nov. 13, 1246.
 l. 39 5. [Gowne]...furre...outside: in Hak.'s original pilos de foris. Here the word purpura translated a piece of purple seems used in the sense of dress of honour or robe of ceremony.

- p. 143 l. 1 6. Yarde: in Hak.'s original passum.

CHAPTER 33.

- l. 11 1. Feast of...Ascension, i.e. May 9, 1247.
 l. 12 2. Bathy...written: in Hak.'s original Bathy...quod Imperator diligenter scripserat, demandare.

3. The thirteenth day after Pentecost, being Saturday: in Hak.'s original p. 143 l. 17 sabbatho infra octavas Pentecostes, i.e. June 2, 1247.

4. Holde...Pope for...Lord: not only Daniel and Vasilko, but also Yaroslav l. 40 of Suzdal seem to have given Carpini promises of this nature: cp. letter of Innocent IV. to Alexander, Prince of Suzdal, 10 Kal. Feb. 1248.

§ 10. NOTES ON HAKLUYT'S VERSION OF RUBRUQUIS.

pp. 93—117.

[p. 93]

CHAPTER 1.

- p. 184 l. 6 1. William de Rubruk...of the Minorites: Friar William was probably a native of Rubrouck village in Old French Flanders. His birth is commonly dated about 1215—1220, his death about 1270. He is only known from the present work, from Roger Bacon's Opus Maius (i. 305, 354, etc., ed. Bridges, 1897; Carpini is referred to in the same work I. 371), and from the Franciscan records used by Luke Wadding in Scriptores Ordinis Minorum. Rubruquis probably met Carpini and Benedict the Pole in Paris, at the Court of the Saint-King Louis IX., when Friar John and his companion arrived there in the early part of 1248, shortly after their return from Mongolia, on a mission from the Pope to the French Sovereign (Luke Wadding, Annales Minorum, III. 125). From these veteran explorers Rubruquis in all likelihood received the first impulse towards his own great journey. He accompanied Louis IX. on the Sixth Crusade, and was probably with the King when the mission arrived from Ilchikadai at the end of 1248, offering an alliance against the Saracens, and when the pleasing and plausible impostor, Sabeddin Morrifat David, in charge of this mission, told the King of France how the Great Khan and the chief lords of the Mongols had embraced Christianity three years before. When Andrew of Longumeau (Jean Pierre Sarrasin's 'Andrieu de St Jacques') started, in Feb. 1249, on the return embassy sent by Louis IX. both to Ilchikadai and to the Great Khan Kuyuk, Rubruquis was also present, there is no reason to doubt, as also when Andrew returned to St Louis at Caesarea in 1251. Lastly Rubruquis seems to have met Philip de Toucy [and Baldwin of Hainault?] at Caesarea in the winter of 1251—52, and to have heard much about the manners of the Kumans and the routes through their country. The traveller left his sovereign some time in the winter of 1252—3, made a stay (possibly of some length) in Constantinople, and started from the imperial city for the Crimea on May 7, 1253. See Joinville and Sarrasin, ed. Michel, Paris, 1867, pp. 142—9, 150—2, 254—5.

For modern studies cf. Oscar Peschel, Geschichte der Erdkunde, 165, etc.; Léon Cahun, Introduction à l'histoire de l'Asie, 353—4, 355, 384—6, 392; Sir Henry Yule's article in Encyclopaedia Britannica (9th edition), XXI. 46—7; the same author's Marco Polo, II. 536; F. M. Schmidt, Ueber Rubruk's Reise, Berlin 1885 (Berlin Geog. Soc. vol. 20, pp. 161—253, and reprint); W. W. Rockhill, trans. of Rub. with commentary, Hakluyt Society, 1900; Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. pp. 278—9, 320—381.

An excellent analysis of Rub.'s journey is in d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols (ed. of 1852), vol. II. chap. vi. pp. 283—309, and invaluable refs. to, and notes upon, the same are in Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1888, I. 204—5, 262—3, 299, 301, 305—7, 308, 311, 318, 327, 334; II. 25, 38, 41—2, 70—1, 83, 84, 85, 86, 91, 116, 120.

2. Yeare...1253...Nones of May...Pontus: i.e. Rub. sailed into the Black Sea on May 7, 1253. Pontus and Pontus Euxinus are the regular names of this basin in classical and mediaeval geography; it is called Dark, ἡ λεγομένη σκοτεινὴ (if the ref. here is really to the Euxine and not to the Baltic; either would suit the context), by Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Administrando Imperio, chaps. 31, 42; Black by Friar Jordanus (nigrum, maurum), chap. XIV. § 3, p. 61, Recueil text, vol. IV., 1839. Paris.

3. Great sea: in Hak.'s original Maius Mare. For Hak.'s in length...1008 miles the best mss. read MCCCC; and so the text implies in Hak. a little later, 700 miles also from thence to the East, etc. The true length is about 700 E. miles in all. Mare maius is an unusual term for the Euxine; more usually it is applied to the Mediterranean in the Middle Ages, as in Isidore, Etymologies, XIII. xvi. 1. As used for the Euxine, cf. Marco Polo, chap. 1. (p. 5, Pauthier; I. 2—3, Yule).

4. Before towards Synopolis Hak.'s original has et contra meridiem,

- p. 184 untranslating here. On Synopolis, our Sinope, called by Rub. a little later the citie of the Soldan of Turkie, an important trade-centre (as outlet for Turkish Asia Minor) at this time, cf. Heyd, Commerce du Levant, I. 298, 550—3, II. 98 168, 203—4.
1. 38 5. Hiberia...Georgia. See note 5, chap. 6 of Carpin.
1. 39 6. Gasaria...[Caesaria]: the name Caesaria (I. 32) has nothing to do with Caesar, but is derived from the Khazars who dominated the modern Southern Russia from the 6th to the 11th cent. and are mentioned so often by the Byzantines, e.g. in 626 by Priscus, if we may identify his 'Ακατῖποι and 'Ακατῖροι with the Khazars, and by Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Adm. Imp., chaps. 10—12 etc. Cf. the Gazari and Gazaria of Carpin 674 etc., 748, the Gatzaria of Friar Jordanus, 62 (Recueil, IV. 1839). See also Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 222—3, 472, 474, 491—4. Frähn, De Chazaris, is still one of the most important monographs on this interesting people (1822, St Petersburg).
- p. 185 1. 1 7. Kersoua: so in Hak.'s original, for Kersona, Kherson or Cherson, the traditional scene of the martyrdom of St Clement of Rome (civitas Clementis Rub. calls it later, p. 215 of Recueil text), on the west side of the quarantine harbour of Sevastopol. See Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Adm. Imp. chs. 6, 42, and esp. 53, the most valuable mediaeval essay on Chersonite history; Böckh, Inscript. Christ. 8740, 8742, 8757. See also Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, I. 101; II. 455, 499—504.
1. 5 8. Solduaia, i.e. Sudak or Sudagh, the Σουδαία of the Byzantines, also written by Latins Sodaia, Soltadia, Soldachia, Sholtadia: noticed by M. Polo, chaps. 1, 2 (p. 6, Panthier; I. 2—4, Yule) and by Edrisi (Jaubert), II. 394, who calls it Soldadia. It was first captured by the Mongols in 1223 and again in 1239. Cf. Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 450—1, and Rockhill's note in Hak. Soc. Rubruck, p. 43, n. 2; also Bretschneider, Med. Researches, II. 84, who warns us not to confuse Soldaia or Sudak with Solgat or Krim; see Abulfeda, II. 320; Pallas, Travels through the Southern Provinces of the Russian Empire, 1793—4, II. 260—3, 217—27, 396—9, gives one of the best modern descriptions of Sudak and [Solgat-] Krim. In the century after Rubruquis, Sudak greatly declined; cf. Ibn Batuta (Defrémery and Sanguinetti), I. 28; II. 415. On Venetian trade and establishments here, c. A.D. 1250—80, see Heyd, Commerce du Levant, I. 299—301, and Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, as above.
1. 6 9. Turkie merchants: in Hak.'s original mercatores venientes de Turchia, i.e. Inner Asia Minor, the dominion of the Seljuk Turks (Sultanate of Rûm or Iconium) from the close of the 11th century.
1. 8 10. Russia...ermine and gray furs [in Hak.'s original varium et grisiam] ...bombast [in original bombasio] ...silke...spices: Rossia, which Hak. translates Russia, may refer to the port of that name (al. Rosia, Rousia), probably near the mouth of the Don; cf. Heyd, Commerce du Levant, I. 205, 207—9; Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 452. But it is more probably the whole country of the Russians (then confined to the central and S.W. regions of the modern Russia) that is here referred to. The furs mentioned appear to be the kinds known as vair and minever, supposed to be squirrel and ermine. Purchas translates 'little spotted and grisled skins,' which does not take us very far. Rubruquis later, p. 329 of Recueil text, tells us moneta Rutenorum communis sunt pellicule...varii et grisii. On this see Karamzin, Russian History, I. 307—9. 'Bombast,' i.e. Bombacium, is the early mediaeval name for cotton;

Cotone is also used by Rub., Recueil, p. 219; cf. Heyd, Commerce du Levant, p. 185 II. 614.

11. Matriga...Tanaïs...Pontus...a little sea [in Hak.'s original quoddam mare versus Aquilonem] ...Materta: on Matriga or Materta, the Ματράριχα or Τὰ Μάτραρχα of Constantine Porphyrogenetos, the Tmutorkhan of the Russians, otherwise Matracha, Matrega, Matrica, etc., cf. Heyd, Commerce du Levant, I. 206, II. 180, 379; Const. Porph., De Adm. Imp., ch. 42; Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 421, 451—2. Its nearest modern equivalent is Taman or Phanagoria in the Taman peninsula. l. 13

Rubruquis (cf. also pp. 216, 252, in Recueil text) considers, like many ancient and mediaeval writers—e.g. Edrisi, that the Straits of Kertch or Bosporus formed the true mouth of the Don or Tanaïs.

12. Thosses, Barbils: in Hak.'s original thosas, borbatus; better, hosas, barbotas: cf. Rub. later (p. 249 in Recueil text; see note 17, chap. 15) on the barbota ('turbut' in Hak.) which he ate at the Tanaïs ferry. l. 21

13. After Soldaia, Hak.'s original has quae est cuspis provinciae, untranslated here. l. 25

14. Maricandis...Matriga upon the mouth of the river Tanaïs: in Hak.'s original Maricandis...Materta et orificium Tanaïs, simply. Maricandis is probably a mistake for Maritanais (Mare Tanaïs), the reading of D, the oldest and best ms. (CCC. Cam., 181). l. 26

15. Zikia...Suevi...Hiberi...Trapezunda...Guydo: on Zikia (also read, in ms. D, Ziquia, but not, as Rockhill, Ziknia) cf. the Ζυγία, Ζυγίολ, and Σιγιννίολ of Strabo, II. 31; XI. 11—12, etc., the χώρα τῆς Ζυχίας of Const. Porph., De Administrando Imperio, chap. 42, the terra Ziccorum of Carpini, 748 (Recueil text). It was the steppe region South of the Kuban and North of the Western Caucasus. On the Suevi cf. the Suani of Pliny, Nat. Hist., VI. 4, the Σοάναι of Strabo, XI. 14: they belonged to the Kartvelian race, and were highlanders of the Western Caucasus as they are now. The Hiberi, Iberians, or Georgians were not independent of the Tartars, as Rub. declares; since 1239 they had been Mongol subjects. Guydo, governor of Trapezunda, i.e. Andronikos I. (Gidos), Emperor of Trebizond, had died 1235; Manuel Komnenos reigned 1238—1263, and in 1252 sent an embassy to Louis IX. at Sidon. It is the more strange that even by this means Rubruquis had not learnt that Guydo no longer lived. Since 1244 Trebizond had been subject to the Mongols. l. 28

16. Vastacius...Astar: i.e. Ioannes III. Doukas Batatzes Diplobastazos ('John Vataces'), Emperor of Nikaia (Nicaea) 1222—1254, and his son Theodoros II. Doukas Laskaris (the Astar of Hak., the Ascar of the best MSS.). Rub. says 'Vastacius' was not in subjection to the Tartars, but it is certain that he paid them tribute at this time. 'Astar's' mother was Eirene Laskaris, daughter of Theodoros I. Laskaris, 1204—1224, the first 'Nicene' emperor after the Latin capture of Constantinople. l. 36

17. Valakia [Blakia in the best MSS.] ...Assanus...Bulgaria minor...Solonia [in Hak.'s original Solononam; Sclavoniam in the Paris text]. The Vlachs or Wallachians, described by Benjamin of Tudela, in Thessaly, were also numerous in the modern 'Wallachia' and in Bulgaria S. of Danube. The land of Asan is the Bulgar-Wallachian kingdom, founded c. 1186 by Asan (otherwise Assan, Asen, or Iovan-Asen I.), with the help of his brothers Peter and John, as a revival of the old Bulgarian state destroyed by John Tzimiskes and Basil II. (Βουλγαροκτόνος). Asan reigned 1186—96: in Rubruquis' time the ruler was Michael or Mikhailo-Asen, 1246—1257, the dynastic name being kept up, as Rubruquis implies, Blakia quae est terra Assani. l. 40

Scлавonia (if that reading be preferred) here prob. refers to the Slav lands in the N.E. Adriatic basin: but it is only read by one (the oldest and best) MS., viz. D. On Hak.'s reading of corn (frumentum) for iron (ferrum; as in all the best MSS.), see critical notes.

[p. 94]

1. 3 18. Soldaia the twelfth ... Kalends ... June ... merchants of Constantinople: i.e. Rubruquis and his party reached Sudak, May 21, 1253: he complains a little later of the bad advice these merchants gave him for his journey.

The Palm Sunday sermon in St Sophia to which Rubruquis refers in the next sentence was preached April 12, 1253, while Constantinople was still under Latin dominion (1204—1261); Baldwin II. of Courtenay, 1228—1261.

1. 10 19. Infidels: in Hak.'s original incredulos.
 1. 17 20. Sartach ... Christian: cf. Rub., Recueil text, 217, 238—40, 242, 249, 251, 253—263, 264, 268, 270—1, 375—6. Sartach was a Christian, says King Hayton's narrative definitely. On Sartach and Rubruquis' visit, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 283—5, 291; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 167—8, 170; II. 15, and esp. note 459; Patkanov's History of the Mongols from Armenian sources, p. 73, and note 5, chap. 13 of Carpini in this vol. Acc. to Bar Hebraeus, Sartach (or rather Sartakh, the Sa-li-ta of the Chinese; also written Sartath, Sarcath, Sarthac, Sartaht, Serttah, Salcath, etc.; the MSS. of Rubruquis alone give ten different forms of this name) was baptized and ordained deacon (Klaproth, Journal Asiatique, XII. 211, 277). Innocent IV. addressed him as a Christian in 1254 on the faith of his self-styled envoy John the Presbyter. See Abel Rémusat, Relations...des Princes Chrétiens...avec les Mongols (1822—4), p. 61.
 1. 24 21. Good and commoditie: in Hak.'s original utilitate [Christianitatis].

 1. 36 23. On sundry horses backs: in Hak.'s original super alios simply.
 1. 43 24. Gouvernours of Soldaia: in Hak.'s original capitaneis primis, referring to the Mongol lords, not to the Sudak magistrates, etc.

p. 187

1. 7 25. Borrowed: in Hak.'s original accepimus.
 1. 11 26. Bartholomew ... Goset ... Turgemannus ... Nicolas: Bartholomew of Cremona, in p. 303 of the Recueil text of Rub., seems to be alluded to as resident at the court of 'Vastacius' of Nikaia before this journey (see note 16). He did not return with Rub., but stayed behind at Mangu's court. (See pp. 372, 374 of Recueil text of Rub.)

Goset (Goset in the best MSS.) did not accompany Rub. and Bartholomew to Mangu's court. Batu sent him back (with the puer Nicholaus) to Sartach (p. 271, Recueil) or detained him at his own 'horde' (p. 377, Recueil text of Rub.).

'Homo Dei Turgemannus,' 'Turgemannus the man of God,' is mysterious; Rockhill suggests his name in Rub. is a translation of Abdullah 'slave of God' (Hak. Soc. Rubruck, p. 50). Anyhow he was the interpreter (torgiman, targuman, turguman, or dragoman) of the party, and a very poor one at that.

1. 13 27. Almes bestowed upon me: in Hak.'s original de nostra elemosyna: the Recueil text reads de vestra eleem^a.
 1. 16 28. Promontories ... Kersoua [for Kersona] ... fortie castles ... Gothes ... Dutch tongue [in Hak.'s original idioma Teutonicum]: see Rockhill's note p. 51 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Josafat Barbaro, Travels to Tana and Persia, Hak. Soc. p. 187 ed., 27—30 (1873); Benedict the Pole on the Saxi, supposed by him to be Goths, p. 776 in Recueil text; Busbequius (Busbeck), Epistolae deque rebus Turcicis, 383, Leipzig, 1689; Heyd, Commerce du Levant, II. 208; Yule, Cathay, 200; d'Avezac in the Recueil, 498—9 (IV. 1839).

29. There...Isthmus: in Hak.'s original quae coarctatur.

l. 24

30. Comanians...Tartars: see note 4, chap. 21 of Carpini. The Mongol invasion of Koman- or Kuman-land (our S. Russia), which led to the great battle of the Kalka in 1222 (otherwise 1223 or 1224), also resulted in an incursion into the Crimea, here referred to, in 1222—3.

l. 28

Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 339, 345; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 297; II. 68—73, 75, 84, and note 721, where the various dates of the Kalka battle (16th June, 1224, 31st May, 1224, and an unfixed day in 1223 or 1222) are discussed, and the preference is decidedly given to 1222.

31. The multitude: in Hak.'s original tanta multitudo [Comanorum].

l. 30

32. Which were dead: in Hak.'s original morientes.

l. 33

33. Salte...Baatu...Sartach...Russia...Yperpera. See Strabo VII. 4, 258, and the U. S. A. Consular Reports, IV. 477, on ancient and modern salt-production in the Crimea, especially from the saline lakes and brine springs near Perekop.

l. 40

Two webbes of cotton, in Hak.'s original duas telas de cottone, offered by the Russian traders for the Crimean salt: here the more modern word cottone is used instead of the older Bombacium.

The [h]yperpera seems to have been of between 10 sh. and 11 sh. value, say, normally, 10s. 6d. Carpini (p. 707 of Recueil text) uses the term as equivalent to bezant (yperperorum sive bysanciorum). So do Marco Polo and Joinville; cf. M. Polo, II. 535 (Yule).

[p. 95]

CHAPTER 2.

1. Round foundation...compacted together: in Hak.'s original rotam... cancellatis. For celestiall citie to come, at the beginning of the chap., Hak.'s original has only futuram [sc. civitatem], i.e. their next encampment on their native plains or elsewhere. There is no reference to an after-life. On the nomade habits, dwellings, etc., of the Tartars, Rubruquis has innumerable parallels, from Hesiod and Herodotus (IV. 46, III. 35) to Carpini (pp. 614—30, 638—643, Recueil text); M. Polo (I. 244, Yule); Ibn Batuta (II. 361, 377—9, 387, Defrémery and Sanguinetti); Barbaro (13, Hak. Soc.), and the most modern investigators (e.g. Sven Hedin, Through Asia, I. 419).

p. 188 l. 20

2. Roofe: in Hakluyt's original tigna.

l. 21

3. Roundell: in Hak.'s original rotam. On the nomade tents and waggons cf. also Rockhill's note to Hak. Soc. Rubruck, p. 54, and classical refs. in Ammianus Marcellinus, XXII. 176; Hippocrates, De aere, aqua et locis, on the four- and six-wheeled carts of the Scythians. Carpini, pp. 616—17 of Recueil text, is an excellent parallel to Rubruquis here, throughout.

l. 22

4. Morter: in Hak.'s original calce.

l. 24

5. Blacke felte: in Hak.'s original nigro only.

l. 26

6. Curiously painted ouer: in Hak.'s original opere polimitario variatum.

l. 29

Cf. Rockhill's note, p. 55 (end) of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

7. Fore side: in Hak.'s original anteriori extremitate.

p. 189 l. 4

- p. 189 1. 6 8. Tallow: in Hak.'s original seno.
 1. 7 9. Feathers: in Hak.'s original plumario.
 1. 30 10. Village: in Hak.'s original villa.

CHAPTER 3.

1. 40 1. Southward...North part...East side...Southwards...West side. On the Southward aspect of the nomade tents, cf. Rockhill, note on p. 56 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck. See the parallel passage in Carpini, p. 745 of Recueil text, and the plan and description of a yurt in Radlov, Aus Siberien, I. 270 (see also I. 414 of same work), copied by Rockhill, in Hak. Soc. Rubruck, p. 58.

[p. 96]

- p. 190 1. 25 2. The like superstitious idolatrie: not in Hak.'s original. On the felt idols, cf. the parallel passage in Carpini, pp. 618—20 of Recueil text; also Benedict the Pole, p. 775 of same; M. Polo, on the idol Natigay, I. 249—51, II. 478 (Yule); Barbaro, 34. On the oblations of drink towards the chief quarters of the Heavens, cf. Carpini, p. 622 of Recueil text; M. Paris, IV. 388 (Rolls Series).

CHAPTER 4.

- p. 191 1. 3 1. Excellent drinke...Rise...Cosmos: Rub., p. 335 of Recueil text (not in Hak.), gives to the rice, millet, [and honey] drinks here mentioned—and incorrectly said to be made by the Mongols—the names of cervisia de risio (otherwise terraccina), cervisia de millio [and boat?]. Carpini, p. 640 of Recueil text, truly says that the Mongols had no vinum, cervisiam, vel medonem, except imported. Cf. also Ibn Batuta, II. 408; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 94; on Cosmos or Kumiss and Kara-Kumiss, cf. Carpini, pp. 640—1 Recueil; M. Polo, I. 249—252 (Yule) and Rubruquis, pp. 227—8 Recueil text (=chap. 6 in Hak.); Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 94; II. 73.
1. 8 2. Fidle...fidle: in Hak.'s original Cithernula...cicharum (sic). On the Musical instruments of Turks and Tartars, cf. Rockhill, note 2, p. 62, Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
1. 31 3. Stamping: in Hak.'s original terunt; cf. Rockhill, note 2, p. 63, of Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Gomboyev, Mélanges Asiatiques de l'Académie des Sciences de St Pétersbourg, 1856, II. (pp. 650—666) Randbemerkungen zu Plano Carpini, p. 664.

CHAPTER 5.

1. 36 1. Dead carrions: in Hak.'s original morticinia. On the Mongol viands and habits of eating cf. Carpini, pp. 638—9 of Recueil text; Gomboyev, op. cit. 657, 659; Matthew Paris, Historia Maior, IV. 273, 386—9 (Rolls Series); Joinville, ed. Michel, 147—8; Schiltberger (Hak. Soc.), 48; Busbeck, Epistolae, 385; Rockhill, note 3, pp. 63—4 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

1. 9 3. Sandals and pantofles: in Hak.'s original soculares.

4. Buget: in Hak.'s original Bursa, Rub.'s trans. of Saptargat. Cf. p. 192 l. 23 Carpini, p. 640 of Recueil text, on the consumption of every morsel at Mongol meals; Joinville (ed. Michel), p. 148, and Rockhill, note 1, p. 66 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

CHAPTER 6.

1. Sharp of taste: in Hak.'s original fermentari. p. 193 l. 3
2. Raspes: in Hak.'s original raspei. Rockhill translates 'like rapé wine' l. 6
(p. 67 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck).
3. Almon: in Hak.'s original amygdalini. l. 8
4. Caracosmos: this beverage, acc. to Rockhill, Hak. Soc. Rubruck, p. 67, note 2, is not made now. After this clause, Hak. does not translate the next three lines Lac equinum non coagulatur...equae non coagulatur. Cf. Carpini, pp. 671—2 of Recueil text, on the Mongol mares kept for milking. l. 10
5. Whay [or white must]: in Hak.'s original serum. l. 15
6. [Rams] skinnes: in Hak.'s original utribus. l. 28
7. Drosse [of iron]: in Hak.'s original scoria, 'iron slag.' On gry-ut, gruit, or grut, the kurt of the Kirghiz, cf. Radlov, Aus Siberien, I. 298, 428; M. Polo, I. 254, 257 (Yule); Rockhill, note 2, p. 68 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Bretschneider, Med. Res. I. 94, note 244; see also p. 234 of the Recueil text. l. 34

CHAPTER 7.

1. Little beasts: in Hak.'s original marmotes, a trans. of sogur (soghur p. 194 l. 9 or sur).

[p. 98]

2. A kind of conies: in Hak.'s original cuniculi. Cp. M. Polo, I. 244 (Yule). l. 13
3. Roes: in Hak.'s original gaselos. The Artak mentioned in the next line is the Argali or Ovis Poli: cf. M. Polo, I. 181 (Yule): the wild asses here referred to are the culam (kulan) of p. 278, Recueil text. l. 17
4. Other hawks: in Hak.'s original herodios, perh. 'peregrine falcons.' l. 22
Cf. M. Polo, I. 262 (Yule). On Asiatic falcons, etc. and the falconry of the Mongols see also M. Polo, I. 384, 388 (Yule); Radlov, Aus Siberien, I. 466; Atkinson, Amoor, 146—8, 333—5.
5. Cataya...Persia...Russia, Moxel, Bulgaria...Pascatir...Hungaria...Kersis: from Cathay or North China came the panni serici et aurei, translated stuffs of silke, cloth of gold, perhaps Carpini's purpura, and baldakinum; cf. d'Avezac in Recueil, pp. 524—5. It seems less likely that Rubruquis' cloth of cotton is Carpini's bukeranium, cf. Recueil text, p. 290, or stiff buckram; from Persia and other parts of S. and S.W. Asia came the telae de bambasio (bombasio) or cotton cloth. Cf. Pegolotti, Pratica della mercatura in Pagnini's Della decima, III. pp. 4, 136 (1766); Heyd, Commerce du Levant, II. 611—14, 698—9; Marco Polo, I. 48 (Yule). Kersis or Kerkis here apparently means the Kirghiz country; usually it refers to the Circassians, in Rubruquis, as in Carpini (Recueil, 678, 679; contrast the use of the term, apparently for the Kirghiz, on pp. 659, 708 of Carpini, in same). l. 32
6. After Two gownes Hak. does not translate ad minus. l. 41
7. Papions: the Latin papio referred to is perhaps a kind of fox or badger p. 195 l. 3

p. 195

(as Rockhill suggests, note 4, p. 70 Hak. Soc. Rubruck). Papion in French means a baboon; this fur is again mentioned by Rub. p. 315 of Recueil text (not in Hak.).

1. 12 8. Fur [their gowns]: in Hak.'s original furrant. On the Mongol dress cf. Carpini, Recueil text, p. 614.
9. Pelluce or silke shag: in Hak.'s original stupa setae.
1. 19 10. Couerings for their stooles: in Hak.'s original panellas sub sellis.

CHAPTER 8.

p. 196

1. 27 1. Shaue...two seames: in Hak.'s original ducunt rasuram cristae capitis: for hinder part of their head Hak.'s original has only collum.
1. 29 2. Nape of the necke: in Hak.'s original summum concanuitatis cernicis.
1. 32 3. Vpon the two hindermost corners of their heads they haue two lockes also: in Hak.'s original in angulis occipitis relinquunt crines; for twine and braid into knots Hak.'s original has only faciunt tricas, and for vnder each eare one the text reads vsque ad aures. On the Mongol appearance, fashions of shaving, etc., cp. Carpini, pp. 611—2 of Recueil text; Vincent of Beauvais, Speculum Historiale, xxix. 71.
- p. 196 1. 2 4. Tartars...Turkes: this distinction of Turk and Tartar is very noticeable in a West European of the 13th cent. The fashion here described is confirmed by Chinese annals of the 6th cent., speaking of the Turks (Chou Shu, L. 3).
1. 5 5. Botta: otherwise Bocca, the ornament properly called Bogtak or Boghtak; cf. Carpini, 614—15 of Recueil text; Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist. xxix. 85; Ricold of Montecroce in Peregrinatores Quatuor, 116; Ibn Batuta, II. 379, 388; Odoric, ch. 38 [369, 409 (Cordier); 131—2, and Appendix I. p. xxxi (Yule, Cathay)]; Rockhill, note 2, p. 73 in Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 52—53, and note 125; Journal Asiatique, série IV. vol. X. 169; vol. XVI. 157, which refers to the survival of the Bogtak among some of the Circassian and Ossetian women in the earlier 19th century. According to Potanin (Mongolia, II. 23), it is now extinct in Mongolia.
1. 8 6. A square sharp spire...pinacle: in Hak.'s original simply quadrum...columnae.
1. 11 7. Sayd spire: in Hak.'s original capitellum.
1. 17 8. Hat or coyfe: in Hak.'s original almucia.

[p. 99]

1. 27 9. Bestridding their horses like men: in Hak.'s original sicut viti [for virt] diuersificantes coxas.
1. 28 10. About their wastes: in Hak.'s original super renes.
1. 29 11. With another skarfe they girde it aboue their breasts: in Hak.'s original alia fascia stringunt ad mamillas.
1. 30 12. Silke like a muster or maske: not in Hak.'s original. On the Mongol women on horseback, cf. Simon of St Quentin in Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., xxix. 85; Carpini, p. 643 of the Recueil text; Matthew Paris, Historia Maior, IV. 388; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 329.
1. 33 13. Sweet [faces]: not in Hak.'s original, which has facies only. On these unguent fashions in Tibet in the 7th cent. A.D. and their present existence, cf. Rockhill, Land of the Lamas, 214.

CHAPTER 9.

1. Dreadful [thunder]: not in Hak.'s original. On the Mongol hatred of washing, cf. Carpini, pp. 639—40 of Recueil text; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 409; II. 92—93, 618. On the fear of thunder and lightning, cf. Carpini, p. 627 and p. 632 of Recueil text, and for a rather different superstition, Schiltberger, Hak. Soc., 50. p. 197 l. 6
2. Stirrups: in Hak.'s original strepas. l. 16
3. Saddles: in Hak.'s original cellas. On the occupation of the Mongol men, cf. Carpini, p. 643 of Recueil text.
4. Stale: in Hak.'s original adoltae. On the Mongol marriage customs cf. Carpini, pp. 612—13, 642, in Recueil text; Simon of St Quentin in Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., xxix. 76; Marco Polo, I. 222, 245 (Yule); Tarikh-i-Rashidi (Elias and Ross), 251; Gomboyev, 652. l. 27

CHAPTER 10.

1. Goes by the worst: in Hak.'s original peiorem partem habet. On the Mongol legislation, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 408, 416; Carpini, pp. 641—2, 624—8, of Recueil text; Marco Polo, I. 259 (Yule); Ibn Batuta, II. 364. p. 198 l. 14

[p. 100]

2. Witches: in Hak.'s original veneficas. l. 34
3. Mangu-Can: Mangu is the Great Khan (1251—7) visited by Rubruquis in 1254. On Mongol funeral customs, cf. Carpini, pp. 628—633, in Recueil text; Simon of St Quentin in Vincent of Beauvais, Speculum Historiale, xxix. 86; Ibn Batuta, IV. 301; see also Rubruquis, pp. 236—8 and later, p. 344 of Recueil text. l. 38
4. Chingis, ... their first lord and father: Rockhill, note 2, pp. 80—2 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck, compares the Chinese title of Tai tsu 'great ancestor': cf. Argun's letter of 1285 to the Pope on Gingiscam primo patri... Tartarorum (Chabot, Histoire de Mar Jabalaha... et Rabban Çauma, 190). p. 199 l. 2
5. Comaniās: on the Kuman and other South Russian grave-mounds, cf. Pallas, Travels in... Southern Provinces of... Russian Empire, II. 305—9, 335—6 (1803); Rubruquis, pp. 237, 247 of Recueil text. On these tumuli or kurgans in Central and Northern Asia, cf. Atkinson, Amoor, I. 150—1, 179, 191—2; one of the most famous of these preserves (and gives to a town) the name of 'Kurgan,' in West Siberia. On the Kumans in general see also Rubruquis, p. 246 of the Recueil text (where they are identified with the Kipchak); Carpini in the Recueil, pp. 742—3, 747; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 68—73. The suggestion that the name is simply a shortening of 'Turkumans' (made by Pears, Fall of Constantinople, p. 56) is hard to accept. It is more probably connected with the river Kuma, in Cis-Caucasia, flowing into the Caspian north of the Terek. l. 7
6. Pyramides [...stones]: in Hak.'s original domos. l. 13

CHAPTER 11.

1. From the towne of Soldaia, in Hak.'s original de villa only. Rockhill believes Constantinople is referred to (note 2, p. 83 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck), but this seems a little forced. p. 200 l. 1

- p. 200 1. 7 2. Sartach...a Christian: see note 20, chap. 1.
 1. 23 3. Scatati...the Emperor of Constantinople: in Hak.'s original Scatatai, described as consanguineus Baatu or one of Baatu his kinsmen. Scatay, Scatatai, Scatanay are other readings of this name (see critical notes) which some identify with Carpini's Cadan (Kadan), p. 667—others with Cartau, p. 743—of Recueil text: this however is far from clear. Cf. Bretschneider, Medieval Researches, I. 308—9, and note 742; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 99.
 1. 26 4. After conduct vs and before Howbeit, Hak. does not translate the sentence Et alij qui adduxerant nos sunt reuersi.
 1. 30 5. Glones: in Hak.'s original chirothecas.
 6. Points: in Hak.'s original corrigias.

[p. 101]

1. 33 7. A very varlet: in Hak.'s original batrator. On Mongol insolence cf. Carpini, pp. 636—7 of Recueil text.
 1. 37 8. After lords Hak. does not translate mundi.
 1. 42 9. Apram: two mss. read Agram, the best Airam, and so the Paris Recueil edition of 1839. Airan or hyran is still the ordinary drink of the Kirghiz, cf. Radlov, Aus Siberien, I. 439; Atkinson, Amoor, I. 41—2.
 p. 201 1. 4 10. Vnder...starry canopy: in Hak.'s original sub diu.

CHAPTER 12.

1. 24 1. Past three of the clocke: in Hak.'s original Hora plusquam tertia i.e. a little after 9 a.m. Ibn Batuta's account of his first view of a Tartar (Kipchak) camp (II. 380) is very similar to Rubruquis'.
 1. 32 2. A maund: in Hak.'s original veringal, a small basket. Cf. M. Polo, p. 280 (Pauthier); I. 371 (Yule).
 1. 36 3. A citron: in Hak.'s original citharulam, Rockhill's 'guitar,' p. 87, Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
 1. 38 4. More flat and saddle-nosed: in Hak.'s original simior.
 p. 202 1. 11 5. In stead of a blessing: in Hak.'s original pro benedictione.
 1. 16 6. Eight dayes after...Ascension: i.e. June 5, 1253.
 1. 18 7. Written in Greeke: this is noticeable, as the letters were from the last Latin Emperor of Constantinople, Baldwin II., 1228—1261.
 1. 20 8. Cosmos...Christians...Russians...wil in no case drinke: cf. Dulaurier, Les Mongols d'après les historiens arméniens (Journal Asiatique, série V. vol. XI. pp. 236, 238), giving evidence of the same prejudice among the Christian Georgians.

Mediaeval Researches, I. 295, 298—9, 305; and esp. II. 84—90; note 9 to p. 203 chap. 23 of Carpini, and note 8 to chap. 16 of Rubruquis in this vol.

2. Sodden [flesh]: in Hak.'s original coctas. 1. 8
3. Christians...Russians...Hungarians...Cosmos: cf. note 9, chap. 12. 1. 15
4. Yperpera: see note 33 to chap. 1, above; and Rockhill, note 1, p. 90 1. 28 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck. The gold coins of the Byzantine currency were said to contain one-third alloy, at this time.
5. One thing most necessary greatly wanting: in Hak.'s original vinum iam deficiebat. 1. 31

CHAPTER 14.

1. Pentecost...Saracen...Cosmos: Pentecost or Whitsun Day, 1253, was p. 204 1. 4 June 7.
2. Russians...great multitude [in that place]: in Hak.'s original inter eos. 1. 21 That Russians were numerous in 1253 so far to the S.E. is noteworthy. See note 14, chap. 15.
3. Extremity of...prouince...fortified with a ditch...salt pits: cf. the story of 1. 33 the making of the ditch in Herodotus, III. 2, 15; also see Strabo, VII. 3; VII. 4, on the Taḗplou and the isthmus (of Perekop). [Soone, I. 36, is for soone.]

4. [Bladders] of milke: in Hak.'s original lacte vaccino. p. 205 1. 4
 5. Gasaria...directly Eastward...Sea...South...waste desert...North: here 1. 9 waste in Hak.'s original is vastam. After passing the isthmus of Perekop and leaving the Crimea (Gazaria), Rubruquis' course was not due eastward (recte in orientem) but N.E.
 6. Comanians...called Caphthac...by the Dutch men [in Hak.'s original 1. 13 Tentonicis, for Teutonicis]...called Valani...Valania: here Capchat, a better reading for Caphthac, is obviously Kipchak, the Kin-cha and Ko-fu-cha of the Chinese. See Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 68—73; also, in the same work, pp. 23—4, 295—299, 300—308, 310—312 of vol. I.; pp. 8, 75, 141 of vol. II.; and notes 829—833.
- In Ye-lu-Chu-tsai's travels (1218—24), op. cit., I. 23—24, we find Ko-fu-cha identified expressly with Ku-li-han, the Kipchak country, and in spite of Bretschneider's rejection, this statement appears well borne out by the particulars reported by the Chinese records under each name. Evidently both refer to a land stretching very far north. Night in summer is barely long enough to cook a mutton chop (or sheep's liver) in.
7. Isidore...riuer of Tanais...Męotis...Danubius...Alania: Isidore is Ru- 1. 16 bruquis' chief geographical book of reference, but the explorer refutes his 'authority' on the question of the inland character of the Caspian, p. 265 of Recueil text.

Rubruquis, unlike Carpini, shews no knowledge of the name Don and only uses the classical Tanais, just as he always speaks of the Etilia and never of the Volga.

8. Edil or Volga: the last two words are not in Hak.'s original, which 1. 23 never speaks of Don or Volga; cf. Olcus for Volga in the Psalter Map of about 1250 (B. Mus. Add. mss. 6806); Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 621. The last six lines of this 14th chapter, in the Latin original, are made in

p. 205

Hak.'s version the first six lines of the 15th. The description and localization given of Russia, north of Comania and stretching from Poland and Hungary to the (Upper) Tanais or Don, is thoroughly sound.

CHAPTER 15.

1. 32 1. Saracens...Russians...flocks...Prussia: after beyond Russia Hak. does not translate the words ad aquilonem.

On the oppressions of the Mongol tax-gatherers (baschati or baskaks) in Russia, cf. Carpini, p. 700, 701, 703, of Recueil text; Bretschneider, Medieval Researches, II. 77—8.

1. 37 2. Dutch knights of the order of Saint Maries hospitall of Ierusalem... wholly conquered and subdued: in Hak.'s original subiugauerunt fratres Teutonici. The complete conquest of Prussia by the Teutonic Knights was lately (nuper), says Rub.; as a matter of fact it was begun c. 1230, but not completed till after 1300.

1. 39 3. Might...winne Russia...[helping hand]: in Hak.'s original manum simply: a curious passage which shews how much less Rubruquis had grasped the military situation, and the strength of the Mongol empire in war, than Carpini.

p. 206

1. 1 4. The great Priest (magnus sacerdos) is evidently a Tartar name for the Pope. Cf. note 7, chap. 24. For desert and solitarie places Hak.'s original gives only solitudinem. From this passage it is difficult not to infer that Rubruquis' general intelligence was distinctly lower than Carpini's, in some respects.

1. 3 5. Went on: in Hak.'s original ibbamus.

1. 4 6. Towards the East...Sea of Tanais...sepulchres of the Comanians: for 'East' read 'North-East.' The Sea of Tanais is of course that of Azov, usually called Pulus Maeotis by Rubruquis; but see his strange and confused language on p. 250 of the Recueil text, about the Tanais rising (oritur; in Hak., mergitur) 'in the Maeotid marshes which extend to the Ocean in the North.'

1. 7 7. In which places...wont...burie...kinred altogether: in Hak.'s original Secundum quod solebant parentelae...sepeliri simul, 'the custom of burying the whole of a family in one spot' (Rockhill).

1. 13 8. After eight persons of vs Hak. does not translate exceptis servientibus. His waifaring provision is a trans. of viaticum. The reckoning 'five' included Rubruquis himself, Bartholomew of Cremona, Gosset, the Dragoman 'Homo Dei,' and the puer Nicholas; see pp. 218—9 of Recueil text. The 'eight' persons were made up by three guides.

On the privations endured by travellers in the Mongol dominions, the best parallel to Rubruquis here is Carpini, 637, 670, 745, 762—3 (Recueil); see also Simon of St Quentin in Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., XXXI. [XXXII.] 40—52.

1. 32 9. I cannot nor I will not: in Hak.'s original nescio only.

1. 34 10. A little smattering: in Hak.'s original aliquantulum.

1. 36 11. Whatsoever came next...witlesse tongues end: in Hak.'s original secundum quod ei occurrebat.

1. 40 12. Saint Marie Magdalene, i.e. July 22, 1253.

1. 41 13. Tanais...diuideth...as...Nilus...disioyneth.... This division of the Continents was already established in Herodotus' time: cf. Herod. III. 32; Pomponius Mela, I. 603. From the Tanais or Don, Rubruquis reckons nine days to Sartach's camp and three more to the Volga. He cannot therefore be supposed to have struck the Don quite at Kalatch, where it approaches nearest to (37 E. miles from) the Volga. p. 206

14. Baatu and Sartach...cottage...Easterne banke...companie of Russians. 1. 43
This colony of Russians was at a great distance from the (then) home land of the Russian people: see note 2, ch. 14. We may remember that in the most powerful age of the old Russian states, Sviatoslav was said to have seized the Khazar town of Bielovej [-vezh] on the Don, A.D. 963—6; cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 85.

[p. 104]

15. Lyter: in Hak.'s original barca. [Rowe is for rowed.] p. 207 1. 6
16. Played the foole most extreemely: in Hak.'s original egit valde stulte. 1. 8
17. Turbut...rye: in Hak.'s original borbatam...de siligine. Borbota is the reading of the Paris text, following the best Ms. (D). It was a river-fish, whether a harbel or sterlet is meant, or some other fish; in any case it could not be a turbot on the middle Don. See note 12, ch. 1. 1. 17

18. At euerie house: in Hak.'s original ostiatim per diuersas domos. The purueyer of the village (procurator villae) would be in Russian the Starosta or Elder. 1. 19

19. Broad...as the...Sein is at Paris: cf. p. 264 of the Recueil text, where the Etília (Volga) is described as four times greater than the Seine. In both cases, as elsewhere, beyond the limits of Hak.'s text, Rubruquis writes as a Parisian. 1. 21

20. [Fennes] of Maeotis, which fennes: in Hak.'s original de paludibus simply. This wild piece of geography has even been construed by Rockhill into a hint of the true sources of the Don in the Ivanski Lake near Tula (note 2 to p. 97 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck). It seems rather a proof of ignorance. 1. 28

21. [A...sea] 700 miles about: in Hak.'s original septingentorum millium. Cf. p. 215 of Recueil text (ch. 1, Hak.) where the sea of Tanais is said to have a length and breadth of 700 miles (in latitudine et longitudine septinginta milliaria). The real dimensions of the sea of Azov are about 235 by 110 E. miles. 1. 29

22. Wheat prospereth not, etc. This is not the modern experience of the inhabitants in the middle Don basin. 1. 43

23. Russian women attire...heads like unto our women: a strange statement in view of the well-known peculiarities of the old Russian female head-dress. p. 208 1. 2

24. Safegards or gowns: in Hak.'s original supertunicalia. The words with particoloured or grey stuffe which follow are in Hak.'s original vario vel grisio ('with vaire or minnever'). 1. 3

25. Russian men...Dutch men: the last words in Hak.'s original are represented by Teutonici, here as elsewhere. Russian is supplied by Hak.; the original reads homines simply. 1. 4

26. Much like unto a sugar loaf: these words are not in Hak.'s original. 1. 7

27. Descry: in Hak.'s original inuenire. 1. 13

28. Fourth day of our iourney...second of the Kalends of August, i.e. on the fourth day after leaving the Don: the second of the Kalends of August is July 31, 1253.

CHAPTER 16.

1. Region...beyond Tanais...Moxel...high Germanie...Merdui: the two 1. 22

p. 208

words high Germanie are a translation of Alemannia. After this Hak. does not translate the words Tartari enim duxerant eos ad introitum Alemaniae.

On the Moxel and Merdas ('Mordvins') cf. Carpini, pp. 676—7, 709, 747 of Recueil text and note 7 to ch. 15 of Carpini in Hak.'s version; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 311, 317; II. 70, and notes 748, 830; Constantine Porphyrogenetos (on Mopōia), De Adm. Imp., ch. 37; Nestor, Chronicle, chs. I., VII., LXXXV. on the Mordva, esp. under A.M. 6611; Smirnov, Populations finnoises, I. 260—4, 337. The Moxel apparently correspond to the mostly Pagan Moxia, inhabited by Moxii, of Josafat (Giosafatte) Barbaro, Travels to Tana and Persia (1436, etc.), Hak. Soc., pp. 33—34.

1. 29 2. The brave courage of the Almans: in Hak.'s original Alemanos only: as yet in Hak.'s original is adhuc. Cf. p. 247 of Recueil text (ch. 15, Hak.), where the author's confidence in the Teutonic Order and its ability to deliver all Russia from the Tartars is still more plainly expressed.

1. 35 3. Not jealous: in Hak.'s original non zelotypi.

1. 38 4. Merclas: an obvious misprint for Merdas (Merdui, Merdini, i.e. Morduini or Mordvins) which is the reading of Hak.'s original: see note 1 in this chap. As to their being Saracens, there may have been Moslems among them, but as a whole they seem to have been Pagans.

Cf. Carpini, pp. 676—7, 709, 747 of Recueil text (on the Mordui, Morduani, and Morduini), and note 7 to ch. 15 of Carpini in Hak.'s version. D'Avezac's identification of the Merdas with the Burtas, Bertas, or Bartas of Moslem geographers (e.g. Masudi, II. 14) is rejected by Smirnov, Populations finnoises, I. 264. Cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 311—312, who refers the term to the Burtasses (Chuvashes?), living on the Middle Volga in the 10th century.

1. 39 5. Or Volga: not in Hak.'s original; the same applies to the words [Etilia] otherwise called Volga, a little later. The source of the Volga in 'the North part of Bulgaria the greater' might pass if applied to the Kama; in reference to the Volga these words cannot possibly be taken as an indication of the true origin of the river (in the Valdai plateau). Cf. on Great Bulgaria, Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 81—4, and esp. 83.

p. 209

1. 2 6. Certain lake containing in circuit...4 moneths travel: the Caspian, of course, which a little later in same chap., p. 252 of Recueil text, Rubruquis calls the sea or lake of Etilia, and defines as made by Etilia with the help of other rivers from Persia [p. 105 of Hak.'s Eng. vers.], cf. also p. 265 of Recueil text.

1. 6 7. Not distant...about x. daies journey: at the point where the Don approaches most near to the Volga, the distance between the two rivers is only 37 E. miles, a very long 10 days! it is pretty clear from this that Rubruquis must have struck the Don considerably N. (or S.) of Kalach.

[p. 105]

1. 10 8. To...South...high mountains...Cergis...Alani...Lesgi: these high mountains are of course the Caucasus, which Rubruquis passed (by the Derbent Pass) on his return journey. The Cergis here are the Cherkess or Circassians, as usually in Carpini and in Rubruquis, though both writers employ the term also for the Kirghiz; cf. pp. 231 (Rub.), 659, 678—9 (Carp.) of Recueil text. See note 1, chap. 12, note 1, chap. 16, of Carpini.

On the Alans, Asi, or Aas, see note 9, ch. 23 of Carpini and pp. 709, 748 of the Recueil; Marco Polo, II. 162, 491 (Yule); Ammianus Marcellinus, XXXI. 2; Marignolli, Book II., ch. 2; in Yule, Cathay, 373; in Fontes Rerum Bohemicarum, vol. III., p. 507 (1882); Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 84—91, and esp. 85—6, 91; a wonderful piece of concentrated and illuminating study; Masudi, Prairies d'Or, II. 42, according to whom the Alans first embraced Christianity and afterwards Islam; Karamzin's Russian History IV. 119, 355, which tells how Sviatoslav in 963—6 fought with the Yasi (Asi, Alans) and how the same race was known to the Russians of the 13th century as living beyond the Terek under the northern face of the Caucasus. On the Lesgi (Lazi?) cf. Jordanes (Nisard, 1869), 432; Ibn Alathir in Journal Asiatique, série IV., xiv. 455; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 295.

9. Lesgi...in subiection: Hak. does not translate similiter here.

l. 15

10. Or the yron gate...Derbent: not in Hak.'s original. The story of Alexander's wall built across the gate of Derbent 'to exclude the barbarous nations out of Persia' is told very fully in the Koran, ch. XVIII., The Cave, verses 82—96. See also M. Polo, I. 55, II. 537 (Yule); Peschel, Geschichte der Erdkunde, 93; Masudi, Prairies d'Or, II. 2, 3, 7, 72 (B. de Meynard and P. de Courteille), preserves the tradition of Chosroes Nushirvan building this wall (531—579 A.D.). Cf. Procopius, De Bello Persico, IV. 3; the Armenian notices collected and Klaproth in Journal Asiatique, xvi. 277; Al-Istakhri (Mordtmann, 1845) p. 86; also in Ouseley's [so-called] Ibn Haukal, 158; Ibn Khordadbeh (Barbier de Meynard) in Journal Asiatique, série VI., vol. v. pp. 490—6; Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, I. 407, 414, 433; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 115—9, and note 846, where the tradition is mentioned of an earlier Persian King, Kobad, the predecessor of Chosroes Nushirvan, fortifying both the Pass of Derbent and that of Darial or The Alans' Gate (A.D. 491—531); Rubruquis passed through the gate of Derbent on his return (pp. 381—2 of the Recueil text). See next note.

l. 16

11. Vnderstand more...trauailed...by...same: this part of Rub.'s journey is wanting in Hakluyt: it may be found in pp. 381—4 of the text in the Paris Recueil. All the latter half of Rub. is equally missing from Hak., from p. 291 (foot) of the Recueil text to the end, p. 396. The portion printed by Hak. only represents pp. 213—291 of the same (1839) edition.

l. 18

12. Betweene...riuers...Comanians: the rivers referred to here must be Tanais and Etilia (Don and Volga) though several lines have intervened since Rub. last spoke of 'these two streams.'

l. 20

CHAPTER 17.

1. Sartach...Etilia...Court: the Camp of Sartach was properly speaking Rubruquis' objective, and if he had interpreted his instructions as narrowly as Ascelin and Simon of St Quentin (1247) he would not have gone further.

l. 25

2. Three [wiues]: in Hak.'s original duas vel tres.

l. 28

3. About [200]: in Hak.'s original forte.

l. 29

4. Nestorian...Coiat: this is Rub.'s first reference to the Nestorian courtiers and ministers so powerful at the Mongol courts. Coiac is the best reading of the name, and so Hak.'s text reads later (e.g. later in this chap. 17, and at the beg. of chap. 18=pp. 256, 257 of Recueil text).

l. 30

5. The Lordes Gate: in Hak.'s original domini Iannam; the best reading is dominum qui vocatur Iamiam. A little later Hak. does not translate dictus before Coiat. On Iannam cf. Rub. p. 298 of the Recueil text (not in Hak.) where the word is spelt Iam: it was the title of the officer who had charge of

l. 32

p. 209 the imperial postal and courier service under the Mongols and survives in Russian (Yam, Yamshchik, etc.).

Cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 406—7; II. 63; Marco Polo, I. 420, 423 (Yule).

p. 210 l. 2 6. Vsing: in Hak.'s original tractans.

l. 3 7. Vestiments: in Hak.'s original capella. A little later, our deuotions is a translation of benedictionem.

l. 14 8. Prince among...Franckes...Emperour...king of France...: Franciae is omitted by the Recueil text, but in any case is understood.

On Baldwin of Hainault, his marriage to a Kuman princess about 1240, and his journey to Karakorum, see Rubruquis p. 326 in Recueil text (not in Hak.). Lebeau, Histoire du Bas Empire, Paris, 1824, XVII. 392. For [socius] domus dominicae, a 'Knight of the Temple,' the Recueil text reads, with the best mss., [socius] David; the manuscript abbreviation has been misunderstood by Hakluyt, and by Purchas after him; Bergeron of course only translates from the text of Hak. and Purch. On this David and his companion Marcus (whom Rockhill thinks the socius here referred to) see William of Nangis in Recueil des Historiens des Gaules, Paris, 1840, 360. That David's alleged mission to Louis IX. (while at Nikosia in Cyprus) from the Mongol general Ilchikadai, commanding in Persia, was an imposture, is declared by Mangu Khan in the letter entrusted to Rubruquis, p. 370 of Recueil text.

l. 41 9. Curtesie: in Hak.'s original mandato.

[p. 106]

p. 211 l. 25 10. Nestorians...Armenians...figure of Christ: cf. Badger, The Nestorians and their rituals, 1844, II. 132, 414, and Rockhill, note 3, p. 104 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

l. 31 11. Arabike and Syriake...translated at Acon...Armenian priests...knight...of the Temple...tongues: from Acre Rub. may have set out on his journey, the first stage of which was the voyage to Constantinople.

On the Knight of the Temple (socius domus dominicae) or rather the companion of David (socius David) see above, note 8 in this chapter.

This passage shews how thoroughly Rubruquis had tried to equip himself for his journey by means of the most useful Levantine languages. He mentions an Arabic ms. among his books.

l. 42 12. Feast of S. Peter ad vincula: i.e. Aug. 1, 1253.

CHAPTER 18.

p. 213 l. 4 1. The Bible...sentences...Psalter of...the Queene: cf. p. 272 of Recueil text (nullos [libros] habebam nisi Bibliam et Breviarium).

The Sentences (Sentencias) were probably the great work of Peter Lombard, the Magister Sententiarum and bishop of Paris (1158); † 1164 [1160].

On Sartach's final acquisitions from Rub.'s stock of books, see p. 380 of Recueil text.

[p. 107]

l. 15 2. Directly Eastward...Etilia or Volga: the last two words are not in Hak.'s original. On the Volga cf. Carpini, p. 743 of Recueil text and n. 7, ch. 21; Benedict the Pole, p. 775 in Recueil; the Psalter Map of c. 1250 A.D. (Olcus).

It is of course the Rha of Ptolemy, the Atil (otherwise Itil, Etil, Edil, Ethilia, etc.) of Menander Protector, Constantine Porphyrogenetos, Theophanes, and nearly all Byzantines and Latins of the earlier middle ages. On p. 265 (Rec.) Rub. compares the Etília to the Nile because it crescit in aestate sicut Nilus.

3. Not...a Christian, but a Moal: Moal is Rubruquis' favourite form of Mongol or Mongal. See note 10, chap. 19. l. 20

4. The name of a Christian: in Hak.'s original nomen Christianitatis. l. 21

CHAPTER 19.

1. When the French-men [Franci] tooke Antioch...Con Can...diviners...Turkes: Con Can is the title 'Gur Khan' taken in 1125 (not 1098, 'when the Franks took Antioch') by Ye-lu Ta-shih, the founder of the Kara-kitai Empire in Central Asia. See Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 216, 225, 235, II. 256, and note 1059. The title of Khan (otherwise Khakhan, Kaan, Ko-kan, Cham, Can, etc.) has nothing to do with the word Kham, a diviner, shaman or sorcerer, as Rub. thinks. l. 30

On this title and Simon of St Quentin's corruption of it into Gog-cham, cf. Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., XXXI. [XXXII.] 32.

On the Turks (Torci, Torti of Carpini), whose Central Asiatic origin is clearly indicated by Rub., cf. Carpini pp. 680 (on Sultan of Rûm), 709, 749, 750 of Recueil text; Benedict the Pole, in same, p. 777 (on Turkya). See Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 49—50 and note 602 (on Turkish title of Khan, Ko-kan, Khakhan, the Byzantine Xαγάβος).

[For the Northern regions lying thereabouts at the beginning of this chapter Hak.'s original has only in illis lateribus Aquilonis.]

2. Kara-Catay...Catay...Ocean sea. The words giuen to make a difference are in Hak.'s original ad differentiam ipsorum. l. 40

On the Kara-kitai, cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 208—235, also pp. 18, 72, 129, 167 of same, and notes 537—595.

On the name of Cathay [i.e. (α) China in general, (β) more narrowly, North China], cf. Carpini p. 653 in Recueil and note 1 to chap. 9 of Carpini (Hak.'s version); Yule, Cathay, xxxiii., cxv—cxvi., cxxiii., cxxxv., who perhaps does not always sufficiently recognise sense (α); Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 209, 225, 232, II. 280—281, and note 1104.

3. Alpes...Nestorian shepherd...Yayman...Christians...King Iohn: Alpes and Pascua are words apparently used interchangeably by Rub. here. p. 214 l. 6

On the Nayman or Naiman ('eight' in Turkish), the proper reading for Yayman, cf. Carpini, pp. 648, 752, of Recueil text, who says, apparently with truth, that as a nation they were heathen. See also Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 43, also pp. 61, 63, 73, 167, 218, 230—1, 234—5; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 163—71, etc.; Tarikh-i-Rashidi (Elias and Ross), 74, 93.

On Prester John cf. Carpini, note 3 chap. 10; Marco Polo, I. 227—233, II. 539—543 (Yule).

In the last passage the theory of Prof. Bruun of Odessa is stated, viz. that Prester John (Polo's Unc) is John Orbelian, the generalissimo of Georgia under several kings.

4. Nestorians...rumors...Mangu Can...Ken Can. On the Nestorians, their real successes in Asiatic missions, and their failure in the latest Middle Age, cf. the Singanfu inscription of 781; Abul-Faraj's account of the conversion l. 13 of the Keraites between 1001 and 1012 (the ultimate original perhaps of the Prester John story); Carpini, pp. 650, 651 in Recueil (on the Uigurs); Marco Polo, ch. xxiii. p. 45 (Pauthier); Quatremère's Rashid-ed-din, 93; Assemani, Bibliotheca Orientalis, vol. III. part ii. pp. 77—175, 413—617; Yule, Cathay lxxxviii—ci., ccxiv—v., cxxxviii—ix. 60, 81, 123, 174—182, 197—8, 204—5, 248. Ken Can, otherwise Ken Can or Cham, is Kuyuk Khan, Mongol Emperor 1246—48, whom Carpini visited. In Jean Pierre Sarrasin (Joinville and Sarrasin, ed. Michel, 255) he is called Quio Quan.

p. 214

1. 23 5. Frier Andrew: i.e. Andrew of Longumeau, sent by Louis IX. to the Mongols, Feb. 1249, received by Ogul Gaimish (the regent 1248—1251) and repeatedly referred to by Rubruquis. See pp. 265, 279, 296, 310, 353, 363 of Recueil text and note 3 to chap. 3 of Carpini; Joinville, Histoire de St Louis (Michel), 142—149; William of Nangis in Recueil des Historiens des Gaules, xx. 359, 360—1, 365—7; Jean Pierre Sarrasin, in Joinville, ed. Michel, 254—255; Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, 11. 318—20; Rockhill, pp. xxvii—xxxiii in Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
1. 26 6. Vut: in Hak.'s original also Vne, a much better reading for Ung, Ong, or Wang Khan of the Keraites, the personage referred to; cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 242 (note 605), 273; Marco Polo, ch. LXXIII. pp. 217—19 (Pauthier); 1. 227, Yule; and the latter's note on Prester John in same, pp. 229, etc.); Palladius, Elucidations of Marco Polo's Travels in North China in the Journal of the China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society, new series, vol. x. pp. 23, etc.
7. Alpes of Cara Catay: in Hak.'s original Alpes ipsorum Caracatay.
1. 27 8. Brother John: in Hak.'s original fratre only.
1. 29 9. Cara Carum...Crit or Merkit...Christians. On 'Cara-Carum' (Kara-Kuren), cf. note 3 to chap. 3 of Carpini and the latter's text, p. 608 of the Recueil.

On Crit and Merkit [for Hak.'s or read and] cf. d'Avezac in the Recueil pp. 533—7, and Carpini's text in same, pp. 645—7, 708; M. Polo, 1. 231 (Yule); Chabot, Histoire de Mar Jabalaha III...et du moine Rabban Çauuma (Paris, 1895), p. 14; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, 1. 48—50, 54—5.

The former of these names (if not the latter as well, repeated in double-jumble, like Chin-Machin, Langa-Solanga) no doubt refers to the Keraites. If by Merkit the Keraites are also intended, Rub. is apparently right in thinking them to have once been Nestorian Christians.

1. 34 10. Moal...Tartars. Rockhill derives Rub.'s Moal from the Turkish form Mogal, note 1, p. 112 to Hak. Soc. Rubruck. The first mention of the Mongols in Eastern works is said to be in the Annals of the 'After Thang' 923—934 A.D. They are mentioned as Μουγουλους in the Byzantine historian George Pachymeres (1255—1308). Cf. Carpini, p. 645 of the Recueil text, on the Mongali and n. 1, ch. 8, ns. 1—4, ch. 3 of Carpini (Hak.'s version); Simon of St Quentin in Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., xxxi. [xxxii.] 34, on the Mongol or Mongli. On the name Tartar (Ταχάρι, Ταχάριοι, Ταράρι, and Τοχάρι in the Byzantines, e.g. George Akropolita and George Pachymeres) cf. Thomsen, Inscriptions de l'Orkhon, 98, 126, 140; Rockhill, note 1, p. 113, of Hak. Soc. Rubruck, who thinks the first occurrence of the name is in A.D. 732;

Matth. Paris, Historia Maior, IV. 78, 109, 131—3 (Rolls Series); William of Nangis, in Recueil des historiens des Gaules, XX. 365; the Letter of Ivo of Narbonne A.D. 1243 (in Hak. pp. 21, 22 of the edition of 1598 or 1599) which uses the form Tattar or Tatar; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 427, 428—9 (reproducing Rashid-ed-din); also same, I. 22, on the name Mongol (= 'simple,' 'feeble').

11. Issue male: in Hak.'s original haerede.

l. 39

12. Cyngis: in Carpini usually Chingis, and so often written in Rubruquis MSS.; cf. pp. 646—8, 650, etc. in the Recueil text, and note 3, chap. 8, note 7, chap. 9 of Carpini (Hak.'s version).

l. 42

[p. 108]

13. Mangu-Can. On Mangu Khan's mother, called Serectan by Carpini (Recueil, p. 666) otherwise Siurkukteni, niece (not daughter) of Ung Khan and wife of Tului, Chinghiz Khan's youngest son, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 67—8; II. 59—60, 267; note 5 chap. 13 of Carpini (Hak.'s version). On another wife of Tului, a grand-daughter of Ung Khan, cf. Quatremère's Rashid-ed-din, 93.

p. 215 l. 15

14. Tartars...consumed: cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 427—9, reproducing one of the most important passages of Rashid-ed-din.

l. 20

15. Mancherule: a misreading for Onan-Kerule, the basins of the Onon and Kerulen (Kerulun), head waters of the Amur. Cf. Quatremère's Rashid-ed-din, 115, etc.; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 49—51, 54—55, 192, 249.

l. 25

16. Tartaria: in Hak.'s original Turtari.

17. For the most part: in Hak.'s original prope.

l. 27

CHAPTER 20.

1. Russians...Alanians: [The Valachians of the text here is a translation of Blacorum.] In this list of Christians who had to pass by Sartach in going to Batu's Court, it is curious to find Kerkis [here prob. meant for Circassians, rather than Kirghiz]. Though Rub. vehemently doubts the Christianity of Sartach, he admits here the prominence of Nestorian priests at his court. On their services, gongs, etc. (pulsant tabulam), cf. Carpini, p. 766 of Recueil text; William of Nangis, in Recueil des historiens des Gaules, XX. 361 (pulsant campanas et percutiunt tabulas); Rockhill, note 3, p. 116, of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

l. 35

2. More in league with: in Hak.'s original magis amplectitur.

l. 38

3. Pray upon their beades...devotions: in Hak.'s original pulsant tabulam...officium.

p. 216 l. 1

4. Vnder Baatu...Berta: in Hak.'s original Berta super [for frater] Baatu. On Berta, Carpini's Berca (i.e. Berké), cf. Recueil, p. 668, and note 5 to chap. 13 of Carpini (Hak.'s version). Rub. is well up to date in noticing Berké's conversion to Islam; cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 8, III. 377—8, 418—9; Marco Polo, chaps. 2, 220—6 [supplementary]; pp. 6—7, 754—9 (Pauthier).

l. 2

5. Porta ferrea or Derbent: the last two words are not in Hak.'s original. On this pass cf. Rubruquis on pp. 381—2 of the Recueil, and note 10 to chap. 16 of Rub. (Hak.'s version).

l. 3

6. Etilia...four times greater then...Scin: another Parisian comparison, cp. note 19 to chap. 15 of Rub. (Hak.'s version).

l. 28

p. 216 l. 30 7. After Bulgaria the greater Hak. does not translate quæ est ad Aquilonem. Rubruquis' description veniens de maiori Bulgaria quæ...aquilonem can hardly be considered an indication of the true source and course of the Volga, as taken by Rockhill, p. xxxvii of Hak. Soc. Rubruck: cf. note 2, chap. 18 of Rub.; note 7, chap. 21 of Carp.

l. 31 8. Hircan sea...Caspian...Frier Andrew...I my selfe...inuironed on all sides with lande: in Hak.'s original we have Sircan for Hircan, Canglae for Changlae, and nothing for the words and in returning likewise, after Mangu-Can. The Paris text reads Sirsan; other readings are Sirtan, Sirran, Sircan [i.e. Shirvan?]. The 'Sea of Hyrcania' seems a plausible emendation. Isidore's name of the 'Caspian' (Sinus Caspius), to which Rub. refers, occurs in Etymologies, XIII. xv. 2, XIII. xvii. 1 (Patrologia Latina, LXXXII. 484, 486 Migne) where it is termed a gulf of the Ocean (Sinus dicuntur maiores recessus maris, ut...in Oceano Caspius, Indicus, etc.), the view of Pliny, Hist. Nat., VI. 36. Cf. also Marco Polo, I. 54 (Yule). Herodotus, I. 276, and Ptolemy, are the chief ancient authorities supporting Rubruquis in the true view of this water as an inland sea. See also Bacon, Opus Maius, I. 354 (ed. Bridges). Friar Andrew and Rubruquis together entirely encircled the Caspian.

The montes Musihet, hoc est, Assassinatorum are of course to the South of the Caspian, not to the East, as Rubruquis puts them. The great Persian fortress of the 'Hashish-eaters' was Alamut, N.E. of Kazvin. Musihet, otherwise Muliheh, Mulihec, is from the Arabic word mulhid, 'a heretic,' best shewn in the forms Mulidet, Meluhideh.

On the Canglae (Kankly, Kankalis of Moslem writers, Κάγκαρ, Κάγγαρ, of Byzantines), cf. Carpini, 749 of the Recueil text (who calls them Cangitæ); Const. Porph., De Adm. Imp., chap. 37; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 196—197; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 301—4, also pp. 28, 223, 229, 299 of the same vol. and notes 735, 738. The name signifies Wheeled-Car[s]. Const. Porph., as quoted above, makes the Κάγκαρ a name of three Pechineg tribes (τριῶν θεμάτων).

CHAPTER 21.

p. 217 l. 15 1. After Iron Gate, the words otherwise...Derbent are not in Hak.'s original.

l. 18 2. Albania: Rub.'s description is based on Isidore, Etymologies, IX. ii. 65; XIV. iii. 34, which passages are again based on Solinus, Collectanea, XV. 5: apud hos populos [apparently all the 'Scythian' races mentioned in chap. XV., Neuri, Geloni, Agathyrsi, Anthropophagi, Chalybes, Dahæ, Albani] nati canes feris anteponuntur, frangunt tauros, leones premunt. Isidore has practically the same wording as Rubruquis; the source of Solinus here is Pliny, Hist. Nat., VIII. 149.

Rub.'s words here are noteworthy in illustration of the confusedness of some of his geographical ideas. All the country is called Albania from the West side of the Caspian, and Alexander's iron gates, to the Maotid marshes, where the Don rises, and the Northern Ocean; Tota illa regio a latere Occidentali istius maris, ubi sunt Porta ferrea Alexandri et montes Alanorum, usque ad Oceanum Aquilonarem et paludes Macotidis ubi oritur Tanais [Hak.'s mergitur is a misreading].

3. Match: in Hak.'s original premant.

p. 217 l. 20

4. Bulgaria .greater...certaine cottages...most wicked Saracens: cf. Carpini, pp. 677, 708, 747 in Recueil, and note 7, chap. 15; Rockhill, note 1, pp. 121—2 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck: Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Administrando Imperio, chaps. 12, 42; Marco Polo, 1. 4, 6, 7, 45 (Yule); Theophanes, Chronographia, 1. 545 (Bonn edition); Mesalek-al-absar (Quatremère), vol. XIII. of Notices et Extraits, p. 270; Masudi, Prairies d'Or (Barbier de Meynard and Pavet de Courteille), chap. 17; Frähn's Ibn Foslan (1823), throughout; Berezin, Bolghar on the Volga (1853; in Russian), throughout; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 74, 81—4, also 1. 295, 300, 305, 307, 309, and notes 843—5 in same; Frähn, Volga Bulgaren (1832), throughout; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, 1. 345, II. ch. 3. As to the cottages (quaedam casalia) Hak.'s marginal note Astracan is quite misleading. The locality referred to was apparently near, but above, Ukek, and not far below Saratov, some days' journey N. of Sarai: cf. Ibn Batuta, II. 414; Marco Polo, 1. 8 (Yule); F. M. Schmidt, Ueber Rubruk's Reise, 182.

1. 36

Berezin advances the startling view that Islam reached Bolghar, the neighbourhood of the modern Kazan, in the 9th year of the Hegira (631 A.D.); in any case the religion of Mohammed was preached here in the 9th century (A.D.); triumphed in the 10th; was weakened, but by no means destroyed, throughout Old or Black Bulgaria, during part of the Central Middle Ages (11th—13th centuries); and recovered its ascendancy in the 14th century, an ascendancy extended for a time to the Lower as well as the Middle Volga. Coins of Batu were struck at Bolghar.

5. Extreame borders: in Hak.'s original exitus.

l. 38

6. Damnable religion: in Hak.'s original legem.

p. 218

l. 4

7. Court of Baatu: cf. Carpini, pp. 744—7 of Recueil, and note 7 chap. 21 of Carpini (Hak.'s version). The form Batoth occurs in Simon of St Quentin.

l. 5

8. Horda...the midst: on the meaning of Horda or Ordu cf. Carpini (p. 609 of Recueil), who rightly makes it signify the stationes imperatoris et principum. Cf. Rockhill, n. 1, p. 57, of Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 18, 43, 57, 58, 114 (and notes 23, 97, 137).

l. 14

9. Gouverneur or chieftaine among them: not in Hak.'s original, but some such word is clearly understood.

l. 15

10. No subiect or inferiour person: in Hak.'s original nullus only. A little later the words directly opposite against the court are a translation of recte ante curiam vel ex opposito curiae.

l. 16

11. Messengers to Ken-Can [Cham in Hak.'s original], i.e. Andrew of Longumeau, and his party, sent to Kuyuk Khan (Rub.'s Keu, corrupted to Ken) in 1249 (Feb.)—1251. The words then Baatu demanded (quaesivit etiam) are quite misleading: it is the ductor or guide who asks, not Batu, whom Rub. does not see until a little later when they were led into the pavilion (papilio): the word his before pavilion is equally misleading: the guide conducted the Friars to Batu's tent.

l. 30

12. Iohn de Plano Carpini...Baatu...sate. On Batu and Rubruquis' visit, see d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 285—290, 309, 335.

l. 40

All the mss. read Iohannes de Polycarpo: cf. Carpini, pp. 744—7 of Recueil, and Benedict the Pole, pp. 777—8 of same, where it is stated that envoys at the Mongol court had to be dressed with becoming pomp ('baldaquin over their gowns,' etc.). Rub. does not do, here, what Benedict says is necessary.

[p. 110]

- p. 219 l. 16 13. A fresh ruddie colour: in Hak.'s original perfusus gutta rosea. On Jean de Beaumont cf. Joinville, Histoire de St Louis (ed. Michel, 1867), p. 256; F. M. Schmidt, Ueber Rubruk's Reise. Jean de Beaumont's name occurs 109th in the list of Knights of the Household, who accompanied St Louis to Tunis. He was Admiral of the Crusading fleet at the Landing in Egypt, June 5, 1249.
- l. 27 14. Before the words I added further Hak. does not translate et ipse diligenter auscultavit.
- l. 33 15. Silly interpreter: in Hak.'s original interpres only.
- l. 39 16. Best known: in Hak.'s original debetis scire.
- p. 220 l. 3 17. Saracens... Ierusalem: referring of course to the Sixth Crusade (St Louis' first) 1248—1254 A.D.
- l. 5 18. To you sir: in Hak.'s original Ad vos. On the Mongol custom of offering kumiss or wine to guests cf. Quatremère, Rashid-ed-din, 354—9.
- l. 23 19. The man of God: in Hak.'s original Homo Dei, earlier called Turgemannus also.
- l. 37 20. Goset the cleärke... 26 Yperperas... lad: Gosset the clericus was probably in minor orders; 26 yperpera was about £13, or a little over. The boy was Nicholas; cf. p. 219 of the Recueil text (chap. 1, Hak.).

CHAPTER 22.

- p. 221 l. 3 1. Assumption enen: i.e. Aug. 14, 1253.
- l. 13 2. Hee had neuer eaten: in Hak.'s original comederim. Cf. Carpini, pp. 762, 747, 745 in Recueil; Simon of St Quentin, in Vincent of Beauvais, Spec. Hist., xxxii. [xxxi.] 48.

[p. 111]

- l. 17 3. Hungarians: cf. note 7 in this chap.
- l. 19 4. Many songs without booke: in Hak.'s original multa corde. Rub.'s ref. here is prob. to the Church Service but it can hardly be rendered 'with much expression' as Rockhill translates.
- l. 22 5. Pretily wel: in Hak.'s original competenter.
- l. 29 6. Inke and paper: in Hak.'s original churtas.
- l. 36 7. Baptized in Hungaria: cf. Analecta Franciscana, II. 56, on the Franciscans in Bohemia from 1232; from this country they must soon have entered Hungary.
- p. 222 l. 3 8. Ende of Holy roode: in Hak.'s original finem exaltationis Sanctae Crucis, i.e. Sept. 21. For finem the Recueil (273) reads festum, i.e. Sept. 14, 1253.
- l. 4 9. Millenarie, i.e. Mingatan, commander of a thousand; cf. Carpini, p. 736 in Recueil. Five classes of Mingatans are reckoned in the Mongol service: cf. Devéria, Journal Asiatique, série IX., viii. 104.
- l. 22 10. With the wool stil upon them: in Hak.'s original villosam.
- l. 25 11. Second day after Holy rood... Eastward... feast of All Saints: the second day after the Exaltation of the Holy Cross is Sept. 16. In Eastward, here, Rub. gives (for once) the right direction. All Saints' Day is Nov. 1.
- l. 28 12. Changle... Romanes: Romanorum here is pretty certainly a misreading for Komanorum, the reading of the Recueil text, following the best mss. and common sense.

CHAPTER 23.

1. Iagac: i.e. the Ural river. Cf. Carpini, p. 743 of Recueil (Iaac, a better reading), and Benedict the Pole, p. 777 of same (Iaiac). It is the Δαλχ of Menander Protector, in Fragmenta Histor. Graeca, 229 (Migne, Patrologia Graeca, vol. cxiii. 806—811; account of Zemarchus' mission), and the Τετχ of Constantine Porphyrogenetos, De Adm. Imp., chap. 37. p. 222 l. 35

2. Pascatir... Hungarians: i.e. the land of the Bashkirs, Carpini's Bascartis (p. 708 of Recueil, and Benedict the Pole, p. 776 of same). Cf. also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 620—1, and Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 306, 326—8, 329, and notes 767—8. l. 36

3. Bulgaria the greater... any citie: cf. note 4, chap. 21. l. 39

4. Hunnes of olde time: in Hak.'s original Huni only. The words, Next vnto it [is Bulgaria the greater] are a trans. of the strange phrase unde ipsa est [maior Bulgaria]. p. 223 l. 3

The identification of Huns and Hungarians is another hasty piece of mistaken name-inference on Rubruquis' part.

Though Rub.'s Latin text in Hak. p. 175, l. 13, says that it [Pascatir] is the same as Bulgaria maior, he has just said that it borders on the latter to the West: the statement here is inconsistent with the whole context: for Bulgaria we should probably read Hungaria.

5. Isidore reporteth... Alexander... Caucasus... Egypt... France: the impregnable walles and bounds of A., in Hak.'s original, are simply claustra A.; barbarous and blood-thirstie, in the same, are feras only; and the words from inuading... South are not in the Latin at all. l. 5

On the Huns, and their European inroads usque in Franciam, Rubruquis simply copies Isidore, Etymologies, Book IX. ch. ii. § 66 (Migne, Pat. Lat. LXXXII. p. 334).

On the wall of Alexander in the Caucasus, cf. note 10 to chap. 16 of Rubruquis (Hak.'s version).

6. Blacians... Ilac... Assani: Whereupon, just before Blacians, is Unde in Hak.'s original. l. 12

On the Bulgarian migration from the Volga to the Danube valley (in 485, or rather c. 480—500, etc.), cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 82—3, I. 329; Stokvis, Manuel d'histoire (Leyden, 1888—93), II. 527.

By the terra Assani he means of course Modern or 'Lesser' Bulgaria, south of the Danube.

[p. 112]

7. Sclauonians... one language... Vandals... Hunnes: Rub.'s remarks on the connection of these languages are of striking penetration and accuracy, and have been rightly noticed as a pioneer essay of the highest value in the fewest words. l. 21

8. Will prouoke... to enuy: in Hak.'s original prouocabo simply. Before whom God hath raised vp, Hak. does not translate populum multum et gentem stultam. Deuteronomy, xxxii. 21, is the passage quoted verbatim, with the substitution only of eos, at end, for illos. l. 25

9. Friers praedicants... Bulgarians... proued Saracens: in Hak.'s original the last two words are facti Saraceni. l. 30

On this mission of the Dominicans from the Theiss to Great Hungary or Pascatir in the middle Volga basin, cf. Alberic Trois-Fontaines, Chronicon, under A.D. 1237.

10. Bulgaria... belonging to the Greeks: Bulgaria, south of the Danube, l. 36

- p. 223 conquered by the Byzantines, 970—1018, and retained in subjection till 1186, revolted again in the latter year and founded the Bulgar-Wallachian kingdom which fell before the Ottomans in 1398. See note 17 to Rub., ch. 1.
1. 38 11. Hungaria...Pannonia: to say that the Hungarian kingdom of the Danube plain was the old Pannonia is almost totally misleading. Dacia was the Roman province that best corresponded.
1. 39 12. Land of Cangle...Holy roode...All Saints: before this Rub. spoke of starting from Batu's camp on the second day after Holy Cross (Sept. 16).
1. 41 13. Paris...Orleans: from Paris to Orleans (a Parisiis usque Aurelianum) is 110 kils., over 60 E. miles, a considerably greater distance perhaps than Rub. is likely to have ridden each day, though it may have been reached occasionally.
- p. 224 1. 8 14. Although [he trotted]: in Hak.'s original si.
1. 13 15. Emptie horses: in Hak.'s original *saginario*s. After this Hak. does not translate *mutare equos saginario*s.

CHAPTER 24.

1. 19 1. Sodden Millet to sup off: in Hak.'s original sorbere milium: cf. Rock-hill, note 2, p. 132 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Carpini, pp. 640—1 in Recueil; Ibn Batuta, II. 364.
1. 21 2. Breast [of...mutton]: in Hak.'s original costis.
1. 25 3. Euery man a measured quantitie: in Hak.'s original ad mensuram.
1. 30 4. Eating or drinking: in Hak.'s original hauriens.
1. 30 5. Benighted before...iourneis end: in Hak.'s original de nocte descendebamus.

On the briars (spinas) used for fuel, cf. Benedict the Pole, p. 776 in Recueil, who calls them absinthia (absincium), i.e. saxaul.

1. 40 6. Chingis...fourre sonnes: cf. Carpini, pp. 665—7 of Recueil and note 1 to chap. 10, notes 2—5 to chap. 13 of Carpini (Hak.'s version).

In all matters of nomenclature Carpini is usually superior to Rubruquis, e.g. in the lists of Mongol princes, of nations conquered by or still independent of the Mongols, and of Italian merchants at Kiev, as well as of the South Russian rivers, Dnyepyr, Don, and Volga (by their modern designations).

- p. 225 1. 10 7. [Pope...] of so lasting an age: in Hak.'s original ita senex. Magnus Papa is probably a translation of the most usual Mongol term for the Pope.
1. 14 8. Because it was: in Hak.'s original quod esset.
1. 15 9. Euen of...Al Saints...East...South...Alpes: i.e. on Oct. 31, 1253: Rubruquis turned S.E.:—not 'due south' (recte in meridiem) as he says;—probably some way (200 or 300 miles) W. of Lake Balkhash.
1. 20 10. Asses...Colan: i.e. the Mongol Kulan or wild ass, already alluded to by Rubruquis (p. 230 of Recueil). Cf. Herodotus, IV. 61; Strabo, VII. 4, 259; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 322 (on Chingiz hunting wild asses near Colan-Tashi).
1. 23 11. South...high mountaines: perhaps the Kara-tau range, renamed by the Russians the Alexander Mts., running from near Aulie-Ata to Lake Issik-Kul.

[p. 113]

1. 26 12. Eight day after...All Saints...Saracens...Kenchat. The Octave of All Saints is Nov. 8, 1253.

Kenchat or Kinchat is Kenjek in Moslem writers. Cf. F. M. Schmidt, p. 225
Ueber Rubruk's Reise, p. 193; Rockhill, note 2, p. 136, Hak. Soc. Rubruk.

13. At the townes end: in Hak.'s original extra villam.

1. 28

14. Before...S. Michael...name of...prouince: i.e. before Sept. 29, 1253.

1. 32

The name of the province is now 'Syr Daria'; it was part of the Kara-Khitai empire and (after the Mongol Conquest) of the sub-kingdom of Chagatai; the title of Kara-tagh seems to have been given it. See map 24 in Schrader's Atlas Historique and the map prefixed to vol. 1. of d'Ohsson's Histoire des Mongols.

15. By making...sluces: not in Hak.'s original.

1. 38

16. Exonerate it self: in Hak.'s original descendebat. The river here referred to is perhaps the Talas, which flows into Lake or Swamp Kara-kul, almost in E. Long. 70 (Greenwich).

1. 39

17. By an hideous gulfe...bowels of...earth: in Hak.'s original simply a terra: no 'hideous gulf,' but a marshy lake, absorbs the river [?Talas], as is suggested in the Latin text. At end of ch., Hak. does not translate bis [de vino bibi].

CHAPTER 25.

1. Neere vnto: in Hak.'s original propinquius.

p. 226 1. 3

2. Caucasus. All this is thoroughly in the language of later classical geography, which normally assumed an Asiatic backbone-chain from extreme east to extreme west, called most usually the Caucasus, but also the Imaus, Emodus, etc.

1. 5

3. On both parts to the sea: in Hak.'s original ex utraque parte maris.

1. 6

4. And on the West part...conioyned vnto the foresaid Caspian sea: in Hak.'s original et quod transiueramus mare supradictum: 'and [I understood] that we had passed beyond the aforesaid sea' [i.e. the Caspian].

1. 7

5. Talas...Dutchmen...Buri...Andrew...Ban. The Dutchmen are Teutonici in Hak.'s original, here as elsewhere. Ban and Buri[n] are of course the same person; cf. Carpini, p. 666 in Recueil and n. 5, ch. 13; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 333—4, also pp. 308, 311, 315, 318 of same vol.

1. 9

On Talas city (probably corresponding to the modern Aulie-Ata), cf. Menander Protector, Περὶ Περσέων Ῥωμαίων πρὸς Ἑθνήν, in Fragmenta Histor. Graeca, 228 (account of journey of Zemarchus); in Migne, Patrologia Graeca, CXIII. 883; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 18, 19, 71, 130, 169, 228, 231, 253, 301 and esp. 226; II. 252; Tarikh-i-Rashidi (Elias and Ross), pp. 79—81, 171, 364; F. M. Schmidt, Ueber Rubruk's Reise, 195—200.

6. Passe and repasse: in Hak.'s original vadam.

1. 19

7. After Mangu-Can, Hak. does not translate Sed in supradicto casali intellexi, quod Talas erat post nos iuxta mōtes per sex dietas. On Rub.'s visit to Mangu's court, see d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 290—6, 297—309; also II. 257 of same work, where Rub.'s evidence is cited in confirmation of Mangu's measures against Okkodai's partisans.

1. 30

8. Bolac: the Phulad of King Hayton, the Bo-lo, Po-lo and Pu-la of Chinese contemporaries, the Pulad of Moslem writers (e.g. Rashid-ed-din). It was apparently near Lake Sairam (Sut-Kul) in the valley of the Borotala in Zungaria. Cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 17, 125, 162, 169; II. 41—2 (esp.). This passage may be compared with what Rub. says on p. 216 in the Recueil (p. 186, l. 2, of this version) as evidence of the importance of iron to the Tartars and of their eagerness to obtain iron weapons and implements.

1. 33

9. From...foresaide cottage...directly Eastward: in Hak.'s original a

1. 38

- p. 226 praedicto casali 'from the above-mentioned village.' Rub.'s course from Kinchat was apparently first E. along the north face of the Alexander range and then E.N.E. to the Ili and Semirychensk, E. and S.E. of Lake Balkhash.
- l. 40 10. Daunced: in Hak.'s original plaudēbant.
- p. 227 l. 6 11. More surtie and stoute: in Hak.'s original superiores.
- l. 8 12. Alpes...Cara Catayans: the alpes or pascua of the Kara-Kitai are probably the hills between the Chu and the Ili. The magnus fluvius here is probably the Ili: see Yule in Encyclopaedia Britannica, art. Rubruquis; F. M. Schmidt, Ueber Rubruk's Reise, 202—3.
- l. 14 13. Village...[Equius]: in Hak.'s original bonam villam...[E...]. Equius was perhaps near Kailac and the modern Kopal, as F. M. Schmidt suggests, p. 203 of work quoted above. The Persian-speaking Saracens here are notable.
- l. 17 14. Foresaide Alpes...descended...plaine...Sea or lake...fifteene dayes: these Alps are probably not the foothills of the Alexander range as some have thought, but outliers of the Zungarian Ala-tau. The quoddam mare...siue quendam lacum is probably the Balkhash, rather than the Ala-Kul. The Recueil text here (p. 281) makes the lake xxv days, not xv, in circumference.
- l. 22 15. Distilling: in Hak.'s original descendentibus.

- l. 27 16. After feede their cattel there, Hak. does not translate quia optima pascua erant ibi.
- l. 28 17. Cailac: probably the Kayalik, Kaligh, and K'haulak of Moslem writers, the Hai-va-li of the Chinese, near the modern Kopal in Semirychensk. Cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 126; II. 37, 40 and notes 808, 813; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 246, 516; Yule, Cathay, ccxii—ccxiii. 576; F. M. Schmidt, Ueber Rubruk's Reise, 204; Tarikh-i-Kashidi (Elias and Ross), 288.
- l. 31 18. Ought to haue accompanied: in Hak.'s original debebat esse socius.
- l. 33 19. Organum...Contomanni...Organes. On Organum, i.e. Almalik or Kulja, cf. Yule, Cathay, 522; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 114, 167, and note 285.
- The name of a woman (Organa), wife of Kara Hulagu (the Ha-la-hü-lie of the Chinese, Chagatai's grandson, Chinghiz' great-grandson), has here been given to a country, forming part of the modern Semirychensk, over which she reigned as regent (after Kara Hulagu's death), 1252—1260. For Contomanni the Recueil (282) rightly reads Turcomanni, with ms. D: cf. Carpini in the Recueil, p. 708 and critical note 12, chap. 25, p. 303 of this vol.
- The derivation of Organum from Organistae is very characteristic and must be set against Rub.'s better grounded philological remarks in other places.
- l. 39 20. Here first...worshippers of idoles...many sects. By idol-worshippers both Buddhists and Shamanists are no doubt meant here.

CHAPTER 26.

- p. 228 l. 3 1. Iugures...Organum: on the Uigurs, Carpini's Huiur, cf. p. 650 of the Recueil, where they are called Nestorian Christians: see also n. 2 to chap. 9 of Carpini; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 236—263; also I. 214; II. 26, 53, 177—8, 180 of same; E. Chavannes, Le Nestorianisme et l'inscription de

Kara Balgasoun, 1897, pp. 16, 45, 47; V. Thomsen, Inscriptions de l'Orkhon, p. 228 1896, p. 147. Rub. evidently considers the Ugurs practically Pagans, but admits they believed in one God (Recueil, 288). Manichaeism was introduced among the Ugurs c. A.D. 762 (inscription of Kara Balgasun). On Organum see note 19, chap. 25.

2. A crosse painted with ink: in Hak.'s original cruciculam de atramento. 1. 10 Cf. Theophylact Simocatta, v. 10 (vol. 46, p. 225 of Bonn edition, 1834), on the 6th cent. Turks with black crosses pricked on their foreheads.

3. Saracens...religion: in Hak.'s original Saraceni in tantū inuitant eos, quod nec etiam volunt loqui inde eis. Here inuitant is really intensive for vitant. 1. 22

4. Kalends...Saracens...Passeouer: by the 'Saracen Easter' Bairam is probably meant: cf. Schiltberger, Travels (Hak. Soc.), p. 70. 1. 25

On the Buddhist festivals on the 1st and 15th, 8th and 25th of the month, cf. Rockhill, Land of the Lamas, 100, and note 2 p. 143 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

On the prayer-ritual of these idolaters as described by Rub., see note 3 p. 143 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck, which declares that the details omnes adorant ad aquilonem...extensis palmis ante pectus are quite incorrect as to modern Buddhists.

5. Curteously inuite and louingly intertaine: in Hak.'s original colligunt: 1. 28 for citizens of the said citie of Cilca the original has only homines.

6. In maner of a Vestry: not in Hak.'s original; for themselves to goe forth 1. 3 into is in the original quasi eorum [for eorum] exeuntem. The details given by Rub. as to the arrangement of the idol-temples seen by him apply perfectly to Lama sanctuaries now (Rockhill, n. 1, p. 144 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck). p. 229

7. As the idole of Saint Christopher: in Hak.'s original sicut pingitur Sanctus Christophernus. The picture of St Christopher on the La Cosa Map of 1500, carrying the infant Christ across the Western Ocean to the New World, will occur to all geographers. On Buddhist parallels to the Christian giant, cf. Marco Polo, I. 221 (Yule); Friar Odoric (chap. 30) in Yule, Cathay, 108—9, and Appendix I. xxiv—xxv.; King Hayton in Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, II. 389—391, and in Klaproth, Nouv. Journ. Asiat. (1833), XII. 289 and instances in Rockhill, note 3, p. 144 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck. 1. 10

8. Nestorian priest...in Catay: cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 260, 1. 11 on Bolgai or Bulgai as a Nestorian Christian, and his influence under Mangu. On Nestorian Christianity in China see Beazley, Dawn of Modern Geography, I. 215—222 and the refs. there. Assemani, Bibliotheca Orientalis, vol. III. part II. pp. 77—175, 413—617 is the chief collection of material on the history of Nestorian Missions: E. Chavannes, Le Nestorianisme et l'inscription de Kara Balgasoun, 1897; Pauthier, De l'Authenticité de l'Inscription de Singanfu; and Yule, Cathay, I. lxxxviii—ci, are valuable studies.

9. Christians of the East...great belles: it does not appear that the Christians living under the Mongols in Asia had no bells, as Rub. implies. 1. 20 Cf. Rockhill, note 2 p. 116 and n. 1 p. 145 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.

As to the exception, Ruteni tamen habent [campanas] et Graeci in Gazaria, it is well known that nowhere in Christendom have bells reached such size and importance as in the Russian Church. Gazaria of course is the Crimea: this remark esp. applies perhaps to Soldaia or Sudak: cf. Ibn Batuta, in Yule, Cathay, 402.

CHAPTER 27.

[p. 115]

- p. 229 l. 31 1. Long foormes: in Hak.'s original scamna. Rub.'s remarks about the shaven heads, saffron garments [vestiti de croceo] and monastic congregations of the Buddhist priests are well borne out by later observation. They are commented on by Rockhill, note 2, p. 145 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
- l. 36 2. Softly: in Hak.'s original in silencio.
- l. 38 3. At the time of their superstitious deuotions: in Hak.'s original apud Oratorium quoddam eorum.
- p. 230 l. 2 4. String...nutshels...bead-roule: in Hak.'s original restem...nucleorum...pater noster. The Lama rosaries of the present day have 108 beads, cf. Rockhill, Land of the Lamas, and Ethnology of Tibet, 736.
- l. 4 5. Ou mam Hactani...God thou knowest: this is the earliest Christian and European notice of the great Buddhist formula, Om, the Jewel in the Lotus, hām, whose use can be traced back to the 9th cent. A.D., cf. Rockhill, Land of the Lamas, 326. The form here is not that of the Recueil and the best MSS., On mani baccam. Rub.'s mistranslation is wonderfully complete.
- l. 12 6. Pole: in Hak.'s original peticam: cf. Rockhill, note 2, p. 146 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck on the black tufts (tughs, yaks' tails) often found on these poles.
- l. 16 7. Going...towards: in Hak.'s original ingressus.
- l. 19 8. French men...ornaments: in Hak.'s original fratres Franci...tyaras. On Lama head-dresses cf. Waddell, Buddhism in Tibet, 196.
- l. 22 9. Laced or buttoned from the bosome: in Hak.'s original accincti. On this dress cf. Rockhill, note 1 p. 147 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
- l. 26 10. Houssel-boxe: in Hak.'s original casulam. No worse mistake occurs in all Hak.'s loose translations than this of pyx for vestment or chasuble.
11. Their...writing the Tartars did receiue...Mangu-Can...hand...of the Ingures: on the adoption of the Uigur script—itsself based on the Syriac of the early Nestorian Missions—by the Mongols, cf. Carpini, pp. 650—1 of the Recueil; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, 1. 88—89; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, 1. 53, 236—7, 262, and note 126. On the Lama charms, cf. Rockhill, Land of the Lamas, 77, 98, and note 3 p. 147 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck: Rub.'s remarks on the form of these shew most keen and accurate observation. On the burning of the dead and the sepulchral pyramids, cf. Rockhill, note 4, p. 147 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
- p. 231 l. 22 12. Images of felt...carts...soothsayers: cf. Carpini, Recueil text, pp. 618—20; M. Polo, 1. 249—50; 11. 478 (Yule); Josafat Barbaro, 34; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, 1. 16; Friar Odoric (chap. 48) in Cordier, p. 486, in Yule's Cathay, p. 156, and Appendix I. to last-named, p. xxxix.
- l. 34 13. Tents must be pitched...first of al: in Hak.'s original metandi castra...post.

[p. 116]

- l. 42 14. Chidden full well for my labour: in Hak.'s original multum dure increpatas.

CHAPTER 28.

- p. 232 l. 4 1. Ingures...Caracarum...Presbyter Iohn...Vut: the Mongols did not adopt the Uigur script when the Uigurs were established at and near Kara-

lorum, as Rub. implies, but in the time and through the personal efforts of p. 232 Chingiz Khan.

On Prester John see note 3 to chap. 10 of Carpini (Hak.'s version) and note 3 to chap. 19 of Rub. (Hak.'s version). On Vut see note 6 to chap. 19 of Rub. (Hak.'s version).

2. Neere vnto...betweene [the mountaines]: in Hak.'s original circa...inter [montes]. l. 12

3. Nestorians...can skill of their letters: see note 11 to chap. 27. l. 16

4. Tangut: the empire of Tangut or Hia was dominant over modern Kansu and much of N. Tibet from A.D. 1004 (or even from 982) to 1226—7, when Chingiz destroyed it, after an unsuccessful attack in 1209—10. Cf. Marco Polo, I. 206 (Yule); d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 8, 95—6, 105—106, 139—140, 370, etc.; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 27, 38, 58, 104, 184, 213, 221, 309; II. 16, and notes 46, 518. l. 18

5. Oxen...legges greater...exceedingly fierce: in Hak.'s original boues...bassiores in tibijs.....ferociore multum. On the Yak, perhaps the ἀγρίβουρ of Cosmas Indicopleustes (Χριστιανικὴ Τοπογραφία or Christian Topography, p. 335 Montfaucon; Migne, Patrologia Graeca, LXXXVIII. 444), who is the earliest Western author to give a colourable reference to this animal (c. A.D. 545). Cf. also Marco Polo, I. 266, 268 (Yule); Tarikh-i-Rashidi, 416 (Elias and Ross). l. 21

6. [Hornes...] streight: in Hak.'s original cornua acutosa. l. 25

7. Coupled: in Hak.'s original iniungi, a misreading for mungi, milked, as in Recueil text and best MSS. l. 28

8. The qualities of a Buffe: in Hak.'s original naturam bubali—the nature of a buffalo, i.e. even fiercer than a bull's. l. 29

9. Next [...Tebet]: in Hak.'s original post. Cf. Carpini on Burithabet (Recueil, p. 658, where the plucking out of the beard, as still practised, is described); also Rockhill, note 2, p. 151 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck, where he suggests the derivation of the name 'Tibet' or 'Tebet' from 'Teu-Beu,' the native pronunciation of Stod Bod or 'Upper Tibet,' Bod or Beu being the proper name of the country as a whole. On the cannibalism of the Tibetans, Carpini (as quoted above), Rubruquis (here), and Marco Polo, I. 292 (Yule), are in practical agreement; and even Rockhill, who doubts this charge, admits Rubruquis' later statement as still true—tamen adhuc faciunt pulchros cephos de capitibus...; cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 82, 96; II. 317, 640; Rockhill, Ethnology of Tibet, 727, and note 1, page 152 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, II. 21—5, 204, 221, 224. l. 30

10. Iugures...roote of...Turkish...: no remark of Rubruquis has earned him more credit than this 'interesting and perfectly accurate statement.' Cf. Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 236—263, and esp. 237, 263. p. 233 l. 9

11. Langa and Solanga: a nation (the Churche and Sulangka of Moslem writers) whose country, forming one of the 12 chief provinces of the Mongol empire in East Asia, covered a great part of Eastern Manchuria and Northern Korea. Cf. Carpini, pp. 636, 707, 756 of Recueil and note 2, chap. 29 of Carp. in Hak.; d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 478, 638—9; Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 190, 224; II. 157, 173—4 and note 574. l. 10

12. Little browne men like...Spaniards: in Hak.'s original parui homines et fuscii sicut Hispani. l. 13

13. Sleeues: in Hak.'s original manicis. Vpper vestment is a trans. of supertunicale. Rub.'s remarks on these dresses and 'mitres' still apply l. 15

- p. 233 exceedinglly well for the most part to those of the Koreans. Certain minor differences or inaccuracies are noted by Rockhill, note 1, p. 153 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
- l. 19 14. But there hang downe certaine square flappes: in Hak.'s original sed sunt quadrae desuper. Rough and rugged, a little later, is a trans. of rigidato: houer of se extendunt.
- l. 29 15. Table...handfull: in Hak.'s original tabulam ['tablet' here]...zmius cubiti: on these tablets cf. Friar Odoric, ch. 42; p. 378 in Cordier; 141—2 and Appendix 1. p. xxxiv, in Yule, Cathay. They are the Kwei of the Chinese and of extremelty ancient use.
- l. 31 16. Any other: in Hak.'s original alicui.
- l. 37 17. Muc: Nunc in one MS. (E). Perhaps the aboriginal Mosso tribes of Yun-nan, cf. Rockhill, note 2, p. 154 of Hak. Soc. Rubruck.
- p. 234 l. 7 18. Great Cathaya...Seres: Cathay is here conjecturally identified with the land of the Seres or Ancient China, as seen from the Land Side by Europe. No Christian writer ventures on this suggestion before Rub.

Cf. Carpini's remarks on the Chinese or Cathayans. pp. 653—4 of Recueil text, an admirable summary, injured chiefly by the tendency to consider them as much like Christians, with an Old and New Testament, etc. (the Chinese Five Classics and Four Books, Confucian Analects, etc.). See also Bretschneider, Mediaeval Researches, I. 209, 225, 232; II. 281; Yule, Cathay, xxxiii., xxxiv., xxxvi—xlv., cxxiv—cxxvii., etc.

The idea of the name of Seres coming from a certain town in the same country is also in Isidore, Etymologies, xiv. iii. 29 (Seres oppidum Orientis a quo et genus Sericum et regio nuncupata est); in Migne, Patrologia Latina, LXXXII. 500.

The town with walls of silver and towers of gold was probably Singanfu. At the end of Hak.'s text, non obediunt Moallis et inter, MSS. A and C (London, B. Mus., Reg. 14 C. XIII., C.C.C. Cam. 407) also end. D (giving all the text as yet known, nearly as long again as Hak.'s) ends with copiosas expensas (C.C.C. Cam. 181) like the Recueil text, which is based on D. The broken sentence ends [et inter] eos et Indiam interiacet mare. See critical notes, pp. 295, 304.

The edition of Yule's Marco Polo referred to throughout this vol. is that of 1875: the new issue of 1903 was published too late for use here. See page 305 of this vol.

On the Volga and its names, note also that of 'Tigris' given to it by Marco Polo and the xivth century Friar-traveller Pascal of Vittoria (A.D. 1338). See page 289 of this vol.

In MS. E of Rubruquis the form 'Coir Chan' is given [for 'Con Can']: this is probably the very form in which Rub. wrote 'Gur Khan.' See page 279 of this vol.

ADDITIONAL NOTES.

§ 8. NOTES ON HAKLUYT'S VERSION OF...CARPINI.

CHAPTER 2.

1. Ascelline: the form Ezzelino is given in Paolo Pansa, Life of Innocent IV., 4th edition, Naples, 1598, p. 44. Guichard of Cremona and Andrew of Longumeau are said to have joined Ascelin's mission at Tiflis: Longumeau had already travelled, according to some, as a missionary in the East. Ascelin did not re-appear before the Pope who commissioned him till 1250, though dismissed by the Mongols in July, 1247.

4. John de Plano Carpini: in Wadding's Annales Minorum we find as other forms of this name Carpinis (II. 4, 74, 75, 104), Cardinis (II. 5).

Wadding, Annales, II. 408, is prob. not a reference to Carpini, but to another Joannes, though d'Avezac, Recueil, 477, conjectures, without sufficient warrant, that they are the same.

Of the two letters of Innocent IV. to the Mongols only the shorter one is printed by d'Avezac, in Recueil, 479—80. The longer is given by Wadding, Annales, III. 116—7. It is addressed Regi et populo Tartarorum; begins Dei Patris immensa benignitas; and ends aut potentes alios misissemus. Both letters are dated Lugd., III Non. Mart., anno II. The shorter letter is in Wadding, Annales, III. 118.

The following, among others, wrongly attribute Carpini's commission to Council of Lyons; Wadding, Annales, III. 116, Scriptores, 221; Bzovius, Annales Ecclesiastici (Cologne, 1616), XIII. 542, 567; Bergeron, Traicté des Tartares, 72. D'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 209, wrongly makes Carpini start in 1246 [for 1245].

Wadding, Scriptores, 221, mentions that Carpini had the companionship of Stephen of Bohemia [cum Stephano Bohemo]. Sbaraglia's Supplementum et Castigatio [opus posthumum Fr. Jo. Hyacinthi Sbaraleae], Rome, 1806] refers to pp. 295—6 of a manuscript chronicle left by Salimbeni [now printed] as the source of the description of Carpini, quoted p. 271 of this vol. Sbaraglia, p. 452, gives the date of Carpini's death as April 12, 1253, but it was at least 4 months earlier.

CHAPTER 3.

3. Cracurim, etc.: Joinville does not mention Karakorum, but vaguely describes the pasture land of the Mongols and the rocks at which that pasture land began, where the people of Got and Margoth were shut up: cf. Histoire du roi S. Louis, ed. Michel, 143.

CHAPTER 4.

6. Mares milke, etc.: in p. 109, l. 38, Mill is for millet.

CHAPTER 5.

5. Great duke, etc.: on Yaroslav II. of Vladimir cf. also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 215—6.

CHAPTER 6.

2. Duke of Russia, etc.: on St Feodor cf. also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 216.

CHAPTER 8.

1. Countrie...called Mongal, etc.: Benedict the Pole, Recueil, 774, expressly terms himself the interprès of the party: this alone accounts for Carpini's strength in Slavonic matters.

The Merkit or Merghed are also known as Uduyut.

3. Chingis: the name means 'strong,' 'firm,' from Chiuk, and is really a plural. Chingiz Khan = 'Khan of strengths,' acc. to d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 99.

5. The Naimani, etc.: Rubruquis, in Recueil, 295, declares Naimani erant proprii homines Presbyteri Johannis.

CHAPTER 9.

2. Huyri, etc.: on the earlier history of the Uigurs cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 3, 107—109. They were subject to the Chinese between c. A.D. 630 and 745: in the middle of the VIIIth century Buku Khan founded an empire destroyed by the Chinese and Kirghiz about 847: in the VIIth century the Uigur country apparently formed part of the dominion of the Turkish Khans (Dizabul, etc.) who carried on so lively an intercourse with the Byzantines.

6. Hudirat: the Voyrat lived in the basin of the Upper Yenisei: their special habitat was along '8 streams' which formed the river Kem.

CHAPTER 10.

3. India Maior...Presbiter John: Joinville defines the 'Emperor of Persia's land' as coming 'after' Prester John's, and describes the Tartars gathering endroit [vis à vis] la terre P... J.... Cf. also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 54—8, 60—3, 66—8, 78—83, 425, on Unc, Ong, Ung, or Wang Khan, prince of the Keraits; this personage was certainly one element in the Prester John story; Chingiz Khan himself was another; the Gur Khan of the Kara-kitai was a third, the most definite and important of all; while a fourth was the conversion of the Keraits to Nestorian Christianity in c. 1007—8, reported not only by Abul-Faraj, but also by Mares the Syrian [in Assemani, Bibl. Orient., III. 484].

CHAPTER 11.

3. Burithabeth, etc.: d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 82, also cites the form Buri-tibet from the Jami-ut-Tevarikh.

CHAPTER 12.

1. Lande of Kergis: cf. also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 3, 6, 8, 103—4, note. The Kirghiz between Selenga, Angara, Baikal, and Little Altai, were vassals of China in the VIIIth century: in 759 submitted to the Uigurs (Buku Khan, etc.): about 840 became independent and founded a short-lived 'empire.' The name Xépxis occurs in Menander Protector's account of Zemarchus' VIIth century embassy to the Turks, when Dizabul gave Z. a slave of this race.

CHAPTER 15.

2. Countrie...Bisermini, etc.: Pushkin has a story The Basurman (heretic), and in his tale The Undertaker the expression Basurmane is used for 'scoundrels,' 'ruffians.' Correct refs. to d'Avezac and d'Ohsson here are:—Recueil, IV. 501—5; Histoire des Mongols... II. 279—82.

3. Barchin, etc.: note also form Eschnass for Ornas.

5. Out of Russia, etc.: the 270,000 ears are from Abul-Faraj.

7. Morduans, etc.: d'Ohsson's extracts from the Tarikh-Jihankushai and Jami-ut-Tevarikh are esp. important for the history of the Mongol campaigns in the Volga basin.

CHAPTER 21.

2. Bathy, etc.: Batu's title of Aka or Aga signified 'Elder Brother.' Rubruquis in Recueil, 307, makes Mangu say sicut sol est ubique diffundens radios suos, ita mea potentia et ipsius Baatu diffundit se undique [not in Hak.].

7. Volga, etc.: Rubruquis, in Recueil, 378, says plainly Sarai quae est nova villa quam fecit Baatu super Ethiliam [not in Hak.]. This town of Old Sarai, though usually assumed to have been at or close to Tsarev (on the Akhtuba or Eastern arm of the Volga, in the lowest part of its course) and practically in the latitude of Tsaritsin, may have been at a site lower down the Volga delta, perhaps at Selitrennoye Gorodok or 'Saltpetre-Township,' about 70 miles above Astrakhan, also on the Akhtuba. In this case, the ruins at Tsarev would probably answer to New Sarai, founded about 1333—43 and destroyed by Timur 1396. Cf. Yule's Marco Polo (new edition by Cordier, 1903), Prologue, chap. II., note 1.

10. Exonerate, etc.: for similar errors of antiquity, Maeotid Marshes supposed to flow into Caspian, Oxus to be upper course of Tanais, etc., cf. Plutarch's Lives, Life of Alexander, 44, 46; Arrian, De exped. Alex., III. 30, 13; Quintus Curtius, De reb. gest. Alex., VII. 4, 7; Pliny, Hist. Nat. VI. 18.

CHAPTER 23.

10. Iberia...Cathes, etc.: on the Cathi cf. d'Avezac, in Recueil, 495.

13. Kangittae: the Canglae or Kangittae are called by Rubruquis quaedam parentela Comanorum: see Recueil as cited in orig. note. On Canglae and Kipchak Turks see also d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, I. 197, note.

CHAPTER 26.

7. Sonnes...of...king of Georgia, etc.: d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 196—7, gives a list of envoys present at Kuyuk's election, extracting from the Tarikh-Jihankushai and Jami-ut-Tevarikh, which refer to Frank ambassadors present at the place of Kuyuk's election. By this no doubt Carpini and Benedict, and perhaps Baldwin of Hainault, are intended.

CHAPTER 29.

1. Chingay, etc.: on Chingai, and other ministers and notaries of Kuyuk's, esp. Nestorians, cf. d'Ohsson, Histoire des Mongols, II. 234—5.

CHAPTER 33.

4. Holde...Pope for...Lord: on these Russian promises cf. Oderic Rinaldi, Annales Eccles., II. 408—9; Bzovius, Annales Eccles., XIII. 567.

§ 10. NOTES ON HAKLUYT'S VERSION OF RUBRUQUIS.

CHAPTER 1.

1. William de Rubruk, etc.: in Jean Pierre Sarrasin Ilchikadai is Eteltay, or Etheltay. See refs. in orig. note.

6. Gasaria, etc.: in Jordanus we have Osbet quod vocatur Gatzaria. See ref. in orig. note.

26. Bartholomew...Goset, etc.: the form Gossel is preferred by the Recueil editors, 218.

28. Promontories...Gothes, etc.: these Goths of the Crimea are also noticed in Monte Corvino's Letters from China [Jan. 8, 1305], recommending the despatch of Latin missionaries by this route, de via notifico quod per terram Gothorum imperatoris aquilonarium Tartarorum est via brevior et securior.

30. Comanians, etc.: on date of Kalka battle cf. also Karamzin's Russian History, III. 227, 236: d'Ohsson adopts date of May 31, 1223.

CHAPTER 3.

1. Southward, etc.: on the reverence paid to the South by Tartars cf. also Carpini, Recueil, 620, 621, 756, 758.

2. The like...idolatrie: cf. Benedict in Recueil, 775, on the aurea statua imperatoris, which he and Carpini were compelled to bow before.

CHAPTER 6.

4. Caracosmos: the mares kept for milking were often a valued article of tribute to Mongol princes, etc.

CHAPTER 7.

5. Cataya, etc.: Carpini's purpura seems to have been samite, cf. Benedict in Recueil, 777.

CHAPTER 8.

5. Botta: on the Bogtak cf. also d'Avezac in Recueil, 524—5, and refs. there.

CHAPTER 21.

12. Iohn de Plano, etc.: Benedict's full account of the necessary dress is induti et ipsi desuper tunicas suas baldekino...quia nulli nuntiorum nisi accurate vestiti vultum regis...licuit intueri. See ref. in orig. note.

CHAPTER 23.

2. Pascatir, etc.: Benedict's phrase is Bascardos, qui sunt antiqui Ungari. See ref. in orig. note.

CHAPTER 24.

6. Chingis, etc.: add Carpini in Recueil, 624.

CHAPTER 26.

1. Iugures, etc.: add Carpini in Recueil, 651.

CHAPTER 28.

11. Langa...Solanga: d'Ohsson considers Soulangea to be the partie cultivée du pays des Tchourtsches. See ref. in orig. note.
